City Council Tables Traffic Recommendation

George M. Killenberg

The City Council decided last night to table the Planning Commission's recommendation that the proposed East-West traffic couple not be established on a temporary basis.

The tabling action occurred after Councilman Frank Kirk questioned the soundness of the recommendation and lack of information supporting it.

Councilman William Eaton, who is a member of the Commission, explained that the group is not opposed to the East-West couple itself but is concerned that the temporary connections at Oakland and Wall streets will present a serious traffic tieup. Eaton agreed, however, that the recommendation should be returned to the Commission for additional study.

Parking meter fines will be increased in Carbondale if the Council decides to adopt a proposed parking fine ordinance that was introduced last night. The Council agreed to delay its vote on the ordinance until the downtown merchants have had the opportunity to express their views on the fine boost.

If the ordinance is enacted, parking meter fines will be increased from 50 cents to $1., provided that the fine is paid within 48 hours.

For tickets which are paid after the 48 hour deadline, the fine would be $3.

City manager C. William Norman said the fine increase was necessary since the cost of enforcement and processing exceeds the fine revenues.

Norman said the fine hike would also serve as a revenue source for improving the city's parking system.

In other business Mayor David Keene named Councilman Joseph Ragsdale as chairman of a committee to look into the proposed taxi cab rate increase. The committee will review the local cab companies' recent request for an increase in fares and will report its findings to the Council.

SIU International Students Discuss U.S. Foreign Policy

"When Africans talk about independence they don't talk about independence for one country," said S. Jabulani Beza, Malawi, Africa.

Beza was one of four students discussing "How Foreign Students View American Foreign Policy" at a meeting sponsored by the International Relations Club last night in Morris Library Auditorium.

He said the United States wants to see self determination of each nation's people, yet the U.S. also wants to defend her own interests.

"The U.S. policy became inconsistent in the Middle East in setting up military alignments against the Soviet Union," said Hassan M. Nejad, Iran.

"I don't want to say the aid program in the Middle East has been a failure," he added. "There are some governments who aren't about to accept it, but many think friendships could be worked out with the U.S."

The best thing for Finland and America to do is to mind their own business said Antero Pietila, Finland.

"Finland is really an insignificant country in the realm of American foreign policy," Pietila added.

Judicial Board Refers Nix Case to Senate

The Campus Judicial Board in effect sent the question of seating Dennis Nix on the Student Senate back to the Senate Tuesday night. The Senate is expected to act at its meeting tonight.

Nix was at least temporarily denied a seat on the Senate after a dispute arose over a letter to the editor which appeared in the Egyptian immediately prior to the election last fall.

After a debate in which it was charged that Nix took unfair advantage of his position as a proofreader on the Egyptian, the Senate voted to send the issue to the Judicial Board.

The Judicial Board decided after an hour of debate Tuesday it had the power to rule on the matter, but contended there was no code of ethics on elections for which there could be a violation.

The Egyptian has stated that it did not intend to give Nix an unfair advantage.

Radio Station Presentation Delayed

Presentation of a plan for a student-sponsored AM radio station for SIU has been delayed while two student senators continue their research.

Senators Jerry Paluch and Dale Boatright said they were obtaining information from the office of Ralph Ruffner, vice president for student and area services.

The two said they are making some preliminary cost studies and have received some information from the Federal Communications Commission on procedures required in applying for an AM license.

In other Senate news, student body president Ray Lenzi has urged women students to fill out a questionnaire on women's hours which is due to be circulated beginning later this week, after approval by the Senate.

Writing in the first issue of the Senate newsletter, Lenzi said, "Self-regulatory hours are almost a certainty if women participating in completing the upcoming questionnaire. Women's hours constitute a double standard, preserve an anti-intellectual parental atmosphere... and lead to unnecessary fears and artificial structuring of one's life."

Senators and officers are conducting an extensive campaign this week, visiting women's dormitories and seeking the opinions of students.

"I WANT TO GET INTO THE PICTURE. TOO!"

McCarthy: No Wasted Vote

In his book, "Third Party Movements Since the Civil War," Fred E. Haynes says that, according to the popular view, "... a man of good sense connects himself with one of the regular parties in preference to throwing away his vote upon a third party candidate. To such a person, a third party is made up largely of reformers, cranks, and discredited leaders of older parties. All others ought to find a place in one of the two great parties."

Some SIU students are currently sympathetic with Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Wis) who, by opposing President Johnson's military policy, will present voters with a third party choice in the 1968 presidential election (if he is nominated).

Unfortunately, many students who favor McCarthy also believe that a vote for him would be "wasted," and they would therefore vote for the major candidate that they fear least.

Rather than view a vote for McCarthy as wasted, his followers should realize that it is the role of third parties to bring new issues before the people and eventually to force new policies on the older parties.

A vote for McCarthy would, in other words, provide LBJ with a concrete popularity poll on which he might later base his policies. So if, in the coming presidential election, you find that a minor candidate appeals to you more than the two major contenders, it would be wise to register your true feelings by voting for him. To do anything else is to "waste your vote."

Letter to the Editor

Peace Display Grotesque

To the Editor:

During this past year, the growing concern and frustration over our nation's participation in the Vietnamese War manifested itself in several vulgar ways.

The wide acceptance of two popular songs, in particular, underlined the unchecked emotion and basic ignorance of the issues running through our national ranks.

One such song, a sociologist's delight, was actually an emotional catharsis in which a deep-throated middle-aged man threatened to deny his son's birthright to the tune of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Another such song, loathsome in its insensitivity to the hundreds of families who have lost loved ones in this war, presents a little girl's naive Christmas wish that her big brother be returned from Vietnam's jungles. The brother has obviously died in battle.

These two songs, however, were nothing compared to the mockery that was permitted to take place in a display window in the University Center during the final week of the past term.

An organization calling itself the Southern Illinois Peace Committee somehow won permission to parade before my eyes within a building for which I am helping to pay, a picture series of mutilated and disfigured Vietnamese children—children who are the ultimate pawns in this ghastly war and who are subsequently used as propaganda tools of these protestors who, unable to debate as educated men, wallow in the lowest form of shock treatment.

Beneath the series of color photos, there lay a dollbaby, burnt and splattered with red paint. Someone had gone to the trouble of melting its rubber limbs and then meticulously bending them out of shape. I question the mental stability and good will of the individuals responsible for this tasteless side show and demand to know what group or officials within Student Activities was responsible for the availability of the display window and why.

Such overblown emotionalism, either in favor or against our presence in Vietnam, can only muddle any serious discussion of the war.

Our country's present course of action in Vietnam can be soundly attacked, I think, both militarily and politically. But pictures of bloody children and carefully deformed dolls, like the records mentioned above, are not only disgusting to the spirit but meaningless to a practical (albeit peace-loving) mind.

H. William Haines

Most people today equate size with excellence, especially in education.

This is a "dangerous" thing to do, according to Professor Charles Haines of Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada.

Professor Haines admits that he isn't sure "what education is all about."

He has an unusual background in education. A native of the United States, he was graduated in English Literature at Dublin University in Ireland, taught 12 years in Milan, Italy, and is now a faculty member at Carleton.

He compared the teaching approach in Ireland, Italy and Canada. In Ireland there is little comfort for students and little or no "spoon-feeding." It's an uphill fight to graduate and there are no distractions, such as clubs and popularity contests. This is no prejudice.

"In Ireland if a student tells his professor he has a social problem—he will be told to go off somewhere and read Shakespeare, or Milton."

In Italy a student "prepares for the examination." There is great formality between the professor and student. It is a "book learning culture with no preparation for living." There are no sports, no clubs, and no student activities. Students are taught "how to approach a problem methodically." The best students in Italy are better than those in Ireland, but there are few of them, Professor Haines said.

"If a student at the University says he is sick, he is told to go home. The University is for learning—not for caring for the sick."

What about Carleton University, which looks like any new college in the United States?

"Carleton is willing to experiment and the student is viewed as the whole person. The students have all of the comforts. They are prepared for living, directed to a job, and to fit in the make a contribution to society," the professor explained. There is a closer relationship between the student and the professor.

Professor Haines doesn't find everything well in education today. He says universities are becoming vocational and technical schools, and Latin and Greek have been disappearing from curriculums. He doesn't like to see this. He didn't say which approach to teaching is best in comparing Ireland, Italy and Canada.

"We need to teach more Latin and Greek. It won't give you a financial return, but it will teach you to work, and you build character and pride in what you are doing by hard work."

Professor Haines believes "wisdom" is acquired in a liberal arts education.

What about the Canadian university student of today?

"They are lively, and are seeking an identity," Professor Haines said. "They are a good bunch to work with. They need more Latin and Greek. They want to know 'what is a Canadian?'"

Getting back to this thing of size and excellence, we all tend to believe that what is big necessarily produces an excellent product. It's easy to fall into this trap. As Professor Haines said, this is a "dangerous" thing to do in education, and, for that matter, he could have mentioned in other fields, like business, for instance.

English Language Center:

SIU's 'Friend' to the Foreign

Outside a temporary brown-shingled building near the library, a white sign with black letters reads "CESL."

Inside, a student from Vietnam sits in a plexiglass booth manipulating the controls of a tape recorder and intently listening through a set of headphones.

"How much ice cream did he eat?" a voice from the recorder asks, allowing a measured moment for the student to repeat the phrase. "He ate a lot," continues the voice.

The student responds—as do others listening to similar recordings in the booths beside, behind and in front of him.

This is the language laboratory of the Center for English as a Second Language (CESL). Here, people of many different tongues undergo intensive training in English for "non-native speakers."

CESL became a part of SIU in June, 1966. At that time, English Language Services, Inc. (ELS), a private firm which had been providing English courses since 1964 for non-English speaking people, sold its equipment and educational materials to Southern and made way for CESL.

Many of the instructors from ELS remained to become a part of the new center, and Joseph H. Friend, a professor of English from Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, joined SIU's Department of English to become director of CESL.

Friend said, "You might say we are an entity within the English Department since we are part of it, but we perform a somewhat different function in teaching the subject as a second language."

As to why the center was not incorporated into the language curriculum, Friend said, "Well, why not English? The people concerned just got together and decided to put us in the English Department."

Why do people come to the United States to learn English?

For the most part, the answer lies in their desire to stay here and continue their education in American universities. Ninety percent eventually go on to do college work in the United States. "There are others," said Friend, "who are here only to learn the language and then return home. An example of this is the recreation director of the Arabian-American Oil Co. who is studying with us now and will go back to Arabia when he has attained a proficiency in the language."

People desiring to learn American English come from most nations in the world to study here. Currently, 85 students are enrolled in one phase or another of the course.

Present facilities at SIU can accommodate an optimum number of 100. This is in keeping with the one to ten instructor-student ratio established here.

"Relative to the needs of a program of this type, qualified instructors are just not available," said Friend.

For this and other reasons, before Southern's CESL could accept more than 100 students, both physical facilities and staff would need to be increased.

The future for the center at SIU will see daily increases in the number of applications.

"More and more people are coming to these shores to learn English," said Friend. "Governments and private firms continue to request our application forms and recently, LASPAU, a Latin American scholarship program, approved SIU-CESL as one of five institutions in this country where their students will be sent to learn English."

Of SIU's position among the estimated 50 centers of this type in the United States, he comments, "Although we are not the biggest, our reputation places us among the best dozen in the country."

Enrollment of 85

CESL has an enrollment of about 85 students from 17 different countries, according to Friend.

These students must be mature and able to devote full time to the strenuous and demanding language-learning program. They must show evidence of having had a suitable academic background, adequate financial resources and seriousness of purpose to be admitted.

Students at CESL come from Saudi Arabia, Venezuela, Mexico, Taiwan, Congo, Iran, Thailand, Honduras, Nepal, Colombia, Chile, Nicaragua, Hong Kong, Brazil, Nigeria, India and Japan.

Saudi Arabia has the largest delegation with a total of 20 students, Friend said.

"Although the present enrollment is not real high, the program enjoys a very high reputation," Friend said.

Friend said he expects a fairly substantial increase in enrollment in the near future. In January, LASPAU, a Latin American scholarship organization, will send 210 students to the United States to study. Of these, 40 to 50 will enroll in CESL at SIU. The others will be distributed among the 40 other such centers in the United States.

In July the United States Council on Student Travel will sponsor the enrolling of about 35 Japanese students.

The CESL staff currently includes three administrators, nine instructors, four lab monitors, an office supervisor, a student adviser and several student workers.

The administrators, besides Dr. Friend, are Manfred Wagner, assistant director, and Richard Daesch, director of courses.

Most of the instructors hold master of arts degrees in English as a Foreign Language (MAEFL). The MAEFL program is intended to prepare men and women, as both teachers and trainers in the field of English as a foreign language.

Instructors are John Chapman, Jewell A. Friend, Alice Morris, Jack Morris, Shirlee Ann Owens and Jane Denny. Assistant instructors are Keith Pharis, Ruth Rose and Helen Taylor.

The lab monitors are Ron Coleman, Carol Jean Compton, Denise Kunkle and Dianne Weisse. Larry Askew is student adviser, and Mrs. Barbara J. Floyd is office supervisor.

It doesn't take an FBI man to learn what's going on at SIU's CESL. All you have to do is take a seat in the CESL lobby and listen.

Around the corner to the left is an office. A voice speaks in broken English.

"I've decided to leave school."

Next there's a woman's voice. It sounds concerned.

"Why...what will you do?"

"I may return in February," he says. "Maybe in New York."

"Why are you leaving?"

"I'm very tired, and I need a rest, and..."

"Tell the truth."

"That is the truth." This was said softly and could hardly be heard.

"I don't think so," she countered. "I think you're homesick. You're a kid, just a homesick kid."

"Yes, you are right. I guess I am."

His voice was smiling.

"I guess I am just a homesick keyd."

This type of concern is not unusual at CESL. For the student is more than merely a number here—he is a person.

The training is intensive and rigid. The student can choose between working three or five hours a day, five days a week. But these hours are not wasted.

The foreign student often feels out of place in a different land with strange people and customs. Communication is essential if he is to adjust to this new environment.

The teachers at CESL are not ordinary, for they also serve as counselors, advisers and friends to the students.

A class is in session down the hall.

"Do you want potatoes or rice?" asks a voice.

"Do you want potatoes or rice?" a class repeats.

"Do YOU want potatoes or rice?" the voice asks.

"I want potatoes," a voice answers.

The class is participating in a patterned practice. It goes on all day long.

Oral-Aural Approach

They call it the oral-aural, or ear-mouth approach. First you listen, then you repeat.

This is interspersed with substitution drills, using different forms in place of a given structure.

The aim is to familiarize students with colloquial English. It concentrates on the practical knowledge of usage that will be necessary for these people to communicate in a matter of weeks.

There are seldom more than ten students in a class. No grades are given—they are here to learn.

Down the hall is a door labeled "Laboratory." Inside are rows of individual booths, with students huddled over microphones whispering and listening intently.

Each student has the controls to his individual tape. He studies his speech, erases and speaks again. Over and over, the repetition is continued. Instead of a central monitor, there are four monitors circulating around the room.

In the rear of the room a teacher is working with a student who has encountered serious difficulties. Some of the sounds used in English are not found in his native tongue. He is relearning to speak.

As class sessions are dismissed, the lobby is filled with the roar of chattering and joking in many languages

LANGUAGE LAB—Foreign students enrolled at the Center for English as a Second Language (CESL) use the laboratory a minimum of two hours a day. Under the supervision of Richard Daesch, director of courses and head of the laboratory, lab monitors devote most of their time helping the students with individual problems. The 15-minute tapes cover practice drills of classroom lessons.

SIU Police Force

Kirk Rates Security High

By Dan Van Atta

Law enforcement is a tedious and hazardous business in any city. In a town whose population includes almost 20,000 college students, the job is never ending.

The SIU Security Police are on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week, in an effort to adequately protect the University community.

"We have a staff in excess of 30 officers," said Captain Carl Kirk, a key member of the force. "They all turn in a 40-hour week."

"The members of the Security Force have the full power of arrest in any county in Illinois where the University has a school, owns land or has interests.

"We consider students as interests," said Kirk.

The work of the regular force is augmented by the 25-man Saluki Patrol. The Patrol consists solely of students. It serves mainly as a source of employment since men of the Patrol need neither previous experience nor the desire to continue in police work.

"The Saluki Patrol has only the power of citizen's arrest," said Kirk. "They are used mostly as a means of referral."

Members of the Patrol carry only clubs and walkie-talkies.

Underage acceptance of alcohol is the most frequent offense encountered by the Security Police, according to Kirk. The penalty for this charge can vary according to the city or county ordinance, he said.

It is left to the discretion of the arresting officer to decide whether the case will be handled by the Security Office, under the city ordinance or go to the Jackson County seat in Murphysboro under the county ordinance.

The attitude or condition of the person being charged will often help determine the decision of the arresting officer, said Kirk.

Starts Spring Term

New Honors Course To Begin in History

An honors program in history is scheduled to begin this year, according to David Conrad, associate professor in the Department of History. "There's been a desire for recognition of our better students for some time," Conrad said.

Students majoring in history will be selected for the program upon recommendation of instructors and qualification by grade point average. Interested students fulfilling requirements also may apply for recommendation for the program.

The committee requires that students have at least 25 hours in history and a 4.5 average in this field. An overall grade point average of 4.0 is also required.

The honors program offers a 400-level history course in research and historical writing to the students in their junior year. In their senior year the selected students will be given a special two-part honors course.

Part A of the special course will be a colloquium headed by a selected instructor in the department. An honors thesis will be required in Part B of the course. A professor will be assigned to assist each student in writing the thesis.

The honors program committee will evaluate the theses and will award to the students upon graduation degrees with "honors" or with "high honors", depending upon the results.

The honors program was initiated by John Simon, professor of history, who was chairman of the committee which drafted the proposals for the program. It is scheduled to begin spring quarter and will include six to 12 students, Conrad said.

Prison Inmates Enrolled

Residents of the Illinois minimum security prison at Vienna are enrolled in photography and writing courses conducted by the SIU Division of Technical and Adult Education.

Classes for Adults Scheduled To Begin Thursday at SIU

Carbondale Employment and Resource Center directors are registering adults for night classes at SIU.

Residents of the northeast section of town are urged to register, Julius Henry, assistant director of the center, said.

Classes in typing and stenography, accounting, English and welding are among the courses offered. They will begin Thursday night and will be taught both on campus and at SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute. Interested persons unable to furnish their own transportation will be permitted to use the University buses.

Henry said he hopes to register at least 35 persons. Ten persons already have been registered through door-to-door canvassing. The Resource and Employment Center will provide information on courses offered, and the University will offer counseling services.

All fees for the courses will be paid by the city, Henry said. He and co-director Elbert Simon assisted with initial planning and execution of the program last summer shortly after the creation of the center. The major part of the planning was done by the university, however.

Classes hopefully will aid the center's clients in qualifying for jobs, Henry said.

$190 Million Budget Under New System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increased domestic spending already written into law, and higher military costs, reportedly will boost total federal outlays in the next fiscal year to $190 billion or beyond.

An informed source reporting this Tuesday noted that the figure isn't exactly comparable with past budgets since the administration will use this year for the first time a unified budget format which lumps all spending together, including that of the huge government-operated trust funds such as Social Security.

But one official said spending in the administrative budget — if that were still in use — would range between $145 billion and $150 billion in the estimates now scheduled to be sent to Congress Jan. 29.

This is substantially above the $136 billion to $137 billion in administrative budget spending expected in the current fiscal year ending June 30 but one source said the increase stems from higher defense costs and the increased cost of existing federal programs such as welfare, Medicaid and pay raises for government workers.

Exact budget figures have not yet been revealed but administration officials now know into what range they will fall, although some decisions must still be made by President Johnson.

While spending in the new budget will be higher than in the current year, the source said it will definitely remain below $200 billion under the new unified budget format.

If the budget for the current fiscal year had been presented to Congress last January under the new system it would have called for spending $176.5 billion.

Marine Brass Says

Viet Cong Are Capable Of Major Offensive

SAIGON (AP)—Despite massive American bombardments and ground operations, U.S. Marine officers figure North Vietnam is capable today of launching another major offensive against South Vietnam's northern frontier.

A new Red drive is considered likely in the 1st Corps area this spring with dissipation of the northeast monsoon storm clouds now blanketing the frontier.

Sizable units of the enemy operating in the five northern provinces and others across the DMZ are considered in Da Nang, the Marine headquarters, to pose the new threat.

With 25,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops reported in the two northernmost provinces, Quang Tri and Thua Thien, it appears likely the Marines will move soon to reinforce those provinces with additional maneuver battalions. These are highly mobile units.

Additional maneuver battalions would not necessarily mean fresh troops from the United States. They likely would come from two sources:

outposts such as Con Thien, which South Vietnamese forces are taking over from the Marines.

—From Marine units now based south of Da Nang in the three lower provinces of the corps area.

Vietnamese Oust Newsweek Chief

NEW YORK (AP) — South Vietnam's government ordered Edward G. Martin, Newsweek magazine's bureau chief, out of the country Tuesday, and Newsweek said it viewed the expulsion "as a serious omen for the entire U.S. press corps in Vietnam."

The government gave no reason for its action, but reportedly was angered at critical accounts in the magazine.

Kermit Lansner, Newsweek's managing editor, said Tuesday that Martin was already en route to Hong Kong.

South Vietnam's government seized copies of Newsweek's issues last October and on Jan. 1 because of criticisms of the government and South Vietnam's army.

Cambodia Buffer Zone Vanishes Under Fire

WAR ZONE C, Vietnam (AP) — A narrow no-fire zone which American commanders once observed along the Cambodian border has vanished beneath the pressure of Communist military infiltration.

The U.S. Command has evidently removed all restrictions on operations however close to the line.

American soldiers now operate daily right up to the frontier.

High-altitude B52 Stratofortresses are putting bomb loads of 150 tons in saturation patterns within 300 yards of the border.

Big howitzers with ranges up to 15 miles bristle from jungled bases within 10 miles of the edge of Cambodia. The sullen nights rumble with harassing fire falling on infiltration paths east of the line.

The U.S. Command informally imposed the buffer zone upon its units in 1965. It sometimes differed in application for air power and for ground units and was often loosely observed when local actions raged.

However, it was usually there, a zone which extended five miles or so from the border. Now, in the inching escalation of the infiltration crisis, one more barrier to expanded war has been quietly swept aside.

Bowles Meets Prince Over Chase Issue

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Ambassador Chester Bowles is to see Prince Norodom Sihanouk today about Communist use of Cambodian frontier territory in the Vietnam war.

Bowles is in Phnom Penh in response to a statement by the Cambodian chief of state that he would welcome an envoy from President Johnson to discuss the controversy over the sanctuary issue.

Sihanouk told a news conference Sunday he would tell Bowles, whose regular job is ambassador to India, there is "no possibility of negotiating the right of pursuit" of Communist forces into Cambodia by the allies in Vietnam.

The prince said he would not allow U.S. units to enter Cambodia and would condemn both the United States and the Viet Cong if they clashed on his soil.

The Washington Post earlier had quoted him as saying, in answer to questions cabled to him Dec. 23 from its Hong Kong bureau, that Cambodia would not intervene militarily if American troops engaged in limited combat with Vietnamese forces that entered his country illegally.

Bowles had a half-hour talk Tuesday with Premier Son Sann and then a working session with three other officials. These were Nguon Chhay Kry, acting foreign minister; Gen. Duong Sam Ol, defense minister; and Gen. Nhiek Tioulong, inspector of the Cambodian armed forces.

Informants said the talks took place in an atmosphere of frank cordiality, but gave no details.

Ho Squelches Death Rumor

TOKYO (AP)—Hanoi broadcast a picture Tuesday of President Ho Chi Minh with a visitor from Cambodia, Foreign Minister Norodom Phurissari, in apparent answer to a Saigon report that Ho was dead.

The Saigon newspaper Cong Chung quoted "special sources" Sunday as saying North Vietnam's 77-year-old chief of state died Dec. 26 of a combination of heart disease and tuberculosis.

The radiophoto, released by Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency was monitored in Warsaw. The agency did not say when Ho and the Cambodian met, but the Cambodian Embassy in Tokyo reported Phurissari had flown to Hanoi on Dec. 30 for a visit on the invitation of Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh.

Fifth Heart Transplant Performed

NEW YORK (AP)— The world's fifth human heart transplant was completed Tuesday night on Louis Block, 57, and he was reported in reasonably satisfactory condition after a marathon nine-hour operation.

It was the fifth such transplant in 37 days, with three of the human heart recipients still alive.

But the woman's heart given to Block was "rather small," said Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, the chief surgeon. This, he said, caused some problems.

Kantrowitz had tried to transplant the heart of a 2-day-old child into a 2 1/2-week-old boy on Dec. 6, but the boy died after 6 1/2 hours.

Kantrowitz said the operation lasted into its ninth hour because of the difficulties presented by the small heart of the donor. At present, Block, a retired fireman, was being aided by a helper heart, a mechanical device, inserted into the new heart's pressure system.

The new heart, reportedly from Helen Krouch, 29, of Patterson, N.J., "just isn't large enough to maintain the circulation and therefore has to be assisted by the balloon pump," Kantrowitz said.

The fact of the small heart apparently caused a problem for the surgeons, but they decided to go ahead because the blood types of the two individuals matched "so perfectly" that the chances of natural rejection was less.

The body tends to reject foreign tissue and infections, a condition which has posed a problem for surgeons in previous heart transplant operations.

Both donor and recipient had AB-positive blood types, Kantrowitz said, calling it a "rare occurrence," a blood class in only 4 per cent of the population.

Kantrowitz said the woman donor had been suffering from a "rapidly expanding brain tumor." She died about noon, soon after she was transferred to Maimonides Hospital from a New Jersey hospital where she was a patient.

Kantrowitz said his team was using only hormone-type compounds to prevent Block's body from rejecting the heart. There are several drugs which can make the body more tolerant of foreign tissue. Most of the previous human heart transplant cases have been given Imuran, a cousin of drugs used in cancer therapy, X-rays and the hormone-type drugs to suppress the immune reaction.

Block retired from the New York City Fire Department with a disability in 1948 after being injured in the line of duty in 1945.

Rapid History of Transplants

NEW YORK (AP)—The flurry of dramatic history of human heart transplants:

Dec. 3, 1967, Cape Town, South Africa: Louis Washkansky, 53, received the heart of 25-year-old Denise Darvall, fatally injured in a traffic accident, in the pioneering operation performed by Dr. Christian N. Barnard and associates at Groote Schuur Hospital. Washkansky lived for 18 days, succumbing to an overwhelming attack of pneumonia.

Dec. 6, New York City: At Maimonides Hospital, Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz transplanted the heart of a two-day-old boy, dead from brain damage, into the chest of a boy 2 1/2 weeks old. The borrowed heart faltered and stopped 6 1/2 hours after the operation.

Jan. 2, 1968, Cape Town: Dr. Barnard gave to Dr. Philip Blainberg, a 58-year-old dentist the heart of Clive Haupt, 24, a factory worker dead from a brain hemorrhage. Blainberg is reported in excellent condition.

Jan. 6, Palo Alto, Calif.: Dr. Norman E. Shumway and associates at Stanford University School of Medicine transplanted the heart of Virginia White, 43, dead from a stroke, into Mike Kasperak, 54, a retired steel worker whose heart was failing. Afflicted by liver disease as well, Kasperak is still listed in critical condition, but with his condition slightly improved Tuesday.

Jan. 9, New York: Dr. Kantrowitz performs his second human heart operation to replace an ailing heart with a healthy one.

Last Surveyor Reaches Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)— The seventh and last of the amazingly successful Surveyor space craft landed gently Thursday in the most rugged area yet visited in the U.S. moon exploration program.

Moments after the 5:05 p.m. PST touchdown the three-legged little scout, carrying a camera and soil sampling instruments on the series' first exclusively scientific mission, radioed that all was well.

Pictures of a crater-pocked highlands area near the south-central edge of the lunar disk were expected within an hour.

Flight controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory cheered jubilantly at word that the craft had found a safe landing spot on the boulder-strewn shoulders of the 15,000-foot-high crater.

The "Lucky 7th" is the final unmanned U.S. moon visitor. Earlier Surveyors have found four safe equatorial sites for astronaut landings expected to start next year.

Surveyor 7, launched Sunday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., ended its quarter-million-mile voyage by firing braking rockets 50 miles above the lunar surface. These slowed its 6,000-mile-an-hour plunge to 3 m.p.h. 13 feet above the surface and it settled gently on its shock-absorbing legs.

39,000 Asked

For March Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon called today for 39,000 men to be drafted in March, the highest military manpower request in 17 months.

The March request, placed with the Selective Service System, is the highest since October 1966 when the Pentagon sought 49,200 inductees.

Other draft quotas this year include January's 34,000 and February's 23,300.

Monthly draft calls are based on planned increases in the military system and varying replacements needs.

The Pentagon said the March draft quota "supports currently approved force levels and will assure a timely flow of replacements for men completing their terms of service."

The March inductees will go into the Army as they have for the past 23 months.

Timber Shipments to Japan May Initiate Court Action

WASHINGTON (AP)— The lumber industry and union leaders threatened Tuesday to go to federal court if the government won't agree to halt vast shipments of raw timber from U.S.-owned lands to Japan.

Japanese buyers have bid timber prices up double and already put 27 U.S. sawmills out of business and wiped out more than 4,000 American jobs, said the National Forest Products Association and the AFL-CIO Carpenters Union.

"I think we're going to come up with some ghost towns out there," said the carpenter's treasurer, Peter Terzick, of the sawmill closings in Washington and Oregon.

Both Terzick and Mortimer B. Doyle, executive vice president of the Forest Products Association, said at a news conference they believe the annual sales to Japan of some 600 million board feet of timber from U.S. lands is illegal.

Union and industry leaders have talked with White House, State Department, Treasury Department and U.S. forestry officials, but Terzick said they have received little more than lip service so far.

Illinois Central Investigated

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Interstate Commerce Commission on Tuesday ordered an investigation into a proposal by the Illinois Central Railroad to discontinue eight passenger trains, including its Green Diamond between Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis.

The ICC, in ordering the investigation, told the railroad it must continue operation the trains up to four months beyond the Jan. 20 date it had sought to end the service.

The commission also will hold public hearings, but it set no dates.

Besides the Green Diamond, the other trains affected, all operating between St. Louis and Carbondale, Ill., are Nos. 15, 16, 101, 102, 105, 152.

Synthetic Meats Discussed

Swine Day Sessions Set For February 9

The prospective impact of synthetic meat products on the pork industry will be among discussion topics at SIU's eleventh annual Swine Day program on Feb. 9, according to Prof. Joseph E. Burnside, program chairman.

Robert L. Hendrickson, professor of animal science at Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, will report on the characteristics of synthetic meat, its possible appeal to consumers, and the swine producers' answers to this new source of competition for pork.

The Swine Day program also will include reports on pork production operations in the Southwest; an illustrated survey of the latest trends in swine housing, feeding and production systems in various parts of the nation, and the relation of modern production practices and stress conditions on pork quality and certain kinds of hog losses. T. Eucl Liner, manager of Lubbock (Texas) Swine Breeders, Inc., will discuss some of the problems and possibilities for pork production in the Southwest as compared to the hog producing industry of the midwest cornbelt.

Current and prospective future swine production systems for successful small and large operations will be discussed by Alan J. Oppedal, editor of Hog Farm Management magazine. He will include illustrated reports on pig and sow housing, feeding, and manure disposal systems for low-cost, efficient production.

The relation of pork quality and certain death losses to modern swine production practices and related stress conditions will be discussed by Prof. Ernie J. Briskey, University of Wisconsin department of meat and animal science.

Swine Day sessions will be in Muckelroy Auditorium of the SIU Agriculture Building, beginning with an 8:30 to 9:45 a.m. registration period.

Kang, who received his doctorate from Northwestern University, joined the SIU faculty last September. He taught at the University of Massachusetts before coming to SIU.

Confusion To End

Legislature Enacts Voting Law

By Phillip Reynolds

A new law enacted recently by the Illinois Legislature requires all municipalities with a population over 500 to register voters preceding all elections—both local and national. Seemingly this law, if carried out, will do away with scenes witnessed in Carbondale city elections which required each potential voter to bring a witness to the polling place to verify that he was a legitimate voter of Carbondale.

Carbondale, in some past elections, did not require that voters pre-register. But the voter did have to furnish proof that he was a resident of the city.

Now there will be no such contentions at the polling places since all legitimate voters will be given a voters card upon registration at the county clerk's office in Murphysboro, the county seat and voter registration headquarters for all future city, county and national elections.

Delmar Ward, Jackson County clerk and county registration officer, said "This new law of Illinois says no person shall be allowed to vote in any election unless he is registered for that election."

"The voting requirements will remain the same in that a person must be a resident of Illinois for one year, reside in the county for 90 days and live in the precinct for 30 days all prior to election time," said Ward.

Ward said that another change in voting procedures will ease the confusion in Carbondale.

"Carbondale used to be split up into different precincts for the city elections and the county and state elections," said Ward, a Murphysboro resident.

"But this past year 18 new precincts were drawn up to serve both the city and county elections."

Ward said this change should end the confusion of where a person should vote in each election.

SIU Education Program Assists Rehabilitation

By Rick Schwab

A little known phase of SIU's role in education is the job it does in rehabilitating convicts from Menard, Marion and Vienna prisons who are interested in furthering their schooling.

The program, started in 1956, has greatly aided prisoners' readjustment to society.

Robert Brooks, a lecturer at SIU's Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency, and Correction notes the tremendous backlog of tension and frustration in prisoners.

"They have been deprived of normal social communication, heterosexual relationships and liquor for years. And then in a matter of hours all of this is available to the men and some can't handle it."

Charles Helwig, the SIU college coordinator for Menard, Marion and Vienna prisons says, "I don't think any unit in the world would assimilate the men as fast as an academic unit. There's a much less severe social adjustment to make at a University."

Prison students must meet the same academic requirements as regular students.

SIU Diploma Among Articles Lost by Priest During Melee

An Irish Catholic missionary priest lost all his personal possessions during a native uprising in the back country of Nigeria last year. One item he prized was his master's degree diploma from SIU, and he wants it back.

Father John Ralph of the Order of St. Patrick, who has spent many years in Africa, was awarded a masters degree in journalism from SIU in June, 1966, after he was given special leave from his work especially for this purpose.

Talk on Munich

Vincent Cosentino, assistant professor of foreign languages, will speak to the German Club on "Munich and Bavaria" Thursday at 8 p.m. in the lounge of the Communications Building.

Menard applies to SIU for admission, he must be qualified.

If he is, Brooks makes an evaluation based on the Upon graduation he was reassigned to serve in the vicinity of Calabar, Nigeria.

During the internal strife there early last spring, Fr. Ralph and a number of other non-Africans were captured and held as prisoners. During that time his headquarters was looted.

Howard R. Long, chairman of the SIU Department of Journalism, recently received a letter from the priest who was released by his captors and now is in the city of Newton Forbes, Ireland.

In his letter to Long, Fr. Ralph explained what had happened, emphasized how much his SIU diploma meant to him and inquired if it would be possible to get a duplicate. Long assured him a new one would be forthcoming.

man's family, criminal history, psychological tests, and financial status.

The University makes an effort to conceal the man's prison records. Only four people on campus know the names of the men who have served prison sentences.

If a man in prison qualifies, the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation will pay his tuition, arrange for a $12 per quarter credit account at the bookstore and give him a weekly amount for basic maintenance.

Teachers have found that the key approach to teaching convicts is frankness. Teacher-student barriers often create a poor atmosphere among prisoners.

An obstacle to rehabilitation, according to Brooks, is the prison code which is very much in existence.

Brooks said, "Vocational and educational rehabilitation breaks up the prison code. If you can get men to adopt certain social attitudes, they are much less susceptible to convict leadership and the prison code."

Administrators of the program seem to feel that if one man's way of thinking has been changed, the program has been successful.

Supervisor to Discuss

Child Welfare Issues

Miss Aileen Neely, regional supervisor for the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, will speak at the meeting of the Social Work Club at 7:30 p.m. today.

The meeting will be in Room D of the University Center. Miss Neely's topic will be "Contemporary Issues in Child Welfare." All interested persons are invited to attend.

Coffee will be served and a short business meeting is scheduled after the talk.

 irin J. Hymel of New Orleans, Cherie LeFevre of Springfield, and Linda Sublett of Homewood.

BALLET INSTRUCTOR—Mrs. Jan Carpenter, member of the National Academy of Ballet, will take part in SIU's program of stressing dance as a performing art. More than 100 students are participating.

Dance Program Gets 2 Instructors

Dance as a performing art reached new proportions at SIU this year. Two new instructors, professionals, have joined the faculty and classes now total more than 100 students.

Classes in ballet, dance production and stage movement in addition to a dance workshop will be held during the winter term. A class in history and philosophy of the dance was held during the fall quarter.

Courses in dance have been offered for many years by the Department of Physical Education for women and students may submit a minor in this subject to accompany a degree major in other fields, according to Dorothy Davies, department chairman.

Now this department and the Department of Theater have joined to develop a strengthened program in the dance, both contemporary and classical, which hopefully will grow into a major center of dance as a performing art.

"Dance is a valuable asset for the actor," said Archibald McLeod, chairman of the Theater Department, "for it helps him point up his stage movements more effectively. Dance sequences increasingly are being incorporated into dramatic productions, and there is developing an ever closer collaboration between the performing arts to create 'total theater.'"

The two full-time faculty members who came in September to conduct the program—Mrs. Jan Carpenter and Winston Grant Gray—hold assistant professorships in both theater and physical education.

It is their aim to teach dance both to the performer and to the educator.

"A University is a natural home for the dance," Mrs. Carpenter said, "for in a university environment the student develops his mind while developing his body, he develops his cultural appreciations while developing his dance techniques."

Mrs. Carpenter, who received her ballet training from dancers of the Imperial Russian Ballet, has taught dance in the University of California extension program, in the School of Classical Ballet, Berkeley, Calif., and other theater and dance schools, including her own East Bay Civic Ballet Company.

She studied under Maria Baldina, Theodore Kosloff and Bronislava Nijinska, and, while dancing professionally, under Adolph Bolm, Mme. Nijinska, Leonide Massine, Michel Fokine and George Balanchine. She has also studied modern dance under Merce Cunningham, Janet Collins and Martha Graham.

Elected to the National Academy of Ballet as a master teacher and appointed an examiner, she has turned her interest to teaching since an injury terminated her stage career. Her academic training includes the B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of California, Berkeley.

Gray, a specialist in contemporary dance, firmly believes that teaching dance-theater has a double-barreled educational function—to seek out young people of exceptional talent and train them for professional careers, and also to give future teachers the fundamental techniques that will afford them a lively useful teaching resource.

"In fact," he said, "everybody should dance, for the sake of their physical and emotional well-being."

Gray has directed and choreographed nearly 100 dance productions and was the organizer of the first high school co-educational dance company in Colorado.

A graduate of Delta State College, Cleveland, Miss., he holds the master's degree from San Francisco State College and the Ph.D. from the University of Texas. He also has studied at the Perry-Mansfield School of Theater and Dance, the Modern Dance Center at Berkeley and in master classes with noted professionals.

HARD WORKOUT--Alan Bulow (top) seems to have the upper hand on Tim Topping during the workouts that wrestling coach Jim Wilkinson puts them through every day. The matmen open their home season tonight against Colorado State.

Season Opens for Matmen Against Unbeaten Colorado

A lack of experience in the lower weights and a key injury will plague coach Wilkerson's grapplers as they open their dual meet season at 7:30 tonight in the arena against Colorado State.

"We're strong in the higher weights but except for Steve Sarossy at 115, we lack experience in the 123 to 145 classes," said Wilkerson.

"We're going to be hard pressed to win this meet," he said. "We're still making the little mistakes, like not making the second move. That really hurts."

Colorado State goes into tonight's action with a 2-0 record in dual meet competition.

"The Colorado team is probably the second strongest team we'll face this season," added Wilkerson, "Oklahoma State is the strongest."

The visitors beat Michigan State, the defending NCAA champions, earlier in the year 20-19. The team also owns a 17-13 win over Northern Iowa.

"If we can hold them off throughout the lower and middle weights we have a good chance of winning," said Wilkerson.

The biggest question mark in the lineup is the 145 class. Bill VanNattan, who normally wrestles in that class, is out with an arm injury that has not responded to treatment.

His replacement will probably be Tim Topping, who normally wrestles at the 137 spot.

"What hurts is that Colorado is strong where we're weak," Wilkerson said. "Normally a team would rather match their strong points with the opposition."

Sarossy, a senior, is a fixture in the 115 class with Freshman Tom Stengren and Junior Richard Allen wrestling in the 123 and 130 spots respectively.

Al Murdock holds down the 137 class with Tom Duke wrestling 152. The rest of the lineup is composed of sophomore Julian Gabriel, 160; Al Lipper, a junior, 167; freshman Ben Cooper, 177; Junior Al Bulow, 191; and sophomore Rich Selover, heavyweight.

"Gabriel shows flashes of excellence," said Wilkerson.

"He's got good potential." Commenting on the season schedule, Wilkerson mentioned Moorehead State and the Missouri schools as offering the stiffest opposition.

"Moorehead has some of the best wrestlers in the state," he said. "They have a great deal of experience since most of last year's wrestlers will be returning." "The Missouri schools," Wilkerson added, "are not of national caliber, but will make for a stiff challenge."

The Salukis' next home match will be Thursday against Southwest Missouri State.

Top Matman Debuts Tonight

Ben Cooper is one Saluki grappler who will give the partisan SIU crowd something to cheer about tonight.

"He's undoubtedly the best wrestler on the team," said Coach Jim Wilkerson. "He's got everything you want in a wrestler: speed, balance, strength and desire."

Cooper, a sophomore from Decatur who wrestles in the 177 pound class, won the Illinois State High School Championship two years ago.

This year Cooper is off to a fast start winning a first in the Illinois Invitational, a second in the Midland Tournament, and a third in the Oklahoma Tournament.

With two years of eligibility ahead of him, Cooper may well become one of the finest wrestlers in SIU's history. "We hope for him to go all the way some day to the national NCAA championship," Wilkerson said.

Comment Declined

Westcott Off Cage Team

By George Knemeyer

Jay Westcott, a 6'-4" senior from Belleville has been dropped from the SIU basketball squad.

Both Coach Jack Hartman and Westcott declined to comment on why Westcott was dropped, Hartman saying "I don't want this to be blown out of proportion as the situation with the St. Louis football Cardinals was."

Hartman made his remarks after the Oglethorpe game Monday night. Westcott was called at his residence Tuesday afternoon. He declined comment on why he was dropped.

Westcott had been averaging 5.5 points per game from his reserve forward spot and was the fifth leading scorer on the team.

Hartman had other comments after the Oglethorpe game, and they were of a more joyful vein.

"All things considered, I think it was the best game we've played this year," Hartman said. "We shot pretty well, and after making some adjustments during the second half, our defense was looking good."

The adjustment Hartman was referring to helped stop the outside shooting the Stormy Petrels had shown in the first half.

"We were playing the Oglethorpe guards too deep," Hartman pointed out. "During the second half, we brought our guards out a little farther on the floor to play them closer."

The defense for the Oglethorpe game was different from the strong man-to-man that marked last year's team. The zone worked, as the Petrels were held to a shooting percentage of 37.7 during the game and 31 per cent the second half.

"We may try to use the zone from time to time," Hartman said, "depending on the team we're playing."

Although Hartman used but five players until Bobby Jackson fouled out with three seconds left, Hartman said, that he did not plan it that way, "that was just the way it worked out."

Dick Garrett, who scored 26 points against Oglethorpe, continues to be a demon at the free throw line. He sank eight of nine during the game to put his season total at 37 for 43, which should keep him among the top 15 free throw shooters in the nation. He had been ranked 13th going into the new year.

NECESSARY ADJUSTMENTS—Fred Dennis (left) helps gymnastics coach Bill Meade make adjustments before Dennis works out on the high bar. Also helping is Yuki Usuki.

Gymnasts Meet Iowa State

The SIU men's gymnastic team is hoping to start the new year out right when it takes on the Iowa State University Hawkeyes Saturday at Ames, Iowa.

This will be the first dual meet competition for the Salukis since their 189.15 to 182.90 victory over the University of Illinois on Dec. 16.

In the Illinois meet, the Salukis took four firsts and Coach Bill Meade undoubtedly would like to improve on that. The firsts were in floor exercise, still rings, trampoline and high bars.

The Salukis also chalked up three second place finishes in the long horse, parallel bars and high bar.

Leading the way for the Salukis will be Fred Dennis on still rings, Gene Kelber in floor exercise, Dale Hardt on trampoline and Pete Hemmerling and Dennis on the high bar. With the exception of Dennis on high bar, all captured firsts in their events at Illinois.

Rounding out the SIU lineup will be Paul Mayer in floor exercise, side horse and long horse; Hemmerling also in floor exercise and long horse; Dennis also on side horse and high bar; Wayne Borkowski on still rings, and Hardt on long horse.

Sports Ruling Promised Soon

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Kheel, chairman of the special Senate Arbitration Board, promised Tuesday that a decision will be made shortly on the long-simmering AAU-NCAA sports control dispute.

"You can say that our finding will be handed down before the first track meet at Madison Square Garden Feb. 9," the New York attorney and widely known labor negotiator, said. "We expect the principals to be morally bound to abide by the decision."

Sparks in the bitter war over control of the nation's amateur sports flew again this week at the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Marcus Plant of the University of Michigan, NCAA president, said he was distressed over the repeated violations of a moratorium by the AAU and added: "The arbitration proceedings are not making much progress." The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley, president of the U. S. Track and Field Federation which is challenging the AAU's right to run the sport in this country, said his group would go to court if the AAU suspended any athletes competing in the Feb. 9 meet.

The Feb. 9 event is the Madison Square Garden Invitational, conducted by the USTFF, and drawing many of the top Olympic hopefuls. If nonstudents compete, as is expected, the AAU demands AAU certification.

Senate Expects to OK Athletic Study

By David Palermo

The Student Senate tonight is expected to endorse the report issued by the Study Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics.

A three-man committee headed by Steve Antonacci, west side dorm senator, met Tuesday and found the report "thoroughly investigative and comprehensive."

"It's expected to gain swift approval by the senate," said Antonacci.

The biggest area of discussion in the meeting Tuesday was the abolishment of the work schedule for athletics.

"It's almost impossible for an athlete to work, study and participate in sports at the same time," said Antonacci.

In solving the situation the committee recommended the proposal included in the report providing for 270 NCAA scholarships, 30 would be awarded to basketball and 105 to football. The remainder would be distributed among the minor sports.

The alternate proposal included in the report called for 120 NCAA scholarships and 150 work scholarships. The distribution of these scholarships would leave only 10 NCAA scholarships for the minor sports.

In either proposal $63,000 in funds would need to be appropriated. The funds for the scholarships would stem from an increase in the activity fee of $3.50.

Also endorsed by the committee was the report's recommendation of an increase in the coaches' salaries of $50,000 and a $9,000 increase in travel expenses. The travel money endorsement was strongly urged by the committee to relieve the strain caused in scheduling distant competition.

Because of the increase of students participating in the physical education program, intramural program, and health education program, a School of Health, Physical Education and Athletics was also recommended. This would satisfy the necessity to bring the various fragmental departments into a single school.

Membership in an athletic conference was also urged along with the construction of a new football stadium.

The Senate Committee further encouraged the possibility of including soccer as an intercollegiate sport. Much interest has been shown in the sport, according to the committee, and funds should be appropriated to finance it.

The discontinuance of the Dean's tuition award program to particularly qualified athletics was also urged. Any athlete not receiving an NCAA or work scholarship would be eligible for a Dean's Tuition Award, however. Also recommended by the committee was:

- 1) A field house for athletic facilities.
- 2) The provision for a football and soccer stadium.
- 3) A track and field facility separate from the football complex.
- 4) The installation of bleacher seats and lights for the baseball field.

The Senate Committee also encouraged the development of a grant-in-aid program of intercollegiate athletics on the Edwardsville campus.

This includes the establishment of a student activity fee budget, the formation of an Intercollegiate Committee, a separate School of Health Education, Physical Education and athletics and the construction of a field house.

Tennis coach John LeFevre was also present at the meeting and encouraged the building of an olympic size swimming pool. He added that this was the area that offers the most urgent need.

Representing Athletic Director Donald Boyston, who was attending a meeting in Edwardsville, LeFevre said, "We'd like to establish competition at a consistent level." "We don't really know to what level the University will offer its support. We hope it will be at a better level than at present," he added.

Explosive Wesleyan Duo To Lead SIU Opposition

When they refer to TNT at Kentucky Wesleyan, they aren't talking about the fuse-burning type of explosives. They're referring to the human dynamite of the Panthers—Thornton 'n' Tinsley.

Dallas Thornton and George Tinsley are combining to lead the Panthers on the trail back to the NCAA small college crown they held two years ago.

Kentucky Wesleyan, which meets SIU Thursday in Owensboro, Ky., sports a 7-2 record and Thornton and Tinsley have been carrying the brunt of the load.

Thornton is one of the best players in Panther history. He ranks third on the all-time scoring list at Wesleyan and will become the second all-time scorer by the end of the season.

He has impressive credentials to back up the claim of many Wesleyan fans that he should cinch All-American status this year.

He is currently averaging 16 points and 8.8 rebounds per game. One of the many abilities of Thornton is that he has the knack of taking a guard under the basket and scoring.

In the past three years as a member of the Panther varsity, Thornton has been named Most Valuable Player twice (his freshman and junior years) and last year was a member of the All-Tournament team in the NCAA finals.

In his first three varsity seasons, Thornton averaged 16.4 points and eight rebounds per game.

All these credentials make Thornton an impressive opponent for the Salukis, but the man who steals the thunder from the 6'4" forward-guard this year is Tinsley, currently averaging 19.6 points and 11.1 rebounds per game.

Last year Tinsley improved greatly over his freshman year. He jumped from 9.2 to 14.8 points per game and helped lead Wesleyan to third place in the NCAA College Division playoffs and a 25-4 record.

He has been Panther's leading scorer in five out of nine games and the leading rebounder in four.

His size (6'5") and weight (202) help contribute to his rebounding strength at his forward position.

TWO FOR DALLAS—Dallas Thornton, shown driving in for a layup against Central State of Ohio, is one of "TNT" players for the Kentucky Wesleyan cagers. The Panthers meet SIU Thursday night.
