New grade impacts graduate students

DOUBLE STANDARD:

Unlike undergrad 'WF' grade, 'WU' grade will not affect GPA.

HAROLD G. DOWNS
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

A new grade for graduate students mandated by the federal government will not be reflected in students' grade point averages, in sharp contrast with a similar grade for undergraduate students.

The new grade is withdrawn unofficially (WU), and it must be recorded when the student stops attending class, no official completion time has been set with the instructor, and the student has not dropped the course.

Instructors are required to document the student's last day of attendance, the last assignment finished, and the last day the student attended class.

A similar withdrawal policy for undergraduate students enacted prior to the fall 1997 semester mandates that if students stop attending class and do not officially withdraw, they receive a withdraw/failing grade (WF). This grade is reflected in the student's GPA.

John McKillip, associate dean of the Graduate School, said the new grade will not count in graduate students' GPAs because the Graduate School already has several requirements for students to remain in good academic standing, including a minimum 3.0 GPA.

"The graduate faculty decided it shouldn't affect the grade point average," McKillip said. "All graduate grades are supposed to be earned grades."

McKillip said the instructor has the discretion to assign the grade to anyone who stops attending within the first 60 percent of the semester.

Although the WU grade does not count toward the student's GPA, it is recorded on the transcript and can wreak havoc with financial aid.

Financial Aid Director Pam Britton said the grade will closely parallel the financial

International Festival '98

Members of the Turkish Student Association performed one of many dances from their culture as part of "A Taste of the World" Saturday night at the Carbondale Civic Center. The dinner and program was the start of the month-long International Festival.

GLOBAL FLAVORS SPICE UP CARBONDALE

A TASTE OF THE WORLD:
Festival opens with cultural exhibition and cuisine from across the Earth.

KAREN BLATTER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

It was just a small taste of the world, but the opening event of International Festival '98 left everyone's mouth tingling.

Dancing to a traditional folk dance and displaying a shortened version of a wedding ceremony, SIUC's Indian Student Association showed some of the beauty of their culture with eye-catching glitter and jingling sounds.

The African Student Association brought the vibrancy of Africa to the festival using strong beats, native drums, and gracefully energetic dance. The group's songs and dance styles combined traditions from various African countries.

Saturday night, these and other student groups showcased some upcoming events of International Festival '98 while presenting SIUC's different cultures at "A Taste of the World." The event was sponsored by the International Student Council and took place at the Carbondale Civic Center, 200 S. Illinois Ave.

More than 500 people attended the taste, engaging on a trip around the world through experiencing the vast cultures of SIUC students.

The event was meant to thank SIUC and the Carbondale community for 50 years of supporting international students.

International Student Council President Wan Kamal Wan Napi, said he was pleased with the large response to the event.

"We needed to promote the international student community," he said. "We are happy here, and that's why we wanted to show off our cultures."

"A Taste of the World" featured performances by eight of the 102 countries represented on campus as well as food from the Middle East and Asia.

ISC also was able to honor several people who have supported international students in past years, including Carla Coppi, assistant director of

Strip's newest restaurant seeking liquor license

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF?

Vergen's Barbeque-R-U's stakes claim at location of Carbondale's latest failure.

SARA BEAN
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

The Carbondale Liquor Advisory Board is carefully examining a liquor license request and questioning the new restaurant's ability to succeed with limited capital in the wake of a failed attempt by a similar business at the location.

Representatives from V and P Enterprises were on hand Thursday night to answer questions regarding their application and request for a Class A2 restaurant liquor license for the newly relocated Vergen's Barbeque-R-U's, 204 W. College St.

The building formerly housed the infamous Chadwick's, which closed amid allegations of bad business practices.

The board did, however, approve a motion to recommend the Class A2 liquor license for the business. An A2 license stipulates that no more than half a restaurant's revenue can come from selling alcohol.

V and P Vice President David Penny said the restaurant, formerly located at 901 S. Illinois Ave., wants to focus primarily on food service but would like to have the availability of alcoholic beverages for the customers' convenience.

Both Penny and V and P President Vernon Iknar are SIUC graduates and have lived in the area for several years.

The restaurant opened about three weeks ago. Iknar and Penny say the liquor license would enhance the atmosphere of the establishment.

There is a contract in escrow for purchase of the building. According to Penny, the contract will be closed on Feb. 14 with Cherry Hill Realty.

The board expressed concern that the $30,000 the corporation planned to invest in the business would not be enough. However, Penny and Iknar said they would not need as much because they already had all the kitchen equipment from the last restaurant, and the building was also left in fairly good shape when Chadwick's closed down.

"It does seem like a very low amount," Penny said. "A lot depends on the success of this business. But this is a money-making venture and we expect to make a lot of profit."

Penny said they are still building the corporation and seeking independent investors.

Liquor Advisory Board member Lawrence Juhlfin said the primary concern of the board

SHOWDOWN: Rivals square off in hopes that audience will decide who is better candidate in primary.

KIRK MOTTRAM
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Students will get their first taste of the Republican congressional primary Wednesday when rivals Gail Kohlmeier and Bill Price will square off in what looks to be a torrid debate featuring two conservatives aiming to capture the historically Democratic post.

Following an internal poll of the SIUC College Republicans that found 75 percent undecided in the race, it was agreed by the group that a debate should be staged. College Republicans Vice President Cory Haberkorn is confident the forum will be a big draw and serve to better educate students brainwashed by a liberal faculty.

"We hope a lot of people come around for this because this is a big thing," he said. "We're doing this for the students so they can have a different perspective on the issues."

"There's more liberal teachers here that teach the more liberal stuff, so we're trying to open up a broader forum of ideas."

The hour-long debate, scheduled to convene in the Thebes Room of the Student Center, will take on a town hall meeting format as audience members will have an opportunity to ask questions following the candidates' opening statements. Beginning at 5 p.m., the event will be open to all interested stu-

"Open discourse is what this country is all about," she said. "Any opportunity to hear dissenting points of view on the issues is a good thing."

Lilley warns, however, the tide of conservatism on campus driven by recent College Republican guests Oliver North and David Horowitz is about to turn.

"Recently, there have been a lot of opportunities to hear political points of view that are more to the right," she said. "But, in the near future, that will all change. The College Democrats are definitely back."

Heading off Republican efforts to steal the election spotlight are Barb Brown, SIUC lecturer in political science and candidate for state Senate, and Carbondale Police Chief Don Strom, candidate for state representative. Both will attend a Law School Democrats' reception at 4 p.m. in the Law School Auditorium. Lilley said the event will provide students with an opportunity to meet the two candidates and socialize with other campus Democrats.

"Students should definitely attend this event," she said. "The earlier you get involved in a campaign and the earlier you learn about what the candidates want to do, the better off you are."

Expeditions to foreign lands provide students with great opportunity to learn hands-on

GETAWAY: Trips to Egypt, Greece allow students to explore while having fun.

KAREN BLATER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Last year, David Marlow enthusiastically packed his bags for an expedition to Egypt to get education from real life instead of the pages of a textbook.

"It brings such a new perspective," Marlow, a junior in political science from Rochester, said. "It doesn't seem like reality in a textbook. When you are there, it's almost too much to imagine."

Marlow received this education during one of the yearly trips to Egypt and Greece sponsored by the SIUC Philosophy Department.

Robert Hahn, associate professor in philosophy, started the trips to Egypt and Greece to give students the opportunity to explore and experience different countries.

"The trip makes learning fun and exciting," Hahn said. "This is an extremely great way to learn. It's all hands-on."

Along with its innovative approach to learning, the vast academic knowledge

Carbondale boy hit by car dies at local hospital

CORINNE MANNING
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

An 8-year-old Carbondale boy died at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale Friday morning after he was struck by a car on South Illinois Avenue Thursday evening.

Hospital officials could not comment on the extent of the injuries or the exact cause of death.

According to police, Moniay L. Townsell was riding along the west side of South Illinois Avenue when he told his cousins he had forgotten or dropped his gloves and turned his bicycle east across one lane of traffic and the center turn lane. Townsell then rode his bicycle directly into the path of a northbound car driven by 51-year-old Arthur Aronson of Cobden.

Carbondale Police traffic accident reconstructionists are continuing to investigate the accident. No tickets have been issued.

NASA chairman speaks of future Mars trips

SPACE: 'Rocky 7', a new rover, is being tested in the Mojave Desert.

J. MICHAEL RODRIGUEZ
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Soujourner Rover research has convinced NASA officials to believe that life on Mars may have occurred more than 3.6 billion years ago until it was wiped out for unknown reasons, a NASA employee told SIUC students Thursday.

"Mars was once supported by warm and wet conditions," said Ray Arvidson, the chairman of the NASA Planetary Cartography and Geologic Mapping Working Group.

Arvidson, who is also chairman of the Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences at Washington University, showed slides of the pictures taken by the Soujourner Rover when it was sent to Mars in 1997.

About 60 students, faculty and staff were scattered throughout a Lawson lecture hall to hear Arvidson talk about NASA's past projects that explored Mars.

Arvidson said it took three years to build the Soujourner Rover and the Rover circled Earth and then made its way to Mars in 9 to 10 months.

Arvidson and his crew are now working on a new project that will collect more data and determine the climatic and geologic history of Mars. The new Rover, Rocky 7, is being piloted in the Mojave Desert. No date is set for when it will be sent to Mars.

"We are testing Rocky 7 in the Mojave Desert. That way we make all of the mistakes there before we go to the red planet," Arvidson said. "It's much cheaper to test it in the Mojave Desert than it is on Mars."

Arvidson said the technology on Rocky 7 is so great that it is able to tell where it is going and it will not go over terrain it views as an obstruction.

Arvidson then explained a situation in which the Rover attempted to go through tall grass but got caught; instead, he said the grass which was waiving side to side tricked the Rover into believing nothing was there.

NASA is concerned that there is a possibility of contamination being transferred from Mars to Earth or vice versa, Arvidson said. They are very cautious when it comes to examining rock samples in their laboratories because they do not want any unknown substance that may have destroyed life on Mars to affect Earth.

"That is one of the only things that may stop the mission," he said.

Keith Yee, a junior in engineering from Addison, said Arvidson's lecture was informative.

"He had a lot of interesting pictures to tell his story about their mission to Mars," Yee said. "I learned a lot more by coming to the lecture than what the media showed when it was big news."

Yee said he enjoyed it, when Arvidson spoke about the new Rover being sent up to Mars because he was very descriptive on the mission that NASA is working on.

"I felt that I was being let in on something that is going to happen in the future and that may affect our lives," Yee said.

Faculty Union's Proposal Halts Negotiations

During negotiations on Friday, February 6, the bargaining team representing Southern Illinois University's Board of Trustees recessed the bargaining session with the SIUC Faculty Association, IEA/NEA, at approximately 10:15 a.m. based upon its determination that no progress was being made.

The Board team determined that no progress was being made based upon 2 principal factors:

1. The Board team was ready to respond to a proposal presented by the Association near the close of the last session. However, the Association immediately presented another proposal on the same subject which retreated from its last proposal. This is commonly referred to as "regressive bargaining," which has the effect of impeding negotiations and delaying settlement. This is the second consecutive session which began in this fashion.
2. The Association also presented, for the second straight bargaining session, an unlawful proposal concerning the costs of arbitration. The Board's team had already objected previously to the illegality of this proposal.

The Board's team stated, in clear and unequivocal terms, that regressive bargaining would not lead to an agreement. The Association spokesperson, following an ad hominem personal attack, belatedly offered to correct a "mistake" or withdraw a proposal. Despite the Association's disingenuous offer, based upon the Association's previous behavior the Board team felt it best to adjourn for the day.

Although the Board team will return to the bargaining table on Monday, February 9, during the interim it intends to prepare an unfair labor practice charge for filing with the Illinois Educational Labor Relations board.

Engineering fair set for Tuesday

RECRUIT: More than 30 companies will be at engineering job fair.

J. MICHAEL RODRIGUEZ
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

The annual Engineering Fair is slated for Tuesday, which organizers say is an attempt to expose undergraduate students to the work field and assist soon-to-be graduates to find jobs in the engineering, computer science and industrial technology fields.

University Career Services and the College of Engineering are bringing representatives from more than 30 companies to campus for an event that is open to all students. Organizers say firms are interested in those trained as civil, mechanical, electrical and industrial engineers. Agencies may also recruit computer science experts and electrical and industrial technologists. A few of the companies scheduled to attend are Deere & Co., Caterpillar, Motorola, and Pepsi Cola Bottling. Judy Eaton, career services specialist for University Career Services, said the fair is a combination of assisting graduates in finding jobs and exposing undergraduates to the interviewing and resume-exchanging process.

"Companies are coming to let students know who they are," Eaton said. "Some companies are looking for interns, and some are just getting their names in front of the students." Eaton encourages students to come prepared for the fair in case companies show immediate interest in them.

"It's an opportunity for students to come prepared, be professionally dressed and ready to present a resume," she said. "Some companies are staying the next day for interviews."

Beach Boy Carl Wilson dies of cancer

LOS ANGELES TIMES

Carl Wilson, a founding member of the Beach Boys, whose music helped define the Southern California lifestyle, has died from complications of lung cancer, the band's publicist said Saturday. He was 51.

Throughout his nearly four-decade career, Wilson was known for his sweet-sounding voice on such songs as "Wouldn't it be Nice" and his stabilizing presence during the band's sometimes tumultuous history.

"Carl Wilson could sing anything. He could sing the phone book and he would sound great," said Andy Paley, a songwriter and staff producer for Sire Records. Wilson was diagnosed with cancer last year. Still, he continued to press ahead with his music while undergoing treatment, said Alyson Dutch, the band's publicist.

He played with the Beach Boys for the duration of their 36th annual tour last summer and appeared to be in good spirits. "He was doing very well," Dutch said.

International Students and Scholars; John Jackson, vice chancellor of Academic Affairs and provost, and Chancellor Donald Beggs.

Beggs believed "A Taste of the World" demonstrated the importance of SIUC's diverse community.

"This is a perfect example of why a university and community is diverse by having the many cultures that we have here tonight," he said.

"We saw talent, hard work and planning that clearly demonstrated the differences that make each culture something special."

Each featured student organization brought something special to the event.

The Japanese Student Association sang five traditional songs. One song, "Ue-O-Muite-Arukou," translated as "Let's walk looking up at the sky," had the audience clapping along.

The Iota Phi Theta Fraternity Inc. displayed its African-American roots through "stepping," making dance beats with their hands and feet.

The Turkish Student Association reenacted the typical day in a "kahvehane," or Turkish coffee house, and danced in costumes from several different regions in Turkey.

The typical day in Turkey is full of dancing and playing "tavla," also known as backgammon.

Bringing violins onto stage, the Latin American Student Association, played mellow sounds containing the love, joy and desire of Latin American music.

The Malaysian Student Association told a traditional story, "Ulik Mayang" to the audience.

The dance was performed to recreate the story of a prince who had fallen in a coma.

To commemorate the beginning of the Winter Olympics in Nagano, Japan, the Hellenic Student Association recalled the first Olympic games in Greece.

It also presented a traditional dance called "Syrtaki."

The night left everyone with a tangy taste on their tongues, including Aashish Lakhani, a freshman in computer science from Kenya.

He was glowing with enthusiasm after he was able to give a taste of his country to the audience.

Curran K. Buss/Daily Egyptian

ENERGETIC: The Iota Phi Theta Inc. Untouchable epsilon chapter performed steps that were related to African tradition. The high energy performance was part of the Taste of International Night Saturday night at the Carbondale Civic Center.

"The public loved it," he said. "It was made for them. We were able to show what it is like to be in our country."

ISC was able to bring all of their different countries to one stage and have a spectacular performance.

"We had over 200 people working together to put this event together," Wan Napi said.

"We all cooperated and put a lot of time into this. This is only the beginning of the International Festival, there's more like this to come."

Chicano teachers fight dismissal

WASHINGTON POST

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — The back-to-school assembly was almost over when the cry went out from one of the young speakers: "Que viva la Raza! Que viva el Chicano!" Several other students saluted the slogans by thrusting clenched fists into the air.

The brief display of popular civil rights cries — "Long live the people, long live the Chicano" — came from members of MEChA, a Mexican American history group. It left school officials in tiny Vaughn, N.M., aghast at what they saw as the rise of unbridled militancy among their students.

Within days, the school superintendent cut off support for MEChA, the Movimiento Estudiantil Chicano de Aztlan, or Aztlan Chicano Student Movement. The school board later fired two longtime teachers for allegedly promoting a racist brand of Mexican American history in their classrooms and through the MEChA club they helped organize.

The firing of sisters Nadine and Patsy Cordova has triggered a legal fight that has raised free speech questions even as it has exposed deep divisions among Chicanos over class, ethnic identification and what it means to be an American.

In the past, similar curriculum fights have been waged by African Americans who have advocated the teaching of black history and other courses that candidly discuss how blacks have been treated in American history. Now, as their population grows, increasing numbers of Latinos are pushing school districts to incorporate their history and culture into the curriculum.

But just how to do that is a subject that bitterly divides Latinos in Vaughn and elsewhere. Many people believe that teaching about the rapes, lynchings, mass deportations and theft of land endured by their forebears at the hands of Anglo and Spanish colonizers causes Chicano students to view the United States as some alien nation, even though many of their families have lived here for generations. Others say this history not only is accurate but ultimately will raise the self-esteem of Chicano youngsters whose educational achievement ranks near the bottom in the nation.

NEW GRADE

aid effects of the WF grade.

"If a student received all WU grades, they would be considered a total withdrawal and treated as such," Britton said. "If WU reduces the attempted hours, financial aid would be reduced as such."

Britton said students who withdraw within the first two weeks of the semester are eligible for a full financial aid refund. Those who withdraw within the first 60 percent of the semester receive a partial refund. If students receive a WU in at least one but not all of their classes, Britton said each class is treated as a dropped course.

Despite the size of SIUC's Graduate School, McKillip expects few students to be affected by the grade.

"We estimate this grade would affect five out of 3,800 students," he said. "It is a rare thing for graduate students to just drop out and disappear."

5 Ways to Treat Back & Neck Pain:

(choose only 1)

1. You can live with pain. Don't be silly. There's no reason to live with pain. Dr. Girado can help. He tells people all the time, "I didn't train for all these years to hear patients say they'll just go on living with pain."

3. You can take pain pills (forever). Just hiding behind pain pills is not a cure. Pain pills are just temporary relief and they are not good for you either. Some people even have adverse reactions to pain killers.

2. You can have surgery. What a horrible thought. It's painful, time consuming, expensive and you can't even be sure it's going to help. Don't ever let anyone talk you into surgery until we're sure that's your only alternative.

4. You can do what you should have done along time ago. Call for a free exam and consultation with Dr. Girado. He treats back and neck pain everyday and knows what to look for and how to fix it. He's educated, experienced and loves making people better.

5. Call for a free back exam today. It's such a good solution to back pain that it is worth saying it twice, call Dr. Girado today. Pick up the phone and call: 457-0459.

This FREE exam I'm offering is exactly the same as my standard $89 exam:

- Private consultation to make all your options clear
  - Personal health history & evaluation to aid in an accurate diagnosis
  - Posture analysis to see what shape your spine is in
  - Blood pressure check to gauge your overall health
  - Orthopedic tests to check your joints & muscles
  - Neurological tests to evaluate the health of your nervous system
  - Treatment recommendations to get & keep you healthy
- Now that's a complete exam, all at no cost to you!
To schedule an appointment, call Dr. Girado.
But hurry, this offer expires 2-28-98.
Coupons must be presented on initial visit.
No cash value.

was the funding. He said the board did not wish to compare the business to Chadwick's, but it was a thought in his mind.

"Chadwick's was severely underfunded, severely undercapitalized and stayed open for about three months before closing, owing a significant amount of money to a lot of people."

Vergen's originally opened Oct. 4, 1997 at its old location on South Illinois Avenue.

The establishment hopes to begin offering entertainment on weekends. Plans for DJs, solo acts and comedy acts were some of the ideas mentioned at the meeting.

Vergen's will be open 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. The restaurant will be closed Sundays.

The request will go before the Carbondale Liquor Control Commission Feb. 17.

In other business, board member Eden Thorne also announced her resignation at the meeting. Thorne has been appointed as a new commissioner to the Carbondale Park District, which has a liquor license, making her ineligible to serve on the Liquor Advisory Board.

TRIP

of the program's tour guides makes these trips much different from a typical vacation. The annual program in the ancient world experience, "Expeditions to Greece and Egypt," was developed in 1982 by Hahn for just that purpose.

Students from other schools across the country accompany Hahn and professors specializing in philosophy, archaeology, Egyptology, architecture, astronomy, and art history from other schools. These scholars lead students around the ancient pyramids and coliseums.

The students make sundials and star maps, recreate ritual processions in traditional costumes and reconstruct clay models of ancient architecture. On past trips, students even have taken part in an ancient foot race in a Greek coliseum.

Marlow said the team approach to teaching using a variety of different experts was a good way for him to learn.

"[It] was one of the best parts," he said. "I would recommend the trip to anybody."

So far, 618 people from ages 18 to 77 have made the trips to Greece and Egypt, and 62 different professors have been able to show their expertise to those who have attended. Each year, 60 people go to both Greece and Egypt and have experiences that could never occur in the classroom.

"It is very interdisciplinary," Hahn said. "There are so many things that you get to do that you normally would not be able to do. There's a series of different things that make learning fun."

The cost of the trip is about $2,500 per person, plus airfare. This year's expedition to Egypt will be from May 15-28 and the expedition to Greece will be May 28 to June 10. An informational meeting about the 16th annual "Expeditions to Greece and Egypt" will be 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Vermillion Room of the Student Center.

I would recommend the trip to anybody.

U.S., China finally break the ice

LOS ANGELES TIMES

NAGANO, Japan — They've had all their lives to dream of this moment and five months to count the days until it would become reality. So Sunday, the first U.S. women's Olympic hockey team took to the ice against China — defeating them 5-0 — for a game that made history — and is likely to make the players role models, not only for countless young girls, but for anyone with an adventurous spirit.

"We're here for ourselves, but we're also here for the people who didn't make it and the people who played before it became an Olympic sport," forward Tricia Dunn said. "We have a responsibility to them and to all the people who are supporting us. We want to make everybody proud."

An odyssey that began in early September and took the U.S. players and coaches across North America and around the world will end in this six-team tournament. They have played before gatherings that barely reached triple figures and enthusiastic crowds that exceeded 14,000; they have shared the anxiety of injuries and roster cuts, and exulted together through routs and nail-biting victories over archrival Canada, the top-seeded team here.

This is their moment — and not a moment too soon. They have had enough hype and appeared enough times on magazine covers and on TV talk shows.

"We're prepared and ready to go," said defenseman Tara Mounsey. "It's time to forget about everything that happened the last five months."

"Soon, maybe we'll be the dolls of sports. Maybe we'll come out like the (gold-medal) women's basketball team in the '96 Olympics. It's just really exciting."

The magnitude of the occasion is just beginning to sink in for Sarah Tueting, who is expected to share the goaltending duties with Sara DeCosta. "I was sitting with Sara the other night and reading some of the newspaper articles that have been written about her and I was thinking, 'This is so cool. I'm sitting across from an Olympic goaltender,'" she said. "Then I thought to myself, 'Oh my God, I'm an Olympic goaltender, too!'"

Storm forces delay in men's downhill

LOS ANGELES TIMES

HAKUBA, Japan — A last-minute snowstorm swept across the Hanno one course Sunday morning, postponing the Olympic men's downhill and the seemingly inevitable coronation of a new snow king.

Austrian Hermann Maier's quest to join Toni Sailer and Jean-Claude Killy as the only Alpine skiers to win three gold medals in the same Olympics was put on hold — officials will try to run the downhill Monday — but Maier has grown accustomed to waiting for his precious moments in the snow.

It might sound inconceivable that a talent such as Maier would have slipped through the Austrian cracks, given that Alpine skiing is an obsession in the country and that national ski scouts mine talent the way the '49ers scoured for gold.

Yet Maier, at 25, is a relative Ludwig-come-lately to the Austrian scene, a former bricklayer who labored for years in obscurity as he plotted his course to the top.

Austrian coaches would have you believe that they had Maier under a watchful eye all along, charting his progress from afar.

Maier tells a different story: "The Austrian team didn't know me, that was the problem," he said. "They never saw me."

The world knows him now. In his first full season on the World Cup circuit, Maier has made schinzel-meat of the competition, winning 10 of the 30 races he has entered. Maier has 17 top-three finishes in his last 21 races.

Maier won another race, a giant slalom at Val D'Isere, France, in December, but was disqualified.

HE'S SURE: Jeff Clark celebrates his victory in the 50-meter freestyle against the University of Illinois at Chicago Saturday afternoon of the Recreation Center Pool. Both Saluki teams capitalized on strong performances, with the men's team beating UIC 138-123 and the women winning 142-109.

Kluemper said. "They really meant a lot during the four years."
Top senior performances included Karla Gerzema's first-place finishes in the 1-meter and 3-meter springboard diving competitions.

Gerzema scored 276.3 in the 1-meter, and a 305.70 in the 3-meter.

Senior Nicole Freda led with two first-place finishes in the 200-meter freestyle (1:56.01) and the 100-meter freestyle (54.14). Senior Diana Roberts took first in the 200-meter backstroke (2:08.75) followed by junior Kirsty Albertyn (2:14.69) and senior Stefanie

Merritt (2:18.19) for second and third, respectively.

Other seniors honored were Katie Burns, who finished third in the 200 butterfly (2:14.69), and Kiki Sidiropoulou, who is out with a shoulder injury.

The victories Saturday improved the men's dual meet record to 4-5, while the women improved to 3-6.

Hornets' Mason arrested on two counts of statutory rape

Anthony Mason of the Charlotte Hornets was arrested late Saturday on two counts of third-degree rape of two teen-age girls.

His lawyer, Frank Rothman, anticipating the arrest all day, insisted his client was innocent. Mason was arrested after five hours of questioning by detectives.

Mason, 31, and a friend, William Duggins, 24, were each charged with two counts of statutory rape in the attack on two girls, 14 and 15, Friday night, said Mary DeBourbon, a spokeswoman for Queens District Attorney Richard A. Brown.

Mason and his friend met the sisters at a charity basketball game at York College in Queens, said the spokeswoman.

New York's Daily News reported in its Sunday editions that the alleged attack took place in a limousine after the game. The girls told an older sister about the alleged attack, the paper said.

After the girls were treated at a Queens hospital, nurses reported the suspected sexual attack to police.

Mason, a former New York Knicks star who was born and raised in Queens, was at a small party at a private home in the Laurelton section Friday night with about 10 other people, according to Rothman.

He said the two girls told police Mason and one other person at the party had sex with them. Rothman said he talked to Mason and the basketball player's agent in a conference call Saturday morning, and said Mason was eager to talk to police.

Mason was traded by the Knicks to Charlotte in 1996. He pleaded guilty in November 1997 to disorderly conduct after scuffling with a police officer in Times Square in July 1996. He paid a $250 fine and apologized to the police. He originally faced felony assault charges that could have brought up to seven years in prison.

Mason was in town to see his family, Rothman said. The NBA is on a weekend break for the All-Star game, which will be played Sunday night at Madison Square Garden.

Sprewell addresses union

Latrell Sprewell addressed the NBA Players Association Saturday, and officials emerged saying his suspension and contract termination had galvanized the once-troubled union.

Sprewell, who was suspended for one year by the league and had his contract terminated by Golden State after his attack on coach P.J. Carlesimo, has unilateral support from fellow players as he fights the penalties, Union Director Billy Hunter said.

"They support Latrell," Hunter said. "To a man, there's nobody that disagrees with that."

Sprewell, Carlesimo and NBA commissioner David Stern were among those who testified in arbitration hearings on whether the penalties should stand. Closing arguments will be Feb. 16 in New York, and arbitrator John Feenick will have 30 days to rule on Sprewell's grievances against the Warriors and the league.

Russ Granik, the league's deputy commissioner, said the penalty fits the offense.

"It's now in the hands of an arbitrator," Granik said. "He'll render a ruling as he sees fit."

The Sprewell situation and the league's crackdown on baggy shorts have united the players' union.

"We're all back together. We're strong," said Union President Patrick Ewing of the New York Knicks. "If anything arises, we're going to be together and we're going to fight it."

Saluki swimmers douse Flames

'WE HAD FUN': Women win 142-109 with 13 first-place finishes, while men take 10 events, winning 138-123.

DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

The SIUC men's and women's swimming and diving teams entered Saturday's meet expecting victory, and they left the Recreation Center knowing their premonition was right.

Even though they knew little about the University of Illinois at Chicago team, the men's team claimed victory over the Flames 138-123, while the women's team cruised to a 142-109 victory in the Salukis' final home meet of the season.

The men posted first-place finishes in ten events, while the women finished first in all but one of the 13 events.

The men took the top four spots in the 200-meter freestyle with sophomore Ryan Gallagher leading the way with a time of 1:43.72. The men did the same in the 200 individual medley with junior Jasson Velez taking first in 1:55.53.

"We had fun," men's coach Rick Walker said. "I am absolutely satisfied and couldn't be happier with our performances."

In their final home meet, seniors Jeff Clark, Nathan Stooke and Ben Culver finished on top. Clark claimed first-place finishes in the 50-meter freestyle (21.60) and the 100-meter freestyle (46.54). Stooke took first in the 1,000-meter freestyle (9:44.64) and Ben Culver did the same in the 200-meter butterfly (1:56.10).

Other seniors honored during their final home meet included Will Enoch, Steve Munz and Alex Wright. Walker said his seniors have been continuously improving their times ever since they came to SIUC.

"It speaks volumes about our seniors who have continued to get better throughout their four years," Walker said.

With 14 freshmen on the women's swimming and diving team this year, coach Mark Klumper depended heavily upon his seniors for their leadership. The Salukis honored their seniors by dedicating Saturday's meet to them.

"It was nice to honor our seniors."

Jenkins scores 30, leads SIUC over UNI

ON A ROLL: Junior guard makes 8 of Dawgs' last 11 points on his way to career high.

SHANDEL RICHARDSON
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

SIUC junior Monte Jenkins has made a habit of saving his best for the University of Northern Iowa this season.

The Rock Island native hit a jumper from the free-throw line over two Panther defenders late in the second half to cap a career-high 30-point performance and propel the Salukis to a 91-89 victory Saturday in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Jenkins, whose previous best was a 25-point effort against the Panthers earlier in the season, scored eight of the final 11 Saluki points.

"He really rose to the occasion today when he made 13 out of 19 shots," SIUC coach Rich Herrin said. "He ex-ploded and really did it."

UNI had a couple opportunities to tie or win the game down the stretch. But Panther guard Tony Brus committed a costly turnover on the possession following the Jenkins basket.

Senior guard Shane Hawkins then went on to sink one of two free throws with 4.9 seconds remaining to produce the final margin of victory. The Panthers got one more shot attempt, but Brus missed a three-pointer from the baseline as time expired.

SIUC lifted its record to 11-12 overall and 6-7 in the Missouri Valley Conference as it completed a three-game road trip. UNI dropped to 9-12 and 3-10 in the Valley.

The victory marked the Salukis' first season sweep of the Panthers and the team's first win in Cedar Rapids in three years. SIUC shot 54 percent from the floor and won the rebounding battle 40-31.

After leading by as many as eight in the first half, SIUC took a one-point advantage at 49-48. UNI finished the half with an 11-4 run, hitting three three-pointers in the last two minutes.

SIUC was led by sophomore forward Derrick Tilton, who scored 15 of his season-high 19 points in the first half. Tilton, a 31-percent free throw shooter, went 7-for-10 from the line in the game.

UNI carried the momentum into the second half. The Panthers began with a 9-0 run, holding SIUC scoreless for nearly three minutes. UNI owned a nine-point lead with a little more than eight minutes remaining.

"When we started that second half, I was destroyed," Herrin said. "I didn't think we got out there and got with it for the first four or five minutes."

But Hawkins provided a spark for the Saluki offense. With senior forward Rashad Tucker struggling, Hawkins buried two consecutive three-pointers to cut the lead to 77-74 at the 7:30 mark. Hawkins finished the game with five three-point field goals.

Despite Tucker's 2-for-12 shooting performance, Herrin said Tucker was able to help the team other areas. Tucker led the team with 11 rebounds and made a key steal down the stretch, as he played the entire second half.

"Tucker did not have a real good basketball game," Herrin said. "He wasn't letting it affect his play when he wasn't getting anything to go down. That's the mark of a man that has made a lot of strides in the right direction."
