Reagan, Harris bring campaigns to area

Following quick on the heels of President Gerald Ford's Saturday campaign swing, here, two more presidential candidates will be electioneering in the area Tuesday.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is scheduled to speak at an 8:30 a.m. breakfast gathering at the Family Inn in Marion. Tickets for Reagan's appearance have been sold out.

Former U.S. Senator from Oklahoma Fred Harris will fly into Southern Illinois airport Tuesday morning and speak at a noon rally in the Student Center's Ballroom B.

Harris canceled a Monday night rally at the airport in favor of staying in Chicago later than planned to receive a labor union endorsement. Harris staffers in Carbondale announced Monday.

Both Harris and Reagan will be heading toward Belleville for lunchroom engagements after campaigning in this area.

Harris is scheduled to be on campus for about an hour. He will speak briefly at the Student Center and then answer questions from the audience. Live music will precede Harris' appearance in the ballroom, according to Chris Elvidge, a Harris volunteer who helped arrange the candidate's visit here.

By the end of this week, all the major presidential candidates on the Illinois primary ballots except Sargent Shriver are expected to have swung through Southern Illinois.

President Ford flew into Williamson County Airport and spoke at John A. Logan Junior College Saturday. Alabama Gov. George Wallace is scheduled to land at Williamson County Airport Friday around noon. A rally if the airport is planned. Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, the front-running Democratic contender, is scheduled to address a rally Friday evening.

With one week remaining before the March 16 Illinois primary election, a poll conducted by an independent Chicago firm showed Carter and Wallace even on the Democratic side, with Shriver finishing third and Harris finishing a distant fourth in Illinois.

Ford's Illinois coordinator, former Gov. Richard Ogilvie, is predicting a two-to-one victory for the incumbent President, but Reagan staffers in Southern Illinois are claiming confidently that the Republican challenger will gain "better than 40 percent of the vote in Illinois."

The space at the Student Center is free and open to all. Harris has Declined Secret Service protection, and no special security measures are planned, Elvidge said.

Several SIU administrators have questioned the legality of the Illinois Board of Higher Education's (IBHE) proposal to reduce the amount of money the University can set aside to repay its bond commitments.

SIU and the University of Illinois are authorized by state law to retain a portion of their tuition monies to repay revenue bonds used to finance the construction of university dormitories and student centers.

If the IBHE proposal is approved, University Housing would be forced to raise its rates an estimated $80 a year, said Sam Rinella, director of University Housing.

C. Thomas Busch, acting SIU Student Center director, said the Student Center Fee would be increased $10 per semester to compensate for the $360,000 which would be lost if the IBHE proposal passes.

The IBHE refers to operations like the Student Center and University Housing as "funded debt" enterprises because the bonds are repaid through income generated by the University, not state appropriations.

R.D. Isbell, SIU Board of Trustees treasurer, said Monday that other Illinois institutions are not allowed to withhold a portion of their tuition funds.

The defense rested its case Monday in the trial of three men charged with a triple murder Nov. 1 following testimony from an SIU student who said she witnessed drug dealings at the murder scene Oct. 31 and testimony from police officers who characterized the sole survivor of the alleged murders as an "untruthful" person.

Jackson County State's Atty. Howard Hood said he will notify the court at 9 a.m. Tuesday about a possible rebuttal to the testimony in the case against Grady Bryant, Luther Carter and Ronald Jenkins.

The men are each charged with three counts of murder and one count of attempted murder in the shooting deaths of Terry Eanes, Robert Gilmore and James Williams and the wounding of Buford Lewis Jr.

The shootings are alleged to have occurred shortly after midnight Nov. 1 in the mobile home of Eanes and Gilmore at 401 N. Barnes St. Jackson County Public Defender Charles Grace, defense counsel for Jenkins and Carter, called Dorothy Glenn, 19, an SIU student, who said she was at the trailer the afternoon of Oct.

Glenn said she knew Eanes and Gilmore and went to the trailer about noon and remained until a little after 7 p.m.

Although she slept for about two hours, she said she saw about 20 "people coming in and out buying dope." She said she didn't know what the drugs were but that the substance looked "like a weed" to her.

CFUT-AUP coalition is possible, says Donow

POSSIBLE FORMATION OF A COLLECTIVE Bargaining/Coalition with the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT), the suggested subject for Wednesday's meeting of the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT),

Herbert Donow, president of the CFUT, reported that meetings have been held with the AUP in recent months for the purpose of avoiding any kind of direct competition. They have not yet reached an understanding.

Donow said he thinks a coalition will eventually be formed, hoping that no collective bargaining elections are held for either group before something more about it. "It's their move next." He said that at the present a coalition is not likely to be proposed. The meeting in the upcoming Illinois primary will be discussed at the next meeting of the group if it is not prepared to endorse anyone, Donow said. "We really don't have the room right now to get involved in a political campaign. We're devoted to getting our graduate task finished, organizing, and getting ready for a collective bargaining campaign," said Donow.

SIU chemistry student accused of making PCP

An SIU student was charged Monday in Jackson County Circuit Court with illegal manufacture of a controlled substance. The 21-year-old student had been found working at 8 a.m. in a chemistry lab in the Carbondale Community College building. Regarding the student's charges Lewis has been convicted of bailing jumping in 1969. "I think he has a good reputation in the community for being truthful and veracity and that he didn't want to do anything wrong," said Lewis. After she left the trailer about 7 a.m., Runge, defense counsel for the student said, "It was a plot of the student." The student told officers he had a pass from a professor authorizing his use of the lab, he said.

 Officers checked with the professor, who told them Kondo did have permission to use the lab but that he had not stepped into the lab until much later. Kondo said he found a white powder, which the officers took, Kondo said. Officers also found when that the student had no money on him, and upon searching the vehicle the Fourth discovered a gun. Security officers had the powder analyzed, and the results were that is powdery to be PCP. Kondo said. He received the results of the testing Wednesday. Judge Robert Schwatse said 11 a.m. in a preliminary hearing on the illegal manufacture of a controlled substance charge and the motion to suppress evidence on the unlawful use of weapons charge.

money being exchanged for the drugs. Kondo was not contacted the money they received, she said.

Lewis was present in the trailer the entire time she was there, she said, and he had a shoulder holster. Glenn, who was looking out the window, had taken the weapon off but that she wasn't sure.

As the police got in the trailer about 8 p.m., she didn't return that night, she said. Kondo was present in the trailer the evening of Nov. 6 from Bryant's home and a pair of black shoes, yellow tissue paper and bloodstains were found by Carbondale Police. Bryant asked, "Is it time to go?" He decided to return home, and from there to the trailer. He returned the morning of Nov. 7 in a shoulder holster.

"We understand that our oppression is by men and not by opposing nationalities," read the statement by Joanne Waron and Marcia Freedman, both members of the International Women's Association. "We are preparing to endorse anyone speaking in a speech which showed he puts pressure on the Ford administration to overturn the amendment.

Israelis, Arab women protest male oppression

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)- Women from three Arab countries and Israel on Monday condemned male oppression of women in their homelands. A statement issued by Israeli women at the International Tribunal on Crime against Women (ITCW), said he had a written statement for the defense but that he had no money on him, and upon searching the vehicle the Fourth discovered a gun. Security officers had the powder analyzed, and the results were that it was powdery to be PCP. Kondo said. He received the results of the testing Wednesday. Judge Robert Schwartse said 11 a.m. in a preliminary hearing on the illegal manufacture of a controlled substance charge and the motion to suppress evidence on the unlawful use of weapons charge.

Bullets found in a junk drawer of a desk in the Bryant's bedroom had been brought home nearly four months earlier by her husband, who had taken them from juveniles he worked with.

Bryant, who worked as a youth counselor for the Carbondale Youth Services Bureau, often brought home weapons, gun shells and other evidence of past crimes of the clients, she said. "I've never been a gun in their house," she said.

She said he had been at home with his friend on Nov. 6 and confirmed that Carter, Jenkins and Lewis were all together at that time. She said, "I heard him come into the house. He left again, she said, and the next time she saw him was the early morning when he came in and nobody was there."

Brian Tackett, manager of Don's Shell Station, 600 E. Grand St., testified that on Oct. 21 he worked on Bryant's car. "We looked in the morning in the middle of a court session. In an unusually strong statement to the public defender's office, he said that he had walked from the NATO office by the 700 S. Washington Ave. to Bryant's house, and from there to the trailer. He said it took him 14 minutes, six and a half seconds to travel the distance with both moderate to brisk pace.

Mckimmy, who collected evidence at the alleged murder scene, said a specific search was made at the trailer for hidden weapons, oversocks, screens, glass, carpet, tile surface floor and the like. He said, "I found nothing that might have penetrated the floor, but that he found no holes.

He told the shoulder holster allegedly worn by a woman sitting behind the sofa in the trailer's living room. R. G. Reim, Carbondale police officer who escorted the woman from the Jackson County Jail the afternoon of Nov. 6, said she did not take showers, and that none of the men had open cuts, wounds or scars of any kind.

The trial resumes at 9 a.m. Tuesday, with a motion by the prosecution to have the defense present. The defense plans to present a rebuttal. Judge Richard Runge told the state and the defense that he also expects the counsel to have prepared their instructions to the jury.
E—Senate to hear teacher evaluation report

By Kathleen Takemoto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A report from a faculty Senate special committee on teacher evaluation proposed to the Senate that the University's Department of Information will evaluate the system within fiscal year 1977—78. The committee recommends that no University—wide evaluation form be required.

The committee's report will be presented to the Faculty Senate for adopting at its meeting on Tuesday in the Student Center—Mississippi Room.

The report also recommends that initial steps toward a mandatory evaluation system be made with guidelines established by the vice president for academic affairs and research within the board's guidelines. The information collected should be clearly communicated to all faculty, former students, alumni, other faculty members, the report states.

A "reasonable amount of time" should be allowed for the faculty to adjust to the evaluation system and for the vice president to refine the system, the report recommends.

The Student Advisory Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) is seeking more student input on the proposal to establish a new advisory committee on instruction of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) that would help the board's staff develop a plan for student participation in policy analysis of entrance requirements and enrollment planning, said the committee's chairman, Dan Hueschmann.

The committee's report will be held April 6 at the IBHE's next meeting.

The resolution was one of four recommended by Gibbons, all of which were adopted by the advisory committee. The resolution was to provide a "policy analysis of entrance requirements and enrollment planning and review," Gibbons said. At the present time, students are not involved in any of the board's policy analyses, he said. The resolution will be presented to the IBHE at its next meeting April 6, he said.

The advisory committee also voted to establish a special task force to design and make recommendations to the committee on how it can use the Management Information System. The task force would develop a standardized computer information system for all state universities which will provide data to evaluate data from the institutions.

Gibbons said he is now seeking students interested in participating on the task force. He said he will do the initial screening of applicants before the names of the final candidates are submitted to the committee for approval.

Bored with Ford

By Cathy Tokarski

Editorial Page Editor

A young man stepped up to the microphone in the crowded, banner-lined auditorium at John A. Logan Junior College and in a bawdy, southern patois exclaimed, "First of all, I want to tell you that I love America and I love southern pride."

Welcome to Southern Illinois, President Ford.

While slinky-eyed Secret Service men continually scanned the crowd for any potential assassins and the Washington press corps rolled their eyes in boredom, the audience anxiously awaited the first presidential visit to the area since 1968. Judging from all the glitter and commotion surrounding Ford's visit, one would expect the result of his appearance to be worth the preparations involved.

For those who came just to see the president, it might have been an experience to remember. But for those interested in his speech, the glamour wore off in seconds and the true nature of a politician took over.

As a multitudes of other vote-getters have found it so fitting to do, Ford exclaimed the "growth and progress in this part of Illinois." He was sufficiently briefed by his advance men to pay token praise to the area growth, namely, Marion's new shopping center and movie theater.

No wonder the Washington press corps was bored.

Unfortunately, Ford was not briefed well enough to intelligently discuss the issues of consequence to Southern Illinois voters, particularly farming and coal mining.

The response to a question regarding the liberalization of the Black Lung Law was as vague and evasive as he could muster under the circumstances, although coal mining is the health every working day, Ford could concede only that "the people deserve some benefits after working 30 years."

With the conclusion of the speech and question and answer session, Ford waved and blew a kiss to the audience, apparently satisfied that his standard speech format had not yet been violated.

The Washington press corps breathed a sigh of relief, rolled their eyes in boredom once again for extra measure and headed for the nearest exit.

If Ford's speech was any indication of the quality of the rest of our presidential candidates, the Washington press corps is in for some stiff competition.

Steel clear of South Africa

By Lane Snider

Student Writer

The United States should actively support the black people of Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa to gain rightful control of their governments. The policy of apartheid practiced by the white-dominated governments of those two countries for so long has yielded its inevitable, the emerging force of black nationalism in Southern Africa as witnessed recently in Angola is clear handwriting on the wall concerning the shaky things that will be for those two countries in the near future.

Blacks in Rhodesia make up 92 percent of the population; in South Africa 88 percent of the people are black and another nine percent are of mixed race or overwhelming majorities with little or no representation in both cases.

The Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia has been under economic boycott by the world community for its racial policies by most Western nations since the mid-sixties and would find it hard to survive without the help of South Africa.

If the South African government truly supports black people's rights, then why do they continue to provide most of the economic aid which keeps Rhodesia afloat? South Africa is rich in natural resources such as uranium and other rare minerals which will inflate greatly in the future of the United States. We will be increasingly dependent on the United States for its natural resources, including uranium, and other minerals. Aside from the moralistic issues of apartheid, the U.S. can hardly afford to support white minority control in South Africa with the possible risk of alienating the future rulers of that part of the world.

The time has come for the U.S. to impose economic sanctions against the Union of South Africa like those against Rhodesia. By halting economic trade with South Africa, the U.S. could cause serious hardship for the country's white-dominated government and indirectly put more pressure on Rhodesia as well.

An example set by the U.S. could possibly serve as an impetus for other countries of the world to follow. This would provide a positive force for changing the racial inequalities that exist there.

From a moral standpoint and for future national security we can do less.

Washington press corps disillusions protge

To the Daily Egyptian:

I was equally concerned, as were the White House press corps, with seeing the President Saturday. The day had been one of the most bizarre episodes of the administration. The White House explained that Brokaw was in New York and with the massive press conference planned, a White House spokesperson interjected "Helen probably didn't come because she knew what a turkey it was."

While standing in the press section of the airport audience Saturday, one of the many bands on hand to greet the President stated, "Jesus (Superstar)." I thought something more appropriate could have been played and apparently so did the White House press corps. Remarked one member of the corps, "What do they think this is, the second coming of Jesus?"

I would consider it the zenith of my career to be a reporter in Washington, and especially a White House correspondent. But, such remarks made by members of the White House press corps were totally out of context and did not help put the correspondents where they are today.

True, it was unnecessary for a detailed description to be given of the presidential plane and all the waste. But just as the hot line telephone in the back seat to the American flag over the back bumper. And yes, other than a siro or an expressway Mobil oil sign, Air Force One was the largest thing many of those on hand at the airport had seen. I do know now that if this snobbbery and arrogance by the "elite" press of Washington is all they had to offer while in the Southern Illinois area, it will be all too soon when they return.

Don't vote to jail yourself

To the Daily Egyptian:

Gov. Walker says he opposes marijuana law reform because "We don't have enough evidence that long range use is not harmful."

The governor is apparently unaware that no one who supports decriminalization of marijuana believes that it is a "good" drug. Dr. Howard H. Kingsley believes that marijuana is harmless. They support reform because they believe the law is harmful — diverting police from fighting real crime, tying up court rooms, costing Illinois taxpayers more than $25 million annually, destroying an entire generation's respect for authority, and burdening more than 50,000 Illinois prisoners in the last three years with a lifetime criminal arrest record.

The governor apparently is unaware that no major study of marijuana from the Indian Hemp Commission in 1890 to the latest research on heavy, long-term users in Jamaica, Greece and Costa Rica has found any effect of marijuana so serious as to require or justify the arrest of millions.

The governor apparently is unaware that the U.S. government's top medical authorities, Drs. Robert L. DuPont, acknowledged last month that marijuana is substantially less harmful than alcohol and tobacco.

The governor apparently is unaware that his position on marijuana law reform raises a hell of an interesting question for the state's one million citizens who smoke marijuana: Why vote to send a Springfield candidate who wants to send you to jail? And why has neither the compassion nor the courage to provide leadership in an area where for too long we have been misled?

Illinois pension funds in default

By G. C. Wieand
Professor of Economics

Before you cast your vote, stop for a moment and contemplate the following facts.

For about 30 years, the state of Illinois has failed to make the legally required payments to the three major state pension funds — the state employees, the teachers, and the Universities Retirement Systems. Delinquency in legal Assessments (the politicians) and the Judges Retirement Systems— have left unfunded worker are more than 15 billion in the state's largest pension plan and the past-due obligations — of the state are actually four times as large as the purchasers of Illinois bonds are told.

The bond-rating services, which rate Illinois bonds as AAA, do not mention the arrears due to the pension funds, apparently on the assumption that the debts already owed to the bondholders rank ahead of the debts to former state employees. Since these employees and the state's teachers, whose old age security is based upon these funds, do not feel that it can simply forget about its legal obligations, the Retirement Systems are.

State employees and teachers have to contribute eight percent of their salary every month to their respective systems. There is no assurance that the Systems will have enough money in 10 to 15 years to pay the contractual obligations.

During the same 30 years, during which the state of Illinois has been in default on its payments to the pension funds, the state legislators increased their own salary from $3000 to $20,000, which some legislators collect for two years in advance, thus earning additional interest. In 1975, moreover, the legislators paid themselves on average $25,000 in "expenses," thus making the total annual cost to the taxpayer $475,000 per legislator for what is in most cases — and should be in all cases — part-time employment.

The pension of a state employee, or a teacher, who has worked for 40 years in about 45 percent of the highest salary earned. The legislators, on the other hand, have voted themselves an 80 percent pension after 20 years for a part-time job. In 1974, they adopted a law under which the base for figuring the 80 percent pension was to include not only the $20,000 salary, but the $25,000 expense account as well. On the basis of the 1975 salary and expense account, the legislators have been entitled after 15 years service, to a $38,000 a year pension for life. Gov. Walker vetoed this bill. However, every reason to assume that the legislators will try again.

Before you cast your vote, why not ask the candidates for their position on the state's pension system, on the pay raises of the state and the teacher and state employees.

In 1974, the legislature voted to pay some overdue arrears due to the various Retirement Systems, but Gov. Walker killed the bill. Having made many promises, the legislature, the legislators made no effort to override the governor's veto, and the courts successfully upheld the veto.

Even though the state of Illinois has been default on its obligations for 30 years and the governor personally prevented a partial payment of these

Lonely in the hole

To the Daily Egyptian:

I want to thank you for the help you gave me last year with the letters I received at Menard State Prison. I would love to get a lot of good brothers and sisters at SIU and other towns. Right now I'm in the hole because I just received another set at the parole board and I'm not receiving any parole.

I'm doing six years pulling hard time. I am writing this letter from the hole I been in for the past three months. I'm lonely and sad and could dig hearing from anybody, but mostly hollies and bikers. Power to you. May long hair and rock 'n roll live forever.

Convo to sponsor dance troupe's show

The Don Redlich Dance Company will give a performance of contemporary dance at 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium. The Convocations program highlights the dance company's stay at SLU which will also include teaching four classes.

The classes include a 10 a.m. to noon class in Furr Auditorium on "Movement for Actors," a 2 to 4 p.m. class in Davies Women's Gym, a 2:30 a.m. class on "Technique," and a 2 to 4 p.m. class in Furr Auditorium on "Intermediary and Advanced Technique." The three classes are scheduled Friday and open to everyone. The company, formed in 1965, has made several national tours and the members have presented the United States in the 1965 International Festival of Dance in Paris. The troupe also participated in the 1969 Billy Rose season on avant garde dance, and the 1973 New York Spring Dance Festival.

Ambassador opens sculpture display

"I've admired paintings, but sculpture is a three-dimensional form of art which portrays much more clearly and completely the personality, more than what you see," said T. K. Kaul, the present Indian Ambassador to the United States, who will open the "Retrospective Exhibition" by sculptress Fredda Brilliant.

Kaul, passed as United States representative from Illinois, and President Warren C. Blass spoke to about 50 people Saturday at Brilliant's display of pieces of sculpture, including wire and bronze.

Included in the exhibition was the bronzed head of her husband, Research and Projects Professor Herbert Marshall; the head of Indira Gandhi; the large steel and iron sculpture of the late Mahatma Gandhi; the head of Distinguished Professor Buckminster Fuller; a sculpture of Anne Frank, which is a maquette for a statue. Brandt, said, is opening the reception, that "feelings like this end." The one with the other level each of the level created by Redlich, is divided into three sections and the movements.

Redlich is currently an attending teacher at the Juilliard School's Drama Division and the Sarah Lawrence College. The program is being sponsored by Convocations, the Theater Department, Academic Affairs, SIU Foundation, Graduate School, and the 1973 New York State Arts Council. The program is being sponsored by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Illinois Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Theater Department presents student written play Tuesday

"Colleen," a play by King Lambird, will be presented in Mucklenau Auditorium in the Agriculture Building Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The play is the first in a series from the "Playwriting Workshop" class in the Theater Department, which will be presented throughout the semester.

Lambird, a graduate student in theater, says the play is set in present day Northern Ireland and focuses on a young revolutionary, who struggles to overcome the negative influence of his family. Lambird also says the play points a direction of the people of Northern Ireland.

"Colleen" was presented in one-act form two years ago at Quarter Night, but has been expanded to three acts for Tuesday's performance.

The admission-free program will include "Patina," "Three Bagatelles," "Trances," and "Rota." The "Patina" number is an interaction of pairs and triple of dancers, blending into one at the end. The second number is a trio of solos each displaying a different style of movement. In "Trances" the company uses the theme of the Old West portraying prim ladies, saloonkeepers, cowboys and Annie Oakley types. The only dance not created by Redlich, is divided into two sections and movements.

Don Redlich Dance troupe members Billy Siegenfeld, Don Redlich, Jennifer Donohue and Barbara Roam kick up their heels in "Trances." This number, and three others, will be performed at their show at 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium. Not pictured is dancer Irene Feigenheimer.
displayed qualities that deserved special recognition. The judges selected Cecil Abbott, a sophomore in music, for the excellent one-act interpretive performance dealing with revolution.

Abbott’s unique presentation kept the audience entranced.

Mark Christensen, a first-year medical student participating in the solo category, entertained the audience with better-than-average guitar playing and two humorous blue selections. His rendition of "Brown’s Ferry Blues" was especially good.

Joe DeGroote, a senior in journalism, did an excellent job on the song, "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do," her deep, warm voice was well suited for the song. Thomas displayed the best female voice competing in the show.

The winner in the intermediate category was the Jim Jochem Group. The three-member combo sang two contemporary selections, the best of which was "Mackson Love" by the musical group America. As a group, they offered an excellent guitar presentation and good harmony.

Saks Fifth Avenue, a five-member group also participating in the intermediate category, opened the show with a medley of soul songs. The five women harmonized well, but flaws in their choreography detracted from their overall performance and may have cost them the trophy.

The large group category offered three 15-minute skits featuring songs and music from three well-known musicals.

The winning entry was entitled "To Old London Towne," presented by members of the Delta Zeta Sorority and the Alpha Kappa Lambda Fraternity. The original skit, adapted from the musical "Oliver," had the best lead singers and most consistent performances by all members of the cast.

The skit won awards for its set design, lead vocalist and lead female vocalist. Awarding the group for set design might be questioned, but the awards for lead vocalists were deserved.

The female lead, Lynn Hendry, a junior in accounting, and the male lead, Bruce Devatter, a graduate student in engineering, were both excellent.

The two other entries in this category, "Ship Ahoy!" adapted from "Anything Goes" by members of the Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority and the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity and "Shields and Chivalry," an adaptation from "Camelot" by the Sigma Kappa Sorority and the Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity, received honorable mentions, which they more than deserved considering the amount of work that went into the presentation of the skits.

"Ship Ahoy!" also received an award for best choreography and "Shields and Chivalry" received awards for best costume and best directing.

At the evening’s performance was Archetta Blaine, Miss Ebenezer for 1976, who sang two songs.

The pit orchestra, directed by Robert Kingsbery, associate professor of music, provided excellent musical accompaniment for the acts. Kingsbery also announced, at the close of this 12 year as director of the annual Theta Xi Variety Show.

Greek Council presents awards

By Mark Barher Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

As an award has been presented this past weekend's Theta Xi Variety Show, two awards were presented by the Inter-Greek Council.

The first, the Leo Kaplan Memorial Banquet Award, consisting of five $100 awards, was presented at the Saturday performance. The awards are presented to the late Leo Kaplan, Theta Xi faculty advisor and professor of biology. They are presented to outstanding undergraduate students studying in the biological sciences.

This year's five recipients were all juniors. They are: Matthew Collins, botany; Kevin Crowley, geology; Russell Dunkel, zoology; Richard Gooding, microbiology and chemistry; and Thomas Jones, chemistry and biochemistry.

The second, the Service-to-Southern Award, was presented by the Sigma Kappa Sorority and the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity.

The award is given annually to outstanding undergraduate students in recognition of their participation and service to the University. This year, the $500 award was shared equally by seniors Thomas Brackett, art, and Anne Heinz, journalism.

Recipients of both awards are selected by a faculty-administration committee.

One other award, the Kenny Garrison Memorial Scholarship, was presented at the Sigma Gamma Rho Fashion Show on April 11. This is a $500 scholarship taken from the proceeds of the variety show.

All of the proceeds of the show are donated to the University for the purpose of providing additional scholarship aid to SIUE students.

This year’s show raised over $1200.

CULTURE CASH

NEW YORK (AP) — Cultural activities in New York City generate more than $3 billion annually, according to Robert W. Saroff, national chairman of the Business Committee for the Arts. More than $100 million in taxes, he added.

Nonprofit arts organizations in the state spend some $550 million annually, or more than half the operating expenditures of the state’s culture business, he said. They employ 33,000 people, more than the railroad industry in New York State, Saroff added.
Graduate Council reviewing faculty membership proposal

By Kathleen Takemoto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Graduate Council is currently reviewing a proposal to change the criteria for membership in the faculty of the Graduate School, said Timothy Dunagan, chairman of the council.

The proposal, which was presented in draft form to the Graduate Council Thursday by the council's Education Committee, calls for the graduate dean to make appointments to the graduate faculty upon recommendation of the graduate degree program with which the faculty member is to be affiliated.

All professors, associate professors and assistant professors who have demonstrated research or creative achievements and are academically qualified to teach at an advanced level are eligible to be appointed to the graduate faculty.

Under the current policy, membership in the graduate faculty is open to all professors and associate professors who are engaged in teaching or research.

The proposed change would grant ex officio memberships to the president of the University, the vice president for academic affairs and research, the graduate dean, the dean of colleges and independent schools and the dean of the library. The graduate dean may also grant ad hoc memberships to faculty members who are not otherwise eligible for appointment to the faculty to serve on specific thesis or dissertation committees or to teach specific graduate courses.

Dr. Reuben Kauffman, chairman of the Graduate Council's Program Review Committee, said the proposal for the change in membership criteria will be voted on by the Graduate Council at its meeting April 1, Dunagan said.

'Significant' growth of graduate faculty

The Graduate Council's Program Review Committee is currently in the process of reviewing eight graduate programs, Kauffman said. The reviews are being done by members of the Graduate Council and one or two professional persons selected from a list submitted by each department, he said.

The Program Review Committee will submit a report of the review to the graduate dean, the vice president for academic affairs and research and the department, he said.

Know Your Body workshops offered by women's group every Tuesday

By Judy Vandewater
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A series of eight "Know Your Body" workshops will be offered from 3 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays, March 9 through May 4 in the Student Center Rooms.

The workshops are designed to give women information about themselves and to show how to improve health care by a health care system.

The workshops, sponsored by the Health Service Women's Program and Student Government Activities Council, are free and open to the public.

Exercises, body movement and relaxation techniques will be detailed in the Body Awareness workshop on March 9.

Information on pelvic exams, paps, menstrual problems and breast self-examination will be presented in the March 23 session.

Sex role stereotyping and sex bias in mental health practices are the topics of the March 30 workshop.

"Women and Mental Health:
A nurse midwife and parents who have delivered children at home will lead the discussion of "Choices in Childbirth.

The advantages and disadvantages of new developments in childbirth procedures will be detailed in the April 6 session.

A workshop on "Contraceptive Option" will be held on April 13. Information will be given on the various methods of birth control.

The transmission, symptoms and treatment of venereal disease will be described in the April 20 session.

Power" workshop on April 27 participants will be introduced to mental and physical exercises derived from Eastern and Western martial arts.

The growth of a self-help movement, women taking over routine medical care of their own bodies, will be discussed on May 4.

Applications are now being taken for summer and fall.

Thousands greet Ford on Southern Ill

By Bob Springer and Lenore Sobota
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

Air Force One touched down on Williamson County Airport’s runway at 4:56 p.m. Saturday. Moments later, the front hatch opened and a smiling, arm-waving President Gerald Ford emerged to the cheers of an estimated 7,500 persons.

While Ford eased his way along the edge of the crowd, a staff writer with New Times magazine, Ron Rosenbaum, remarked that after following the President’s campaign swings through Florida and Illinois, “It’s all become pretty meaningless at this point.”

Rosenbaum said Ford had said about the same thing throughout his two-day Illinois tour and the only thing to watch was for a difference in crowd reactions.

The gathering cheered when Ford, wearing a dark pin-striped suit, took the podium for brief remarks and reacted generally with more curiosity than enthusiasm for the remainder of his visit at the airport.

Ford praised Illinois for its coal industry, agriculture and especially its people. He said through the continued development of Southern Illinois “vast humurous coal resources,” the nation could achieve energy independence by 1985.

Only half will vote

An informal survey of some of the airport gathering an hour before the President’s arrival indicated only about half the persons there planned on voting in the March 16 Illinois primary election. And half of those who said they would be voting, claimed to be Democrats.

When asked who she planned to vote for on the presidential preference ballot, one older woman wrapped in a shawl hugged her purse tightly and answered curtly, “Swee’ Jackson.”

A young man carrying a baby responded to the same question, laughing, “I don’t know yet, but it will be a Democrat.”

After introducing Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, both of whom made the two-day stump with Ford, the President answered several questions from local press at a roped-off area.

He said his administration would not tolerate illegal acts by corporations either in domestic or international matters.

In answer to a question about the blackbird problem in this region, Ford said he had been briefed about it by Percy on the flight down from Champaign. He said he had no specific legislation in mind to solve the problem.

Ford left late, the front hatch quickly closed and a black limousine followed immediately by an open limousine of secret service agents, and headed for John A. Logan College.

While enroute to the college, an ABC cameraman mentioned that one of Ford’s staffers estimated the airport crowd at 13,000.

Clockwise, from upper left: President Gerald Ford plunges into the crowd at Williamson County Airport to shake a few hands and get a few votes; a smiling future voter seems bored by Ford’s address at John A. Logan Community College; senior citizens huddle together at the airport waiting for Ford’s arrival; a state patrolman surveys the crowd from atop the main terminal’s roof; an enterprising youth pole to see President Ford from a differer secret service protection. Ford shakes a few more hands and heads for John A. Logan Community College.

Secret Service agents Friday night. Weeds and bushes surrounding the campus were searched Saturday afternoon and state police were stationed on top of the buildings. Persons entering the auditorium to hear the President had their purses and bags searched. Camera cases, battery packs and telephoto lenses also underwent close scrutiny.

Bales said the costs for the extra security officers would be billed to the President's re-election committee.

Greg Starrick, community relations officer for John A. Logan Community College, said the college only had four days to plan for Ford's appearance.

"We got confirmation that he was coming late Monday evening or Tuesday morning," said Starrick. "His advance men came in on Monday to scout for a site and we got chosen. They did most of the planning. It was a complete and thorough job."

Visit lasts two hours

Ford returned by motorcade to the airport after his appearance at Logan and again met with supporters along the runway directly in front of the airport terminal.

He shook hands and exchanged greetings in the night for about 10 minutes before boarding Air Force One for the return trip to Washington. D. C. Marion was the final stop in his campaign tour of Illinois.

The President's jet departed at 7:10 p.m., slightly more than two hours after it had arrived.

The second seated president since 1948 to have visited Southern Illinois had come and gone.
Rocks, fossils, stones on sale in geology auction Tuesday

By Sue Freely

"How much am I bid for this fine geode, please?"

SIU's Geology Club members hope the members will bring rock collection bot to their annual rock auction Tuesday. Rocks and minerals will be sold to the public.

Geodes, which are hollow stones usually lined with crystals, are some of the minerals that will be sold at the club's fifth annual auction. The auctioneer, Russell R. Ducket, chairman of the Geology Department, will begin the sale at 2 p.m. in Room 112 of the Parkinson Building.

Fossils and specimens of fluorite, calcite and pyrite will also be available, said Lu-Anne Lonsinger, president of the Geology Club.

"Many of the faculty members, as well as club members donate rocks from their collections," Lonsinger said.

Other items to garnish the rock booth are paper weights, photographs of women graduates meet for lunch in Student Center

Women attending graduate school are invited to a luncheon from noon to 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Thibe Room of the Student Center. Ginny Britton, coordinator of Women's Programs, said the idea is to get acquainted and share experiences.

Show to relate impact of primary on SIU students

Student Radio Station WIDB will present a 30-minute documentary on the upcoming WDB Illinois Primary and how it relates to SIU students. The show begins Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

WIDB News Director Mark Wesley and Jeff Skovron produced the show and will host the program.

"We will be pointing out the major issues that are important to students such as a possible tuition increase, marijuana legislation, and some economic factors. Then we will present excerpts from the various national, state, and local candidates' speeches on each topic," Wesley said.
Warm fuzzy is happy symbol for psychology student group

By Mark Raneber
Daily Egyptian, Staff Writer

What have you been doing with your warm fuzzy? A group of SIU students have been creating and shaping the Future of warm fuzzies. And they are in the process of organizing a campaign to increase their use around the campus.

According to H. Richard Miller, assistant professor of psychology, a warm fuzzy is a symbol for a person's ability to make a warm fuzzie. "We use this terminology in our research on interactions between people and the environment," Miller said.

According to the class, they are organizing a group not for profit. "We are trying to develop a friendly hello quasi-organization. We are not quite sure what we're doing," Miller said.

According to Miller, who serves as the group's vice president and "warm fuzzy consultant," the group is organized around two goals: to help people make connections and to provide a symbol of connection. "We are trying to develop a friendly person to have a little warm fuzzy," he said.

The idea for warm fuzzies came from a course taught last semester—Psychology 330: Psychology Applied to Personal Adjustment.

"As part of the course," Miller explained, "I suggested to the class that, in addition to self help, there should be something they could do to improve the psychological environment on the campus."

"I invited the class to offer suggestions," Miller said. "It’s a friendly person who was suggested to the class organization just a group of like-minded people."

According to Mark Hilemann, one of the students in the original group, there are plans for the group to become an official campus organization.

"Twenty-five people make up the campus crew, and what is going on," the group has a list of 130 names of people who might want to participate in activities, Miller said.

"As an eight member organizing committee has been formed," Hilemann explained. "It seems we are trying to set specific goals as to what we’ll do and be," he said.

Joseph Lopez, 20, of Carbondale, said the group is about to change this, and determined that what was needed were more strokes. "It is a way we can produce a stroke," Lopez said.

"They developed the symbol. (The warm fuzzy) to indicate to the world that the person wearing it was basically a friendly person who was willing to exchange strokes," Lopez explained.

The patch, which is the symbol, was also developed by the class. Miller said. "The class wanted the symbol to have a little body and face on it, but people are too close to their own design," Miller said.

Miller, who serves as the group’s vice president and "warm fuzzy consultant," said, "What we’ve been doing is organizing a group to get it done."

"As it stands, we are going to write a constitution, and we are trying to set specific goals as to what we’ll do and be," Lopez said.

"A lot depends on the people who finally make up the group," he said. "We don’t want a lot of structure, but we realize that we have to have some."

"We hope to have regular meetings. And we want to try to have a few activities this spring, probably after spring break," he said.

Clothes stolen from men's store

Caru’s Men’s Store, 606 S. Illinois Avenue, was burglarized last Saturday morning, Carbondale police said.

Police said the thieves broke the front door open and stole $1,317 worth of clothes. A total inventory of the lost items will be taken by the store.

The burglary occurred at 2:44 a.m. There are no suspects reported.

Joseph Lopez, 20, of Carbondale, was observed breaking a window out of a car Monday morning. The victim called the police and Lopez allegedly fled in his own car at high speed without turning on the headlights.

He was arrested at 1:44 a.m. and taken to Jackson County Circuit Court. Lopez was charged with criminal damage to property and fleeing from police. He was released on $100 cash bond.

Botany study group schedules field work on Big Bend trip

By Chris Morrice
Student Writer

During spring break a botany instructor and three students plan to learn more about Big Bend National Park.

The study group, under the direction of John Richardson, instructor in the Department of Botany, will leave Carbondale Thursday and photograph desert wildflowers, cacti, and abandoned mercury mines for 16 days. They also plan to complete an amateur's road guide of the Big Bend Country.

Richardson, who has been studying the area since 1973, said, "A lot of hard work goes into our trip. This is not a vacation because I hope to do 12 to 15 hours of field work each day."

Richardson, who is interested in the taxonomy of cacti, hopes to test three plant characteristics which may clarify classification problems.

Recently, a new cactus was discovered in the area and there is confusion as to whether the plant is a species of Euphorbia.

Richardson plans to collect pollen, spines, seeds and roots and magnify them through a scanning electron microscope. The microscope will enlarge the specimens 2 to 3,000 times.

During the spring, Big Bend, which is on the border of Mexico and Texas, is abundant in vegetation. Richardson has plans for completing a list of endangered and rare cacti in the National Park.

"One-third of the 150 cacti there are endangered," he said, "because of commerical collectors who remove thousands of the plants per week." Eventually, Richardson hopes to encourage Texas to pass an endangered and rare cacti law which would prohibit the collecting of the plants.

Also planned for the trip is the completion of the black and white photography documentary on abandoned mercury mines. The 12 to 14 large format black and white photos of Big Bend and traces of the ore are still evident. They were established in 1939 when汞 mining was closed in 1969 because of the expense in bringing the ore to the surface.

Richardson, who recently displayed big picture mine exhibit in the Faber building, said color film is too gaudy to represent the abandoned mines.

The road guide, which Richardson hopes to publish in December, will be an historical and geological booklet that will start at a given point (0.0 miles) and alert the reader to the many Big Bend sights.

Richardson has used old survey books, including a 1901 article from the first scientific expedition into the Big Bend Country he found at Morris Library, to help complete the guide.

Richardson also looks forward to relaxation and said the Big Bend study tour will be therapeutic.

"There are no phones where we are going," he said, "and even though I have plans of where to go in the natural park, organization won't restrict us.

A generous reward is being offered for return of $3,000

Reward being offered for return of $3,000

A generous reward is being offered for a green envelope containing over $3,000 that was lost around 4 p.m. Thursday. An assistant professor at the student union lost the money, which was in $10 bills in the Student Center.

He said he had planned to go to the bank Thursday morning. The money was his customers' investment for band fees. He planned to buy some cashiers check for about $4 p.m. The professor was at the Student Center Bookstore buying Fillers for his pen. Because of the lost money he was upset.

He said he had little hope of seeing the money again, but added, "There are lots of honest people on campus."

Study-travel summer in Israel offered jointly by universities

"Modern Israel," a program for students who desire an intensive study of Israel's economic, social, political, religious, educational, and scientific institutions, will be offered in Israel in July and August.

State University College at Oswego, New York, is sponsoring the tenth academic program in cooperation with Hebrew University, Haifa University, and Bar-Ilan University in Israel, and the Department of Education and Culture of Israel.

The program is an opportunity for research on a particular aspect of the country and a humanizing contact with old and new Israel.

Visual seminars announced

A leading scholar of visual communications will be the guest speaker for a seminar this week. Herbert Zettl, associate chairman of the Visual Communications Arts Department at San Francisco State University, will speak at a graduate seminar Thursday at 3 p.m. in Room 161, Lawson Hall.

Participation for both courses is limited to teachers, undergraduate and graduate students who can meet the entrance requirements of the State University of New York, and who have a serious purpose for participating. There are no language requirements.

Persons desiring further information may write Professor Zettl at his home at 3630 N.E. 20th Avenue, Miami, Florida.

Men swimmers finish sixth by winning four first places

By Mark Kaskowski
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor
SIU's men swimmers recorded lonesome best times in 33 events but finished sixth in the National Independent Swim Meet Thursday through Saturday at Columbia, S.C. Florida State won the meet with 225 points. Miami of Florida and South Carolina were second and third with 218 and 205 points. Cincinnati and Texas at Arlington finished fourth with 202 and 200 points. The Salukis scored 150 points.

"Nobody can be happy if they're sixth," SIU Coach Bob Steele said. "But I was pleased with the performances.

SIU had four meet champions in the all. Were in meet record time. Mike Salerno captured the 50-yard backstroke in 25.8. It was his second such time over.

"He swims championship, so he's ready," Steele said of his top backstroker.

Jorge Delgado was a double-winner in the 200-yard freestyle and the 200-yard butterfly. Steele said that Delgado's wins were significant in that he had not been rested or shared for the meet.

Greg Porter took second in the butterfly race. Steele said Porter chased Delgado all the way. Delgado's time was 1:49.71 to 1:51.54 for Porter.

Porter captured the lighter first place for SIU. He won the 400-yard individual medley in a meet and school record time of 4:29.9.

The 800-yard freestyle relay team of Rock Fox, Dave Boyd, Delgado and Bryan Gadekan took second. The 400-yard medley relay team of Salerno, Paul Schultz, Delgado and Fox also took second.

The times in the relays and the 200-yard individual medley were SIU records. Dave Boyd nabbed a school record in the 200-yard individual medley.

It took him two times, but the junior from Janesville, Wis., finally had the 200-yard individual record for his own.

Boyd broke the school record-his first ever-on his heat. Porter came back in the next heat and beat Boyd's record by a hundredth of a second.

In the finals, Boyd broke the record again and Porter failed to rebreak it. Boyd's time of 1:53.5 was nearly four seconds faster than his previous best. Porter's time of 1:56.41 was an SIU freshman record.

Senior Paul Schultz set a school record in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:09.45.

Gadekan set a freshman record in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 4:35. He qualified for the NCAA championships with this time.

Six individuals and three relay teams qualified for the NCAA meet.

Delgado has qualified in the 500-yard freestyle, the 200-yard freestyle and the 200-yard butterfly. Gadekan has qualified in the 500-yard freestyle and the 1,000-yard freestyle.

Dave Swenson has qualified in the 1,600-yard freestyle. Porter has qualified in the 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard medley.

God speaks to miler

Ryun has vision, retires

LAWRENCE. Kan. (AP)—Jim Ryun, whose name is synonymous with the mile run for almost a decade, said a letter from God gave him the courage to quit running.

"I finally found peace with myself to retire," the former University of Kansas star said.

"About a week ago God spoke to me, saying, 'You fought a good fight, you ran a good race, but now you're finished,'" he said during his retirement news conference at the university.

The 30-year-old Ryan, who set world records in the mile and the 1,500-meter run, as a teenager at Kansas, had been bothered by injuries since turning pro and joining the International Track Association in 1973.

"Six months ago I made the decision to return to Kansas and see if I could run pro again," Ryun said. "Had I declared to retire at that point, it would have been very difficult decision for me to accept because there would have been a great deal of animosity inside me."

"I was 10 days ago in Salt Lake City, where he had to drop out because of an Achilles tendon injury.

Ryun, who first gained recognition as a prep miler at Wichita East High School, set his world record in the mile run—three minutes, 51.1 seconds—and the 1,500-meter—3:33.1—only 16 days apart in 1967.

Ryun competed for the United States in the 1968, 1972 and '76 Olympic Games, but never won a gold medal.

The Kansas flash was just a youngster in the '64 games at Tokyo, then was bothered by the thin air at Mexico City four years later. The Kansas flash was just a youngster in the '64 games at Tokyo, then was bothered by the thin air at Mexico City four years later. Then, in 1972, he dropped and fell during a qualifying heat at Munich.

Saluki season ends with Aggie loss

By Dave Wieczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Salukis finally pulled off a victory this Saturday, but the Salukis will not be at any of the next six weekend games. For the young SIU women's basketball team, this was an abrupt, and unexpected end to Saturday night's game.

Friedman has pulled off a week.

Concerned about the team, where it stands and how the team will react, Friedman said. But after the first day when the smoke had finally cleared, their final team with 418 points, using only eight swimmers. (n

The Salukis suffered through a rash of injuries early in the season, but when the season ended, and unexpected Saturday of

This was to be a year of indoctrination for the Salukis, Friedman said. By McCurdy, Craven said.

The only other individual event won by individual medley (32.0:) 1, 100-yard backstroke (1:00.62). The Salukis knew they had to win the meet to stay in second place in the Midwest regionals held at Macomb over the weekend. SIU finished the tournament with 23 points, using only eight swimmers. In fact, Bowling Green University with 418 points. The Salukis finished first in seven events despite their relatively small team.

Bowing Green arrived with enough swimmers to fill a bus. SIU Coach Joyce Craven said.

The Salukis went up to Macomb unchallenged about the team, but the best Al. The Aggies had chipped away at the lead, and the Aggies took advantage of every chance SIU was in foul trouble most of the second half. Eventually three Salukis—Richard Ford, AI Williams, and Mike Glenn—were fouled out of the game.

For the game, SIU had a 16-10 field goal advantage over the Aggies, but New Mexico hit on 31 of 36 free throws to SIU's 14. Coaches, players, fans and radio announcers were of the opinion that SIU did not get a fair break or call from the referees.

I don't really care the way in which we were beaten. Lambert said. I was really proud of the kids when they heard the halftime announcement, he said. A lot of teams would have folded, but our kids played just super.

For fans and players the season is over, but Lambert said he and his staff will get right to work on recruiting.

We go home this afternoon at three o'clock, Lambert said with a smile. "It will be the first time I've done that all year, except for game days. I'll be here for the Supersectional (Class A Tuesday night) then I'm going to take Wednesday and Thursday off.

Class A Super at Arena Tuesday

Eldorado will defend its top rating in the Class A Illinois High School Association volleyball tournament. Unless there is an upset, the Eagles will play Cairo Tuesday night in a Supersectional game at the Civic Center in Carbondale.

Friday both teams entered hard fought victories to remain among the leaders. Eldorado led the game 5-3, 13-15, 17-15 in the opening round. In the semifinals, the Eagles defeated the Illinois High School Association 15-13, 15-13 in the final.

El Dorado's top scorer Harvey "The Juice" McNeal led his team's effort with a 31 point performance. The Eagles have run up a 23-3 record for the season.

The speed of the Pilots will be matched by the size and bulk of Eldorado. Leading the Eagle attack is John Duff, 6-4, 225 pounds, the most enthusiastic home crowd, while Cairo defeated Breeze Mater Dei 75-46, at the sectional in Springfield.
