WINI lodges appeal over network bids

By Michael Monson
Staff Writer

Radio station WINI has filed an appeal with the University protesting the recent decision awarding the exclusive broadcasting rights for men's football and basketball games to the Saluki Sports Action Network.

Dale Adkins, WINI general manager, said the appeal centers around the allegation that the SSAN did not follow the bidding and procurement procedures specified by the University.

The appeal has been filed with Robert Gentry, SIU-C's chief business officer and vice president for financial affairs. According to the bidding procedures, the chief business officer must rule on any appeal.

The decision to award the exclusive broadcasting rights to the SSAN was made on June 25. The SSAN agreed to pay the University $30,000 over a contract period from July 1, 1980 to June 30, 1982. WINI was the only other bidder.

Gentry said he will attempt to rule on the appeal as soon as possible and no contract with the SSAN would be signed until a decision is reached.

"We'll try to do this as quickly as possible so our football team can have radio and television coverage this fall," he said. "We're negotiating with WINI right now about the procedures that will be used during the hearings."

Gentry, as a member of the president's staff, was a part of the selection committee which recommended picking the SSAN over WINI. Gentry sees no conflict of interest, however.

"I'd have no choice even if I did," Gentry said. "The regulations state I must decide on any appeal."

The final decision to award the contract was made by George Mace, vice president for university relations, who was unavailable for comment. Gentry refused to speculate whether he would reopen bidding if he rules in favor of WINI's appeal.

If WINI loses the appeal, Adkins said he intends to take the case to court. "We're going to exhaust all the legal remedies open to us," he said.

The basis for WINI's appeal

City receives OK to burn storm debris

By Mary Harmon
Staff Writer

Permission from the Environmental Protection Agency to allow the burning of storm-damaged tree and brush debris was received by the city Wednesday. The burning permit should speed up storm clean-up time and cut down clean-up costs but will alter plans for removing trees wounded by last week's storms. City Manager Carroll Fry announced the revision in the city's tree removal plans Wednesday morning. The revised plan will include provision for a wood yard, located at the Southeast Wastewater Treatment Plant, also known as the city farm.

Also Wednesday, Fry added about $200,000 to the official estimate of the financial toll last week's storm wreaked upon residential, business and public properties.

Fry said that a closer and longer analysis of damaged property caused the city to change its earlier estimate of $2,259,000 to $2,475,000.

Fry said that the most substantial increases were found in damages to residential and business properties. He said that property damages have now been estimated at $1,028,000 and that business damages have been set at

The revised estimates were submitted by the city's Code Enforcement Department and its forestry unit.

Fry said that the $355,000 estimate for damages to public property has remained about the same as when first tabulated.

Fry said that the total damage figure will probably increase further because it did not include damages to CIPS, General Telephone or cable television properties.

Fry also said that earlier released figures of $300,600 in damages to trees located on residential property and $300,000 damages to trees on public property would probably be increased as well.

Dying trees wounded by the storm will eventually add to those original estimates. Calling it the "best calculation as of now," Fry said that 164 privately-owned trees and 169 city-owned trees were damaged during the two storms.

An estimate of $200,000 damages to the city's streets, Fry said, was submitted to the Illinois Department of Transportation which will release those figures to the Federal Highway Administration for use in the government's consideration of federal assistance to the city.

Fry said that the figure is higher than that the city would have submitted, but that the state had included the costs of debris removal.

Fry said, however, that the Illinois Emergency Service and Disaster Agency has indicated that federal aid for the city's streets might not be forthcoming.

"There has not been that much damage to street surfaces," he said. "The most costly figure will be the removal of debris."

Damage figures will also be increased once damages to the city's storm drainage system have been compiled.

Carbondale residents will be able to pick up logs for their own use at the wood yard on a "first come, first serve" basis beginning Thursday, Fry said. Wood yard hours will be 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The city manager said that residents may haul their own debris and logs to the burning site and wood yard, if they choose. Hours for hauling will be 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The city will follow a pre-designated schedule for picking up debris and logs within the Prison group charges cover-up try

By Dave Powers
Staff Writer

The National Committee to Support the Marion Brothers has charged the Bureau of Prisons with deliberately trying to squelch the negative results of a Department of Justice investigation into conditions at the federal prison in Marion.

Audrey Aronson Myers, co-executive director of the St. Louis-based prisoner support group, said the BOP is "trying to censor" the results of the investigation conducted in April and May 1979 because it makes "positive recommendations" for long-needed changes in the maximum security institution.

However, Michael Aun, BOP information director, said the report "was released to any congressman who requested it." The report did not show evidence of poor conditions or mistreatment of inmates at the prison, he said, although some recommendations in the report are actively being pursued.

The investigator was conducted by three lawyers from the Department of Justice. The lawyers spent more than a month specifically investigating conditions in the prison's control unit, which houses high-escape risks and the most dangerous inmates, according to Lisbon Berry, senior trial attorney with the Civil Rights Division.

Berry declined to comment on the results of the investigation. He said the 26-page report was delivered to the Attorney General's office about two months ago. The Attorney General authorized the investigation because of numerous reports of mistreatment at Marion.

Comment from the Attorney General's office was unavailable.

Myers, who said her group acquired the report through a congressional contact, said the report recommended more humane visitation policies, greater recreation, work and educational opportunities and improved medical and psychiatric care for inmates in the control unit.

The report also called for greater access to the prison by religious groups as well as Congressional hearings on prison policies for release from the control unit, she said.

Myers said the report "opens the door to validate the need for Congressional hearings as opposed to investigations." The report failed to reach certain conclusions because the inmates whose alleged beatings spurred the outcry for an investigation had been transferred from Marion, she said, and thus the investigation was incomplete.

Crane beam falls five stories at construction site

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

The main beam of the giant crane being used for construction of the high-rise apartment building at Mill and James streets collapsed shortly before 3 p.m. Wednesday, smashing a smaller motor crane and a construction worker's car and tearing out power lines.

The falling rolled-steel beam caused an estimated $30,000 to $50,000 damage in its more than five-story drop but injured none of the about 20 people in the area.

The crane is owned and operated by Falconite Equipment Rentals of Cairo and was being disassembled when the beam collapsed. Mike Falconite, crane operator at the site, said a 3,000-pound platform had just been removed from the crane when the beam collapsed. Falconite said that apparently some faulty welds at the base of the support tower caused the beam to fall.

Falconite was in the control booth of a smaller motor crane under the big crane when the beam came down. He said, "I looked up and saw the thing coming right at me and jumped like hell."

The booth in which Falconite was sitting was smashed open by the beam and ripped loose from its base on the crane. The beam fell across the crane Falconite was in, another crane at the site, Freeman Street and into the parking lot of Forest Hall at Freeman and James. The beam landed on a car owned by construction worker Gary Dysart, of Carbondale. The roof and the right side of the car were crushed.

A representative of GTE said that evidently no telephone service had been disrupted by the falling beam. Carbondale police officials said they had received reports that power was knocked out in the Federal Building and some sections of downtown, but CIPS personnel were unavailable to confirm that Wednesday afternoon.

A 70-ton crane fell and crushed this car, parked half a block away, during construction at the Mill Street development Wednesday afternoon.

The car belongs to Gary Dysart, a machine operator at the site. No one was injured in the accident.

'Salary catch-up plan' will be proposed to trustees

By Jacqui Koszczuk
Staff Writer

A proposal giving faculty and civil service employee salaries a chance to "catch up" with the cost of living will be considered by the SIU Board of Trustees when it meets Thursday on the Edwardsville campus.

Dubbed "the salary catch-up plan," the idea is to bring salaries in line with the inflation rate by adding more salary monies to the amount appropriated each year by the state for salary increases, according to Faculty Senate President Marvin Kleinau. The plan, covering a three-year period starting with fiscal year 1982, would give faculty a 4.6 percent annual increase over the state's percentage increase and civil service employees a 3.1 percent annual increase, Kleinau said.

For instance, the General Assembly this spring approved an 8.5 percent employee salary increase for fiscal year 1981. Under the new plan, the SIU system in 1982 would ask the legislature to raise the increase by 4.6 percent for faculty and by 3.1 percent for civil service personnel.

The plan would mean $1.89 million for additional salary hikes each year, with about $1.43 million of that going to faculty and $460,800 slated for civil service employees, Kleinau said.

At SIU, faculty salaries lag behind those at many universities of similar size and complexity. Illinois Board of Higher Education documents show that of 35 comparable schools, SIU-C salaries in 1979 ranked in the bottom 20 percent, while University of Illinois-Chicago Circle ranked in the top 27 percent.

Kleinau said that since 1973, faculty buying power at SIU-C has declined 37 percent.

The problem has not gone unnoticed by the SIU administration and Chancellor Kenneth Shaw, who this year pushed the legislature for an 11 percent employee salary increase. Faculty and civil service organizations also petitioned the legislature for relief, pressing for a 13 percent increase.

Before the legislature settled on an 8.5 percent increase for next year, the governor had recommended only a 7.5 percent increase (on a 100 percent base). The governor has yet to act on the legislature's decision.

The board will not take final action on the "catch-up plan" until its September meeting, Kleinau said.

The board on Thursday will also consider the system's 1982 operating and capital developments budgets and an increase in charges for flight training courses at SIU-C.

Damages climb to $94 million as 4 more counties receive aid

By Diana Penner
Staff Writer

Four additional Southern Illinois counties hit by severe storms last week were declared state disaster areas by the governor's office, and the revised estimate of damages caused by the storms is about $94 million, according to the Illinois Emergency Services Disaster Agency.

Agency spokesman Chuck Jones said requests for federal funds for the affected areas were also approved by Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday.

Ten Southern Illinois counties hit by storms packing hurricane-force winds may now receive federally subsidized low-interest loans to aid in storm clean-up, Jones said.

On Wednesday, Gallatin, Hamilton, Johnson and Union counties were added to the list of counties declared disaster areas. Thompson declared Jackson, Franklin, Perry, Randolph, Williamson and Saline counties disaster areas on Wednesday of last week.

The request for federally subsidized aid makes possible loans from the Small Business Administration and the Farmers Home Administration for residents affected by the storms, Jones said.

The governor's declaration of the state disaster areas was prerequisite for a request for federal funds.

Jones said that disaster agency estimates show the 10-county area sustained $45.8 million in damages to private property, $16.2 million to public property and $32.1 million in agricultural damage.

Requests for aid from the FmHA were made for all counties except Union County which sustained negligible damage to crops, Jones said. All counties except Gallatin, Hamilton and Johnson were included in the SBA request. Property damage in those three counties was minimal, Jones said.

Jones said it will probably be two to six weeks before a reply is received from the SBA but said the FmHA which operates independently from the state, may already be receiving applications for aid.

He said if the SBA honors the request, it will probably set up regional offices in affected counties. Homeowners as well as small business owners may apply for the loans, Jones said.

The SBA will only accept an application for damages not covered by a homeowner's insurance policy. Applications for insured losses will be turned down by the SBA, Jones said.

A request that parts of Southern Illinois be declared a national disaster area is unlikely, according to Rep. William Harris, D-Marion. He said he and Ernie Jones, director of the IESDA, toured parts of Williamson and surrounding counties Monday, assessing damages.

Harris said although substantial losses and damages were sustained in the counties, the criteria for declaration of a national disaster area includes evidence that large numbers of persons were displaced from their homes for an extended length of time.

Harris said he and Jones felt this could not be shown.

However, Harris said he has received an extension of aid for the affected counties from the Illinois Department of Transportation for equipment, trucks, and manpower. Harris said workers and equipment will be available to storm-affected areas through Saturday as a result of the extension. The workers were originally supposed to leave Tuesday.

3 die at rally to see Pope in Brazil

FORTALEZA, Brazil (AP) — A throng of religious pilgrims, surging at daybreak into a soccer stadium to get good seats to see Pope John Paul II, broke down a gate and trampled at least three women to death, state police said. It was a tragic replay of a stampede of spectators that marred the pope's visit to Zaire in May.

Pope said many others were injured in the rush of the crowd. The pontiff, who arrived here five hours later, was not immediately aware of the extent of the tragedy. He came to this city of 1 million on Brazil's hot northeastern Atlantic coast to inaugurate a nationwide Eucharistic Congress on the 10th day of a 12-day journey through Brazil, the world's biggest Roman Catholic country.

World population growth rate slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world population continues to grow, especially in Africa, although the global rate of growth has slowed in the last five-year period, the U.S. Census Bureau reported Wednesday.

Worldwide, the report states, "the trend in the global population growth rate has been generally downward in recent years, the growth rate having declined from about 2.1 percent in 1965-70 to 1.7 percent in 1975-79."

During the same period, the growth rate for Africa increased from 2.5 percent to 2.9 percent, highest in the world, the report disclosed. By comparison, Latin America had a 2.4 percent growth rate in the 1975-79 period, while the rate was 1.9 percent in Asia, 1.1 percent in Oceania, 0.8 percent in North America and 0.6 percent in Europe. Oceania includes Australia and islands in the South Pacific.

GOP warned about ERA, abortion

DETROIT (AP) — The outgoing co-chairman of the Republican Party said Wednesday the GOP risks losing in November by clinging to its rigid anti-abortion stance and failing to endorse the Equal Rights Amendment.

"I personally believe that these two actions could prevent our party from electing the next president of the United States," said Mary Crisp. She pledged to do "whatever is within my power to prevent these two tragedies from occurring."

But Ms. Crisp, whose term as co-chairman expires at the conclusion of the Republican National Convention, clearly was fighting a losing battle as the party's platform committee seemed likely to accept the abortion and ERA wording worked out at the subcommittee level.

The new Law School Building, eleven months into construction, is scheduled to be completed fall 1981.

Law School Building begins to take shape

The SIU School of Law soon will exchange its cramped quarters in two remodeled dormitories in Small Group Housing for a new home. The school is scheduled to open its doors for 1981 fall semester classes in a new building now under construction.

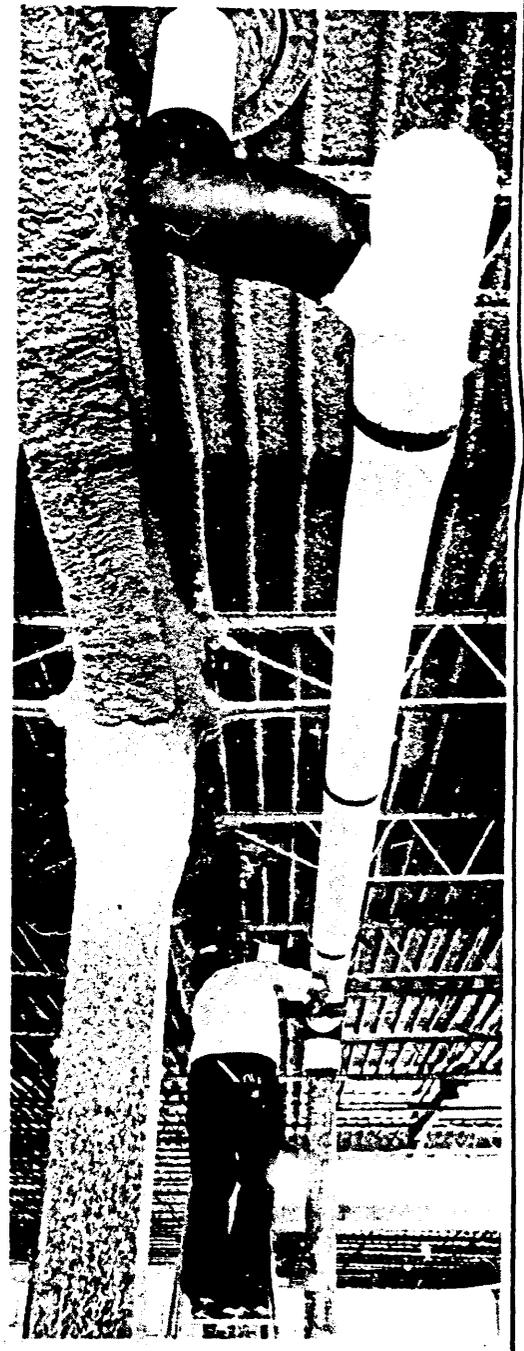

Hiram Lesar, acting dean of the Law School, said construction of the $7.6 million facility on Douglas Drive is currently about three months ahead of schedule. Should this trend continue, Lesar said classes in the new building could begin with the 1981 summer semester. Once completed, the two-story building will house a large library, classrooms, a model courtroom, an auditorium, a legal clinic, faculty and administrative offices and a student activity area, as well as editorial offices for the law journal. The new Law School Building will be two-thirds library, according to Elizabeth S. Kelly, law library director and an assistant professor in the School of Law. The library will offer the latest in computer-assisted research and instruction and allow space for more than 220,000 bound volumes, she said. The present law library has about 91,000 bound volumes. Kelly described the new structure as a "modest, functional building" that will welcome students with a "cool, serene interior" of off-white walls accented with color on handrails and outer walls of a library study area. Completion of the building will satisfy the American Bar Association, which granted only provisional accreditation to the Law School until appropriate facilities were provided.

Second City comedians come home to host specials with current crew

CHICAGO (AP)—Before the days of "Saturday Night Live" and commercials about chips that go crunch, two comedians were performing at a club on Wells Street, scoring some hits—without much fanfare.

But when Bill Murray and Avery Schreiber recently returned to the Chicago night spot, they were accompanied by producers, directors, five television cameras and instant recognition.

Both comedians—alumni of the Second City comedy troupe—had returned as hosts of two 90-minute television specials featuring the current members of the Chicago comedy company.

Murray had performed with the troupe during the early 1970s—in his pre-"Saturday Night Live" days. And it was at the club that he originated some of his TV characters, including the nightclub crooner.

About a decade before that, Schreiber was a Second City member. He later teamed with comedian Jack Burns and appeared in many television shows and movies. Now his face pops up regularly on Doritos chip commercials.

"The Second City" specials are part of a nine-program variety series to be broadcast this summer in 113 markets. The first show, with Murray as host, will be shown in most cities July 13. The third, with Schreiber hosting, will be seen in most areas July 27.

The return of the two comics was like a college reunion, says Bernie Sahlins, producer of show and one of the founders of the Second City troupe.

"Success has mellowed them both," Sahlins says. "They both have become very nice...or nicer. Bill was much more tense and intense during his Chicago days. Now he's much more relaxed and mellowed."

"Avery has changed less...but he's mellowed, too." Both comedians were hosts for performances at the club, and Sahlins says the audiences were not told in advance that a syndicated television show was being taped.

At the beginning, Sahlins says, the audiences' attention was riveted on Murray and Schreiber, but both men quickly fell into their roles with the rest of the company.

Like all Second City revues, the shows touch on a few social issues and a lot of sex. The two TV specials will combine material from old revues and some material that hasn't yet been tried.

And, Sahlins says, there's a lot of improvisation and audience participation.

"It wasn't one of those formal television shows with worried people," he says. "We were recording an event."

"It was all spontaneous. The television audience hopefully will feel like a member of our club audience."

Spontaneity and improvisation have been the hallmark of the Second City revue since Sahlins helped found the company 20 years ago.

"Until opening night," he says, "we never have anything written. On opening night, we commit a script to paper for copyright purposes. When we look at it three months later a lot of it is different."

That free-wheeling formula has been a success for years for former Second City members, like Robert Klein, Alan Arkin, Gilda Radner, Mike Nichols, Elaine May and John Belushi, who have moved onto other entertainment careers.

Though there will only be two big-name attractions, Sahlins says the troupe members, like all Second City companies, are veteran comics.

"Second City is one of the few places in America a comedic actor gets to train," he says. "An average actor is with us three or four years. He plays eight nights a week. After you've done it a couple of years, you get to be good at it."

The city also deserves some credit for the success of the Second City.

"Chicago is one of the few places in the world where you can do your work without watching yourself do it," Sahlins says. In New York or Los Angeles, he says, people are discovered immediately "but in Chicago, we can keep a company together for awhile."

"I wouldn't go on stage for anything," he admits. "That would scare the hell out of me."

"I think the most valuable possession in the world is anonymity."

Plant production, soybean breeding will highlight Farmer Field Days

By University News Service
Sunflower production and soybean breeding for cyst nematode resistance will be among topics discussed at SIUC's Annual Farmer Field Days July 23 and 24 in Belleville and Carbondale.

The program is sponsored by the SIU School of Agriculture's Department of Plant and Soil Science.

The Belleville Field Day will be held at the SIU Research Plots near the south gate of Scott Air Force Base on Illinois Route 161 July 23, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The Carbondale Field Day will be held at the Cooperative Agronomy Research Center, one mile west of Illinois Route 51 on Reservoir Road, July 24. The program begins at 1 p.m.

Production of sunflowers as a full-season and a double-crop will be discussed by George Kapusta, an SIU agronomist.

Soybean breeding will be discussed by Oval Myers, an SIU geneticist-agronomist, who has been developing new varieties for several years.

Other topics to be covered include: soybean weed control; wheat varieties and their response to nitrogen; corn, soybean and sunflower disease outlook; and forages, with special consideration to erosion control measures.

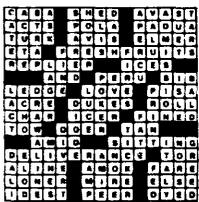

In addition, the Belleville agenda includes a discussion of weed control for corn planted with minimum- or no-till methods. The Carbondale Field Day will include a special discussion of soybean variety performance under varying row widths and plant populations.

Field Day speakers will include authorities from SIU, the University of Illinois and Cooperative Extension Service.

Dance as a 'total experience' will be performed in concert

By Karen Clare
Staff Writer

Anything that affects behavior affects dancing and no one knows this better than Sara Pearson and Robert Small, two professional dancers who are sharing their knowledge and expertise with anyone who wishes to learn about the art of modern dance in the annual SIU-C Summer Dance Workshop.

Pearson, 31, and Small, 30, will also appear with members of the workshop in the Summer Dance Concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, at the Student Center.

Both visiting artists have a broad background in modern dance. Pearson and her husband Jerry, who will fly in from the American Dance Festival in Durham, N.C., to participate in Saturday's performance, have studied under Alwin Nikolais and his prodigy, Murray Louis. Nikolais is world renowned for his freedom and new formalism in dance. Pearson admitted that Nikolais was a great teacher, but that her heart, as well as Small's, goes out to Louis.

The Pearsons began dancing with the Murray Louis Dance Company in 1974. Small, who graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles with a degree in dance, began with the troupe in 1971 and now lives with the Pearsons in New York City. He said that he and the Pearsons "lived together 18 hours a day for five years."

In December 1979, the Pearsons and Small decided to leave the troupe and form their own companies. The Pearsons formed a duet and Small formed the Small Dance Company, which is also based in New York City. Both Pearson and Small say they have no regrets about their years with Louis. Pearson added that the learning experience could not have been gained in any other way.

"It's just amazing in the amount of energy he will give out," she said. "He's totally dedicated to something bigger than himself."

Pearson, a petite woman with dark brown hair and eyes, said the students in the workshop are getting more than a crash course in modern dance.

"We're giving as much as we can and more," she said. "We give it 110 percent effort." Small added, "We put four years of work into two weeks."

According to Pearson, both she and Small demand more than the students can give and come as "close to professionalism" as possible with the aspiring dance students. Pearson added that a dancer has to be willing to give everything and be dedicated to something "bigger than their own ego."

Pearson and Small said they are trying to give the students an overall picture of modern dance, from technique to performance. As professionals, dancing is their language. They try to convey to the students a sense of using the body as

McDonnell Douglas Corp. plans campaign to bolster DC-10 image

NEW YORK (AP) — McDonnell Douglas Corp. Wednesday launched a "multimillion-dollar" publicity campaign aimed at bolstering the image of its DC-10 jumbo jet, the airliner involved in the worst single-plane accident in U.S. history.

The campaign will include network television commercials during the Republican and Democratic national conventions, and newspaper and magazine advertisements in the United States and overseas, McDonnell-Douglas said.

All 273 people on board and two on the ground were killed when an engine separated from an American Airlines DC-10 on takeoff from Chicago on May 25, 1979.

But in investigations following the crash, the DC-10 was "conclusively vindicated," McDonnell-Douglas' president and chief executive, Sanford N. McDonnell told a news conference.

The DC-10 has been "proved beyond possible reasonable doubt to meet the highest standards of the aircraft industry," he said.

While conceding "some people will not readily agree," McDonnell said the DC-10 is "an excellent airliner" that meets "the highest standards of the aircraft industry."

McDonnell refused to disclose the exact cost of the publicity campaign or predict the aircraft maker's second-quarter profits. But William Gross, a McDonnell-Douglas vice president, said airlines have placed 32 "firm" orders for DC-10s and secured eight options for the planes since the Chicago crash.

The orders included one announced Wednesday from Mexicana Airlines for two DC-10 series 15 jets. McDonnell-Douglas would not disclose the exact price of the aircraft, but Jerry Myers, a company spokesman, said reports the planes would cost about $40 million apiece "are in the ballpark."

Artist collects horror comics to help preserve his childhood

By Kristi Bengoa
Student Writer

Many comics are collected for fun, for profit and for research, but Todd McDaniel, a junior in art at SIU-C, collects them for an unusual reason: to help preserve his past.

As a child growing up in Metropolis, McDaniel was always interested in reading horror stories, building Aurora monster models and watching "those Friday night monster movies on Channel 3." McDaniel's collection of almost 300 horror comics and magazines reflects his early interest in monsters and horror.

A collector since he was 7 years old, McDaniel initially bought Warren horror magazines such as Eerie and Creepy and monster magazines like Famous Monsters and Monster World. His collection of about 250 monster and horror magazines and 30 E.C. horror comics is worth about $3,000, according to McDaniel. The E.C. comic book collection alone is worth about $1,500, McDaniel said.

"When I was a little kid, I only bought horror magazines and magazines that pictured or talked about horror movies and monsters. I used to live for horror movies," McDaniel said.

At the age of 14, McDaniel became seriously interested in buying older comics, specifically E.C. horror comics, which had been discontinued in 1955, McDaniel said. He bought and traded primarily from Mike Middleton, a Metropolis comic book collector. McDaniel also began buying E.C. horror comics through the mail. Most of his money is now tied up in E.C. horror comics, according to the 20-year-old McDaniel.

"I have spent $3,000 overall on horror comics and horror magazines and have gotten hooked quite a few times over comics I have really wanted," McDaniel said, "but I don't mind because comics have given me a lot of enjoyment."

McDaniel hasn't done any comic book dealing in over six months because of financial reasons. The price for older horror comics has increased because the demand for them has increased, McDaniel said. He attributed this increase in demand partially to the good horror movies, primarily those of the 1950s, which have followed the content of the comics.

McDaniel has been painting since he was in high school, but he has no interest in doing comic book art. He plans to continue his studies in art, and he would like to travel to France next year for further art instruction.

Although selling his comic book collection would help him financially, McDaniel said he has no intention of doing so.

"Too many people now approach comics with the idea that they're going to make money. I don't think that's safe anymore because valuable comics in good condition are expensive. Plus, you never know when the bottom will fall out on comics," McDaniel said. "I plan to keep my E.C. horror comics for the rest of my life."

culture to communicate.

The dance tradition which the two artists are trying to inspire is one in which there are no rigid set of rules or commands. The dancers learn a readiness, in immediacy of response. Movement, space and energy are stressed and the inter-relatedness of all of life's elements or as Small explained, "a waking up of the senses," are incorporated into the total experience.

Small added that every athlete, actor, and musician should take dance. He especially emphasized the importance of dance for the football player.

"It gives them quick responses and energy," he explained.

"Lynn Swann, wide receiver for the Pittsburgh Steelers, could be the best dancer around."

Pearson explained that there is no special story line in dance and no one has the same response.

"Just absorb it, see it, experience it," she said. For the dancer, as well as the audience, the total experience is optical and kinetic, she added.

University Press is growing

By Vicki Woodard
Student Writer

What do "The Naked City," "The Plastic Age" and "The Asphalt Jungle" have in common? These are all new books being published by the Southern Illinois University Press during the 1980-81 fall-winter season.

The University Press has been a growing publishing business for 25 years. It is currently publishing about 40 to 60 books each year, and according to Walter Kent, assistant director, the work is never dull.

"Working with the publishing of books is always exciting," Kent said. "Each new book is unique, unusual—a challenge."

Most of the books published by the University Press are scholarly types, written by local authors or faculty members from SIU and other universities. These books may be intellectually better than others, Kent said, but they are difficult to sell.

"We appeal to a highly specialized audience," Kent said. "With some 40,000 to 50,000 new books being published each year, it is very hard to make ours known."

The University Press also handles screenplay books, 18th century literature and even classical records. It is currently introducing a science fiction series, Kent said.

"This is the first year we have ever done science fiction," he said. "We want to serve the growing fiction audience. It should be a lot of fun, too."

Kent said. "The greatest thing about publishing is that we have world rights, we can sell practically anywhere in the world. We really have no limits."

Cable TV will connect to East Campus in fall

By Bryan Hawickhorst
Student Writer

Cable TV service will be in operation this fall in Trueblood and Grinnell cafeterias and the first floor lounge of Neely Hall, according to Sam Rinella, director of University Housing.

Rinella said that students want the cable service and that he has been wanting to get it for a long time.

He said a lot of work has gone into the development of the snack bars in both cafeterias and having cable TV will increase student use of these areas.

The cable TV will provide a clearer reception than televisions in the residence halls and will bring in distant stations, Rinella said.

The cable service will be wired from the Recreation Building.

The cost of the cable TV service will be assessed to the residents of Brush Towers and University Park through room and board fees. The service will cost $360 per year, which averages out to about 10 or 11 cents per student each year, he said.

At a later time the cable TV service will be extended to the Triad lounges, Rinella said, but a specific time has not been set.

The service may also be extended to the floor lounges in Brush Towers, and eventually to the rooms in Brush Towers and Neely Hall, he said.

Vegetarian diet ruled healthy

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Dietetic Association has given its stamp of approval to vegetarian diets — as long as they are well planned and meet all nutritional needs.

A position paper in the July issue of the Journal of the American Dietetic Association says that a person can get all the necessary protein without meat, poultry or fish — providing he is cautious about preparing his diet.

However, the paper says there are some persons for whom a vegetarian diet may be more risky, such as pregnant woman, infants and small children.

The paper, which expands on the association's previous, cautious approval of vegetarian diets, says that dietitians have "neither the moral nor the ethical right to interfere with the food choices of their clients."

One of the problems is that some health professionals sometimes "see (the vegetarian diet) as more restrictive than a well-balanced diet," said Kathleen Zolber, director of nutritional services at the medical center at Loma Linda University, in California.

However, she said, just because a person does not eat meat doesn't mean he isn't getting all the necessary protein. "There are many people who do not have a balanced diet with meat, poultry and fish," Mrs. Zolber said. "Actually one can even get more protein from that combination of (vegetarian) diet."

What a person must have, the association says, is a wide variety of foods in four basic groups — fruits and vegetables, whole grains, dairy products and meat or legumes. Grains and legumes are considered the major sources of protein for vegetarians.

The publishing of the paper, the association said, comes at a time when vegetarian diets and other alternative lifestyles are more popular than ever before in the country.

The increasing number of people who have vegetarian diets is also associated to the new "emphasis on the healthful being," said Mrs. Zolber.

The dietetic association, which consists of 41,000 dietitians, also says that "a growing body of scientific evidence supports a positive relationship" between "vegetarian diets and prevention of certain diseases."

The paper cites a study of Seventh-Day Adventists who do not eat meat, fish or poultry who had significantly lower death rates due to coronary heart disease. The journal recommends further study on the link of vegetarian diets and prevention of diseases.

The association also offers some guidelines for vegetarians and says those with a total vegetarian diet should increase their consumption of nuts, leavened breads, legumes and cereals and increase amounts of foods that supply nutrients ordinarily found in milk products.

Restructured admissions program could increase graduate enrollment

By Vicki Woodard
Student Writer

Though graduate student enrollment at SIU-C this summer has risen by 118 students, many aspects of the graduate admission program are being restructured for greater efficiency, said John S. Jackson, associate dean of the Graduate School.

Jackson, who is in charge of admissions and records, said enrollment did climb from 2,685 students to 2,803, but reorganization of the enrollment process could attract even more students.

"We need to revamp the entire graduate admission program so that it better serves incoming students," said Jackson, a political science professor. "I want to make entering SIU's Graduate School as convenient as possible."

Jackson said decreasing the load of paper work is the first step of the reorganization. If some of the application forms were combined, he said, the admission processing time would be cut in half.

Some of the specific areas Jackson said he would be evaluating are transcripts, test scores, grade point averages, prerequisites and the overall processing of entrance applications.

"I think entrance applications should be looked at in a personal as well as a mechanical way," Jackson said. "We want students to know as quickly as possible whether they are accepted to SIU or not."

HOSTAGE FUND SET

HOMER, Ill. (AP) — Donations of $4,000 have been received by a local committee which is establishing a trust fund for hostage Paul Lewis.

The Marine Sergeant, one of 53 Americans being held hostage in Iran, is from Homer. The committee collected the money and sold tickets to a barbecue dinner June 15 in honor of Lewis.

Evelyn Cope, a member of that committee, said expenses would be about $1,500.

Farm income picture is bleak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is continuing to paint a bleak picture for farm income this year, as disclosed in a report released Wednesday.

Figures in the report showed no change is anticipated in farm income prospects through the third quarter of this year. No forecast was made for the final three months, however.

As a similar report did a month ago, the new figures projected net farm income — roughly the amount left over after farmers pay production expenses — at an annual rate of $23.5 billion in the third quarter, compared with $20.2 billion in the second and $27.6 billion in the first.

If the annual rate in a three-month period held steady over the entire 12 months, that would be the net income for the calendar year.

Last year, the annual income rates were about $36 billion in the first quarter, $34.1 billion in the second, $29.9 billion in the third and $32.5 billion in the fourth.

Although the report did not forecast net income for all of 1980, officials have indicated previously that it could fall "around 25 percent" from last year's near-record of $33.3 billion, virtually the same as the record set in 1973. That would put 1980 farm income at about $25 billion.

The latest report said farm commodity prices "have strengthened in recent weeks" primarily because of tighter supplies of livestock products, including beef and pork, and continued strong demand for grain and other crops.

"Producers are trimming output in the second half and prices are expected to average well above the depressed levels of the first half," the report said.

 centers around four main points, stated in a letter from WINI's lawyers to Gentry. The points are:

1) Failure to comply with the bid proposal because the group did not submit all the required information at the time of the opening bids;

2) Failure to establish and disclose the legal status of Saluki Sports Action Network as an entity with whom a contract can be made;

3) Failure of the responsible parties awarding the bid to comply with the rules and regulations governing SIU-C for the awarding of bids and the failure to comply with the provisions of the bid proposal;

4) The inability of Saluki Sports Action Network to obtain firm commitments from those stations they publicly listed as participating stations in the broadcast of the football and basketball games.

Adkins particularly stressed the fourth point.

"Several of the 12 stations listed as being part of the Saluki Sports Action Network don't even intend to cover the games, or if they do, they only intend to cover a few games a year," Adkins said. "We had our own network lined up, with firm commitments from all the stations we named."

Mackie Nicholes, owner of WEBQ in Harrisburg, the flagship station of the SSAN, disagreed with Adkins' statement and said the network is progressing smoothly.

"We're going to do what we said we're going to do," Nicholes said. "We've already signed six of the stations and we're on the verge of signing three more. We've also signed Channel 3, the ABC affiliate in Harrisburg and we're lining up radio stations that weren't even on our original list, like WFRX in West Frankfort."

A spokesman for the state auditor's office in Springfield said his office will look into the bidding and procurement process for the broadcast rights as part of the state's annual financial compliance audit of SIU-C. No special audit has been called for in the legislature, he emphasized.

 The Marion Brothers committee hopes to prompt hearings by either the Senate Appropriations Committee, which authorizes funding for federal prisons, or the House Judiciary Committee, which oversees prison policies, Myers said.

Aun said that although the BOP "agreed ideally" with the recommendations, many just are not possible because of the "aggressive nature" of many of those held in the control unit.

However, the report has resulted in a change in the medical and psychiatric care for inmates, Aun said. Inmates are now given a medical and psychiatric examination before being placed in the control unit, and again every 30 days until their release, he said.

Work is now provided for more than half of those in the control unit, Aun said, and a full-time teacher is assigned there. Providing work for more of the inmates is "not possible because of animosity" between inmates, he said.

Inmates in the control unit are not allowed seven hours of recreation a week. Aun said more recreation time can't be arranged because of a lack of staff. Providing more staff in the near future is unlikely because of the tightening of federal spending, Aun said.

As for release policies for the control unit, Aun said the report indicated that it is hard to determine when to release inmates who were placed in the unit only after "repeated aggressive" acts. The release policy is explained to inmates before they are placed in the control unit, he said, and reviewed periodically.

The Marion Brothers committee called incarceration in the control unit "cruel and inhumane treatment," which is prohibited by the U.S. Constitution. According to the committee, the BOP uses the long-term control unit as a "special lock-up for activist prisoners."

However, a series of class action suits filed over the past several years against control-unit policies repeatedly have been overruled in federal court. The last suit was overruled in federal court in Benton in 1978.

Support increasing for Saluki football

By Ed Dougherty
Sports Editor

It's growing. Not as fast as some people would like, but it's growing.

It...is enthusiasm for SIU's intercollegiate athletics program, in particular, football.

In 1975, the year before men's Athletics Director Gale Sayers and football coach Rey Dempsey arrived on the SIU scene, the average attendance for an SIU home game was about 8,100. Last year, the fourth year of the latest Saluki regime, the average attendance was about 11,600, including the largest crowd in McAndrew Stadium history, 17,769, against Eastern Illinois.

According to men's Assistant Athletics Director Fred Huff, the 1980 season promises to be the biggest in SIU history.

The Salukis will carry plenty of momentum into the upcoming season. After finishing 8-3 last year, the Salukis won their final six games. Huff said he is expecting the first sell-out crowd ever against EIU, Sept. 13.

This year will be the second year to catch the Saluki spirit with Saluki Saturdays.

Saluki Saturdays are designed to increase interest in football with musical entertainment and food after each home game, Huff said.

To kick off "Saluki Saturdays," the University Mall, in cooperation with SIU, will set up stations, or booths, Aug. 30, Huff said. The stations will be mini-clinics depicting different scenes concerning SIU football. "It will allow the fans to see the players up close," Huff said. "I think it will be really impressive."

One will show a training room scene where different players will be taped up—like they would be before a game—and then sent on to the locker room station, Huff said.

There, the players will suit up and then move on to either the defensive or offensive station and run through different plays.

There will be two other stations. One will be a celebrity booth with Coach Dempsey and some of the better known players. Another will be run by the organizers of "Saluki Saturdays." It will contain information about bands that will be performing and food that will be sold.

Each home game will be a special day Oct. 4, against Northern Illinois, will be Parents' Day and Shrine Hospital Day combined. Members of a junior high and high school cheerleading clinic will join SIU cheerleaders during the game.

"We saw it done at Arkansas State and thought it would work here," Huff said. "There will also be a special recognition of SIU's only undefeated football team."

It will be the 50-year reunion for the 1930 team that won all nine of its games. There are 11 or 12 members still alive, Huff said.

Nov. 8 will be Pepsi Day. During halftime against Fresno State there will be an exhibition by the finalists of an ultimate frisbee tournament. The tournament will have an SIU division and a division for high school teams, Huff said.

Pepsi will also sponsor ticket discounts and several giveaways, Huff said.

Homecoming will be Nov. 15 against Tulsa. In addition to the homecoming festivities, the Admissions and Records Department will sponsor high school guest day.

The final home game of the season against West Texas State will be Fan Appreciation Day. Area high school students will be admitted free and discounts will be given on certain items at the concessions stand, Huff said.

Contributors to the athletics department will be able to bring two free guests with them. Also the administration will be promoting "family for a fiver." SIU faculty and staff members and their families will be admitted for $5.

In an effort to boost ticket sales, banks in Carbondale, Murphysboro, Herrin, Carterville and Marion will be selling season tickets and single game tickets, Huff said.

It may not be the game's ultimate catch, but Kurt Uhlir of the Freebees made this catch as his team beat Fly By Night 7-6, Wednesday at the Arena fields. Ultimate frisbee will continue through next week.

Camp helps deaf quarterback

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—Jim Ballmer is a high school quarterback, and a good one. Last year, as a sophomore, he helped lead his team to a 7-1 record and a conference championship. But there is one thing that sets him and his teammates apart from other high school athletes — all of them are deaf.

To help him improve his skills for next season, Ballmer recently attended the summer football camp organized by Coach Roger Haring of the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse.

He was one of 160 players from schools in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois at the four-day camp for quarterbacks, running backs, receivers and defensive backs.

Ballmer is deaf and unable to speak. The team he stars for is from the Wisconsin School for the Deaf in Delavan. An illness caused Ballmer, now 17, to lose his hearing when he was 2½ years old.

The 6-foot-3 athlete, who lives on his family's farm near Evansville during the summer months, completed 58 percent of the passes he threw last season, passing for 450 yards and rushing for another 230.

He earned honorable mention in the Indian Trails Conference, which has five other schools—none of them for deaf students—competing in football.

Ed Mirus, the football coach at the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, said Ballmer's father had inquired about the possibility of sending his son to the football camp.

"I thought it would be good for Jim," said Mirus. "He can pick up a lot from just watching kids."

"He's always watching, always picking up," said Bob Berezowitz, the Evansville High School coach who brought Ballmer to the camp and was an assistant coach there. "We use play cards, not just for him, but for everyone. He looks at them one time and has everything registered. A lot of other players have to study the cards two and three times."

The other players reacted favorably to the deaf quarterback.

"I really learned a lot from him," said Lance Leopold, a quarterback from Jefferson. "I think he has overcome things other people never think of."

There are only 96 students at the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, but more than 30 boys are on the football team.

"We don't turn anyone away," said Mirus, who has posted a 63-22 record in his eight years at the school.

The deaf players key their movements to the ball, with the quarterback tapping the center's leg to indicate when he should snap it back to him.

Consistently good golf puts unknown near top

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mike Reid hasn't attracted much attention in the pro golfing world yet, but he's played well enough to rank 14th in earnings in the PGA Tour this year, all without winning any tournaments.

Reid, 26, from Provo, Utah, has won $136,316, putting him ahead of many of the better-known names on the tour. He doesn't draw big crowds as he makes his way around the nation's golf courses, but he's playing steady, competent golf, and he's not concerned about fame.

"I'm happy with the way I am," Reid said after a practice round at the Tuckaway Country Club, where the Greater Milwaukee Open begins on Thursday. "That's not one of my goals, to be popular. That's one of the fringe benefits. My goal is to be a good golfer."

Reid, who got his PGA card in 1976, has yet to win on the tour, but at the GMO last year he was only one stroke behind the leader, Ed Dougherty, after the third round. Then he got off to a bad start on the final day of the tournament and shot a 75 which led him in a tie for 19th place.

Reid was playing with Lee Trevino and Calvin Peete, who went on to win the tournament with a record score.

"I remember going in with high hopes and going out crushed," Reid said, recalling that final round last year. "Frankly, I was nervous. I bogged the third and fifth holes, I think, and after seeing what Calvin did on the front nine, I was completely deflated."

"When it was over, I remember sitting outside the clubhouse on my golf bag, head buried in my hands, waiting for my ride, and a guy came up to me and said, 'You really lost it all out there.'"

"And he was right," Reid added. "I hadn't given 100 percent every shot. The lesson I learned was that any time you're in contention on a Sunday, never give up if things don't go your way at first. Don't become upset. Don't get down on yourself."

Subs lead NL All-Stars to victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ken Griffey confided to Reggie Smith, "I'm going up there and hit a home run."

Even though the first 14 National League players hadn't had a hit against Steve Stone and then Tommy John, the Griffey comment wasn't an idle boast.

When John pitched for the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League, Griffey averaged .422 hitting against him.

The Cincinnati outfielder fulfilled his prediction with a 410-foot homer to right-center and the Nationals were ignited after trailing 2-0. They came back to win 4-2, their ninth straight and 17th of the past 18.

Overall, the series stands at 32-18-1. Griffey was voted the Most Valuable Player of the nationally televised game that drew 56,068 to Dodger Stadium, the largest crowd in the stadium's history.

But there were votes for others. Baltimore's Steve Stone pitched a perfect first three innings for the Americans, a feat last done by Denny McLain in 1966. And Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs pitched hitless relief the final two innings for the save.

In the past three All-Star games, Sutter has two victories and a save and in 5 2-3 innings he has allowed only two hits and struck out six.

Sutter demanded that Jerry Reuss, who pitched just the sixth inning and struck out the side, keep the game ball. Reuss was given it as the winning pitcher, but thought it should go to Sutter.

The game's goat award goes to Willie Randolph, the second baseman from the New York Yankees. He was picked off first in the third inning just before Rod Carew doubled off Bob Welch of the Dodgers.

Then Randolph committed two errors, one in the sixth permitting the go ahead run. Two wild pitches by Dave Stieb and a passed ball in the seventh brought the final run.

The Americans had gone ahead 2-0 on Fred Lynn's homer off Welch in the top of the fifth.

Griffey confirmed he always has been able to hit well against John, now with the Yankees, because, "he throws three-quarters and it's easy for me to see the ball."

Ray Knight of Cincinnati, who singled with one out in the two-run sixth for the Nationals, said, "Griffey hit really sparked us."

And, paradoxically, neither Griffey nor Knight was voted a starting position by fans in the nationwide poll.

Each team collected seven hits. Interestingly, all of the Americans' hits came from their starters and none of the Nationals' came from theirs.
