Snow routes plan to aid in clearing congested streets

By Steve Lambert
Staff Writer

Sixteen-inch snowfalls may be more bearable in the future.

One week after the area's worst snow storm in 60 years, the Carbondale City Council Monday night heard a proposal designed to clear heavily congested snow routes along city streets.

The proposal will be formally acted on Feb. 6.

In a memorandum to the council, City Manager Carroll Fry said snow clearing operations by city workers were greatly hampered by "the large number of vehicles left on the streets—in some cases virtually abandoned."

Under the proposal, the city would designate various city streets as either "Snow Emergency Routes" or "Snow Routes."

If a major winter storm occurred, the city manager could declare a snow emergency at least six hours before snow clearing operations.

A cardboard sign would be posted on the snow emergency routes stating when operations would begin. Vehicles which aren't removed by the time clearing operations begin would be towed.

After the first eight hours are allocated to clearing snow emergency routes, snow routes would then be cleared using the same six-hour notice procedure.

The ordinance lists 18 emergency snow routes and 24 secondary snow routes.

Among the most widely traveled emergency routes are Grand Avenue, between Illinois Avenue and Grant City Blacktop; Mill Street, between Oakland and Illinois avenues; and Wall Street, between Fisher and Pleasant Hill roads.

Permanent signs should be posted at all snow emergency routes by July.

"Personally, I feel that the city's street department did a terrific job in handling the snow," Fry said.

Cooks endure bad weather to ensure diners' pleasure

By Lori Amend
Staff Writer

While many people received some unexpected time off last week because of the snow, almost half the cooks at the on-campus dormitory cafeterias slept over night to ensure that meals would be prepared on time.

Seven to nine cooks and cook's assistants remained at the East Campus dorms from January 16 to 21, according to Arlene Courtney, assistant production manager of Trueblood Hall.

At Thompson Point six cooks remained throughout the week, a Lentz Hall food service worker said.

Several of the East Campus cooks stayed in a vacant apartment at the University Park area office, Courtney said. Other Grinnell Hall and Trueblood Hall cooks stayed with University Park staff members.

SIU was blanketed with more than 17 inches of snow last week, closing the university for two days.

Temporary housing rooms in the basement of Thompson Point's Baldwin Hall housed that area's cooks during the week, a cafeteria worker said.

The housing areas supplied the women with towels, washcloths and soap as well as bedding and nightclothes, Courtney said.

Some of the cooks had decided to remain overnight last Monday before it was suggested by Samuel Rinella, director of University housing, Courtney said.

"My problem was I couldn't get home," Courtney said, adding that if she did get home, she was afraid she wouldn't be able to return to work the next morning.

Gertie Craig, a cook at Trueblood who lives in Marion, said she decided to remain when she was unable to move her car Monday night.

Craig said she stayed Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights and worked from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Despite the extended hours, Craig said she didn't mind the work, saying it was a change of pace.

"As long as it was temporary, it was kind of fun," Craig said, adding she has stayed during bad weather in the past.

Rinella had high words of praise for the cooks who stayed and personnel who came to work despite the weather. "The school may close down, but it's imperative the students be housed and fed," he said.

Had the cooks been unable to get to work, Rinella said the menu at the dorms would have been limited and students and other personnel would have been asked to help prepare meals.

Compensation for the overtime put in by both civil service and student employees will be announced by the University in the near future, Rinella said.

Program cutback possible

Counseling group seeks local funds

By Jean Ness
Staff Writer

A group which provides youth and family services in Jackson County is campaigning for local funds this year to avert cutbacks in programs.

The Jackson County Youth Services Bureau, located in Murphysboro, has requested $10,000 from the Carbondale City Council to secure operational funds locally.

The Council will formally act on the matter Feb. 6.

Marc S. Cohen, program coordinator, said Monday that the bureau will apply for state and federal grants, but it faces a reduction in its programs if it loses any funding.

Almost 60 percent of the participants in the youth and family programs are from Carbondale.

Begin three years ago with funds from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC), the Youth Services Bureau was recently awarded a grant extension from ILEC.

However, the $24,206 award will expire June 30, and will not be renewed.

Youth Services Bureau, which supplies court help, counseling, big brother and big sister companionship for youth, a youth employment service and crisis intervention will need about $80,000 in 1978, Cohen said.

"We now have enough to operate for the first six months of the year," Cohen said, adding, "we are also looking for funds to cover the beginning of 1979 to allow for the fiscal year budgeting."

Cohen said although the funds are not earmarked, the $10,000 requested from the City Council would be used for services for youth and families of Carbondale.

Cohen said the program is relying on local communities to maintain programs for youth. "The local communities decide whether we sink or swim."

Cohen said, "it is imperative that we raise the bulk of our budget through local sources."

Transit plan to help handicapped get through snow

By William Cullen
Staff Writer

Handicapped students, faced with impassable streets and sidewalks, may receive help getting around campus under a transit program being organized.

Ron Blosser, coordinator of Specialized Student Services, said his office is trying to organize a volunteer service during the bad weather to assist students with physical handicaps.

Southern Illinois was hit with 17 inches of snow last week, closing the University two days, snarling traffic and forcing businesses to shut down.

"The problems these students have been having this past week are pretty obvious," Blosser said. "They need help getting to and from campus."

Blosser said students interested in volunteering should contact his office in Woody Hall Wing B.

For those students with physical handicaps, the problems stemming from the snow were multiplied during the snowfall.

Some University transit vans were unable to lower their lifts in front of many buildings because of snow pushed against curbs.

Mary Shultz, 22, of 511 S. Rawlings, took the transit van to find the ramps and sidewalks were snowpacked.

"The teachers are pretty understanding, though, and I can make it up if I try hard," she said.

A.W. Blass, director of the Physical Plant said some services were temporarily discontinued in order to concentrate on the clean-up.

"So far we've concentrated on the parking lots and roads so faculty and students can get around campus," Blass said.

"All the parking lots are clear or at least clearer. We've pushed the snow up in big piles, but there isn't much else we can do with it unless people want to cart it away in their cars."

Blass said clean-up crews will also work over the weekend because of the difficulty caused by student traffic on campus.

"We'll be working Saturday to try to open more ramps and sidewalks for the handicapped students," he said.

For Phil Macak, sophomore in computer science who is confined to a wheelchair, nothing short of a week-long heat wave will help.

"I can handle two inches of snow without any problems at all" Macak said. "Anything over that and it's hard to get through. It accumulates under the wheelchair battery and every so often I have to stop and clear it off."

"It's almost too late to worry about the sidewalks because they're almost all ice," Macak added. "Ice creates potholes that we can't get our wheelchairs out of. It's like a car digging itself in the snow and spinning the wheels."

Hit-and-run trial begins for NIU president

GENEVA, Ill. (AP) - Richard Nelson, president of Northern Illinois University, went on trial Monday on charges stemming from the hit-and-run accident in which a 24-year-old woman was injured. Nelson is charged with leaving the scene of an accident, failing to report an accident and driving without a valid license. Because of publicity surrounding the case, the trial was moved from DeKalb County to Kane County. Defense attorneys acknowledged in their opening statement that at the time of the accident, Nelson did not have a valid driver's license but they said he was not driving the car involved which struck the woman.

Gunman kidnap wealthy Belgian nobleman

PARIS (AP) - Masked gunmen ambushed an automobile carrying Baron Edouard-Jean Empain in central Paris Monday and abducted the Belgian nobleman, who is one of Europe's richest industrialists and heads a giant conglomerate with interests in the United States. Hours after the late-morning abduction, the 40-year-old baron's family still had not received a ransom demand, authorities said. There was no firm clue to whether he was kidnapped for money or for political motives. The gunmen used two trucks and a motorbike to close in on the industrialist's car just outside his apartment building near the Arc de Triomphe.

Begin claims Egypt reneged on pledge

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israel on Monday countered Egypt's charge that Israelis sabotaged Jerusalem peace talks with a claim that Cairo reneged on a Sinai demilitarization pledge. Prime Minister Menachem Begin said stalled negotiations can resume when Cairo softens what he called its strident anti-Semitic tone. Begin, defending his policy in a speech to the Israeli Parliament, accused Egypt of creating an atmosphere in which negotiations were impossible. He said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat reneged on a pledge he made during his historic visit to Jerusalem last November that Egyptian troops would not cross the natural spine which runs along the western edge of the Sinai Peninsula. Begin insisted the Jerusalem talks were making progress when Sadat recalled his foreign minister.

Church report recommends ordainment of homosexuals

By George W. Cornell
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The United Presbyterian Church was thrown into the forefront of the battle over ordination of acknowledged homosexuals on Monday after a committee report recommended that they be accepted.

But there were indications that a majority of the denomination's 2.6 million members strongly oppose such a position, making its adoption highly questionable.

The issue has flared widely in various denominations recently, along with the open drive by homosexuals against discrimination in society in general as well as in church life.

The recommendation, by a majority of a 19-member United Presbyterian task force on the issue projects the Protestant body into a showdown test over it.

That will come at the church's governing general assembly in May in San Diego, with prospects for sharp conflict.

However, a recent national sampling of opinion in the church found that a heavy majority — 71 percent of members and 68 percent of pastors — would regard it as improper to ordain a homosexual.

An even larger majority — 80 percent of members and 73 percent of pastors — indicate they would not accept such a person as their pastor.

However, the task force majority — 14 of 19 members — asked the church to adopt a policy that a homosexual may be ordained "if the person manifests such gifts as are required for ordination."

But the other five members, in a minority report, asked the church to declare that "our present understanding of God's will for his people precludes the ordination of avowed, practicing homosexuals."

The task force, chaired by Virginia Davidson, a Rochester, N.Y., lay woman, includes Biblical scholars, theologians and specialists in counseling, medicine and the social sciences.

The issue grew out of a query posed by the New York City presbytery, the local church governing unit, asking the national assembly to rule in 1976 whether an acknowledged homosexual, otherwise qualified, could be ordained.

That assembly held that such an ordination "would at the present time be injudicious if not improper," but set up the special task force to provide more light on the question.

In effect, the task force majority said decisions about ordination should be left where they always have been — with local congregations.

Striking farmers won't bend; seek support from Thompson

By Ron Koehler
Staff Writer

Striking Southern Illinois farmers continue to pressure legislators to raise farm prices as they plan to meet Tuesday with both the Senate Agriculture Committee in Washington and Gov. James Thompson in Springfield.

Ron Goddard, spokesman for American Agriculture at the group's state office in Mount Pleasant, said farmers have been encouraged by the sympathetic response received from lawmakers, but they won't be sold short by compromise.

"Something has to be done," Goddard said. "We won't accept the proposals offering more subsidies or higher target prices."

Goddard said P.L. Parr of Anna will meet with Thompson Tuesday afternoon to "try to get him behind this movement 100 percent."

He said that Roger Menees, Illinois spokesman for American Agriculture, had remained in Washington to meet with legislators and the Senate Agriculture Committee Tuesday.

"We need all the support of state legislators we can get," Goddard said. He said the group has scheduled meetings with state representatives Paul Findley, R-Pittsfield, and Edward Madigan, R-Lincoln.

"We have to get these people to understand that we don't want handouts from the taxpayers in the form of increased subsidies. We want the consumers and taxpayers behind us in this drive to ensure higher agricultural prices," Goddard said.

Goddard said that in addition to the meetings with state legislators, the group plans to hold meetings in Vandalia and Bedford to further enlist the support of Southern Illinois farmers.

Illinois members of American Agriculture last Wednesday joined thousands of farmers in Washington D.C. to present legislators with a five-point plan aimed at higher agricultural product prices and better representation on farm bills.

The keynote of the farmer's proposals is the demand for 100 percent parity for all farm products. Parity is a measure of purchasing power which would theoretically give the farmers the same return for their products that they received during the years between 1910 and 1914, when the government first reviewed agriculture prices.

Sheriff's seat remains only opposed primary race

By Bruce Redman
Staff Writer

The Republican nomination for Jackson County sheriff will be the only contested race as unopposed incumbents dominate the ballot in this year's county primary election.

Four Republicans filed for the sheriff's nomination. They are Warren Grammer of Route 1, Murphysboro; William Maurizio of Route 4, Carbondale; Vernon L. Bagley of Dowell; and John Hoffman of Route 1, Murphysboro.

Republicans were unable to get a full slate, as no one filed for treasurer or four of the seven Jackson County Board nominations.

County Clerk Robert Harrell, Treasurer Shirley Booker and Sheriff Don White all filed for new terms on the Democratic side.

Muriel Canfield of Carbondale filed for the Republican county clerk nomination.

Democrats filed for each of the seven county board seats up for election, while Republicans filed in only three districts.

Democrats who filed are: Tross Pierson of Vergennes, District 1; Bruce Petersen of Route 1, Carbondale, District 2; Eugene Chambers of Murphysboro, District 3; Walter Robinson of Carbondale, District 4; Sharon Kowalzik of Carbondale, District 5; Mae A. Nelson of Carbondale, District 6; and Lloyd M. Haims of Carbondale, District 7.

Pierson, Chambers, Robinson, Kowalzik and Nelson are incumbents. Mary Nell Chew of Carbondale, the only Republican on the 14-member board, filed for re-election in District 7.

Larry W. Lipe and Roy L. Clark, both of Carbondale, filed for the Republican county board nomination in Districts 2 and 4, respectively.

Reginald "Bo" Stearns of Pomona, a District 2 board member, did not file for a new term. Stearns, who was County Board chairman from 1974 to 1976, has served on the Board for 27 years.

The primary election will be held March 21.

Babysitters balk at licensing law

MILFORD (AP)—Several women have quit babysitting in their homes rather than obtain a home care license required under state law and state officials say they are puzzled.

About 10 women, who were babysitting for working mothers in this Iroquois County community of 1,600, were told to obtain the licenses or go out of business. Most chose the latter and as a result some working mothers have lost their jobs because of a lack of sitters.

"We've not run into another situation where there are unlicensed day care homes with such resistance to licensing," said Pat Bennett of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, the agency which handles the licensing.

One of those who quit babysitting rather than apply for a license was Elizabeth Dawson, who had cared for children in her home for nine years. She said she objected to what she called the state's interference.

June Foster, licensing coordinator for a nine-county area that includes Milford, said a complaint from someone in that town prompted the letters.

There are two fully licensed home care centers in Milford now, and three other people have applied for licenses, the agency reports.

Gloria Mann, who planned to quit rather than seek a license, said she changed her mind and got a temporary permit because several working mothers asked her to continue to babysit so they could work.

"Several women have lost their jobs already because they could not get a babysitter," she said.

To qualify for a license, she said she would have to have physical examinations for herself, her husband and five children at home.

State inspections and character references also are required before a license is issued, officials said.

There is no charge for a license and if there are no complaints, there is just one inspection a year.

"There seems to be quite a bit of misunderstanding," said Foster. "There's no way we have time to harass anyone."

She joined other state officials at a public hearing in Milford Thursday night. About 20 residents attended.

Debbie Scholes, who moved to Milford three years ago, was at the meeting. She received a state license three weeks ago and said it was not difficult.

"The lady came in and checked my cabinets" to be sure medicine and poisons would be out of children's reach, she said.

All she had to do was buy a fire extinguisher for the kitchen, Scholes said.

She said she now takes care of just one child in addition to her own two, but may add a couple of more.

"I've had 10 ladies call me this week," she said.

A licensed home care center may not have more than eight children, including the operator's children.

Grand Avenue repairs to force traffic rerouting

By Steve Lambert
Staff Writer

Driving near the Recreation Building could be treacherous even after the snow and ice thaws.

Construction on widening and resurfacing Grand Avenue in front of the building will continue as soon as the weather breaks, Bill Boyd, Carbondale public works director, said.

Although the road will not be closed immediately, Boyd said, the city plans to shut it off once construction becomes more involved—probably later this semester.

At that time, traffic will be rerouted to both Washington and State streets. Access to a parking lot across from the Recreation Building will be provided from the west.

The portion of Grand Avenue between Wall Street and U.S. 51 is being widened to four 12-foot lanes. It will then be resurfaced.

The construction, which began in late

December but has been delayed since earlier this month when increased snow and ice hampered workers, is being done by Evansville Cement Finishers, Inc. The Carbondale City Council had awarded the Evansville firm the construction contract in November.

Boyd said that although the firm was given a year from the time construction began to complete the project, he expects the work to be finished long before then. However, he could not offer any specific estimates.

A $430,000 grant the city received in September from the Economic Development Administration (EDA) will pay for the work.

Evansville Cement Finishers had bid $320,152 for the project. The difference between that bid and the grant money—more than $100,000—will be used to pay for improvements on the Grand Avenue railroad crossing, an engineers contract, sidewalk improvements along the road and administrative expenses.

Police program cuts crime

By John Jenkins
Staff Writer

Carbondale's house watch program has reduced the number of student residence hall burglaries over Christmas break, police lieutenant Jerry Reno said.

Although 17 burglaries were reported, about the same number as last year, Reno said it is definitely less than years before.

Reno said the large response to the house watch program put police in the residential areas more often. "The number of burglaries prevented by the program can't be determined," Reno added, "but I'm sure it was a factor."

Reno also said the improvement in the economy and the higher solution rate of crimes were also factors in the low rate.

"Students are a victim of their lifestyle," Reno said. They aren't upset when strange people come into parties, and sometimes they don't even know their neighbors, Reno commented.

The problem of detecting burglaries in Carbondale is compounded by the fact that students are always moving their belongings around and it's not uncommon to see students carrying stereos and televisions around town.

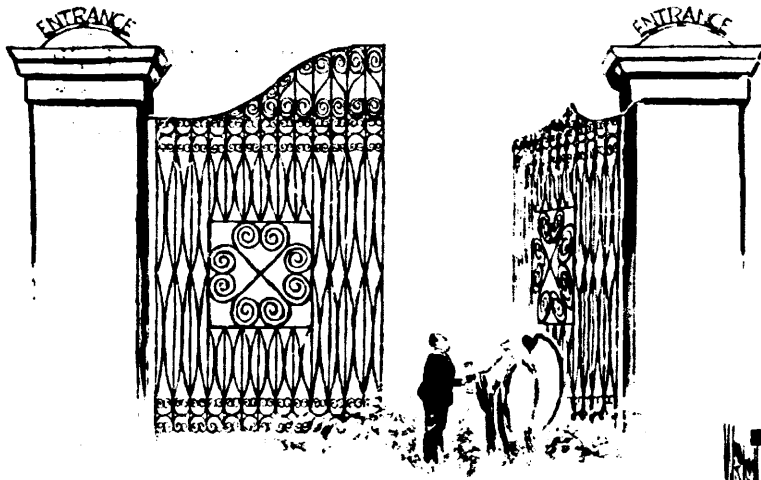

Because of this, the biggest risk of being burglarized comes during the day, Reno said.

Stereo equipment, typewriters, small televisions and portable radios are the items most often stolen, Reno said. These items are common in student homes and can be sold easily. Many of the items are sold back into the university community.

Most people that steal, exchanged the stolen property for money, drugs or something else they want, according to Reno. Very few people keep the items for their own use.

"Their participation helped," Reno said in reference to the students involved in the house watch program. "It was simply a matter of students becoming aware of a service and taking advantage of it," he added.

Mr. Humphrey: We should've listened to you

By Scott Ellis
Associate Editorial Page Editor

Hubert Humphrey was buried last week. All the praise and tribute heaped upon the Happy Warrior and his political career can't make me forget the dislike and sometimes downright hatred most of my relatives and friends felt toward Humphrey and his politics in 1968 and 1972.

Southern Illinois was never a hot-bed of support for HHH and I went to high school in Wayne County, one of the staunchest Republican counties in the area. If word ever got out that you supported that "pinko liberal" Humphrey, you were in danger of losing your credit at local banks and your children would be ostracized by their classmates as leftist wierdoes.

Fortunately, I was not a social outcast, because my father despised the "Hump." And some of Dad's dislike for Humphrey rubbed off on me, too. Dad, who backed Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964, certainly did not like Hubert H. Humphrey, the epitome of liberalsim.

Dad was always blasting Humphrey for his stand on civil rights. I don't know whether he meant all those nasty things he said; but Dad did support Wallace in 1968 and 1972.

My uncle hated Hubert even more than Dad did. "I tell you one thing," he often said. "I couldn't ever vote for that Humphrey. He don't know when to keep his damn mouth shut."

The college kids I knew did not like Humphrey either. As a supporter of the Vietnam War while he was Lyndon Johnson's veep, Humphrey was not a popular man with American youth in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

I disliked the man too, but for totally different reasons. An astute 12-year-old in 1968, I attacked Humphrey not on political issues, which I didn't really grasp at that time anyway, but on his physical appearance. Humphrey really did look like a "Hump." He was a balding fat man who talked too much. (Thinking this about Humphrey, I don't know how my grade school logic persuaded me to back Nixon. But I did.) I also wrote satirical comics while I was in grade school, and I dubbed Hubert "Honkhead Humphrey" or "Hubert Hunkfrey" when I wrote about him.

And America voted against Humphrey for the same reasons we kids hated him. If he was too honest and sincere for us kids to swallow, no wonder adults turned him down.

So Dad didn't like the "liberal" Humphrey, college students didn't like the "war hawk" Humphrey, and I just didn't like Fat Hubert the big mouth. With those three factors against him, there was no way Humphrey had a chance in Southern Illinois in 1968.

But after the "New Nixon" brought us the nightmare of Watergate, my political philosophy broadened considerably. In 1973, I decided that Tricky Dicky was indeed tricky and that maybe Humphrey wasn't such a bad guy after all.

During the past 10 days much has been said of Humphrey's incredible political achievements. His electrifying 1948 Democratic Convention speech calling for human rights and his championing of the 1964 Civil Rights Act are only a small measure of his accomplishments. But it took the disillusionment of Watergate for me to realize that I should have paid attention to what Humphrey had been saying.

Newsweek magazine has called Humphrey "One of America's might-have-been presidents, along with Henry Clay, William Jennings Bryan and Adlai Stevenson." But Newsweek was wrong. Humphrey was one of the great should-have-been presidents.

And although Hubert Horatio Humphrey was buried last week in his beloved Minnesota, his record as the most genuine liberal America has ever produced in the Senate, and his sincere efforts to bring human rights to all Americans stands unrivaled.

Hubert, you were right all along.

'Mr. Goodbar' squanders Keaton's talent

Have any of your readers recently had the costly misfortune of viewing the film, "Looking For Mr. Goodbar", now playing in Carbondale? Perhaps the film should be more aptly renamed: "Looking For Mr. Richard Brooks' Artful Purpose". All of the telltale elements of a successful usage of film as a medium are either missing or sorely abused in this flick. One looks for a masterful script, an inner causality of events (plot), a purposeful focus, a deft disclosure of acting ability and meaningful insights to no avail. One finds a pervasive incohesiveness of plot, the use of cheap effects, an atmosphere of unreality, and an ill-defined, poorly focused incorporation of violence. To top it all off, Brooks is guilty of squandering much of Diane Keaton's budding talent as an actress.

The American film industry appears to be reveling in an era of technical brilliance which disregards thematic considerations. When viewing this particular film, one wistfully wonders what one of the proven masters of film, such as Bergman, Bunuel, Hitchcock or Lan would have created, given the same thematic situation. The prime motivation of most contemporary American film makers, however, is one of profitable pragmatism. In other words, they are out to make a quick buck in the surest, most time-proven manner possible: through the dismembered inclusion of as much action, flash, sentimentality, sex, and violence as is patently possible. Brooks has followed suit well in this respect.

So why do moviegoers frequent such flicks? Many of them are probably misinformed when they enter the cinema. Sure, everyone catches a glimpse of the coming-to-a-theater-near-you-soon "teasers" compiled by the movie industry. However, concise and reliable critiques of new films—and I don't mean useless blurbs like "Keaton is brilliant, devastating, divine"—are usually unavailable to the consumer-moviegoer in either local movie theaters or newspapers. As a counterexample, European cinemas learned long ago to post such film critiques—if possible, both good and bad—alongside the normal billing every new movie gets.

In short, if you are looking for cinematic wizardry, avoid this film.

Weather kept ISU dance team from performing

On Dec. 7, 1977, the Illinois State University Coryphees (precision dance team) were scheduled to perform the halftime show for the basketball game between SIU and Illinois State. Because of dangerous travel conditions, we were advised by various departments of our university not to make the trip. Especially strong doubts were expressed by the Physical Plant, which releases fleet cars that we were to use that day.

As captains of the Coryphees, we were responsible for the final decision. Considering the factors mentioned above, and that many of the girls would be forced to miss scheduled final exams on Dec. 8 if we were unable to return that same night, we felt that we should not take any chances with the girls' safety or completion of the semester.

It was a very disappointing decision to make because we were looking forward to the event that we had planned for since September. We notified the appropriate persons at SIU as soon as it could be done.

We realize that in failing to make our halftime appearance, some inconvenience was caused. On behalf of the Coryphees, we would like to apologize to anyone who was inconvenienced by our inability to make the trip, and especially to Athletics Director Gale Sayers, who has been very understanding in the matter. We hope to be able to come to SIU in the future.

Raise voice, protest human rights violations in Iran

A letter in the Dec. 9 Daily Egyptian signed by Bahman Salamat tried to defend the Shah's repressive regime by stating that "two-thirds of all the people of the globe are deprived of Western-defined democracy." This is "senseless" if one talks about lack of democracy in Iran!

He then advises the critics of the Shah to "increase their knowledge" about the relations between the U.S. and Iran and the "recent developments in Iran."

But he is silent about the facts that the Shah was brought back to power by a CIA-engineered coup in 1953 which toppled the democratically-elected government of Dr. Mossadegh; that since 1970 more than 300 people have been executed by the government; that there are currently up to 100,000 political prisoners in Iran; that over 65 percent of the press was banned a few years ago...

As to the recent developments in Iran," at the time of the Shah's visit to the U.S., demonstrations broke out in Iran and the United States largely by students.

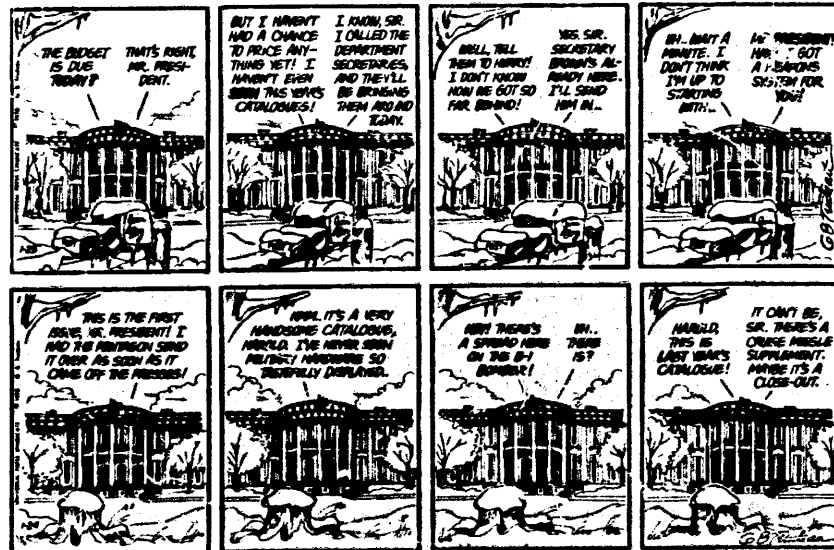

The Shah had to pay to bring his "supporters" to Washington to cheer him. Demonstrations in Iran broke out as the result of police attack on a Writers Association of Iran meeting on Nov. 15. In this new wave of attack and violence by the regime, at least 16 students have been killed; hundreds have been injured and imprisoned.

In light of the above-mentioned facts, I would like to urge all people who respect human rights to protest against this latest round of bloody repression in Iran, and raise their voices louder in support of the just demands of the general strike of students in Iran. Some of the demands are: 1. Implement the Iranian Constitution; 2. Free all political prisoners; 3. Abolish the one-party system and allow for freedom of political parties, religious associations and unions; and 4. Freedom of publication and the press.

Thanks, Vivarium staff for braving cold, snow to feed lab animals

During the past few days while most of us were home shoveling out and trying to stay warm, there were certain members of the University community that had to get out and come to work. These individuals are not the Physical Plant staff, snow removal crew or University Police, but rather persons who go relatively unnoticed.

I am referring to the Vivarium staff. Those of us doing research in the life sciences owe a debt of gratitude to the staff who braved the snow and cold to come in and care for and feed the laboratory animals that are so vital to our research efforts.

The Vivarium does not contain just rats and mice; there are a number of other animals that require complicated care and feeding. Dogs, rabbits, monkeys and others have to be fed and watered and their cages cleaned daily whether the weather is decent or not.

Again, I would like to show some appreciation to the staff for doing its job so well, especially when Mother Nature is not so cooperative.

Swimmers are thankful for home crowd support

This letter is in response to the overwhelming student and faculty support of athletics here at SIU and in particular, for the men's swimming team.

In past years we have traveled to many universities, but nowhere have we found such large crowds and as much enthusiasm as we have here at home. This is unusual for a minor sport and it has contributed greatly to the growth and improvement of the swimming program.

We would like to thank the spectators for their support and students and faculty for their help in running the meets.

We have two more dual meets at home—against Iowa at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 27 and against Illinois at 2 p.m. Jan. 28. Your support for these meets will be much needed and greatly appreciated. Iowa edged us earlier this year at the Illinois State Relays and Illinois has always been one of the SIU's biggest rivals.

We're fortunate and thankful for the great facility we have here and for the great support we've had from all of you throughout the years. Thanks again.

People help each other during snow storms

I've noticed quite a few people helping one another during the recent heavy snow Southern Illinois had. In a world where the supposed status quo is that everyone does everything for his or her own gain, a simple act like getting a car unstuck is like a breath of fresh air.

We want letters

Letters to the Editor are welcomed and writers may submit them by mail or in person to the Editorial Page Editor, Daily Egyptian, Room 1247, Communications Building.

In order to expedite printing of the letters, certain procedures and policies have been formulated:

1. Letters should be typewritten, double-spaced, and should not exceed 250 words. Letters exceeding 250 words will be edited with care to maintain the gist of the article.
2. Letters which the editors consider libelous or in poor taste will not be published.
3. All letters must be signed by the authors. Students must identify themselves by classification and major, faculty members by department and rank, nonacademic staff members by department and position.
4. Writers submitting letters by mail should include addresses and telephone numbers for verifications of authorship. Letters for which verification can not be made will not be published.

ELP, Koloc will provide diversity

By Dave Erickson
Entertainment Editor

Talk about variety, tickets go on sale Tuesday and Wednesday for two music acts that are about as divergent in approach as any idiom can contain.

Tickets go on sale at 8 a.m. Tuesday at the Student Center Ticket Office for Bonnie Koloc's Feb. 4 concert at Shryock. An Iowa native, Koloc has become well-known in the Midwest as part of the Chicago "folkie-mafia," which also includes John Prine and Steve Goodman.

On her current tour, Koloc is performing songs from an upcoming album, "Wild and Recluse," her sixth to date.

The title describes her well, as most of her time when she's not performing is spent in her rural home, once described by her at a concert in Rockford as being located "near a small town in a nearby Midwestern state." Koloc has always seemed to maintain a low-key approach toward performing, often touring sans band or with a minimal amount of accompaniment, letting her incredibly pure voice and kinky sense of humor do the entertaining.

Emerson, Lake and Palmer coming to town, on the other hand, is somewhat akin to last semester's Arena extravaganza presented by the brothers Ringling. Five semi-loads of equipment will grace a two-tiered stage.

Keith Emerson's current line-up of equipment includes a Yamaha GX-1 synthesizer, a custom-built Moog modular synthesizer, two Mimmoog synthesizers, a Hammond L-100.

Tickets for ELP go on sale at 8 a.m. Wednesday at the Arena's South Main Lobby Box Office, as people who have been camping out since Saturday know only too well.

Nuclear lab to get more

WASHINGTON (AP)—Funds for building a device to halve the power that the Fermi Laboratory's nuclear accelerator draws from its electrical system have been proposed by the Carter administration following a threat by the laboratory's director to resign unless more money becomes available.

The commitment of the administration to go forward with long delayed construction of the Energy Saver was stated in the fiscal 1979 federal budget. The exact amount earmarked for the project, which engineers say will save considerable voltage, was not spelled out. However, the total cost of the Energy Saver is estimated at $15 million.

The Department of Energy's proposed allotment for highenergy physics, under which the Fermi program would be funded, jumped an estimated $43.2 million from fiscal 1978 to fiscal 1979. The increase from fiscal 1977 to fiscal 1978 was an about $12.2 million.

Technically, the Energy Saver would cut in half the amount of electricity taken from the laboratory's power source and, using a system of magnets, double it so that the laboratory has available the same amount of money. This would save an estimated $3 million a year in energy costs.

Earlier this month, Dr. Robert Wilson, director of the Fermi Laboratory, located near Batavia, Ill., threatened to quit unless the administration pumped more money into the institution. Because of delays in getting the Energy Saver project rolling, he said, research had been delayed for months and top physicist had been lured away to the CERN laboratory

Inflation rose 6.8 percent during 1977

By Robert A. Dobbie
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Inflation clipped nearly 7 cents from every dollar in 1977, and President Carter said that only voluntary restraints by business and labor will slow price increases this year.

Year-end figures from the Labor Department show consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in December and brought the total increase for the year to 6.8 percent—2 percent more than in 1976.

The acceleration of inflation last year, although in line with administration forecasts, reflected higher food prices last winter.

But as the year drew to a close, consumer prices were rising at a more encouraging rate—a 4.6 percent annual rate in the first quarter.

In December, grocery prices rose only 0.1 percent.

The administration is expecting inflation to continue at a rate of between 6 percent and 7 percent in 1978, with the average family's food budget increasing 4 percent to 6 percent.

Carter's new anti-inflation program, outlined to Congress on Friday, is designed to get labor unions and businesses to accept smaller increases in wages and prices in order to reduce inflation by one-half percent a year.

The 6.8 percent jump in consumer prices during Carter's first year in office was up from 4.8 percent the previous year.

F-Senate to meet

The Faculty Senate is scheduled to meet at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

Among the items to be examined are the library proposal and undergraduate grading system revisions.

HELPFUL HEALTH SERVICE HINTS

There is a new appointment system at the SIU Health Service. You may call up 536-2391 beginning on a Monday morning at 7:30 and make an advanced appointment for that week. There are only a limited number of advance appointments (usually filled by Wednesday or Thursday), but you can still call at 7:30 A.M. each day of the week to get a daily appointment.

If you can't get a limited advance appointment you can be seen by the walk-in staff any time during regular Health Service hours. 8 A.M. to 5 P.M., Monday through Friday. The Walk-In clinic hours are from 8 A.M. - 4:45 P.M., Monday - Friday and 8 A.M. to 12:45 P.M. Saturday.

Doctor's appointments are made for every 15 minutes. Be on time. The schedule is tight. If you are five or ten minutes late there is a chance that you may not be seen by a doctor that day.

Why doesn't the Health Service offer something to help me stay healthy? It does. Prevention and Health Maintenance Programs can help you to lose weight, stop smoking, learn good nutrition, develop personal exercise program, deal with sexual concerns, and to examine your life-style as it affects your health and well being. For information about programs, call 536-7702 or stop by 112 Small Group Housing, Room 215.

If you have any questions about what kind of health benefits the Student Health Program has or if you need to submit a claim for payment, your questions can be answered by our Insurance Claims Officer by phone at 453-3311, extension 245, or in person at 112 Small Group Housing, Room 118. If you already are covered by some type of medical insurance, you may be entitled to a refund of a portion of your fee. If you think you qualify, you will need to apply within the first three weeks of each semester to our Insurance Claims Officer. Bring your paid fee statement and explanation of your benefits.

Dr. X's Medicaid pay cut off; caught working 34-hour day

CHICAGO (AP) — An unidentified psychiatrist billed the Illinois Department of Public Aid for working more than 24 hours a day 31 times during a six-month period, Comptroller Michael J. Bakalis said Monday.

Bakalis ordered Medicaid payments cut off to the psychiatrist, whom he identified only as Doctor X. Bakalis, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, also said auditors in his agency found seven other psychiatrists who used questionable Medicaid billing practices. They were not suspended, however.

Bakalis said Doctor X billed the department for up to 34 hours of work on a single day. He blamed the overpayments on the Public Aid department's policy of "paying now and checking later."

Under law, Bakalis may suspend payments for 120 days pending an investigation.

Gov. James R. Thompson said at a later news conference that the department will investigate all the cases submitted by Bakalis.

Thompson announced that a $3.7 million bid was accepted from Delphi Associates, a computer firm, to start up a new audit screening.

Deadlines changed due to bad weather

Deadline for class changes and applications for graduation have been extended because of weather last week.

For students who want to add a class or switch to a different section, the deadline is Tuesday. After that date, a dean's signature will be required.

The deadline to apply for graduation in May has been extended to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Sensors scheduled to graduate should fill out an application available in the Admissions and Records Office in Woody Hall, and pay the $10 application fee at the Bursar's Office.

The deadline was Friday, but was extended because of the weather.

Women gymnasts win meet thanks to Nelson, vaulters

By Steve Cooran Staff Writer

The women gymnastics team came up with its strongest showing of the season in the vaulting event Saturday, which helped boost the Salukis into first place in the Northwestern Invitational with a score of 139.45.

Cocher Herb Vogel now has seven of the eight members on the team attempting one and one-half back somersaults off their vaults, while most teams have only one vaulter capable of such high risk routines.

"We finally broke through in vaulting," Vogel said. "Now we know we can throw them and get ahead in most of our meets at that event."

Ellen Barrett won the vaulting event with a score of 8.6. The total dominance of the vaulting event by SIU was shown by the fact that out of eight teams competing in the meet, the top five finishers in the vaulting event all wore SIU uniforms. However, one of the SIU vaulters was not as fortunate as her teammates.

"Patty (Treit) sprained an ankle when she landed from her vault," Vogel said. "We don't yet know the extent of the injury. We did have some landing problems."

Indiana State placed second at the meet with a team score 131.45 while Western Illinois took third with 129.50. Mary Califf from Indiana State won the uneven bars event with a 8.75. But SIU's Linda Nelson, Chris Wuensch, Cindy Moran and Maureen Hennessey all tied for second with scores of 8.65.

"We have four people who are very close," Vogel said in evaluating his team's performance on the uneven bars. "And that is what we are trying to do."

The SIU gymnasts also dominated the all-around competition as Nelson captured first with a four-event score of 34.50, while Wuensch, (34.25) Moran, (33.95) and Hennessey (33.65) all performed admirably to take the second, thru and fourth spots.

"The girls had a very decent meet," Vogel said. "If they hadn't run into difficulty in floor exercise, we would have scored even higher."

The women's next meet is Tuesday at Michigan State.

Cagers rally to beat Creighton

By Bud Vandernick
Sports Editor

OMAHA, Neb.—It was a triumphant return.

The Salukis' 76-69 win over Creighton Saturday at the Omaha Pacific Auditorium was not as dramatic as their 81-77 NCAA tournament victory over Arizona last March in the same arena, but it might have been just as important as that memorable contest.

For the first time this season, the Salukis proved to themselves and their fans that they could beat a strong Missouri Valley opponent on the road. Gary Wilson, who paced SIU with 18 points and eight rebounds, was the player who did not underestimate the significance of the game.

"This win was bigger than Thursday night," (when SIU beat Indiana State, 79-76) because it came on the road," Wilson said. "We did the job today."

In earlier Valley road games at Indiana State and Bradley, the Salukis played well but could not hold on to second-half leads. The game was discontinued Saturday.

Creighton moved to a 53-50 lead with 11:46 left in the game on a layup by John C. Johnson, but the Bluejays then frustrated the 7,322 in attendance by going scoreless for the next four minutes. The Salukis capitalized on their opponents dry spell to score 10 straight points to take a 60-53 lead that was never relinquished.

SIU's character was tested when Creighton cut the margin to three points at 66-63 on a jumper by freshman Kevin McKenna with 3:20 remaining, but the Salukis answered the challenge by scoring five straight points, all on free throws, to safely tuck away their fourth straight conference win.

Coach Paul Lambert recognized the importance of the second half surge, but he thought his team's play in the first half was equally as important. Creighton held the lead throughout the first 20 minutes, but the Salukis managed to stay close and were down by only four points, 35-31 at the intermission. Lambert said the first half provided the emphasis for the second half comeback.

"We didn't have super first half, but we came back," he said. "It was important that we didn't let the game get away from us. I thought if we could keep it close we had a chance. We executed very well in the second half."

The key to a successful season for all young tennis is the length of time it takes to reach maturity. Wilson thinks the Salukis have reached this magical point in the season and is excited about the prospects for the rest of the year.

"We're young, but we're getting it together now," Wilson analyzed. "The fans need to have faith in us. I have confidence in all our players."

The Salukis stayed in a 3-2 zone defense for much of the game and although Johnson, the Blue Jays' lightning-quick guard, managed to score 27 points, the Salukis zone kept Creighton off the offensive boards in the second half.

The Saluki scoresheet was a thing of beauty to Lambert in that four starters reached double figures. In addition to Wilson's output, Wayne Abrams pumped in 17 points. Milt Huggins had 14 and Al Grant scored 12. Rick Apke, Creighton's All-America candidate who is the brother of Coach Tom Apke, scored 16 points, but the 6-8 sharpshooter made only eight of 18 field goal attempts.

The win improved SIU's Valley record to 4-4 and their overall mark to 9-6 going into Monday night's clash at Wichita State. Creighton, 9-4 overall, will take a 4-2 league record to Bradley Thursday night.

SIU will return to the Arena Thursday night to face West Texas State.

NADER'S NEW ONE
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Look out, sports moguls, here comes Ralph Nader. The consumer crusader is planning a nationwide organization of sports fans with enough clout to hold down ticket prices, improve food at the sports arenas, and give the consumer some kind of a voice in the operation of big league teams in all sports.

Nader's special assistant, writer-lawyer Peter Gruenstein, is helping Ralph research the project. "We think it's time somebody went out and challenged the owners."

Free-throw misses costly to women

By Joe Paschen
Student Writer

Defense may be the name of the game in college basketball, but if you can't get the ball through the net, you can't win the Saluki invitational.

This is the disappointing tale of women's basketball Coach Cindy Scott's Salukis, who failed offensively against a spirited University of Illinois-Chicago Circle team Saturday afternoon, losing 52-47, for the championship of the three-day tournament.

One might find this result hard to believe if one saw SIU defeat Purdue, 71-55, in second-round action at Davies Gym Friday afternoon. Maybe the change of scenery to the court in the Arena Saturday made a difference. Or maybe the site of solid maroon lanes surrounding each basket threw Scott's team off. Whatever the reason, the 100 hundred fans on hand for the contest saw the Salukis make a superb defensive effort against an extremely quick Chicago Circle team.

Both SIU (3-3) and the eventual champion (7-1) were impressive defensively throughout the tourney. SIU's zone defense put Circle's center, Lisa Thomas, in foul trouble early but she still managed to connect for 16 points.

"Watch their blonde forward," Coach Scott said before the game.

"She is their most solid player."

And watch they did—with binoculars. Toni Stachton finished with 12 points, most of which came from long range.

SIU was led by center Bonnie Foley. A junior out of Stratford, Conn., Foley finished with a game-high 18 points. Freshman Sue Faber chipped in with 13.

"We weren't making any easy shots," admitted Coach Scott. "We had the shots but they just wouldn't fall in."

Disappointed was SIU's "blonde bomber," Jen Hoffman. She put up her best shots early to see them bounce every way but in. The Hammond, Ind., junior was held to six points.

The Salukis were losing 23-21 at halftime, despite forcing Circle into numerous turnovers and fouls in the first half. But when the Salukis missed on 10 of 17 shots from the free-throw line in the half, it had to make Scott wonder where all that free-throw practice went to.

"I don't know. I really don't," Scott said. "We spend a lot of time practicing free throws. They just wouldn't fall in today."

SIU had the lead just once in the second half. Foley hit six straight points with just under six minutes left before that net shyness struck again.

Salukis win Wichita shocker, 66-59

WICHITA—The Salukis scored 10 straight points after trailing 57-52 to streak to a 66-59 Missouri Valley Conference (MVC) basketball victory over the Wichita Shockers at Henry Levitt Arena Monday night.

Five Salukis scored in double figures. Milton Huggins, and Barry Smith led the balanced Saluki attack with 16 points apiece.

Wayne Abrams and Gary Wilson added 12 points each, and freshman Charles Moore scored a career-high 10 points.

The Salukis played without starting center Al Grant, who broke his left middle finger on a slam dunk in the Creighton game. It is not known how long the 6-9 sophomore, who averages nine points and seven rebounds a game, will be out.

The Shockers' Charlie Brent scored 16 second half points to lead the losers. Shockers Steve Kalocinski added 11 points. Ray Shirley 12 points and Cheese Johnson 10 points.

Shirley was held to 4 points in the second half and Johnson just two, as the Saluki defense shut off the pair.

The win was the Salukis first at Wichita since 1968 when SIU won 58-51. The win improves the Salukis' MVC mark to 5-2, 10-6 overall.

The loss dropped the Shockers' record to 2-3 in the Valley, 6-8 overall. SIU shot 50 percent on 28 out of 56 field goal attempts. SIU, which hit seven free throws in the last five minutes, sank 10 of 17 free throws in the game.

The Shockers hit 26 of 67 field goals for a 39 percent clip. They hit seven of nine free throws. The Shockers outrebounded the Salukis, 43-35. Each team committed 14 turnovers.

The Salukis were trailing by five points with 4:40 remaining after Brent hit a 20-foot jumper.

Abrams scored on a three-point play to narrow the gap to two points. Huggins tied the game on a 20-footer, and Abrams gave the Salukis a lead on a tip-in with three minutes left.

After Kalocinski drew his fifth foul, Wilson scored on a 10-footer off glass for a four-point lead.

SIU stalled in a four-corners offense the last minute of the game and hit five free throws.

Brent's field goal with 38 seconds left broke the Shockers four-minute cold spell.

The Shockers, who were trailing by eight points at halftime, came back in the game with an aggressive full court man-to-man defense. The tempo of the game was in the Shockers favor until their cold spell in the last five minutes. SIU's sagging 3-2 zone defense shut down the Shockers inside game. Brent was the only Shocker who was successful hitting from outside as he connected for seven field goals.

Indiana swims by Salukis in NCAA time

By George Csolak
Staff Writer

The Indiana Hoosier swim team came off a weekend of rest and invaded the Recreation Building pool Monday and walked away with an 81-32 pasting of the Salukis.

The Hoosiers qualified eight swimmers and both relay teams for the NAAs. The Salukis' Greg Porter qualified in the 200-yard butterfly with a time of 1:50.6. He was the lone SIU swimmer to make the time cut.

Porter was the only Saluki to take first place in any event. He took second in the 200-yard individual medley with a 1:55.3. Others placing second in events for SIU were Pat Looby with a 21.8 in the 50 freestyle, Dan Griebel with a 46.6 in the 100 freestyle, Ral Rosario with a 1:55.1 in the 200 backstroke, David Parker in the 1000 freestyle with a time of 4:33.5 and Rick Theobald in both the 1-and 3-meter diving events.

Three Indiana swimmers swam the fastest times in the nation at the meet. Chuck Sharpe had a 1:38.4 in the 200 freestyle, Australian Mark Kerry posted a 1:49.2 in the 200 backstroke and Rick Hoffstetter set his mark in the 200 breaststroke with a 2:05. Those three times were NCAA standard cuts. Others who made NCAA cuts were Rick Thomas with a 1:52.6 200 individual medley, Chris Bredschneider with a standard cut time of 1:51.3 in the 200 butterfly, Sharpe again in the 100 freestyle with a 46.1, Djan Madruga in the 500 freestyle with a 4:29.4 and Marc Shatter with a 2:06.2 in the 200 breaststroke.

"Porter had a good meet," Coach Bob Steele said. "He had his season's best time in the 200 butterfly and his lifetime best in the 200 individual medley."

Steele added that Indiana was well-rested for the meet and said he knew that the Hoosiers were going to come in ready and shoot for NCAA standards. Indiana now has 14 who have qualified for NAAs as well as both the 400 freestyle and medley relay teams.

Various intramural activities to kick off semester

By Gerry Bliss
Student Writer

A variety of intramural activities are coming up to help kick off the spring semester.

WOMEN'S BOWLING

A Tuesday night women's bowling league, open to all female students with paid fee statements and faculty members with $20 use cards, is being organized.

The first 26 teams to enter are eligible to compete with rosters due by 5 p.m. Monday at the Recreation Building. Bowling will cost $1.50 per night with shoe rental costing 20 cents. Play begins Tuesday at the Student Center Lanes.

MINI-SOCCER

The deadline for team rosters for the men's indoor mini-soccer tournament is 5 p.m. Tuesday at the captain's meeting in Room 158 of the Rec Building. The tournament is open to all male students, faculty and staff. Play begins Jan. 25 at Pulliam Gym.

FREE THROW CONTEST

For those who feel they can match their free throw ability with a Rick Barry or a Calin Murphy, the intramural department is holding a men's and women's free throw contest open to all students, faculty and staff except for intercollegiate basketball players. Four rounds of 25 attempts will be held with the winner being the one who holds the most free throws out of 100.

The championship round for men will be held at halftime of the SIU-St. Louis home basketball game Feb. 8. The championship round for women will be held at halftime of the women's basketball game versus Eastern Illinois Feb. 17.

The deadline for entries is Jan. 27 with preliminary rounds beginning Feb. 1 for men and Feb. 9 for women.

SWIMMING-DIVING MEET

The intramural department is also sponsoring a men's and women's swimming and diving meet to be held Feb. 4 in the Rec Building pool. The meet is open to all students except current intercollegiate swimmers and divers. Faculty and staff are also eligible. Both team and individual events will be held in addition to co-rec relay team events. Feb. 3 is entry deadline.

PINGPONG TOURNEY

Feb. 1 is the entry deadline for the men's, women's and mixed intramural pingpong tournaments.

Entry forms can be obtained and returned at the Rec Building information desk. Questions can be answered by calling intramurals at 536-5631.

Conner, Sooners beat SIU gymnasts

By Steve Coaraz
Staff Writer

The University of Oklahoma opened up a 36.75-34.20 lead after one event and held on to defeat the SIU men's gymnastics team, 216.50-212.50, in the Arena Saturday night.

The meet opened with both teams competing in the floor exercise event and the Sooners jumped to an insurmountable lead. While the four top Sooners came up with routines of 8.9, 9.0, 9.4 and 9.45, the best Saluki performers could counter with were scores of 8.45, 8.45, 8.55 and 8.75.

"We lost probably about .8 of a point in floor exercise," said Saluki Coach Bill Meade. "We had a bad night but still managed to score 34 in the event."

One of the more pleasing sights of the evening for Meade was the crowd of around 400 that came to the meet despite the cold weather.

"I was extremely pleased with the crowd," he said. "I'd like to thank them all for coming. I want them all to come back and bring a friend for our next home meet." (7:30 p.m. Feb. 3 against Illinois State in the Arena)

As for the rest of the meet, the Salukis tried to play catch-up but couldn't against the Sooners who were NCAA co-champions with Indiana State last season.

The Salukis were able to outscore Oklahoma in but two of the five remaining events as the Sooners came up with their highest team score of the season. They were once again led by their sophomore all-around man, Bart Conner.

Conner, a two-time National High School All-Around Champion who has already competed in the World University Games and the Olympic Games in his brief career, came up with another of his outstanding performances.

In addition to winning the individual all-around title with a score of 53.20, Conner won the parallel bars event with a 9.6 routine, (the highest score at the meet) the high bar event with a 9.45 routine and came up with the highest scoring vault at the meet with a 9.4 performance.

Perhaps the best performer of the evening for SIU was all-around man Rick Adams.

The junior from Louisville, Ky. came up with his highest all-around score of the season, 54.7. He scored above nine points in five of the six events and was the highest scoring Saluki in the floor exercise, still rings and high bar events.

"I was very happy with Adams," Meade said. "He has scored 54 in the all-around in two straight meets."

The Salukis won the pommel horse event led by specialist Dave Schieble's 9.3 routine and also took the parallel bars competition with a team score of 36.25. The best of the SIU routines on the parallel bars were turned in by Kevin Muenz, (9.35) Dan Muenz (9.25) and Adams (9.2).

Other sparkling sets by SIU performers were on the high bar by Adams (9.25) and Warren Brantley (9.05) and in vaulting by Jeff Barlow (9.35), Adams (9.25) and Kevin Muenz (9.1).

"We made too many mistakes again," Meade said following the meet. "Our vaulting was a little better this time but we didn't have as good of a meet as we did against Brigham Young University."
