Council approves downtown plan

By Jerianne Kimmel
Staff writer

The Carbondale City Council approved a downtown development plan and a water treatment plant facility for the city Tuesday night.

"This is a very ambitious undertaking," City Manager Steve Hoffner said of the downtown plan. The plan would call for construction to renovation to be finished by April 1991.

The new downtown development plan approved by the City Council includes many new structures intended for public use.

The plan, designed by Edward P. Wagner, vice president of a Chicago firm, features a civic center, a community center, a hotel, convention center and shopping center for young people. The plan also calls for three new parks to be built in the downtown area.

The parks are expected to cost an estimated $350,000.

The new water treatment plant is proposed for the southeast corner of the city.

The beer garden proposal for Checkers nightclub was denied because limited parking in the Lewis Park Mall area, said Councilman Keith Turshon.

SIU-C to begin new policy to control waste

By Christina Hall
Staff writer

The University will manage hazardous waste under a new policy starting this summer as part of a hazardous waste permits renewal process.

The University and Pollution Control will implement changes in their waste management policy in order to comply with new EPA regulations.

SIUC's pollution control in the past was responsible for picking up the waste and identifying chemicals, said Rich Schleyer, hazardous waste manager at pollution control.

As part of the new policy, pollution control will be improved earlier in the management of hazardous waste, said Gary Steele, environment protection specialist for the Illinois EPA.

There were several problems (with the waste) that pollution control didn't see, Steele said. Pollution control was not responsible for the condition of the hazardous waste while it was still in the laboratories. As a result they were not aware of those storage problems, Steele said.

"Some of the containers were not labeled, some of the containers were left open, and so one incompliant..."

CobA alumni to start chapter in Malaysia

By Karen Radlun
Staff writer

The SIUC College of Business Association Alumni are not only active in the United States, but are now active internationally, thanks to Dean Thomas G. Guttridge.

Over 200 native Malaysian COBA alumni are now back in Malaysia and they are planning to develop an alumni association by the end of this summer.

Guttridge attended a meeting with an SIUC alumni, Francis Ng, in Malaysia on June 5.

"I wrote him a letter telling him we were coming to Malaysia and that I would like to have dinner. Then, I suggested that he has set up a COBA alumni group," Guttridge said.

To set up the organization, the alumni must meet a certain number of by-laws, according to Guttridge. As in the other associations, they will be organizing for business purposes and networking.

One advantage of such a group is that the alumni will be able to assist new graduates in getting jobs.

"They might also set up a referral and counseling service to help advise, recommend, and refer new students to the U.S. to study," Guttridge said.

COBA is the only college that has off-campus alumni associations at the University. There are large associations in Chicago and St. Louis.

"We organize our alumni associations geographically," Guttridge said.

Local farmers eligible for emergency loans

By Christen Cortasco
Staff writer

Southern Illinois fruit farmers were more eligible for emergency federal loans for their crops that were damaged in last winter's hard freeze.

Grammer's Orchards in Carbondale, said the fund-will more likely influence most of the orchards in the area.

"It's not going to benefit anyone around here, because you have to not be able to get a loan," Grammer said.

Grammer said this past winter was bad, but her crops did not suffer as much as she had feared.

"They had some damage. They're not 100 percent, but they keep showing up," Grammer said.

Counties around the area that are eligible for the emergency funds include: Jackson, Williamson, Johnson, Franklin, and Jefferson as well as other counties north and south of the area.

Study: Only 15 percent of students graduate in four years

Independent Colleges and Universities recently released a study that only 15 percent of college students complete a bachelor's degree four years after entering. People want athletes to graduate in four years, but why should they be any different than anybody else? asked Rich Taylor, University of Cincinnati athletic director.

Thompson said he has been asked by a number of student-athletes to leave school, but they don't, they are not alone. The National Institute of Education study reveals that male students entering college full-time in the fall of 1980, and who graduated by 1986, had a graduation rate of 47 percent from public institutions and 52.9 percent from private schools.

By comparison, the College Basketball Association surveyed 56 schools this year and found a 30.2 graduation rate for football players who entered school five years ago. Since 1987, that rate has averaged 49.9 percent.

The NCAA studied the 1982-83 freshmen classes of 103 Division I-A institutions. Five years later, 49.6 percent of all the students graduating entered college full-time in the fall of 1980, and who graduated by 1986, had a graduation rate of 47 percent from public institutions and 52.9 percent from private schools.

South African Parliament approves reformist bill

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Parliament approved a major reformist bill Tuesday to abolish a 37-year-old law racially segregating trains, buses, toilets, libraries, swimming pools and other public amenities. The Discriminatory Legislation Regarding Public Amenities Repeal Bill, proposed in November by President Frédéric de Klerk, scraps all laws dealing with separate facilities for blacks and whites. It is scheduled to take effect on 15.

Romanian opposition newspaper reappears

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — The opposition newspaper Romania Libera returned to newsstands Tuesday for the first time since last week's unrest but carried a disclaimer by press operators who a city the writers "distant reality." Romania's largest opposition daily halted publication last Thursday after its offices were trashed by supporters of the ruling National Salvation Front. Afterward, non-editorial staff refused to return to work to protest Romania Libera's anti-government slant. The newspaper resumed operations late Monday.

Flag desecration amendment sent to House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A sharply divided House Judiciary Committee Tuesday sent a controversial amendment to ban flag desecration to the full House for a vote, perhaps this week, and opponents began predicting openly of its defeat. After six hours of arguing and two failed votes, the panel decided, 19-17, on what could become the 27th Amendment to the Constitution to the House without any recommendation on its fate. Five Democrats joined 14 Republicans in supporting the amendment.

Florida police probe gunman's background

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Authorities Tuesday pieced together the troubled, often violent background of a gunman who attacked a loan office, killing eight people and wounding five before taking his own life. Police and court files showed that James Edward Pough, 42, had a history of arrests and violent behavior, including a felony conviction for aggravated assault in 1971. In March, a judge issued an injunction barring the Jacksonville man from contacting his wife, who feared for her safety.

Prosecution says Barry used drugs, lied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal prosecutor told jurors Tuesday that Mayor Marlos Barry has been "smoking cocaine and smoking crack for years all over D.C." and repeatedly lied to his constituents and a grand jury about it. Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Roberts said Barry had hidden drugs in the cuffs of his pants and even came up with a nickname — M.B. Specials—for the cocaine-laced cigarettes he made. Barry's attorney, R. Kenneth Mundy, countered by telling jurors that he will prove that Barry was entangled.

Search continues for missing in Ohio River

SHADYSIDE, Ohio (UPI) — Seven boat crews combed the Ohio River and other crews worked isolated areas of two creek beds Tuesday in a search for 13 people still unaccounted for from Thursday night's flash floods. The bodies of six victims have been recovered and those still missing are feared dead. "They're going to continue on indefinitely, until we feel we have done everything," Shadyside Fire Chief Mark Bodia said. Nearly 1,000 Ohio National Guardsmen, state and local officials and volunteers have been working on the cleanup effort and providing help to displaced families since the floods.

German church sues to get back stolen art

DALLAS (UPI) — A federal judge ruled that representatives of an East German Lutheran church must be allowed to inventory a cache of medieval artwork allegedly taken by an American Army officer during World War II. U.S. District Judge Sidney A. Fitzwater heard arguments on the telephone Monday and ruled that the artworks could not be moved from their present home in a bank in the small town of Whitewright.

The church Commissioner decided in a lawsuit the Lutheran Church in Quedlinburg, East Germany, filed Monday, demanding return of the artworks.

Playhouse prepares for performances

By Anne Ryman
Staff Writer

The McLeod Theater curtain will stay up when the sun goes down so performers can polish their acts for the three Summer Playhouse shows.

The first production, "Camelot," celebrates its 20th anniversary this year. The well-known musical version of the legend of King Arthur is based on T.H. White's popular novel, "The Once and Future King.

Arthur is an idealist. After his wedding to Guinevere, he begins consolidating the famous Knights of the Round Table. One of them is the flamboyant Lancelot, who falls in love with Guinevere at first sight. The medieval tale deals with the strained relations between these two people.

Camelot features the popular tunes "If Ever I Would Leave You," "Camelot," and "How to Handle a Woman." The second play, "The Odd Couple," is a female version of the story by Neil Simon. Oscar and Felix are the traditional Odd Couple, but this story has a twist. Simon brings together two ugly and different women for this variation. Oscar and Felix become the female counterparts of Olive and Florence. The females share the same misfortunes as the male Odd Couple.

Summer Playhouse is different from productions during the school year. In the summer, a performer can work full time without outside pressure, Mike Hanes, director of the orchestra, said.

Christian Moe, director of "The Odd Couple," agrees. "It is almost entirely a professional situation. Performers are not concerned with course work. They work (on the production) 12 hours a day. This demands total commitment and time and energy," Moe said.

This format represents a change in the structure of the Summer Playhouse. In the past, participation had been mainly for academic credit. There has been a conscious effort to move toward professionalism which means better experience for performers and staff, Mike Morris, director of "Camelot," said.

Advertising majors asset to SIU image

TURNING MARKETABLE ideas into gold requires a special feel for the buying habits of the American public. Sometimes the School of Journalism’s chapter of the American Advertising Federation must have the Midas touch.

For the second time in six years, SIU-C’s AAF students have been named No. 2 in the nation at the National Student Advertising Competition.

WORK ALREADY has begun on next year’s challenge to devise an advertising campaign for American Airlines. In the meantime, however, this year’s winners are rightfully basking in the glory of their second-place national ranking, announced earlier this month in St. Louis.

This year, more than 130 journalism schools around the nation entered the competition at regional levels. SIU-C’s team was one of only 570 that made it to the national finals.

The team’s objective was to find a niche in the magazine market that is untapped, Johan Yssel, AAF student adviser, said.

After six months of market research, the AAF students decided to select single parents as their target group.

According to the contest rules, the magazine had to have a circulation potential of 750,000 readers by the year 1993.

A 12-PAGE PROTOTYPE of Single Parent magazine was designed for the contest. It included an article on “How to Talk to Your Daughters” just for dads and a monthly “Single Parent Profile.”

The SIU-C team also devised an advertising campaign to promote its new magazine via billboards in urban areas and direct mail in rural areas.

For their months of market research, their ingenuity and the positive image they have reflected upon SIU-C, the Daily Egyptian congratulates these advertising students on their national acclaim.

Trump’s troubles tricky

Scipps Howard News Service

It was only a few weeks ago that Donald Trump, whom many people said had no business running a newspaper, was roundly swatted away as a one-man band by the courts. He was dismissed as a joke, a one-off real estate tycoon who could go full boar in the tabloids, but would never make it in the ’marketplace of ideas’.

The Germans, those wordsmiths to the world, already have the perfect word to describe the public reaction to Trump’s erupting financial woes: “schadenfreude,” which describes the “enjoyment taken from another person’s troubles.”

In a way, Trump has always been a figure of fun. His autobiography (subtitled “The Art of the Deal”) sold in the millions but was roundly swatted by the critics for its platitudes and egomania.

Flag protection not the best solution

Several arguments have been advanced by both sides on the flag-burning issue, but I think the controversy boils down to two distinct positions:

1) The U.S. flag is the strongest symbol we have of our nation’s freedom and heritage and should be protected against desecration; those of us who believe in the Bill of Rights would undermine the very freedom that the U.S. flag represents. In my opinion, both sides are right. But, as is often the case on multiple choice tests with more than one correct answer, one must choose the best answer to receive credit.

Obviously, any American worth his or her salt respects the flag and all it stands for. We clinge when we see film footage on the evening news of misguided, radical cretins torching the flag we love so dearly.

Can’t something be done to stop them, we ask. Can’t a law be passed to end this reprehensible behavior? A law was passed, as most of us know, but even with the conservative tilt of the current Supreme Court, five of the justices still had the foresight to realize by upholding a law that restrains even the most offensive freedom of expression, a dangerous precedent would be set for further infringement upon the Bill of Rights. What is most frightening here—and virtually unlooked for by the majority—is that the 5-4 vote to preserve the Bill of Rights was as close as possible without changing the outcome of the final ruling.

How would the thugs and vandals who burned our flag feel if the Court had held the flag-burning law unconstitutional? Would they have cried about rights and liberties and freedoms being denied? Probably. But had the Court upheld the law, a very subtle but powerful irony would have succeeded in making America—the country we love and they apparently hate—a less free land for all of us. No wonder how much we love and respect the flag, if you’re a truly patriotic American, you love what it stands for even more.

Therefore, we should be thankful for the Court’s decision.

In this age of drug-testing (what about the Bill of Right’s supposed protection against self-incrimination?), music censorship, bikini-banning on Florida’s public beaches, etc., it will come as no surprise if our country, angry at flag-burners and hating the law itself by whatever means possible, ratifies an amendment against flag-desecration.

If such an amendment is passed, those of us who love America and the flag will still love America and the flag, even though the freedom that the flag represents will be, at least in the eyes of the law, a bit more restricted.

But, if after all the super-charged “patriotic” speeches and demagoguery in this election year, the amendment fails, we can still hoist our flags just as easily, knowing that even though a handful of malcontents have burned Old Glory, they’ve no way of making the freedom of the American flag represent What is most frightening.

Teachers deserve better than society offers

By Brian Dickinson

Providence Journal

With the school year finished, it is time to shelve textbooks and watch students scatter to the four winds. It’s a winding-down time, and for no one more than teachers.

Most of them have to gear up for back to school again in a few weeks.

Teachers as a group, in fact, tend to get a bum rap in our society. The best teachers I know work fiercely hard. Most are dedicated; some are brilliant. In fourth grade I had a teacher named Iris Berry who could go full steam all day—long division, Abraham Lincoln, Hawaii volcanoes, spelling bees—and never lose her temper. She had a knack for making it fun to memorize multiplication tables; and at recess she would then come outside and umpire our softball games.

Teachers hold the key to what makes schools tick, although from a quick sampling of the literature on “school reform” you might not know it. People who work at improving American schools need to focus on budgets, drop-outs, test-taking, administration, curriculum requirements, legislativeendid—almost everything except the person who makes all the difference for a student: The teacher.

When it comes to ranking various occupations, Americans don’t seem to hold teaching in high esteem; and most salary scales reflect this. Teachers as a group deserve better.
Edgar releases plan to fight drugs

CHICAGO (UPI) — The state would create a death penalty for drug kingpins and test prison inmates and young offenders in juvenile detention facilities for drugs under a drug plan released Tuesday by Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

The Republican candidate for governor also wants those convicted of drug offenses to face minimum sentences of 31,000 fines, 100 hours of community service or both, instead of having judges from granting court supervision to those convicted of narcotics violations.

Efforts to intensify the war on drugs were controversial in an election year but it is questionable whether Edgar would be able to push the plans through the Democratically-controlled Legislature if he is elected. Edgar said later at a news conference in Springfield.

"One of the major things putting people in prison is drugs, whether it's a drug-related crime or a drug-driven crime. The testing we call for here... and the increase in parole deduction both are geared to keep people who have a prison from going back to prison."

The number of Navy ships from 566 to 455, including mothballing 10 nuclear missiles would be able to keep troops on the table for years, Edgar said. At a time when all four of its battalions, and two Navy airings, is being cut by a quarter, from 36 to 25.

Strategic Defense Initiative-the "Star Wars" anti-missile system. Its budget was $2.5 million reduced by the plan through 1993. The House of Representatives approved the plan and the Senate secretary, 6-12.

"A new state anti-nickel/scoring law to toughen criminal sanctions against gang leaders and others involved in gang-related violence:"

"Enforcement of the state law making drug dealers to purchase tax stamps."

"Drug education efforts in schools particularly to help teachers identify students who use drugs:"

"Evaluation of drug treatment programs."

"Do we accept the Cheney Nunn-Bush bill? It hasn't moved from what Bush proposed in January. My guess is the answer to that is "no," Aspin said.

Aspin characterized the reaction of Democrats in the budget talks to Cheney's presentation as "skeptical."

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "I don't think we're finished with defense."

He numbers (Cheney's) came out today about where the president's budget came out in the budget year."

Cheney said the negotiators are still in the "early stage of budget talks."

"We have not conceded anything on defense yet—no need to."

Fight between McDonald's, environmentalists continues

By Michael Mansur

The myth of "Archie McPuff" is dead. But the fight between McDonald's Corp. and environmental groups continues.

For months environmentalists have rallied against a purported proposal by the fast-food giant to put up incinerators at all of its restaurants. McDonald's actually was only studying the idea as a way of eliminating its massive amount of polystyrene products by McDonald's, called the plan a nightmare. Rumors circulated in

Environmentalists, already lobbying against the heavy use of polystyrene products by McDonald's, called the plan a nightmare. Rumors circulated in groups which urged the recent federal prohibition against smoking on airlines be extended to buses.

A spokesman for the American Bus Association also noted eight states (California, Idaho, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah and Washington) already ban smoking on buses, and many regional and commuter bus companies have prohibited smoking.

Action on Smoking or Health spokesman Adrena Mueller said the bus rule will be easier on smokers than the airline ban.

"Buses stop every hour or two, so smokers will have ample opportunity to have an occasional cigarette," she said.

No opposition to the ICC cigarette regulation is planned by the Tobacco Institute, the tobacco industry's lobbying organization, despite its position that the ICC should stay out of the smoking controversy and allow individual bus companies to set their own policies.

"It's always been our feeling that seats in the rear of the bus near the toilets aren't choice seats," said Tobacco Institute vice president Walter Merryman.

A final vote on the issue is expected this fall.

Approval of the ban would leave only one form of public transportation that still allows smoking in certain areas: Amtrak.

Amtrak permits smoking in some of its bar cars and in at least one car on every train. Smoking also is allowed in private sleeping compartments.

Two University professors win Sturgis Memorial Awards

By Theresa Livingston

Staff Writer

Two senior University faculty members have been named as the recipients of the 1990 Lindell W. Sturgis Memorial Awards. Jack W. Graham, professor and former chair of the Department of Education, and Carol A. Pastichio, professor of Higher Education, won the 1990 Sturgis Professional Service Award and David T. Kenney, professor of political science who also has served in state government, received the 1990 Sturgis Professional Achievement Award.

The awards, which carry a $500 cash prize, are only awards given directly by the SIU Board of Trustees. They were given out at a press conference in the Student Center Ballrooms following Thursday's board meeting.

The ceremony was named for Metropolis native Lindell W. Sturgis.

Sturgis, a 30-year veteran of both the state Teachers College Board and the SIU Board of Trustees, was chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees from 1969 until his term expired in 1972. The Professional Service award, which has been given annually since 1980, recognizes University faculty and staff members for professional service unrelated to their jobs.

Graham was nominated for the award by Carol D. McDermott, McKenzie, acting director of the University's Clinical Center, was the 1990 recipient of the award. She cited Graham's work as a leader of the First United Methodist Church in Carbondale as an example of Graham's commitment to public service.

"Jack has given selflessly to the church over the many years he has been a member, providing impeccable leadership in whatever office he has served," Carol Danesch, spokesperson for Rev. Don Carleen, senior pastor for the church, said.

Graham chairs the the church's finance committee and serves on the 21st Century United Methodist Conference Board for Financial Administration.

He also helped establish the Wesley Foundation for students near the University's campus in 1954.

"Making a contribution to one's community, beyond one's work responsibilities, is important," Graham said, "but I was still very much surprised to win.

In addition to his ecumenical duties, Graham belongs to the Southern Illinois United Methodist Women's Association, serves on the Carbondale Boy Scout's Western Division Advisory Board, has been a long-standing Red Cross Bloodmobile Volunteer and Carbondale Rotary Club member.

Graham is the past president of the University's Phi Kappa Phi honor society, the Illinois College Personnel Association and the American College Personnel Association.

Kenney is only the second person in the history of the University to receive the Sturgis professional achievement award, which honors outstanding professional accomplishments.

"It's a great honor to receive this award," Kenney said. "I appreciate it very keenly.

The award's only previous recipient, Rev. D. Kanes, won it in 1984 for his work as director of Area Services for the University's Office of Regional Research and Service.

"Dave Kanes is an outstanding citizen of the SIU and Carbondale communities," John S. Jackson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Kenney's nominator for the award, said. "He quickly comes to mind as a person who exemplifies the qualifications of what the Sturgis (awards) stands for."

Kenney said his most profound influence on public policy came when he was an elected delegate to the 1969-70 Illinois Constitutional Convention.

The delegates spent nine months and went through many drafts of a proposed updated constitution before a version was submitted to the University's Phi Kappa Phi honor society, the Illinois College Personnel Association and the American College Personnel Association.

Kenney's work as an author has brought him recognition. Kenney's book on Illinois government is "still the leading work in its field," according to Jackson.

Kenney also is the author of "A Political Passage," a biography of former Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton. Stratton was governor of Illinois form 1953 to 1961.

Kenney said he plans to use the award's prize money to take a long awaited trip to the Grand Canyon.

"I'm going to put in the money in the bank and, come next May, I'm going to ride a mule to the bottom of the Grand Canyon and back up again," he said. "I can't wait."

Report indicates states do poor job in hiring teachers

WASHINGTON (SHNS) - Most states are doing a poor job of recruiting talented teachers who didn't graduate from teacher colleges, says a report issued Tuesday by a private research organization.

The report points out that only 12,000 of the one million new teachers hired in the past five years have come into the public schools through non-traditional certification programs.

It contends that the quality of teaching would improve if the schools who hire more seasoned, well-educated adults who may not have taken teacher training courses in college.

"I think some states are showing the bill," said Emily Feistritzer, who supervised the study as director of the National Center for Education Information.

The report found that 33 states have alternative routes to certification for prospective teachers who may have to spend in a non-teaching course in college.

NOTICE FROM THE FINANCIAL AID OFFICE
ALL UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS MUST COMPLY WITH THE FOLLOWING SATISFACTORY PROGRESS POLICY IN ORDER TO RECEIVE FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS POLICY FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS AT SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY AT CARBONDALE

The Federal Government, the States, and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale have invested large sums of money in order to provide financial need students the opportunity to attain a post-secondary education. Financial aid recipients are responsible for using the funds provided in an acceptable manner. Therefore, a student who wishes to benefit from the receipt of financial aid funds must maintain "satisfactory progress" as defined in this policy.

AUTHORIZED
The Higher Education Act of 1965 as amended and the final regulations set forth by the Department of Education in 34 CFR 668 require that institutions of higher education establish reasonable standards of "satisfactory progress". A student who does not meet these standards is not eligible to receive federally funded financial aid. Southern Illinois University at Carbondale shall make these standards applicable to all state and institutional aid programs for the purpose of maintaining a consistent and reasonable financial aid policy.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS STANDARDS

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale requires that a student be making "satisfactory progress" toward a degree if he or she wishes to receive financial aid funds. A student is making "satisfactory progress" toward a degree if successfully meeting two basic academic standards. First, a student must complete a reasonable number of credit hours toward a degree each academic year: Second, a student must maintain a scholastic standing, derived from grades, that allows for continued enrollment at the University under current academic guidelines. The following parameters will be used to define these two basic academic standards:

1) Maximum time to graduate: A full-time, eligible student is expected to complete a degree in six academic years (12 semesters). A half-time, eligible student is expected to complete a degree in twelve academic years (24 semesters). In order to be sure that a student is progressing toward that goal, each student's progress will be measured annually after Spring Semester to determine the progress made for the last academic year of attendance. Each term of at least half-time attendance shall be included in the annual review, whether or not the student received financial aid for the term. The following chart will serve as a model to determine if each student is meeting this requirement of satisfactory progress.

2) Grades: A student must remain in compliance with the University's policy concerning scholastic standing, grades, and grade point average as defined under the topic "Grading, Scholastic Regulations, and Credit" in the current Undergraduate Catalog Bulletin. A student who is on Scholastic Suspension is not maintaining "satisfactory progress". A student who is scholastically suspended may be readmitted under Scholastic Probation status by the appropriate academic dean and remain eligible for financial aid. Each student's scholastic standing will be monitored after each semester or term of attendance.

A student who does not meet both of the standards set forth above and who cannot show "mitigating circumstances" is not maintaining "satisfactory progress" toward a degree and is no longer eligible to receive financial aid funds. (See Appeals)

Nothing in this policy shall be construed as a reduction of external requirements by other federal, state, public, or private agencies when they award or control financial aid. Examples of such agencies are: Veterans Administration, Vocational Rehabilitation, and the NCAA.

DEFINITIONS

Credit hours completed shall be defined as the total number of academic credit hours for which a student receives any grade other than a failing grade. Incomplete, withdrawals, audits, and remedial courses which do not count toward a degree shall not be considered as credit hours completed. Credit hours received for repeated courses shall be counted only once.

Eligible students shall be defined as those students who are admitted to the University in a degree-seeking classification. All other students are not eligible for financial aid.

Full-time attendance for undergraduates shall be defined as enrollment in twelve (12) hours or more per semester. Half-time attendance for undergraduates shall be defined as enrollment in six (6) or more hours, but less than twelve (12) hours per semester. Undergraduate shall be defined as a student who is a freshman, sophomore, junior, senior or a senior with a bachelor's degree seeking a second bachelor's.

NOTIFICATION OF TERMINATION

It shall be the responsibility of the Financial Aid Office to publish this policy and to notify by letter any student who is no longer eligible to receive financial aid funds. Said notice shall be addressed to the student's most current permanent address on file with the University. IT SHALL BE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE STUDENT TO INFORM THE UNIVERSITY OF A CORRECT PERMANENT ADDRESS AT ALL TIMES.

RESTATEMENT

Students will have their eligibility to receive financial aid reinstated when they have reached the level of satisfactory progress required of them by this policy. They may achieve this status by the completion of incomplete grades, correction of incorrect grades, and by earning sufficiently more than the required number of completed hours for a term or terms of attendance without the benefit of financial aid.

APPEALS

Any student who cannot meet the grades requirement, or the cumulative credit hours completion requirement shall have an opportunity to appeal in writing to explain "mitigating circumstances". The appeal should be sent to the Financial Aid Office within 15 days of the notice of termination. The Financial Aid Office will review the "mitigating circumstances" documented in the appeal and provide a written decision within 20 days after receipt of the appeal.

Know what expansion in baseball really means? Expanded wallets for the current franchise owners.

The National League is going to expand to Great Britain. Only 16 years after the American League jumped two teams ahead of it. Where the old league have vision like that, they go to the doctor. And get glasses.

But at least it's finally being done. They're going to charge about a million pounds per team, though, so bring your wallets.

And where does the money go? To the owners of the teams. It's the world's biggest initiation fee. A one-time admission charge for joining one of the most exclusive clubs.

And have we learned anything since 1969? No, and Seattle joined the American League in 1977? Well, if anything we've become a little more skilled in the art of taking advantage of other people. It's amazing. Really. If one person did to another person what baseball is doing to its prospective franchisees, two lawyers would get rich. The two people would be in court so fast they'd make Carl Lewis look like he was walking.

It's almost as if they're taking off an ad in the paper: "Wanted. Two people on the street corner in Venice, Both. $100 million each. And give it to us.

And the line is two blocks long! Actually it's not quite that bad. You do get something in return — magged.

In exchange for the privilege of giving away your money (Hey, don't worry, you got to be on the receiving line when we do it the next time!), you get to have a terrible league baseball team for five to 10 years. Or, if you do it like the Mariners did, you could get a bad team.

What they're selling the new members — and they're going to be teased along for more than a year until a decision on their identity is made — is that they have to start from scratch just like everybody else did.

OK, maybe we're being a little harsh. After all, baseball is giving the new franchises one whole year to participate in the draft and begin farm systems before they begin National League play. Which is more than other expansion teams have had.

But doesn't the expansion committee have a conscience? Would it have been so tough to do it right? Or is the temptation to fatten up on the newcomers on the field and in advertising just too great to pass up?

It isn't like they haven't known they were going to expand. Pressure has been building from Congress, the players' union and cities without major league baseball. It's been a matter of "when" and not "if" for several years.

There could have been an expansion team in a couple of years ago. It could have made a decision on new NL teams by now. Those teams would have had a good head start on building stadiums, constructing a stadium and building a fan base.

burden, causing missed class time that needs to be made up. Summer classes and extra tutoring services help.

"What some people look at as privileges really are obligations," said Jeff Fogelson, Xavier athletic director. "They're obligations that an institution has to a student-athlete because we're expecting that kid to come and play and practice and represent the school.

With only 15 percent of the grades for students graduating in four years, the time-length of a scholarship becomes an issue. Presently, it varies at schools, some providing a fifth year of scholarship time for athletes to complete degrees.

The NCAA is studying proposals to mandate giving the fifth year of scholarship to an athlete who has completed his eligibility and not signed as a professional athlete.

But you have to look at how bad the athlete worked in that four-year period," said R.C. Hunter, Miami University athletic director. "Did he kind of coast through or did he really try to graduate? It's not a simple call.

English soccer fans sent home after drunken brawls

ALGERO, Sardinia (UPI) — Eight English soccer fans were deported from Italy Tuesday for drunken brawling.

A magistrate sentenced their short prison sentences and ordered them from the country. Police arrested all eight in the nearby airport and put them on a plane to London.

All were convicted for fighting with stones and bottles in a bar in the streets of Alghero last Thursday. Three were charged additionally with resisting police.

Magistrate Id. Sora sentenced five of the eight to four months' detention and fines of $16 each. The remaining three -- those charged with resisting police -- were sentenced to four months and 20 days in jail and fines of $16 each.

But Sora suspended the sentences on condition the eight were expelled from Italy.

The eight had been staying in this beach resort in northwest Sardinia, some 100 miles from the island capital of Cagliari, where the England World Cup team is playing its first-round games.

Sora's action was similar to that taken by a magistrate in Cagliari Monday who sentenced 14 English fans to jail terms ranging from four months to 4 1/2 months, but suspended the sentences on condition the fans were expelled from Italy.

The British government has asked Italian authorities to charge all fans arrested for soccer-related violence, so that it can prevent them from traveling to future games outside England.

Late Monday and early Tuesday police broke up two fights involving a few Sardinians and English fans at the small beach resorts of Santa Margherita and Villasisims, both some 20 miles for Cagliari.

In each instance about a dozen brawlers battled with stones and bottles, and at Santa Margherita they damaged some parked cars. Police took them to headquarters for questioning and released them.

In another incident late Monday night, police raided a campsite near St. Margherita di Pula and arrested several English fans for drug possession.

An interior ministry spokesman said Monday in the first 10 days of the World Cup 25 English fans and 35 West Germans had been arrested for soccer violence. Most of the English fans were arrested in the Cagliari area of Sardinia and the West Germans in Milan, where about 1,000 German fans rioted downtown June 10.
