Work to resume; new crane coming

By Sue Roll
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Work will resume at the Humanities Building construction site Thursday, IU Legal Counsel T. Richard Mager said Wednesday.

"As far as the University is going to be concerned, work may be resumed at the site. We never had the legal right to close the site in the first place," Mager said.

Mager said the University had "been advised by the construction superintendent of the project that they will commence work" Thursday. The first few days of resumed work will probably have to be spent removing the debris from Monday's accident, he said.

"We'll be working under full steam tomorrow," said Otto Aue, general superintendent for the J.L. Simmons Construction Company. Aue said all workers will be back on the job Thursday dismantling the wrecked 110-ton crane. All other equipment will also be in use, Aue said.

A 30-ton crane will be brought in if one can be found, Aue said. He said he has ordered an 85-ton crane to resume the work of the wrecked crane. This crane is expected to arrive Thursday morning from Champaign. It will take one day to assemble it, Aue said.

President David R. Derge released a statement Thursday announcing that the east-west accessway through the site where the students were injured will be closed indefinitely to all student, faculty and staff pedestrian traffic.

"I have consulted extensively with my staff and have received advice from the president of the student body and others concerning safety at the Humanities-Social Sciences Building construction site following the tragic accident Monday," Derge said. "Moreover, I have consulted my own conscience with the realization that future safety is more important than convenience."

Derge also said a safety review of the area surrounding the site which is under University control will be made. "I may direct further safety precautions to be taken in the event that I determine them to be necessary," Derge said.

Among the possibilities for further safety precautions are blocking off the sidewalks adjacent to the site and closing the north side entrance to the Student Center.

Mager said the University's investigation is completed as far as evidence at the site is concerned. He said no public disclosure of the findings of the investigation will be made other than what is included in the coroner's report and in lawsuits as they come up in court. Mager said no suits have been filed yet.

The two girls injured in the accident, Sally Brewer, 19, a freshman from Chicago, and Valerie Vicek, 19, a freshman from Ingleside, have refused to talk about the accident to reporters.

The Student Senate passed a resolution Wednesday night calling for Illinois governor Richard B. Ogilvie to consider the dismissal of four members of the SIU Board of Trustees for their stand in the Doug Allen tenure case. The bill also requests that on-campus hearings be held so further study can be made to help determine the personal reasons for each of the members' decision against Allen's tenure.

Jim Peters, student body vice president, told the senators that George Camille, student body president, might veto the bill if it were passed. After ten minutes of debate, the senators voted unanimously in favor of the bill.

McCarthy asks 'new directions' for country

By David L. Mahsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Presidential hopeful Eugene McCarthy Wednesday night called for a new direction for America in respect to the war in Southeast Asia, the economy and personal freedom.

Speaking to some 5,000 people in the SIU Arena, McCarthy blamed the Vietnam War for many of America's problems. He said that America need not be the "most militaristic nation in the world," if it elects a president who will say the war had gone on long enough and who will take the necessary steps to end it.

One step toward ending the war is the election of a man who will accept a new government in Vietnam, the former senator from Minnesota said. He added that although some say a new government would be unstable, "it took ten governments to get us in," and it is all right with him if it takes ten to get us out.

Related to the war is the current shape of the nation's economy, he said. McCarthy said the defense budget must be cut. Another step he said he would take if elected would be to support an 80 per cent cut in funding for the space program. Money now spent on that project should go for more employment and aid to such cities as East St. Louis "and 30 or 40 others that are deteriorating," McCarthy said.

Another target of McCarthy's attack was "the three systems of justice in America." He said there is one system for those who can afford it, another for the poor, the young and minority groups and a third for those who abuse the poor, the young and minority groups.

"We need one system, one Bill of Rights," he said.

To rid the country of the war, unemployment and unequal justice, McCarthy said an attack must be waged on large corporations, the medical profession, the educational system and the political system and parties.

McCarthy received a standing ovation when he walked on stage at the Arena and was applauded throughout an attack on the Nixon administration.

He said that when the nation was born, it had such leaders as Thomas Jefferson, John Jay and Alexander Hamilton. Today, America has "someone" in place of Jefferson as secretary of state, Warren Burger instead of Jay and John Connally in the stead of Hamilton, he said.

McCarthy said that if the country keeps making progress in this vein, "I wonder how much more of it we can stand."

Student Senate bill asks dismissal of four from Board of Trustees

Next on the agenda, the senate voted to send $25 to the family of Michael Hayes to be donated to the charity of their choice. They will also send a note of sympathy to the family. Hayes was killed Monday in a construction accident on the Humanities Building site.

The senators tabled a resolution which called for the Humanities Building to be renamed in memory of Hayes until it is determined how his family feels about the idea.

Also tabled was a bill calling for a letter of thanks to be sent from the senate to the Carbondale Mobile Home Association for its help in keeping a proposed mobile home tax from causing rent increases to students living in mobile homes.

The senators took the action because they did not understand all the details of the proposed bill.

In other business, the senate voted to obtain a copy of a proposal which will be sent to the Board of Trustees requesting a 2.7 per cent increase in on-campus dorm rates. Ten senators said they wanted to study the proposal so they can provide student input on the subject to the board.

The body also voted to formally recognize the Saluki Trap and Skeet Club as a student organization and to provide funds not to exceed $300, for the Iranian Student Association's upcoming New Year's Party.

In final business, they accepted the resignation of Carolyn Gondalfo, west side non-dorm senator, and Jack Wallin, commuter senator.

Women discuss plan for local center

By Lynda Eichenseer
Student Writer

The topics of organizing a Women's Center, developing programs and courses at SIU and the future of county and school board elections were discussed Tuesday at the Southern Illinois Women's Political Caucus.

The committee planning the Women's Center had asked to rent a University owned house in Carbondale but were told no space was available. Members were asked to notify the committee if they knew of any homes in the area. Pledge forms were given to members and they were asked to contact any individuals or groups interested in making contributions to the proposed center by Ms. Genevieve Houghton, committee member.

The center needs two residents to operate it and will not be open to

State hospital permits tightened

SPRINGFIELD, (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie Wednesday tightened controls over the use of doctors working under permits in state mental hospitals, and a doctor overseeing them was suspended.

The governor had ordered an investigation of a state mental hospital where a man had worked as a doctor, although records showed he flunked his Illinois licensing examinations three times.

men. Women leaving their home can bring their children to the center.

Ms. Houghton said that they want to admit teenage girls, but must first inquire about the legal aspects.

An announcement was made that women's courses would only be offered to President's Scholar students spring quarter. Next year no women's courses will be taught. Members decided to circulate a petition to students to have a women's program taught.

Ms. Elizabeth Nall, sociology instructor at SIU, said, "There is no support for a women's program at the University, the subject is considered unnecessary. SIU is far behind as far as women's programs are concerned. Some universities offer women's courses in sociology, psychology, history, English and art departments. They even offer degrees in these areas." She added, "Unless we start now there will be no women's courses offered at all next year."

Eight women running for school board offices will be invited to speak at the next caucus, meeting, March 28.

Nixon order limits use of 'secret' stamp

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon, declaring that bureaucrats have been using secrecy stamps too often, ordered sweeping new procedures Wednesday aimed at ending "the many abuses of the security system."

In essence, Nixon directed that fewer documents be classified in the future and that those already designated "top secret," "secret" and "confidential" be made public more quickly than in the past.

In a statement issued as he signed an executive order for the first major overhaul of classification procedures since 1953, Nixon said: "The many abuses of the security system can no longer be tolerated. Fundamental to our way of life is the belief that when information which properly belongs to the public is systematically withheld by those in power, the people soon become ignorant of their own affairs, distrustful of those who manage them, and—eventually—incapable of determining their own destinies." The President contended that the old set-up "failed to meet the standards of an open and democratic society, allowing too many papers to be classified for too long a time."

Membership uncertain Street party task force likely

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A task force of uncertain composition will apparently be set up to study the problem of "street parties" in downtown Carbondale and make recommendations to what should be done to avert such occurrences.

That was the outgrowth of considerable discussion of the matter at Tuesday night's regular meeting of the Carbondale City Council.

Among the groups tentatively named to be represented on the task force are SIU students from various living areas, student government, University administration, downtown merchants, local advisory groups and the police department.

No names were mentioned, and the council took no formal action to set the task force machinery in operation. However, the city staff will prepare a resolution endorsing an 18-year-old drinking law and the campus steps which were indicated that might ease the downtown problem.

The Council also decided to actively seek minority group members among the candidates for city vacancies, including the city manager post. That action was taken upon recommendation by the Carbondale Human Relations Commission, which said in a letter to the council that "It is time for the City of Carbondale to employ members of minority groups in administrative positions."

The letter specifically mentioned blacks, women, Chicanos (Mexican-Americans) and American Indians.

In other action, the council approved a contract with the Carbondale Land Development Company which provides for city assistance in financing a frontage road north of a proposed department store complex in east Carbondale.

Under the terms of the agreement, the city will pay up to $31,750 over a ten-year period to the developer of the University Mall as compensation for expenses incurred by the company in building the asphalt depth road. The figure listed is 49 per cent of the road's total cost. The city will reimburse the company out of state sales tax revenues on sales in excess of $5 million each year. If the company fails to register sales amounting to that figure, the city will not be obligated to pay.

The city will also build an intersection approximately one fourth mile east of the present Ill. 13 intersection at the J. C. Penney complex. The intersection will connect Ill. 13, the frontage road and the Giant City blacktop, which will be extended northward. The blacktop currently terminates at its intersection with old Ill. 13.

The council expressed its agreement with recommendations of an annexation subcommittee of the Citizens Advisory Committee.

Summer stock theatre announces auditions

The School of Music and the Department of Theatre will hold auditions for the 1972 summer theatre stock company on Sunday, March 12 from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the University Theatre, Communications Building.

All applicants must be prepared to present two one-minute segments of dialogue or monologue, one serious and one comic.

Applicants auditioning for the musical comedy company should be prepared to sing two songs of their own choice and supply their own piano sheet music. Accompanists will be provided, and applicants should bring clothing and shoes suitable for dance auditions.

Funds will be provided in the budget for fiscal year 1972-73 for the initial annexation study.

The council also approved resolutions requesting the maintenance of an Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission field office in Carbondale, adopting the new pay plan for the city's non-union employees and declaring April 10 Arbor Day in Carbondale.

For further information call Mary Elaine Wallace, School of Music, at 453-2792; or Jo Mack, Department of Theatre, at 453-5741.

Telephone extortionist sentenced

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago man who pleaded guilty to a charge that he tried to extort $22,000 from American Airlines in a bomb scare plot was sentenced Wednesday to three years in prison.

Judge Thomas R. McMillen of U.S. District Court sentenced Roy Ray King, 30, an unemployed laborer, after he pleaded guilty to charges that he made false reports concerning destruction of an airplane two months ago.

King was arrested Jan. 11, several days after an anonymous caller telephoned the airline's reservation desk with threats that a bomb was aboard a flight bound for San Francisco.

The caller told a reservations clerk that he would tell the airlines officials how to deactivate the bomb if they would deliver $22,000 to a North Side hotel.

Investigators put together descriptions of a man seen making phone calls from a public telephone booth in the hotel at the same time the reservations desk was receiving the threatening call and arrested King.

Nebraska legislature moves to investigate Indian's death

GORDON, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska's Legislature ordered the state Attorney General Wednesday to investigate last month's death of Raymond Yellow Thunder and the protests from Indians which followed.

The purpose of the Attorney General's probe would be to bring recommendations to the legislature for possible action.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, sponsor of the motion, said the legislature has a duty to let Indians who feel aggrieved know "that we are concerned."

The motion passed in Lincoln by the legislature specified that such an investigation should not interfere with or preclude a grand jury investigation.

American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders met with local officials Wednesday to discuss the grievances which brought an influx of 1,000 Indians into the community Tuesday. About 500 of the Indians remained in this Sand Hills town of 2,106 persons.

Russell Means, an AIM spokesman from Cleveland, Ohio, said he feels the mass gathering has "focused attention on the problems of the Indians in this area, on the problems of racism in Gordon against the Indians."

The Indians—most of them Sioux from the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota, about 50 miles to the north—came here to protest official handling of the death of Yellow Thunder, 51, an Oglala Sioux from the reservation.

Yellow Thunder's body was found Feb. 20 in a used car lot in Gordon, eight days after he allegedly was accosted outside an American Legion hall where a dance was in progress. He was stripped from the waist down and shoved onto the dance floor, according to Sheridan County Attorney Michael Smith, who is handling prosecution of the case.

Five persons have been charged in connection with the death and a preliminary hearing for the five is set for next Tuesday.

Time will exonerate Allen

To The Daily Egyptian:

In a Feb. 29 article, Prof. Leland G. Stauber probed the Douglas Allen tenure case with the measured tone and sure professionalism of a keen academic mind. Stauber rose to the defense of free speech and the open forum. The tradition of free speech and the open forum belong to the most treasured American institutions, and rightly so, though at times the reality of this institution seems to fall far short of the ideal. Since there is little doubt that Allen actually transgressed against the open forum it is very difficult to disagree with Stauber's conclusion that Allen is in line for some form of reprimand. And yet I must disagree with this conclusion.

To get to the quarrel I have with Stauber's conclusions, I must recount an anecdote that I have from a very reliable source. In the 1930's my father-in-law was a teacher in Germany. He and his father were active in their support of the Social Democratic Party. (Here in Southern Illinois we might refer to them as "pinks" or "commies," or even "goons." Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany is a member of this party). It became a regular thing for my father-in-law and his father to attend the local rallies of the National Socialists Party (the Nazis). Moved by a deep sense of moral outrage, these two men did whatever they could to interrupt the proceedings. Since their actions soon marked them as troublemakers, and since there was little indication that they had adequate appreciation for the principles of the open forum, appropriate action was taken. The elder man was removed from his position, turned out upon the street, where he might seek to support himself as best he could. Since he could not overcome the unfortunate habit of demonstrating his lack of appreciation for the open forum, at least at Nazi rallies, the government soon took more stringent measures. They threw him in jail. He was in and out of Nazi jails several times. Finally, when his incorrigibility could no longer be questioned, he was marked for removal to one of the then popular concentration camps. In a desperate (and successful) effort to save his father from the gas chamber my father-in-law decided to join the Nazi party. (They didn't actually welcome him with open arms—he had to do some fast talking to explain the "mistakes" of the past.) After the smoke cleared a few years later, one of these troublemakers, my father-in-law's father, was elected on the SPD ticket as mayor of Offenbach.

While I by no means wish to equate America, 1969, with Germany, 1939, I would like to draw some relevant parallels. In the Germany of 1939 as in the America of 1969, atrocities were systematically perpetrated against innocent civilians by the central government. Though these atrocities were perpetrated against "inferior" peoples, and usually far from moved by a sense of moral outrage to protest. In each instance the representatives of the power structure moved against these protesters, these trouble makers, depriving them of their livelihood, if not always of their lives.

My quarrel with Stauber is that it seems to me quite possible for a man moved by a sense of moral outrage to transgress against the open forum and somehow still be "right." I believe that when the smoke from Vietnam finally clears, we, as a nation, will not seek to reprimand men such as Allen for forgetting for a time their academic dignity. Not even a little bit. I believe that we will seek them out, rejoice in their memory and cherish their deeds as a bit of light in a dark chapter of American history.

Stauber puts new light on Allen's tactics

To the Daily Egyptian:

I admire Professor Leland Stauber for having the guts to take an unpopular stand (Daily Egyptian, Feb. 29), on the very important issue of Mr. Douglas Allen's tenure. It brought some new light to bear on Allen's motives and tactics.

Allen has been painted in letters to the Egyptian as an intelligent, honest man, a great teacher who's only trying to speak his mind. He is, in short, portrayed as a martyr.

Don't support CFUT 'hatchetmen'

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Daily Egyptian of March 7 contains some extraordinary information. We are told the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers is setting up a task force to investigate such things as research appointments, funds, released time and scholarly productivity. It must be pointed out that the CFUT represents very few people on this campus, perhaps only the task force and a few sycophants. However, the task force seems to be broadly based only in so far as it represents several varieties of far left opinion headed by Professor Manuel Schonhorn. I doubt if any of that crew would know a competent research proposal if it came up and bit him on the leg. I call upon all members of the University community who are truly concerned with the upgrading of teaching and research to refuse support to a non-representative group of political hatchetmen.

I can understand the subcortical uproar that my notes engender in some faculty and students. This is probably the first time that they have encountered sustained and articulate opposition which attempts to expose their chicanery. The vehement obscenities, the outraged reactions to the woundings of sacred self-images lead me to believe that I have made a small impact. Mr. Malcolm S. Rothman, in his letter in the same issue of the Egyptian, accuses me of using sarcasm and humiliation. Where was he, I wonder, when sarcastic, humiliating invective was heaped upon Professors Fischel, Sachs, Stauber, Schilpp, Maring, Jacobini?

I wish to clarify two of the many factual errors in Rothman's letter.

1. Mr. Douglas Allen's legal suit against the University is of little concern to me. I am, however, very concerned with the barefaced intimidation by a sociology major, a senior, who threatened legal action against a freshman who had expressed her views on one of Allen's classes.

2. I am not concerned with whether Allen can speak Hindi or even English. I asked if he could read the basic primary documents in what purports to be his field of specialization. This is not at all unreasonable. The fact that it is being ignored I find astonishing.

Milton Altschuler
Associate Professor, Anthropology

The Board of Trustees is painted as a very dogmatic, closed-minded organization, willing to dismiss an instructor only because he has "criticized the University." I know very little about the board members, but I would never, without further evidence, believe that was its only reason. I have heard too many people criticize the University in no uncertain terms and not be dismissed.

It is for this reason that I have not signed the petitions for Allen although I have been approached several times. Anyone who does sign is doing so based on INSUFFICIENT evidence if they've gotten it from the Egyptian. I further believe people should have the right to withdraw their names from the petition if they've read Prof. Stauber's article and find they change their mind.

Let me state here that I support Stauber's article 100 per cent and I ink Allen is a hypocrite for wanting his rights or free speech, yet not giving it to others. The evidence for this which Prof. Stauber presents is backed up by witnesses and Allen's own admission.

I am now in the process of changing my major to philosophy, and because I hold different political views from Allen wouldn't want my rights infringed upon should I get him for a class.

I would like to ask the board and administration to openly state their reasons for Allen's dismissal so that every individual at this school has the evidence to decide where they stand.

Kathryn Haizmann
Sophomore, Interior Design

Esperanto a 'workable solution'

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to express my opinion concerning the validity of the Esperanto movement.

Like John F. Gadoway and Richard Ranc (Daily Egyptian, Feb. 18), I believe that Esperanto can be a workable solution to the problem of world communication. I strongly disagree with James Redden, who stated that "There is only one true international language that is neutral as regards to nationality; and the language is English..." (Daily Egyptian, Feb. 18). It is true that English has been adopted by other peoples as a second language, however, one must not assume that this fact renders the language neutral. Perhaps my conception of a neutral language differs from that of Redden. I believe that only Esperanto is neutral simply because of the fact that it is not an outgrowth of the customs or culture of a specific people, rather, it is the creation of a logical system of symbols which by its use of prefixes and suffixes allows for flexibility of expression. Furthermore, Esperanto is free from dialects which is an important consideration.

Any American who has traveled in the United States will attest to the fact that he must adjust to the English spoken in other regions of the country. Indeed, one need only go to the ghettos in our larger cities to realize the striking difference between "black argot" and "white middle class" English. A recent issue of Newsweek magazine discusses the striking differences between the two: "Few differences in the cultural backgrounds of ghetto blacks and the rest of society are more bewildering and difficult to bridge than that of language."

Concerning the difficulty of learning a different type of language structure referred to by Redden, I must strongly disagree. After studying Esperanto for just five months, my knowledge of this language compares to (if not surpasses) my knowledge of French and Spanish, which I have been studying for approximately four and two years, respectively.

Finally, I would like to correct Redden's erroneous translation of "Esperanto." It is correctly translated "The Hoping One"—which obviously, he is not.

Allen's rights, not ideas, must be defended

By Lyman Baker
Instructor, English

There are a number of deficiencies in Professor Leland G. Stauber's analysis of the Douglas Allen case (Daily Egyptian Feb. 29), in which he struggles to find some rationale for accepting the board's actions of Dec. 18, 1971, and Feb. 18, 1972. Here I must limit myself to discussing one of these defects.

Stauber speaks as if the only questions at issue were whether Allen had in fact done anything to warrant denial of tenure and whether there is the slightest possibility that the board, in its two most recent actions, may have had only that behavior in mind. Without conceding either of these points, I would remind the SIU community that neither in December nor in February did the board deny tenure to Allen. In December it confined itself to refusing to rescind its action of Nov. 20, 1970; in February it explicitly reaffirmed this same action. But if that action itself is invalid, any mere reaffirmation of it is vitiated as well.

Recall that on Oct. 16, 1970, the board had sought to insure termination of Allen's employment as of June 11, 1971, by removing from his contract the contingency clause whereby completion of requirements for his doctoral degree would shift his appointment from a term to a continuing basis. This action by the board was rightly opposed by Stauber and others because the former board chairman revealed that the board had sought to sever Allen's connections with SIU because he had "criticized the University" (Southern Illinoisan, Oct. 18, 1970, p.3). In order to avoid a suit for breach of contract, however, the board at its next meeting (Nov. 20, 1970) rescinded its October action and substituted for it another: it directed then-Chancellor Robert G. Layer to notify Allen that he would not be granted tenure at SIU. That the board's motives had not changed is indicated by a remark of the single trustee who opposed this compromise. Complaining of his colleagues' leniency, Martin Van Brown told reporter Ben Gelman that, at the lengthy executive session the day before, "Every member spoke out against Douglas Allen." (Southern Illinoisan Nov. 20, 1970, p.1).

It was, then, on Nov. 20, 1970, that the board acted to deny tenure to Allen. And it is upon the notice served upon Allen in accordance with that action that the board relies to this day. Why has the board resolutely preserved its action of Nov. 20, 1970, instead of rescinding it and denying afresh Allen's tenure, on whatever grounds it believes itself now to possess? Having completed his Ph.D., Allen was promoted to assistant professor June 1, 1971, in accordance with his contract's contingency clause. In the case of assistant professors, the board's By-Laws & Statutes (Art VIII, Sec 6.B.2.c-) require notice of a tenure decision by the end of the fourth year—for Allen, June 1, 1971. Thus, to rescind its action and reopen the case would force the board, under its own rules, to grant Allen tenure.

Nevertheless, there are at least four distinct but related reasons why the board should rescind its action of Nov. 20, 1970—even if Allen's academic performance were to have fallen short of this institution's standards for tenure and even if his behavior at the Sacks lecture or on other occasions were impermissible for a faculty member.

(1) Until it does so, it signifies to the world—but especially to the academic world—that at SIU matters of tenure are sometimes decided without seeking or considering any evaluation by competent authorities of the employee's professional competence. That is surely a strange way to establish an institutional reputation for academic excellence.

(2) Until it does so, it installs at SIU the principle that academic due process is something to be granted or revoked at will: that no employee at this University is assured that he will receive fair treatment, since whether or not he will be afforded the safeguards that provide him the opportunity to present his evidence for the determination of relevant issues lies entirely with the board's arbitrary discretion.

(3) Until it does so, it invites everyone to infer that at SIU people are judged on the basis of the compatibility of their public utterances—if not their private views—with on-going institutional policies. Intelligent, qualified students at SIU will be discouraged from choosing the teaching profession by the knowledge that they may be dismissed for non-conformity. Prospective faculty members of competence and reputation will think twice before committing their careers to the vagaries of whatever may happen to be the prevailing ideology among the members of the board. And this reinforcement of homogeneity and false consensus at the expense of plurality not only narrows the intellectual environment in which youthful minds are supposed to develop and expand: it also since it discourages input from points of view at variance with official opinion, weakens the likelihood that the institution itself will arrive at wise policies in general—i.e., programs and procedures based on a comprehensive understanding of relevant facts and issues.

All three of these facts, together with their corollaries, are reasons why the board's rescension of its action of Nov. 20, 1970, would be in the best interests of the University itself, both as an institution and as a community. The First and Fourteenth Amendments—and their derivatives, academic freedom and academic due process—are as much designed to protect these social and public interests as to guard those of the individual. But these latter deserve our concern as well.

That is, Douglas Allen, merely as an individual in this particular country, has a right not to be denied employment by SIU, an agency of the State, without due process or on grounds unrelated to the nature of the tasks his employment requires him to perform, especially if those grounds happen to include in any way some board member's displeasure with the use he makes of his constitutionally protected speech. Hence, (4) until the board rescinds its action of Nov. 20, 1970, these rights remain infringed. That is why we must come to the defense of this particular person's rights in this case, regardless of whether or not we happen to like him or share his opinions or condone his actions, proved or alleged. Only by defending his rights (not to be confused with him) can we be serious about defending ours. This means causing the board to rescind its action of Nov. 20, 1970, even if that in turn means securing tenure for Allen.

Students needed

To the Daily Egyptian:

Once again the University administration is "tuning out" the students of SIU.

SIU is in the process of putting together a law school. The foremost task at this time is the selection of a dean to start and head the new school. The dean selection committee is made up solely of administrators and faculty members. There are no students, graduate or undergraduate, on the committee.

I find this a little hard to swallow. Why isn't there at least one student on the committee? Does the administration feel that the students are not capable of intelligent decision-making? It certainly seems that way. Surely they haven't forgotten we're here.

The kind of man selected as dean will determine what kind of law school we end up with. It is for that reason that I feel it important to have a student on the committee. We should have some representation as to what kind of school we have. Even token representation would be a change.

It's time students were treated as intelligent beings. I submit that there should be a student selected to serve on the committee that chooses a dean for the new law school.

Query for Derge

To the Daily Egyptian:

An open letter to President David Derge:

I wondered, on Feb. 18, as I observed you at SIU-Edwardsville, why you did not speak out concerning the document read by Trustee Ivan Elliott about Dr. Douglas M. Allen.

At SIU-Carbondale, when the text of that document of the board appeared in the Daily Egyptian, I again wondered why you did not address yourself to certain issues.

Your own biographical sketch in "Who's Who" indicates you received your MA in 1951, your Ph.D. in 1955. Between those degrees stretched a 4-year interval not unlike that between 1967 and 1971 for Allen.

Your list of publications indicates that your first scholarly article was published in 1958, some three years after you received your doctorate.

Now I must wonder if, in your unprotesting acceptance of the board's pronouncement about Allen, you are willing also to condemn Derge along with Allen; or, am I to wonder whether the president of SIU-Carbondale is satisfied to operate by opportunistic whim devoid of elementary principle?

Accident explanation not good enough

To the Daily Egyptian:

I note with interest that the crane was lifting when it collapsed, killing Michael Hayes, supposedly weighed only 1,000 pounds, according to Otto Aue, as quoted in the March 7 Daily Egyptian. I counted approximately 180 pieces of 2 x 4 timber averaging about 12 feet long in the load, which calculates out to roughly 3,600 pounds. This estimate does not take into account various pieces of 1-inch plywood also in the sling. While I was making my count, three workmen began in some haste to transfer the load to a University truck. I trust with the object of placing it in safekeeping pending investigation.

I also question the "perfect condition" of the crane, since examination of the boom shows that it snaped at the welds in several places, which could possibly indicate previous weakening.

I refuse to accept Aue's facile explanation that nothing was wrong. The error which caused a man's death must be located if at all possible, and steps must be taken to prevent future loss of life.

VTI student group undecided on seniors' going away gift

By Chuck Hutchcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

For the past several weeks the Vocational Technical Institute's Student Advisory Council has been considering what to give as the graduating class's gift to the institute.

Each year a gift from VTI's senior class is given to the institute. The council is in charge of deciding what gift to give.

One suggestion that the council has been considering is giving a whirlpool to VTI's health service. However, a council member learned that a whirlpool would be impractical, one reason being that the health service there has no hot water.

Numerous ideas for gifts have been considered by this year's council, among them the whirlpool, bulletin boards for all VTI departments, paid tuition for heads of the student groups at VTI and health information for the health service.

The idea of a whirlpool was suggested to the council two weeks ago by John Pastor, the VTI Area Programming Board representative to the council.

Pastor said a whirlpool would rid VTI students of the inconvenience of having to go to the main Carbondale campus for whirlpool treatments. At the time, Pastor was taking whirlpool treatments.

But Tuesday, Ellen Morgan, the council's secretary, told the council that a whirlpool for the VTI health service would be impractical. This led the council to consider giving the health service a hot water heater instead. But at the suggestion of Denny Corbell, faculty advisor to the council, the council decided to see if the VTI physical plant could do something along these lines.

Wednesday Curtis L. Etherton, director of the VTI physical plant, when asked about the health service being without hot water said, "I hadn't heard any word on that."

However, he said, "I'll see what I can do to get that lined out."

Etherton said solving the problem would be a matter of talking to Kathie M. Wells, the nurse in charge of the VTI health service, and a plumbing contractor.

"I'm sure that we can get something done," Etherton said. Mrs. Wells said Wednesday that the health service is without "good hot water." There is a hot water pipe running to the health service but by the time the water gets to health service it is no longer hot, she said.

To get hot water, Mrs. Wells said she has to heat water in hot water bottles.

"But I don't consider that a problem," she said.

Mrs. Wells said she has gotten used to very little hot water. She uses antiseptics to clean instruments, she said.

Health information pamphlets would be much more useful, Mrs. Wells said. The need for a whirlpool at VTI is very small, she said.

Extra funds allocated for two SGAC groups

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two committees of the Student Government Activities Council are receiving between them $5,000 in additional funding.

Tom Kelly, chairman of SGAC, said that $3,000 is being allocated to the Cultural Affairs Committee and $2,000 is going to the Student Center Programming Committee.

The money, he said, is part of $6,110 in additional funding for SGAC that was recently released by the Board of Trustees.

When the money was received by SGAC, Kelly said he asked all seven committees of SGAC whether or not they needed more money.

Only four committees, he said, expressed interest in receiving additional funding. Besides Cultural Affairs and Student Center Programming, the Black Student Programming Committee and the New Student Orientation Committee said they were interested.

Each of the four committees, said Kelly, were asked to submit budgets detailing their financial status and how much more money they needed.

As yet, Kelly said he has not received the budgets from Black Students Programming and New Student Orientation.

Until the two committees submit their budgets, he said, the remaining $1,110 will be held by SGAC and will not be used.

POW's letters convince wife he is dying of kidney ailment in prison

PARIS (AP)—"Say hello to Paul and his family...and to start working on my new fiberglass vault...Love always, Jack."

This cryptic line in a letter from a North Vietnamese prisoner of war camp has convinced Ruth Bomar that her husband, Lt. Col. Jack W. Bomar, is dying of a kidney ailment.

Mrs. Bomar, who is from Mesa, Ariz., received the letter Jan. 11. Bomar, who was an Air Force navigator based in Thailand, was shot down over North Vietnam Feb. 4, 1967.

He was aware he had a kidney ailment, and so was the Air Force. But he was permitted to fly on a one-year waiver. The ailment, called glomerulonephritis, did not require therapy at the time.

Mrs. Bomar told a reporter: "Back in 1969 I had a letter and my husband said...have Paul-Paul is his brother; he's in the fiberglass business and builds boats—he said

Paul should build him a fiberglass rocking chair.

"At the time I didn't associate it with his kidneys. I thought maybe they didn't get any exercise. I figured that when he got home he would want a rocking chair...and wouldn't be able to do anything for awhile..."

Then a letter dated Dec. 13 came. "My health is fair, honey. Enjoy boys' high school daze-sic." The Bomars have children in high school. Mrs. Bomar thinks her husband was telling her he was in a daze-sic.

Then the letter said, "Tell Paul to cancel fiberglass rocking chair and build me a fiberglass wheel chair...Love and kisses, Jack."

The Jan. 11 letter said, "Ho hum, another year down the drain...Say hello to Paul and his family...and to start working on my new fiberglass vault."

Mrs. Bomar said since Jack's last letter she has contacted Red Cross and U.S. officials in Washington, U.S. officials in Paris, and has attempted without success to see North Vietnamese officials here. She said the Red Cross sent two messages to Hanoi, but got no response. The Red Cross offered to provide an artificial kidney machine and technicians to operate it, she said.

IBI arrests student on drug charge

An SIU student was arrested Monday in Carbondale and charged with possession of cannabis, SIU security police said Wednesday.

Martin Hal Levin, 21, Carbondale, was arrested at about 3:40 p.m. at the Gulf Transport bus terminal in Carbondale by agents of the Illinois

Bureau of Investigation, Carbondale police and SIU security police.

Levin allegedly signed a receipt for a suitcase containing approximately $4,500 worth of cannabis. The suitcase, which with its contents weighed about 37 pounds, was shipped from Tucson, Ariz.

Levin was taken to Jackson County Jail, where he was released on a recognizance bond to the custody of his father.

He is scheduled to make an appearance in circuit court April 5. He is a junior from Flossmoor, majoring in marketing.

Job training program equips city employes

By John Hudell
Student Writer

Prospective city employes who might normally have trouble passing civil service exams and meeting other job requirements are getting valuable help in the Public Service Careers Program, said Herb Walker, training, design and development specialist for the program.

Walker said that the program also involves the upgrading of current city employes, such as providing a secretary with the necessary abilities to advance to a legal advisor.

According to Walker, a functional job analysis is made of every job in order to determine the qualifications needed to fill that position. Anyone applying for the job is then tested to determine if he has the skills the particular job demands.

"We give each person enrolled in the program a wide-range achievement test. This type of test is unusual in that it takes into consideration a person's cultural differences. We think it's better," he said.

Walker said that if the results of the test reveal that a person lacks some skills that are important to the job, the program enrolls the prospective job applicant in educational courses to see that he gets the necessary training.

"We were instrumental in finding people to fill four clerk-typist positions. These people are currently enrolled in clerical-type courses for two quarters at John A. Logan College," Walker said.

Walkers said that the program, which was started in April of 1971, pays for the training and tuition costs of those enrolled through a $117,000 grant from the Department of Labor.

He said that the program has been responsible for the hiring, training and upgrading of about 27 city employes this year. "We'd like to see the thing funded again next year. So far, the program has been quite successful."

Thieves pilfer street signs, waste cans at alarming rate

By Barbara Diller
Student Writer

Waste cans and street and parking signs in downtown Carbondale and vicinity are disappearing faster than they can be replaced.

Harold Hill, superintendent of streets and sanitation, said the problem is more serious than vandalism.

As head of the street department, Hill is primarily concerned about the results of the stealing. Litter builds up without the receptacles, accidents occur because a stop or yield sign has been removed, and tickets are issued to illegally parked cars when parking signs disappear.

In retaliation, the city has taken the precaution of chaining cans to telephone poles, but evidence shows the thieves cut the chains. Hill said pliers are used.

Signs are removed by loosening the supporter and then working the pole out of the ground, according to the department superintendent.

He classified the culprits as being in their late teens, acting on a dare made by their peers. He said students concentrate on street signs, using them as decorations for their dorm room or bedroom.

"At the end of every term a housing official calls to tell me they have a number of city signs that a student has left in his or her room after leaving," Hill added.

Last December Hill recovered more than ten street signs in a field near Giant City. The signs belonged to Carbondale except for one that came from Forest Park in St. Louis, Mo., and another from Kentucky State Highway.

The superintendent said that not all students are guilty students, that waste cans have been found in the yards of Carbondale citizens as garbage burners.

The majority of the disappearances are not solved. The ones that are not stolen are either kicked or irreparably damaged. Hill has even caught offenders pulling garbage out of the cans.

Each container is worth $100. Last year the city spent $3,500 to replace 35 receptacles because of thefts. This is useless spending for a city that is financially in the red. The people are only hurting themselves when they steal from the city.

"I don't know why they do it," Hill said. "If there is such a demand for city property, I would rather people visit the Public Works Department and I will give them a sign."

Carbondale police Wednesday reported two robberies in Carbondale, one involving an SIU student.

Geoff Shidaker, 412 E. Main St. told police someone broke into his home between 10 p.m. and 11:15 p.m. Monday, taking a 35 mm camera, a typewriter and a color television. He placed the loss at $775.

Minor Care Clinic handles student ills

By Cathy Luebke
Student Writer

"You have to wait too long" and "it's too far" are the two major complaints students have against the SIU Health Service. The Minor Care Clinic on East Stoker and South Marion Streets was created in response to these problems.

The main purpose for having the Minor Care Clinic was to help students so that the facility will be closer to their dorms. It was located here for students on this side of town.

Mrs. Mary Alexander, registered nurse at the clinic said, "Also here we can weed out problems that can be handled by a nurse. People are doctor-oriented and there just aren't enough doctors at the Health Service to handle all the people," she said.

The clinic was opened this November and treats approximately 25-30 patients daily. "We could treat more, but I don't think many students know about the facility."

"This clinic treats mainly colds, minor lacerations and wounds. Anyone with a problem we can screen here and send them over to the main Health Service if necessary."

The Minor Care Clinic is open from 8:30 a.m.—4:30 p.m. Two registered nurses and a student

The 18-voice ensemble, conducted by Charles C. Taylor, will be assisted by Armetta Corder, piano; Mrs. Sally Meier, harp; and Abbron Campbell and Robert Brown, French horns.

Soloists are Roma Conour, Jane Watts and Rebecca Youngberg.

The concert will be given in the Home Economics Building auditorium, starting at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend without charge.

worker are always there.

Mrs. Alexander, one of the nurses previously worked in the Health Service emergency room for five years. The other nurse, Mrs. Martha Howell was assistant head nurse at Wellbourn Hospital in Evansville before she came to the clinic.

Mrs. Alexander said that students using the service have been very satisfied, but that she hopes more students will find out about the clinic.

The Minor Care Clinic has prescriptions available from Dr. Clarke, one of the Health Service doctors, for such things as colds, sore throats and flu.

The Clinic also offers free tetanus shots and tuberculosis tests which students need for student teaching and food handling jobs.

Glass eye wins first prize in science fair

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) - John Bunch loaned his glass eye to his daughter for a science fair exhibit and she won first prize.

But before the exhibit was over somebody stole his eye. Bunch, a service station operator who lost his real left eye in the Korean war, had to wear a patch for two days as school officials checked out rumors that some students had found the artificial eye.

Finally, last week, officials of the Abraham Lincoln elementary school recovered the eye from a student at his home.

"He said he found it in the parking lot and didn't know what it was," said Carmett Helms, a teacher who was in charge of the science fair.

He said the glass eye was "the highlight" of the human eye exhibit of Tammy Bunch, 13, a seventh grader at Central Junior High.

But on Sunday, Helms said, "some scoundrel took it, found he didn't want it, and threw it away." He said the artificial eye was not damaged.

Tammy said her father was relieved that he didn't have to go to a hospital to be fitted for a new glass eye.

"He's going to give the boy who found it a reward," she said.

Environmental groups plan to plant more trees to emphasize civic beauty

By Dale Priban
Student Writer

Local environmental groups have plans for the planting of trees in the city, the recycling of glass, metal and paper and the elimination of billboards in the area.

"Arbor Day is April 28 in Illinois," said Agness Wright, vice president of the Carbondale Foundation for a Better Environment (CFBE). "We want to get all the groups together to do something, and to get the mayor to make an Arbor Week in Carbondale. Our emphasis is on beautification," she said.

The Students for Environmental Action (ENACT) and the Student Environmental Center have noted a lack of trees in the southeast and southwest areas of Carbondale. The groups plan to obtain permission from the city and residents to plant trees in these areas, Gary Geddes, president of ENACT, said.

One suggestion was to plant a tree for each child that is born in Carbondale, Geddes said.

One project that the CFBE has initiated in cooperation with the League of Women Voters and numerous other city and campus groups is the recycling of glass and metal.

"Per week we collect about 3,000 pounds of glass and four large barrels of cans," Diane Pelavin, CFBE board member, said. "Since last October we have collected 40 tons of glass and 30 barrels of cans," she said.

According to Mrs. Pelavin, the glass and cans are collected at the Eckert's and Winky's parking lots and transported by Coca-Cola trucks to the Jackson County Work Activities Center in Murphysboro where it is sorted, crushed and stored.

"The first shipment of glass and metal will soon be taken up to St. Louis where it will be sold," she said.

There are two glass recycling centers on campus and one for cans at Thompson Point. Ray Lenzi, coordinator of the Student Environmental Center, said. Lenzi said that they are also working on a project to recycle paper and are trying to get book stores to use the new products made from recycled paper.

All three groups are concerned with the removal of billboards from in and around Carbondale. "We would like to see billboards become more inconspicuous, there are too many of them," Lenzi said.

Mobile home tax ordinance approved by County board

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An ordinance calling for an annual privileged tax on mobile homes which would decrease as a mobile home gets older was passed Wednesday by the Jackson County Board of Supervisors.

The vote followed discussion between the county board and members of a coalition of local landlords, who had been opposing the tax since it was first proposed last month.

The new ordinance calls for a tax of 14 cents per square foot for mobile homes less than two years old, 12 cents per square foot for mobile homes more than two but less than four years old and 10 cents per square foot for mobile homes more than four years old.

The tax, when originally proposed, called for a fixed rate of 14 cents per square foot for all mobile homes in the county. A state law passed last September said that all Illinois counties must levy a tax on mobile homes within their jurisdiction "not less than 10 cents or more than 15 cents per square foot."

Arguing the case for the coalition, the Illinois Mobile Home Association and John Ham, president of the Greater Egypt Mobile Home Association, told the county board that the 14 cents per square foot rate was too high.

Citing the large number of mobile homes in Jackson County and the fact that most of them are occupied by students, they noted that reduction of the rate with age of a mobile home would help ease the students' financial burden.

The ordinance is scheduled to take effect April 30. However, mobile home owners have until July 1 to file a mobile home registration form with the county treasurer's office. In addition, a personal property tax receipt for 1971 taxes must be filed with the registration form.

The owner will then receive a display certificate which must be placed on the mobile home so that it can be visible from the street.

Initial billings of the tax will be made by the county treasurer July 1, 1973 and mobile home owners will have until July 1, 1974 to pay.

The tax also includes a reduction for low income owner-occupants of mobile homes who are 65 years old or over. The ordinance says that if the total annual income of all occupants of such a mobile home is $4,000 or less, then the tax rate for that mobile home is 10 cents per square foot.

Robert Smith, coordinator of the landlord coalition and a senior majoring in journalism at SIU, said that "under the circumstances, the county board passed the most equitable ordinance possible."

Ham agreed. "The cooperation by the board members with us was excellent," he said, "and I think they have passed a fair ordinance."

Blast occurs seconds later

Father saves child from bomb

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — While a 60-second time bomb ticked, a father rushed into a garage here Wednesday and rescued his 13-month-old child strapped to a seat in a car.

Seconds after he came out with the baby in his arms, the bomb went off, wrecking the garage and two dozen cars.

The drama came as guerrillas launched a full-scale bomb assault on Londonderry.

Police said both father and child left immediately after the garage blast.

A police spokesman said the unidentified man had just driven into the garage when two youths armed with submachine guns burst in and dumped a package beside his car.

The shouted: "It's a time bomb: You have 60 seconds to get out."

Garage workers fled, but the man ignored the ticking bomb and for vital seconds grappled with safety straps holding the baby to the seat.

Belfast was like a city under siege. Security forces, alarmed by weekend explosions which claimed nearly 200 casualties including two dead, enforced a big clampdown.

In the Northern Ireland's Parliament, Prime Minister Brian Faulkner interrupted a debate to break the news of the killing of an Agriculture Ministry official on the border with the Irish Republic.

Faulkner said three men, two of them carrying guns, crossed over from the republic and shot the man dead near a customs post at Midletown in County Armagh.

Faulkner told Parliament the incident showed "A regrettable lack of control" by authorities in the republic.

The Northern Irish government has repeatedly accused the republic of allowing outlaws of the Irish Republican Army to operate against the North from bases south of the border.

The agriculture official was identified as Joseph Jardine, 44, a Protestant who also was a militiaman. Police said his assassins fired 42 shots at him from close range.

New LA&S Council members elected

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Six women and 24 men have been elected to the new Liberal Arts and Sciences (LAS) Council.

The final results of last Thursday's election were announced Wednesday by Elbert H. Hadley, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The four faculty members elected for one-year terms from the social sciences are Martha E. Brekke, instructor of social welfare; Paula J. Dubeck, instructor of sociology; Manfred Landecker, associate professor of government; and Gordon F. Pitz, associate professor of psychology.

Faculty members from the social sciences who will serve a two-year term are Jerry Gaston, assistant professor of sociology; Charles Goodsell, associate professor of government; and Carroll Riley, professor of anthropology.

The three students from the social sciences who will serve a one-year term are Thomas F. McCoy, graduate student in psychology; Linda Borsellino, senior in government; and Mary Sue Komaniecki, junior in social welfare.

Faculty members from the sciences who will serve for one year are Al Caskey, associate professor chemistry; Kenneth Danhof, assistant professor of computer science; and John Ugaard, associate professor of geology.

The four faculty from the sciences serving two-year terms are Brian Beers, assistant professor of physics; Willard Klimstra, professor of zoology; Carl Langenhop, professor of mathematics; and Robert Zitter, professor of physics.

Students elected from the science section are Marcia Brink, graduate student in physics; David Bulliner, undergraduate in zoology; and Ed Langrand, junior in geology. All these students will serve for one year.

The four faculty from the humanities chosen for a two-year term are James Benziger, professor of English; Garth Gillan, assistant professor of philosophy; D. Lee Hartman, assistant professor of Spanish; and Joan O'Brien, assistant professor of foreign languages.

Faculty members serving for one year include Risieri Frondizi, professor of philosophy; Richard A. Lawson, associate professor of English; and Edward J. O'Day, instructor of history.

The three students serving one-year terms from the humanities are Richard Israel, graduate student in philosophy; John Accomando, junior in history; and Joseph Gomez, undergraduate in foreign languages.

According to Hadley, 356 faculty, 413 graduate students and 208 undergraduate students voted in the election.

The 30-member council will formally begin on July 1. The purpose of the council is to provide more democracy in the college. The council will have the authority to establish policies for the college. A previous council included only five voting faculty and the dean of the college, who served as chairman. Five graduate students had advisory powers in the old council.

Law school gets go-ahead

The last step in the series of actions necessary to establish a law school at Southern Illinois University has been taken by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The IBHE's formal approval of the law school at its meeting in Chicago March 7 follows its recommendations of January 4 that $303,000 be appropriated for the school. The recommendation is included in Governor Ogilvie's budget request to the legislature.

"This is the final justification of the importance not only of SIU but of Southern Illinois in the scheme of statewide educational programs," said Robert H. Dreher, director of law school planning for SIU and chairman of the law school dean search committee.

"It is an acknowledgment of the increasing academic excellence of SIU at Carbondale and its ability to maintain a law school in keeping with the standards and basic mission of the University of teaching, research and service."

Dreher reported that the law school dean search committee has been intensively interviewing candidates for the position and expects to make its recommendation to President David R. Derge in the immediate future.

Solid victory for Muskie; 'moral' win for McGovern

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine pulled ahead in his fight to gain a majority of New Hampshire's Democratic National Convention delegates as the votes were counted Wednesday.

It was Phase 2 of a Tuesday presidential primary Muskie won with 48 per cent of the vote, while Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota was strengthening his rival White House bid by scoring an unexpected 37 per cent.

With 91 per cent of the state's precincts reporting, Muskie held a 15-5 lead over McGovern in the balloting for delegates.

The close race for the delegates was even more surprising than McGovern's preferential primary showing, as Muskie managers had expected a sweep of the 20 convention slots. New Hampshire will cast 18 nominating votes at the national convention in Miami Beach, Fla. Each delegate elected in the Tuesday balloting will get 9-10s of a vote.

Muskie's preferential primary vote fell short of an absolute majority of the ballots cast in New Hampshire, and the outcome proved a less than overwhelming New England sendoff for his primary campaigns across the nation, with a tough Florida contest coming up next Tuesday.

Both McGovern and Muskie are entered there, and both of them Wednesday downgraded the significance of an 11-way race which Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace is favored to win.

McGovern said he had scored

Kidnapers release girl, but don't collect booty

VISALIA, Calif. (AP)—A nine-year-old girl held two days by kidnapers was released unhurt Wednesday after her father's attempt to pay $300,000 ransom was thwarted accidentally by a stranger.

Michelle Wiebe was abducted Monday night by three masked men who forced their way into the Wiebe home, Visalia Police Chief Ray Forsyth said.

Forsyth said the girl's father, Arnold Wiebe, a prominent San Joaquin Valley auto dealer, received several telephone calls from the kidnapers Monday night and Tuesday and, on instruction, finally left the ransom money in a suitcase in a lonely field Tuesday night.

A curious passer-by picked up the money before the kidnapers could claim it. But the kidnapers, Forsyth said, released the girl anyway shortly after midnight near a motel 15 miles from her home.

A ham sandwich and a glass of water were her only nourishment during the 29-hour ordeal, but she was not struck or otherwise injured, Michelle said.

The man who guarded her at a house near railroad tracks "was nice most of the time, but he wasn't so nice when he told me to be quiet," she added.

Michelle was driven some distance Tuesday night, then was led down railroad tracks and told to wait for her parents, the girl added. After removing her blindfold, Michelle said she went to a nearby motel for help.

Forsyth gave this account of what happened after the kidnap Monday night:

A neighbor, Dr. Edward Peterson, a dentist, was leaving his home when he heard screaming in the Wiebe house and went to investigate. When he failed to return, his sons, Martin, 13, and Matthew, 8, went to the home.

The kidnapers bound and gagged Michelle's mother and sister, Jenelle, 15, and the three Petersons, then left with Michelle, leaving a note pasted from newspapers and magazines.

The note instructed Wiebe not to call the police.

The five worked their bonds loose within 15 minutes and telephoned Michelle's father at his office. He returned home.

"both a moral and a political victory."

Muskie claimed "a good, solid victory, considering all the problems we faced in New Hampshire."

He said, "We deliberately sacrificed the possibility of a maximum showing in order to have some resources left for the other primaries."

But the political psychology produced by McGovern's potent challenge to Muskie on his own northern New England territory was sure to encourage Muskie's rivals.

New Hampshire's verdict makes the coming primaries 22 to go—the more crucial, for it now appears Muskie will have to wage Tuesday battles all spring long if he is to capture a nomination his managers once had hoped to lock up early in the game.

President Nixon, who captured 69 per cent of the Republican ballots cast and swept past two challengers—Rep. Paul N. McCloskey and John Ashbrook—won the 14 GOP nominating votes at stake in New Hampshire.

The highly publicized Democratic preference primary was waged entirely for psychological stakes, awarding no delegates. Delegates running as pledged, or favoring individual presidential candidates, were elected separately.

In the preference primary, this was the situation, with 97 per cent of the 302 precincts reporting:

Muskie 40,425 or 48 per cent.

McGovern 31,812, or 37 per cent.

Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, 244, or 6 per cent.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, 3,508 or 4 per cent.

Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, 2,326 or 3 per cent.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts was the only other Democrat to reach 1 per cent, with 794 write-in votes.

Yorty said on election night he intended to keep campaigning in other primaries, including California's on June 6. He did not list his other likely targets.

Mills had said in advance he would campaign actively for the Massachusetts primary on April 25, and the Rhode Island primary later.

A spokesman for Hartke would not say whether the senator would drop out of the race, but said Hartke is still filed to run in Florida, Nebraska, Wisconsin and California.

In the Republican primary, with 96 per cent of the precincts tallied, it was:

Nixon 77,398, or 69 per cent.

McCloskey 22,654, or 20 per cent. Ashbrook 10,740, or 40 per cent. Comedian Pat Paulsen got 1,146, or 1 per cent.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew got 42,830 write-in votes, promoted by supporters who sought to demonstrate voter support for his renomination.

Now that you can fly to Europe for peanuts, here's how little you shell out to get around:

$130 for Two Months of unlimited rail travel in Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland.

You shell out $130, and get a Student-Railpass. All you need is the bread and something to show you're a bona fide student between 14 and 25.

Our Student-Railpass gives you all that unlimited rail travel on the 100,000 mile railroad networks of those 13 countries. For two foot-loose months. So with low air fares and Student-Railpass you've got Europe made.

Our Student-Railpass gets you Second Class travel on our trains. You'll find that there's very little second class about Second Class. Besides being comfortable, clean, fast, and absurdly punctual, the European trains have some other advantages for you. They take you from city center to city center, so you don't have to hassle airports. And the stations are helpful homes away from home, with Pictograms that give you information in the universal language of signs, and dining rooms, bookstores and other helpful facilities.

Now, here's the catch. You can't get your Student-Railpass or the regular First Class Eurailpass in Europe—you have to get them before you leave the country. So see your Travel Agent soon. Meanwhile, send in the coupon for a free folder, complete with railroad map.

Bomb rips hole in unoccupied TWA jetliner

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A bomb ripped a hole in an unoccupied Trans World Airlines jetliner here Wednesday, the second bomb in two days attributed by authorities to a $2-million extortion scheme against the airline. The incidents were the first time bombs actually have been placed aboard jetliners in an attempt to extort money, airline sources said.

The bombing triggered an intensified search of TWA's 238 planes at airports all over the world. At some airports all passengers boarding all planes were searched, as was baggage and freight.

Some airports employed X-ray machines to check luggage, metal detectors to scan passengers and dogs to sniff for explosives inside planes.

Some travelers cancelled reservations as delays of two hours or more were reported in TWA flights.

The bomb aboard the Boeing 707 exploded at 3:55 a.m., about seven hours after the plane arrived non-stop from New York City with 10 passengers and a crew of seven. The blast blew a large hole in the front fuselage, throwing debris about 100 feet at McCarran International Airport. It was parked about 300 yards from the main terminal.

Immediately thereafter, a plastic explosive device was sniffed out by dogs in a cockpit of a TWA jetliner called back to Kennedy International Airport in New York from a flight to Los Angeles.

An anonymous caller had warned of the bomb and directed officials to an airport locker where they found a note saying that four TWA planes would be blown up at six-hour intervals unless $2-million ransom was paid.

The succeeding deadlines passed without incident. The bombing in Las Vegas came an hour before one of the six-hour periods.

The FBI, TWA and local authorities have refused to say if they would negotiate with the extortionist or whether any money has been paid.

Sources close to the investigation said authorities were checking TWA personnel records for any employees experienced in handling explosives or with a possible grudge against the company.

Airline personnel had access before the flights to both the New York plane and the Las Vegas jetliner.

The bomb that exploded aboard the Las Vegas jetliner was somehow smuggled aboard even though the plane was searched in New York and Las Vegas and armed guards were standing nearby.

It apparently was planted in the cockpit or in the restrooms behind it, authorities said.

"We just have no idea how it got aboard," said Charles Wyre, TWA general manager in Las Vegas.

Bomb squad investigators were collecting pieces of the shattered fuselage to try to determine the type of explosive used.

At airports around the world, TWA planes were ringed with guards and searched.

At Kennedy Airport in New York, the takeoff Wednesday of an Eastern Air Lines flight to Miami, Fla., was delayed for an hour after an anonymous telephoned bomb threat. Passengers were unloaded and police searched the plane. No bomb was found.

Virtually every TWA flight was delayed.

Passengers didn't always mind. "I don't mind waiting, in fact, it's a relief," said a passenger at the Las Vegas airport after being delayed by a search.

In New York, the departure of five TWA morning flights was delayed due to searches and a sixth flight was canceled. Both of the airline's scheduled flights into Kennedy Airport arrived without incident.

A Lufthansa flight to West Germany was delayed Tuesday night after a pistol was found in a man's suitcase. The pistol was later confiscated, the man questioned and released, and the plane took off. However, an airline spokesman said, once the plane was en route, anonymous phone calls were received at Lufthansa's office in Cologne and a radio station there saying the aircraft would be hijacked.

FAA announces end of sky marshal program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Aviation Administration said Wednesday the sky marshal program, as such, will end April 1. On that date all but 220 of the 1,300 customs security officers who have been serving as sky guards will be pulled off flight status and placed on duty on the ground.

Flights thereafter will be monitored by armed guards only on a selective basis, FAA airline security chief James Murphy told a news conference.

The action will be taken on the principle that true air security begins on the ground—that the place to prevent hijackings is before the would-be criminal boards the plane, Murphy said.

"The sky marshal program has not been a flop," Murphy said. "We don't know how many hijackings the program has prevented, but it has had a good deterrent effect."

Prisoner freed to care for pet

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) — Market trader Brian Munns was released from prison on bail to relieve police of the chore of feeding his pet pumas.

Magistrates decided the cats were too fierce for the cops.

Airline pilots generally have been opposed to the use of armed guards aboard flights on the basis that they represent more of a safety hazard than a safeguard. At least one hijacking was accomplished despite the presence aboard of two sky marshals.

Murphy recalled that the current airline security program went into effect immediately after the politically motivated hijackings of airliners of several nations in September 1970, and their destruction at a remote airfield in Jordan.

President Nixon announced that U.S. airliners would be protected by armed guards.

Immediately thereafter, 800 military enlistees given a week of special training at Camp Dix, N.J., were called into the sky police force to serve until the 1,500-man sky guard staff of customs security officers could be created.

Since last May, Murphy said, these customs officers have been the only sky marshals employed on flights. In addition, 230 deputy U.S. marshals have helped screen passengers and cargo at 36 major airports.

Murphy said the 1,300 customs officers relieved from flight duty April 1 will take over ground screening duties at the 36 primary airports.

VTI health service lacks hot water

at the University, Corbell said.

Corbell suggested that council "plan something for next fall quarter in cooperation with other groups" for an orientation program.

The council, informed the council that at a meeting of faculty advisers to VTI's student groups and program supervisors it was suggested that more emphasis be placed on the orientation program at VTI.

Corbell said one of the main reasons for the suggestions, is that when "most students come to the University" they are led to believe that the orientation is irrelevant. Because little attention is then paid to the orientation, a new student may not obtain all the information needed to get him started smoothly

SIU senate screening group sends proposals to faculty

By Chuck Hutchcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Vocational Technical Institute's Student Advisory Council decided Tuesday to ask the VTI physical plant what it could do about supplying the VTI health service with hot water.

Ellen Morgan, council secretary, told the council that while investigating the possibility of giving a whirlpool to the health service as a senior gift she learned that the health service does not have hot water to use in a whirlpool.

Denny Corbell, faculty adviser to mission and retention standards of the various departments, schools and programs.

A proposal, dealing with a change in the rental rate of rooms in the Student Center, was also scheduled for presentation to the committee by Jim Peters, student body vice president.

Peters, however, could not attend the meeting and sent John Conlisk in his place. The proposal was not presented.

Peters said in a telephone interview that the proposal will be submitted to the Student Life and Welfare Committee prior to presentation to the screening committee.

The Screening Committee met at 3 p.m. in the Dean's Conference room in the Communications building.

Student committee may investigate accident

Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Mitch Hadler, west side non-dorm student senator, said Wednesday, he will attempt to form a committee of students for the purpose of investigating the cause of Monday's crane accident that killed one student and injured two others.

Hadler said he hopes to come up with an unbiased report which he feels is possible because no money will be involved. He said he expects investigations by insurance companies, the University and the Simmons Co. to be biased because their purpose will be centered around the money involved in settlement.

"The first thing we'll be checking into" said Hadler, "is the safety code. I want to know if there is one, who wrote it and who is supposed to enforce it."

Hadler will also check into the equipment used on the construction site. He said he would like engineering students with mechanics knowledge to help in the investigation.

Finally Hadler said he would like all witnesses to the accident to contact him immediately in the Student Government office.

"Though we are concerned with the cause of the accident," said Hadler, our main concern is to prevent it from happening again."

Tom Miller, commuter senator, said he obtained 1000 signatures on a petition circulated Monday to stop construction on the site until an investigation could be conducted. He said he stopped circulating the petition when the University Senate passed a resolution stopping all work on the site.

George Camille Student Body president, said the two senators are acting on their own and that their actions do not have the sanction of Student Government.

'Jive' displayed

Students drifted casually into Mitchell Galleries in the Home Economics Building as they checked out the "Ye old Hand Jive" exhibit by Lee Conklin. His art uniquely uses human forms and turns them into almost any thing imaginable. Ken LaVelle, sophomore, looks intrigued as he observes the exhibit.

Crisis intervention service deals with anyone's problems

By Lynn Marcus
Student Writer

Leslie Curtiss, staff member of Crisis Intervention, said that a misconception exists with many people that the organization deals only with extreme narcotics cases and the mentally disturbed.

"This is not the case at all," said Miss Curtiss. "The organization deals with helping anyone with a particular problem to solve it."

Miss Curtiss said that Crisis Intervention is a telephone counseling center for people who want to call between 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. daily.

"We received calls ranging from people who are in a state of depression to suicide cases," said Miss Curtiss. "We try to be as effective as possible in handling all calls."

Miss Curtiss said that problems do arise because of the use of telephone conversation in the counseling process.

"You have a barrier to begin with because the person is contacting you by phone," said Miss Curtiss.

"There is a chance that the caller might hang up abruptly. We generally try to let the caller know that we're willing to talk to him."

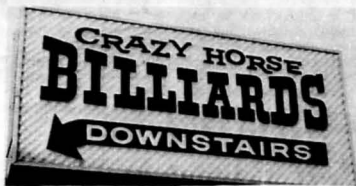

Miss Curtiss said that if the staffer on the telephone cannot sufficiently handle the problem, he will try to refer the caller to another counseling organization.

"If the caller had a severe drug problem, we would refer him to Synergy," said Miss Curtiss. "If the problem called for extensive counseling, a referral would be made to Counseling and Testing. We would like to handle all of the problems, but, if we see it is in the better interest of the caller to refer him, we will channel him to the proper authority."

Miss Curtiss said that to be a member of the staff, one must be trained with all possible problem situations.

"We have role playing session training volunteers," said Miss Curtiss. "One volunteer will be the caller, another will be a staffer and they simulate a problem situation. In most cases, these sessions are much more difficult than the actual experiences."

Financial Assistance meets needs

By Lynn Burris
Student Writer

A total of 3,607 individuals in Jackson County are currently receiving financial assistance through one of the five public aid programs that are offered by the Department of Public Aid.

Jackson County spends $316,430 per month, the cost to Jackson County for the individuals in public aid programs, Mrs. Mary Rees, superintendent of caseworkers, said. Federal and student governments fund four of the public aid programs and the fifth receives funds locally, she added.

The General Assistance program is the only public aid program receiving funds from the township, rather than federal or state governments. "To receive this type of assistance the individual must be in financial need and must not be able to qualify for any other public aid program," Mrs. Rees said.

Individuals or married couples over the age of 65 qualify for the state and federal food program.

Persons over 18 years of age and blind persons qualify for the Blind Assistance program. Disability Assistance is authorized to individuals totally disabled and 18 years or older, she said.

The Department of Public Aid allocates $160,110 per month to the Aid to Dependent Children program, the largest public aid program in Jackson County, Mrs. Rees said. There are 2,413 dependent children receiving assistance. "These children must be under 18 or 20 if they are still in school," she said.

Parents who have separated or those who cannot afford to take care of children receive financial assistance, she added.

Funds allotted are determined by the size of the family and the type of public aid program assistance, Mrs. Rees said. "The Public Aid Department pays the family up to $87.00 for rent and pays a standard amount for utilities and food," she said.

Several problems involved in recycling discarded forest waste

There is much discussion today in the field of forestry on the question of recycling discarded wastes, just as the public attention recently has been focused on recycling various kinds of waste, such as bottles, metal cans, paper and other discarded materials, says Ali A. Moslemi, associate professor of forestry at SIU.

Although recycling may be sound in some wood uses, Moslemi cautions that, recycling should not cover up the fact that the main problem facing forest technologists is to find economical uses for the vast amount of residue that is generated between the time the forest tree is cut and when the final product is made for the consumer.

Some of the waste is left in the forest as logging residue, such as tree branches, stumps, and tree tops. More is reduced to log trims and sawdust during the primary manufacture and sawmilling, and a large amount of additional waste results when the rough lumber is finished and made into consumer products, such as furniture.

For example, in manufacturing furniture more than half of the rough lumber is reduced to waste before the piece of furniture is finished. Besides the lumber waste, millions of tons of tree bark is a waste product of the lumbering industry each year.

In many instances the waste is disposed of by burning. This not only wastes a resource but helps create air pollution problems which is a public concern, Moslemi says.

The challenge lies in being able to utilize the various forms of waste from the forest industry for man's benefit, he points out. This idea is the main object of a 1,000-page book manuscript, "Wood Particle Composites," which Moslemi has just completed and is transmitting in a few days to a publisher.

In it he describes the techniques for converting forest wastes and producing various items of commerce, including particleboard, wood-cement composites, and moldings. He has treated the subject from the standpoint of scientific principles involved and also points out technological advantages of processing the waste. He says the techniques described require no water and generate no air pollution.

Moslemi deals briefly with recycling in the manuscript and, in some instances, points out that the use of excessive amounts of energy makes neither economic nor environmental sense.

However, the proper use of residues will make it possible for every tree harvested to serve more people than ever before. Moslemi says no book on this subject has been published in this country or abroad. He wrote most of the book while on sabbatical leave last year.

It is intended for various uses as a textbook, reference work, and for general information.

GSC seeks approval of election changes

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A new constitution which would change the election procedures of the Graduate Student Council (GSC) will be up for approval at the council's 3:30 p. m. meeting Friday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center. Under the new constitution the council would hold semi-annual elections for officers and representatives. The president, secretary and the five University Senate representatives would be elected in the first week of May. The vice president, treasurer and the four Graduate School representatives would be chosen in the first week of November.

Representatives for the council would be elected for a six month term. Elections of representatives would be held during the first three weeks of May and November. The number of representatives and the qualifications the departments must meet in order to have representatives are not listed.

The new constitution would also create five committees: steering, membership, finance, social welfare and educational resources. In order for the new constitution to be adopted, approval of two thirds of the GSC representatives is needed.

City continues to finance foundation's sewage rate

The city will continue to pay the water sewer rate of the Carbondale Legal Assistance Foundation (LAF) until further discussions between the city and the LAF are held. City Manager Bill Schwegman said in an interview Tuesday.

Schwegman said he hopes to arrange at least a preliminary meeting with LAF representatives before the end of the month.

The city has been considering discontinuing its payment of the LAF's water sewer rate for several months, Schwegman said.

He explained that the city had furnished the LAF office space in city hall when it first began. After the LAF moved into its own offices the city continued to pay the water sewer rate as the city's contribution in support of keeping the legal service open.

The question now is one of finances and technicalities, Schwegman said. The city can't afford any unnecessary expenses in view of its sad financial state, he said. "And the only authority to do this (pay the rate) was a motion passed by the previous council two or three years ago," he said.

If the city does decide to keep paying the rate for the foundation, the grounds for doing so should be made more clear and current, Schwegman said.

Gary Kolb, attorney with the LAF, said he wasn't aware that the city was considering discontinuing the payment.

Rec club to discuss city dweller

The SIU Recreation Club will hold its regular bi-weekly meeting at 9 p.m. Thursday in room 206 of the Home Economics Building. The guest speaker will be J.D. Conway.

Conway, a graduate student in recreation, is expected to conduct an informal discussion on recreational planning for the inner-city dweller. He will discuss the programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development as they apply to urban recreation.

The meeting is open to the public and anyone interested in recreation may attend.

Arnie Liss has special beat in Heart Fund's ticker

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Later this year, a lot more people are going to know about Arnie Liss. Knowledge of the SIU senior's doings will finally extend beyond the limits of Jackson County.

Liss, a Chicago native majoring in pre-med, has been assisting the Illinois Heart Association for the past two years in cooperation with Jackson County.

His efforts will be rewarded when the "Guinness Book of World Records" inserts Liss's feat somewhere in their binding.

Liss was recently acknowledged by Norris McWhirter, managing editor of Guinness Superlatives Limited based in England. His accomplishment of continuous bouncing of a basketball for 30 hours was validated by the "world record" firm.

While Liss's efforts have gone unnoticed by most earthly beings, he has made generous contribution to the welfare of Jackson County.

The basketball bouncing was done last May in conjunction with his Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity's annual "Bounce for Beats" charity drive.

In the process, Liss broke the previous mark of 28 that was set by a University of Missouri "Sammie."

But, to Liss, the feat was only secondary in importance to the fund-raising for the Jackson County Heart Fund.

"It was a nice way to get involved in the drive," said the Chicago senior, "but I did it for a purpose."

The "Bounce for Beats" drive netted $730 last year, an increase from the $500 collected in 1970 by the fraternity. This year Liss has set the goal for an even $1000.

Liss was the actual originator of the idea of basketball bouncing which is now an annual act at all Sigma Alpha Mu fraternities across the nation. He had no thoughts of repeating 1970's marathon of 24 hours until January, 1971. Liss and his fraternity brothers were approached by Dr. Robert Harp, a nationally-renown heart surgeon and president of the Illinois Heart Association.

"He was particularly impressed with our past efforts," Arnie recalls, "and wanted us to continue the drive again last year."

Speaking of his bouncing, "The first time that I did it, it was complete physical torture. I was better prepared for last year."

With all of his fingers taped and frequent massages throughout the course of the marathon, Liss followed the "Sammie" tradition at Southern while adding the record to his credit.

While the basketball-bouncing promotional aspect of the drive might end this year, Liss feels that it could be more beneficial towards the local heart fund and himself if another act is used.

"We were thinking of asking either the Playboy Bunnies or the Harlem Globetrotters to come down for a benefit game at the Arena," Liss said. "But the Bunnies are already booked and we're still waiting for word from the Globetrotters."

"If all other methods fail," he added, "then I guess I'll go back to my basketball bouncing."

Liss was sent congratulatory notes from notables all over the state after last May's "unofficial" world mark. Among the more prominent were Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, Gov. Richard Ogilvie and state congressman Sidney Yates.

Liss was also recently given the annual "outstanding volunteer service" award in Jackson County by the IHA.

The Sammie from Missouri is attempting to break Liss's current world mark this spring. Liss is willing to take up the challenge since, as he puts it, "When you set a tradition, everybody expects you to live up to it."

But, unlike the challenger, Liss's feelings toward the national "Sammie" marathon effort are different.

"It's not just a record that really matters to me," he concludes, "but it's what one gets out of it that counts."

Bates drives to top time in 'Ides of March' race

The "Ides of March" autocross race got started 10 days early and John Bates, driving an MGBGT, came across with the fastest time of the day.

Bates won first place in the sports car race, the first of three races sponsored by the Grand Touring Auto Club of Carbondale. Barb Sanders in a Porsche took second place in Sunday's first race.

In the second race, for intermediate sedans, Keith Burger came out on top followed by Mike Klassey. Both drove Vegas.

Ken Patrick steered his Nova to a first in the large sedan division while John Simmers finished second in a lark.

Armettas in judo nationals

Henry and Paul Armetta, SIU judo competitors, captured first places in their respective divisions at the Central AAU Judo Pre-Nationals in Chicago last weekend.

As a result, they have qualified for next month's AAU men's senior nationals in Philadelphia and a chance for a spot on this summer's U.S. Olympic team.

Henry Armetta, senior, captured the top position in the 205-pound and over weight class, winning all four of his matches.

His brother Paul, a graduate student, won seven of eight matches in taking the 205-pound and under division.

Drew Wickham, the third SIU representative, did not place.

The SIU judo team will travel to the Midwest Collegiate Nationals March 24 at Ball State University. Henry Armetta finished first in the open division of this meet last year while brother Paul placed second in the 205-pound and under weight class.

Swimmers going to nationals in late April

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Now that Southern Illinois has captured the Midwestern Conference swimming title the Salukis are setting their sights on their next big hurdle, the NCAA championships at West Point, N.Y.

The Salukis claimed the MC trophy last weekend by besting runner-up Indiana State, 571-406. Northern Illinois, Ball State and Illinois State rounded out the standings.

Southern has qualified seven swimmers and three relays for the national meet, April 23-25, the most ever by a Saluki team. Last season SIU qualified six individuals and three relays and finished with a record high of 50 points and an eleventh place finish.

Qualifying for the national meet is determined by times set during the dual meet season which meet the NCAA cutoffs.

Looking at the conference meet, SIU coach Ray Essick said the only "national level swim" of the three-day affair came from Pat Miles.

The freshman standout broke an SIU record in the 500-yard freestyle by swimming the distance in 4:41.9. The clocking broke former Saluki distance-man Bruce Steiner's old mark.

"The reason nobody else had any national level swims," Essick said, "was that we trained right through the meet. The boys were up at the pool every morning at 8 a.m. before competition started."

Essick said the practice sessions were at times so good that they were better than the competition swimming. "I think that's because most of the swimmers are focusing on the nationals."

Turning to the level of swimming in the Midwestern Conference, the coach said it's improved but, "we went in there and with a less number of people, still dominated the meet."

Southern won the title last year by finishing ahead of Indiana State. Southern accumulated 631 points to the Sycamores 427.

Farewell

Six seniors made their last appearance in the SIU Arena wearing a Saluki basketball uniform against Evansville last Wednesday. At halftime, (1-r) Steve "Woodstock" Wilson, Mike Molnar, Bill Perkins, Marvin Brooks, John "Mouse" Garrett and Greg Starrick were presented to the audience for a final farewell. (Photo by Nelson G. ## M-M guys closer to state title

MOUNDS (AP)—Jim Byassee, 38, can come within one game of reaching 400 career coaching victories if his Mounds-Meridian team captures the Class A championship in the Illinois prep basketball tourney.

Mounds, 28-1, moved to the Elite Eight in Class A competition by edging DuQuoin, 56-55, Tuesday night at Carbondale on Darrell Hudson's free throw after time had expired.

The victory pushed Meridian into a quarter final bracket Friday in Champaign. Meridian will meet Elgin St. Edward, 25-2.

Byassee has spent 17 years coaching Pulaski County basketball teams, starting at Mounds City and then switching to Mounds-Meridian when the schools were consolidated in 1964.

His coaching record is 396-89. His teams have won regionals in seven of the eight seasons since the school was consolidated but this year's squad was the first to score a section triumph.

The team's current 28 wins matches the high for a Meridian team set in 1969-70. The current squad has won 21 in a row since it lost 44-43 to Peoria Manual in the Carbondale Holiday Tourney.

Meridian also has the distinction of being the last team to beat the state's No. 1 Class AA team, Thornridge, which has gone on to win 49 in a row since losing to Meridian in the 1970-71 season. The Thornridge streak carried it to the state title last year, the final year for a single champion.

Gerdes, Burge just six matches away from the top of wrestling

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Ken Gerdes and Andy Burge, two of Southern Illinois' winningest wrestlers, will be entertaining the rest of the nation's top lightweight contenders Thursday through Saturday at the NCAA wrestling championships at College Park, Md.

The two lightweights, who sparked Southern to its second Midwestern Conference championship, accounted for 43 wins and only six losses.

They also hold the key to SIU's success in this year's national meet.

For Gerdes it will be a return trip to the big meet. He went last season as a freshman and was eliminated in the quarter finals.

But this season he expects things to be different. "I'm just going to wrestle them as they come," he said. "I just hope I can wrestle a lot because if I am wrestling a lot, then that'll mean I'm winning."

Individually, Gerdes has a 2-2 record with the two setbacks coming against SIU-Edwardsville's Jamie Gitcho and Oklahoma State's Yoshiro "Fuji" Fujita. "Fuji" is defending national champion and hasn't lost a match in two years.

But that undefeated streak doesn't phase Gerdes one bit. "I'm just going to go out there and wrestle with him," Gerdes said. "Don't forget Dan Gable hadn't lost a match in seven years till he met Larry Owings."

Gerdes was referring to the legendary match in the 1970 nationals at Northwestern where Gable went against Washington's Larry Owings. Gable hadn't lost a match in 181 starts but Owings ended all that by fashioning a two-point win.

Following the Oklahoma State match in the SIU Arena where Gerdes lost to Fujita, 15-5, the Saluki wrestler said he had wrestled with his mind and not his body. "I thought everything through before I did it and then reacted," he said.

"You really can't think when you are wrestling," he said. "It's all got to be reactions. You've just got to react almost without thinking."

Three weeks ago, Gerdes was named third team All-America by Amateur Wrestling News.

The award came as no great surprise to most people; most except a man from Edwardsville named Larry Kristoff. Kristoff, a former SIU heavyweight, coaches the SIU-Edwardsville wrestling team and he figured his 126-pounder, Gitcho is a better man.

"Well that was a farce," he said in reference to Gerdes All-America award, "Between Gitcho and him, heck, it wasn't even close. Gitcho had Gerdes on his back at the Illinois Invitational and beat him, 7-2."

If it sounds like Kristoff is carrying a chip on his shoulder—he is. Last weekend in Oswego, N.Y., six SIU-Edwardsville wrestlers were slated to compete in the NCAA college-division qualifying meet. The top four places in each division qualify for the NCAA university division meet.

However—due to a mix-up in the entry blanks—Kristoff's wrestlers couldn't compete, thus bringing an end to their season and Gitcho's hopes of wrestling Gerdes again.

"I'll tell you," said Kristoff, "I read the papers in Carbondale and I see all the publicity Gerdes gets, and he really deserves it. He's a fine wrestler, but he's not a national champion. Everyone expects him to be."

While Kristoff is saying nasty things about Gerdes, the other half of the lightweight—Burge—is making his maiden voyage to the nationals.

Burge has a 23-4 record with two defeats coming against Indiana State's Dave Martin. One defeat cost Burge the Midwestern Conference 118-pound championship while the came in a 30-3 loss to Indiana State.

Burge was named honorable mention All-America in the mid-season poll by Amateur Wrestling News but SIU coach Linn Long said both Burge and Gerdes could stand improvement.

"What I want to do is get both of these guys to the point where nobody can beat them," he said. "How close are they now? Just six matches. Just six matches."
