Contests few, far between in local primary elections

By William Walker
Staff Writer

It's primary election time again, but locally there is little in the way of contests, with nearly all of the Jackson County and 22nd Congressional District candidates running unopposed in Tuesday's election.

The one contested race in the 22nd Congressional District is between John T. Anderson and Joe Hale for the Republican state central committeeman nomination.

For the Democratic Party, which elects one male and one female to the state central committee, Frances Hope Dyhrkopp is unopposed in the female position and Leslie McCollum is the unopposed male candidate.

Running unopposed in the three other 22nd Congressional District positions are the Democratic ballot are Congressman Ken Gray, who is seeking a 12th term as U.S. representative; Illinois Rep. Bruce Richmond, who is running for re-election as 116th District representative; and Donald L. Brewer, who is seeking the nomination for county superintendent of schools for Jackson and Perry counties.

On the Republican side in the remaining three 22nd Congressional District races, the only candidate on the ballot is Herman F. Wright, who is unopposed in his bid for representative to the 116th district.

In the three Jackson County elections to be decided, incumbent Democrats County Clerk Robert B. Harrell, Sheriff William J. Kilquist and Treasurer Shirley Dillingen Booker each are unopposed.

On the Republican ballot for the county posts there is again no contested races, with Sandra J. Catt running for county clerk, James J. Ness seeking the nomination for sheriff and Lanny R. Rednour seeking the treasurer's post.

Under Illinois election laws, primary elections are operated in a closed system, which means voters must specify a particular party, either Republican or Democrat, and can vote only for candidates in the party chosen. The winners in the primary elections will represent their respective parties in the November general election.

Registered voters can cast their ballots between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday at the location where they are registered. Polling precincts are as follows:

Carbondale: Precinct 1 — Thomas School, 805 N. Wall St.; 2 — Carbondale Community Center, 607 E. College St.; 3 — High Rise, corner of South Marion and East Walnut streets; 4 — Community Center, public housing, North Marion and East Oak streets; 5 — Eurma C. Hayes Center, 441 E. Willow St.; 6 and 7 — Senior Citizens, 409 N. Springer St.; 8 — Church of Christ 1805 W. Sycamore St.; 9 — Central High Gymnasium, West High Street; 10 — St. Francis Xavier Hall, West Walnut Street.

Carbondale: Precinct 11 — Carbondale Towers, 810 W. Mill St.; 12 — Church of the Good Shepherd, Orchard Drive; 13 and 14 — Epiphany Lutheran Church, 1501 Chautauqua St.; 15 — Parrish School, Parrish Lane; 16 — Western Heights Christian Church, West Old Route 13; 17

Laundry to remain dry, city rules

By Tricia Yocum
Staff Writer

The Liquor Control Commission unanimously denied a liquor license Monday that would have allowed beer and wine to be served at Clothes Pin Laundry, 815 S. Illinois Ave.

William Mau, laundry owner, said he would "seriously consider" a Class D license, which restricts the percentage of his sales revenue from the sale of alcohol similar to restaurants that have a high percentage of non-alcohol sales.

Both the Liquor Advisory Board and Police Chief Ed Hogan recommended that the license request be denied.

In a letter to the commission, Hogan cited competition for other bars, underage drinking, and the precedent that such a license might set as reasons to deny the request.

Mau addressed the concerns, saying his establishment would be no different than others on the Strip that serve alcohol.

No one under 18 would be allowed in the laundry and patrons under 21 would not be able to frequent the serving area.

Currently, few Clothes Pin patrons are under 18 and most are over 21, he said.

The commission, which consists of members of the City Council, shared the concerns of the Liquor Advisory Board about underage drinking, traffic congestion and "opening the floodgates" for other mixed-use licenses.

Commissioner Patrick Kelley said Mau was an "excellent businessman making a reasonable business judgment," but he couldn't support the request under the circumstances.

Commissioner John Yow said such a venture "would not enhance the city of Carbondale and would make for some difficult decisions in the very near future."

Commissioner Keith Tuxhorn said the idea "wasn't bad" and that he "wasn't afraid" of it, but he said he opposed it because parking would be a problem in the already congested area if business were to increase.

Chairwoman Helen Westberg said that the license would "take liquor closer to the University and undergraduate housing," especially Brush Towers.

Westberg added that she expected similar requests "to

No. 1 ranked debate team wins 3 times over break

By Tom Mangan
Staff Writer

The debate team won three tournaments during a 10-day spring-break road trip, strengthening its resolve to win the national championship April 5-7 at Wichita State.

The debate team, ranked No. 1 in the nation by the Cross Examination Debate Association, won championships at the University of Florida's Gator Invitational March 7-9, the Miami Hurricane Invitational three days later, and, finally, the Cumberland Valley Invitational at Shippensburg University in Pennsylvania.

Debate team coach Jeff Bile said a national title should not be out of reach, based on the team's performance so far this season.

"I'm pleased with the way things are going," Bile said. "Last weekend's performances tell me we're peaking at the right time. I see no reason why we can't carry that into the nationals."

Bile credits the team's success to an abundant supply of "hard work and dedication" among team members.

"We have bright people who work hard, and that's a powerful combination," he said.

The team's prime debate pair, Scott Carpenter and M. Scott Parsons, led all performances with first-place finishes at all three tournaments.

Polls show Contra aid support, Reagan says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Monday that polls in Central America show his plan to give $100 million in aid to the Contra rebels has the overwhelming support of the people in the countries closest to Nicaragua.

With a critical House vote on the aid only three days away, Reagan said the polls, commissioned by the U.S. Information Agency and bankrolled by American taxpayers, showed "over 90 percent of the people" in some countries support his policy, including renewed military aid to the guerrillas battling the Marxist-led Sandinista government in Managua.

A State Department spokesman said the surveys — described as "perfectly authentic" by Philip Habib, Reagan's special Central American envoy — were conducted between June to November last year in El Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Honduras, which is the home base for most of the Contras.

During a meeting with Reagan at the White House, Habib rejected reports that he failed to find support among government leaders in the region for Reagan's militant anti-Sandinista policy during a visit to the region.

"That's not true," the veteran troubleshooter said, displaying some irritation.

Habib, who did not visit Nicaragua during his journey last week, met with Reagan to report his findings as the administration pressed a high-stakes campaign to nail down the dozen or so votes needed to win House approval of the aid package — a blend of $70 million in unspecified military aid and $30 million in other supplies spread over 18 months.

French President pledges to stay despite power shift

PARIS (UPI) — Socialist President Francois Mitterrand assured France Monday he would serve out his term despite his party's defeat in parliamentary elections and would soon name a prime minister from the new conservative majority. Mitterrand, in a surprise address on nationwide television Monday night, emphasized he would remain in office for the full length of his presidential term which runs until 1988. Before Sunday's legislative and regional elections, in which the right won a slim majority, some opposition leaders called for Mitterrand to step down in the event of a commanding right landslide.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly half of all U.S. farms will be eliminated by the year 2000, leaving 50,000 farmers to produce 75 percent of the nation's food, a congressional report predicted Monday. WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of regulating automobile safety and emissions adds about $1,500 to the price of a new car and keeps consumers from trading in their older models, a study said Monday. The report by the Brookings Institution said some of these costs outweigh the benefits especially in the case of fuel standards and auto pollution. Robert Crandall, one of the study's four authors, said the costs of those tests total about $16 billion annually and are not worth the price.

Union to seek staff's help in push for higher funding

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Citing a disparity between two fiscal 1987 higher education budget proposals, a local teachers union plans to ask University faculty and staff to join an effort to lobby for increased funding of state universities.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education submitted a $1.56 billion fiscal 1987 proposal to Gov. James Thompson in January. Thompson's budget recommendation — which is expected to be submitted to the General Assembly sometime this spring — trimmed those numbers to $1.53 billion.

University Professionals of SIU will begin contacting faculty and staff by mail early next week and by phone at the beginning of April. The union seeks the authorization to use faculty and staff members' names in lobbying literature, which will be passed on to legislators.

"We are going to tell faculty and staff what our legislative priorities for 1986 are, and then ask them for support," said John Pohlmann, president of UP-SIU. Those priorities include improved salaries, tuition waivers for families of public university employees and support of a legislative study of state retirement systems.

UP-SIU in cooperation with the Illinois Federation of Teachers' University Council, will be lobbying in Springfield April 2 and two other days in early June. The council is an agency of IFT that lobbies on behalf of university faculty and professional staff.

Thompson's fiscal 1987 budget proposal represents a 9.5 percent increase, $118 million, over estimated expenditures for fiscal 1986. The IBHE's recommendations included an 8 percent salary increase on a 95 percent salary base, or a total of $60.2 million. Thompson reduced those figures to a 6.5 percent increase on 92.5 percent salary base, or $47.7 million.

IBHE also recommended funding for the State Universities Retirement System at 80 percent of the gross payout level, the amount of money paid to retirees, totaling $108,073,400. Thompson reduced the amount to 60 percent of the gross payout level, or $82,270,700.

"The budget looks quite good compared to last year," Pohlmann said, "but you can't look at budgets one year at a time. Illinois is at the bottom. We're below average in higher education expenditures," he said.

SIU-C, like Illinois, is near the bottom of the ladder in higher education funding, although Thompson has proposed a 7.9 percent increase over fiscal 1986 appropriations. The highest increase is 8.2 percent and the average is 8.1 percent. Pohlmann said the lower percentage could be attributed to money that was subtracted from SIU-E's budget and the Chancellor's Office's failure to submit enough special grant and project proposals to IBHE.

Pohlmann said the lobbying efforts will have most effect on "toss-up issues." Last year, tuition waiver for employees' dependents was vetoed by one vote. "It's an issue that doesn't cost the government a lot of money," he said.

"Salaries and SURS are big ticket items and asking for full funding to SURS is going to be difficult," Pohlmann said. "Legislators don't know exactly what to do with it and sharing our views could be extremely helpful. They're very sensitive to what voters feel and think," he said.

Pohlmann said IFT's goals and lobbying literature will be sent to faculty and staff and they can check off the goals they approve of. "We haven't done this before, but we hope we could convince them of how important the lobbying effort is," he said.

Trustees vote to increase tuition, housing, health fees

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

University students will soon have to dig deeper into their pockets to pay for tuition, housing and medical benefits.

The Board of Trustees unanimously approved of increases in each area at its meeting Thursday in Edwardsville.

The tuition increase of $61.20 a year for undergraduate and graduate students who are Illinois residents takes effect July 1, raising the annual cost from $1,008 to $1,069.20.

Beginning this fall, room-and-board rates for campus residence halls, fraternities and sororities will increase $48, boosting the cost to $1,284 per semester.

Student family apartments on campus will cost between $9 and $12 more per month as of July 1. Rent at Elizabeth Apartments, for example, will jump from $260 to $270.

The existing student medical benefit fee — now $75 in fall and spring and $45 in summer — will be divided into a student health fee and a medical insurance premium.

The fee funding the Student Health Service will be $54.50 in the fall and spring terms and $32.75 for the summer.

The insurance premium will cost students $32.50 in fall and spring and $18.25 for the summer semester. All medical benefit increases take effect this summer.

University President Albert Somit said in an earlier interview that the trustees could not reject the Illinois Board of Higher Education-authorized tuition increase. He said the University system, as a state institution, cannot overrule a decision by the IBHE — the state agency that oversees state higher education institutions.

In addition, according to the board's rationale for adoption, "the immediate practical effect of no tuition increase would be the loss of $1.98 million in budgeted funding" for the system.

In January, the IBHE incorporated a statewide 6 percent average tuition boost to its fiscal year 1987 budget.

Sam Rinella, director of University Housing, said inflation in operating costs and housing staff salaries is at the root of the housing increase.

"We have to get our salary increases from housing funds that come from housing contracts," he explained, referring to a statewide 6.5 percent salary increase for university faculties and staffs recommended by the IBHE.

He said the state provides the funds necessary "at least for faculty increases."

According to the board's rationale for action on the medical benefit fee, the University will receive a discount on its insurance premiums and the fee arrangement "is the method used by other state universities."

The fee alteration will enable the University's medical fees "to be presented in a comparable way to prospective students," the rationale continued.

The University was self-insured for medical liability until August 1985, when a medical insurance policy was implemented between the University and Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

The board's action allows portions of the medical benefit fee to be refunded to students who can prove that the same portions are covered by family medical insurance.

State primary campaigns end

CHICAGO (UPI) — Politicians made last-minute primary pitches across Illinois Monday in statewide and congressional races and a special Chicago City Council election that could hand control of the 50-member body to the city's first black mayor.

Only about a quarter of Illinois' 6.1 million registered voters were expected to cast ballots in Tuesday's primary, which coincides with court-ordered elections for seven of Chicago's aldermen.

Police in Chicago arrested one man and sought two others suspected in what appeared to be an assassination attempt against alderman candidate Manuel Torres, who is backed by the regular Democratic organization.

The top statewide race featured state Rep. Judy Koehler of Henry and Chicago steel executive George Ranney in a race for the Republican Senate nomination. Incumbent Democrat Alan Dixon faced

Communist threat a Reagan drama

CONGRESS WILL DECIDE this week whether to give $100 million in aid to Contra forces fighting the Sandinista government of Nicaragua. The debate on the issue has been heated. Anti-aid proponents have been accused of being communist sympathizers. President Reagan, in a televised appeal to the American public, invoked the image of communist troops driving north from Nicaragua and attacking Harlingen, Texas, a scant 2,058 miles away. Aiding the Contras will keep the Sandinistas from becoming a "mortal threat to the New World," Reagan said Sunday night, and will rectify a democratic revolution that went astray.

CONGRESS SHOULD IGNORE the rhetoric, however, and vote 'no' to the aid.

The decision would be easier if there were a definite "good guy" to rally behind. But there is no guarantee that the Contras would be better governors than the Sandinistas, or the Somozas before them. Reports of Contra kidnappings, torture and killing of civilians have been made repeatedly by refugees from that country. The Sandinistas, too, have been guilty of oppression, of repression of civil rights and of violence against political opponents.

BUT THE UNITED STATES should not be involved in a military overthrow of a government when peaceful means of settling the conflict have not been diligently explored. No more aid should be sent south until both sides have sat down at the negotiating table, as suggested in the compromise aid bill sponsored by Democratic Sen. Jim Sasser.

Opinion polls have consistently shown that a majority of Americans are opposed to getting involved in a war where it is unclear who has the best interests of the people in mind. That $100 million could be spent to help people in our own country, with more tangible results. Let's sit this war out.

Letters

No money for Contras

President Reagan has asked for $100 million in aid to the Contras in Nicaragua, and a decision will be made on this very quickly. It is imperative that we stop this immoral and irresponsible request from being approved.

Some have argued that supporting the Contra is the best way to see legitimate U.S. objectives realized in the region. Those arguing for the aid say it is the best way to pressure the Sandinistas to reduce their ties to Cuba and the Soviet Union, to stop aiding insurgents in other nations, to negotiate with the democratic resistance and to open up their society to pluralism.

According to Rep. Edward

Boland, "This is a policy which has failed. In fact, what has happened is that our policy has produced results that it was intended to prevent. The Nicaraguans have grown closer to the Cubans and the Soviets, much more dependent on them militarily and economically."

Could it be that the real aim of the current policy is to force Nicaragua into a position that will justify a U.S. military invasion?

Please write or call our congressional representatives today. The Capitol switchboard number is (202) 224-3121. — Jeanette Oxford, senior, Religious Studies.

Rebel military aid justified

I'm afraid Mr. Griffin (Feb. 28) has his facts right, but his direction is wrong. Since the Contras are made up of Nicaraguans, the people of Nicaragua will lose if military aid is not given to them.

According to recent Sandinista defections, there's a growing indication that people are fed up with the Ortega dictatorship. It's not the Contras that the President of Costa Rica is worried about.

President Oscar Sanchez stated that he upheld his country's policy of neutrality while insisting that Costa Rica, which disbanded its army in 1948, must hold the line against the pro-Marxist Sandinista regime across the border in Nicaragua. Clearly the unprecedented military build-up with Soviet and Cuban help in Nicaragua is seen by other Central Americans as a real threat. — Jeff Thomason, Murphysboro.

Contra aid helps criminals

The House Intelligence Committee in voting against spending $100 million to bolster the Contra rebels in Nicaragua demonstrated a much more humane and rational attitude than Ronald Reagan, who denounced the Sandinista government as "criminals and lunatics."

To be against continued aid for the Contras is not to be interpreted as accepting wholeheartedly the Sandinista government. For better or worse, the Nicaraguan people have demonstrated support in open elections for the Ortega government, which has demonstrated mildly repressive tendencies.

Even middle class Nicaraguans with lukewarm support for the Sandinistas have reported that at least under Ortega they don't stay awake worrying that their teenage sons will be picked up at random, as was the custom under Somoza, and summarily executed by the National Guard on the mere possibility that they might be in sympathy with the Sandinistas.

In fact, many former Somoza National Guardsmen make up the Contra forces.

The atrocities of the Contra forces in Nicaragua have been widely reported by organizations such as the Americas Watch American missionaries, Protestant and Catholic, have been on-the-scene witnesses to the murder and pillage of U.S.-financed Contra death squads. Medical personnel and forensic experts from neutral countries such as Sweden have had access to all areas of Nicaragua. One prominent theologian referred to Ronald Reagan as a "butcher" in 1983 after having witnessed firsthand the effects of what happens to a Nicaraguan village when it is selected by the Contra "Einsatzgruppen" for special treatment.

Peasants who have managed to escape these mass killings speak of the Angel of Death — a homicidal maniac dressed in a priest's cassock who accompanies these U.S.-funded troops. Without going into detail, the International Red Cross, among other organizations using professional methods of interrogation and forensic medicine, can accurately document massacres and atrocities and link specific units to the war crimes.

Whether it's the Soviet killing of 4,000 Polish officers in the Katyn forest massacre in 1943, or the Malmady massacre of captured Americans by SS troops, or the Mykhi massacre by American troops in Vietnam in 1968, war crimes can be investigated and documented with all the accuracy that linked the Manson family to its grisly crimes.

Ronald Reagan is not above the law. The head of the Meiklejohn Civil Liberties Institute at Berkeley, among others, has emphasized the "war criminal" nature of U.S. involvement in these Contra activities. The use of United States support — monetary and material to facilitate "war crimes" against the people of Nicaragua — is illegal and immoral and must cease! We are not Nazis! We signed the Geneva Convention and other international treaties outlawing this kind of atrocious behavior. Why don't we practice what we preach and act like a law-abiding nation for a change? — Randal C. Fulk, law student.

Bungle in the Contra jungle

From a conservative point of view, there are some good reasons to put a stop to the present bungle in the Central American jungle. The reasons given for requesting $100 million for more Contras are praiseworthy, amounting to the overthrow of the Sandinista regime. This would perhaps spare their people some of the unpleasant effects of a socialist system so painfully listed by Mr. Gorbachev in his recent confession.

Unfortunately, employing these Contra forces could hardly be a more incompetent and self-defeating means to accomplish this. The Central American forces generally that we would uphold as champions of freedom and democracy have become infamous for the widespread use of terrorism and ugly torture on civilians, are characterized by profound corruption, and are intensely hated by a rapidly growing section of the local populations.

The press in this country is no lying enemy agency when it reveals the failure of the land reform, the leaders smuggling drugs into this country, and gangsters kidnapping girls as young as 12 to serve as whores for the troops. When terrified peasants vote in sham elections, the ribboned juntas mock our ideal of democracy. Our own military leaders advise that the Contra forces would have to be vastly increased to have any chance at all. For those who remember Vietnam, all these points are already intimately familiar.

Any blame for these sorrows must be on apathetic voters, not the soldiers who will have to try to salvage the present botch-up. It is entirely possible and far more effective to offer the people of Central America an attractive alternative to Marxist revolution instead of more terrorists like the Contras. — James May, freshman, Electronics.

FAA's school location set

By Tricia Yocum
Staff Writer

The Federal Aviation Administration's Management Training School will be located at Embury-Riddle Aeronautical University in Bunnell, Fla., although the announcement has not been officially made, FAA officials said Monday.

Cathy Routon, contract officer for the school, said that pending an appraisal of Embury-Riddle's bid by General Services Administration and approval of the lease, work will begin on the Bunnell training school.

GA's appraisal will determine whether the bid by Embury-Riddle is fair and the costs are reasonable, said Bobbie Mardis, FAA spokesman.

SIU-C was among 10 finalists for the site. Dormitories and classrooms were to be located at International Hall, on South Wall Street, if Carbondale had been selected.

Christine Svec, research project specialist for the School of Technical Careers, said STC had received no word about the proposal since Feb. 18, when a bid extension was requested until April 30. As far as she knew, SIU-C's bid was still open until that date, she said.

A press release sent Friday to members of the U.S. Congress said the Florida site offered the "best value to the government when considering the technical excellence, price and business management aspects of the offer."

only nominal primary opposition.

Top congressional contests included re-election bids by three highly visible Democrats — Rep. Melvin Price, 81, who has served 21 terms in the House, against three opponents; Rep. Cardiss Collins, the only black woman in Congress, opposed by Chicago Alderman Danny Davis; and Rep. Gus Savage, who faced six foes in his bid for a third term.

Republican Gov. James R. Thompson, seeking an unprecedented fourth term, had no primary opponents and former Sen. Adlai Stevenson, who lost to Thompson four years ago by about 5,000 votes, faced no major roadblocks in the Democratic primary.

The Chicago elections, ordered to give Hispanics and blacks greater representation in the City Council, could give Mayor Harold Washington control of the council. The council is now controlled by a bloc of 29 aldermen headed by Washington's political adversary, Cook County Democratic leader Edward Vrdolyak.

Vrdolyak and Washington, the first black mayor of the nation's second largest city, have both predicted their forces will control the council when the races are decided, but have acknowledged runoffs may be needed. Runoffs will be held April 29 if no candidate in a ward receives a majority.

Campaigning has been heated and sometimes violent.

Police said Luis Muniz, 18, was charged with attempted murder Monday after he and two other youths allegedly fired three shots at candidate Torres Sunday night. Torres was not injured, but the incident prompted increased police patrols in the 26th ward.

It was not the first outbreak of violence in the race between Torres and Luis Gutierrez, who has been endorsed by Washington.

"We've had rocks thrown, threats and other minor incidents" during the campaign, police officer Raymond Heyn said. "We're putting more manpower on (the candidates) homes and campaign headquarters."

Mau said he wasn't interested in operating a bar, but rather giving people the option of having a draft beer or a soda while doing laundry.

In talking to patrons of the laundry, Mau said he found that if husbands or boyfriends could have a beer while doing laundry, then couples would go to the laundry together.

The drinks at the establishment would be higher priced than other bars and patrons would have only about 45 minutes of "free time" to drink, he added. The rest of the about 75 minutes spent at the establishment would be spent putting clothes into the washers and dryers and folding them.

Mau said he expected his coin laundry business to increase by about 15 percent to 20 percent if he could serve liquor.

The Chamber of Commerce contacted 11 cities with similar establishments and each of these reported no problems and expected none in the future, he said.

finished second at Shippensburg, third at Miami and ninth at the Gator Invitational. Team members G. Sidney Alvarez Jr. and Amy L. Johnson combined to capture fifth at the Gator meet and second at Miami.

Carpenter and Parsons took first- and second-place finishes, respectively, in the individual speaking category at Miami, and second and third places at Shippensburg — where Keehner won the individual title. At the Gator Invitational, SIU-C debaters took four of the top 10 individual speaking awards (Keehner, sixth; Johnson, eighth; Carpenter, ninth; and Dick, 10th).

Second-place teams in the tournaments were Florida State at the Gator, Cornell at Shippensburg and Southern Utah at Miami. The three-meet sweep was strong enough to maintain a firm hold on the squad's No. 1 national ranking and keep the strongest challengers in the rankings — Florida State, Cornell and University of California-Los Angeles — at arm's length, Bile said.

During the spring semester, two two-person teams have been assigned by the Cross Examination Debate Association, the nation's primary debate tournament governing body, to "resolve that membership in the United Nations is no longer beneficial to the United States." The teams alternately debate opposing views on the assigned topic.

The debate squad travels to Towson State University, in Towson, Md., this weekend, but will take a weekend off March 29-30 to prepare for the national championship.

Referral service provides help at touch of fingertips

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

Ever have a problem and not know who to turn to for help?

The answer to some of your problems may be a phone call away to CRIS — the Comprehensive Referral and Information Service.

Established in 1932 by the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services and SIU-C, CRIS is a telephone service that directs its clients, or phone callers, to nearby agencies for help.

"Someone may call and need financial or energy assistance," said James Leja, CRIS coordinator. "I find out what county they live in, then what agencies they've already contacted so I don't send them back to the same one, and then I find out what questions they have."

After gathering all necessary information, Leja provides callers with names and numbers of agencies to contact.

"What I try to do is to support what need there is," he said, pointing to a bulletin board with categories of agencies that, among others, serve the need: of alcoholism and drug abuse, counseling, food banks, farmer's aid, health agencies, and medical assistance.

Needs may range from "someone with a disability wanting to receive drivers training to someone wanting to receive home health care," he said.

A person who has been traumatized and taken to the hospital may be bankrupt and not have any hospital insurance. Leja suggests calling CRIS.

"The Hill-Burton Act is a national program that assists persons in paying hospital bills," he said. "I might provide information as to the hospital which administers the program in the area."

Leja's telephone is busiest in the winter when he directs callers to agencies that can provide information about how to weatherize their homes or to relieve their economic burden, such as on how to pay bills, he said.

Seldom does anyone call who can't be helped, but it has happened, he said.

"I would say if we can't help them it's because the agencies aren't in Southern Illinois," Leja said. "For instance, economics and medical needs seem to be a problem."

"People who make 'a little too much money to fit into public aid' have not been able to find agencies to help them, he added.

But among the estimated 400 phone calls received each year, most everyone is able to find assistance.

Leja and secretaries answer phone calls from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. five days a week, but calls are recorded on an answering machine when the office is closed.

CRIS is also accessible to the deaf and speech impaired.

The only cost is the information required for CRIS records — name and phone numbers.

Many people with human service related problems are unaware of CRIS, Leja said.

Calls are taken 24 hours a day at 1-800-642-7769.

Talk targets pornography in bookstore

The sale of sexually explicit magazines at the University Bookstore will be the topic of a panel discussion Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Quigley Lounge.

"This will be an information-sharing session and discussion concerning the issue of the sale of these magazines sold in the Bookstore," said the Rev. Karen Knodt, interim director of Campus Ministries.

The panel will include Knodt, Kathryn Ward, sociology professor; Nancy Wilson, Crime Studies Center; Mary Kathryn Hamilton, director of the Counseling Center; the Rev. Jack Frerker, director of the Newman Center; and tentatively, Pat Fabiano, coordinator of Health Advocates.

The Counseling Center and Campus Ministries are sponsoring the discussion.

Pastoral letters of U.S. bishops subject of talk

The Rev. Clyde Grogan, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, the Catholic community and Christians from across the nation are concerned with the state of the U.S. economy, and social and political issues.

Grogan will speak Tuesday at noon at the Interfaith Center about responses to pastoral letters written by U.S. Roman Catholic bishops addressing the issue of world peace.

Lunch will be served to those with reservations. Brown baggers are also welcome.

Search for chancellor continues

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

The latest word on the search for a University system chancellor is that there is no word.

"Nothing new has happened since Thursday" when the Board of Trustees reported on the status of the search at its meeting in Edwardsville, said John Meisel, Search Constituency Advisory Committee chairman.

The board announced at a news conference following the meeting that it "had nothing new to report."

Currently, three people whose identities have been withheld by the board, remain in the running for the system's top administrative position.

A fourth, John Keiser, president of Boise State University, withdrew his name from the list of finalists March 4 because of family matters, Meisel said.

The board narrowed a list of 15 candidates to four when it met in an executive session Feb. 21-23 in St. Louis.

But he added that "the pool of candidates may be enlarged" before a chancellor is selected.

"You must realize that 25 percent of our list dropped out when Keiser dropped out," he said.

Meisel said the board will refer back to the list of 15 candidates if a decision is made to enlarge the list.

"Then again, there is the possibility that we may just have to start over again," he added, "but that's not likely."

Harris Rowe, board chairman, said the search was "ahead of schedule," noting that the target date for the selection of a chancellor is April 15.

But Lawrence Dennis, constituency committee member, said he thinks that target date "looks a little optimistic." However, he declined to elaborate.

The constituency committee consists of five constituency-group representatives from SIU-C and five from SIU-Edwardsville responsible for interviewing the chancellor finalists and reporting its findings back to the board.

Meisel said he had no idea how many of the candidates passed over from the list of 15 would be interviewed again.

"We may know a little more" about the status of the search "in a week or so," he said.

Rowe said in a Feb. 24 interview that he hoped the board would pick a chancellor at the March 13 meeting.

"We (the constituency committee) would like to get this process over with," Meisel said. "But we still have three people left as of now."

Green reigns supreme in ol' Erin

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Millions of Irish citizens, blessed with sunny skies but sadly short of traditional shamrocks, crowded along parade routes and into churches Monday to honor St. Patrick, the 5th-century missionary who converted the island nation to Christianity.

More than a quarter million people lined the streets of Dublin for a parade and celebration that featured green beer imported from the United States.

In strife-torn Northern Ireland, the traditional Protestant pilgrimage to Saul, the burial place of the island's patron saint, had to be altered because of renovations to Down Cathedral in Downpatrick, 30 miles southwest of Belfast. Instead, services took place at nearby parish churches.

The largest religious service in Northern Ireland was in Armagh, 40 miles west of Belfast, where Catholic Cardinal Tomas O'Fiaich celebrated mass at St.

Patrick's Cathedral for some 1,500 parishioners.

Downtown Lurgan, about 20 miles west of Belfast, was sealed off by security forces because of two rival parades, one by the Roman Catholic Irish National Front and the other by the Protestant National Front. Both parades were peaceful.

Irish legend says St. Patrick, who lived from about the year 390 to 460, was abducted from his Britian homeland by pagan Irish marauders at age 16. A local chief's slave in Antrim, he escaped to Gaul and later returned to Ireland as a missionary, where he established Christianity.

St. Patrick also is said to have driven the snakes out of Ireland.

In Dublin, 10 bands, mostly from the United States, and more than 100 floats took part in the two-hour parade.

Cops use 'drunks' to test sobriety

By John Tindall
Staff Writer

Usually when a call goes out for volunteers, realizations fall short of expectations, but when the Greater Egyptian Regional Planning Commission was looking for volunteer "drunks" for a field sobriety testing seminar, they had to turn people away.

Field sobriety testing is the official term for what happens when a police officer stops a vehicle and asks the driver to complete a series of tests to determine if the driver is fit to be driving.

The two-and-a-half day seminar was conducted by Steve Odum, Carbondale police, Nelson Ferry, SIU-C police, and coordinated by Mike Harris of the Greater Egyptian Regional Planning Commission. It took place at John A. Logan College. Fifteen officers from cities throughout Southern Illinois attended the seminar to learn how to recognize intoxicated drivers and make successful arrests.

Fifty percent of all fatal traffic accidents are alcohol related, and in 1980, 26,300 people died in alcohol related incidents, police statistics show.

On Tuesday, March 4, four volunteers — this reporter included — became guinea pigs for a field sobriety testing experiment using two men and two women. They met at 11 a.m. at Best Inns in Carbondale and "surrendered" car keys and checked into rooms. This was part of the waiver volunteers had to sign before they could participate in the experiment.

The commission provides supervised overnight accommodations and dinner. In return, participants agree not to drive anywhere or leave the motel until the next morning.

At John A. Logan, the somewhat formidable, yet appealing, task of getting drunk began. It was formidable because volunteers

Clabough to talk on art and life

Artist and teacher Cynthia Clabough will speak at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Rehn Hall Room 10. The event is sponsored by the Society for Creative Communication.

John Modaff, chairman of the society, said the aim of this event is to inquire further into the creative interaction between art and life.

The Society is advised by William Minor, faculty member in the Department of Speech Communications, in conjunction with the Department of Speech Communication.

Faculty cellist to present recital!

School of Music professor Daniel Mellado will present a cello recital at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Old Baptist Foundation Recital Hall.

Mellado will present works by Bach, Beethoven and Shostakovich.

Joining Mellado will be violinist Fairya Mellado and pianist Lawrence Dennis.

The performance is open to the public without charge. The Old Baptist Foundation is located between Woody and Phaner halls.

were next to a room full of police officers and no matter what sort of arrangement is made, drinking around cops will always be somewhat intimidating. It was appealing because the police wanted the participants to get drunk and, in fact, were paying for us to do it, a very unique experience.

Rented movies and "munchies" were provided and the drinking began at 12:20 p.m. At 1 p.m. we had our blood alcohol count tested on an intoxilyzer, a machine that determines the amount of alcohol in the blood based on the alcohol level in the breath. Under Illinois law, a BAC of .10 is considered intoxication.

After 40 minutes of drinking the BACs ranged from .04 to .10. After five glasses of wine, I had a .09 BAC but didn't feel too intoxicated to drive. Ferry said many people who have been drinking don't realize that it doesn't take much alcohol to become intoxicated. He said how a person feels after drinking shouldn't be the criteria to judge whether one should drive.

The drinking continued until 2:45 p.m. when the police officers attending the seminar began conducting the field sobriety tests. The actual BACs, which were not revealed to the police officers until they had made their own assessments based on the tests, were .08, .12, .13 and .18.

Each volunteer was taken one at a time into a classroom, where the officers were, and asked to perform three tests. The walk and turn test requires one to walk heel to toe along a straight line for nine steps and turn around and return in the same fashion. The one-leg stand test requires the subject to stand on one leg for 30 seconds. Police have determined that people with BACs in the .10 to .15 range can stand on one leg with little trouble for 15 to 20 seconds, but find it difficult to stay on one leg for the full 30 seconds.

The third test is the finger-to-nose test, where the subjects close their eyes and touch their noses with their index finger. The officers rated the performance of the volunteers on the three tests.

A fourth test, the horizontal-gaze nystagmus test, is more complex to learn and was one of the major objectives of the seminar because of its accuracy in pinpointing alcohol impairment. Nystagmus means a jerking of the eyes as they gaze to the side. The angle of onset, or the angle where the jerking of the eyes begins, varies among people, but as intoxication occurs, the onset of the jerking begins after fewer degrees of lateral movement.

The four volunteers were stationed in the corners of the room and each officer conducted their own nystagmus test on each of the participants. The test involves the participants holding their heads steady and following the tip of a pen with their eyes as an officer moves it to the corners of the participants field of vision. If a person has a BAC of .10 the eyes will begin to jerk after looking about 45-degrees to the side.

By the end of the experiment 45 glasses of booze had been consumed and three of the four volunteers were legally drunk.

Harris said the seminar, which is one of several conducted throughout the year, cost taxpayers about $250. He said the money was well spent.

"We're giving tools to cops to get drunk drivers off the road in Illinois," he said.

Hebel sentencing set for April

By Jim McBride
Staff Writer

Sentencing has been set for April 14 in the child sexual abuse and assault case of former Carbondale dentist Robert G. Hebel.

Hebel was found guilty March 10 on charges of aggravated criminal sexual assault and abuse in a bench trial by presiding Circuit Judge Richard Richman.

Hebel remains in Jackson County Jail awaiting sentencing.

Hebel was accused of taking photographs of a 6-year-old girl's genitalia while she was sleeping overnight in his daughter's bed at Hebel's home. One of the photos entered as evidence in the trial showed a man's hand touching the girl's genitals.

Richman agreed with expert testimony from prosecution witnesses that the hand shown in the photos was Hebel's and that it touched and sexually penetrated the victim's genitals, despite defense attorney P. Michael Kimmel's argument that no intrusion had been made.

The photos used as evidence were found in a crawlspace at Hebel's home during a search by police. A search warrant was issued by Richman after police questioned Hebel about photos he submitted for development at Flash Photo in Carbondale.

Kimmel said Monday he will review state statutes before a decision on appealing the conviction is made.

The aggravated criminal sexual assault charge is a Class X felony and carries a possible prison sentence of six to 30 years. Aggravated criminal sexual assault is a Class 2 felony, which carries a possible sentence of three to seven years. Both counts carry possible fines of $10,000.

Charges of child pornography are still pending against Hebel and his wife, but Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons has yet to decide whether the state will prosecute them on those charges.

Broadcasting Services has received $20,000 from the state's comptroller's office for the WSIU-Radio State of Illinois Grant and two grants totalling $56,000 for WSIU-TV State of Illinois Grants.

Y.P. CHUGH, professor of mining engineering, received $60,000 from the Peabody Coal Co. that will be used for the evaluation of ground control problems in coal mining and rock mechanics test sites.

The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development gave Rudolph N. Peterson, professor of medical physiology and pharmacology, to continue his work on the project, "Calcium Transport by Spermatozoa."

Peterson also received $117,000 to continue his project "Isolation of Spermatozoan Receptors."

HAROLD BARDO, director of Med-Prep in the School of Medicine, was awarded $89,000 by the Public Health Service's Division of Disadvantaged Assistance to continue the project, "Recruitment, Facilitating Entry and Retention Program."

The goal of this project is to increase the enrollment of Mexican-Americans and mainland Puerto Ricans in the preprofessional programs of dentistry and medicine.

More shuttle cabin debris found

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The crew of a Navy salvage ship wound up an intense recovery operation Monday and geared up to return to port bearing wreckage from Challenger's crew cabin and possibly more remains of the doomed ship's astronauts.

Other salvage vessels spent the day hauling up loads of other shuttle debris, including the remains of the nozzles from the spaceship's three liquid-fueled main engines.

"We've brought a couple of large pieces on board and at this time the (engineer has) identified them as nozzles from main engines," one salvage ship radioed. "It looks like a very extensive amount of debris down there. Quite a bit more for us to keep working on."

Nearby, the crew of the USS Preserver, a Navy salvage ship that spent the night anchored over the wreck site of the crew compartment, resumed diving operations early Monday with good weather and improved visibility on the seafloor after rough currents Sunday.

The ship was thought to be wrapping up salvage operations at the cabin wreck site, some 16 miles east of the Challenger launch pad in 100 feet of water.

Astronaut Manley "Sonny" Carter, a physician known as "Billy Bob" to his friends, was on board the Preserver as a representative of the astronaut office.

Softball squad shows potential on spring tour

By Steve Merritt
Sports Editor

The Saluki softball team, showing promise and potential for the 1986 season, won two of five games on their annual spring trip to go 4-3 on the 1986 season.

Taking a 2-0 record into Oklahoma, the Salukis sav- rain, hail and 50-mph winds cancel all but one game of two scheduled doubleheaders. SIU coach Kay Brechtelsbauer and her squad did, however, see more action in the Sooner Classic.

The one game before the Classic the Salukis did get to play was against No. 17 Oklahoma, with the Sooners emerging on top of a 1-0 score. SIU sophomore hurler Lisa Peterson allowed just four hits but Saluki bats did not come to life and accounted for just two hits and no runs.

"It was the best pitching we've faced this year," Brechtelsbauer said. "We just never really got into the game offensively."

The Salukis then entered the Classic with a record of 2-1 and squared off in the first game against New Mexico. Saluki batting improved but a two-run homer by catcher Kelly Fox and 2-for-4 atting by centerfielder Rhonda Snow and shortstop Jenny Snupryt was not enough to counter the five SIU errors, as the Salukis lost 5-3. Freshman Lori Day took the loss.

In game two of the Classic, the Salukis won an extra-inning affair over Iowa, 3-2. Scoreless through the first seven innings, Peterson collected the win and the game-winning hit by driving Jane Elder, who led off the ninth with a double.

The Salukis mounted a nine-hit attack against the Hawkeyes, who failed to score against Peterson and the Saluki defense.

"We put our offense and defense together," Brechtelsbauer said. "It was really a well-played game by both teams."

In the third game of the Classic, Day fired a no-hitter over Oklahoma City while Fox tripled and was driven in by outfielder Kim Hassinger. OC did not score despite three Saluki errors and one walk by Day.

The 2-1 opening round record in the Classic tied the Dogs for first-place and moved them into the championship bracket of the tournament, where they once again faced the ranked Sooners.

According to Brechtelsbauer, the Salukis played "much better than their first game against Oklahoma" but nonetheless dropped a 1-decision. Peterson held the Sooners to just one run on five hits and an error while the Salukis failed to score on five hits.

The Salukis now stand at 4-on the season with their next action coming this weekend at the Saluki Invitational. Peterson stands at 2-2 while Day moves to 2-1.

Men golfers stroke to 5th in Miami

By Anita J. Stone
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's golf team finished fifth in the Sunshine Invitational, played March 11-13 in the Miami, Fla., area.

Rain delayed the 54-hole event one day. Florida International University, the host school, captured second-place in the 12-team field which competed on three challenging Miami courses. Meireese, Key Biscayne and Fountain Blue.

Huntingdon (Aia.), the 1985 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics champion, edged the host with 900 total strokes for the tournament. FIU totaled 905.

Boca Raton and Bryant tied for third place with 955.

The Salukis' 970 strokes topped all Northern schools in the event, an accomplishment which pleased coach Darren Vaughn.

"You can't expect to beat Southern schools when they've played every day. They have the advantage of finesse and touch for the short game, the biggest aspect," Vaughn said. "It's tough to compete when you've only played six times since November."

Junior Jay Sala finished best for the Salukis with a top-15, 235 stroke total.

Tom Portner shot a 242, followed by Bob Treash with a 243 total for the Salukis. Other Saluki scores were Mike Kolisek with 251, Jeff Landskroner with 255 and Clark Dixon with 261.

"Double and triple bogies lead to a lack of consistency early. As spring goes along, we'll get better," Vaughn said.

The Salukis travel to Richmond, Ky., for the Colonel Classic next weekend.

Women gymnasts start with loss but follow with 2 wins over break

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

Spring Break started out badly for the Saluki women's gymnastics team with a 181.00-178.90 loss to the University of Missouri, but ended on a high note with back-to-back victories over Southeast Missouri State University (177.20-175.80) and the University of Illinois-Chicago (175.50-166.35).

Coach Herb Vogel's squad won three of the four events but came up one-tenth shy of a victory over the Tigers. The Salukis' 179.90 score is their highest this season and raises their average to 172.28.

SIU-C enjoyed pleasant surprises from senior Margaret Callcott and sophomore Nancy Sanchez. Callcott's uneven bars routine, which earned her a season-best score of 9.65, topped the field. Sanchez, who also scored a season best, grabbed first place on the balance beam with a score of 9.50.

Junior Michelle Spillman placed second in the all-around competition (36.30) and vault (9.40) and secured the top spot on floor exercises with an energetic performance which earned a season-best of 9.75.

Senior Lori Steele gave reinforcement to the Saluki effort by taking second place on the uneven bars (9.30) and floor exercises (9.65). Steele and senior Maggi Nidiffer (9.35) both hit season bests in floor exercises.

Over the weekend, the Salukis had better luck in their home meets against SEMO and UI-C. These competitions marked the final collegiate competitions (or seniors Callcott, Gina Hey (injured knee), Nidiffer and Lori Steele.

In a close contest against SEMO, the SIU team again was led by Spillman and Steele.

Although Steele took second on vault and uneven bars with 9.10 scores and third place on balance beam (8.65) and all-around (35.75), strong performers by Callcott (9.05 on bars), Sanchez (9.05 on beam), Cheri Crosby (9.05) and Nidiffer (9.00) on floor exercises enhanced the Salukis' showing and helped the gymnasts to victory.

Spillman, an Ali-American nabbed first place in two events. She scored a 9.45 and a 9.30 for firsts on uneven bars and floor exercises.

Spillman (36.10) and Steele (35.75) notched first and third in all-around competition. SEMO's Diana Morris took second with a score of 35.90.

The Flames of UI-C are a young team and did not present the same challenge SEMO did, however, they managed a top showing on balance beam ahead of the Salukis' Sanchez, who was second with a score of 8.85.

The one-two punch of Spillman and Steele came through in two of the four events as well as in the all-around.

The Salukis overwhelmed the Flames in vault, the first event. Spillman took top honors with a 9.35, Steele took second (9.25) and Sanchez and Nidiffer tied for third (8.95).

A smooth routine from Crosby on the uneven bars earned a 9.00 for first. Spillman (8.90) and Nidiffer (8.80) nailed down second and third.

The Salukis will face Indiana State University and Illinois State University in a Gateway Conference tri-meet Sunday, March 23 at 7:00 p.m. in the Arena.

Choosing a long distance company is a lot like choosing a roommate.

It's better to know what they're like before you move in.

Living with someone for the first time can be an "educational" experience.

And living with a long distance company isn't any different. Because some companies may not give you all the services you're used to getting from AT&T.

For instance, with some companies you have to spend a certain amount before you qualify for their special volume discounts. With some others, voice quality may vary.

But when you choose AT&T, there won't be any surprises when you move in. You'll get the same high-quality, trouble-free service you're used to.

With calls that sound as close as next door. And discounts off our Day Rate on your state-to-state calls.

With savings of over 50% during weekends until 5pm Sundays, or nights from 11pm to 8am, Sunday through Friday. And 40% discounts evenings between 5pm and 11pm, Sunday through Friday.

With AT&T, you'll continue to get services like immediate credit for wrong numbers and collect calling. And long distance operators to help you anytime there's a problem on the line.

So when you're asked to choose a long distance company, choose AT&T. Because whether you're into Mozart or metal, quality is the one thing everyone can agree on. Call 1 800 222-0300 for more information or to choose AT&T.

Men netters better than 0-4 record

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

Although a 0-4 record doesn't look impressive, Coach Dick LeFevre is considerably pleased with the performance of the Saluki men's tennis team on its spring trip to the Southwest.

The Salukis played their first match outdoors at Florida against the University of Florida and dropped the match, 8-1.

"Five of nine matches went three sets though," LeFevre said. "That's pretty good considering they (Florida) have played 14 matches outdoors."

The Salukis' No. 4 singles player, Lars Nilsson, defeated his opponent, Doug Dace, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

The scoreboard (7-2) showed an apparent improvement for SIU-C against Florida State University, but LeFevre thought otherwise.

Saluki freshman Fabiano Ramos improved his won-loss record by defeating Jeff Bingo of FSU at No. 4 singles, 6-1, 3-6 and 6-3. Ramos continued his play at the next meet against Vanderbilt, losing 7-6, 6-7, and 7-6.

Vanderbilt beat SIU-C, 7-2. Saluki freshman Jairo Aldana scored the second win, defeating Fletcher Lance, 6-3, 6-3.

Nilsson, by playing "tough, steady tennis," dealt the University of Tennessee its only loss in a 7-1 Tennessee win.

Also against Tennessee, No. 1

Saluki singles player, Per Wadmark, nursing a sore ankle, held his ground against the nation's 50th ranked collegiate tennis player, Shelby Canon, before losing 6-4, 6-7, 6-1.

Looking back through his scorebook, LeFevre said, "Everyone shaped up considerably."

"The whole purpose of the trip was to adjust to the outdoors, and we picked the toughest teams we could to schedule."

The level of match play helped raise the Salukis' level of play and gave LeFevre confidence in the team's upcoming match against the University of Illinois-Chicago Sunday at the Arena.

Women golfers swing into 1986

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The Saluki women golfers took third place in the tournament they hosted to kick off the spring season.

Kansas rallied to capture the rain-shortened 54-hole North-South Classic, played at Marion Oaks Country Club in Ocala, Fla., Mar. 13-15.

After the first round, Iowa

State led with 321 strokes, followed by SIU and Western Kentucky at 322. Kansas, which enjoyed better winter practice weather than the other Northern teams, stayed within striking distance at 331.

A 19-shot swing placed Kansas in a tie with Iowa State at 643 strokes after the second round. The Saluki scores declined but SIU held third place with 654 strokes. Coach Anja Stalberger said the middle rounds have bothered her squad in the past and the Salukis must work harder to maintain second round intensity.

However, the Salukis improved in the final round and came within seven strokes of

Top Saluki tracksters fall short in quest for NCAA qualifications

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

The NCAA indoor track and field championships didn't prove to be a very rewarding experience for Saluki athletes Tom Smith and Mike Elliott.

Both performed well below their personal bests and failed to qualify for the finals in last weekend's meet at Oklahoma City.

Smith, a senior performing in the final meet of his SIU-C career, finished 11th out of 13 individuals in the 35-pound weight throw with a 55-8.5 effort. His personal best this season was 63-4.25.

Elliott, a senior from Belvidere, finished last in his heat in the 1000-meter run with a 2:27.17, more than three seconds slower than his personal best of 2:23.90. Elliott finished 18th of 19 competitors.

Saluki men's track coach Bill Cornell said Smith didn't perform up to his potential because he had the flu.

Even though Smith had a disappointing meet, he received All-America recognition.

The NCAA awards All-America recognition to the top six American athletes which place in an event, and Smith finished fourth out of the six American competitors in the 35-pound weight throw.

Smith's event was dominated by foreign athletes and Tore Gustafsson of Washington State won the event with a throw of 74-3.5.

Elliott, competing in the nationals for the second consecutive year, says he doesn't have an explanation for his subpar performance in the 1000.

"I don't want to make any excuses," Elliott said. "I ran a poor race and I don't know why. I just want to forget about my performance and I'm looking forward to the outdoor season."

Elliott qualified for nationals at the Last Chance Invitational on March 8 and shattered the school record in the process.

with a 2:08.03 in the 1000-yard run.

But Elliott doesn't think he peaked at the Invitational.

"The race took a lot out of me but I don't think I've ever hit a peak indoors," Elliott said. "I should have run at least a 2:23.0 in the nationals."

Freddie Williams of Abilene Christian won the 1000 in 2:18.74 and set an NCAA meet and American indoor record in the process.

Arkansas won the NCAA indoor championships with 49 points to easily outdistance second-place finisher Villanova, which had 22 points.

In an attempt to qualify individuals for nationals, Cornell took four of his athletes to the Last Chance Invitational at Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Even though Elliott was the only SIU-C athlete from the quartet to qualify, the Salukis received a strong performance from sophomore Andrew Pettigrew. He posted a personal best of 4:03.32 in the mile, missing the qualifying standard by only .12 of a second.

The Salukis will open the outdoor season on Saturday with a home meet against Purdue and Southeast Missouri State at McAndrew Stadium.

"Hill Gang" awaits home opener

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

Weather permitting, the Hill Gang season will start anew with the baseball Salukis' home opener at Abe Martin Field with a twin bill against Southeast Missouri State Tuesday at 1 p.m.

For those not familiar with them, the Hill Gang are an almost-legendary bunch of noisy, fun-loving baseball fans, primarily populated with SIUC students, which congregate on the grassy slope of the ballpark's west side.

"The players are looking forward to having the Hill Gang back," baseball coach

Richard "Itchy" Jones said. "Our fans, I think, are some of the best around."

"Other teams enjoy them, too. They have often said they wished they had fan support like that," Jones said.

"We just hope the weather holds up for our fans," he added.

Though weather forecasters are predicting rain with temperatures in the lower 50s, Jones has enough faith in the unpredictability of Southern Illinois' weather to remain optimistic that the sun will poke through the clouds.

Knowing the Hill Gang's propensity to consume alcoholic beverages, Jones asks the fans to maintain self-control.

"We don't want them harassing pitchers in the bullpen or anything like that," Jones said. "I do want them to be orderly, but to have them out there means a lot to the kids."

SEMO is led by coach Palmer Muench, who has rejuvenated the Indians' baseball program.

"He's really accelerated their program," Jones said. "They're playing well for him."

The Dogs inflicted damage against another then-nationally ranked team with a 4-2 victory in a pitching duel against Maine. Two unearned runs cost the Black Bears a victory, while rookie pitcher-infielder Shane Gooden twirled three innings of scoreless relief to pick up the win.

The Salukis' bats shellshocked Fairleigh Dickinson's pitching staff again on March 12 with an 11-3 victory. Jay Eurch, Charlie Hillemann and Robert Jones had two RBI each.

Neibel mowed down James

Madison's hitters to just five hits and one earned run in seven innings to coast the Salukis to a 5-3 win. First baseman Jim Limperis drove in two crucial runs.

The next day, James Madison blasted starter George Goich and rookie reliever Tim Hollmann for six runs in two innings. Reliever Larry Beattie tossed three shutout innings. Gooden allowed only one earned run in four innings of relief but took the 7-6 loss.

Robert Jones drove in five runs with four hits to help the Salukis prevail over Rutgers in a 17-13 slugfest. Bockhorn allowed a mere four runs in six innings' work, but the relief staff broke down, giving up nine runs in two innings.

In their last game in Florida, the Salukis fell again to World Series champ Miami, 5-2. Starter Lee Meyer, who continues to have lingering control problems, gave up three runs in one and two-thirds innings. David Henley pitched well in relief, allowing just two runs the rest of the way. Burch drove in the only lead. But rain limited the field to just nine holes on the final day and the Salukis did not find out whether they could have taken the lead.

Stalberger said, "I'm really pleased with the move we made the last day. Everybody put in an inspired effort and had a lot of enthusiasm to win. We just ran out of holes because the weather was not on our side."

Kansas topped the six-team field with 806 strokes, bumping off Iowa State which totaled 809. The Salukis tallied 813, trailed by Western Kentucky at 819, Purdue at 823 and Illinois State at 860.

Cagers finish year in NCAA round 2

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The women's basketball Salukis dropped from the second round of the NCAA tournament as seventh-ranked Auburn cut short SIU's hopes of tourney advancement in a 61-39 defeat Friday night in Alabama.

The 18th-ranked Salukis (25-4) earned a first-round bye for their first-ever NCAA appearance. Drake, the second-place Gateway Conference team which qualified at-large, defeated Kentucky 73-70 in the first round played Wednesday at Des Moines, Iowa. However, the Bulldogs also fell from the second round 84-71 to Mississippi, at Ole Miss Saturday night.

The Southeast Conference Auburn Tigers (24-5), in their fourth NCAA appearance in five seasons, advance to face Ole Miss at the Midwest Regional finals at Austin, Texas, where every team seems doomed against the 30-0 No. 1-ranked host, University of Texas.

In the Saluki-Tigers' first-ever meeting, the Tigers sat back in a 2-2-1 press and the Salukis charged to a 6-0 lead with scoring from Bridgett Bonds and Petra Jackson.

After opening with a three-minute drought, the Tigers countered, but mustered just 34.5 percent shooting through the first half. The Salukis cooled for a 43.5 percent first half.

The defensive, physical battle raged back and forth as the score tightened. Tiger substitute-guard Patty Dages drove in the lane at the two-minute mark, and Auburn slipped ahead 20-19. A left baseline strike from Saluki reserve Anne Thouvenin made it 21-20. Jackson followed with a steal and pull-up, bank shot for a 23-20 margin, Southern's last comfort.

Bridgett Bonds puts in two points as Tigers Vickie Orr (50) and Charlene Thomas (21) watch. It would be one of the few easy buckets scored by the Salukis all day.

SEC co-Rookie of the Year, 6-3 center Vickie Orr, converted from the key to pull the Tigers within one at intermission, 23-22. Orr totaled eight for the half, and teammate Charlene Thomas led AU rebounders with six.

Jackson paced the Salukis with 10 points and four rebounds, a performance which AU coach Joe Ciampi gave top priority.

"We had to get Jackson into a full court game, then we could break up their offense," Ciampi said. "You can't ask a lady to do it all — shoot, rebound and handle the ball — and still expect her to play well."

SIU coach Cindy Scott said the Salukis handled the Tiger press well in the first half. But the "passive" full-court 2-2-1 turned into the hangman's noose from the start of the second period.

Ripping the Saluki offense apart, the Tigers charged to a 31-25 lead before SIU called timeout with 16:06 on the clock.

But the Tigers were too quick for the Salukis, who never mounted a comeback. Once the Saluki offense rattled, it fell apart and Auburn ran away on 19 second-half turnovers.

Auburn's Mae Ola Bolton, last year's SEC Rookie of the Year, sparked the Tigers' offense for 13 points to lead all scorers. Junior point guard Helene Baroody also hit double-digits for the Tigers, scoring 10 points that mostly came from steals.

AU held Jackson scoreless in the second half, but she managed to tie Thomas for game-high rebounds with 10.

On her final shot attempt, Jackson came down and twisted her ankle, causing her to exit her final game as a Saluki with four and a half minutes left and the Salukis hopelessly behind, 52-33.

Jackson finished her Saluki senior season at third in all-time scoring (1475) and assists (268), and sixth in rebounding (641). Jackson's 487 points this season also placed her fourth for the best single-season effort.

But after 23 straight wins, a streak topped only by Texas, the loss to Auburn was a crash.

Scott said, "The kids are feeling very down. It's been a long time since we lost. Getting blown out was not what we had in mind when we came here."

"We'll get over it and reflect on our great season — it was good experience for our young kids to make the NCAA's and play the seventh-ranked team — we'll be back," Scott said.

Gymnasts peg 2 wins over break

The SIU men's gymnastics team finished its regular-season competition in splendid fashion with an exciting home victory over top-ranked University of Nebraska and a first-place finish in the Independent National Championships.

The Salukis' 278.95-278.90 victory over the Cornhuskers of Nebraska on Feb. 7 was a tough competition that came down to the last event. In order for SIU to win, they had keep pressure on Nebraska, a strategy which assistant coach John Levy mentioned prior to the meet and coach Bill Meade attested to.

"That's been our strength all year. We've been able to do our stuff, minimize the mistakes and then it's up to the other team to match it," Meade said.

The score was tied at 47.25 after the first event, the floor exercises. Senior Brendan Price and Nebraska's Wes Suter tied for first with a 9.70, a score which ties Price's season best. The Salukis' Tom Gielmi scored a personal best of 9.60 for third.

The pommel horse was not and exceptionally strong event for either team but it did produce a three-way tie for first place, with Salukis David Lutterman, Preston Knauf and Nebraska's Suter each scoring a 9.35.

The Salukis were down nearly a full point going into the still rings routines and strong performances by the Cornhuskers kept the Salukis at bay. Junior Mark Ulmer and Nebraska's Paul Engel put forth impressive efforts for a 9.45 tie for first.

Meade had intended for his squad to stay close in the scoring and with dominant performances on vaulting, which the Salukis accomplished.

Price scored a 9.70 to grab first, while teammates Knauf and Ulmer tied for second with a score of 9.60. The Salukis' combined vault scores (47.70) marks a season best.

SIU finally pulled ahead after the fifth event, parallel bars. Although two Cornhuskers tied for first, Price managed to salvage third with a score of 9.65. Price's score, along with Lutterman's 9.60, ties season-best scores for both.

The Salukis notched third and fourth places in the all-around (Lutterman, 56.25 and Price, 56.20) behind Nebraska's defending NCAA All-Around Champion Wes Suter (56.75) and Ken Davis (56.35).

Next, the Salukis traveled to Terre Haute, Ind., to compete in the Independent National Championships on March 15 where they came away with a top finish over six teams, including the University of Illinois-Chicago, Indiana State, Western Michigan, Houston Baptist, Northern Illinois and Kent State Universities.

The 10-1-1 Salukis will spend the next three weeks training and anticipating an invitation to the NCAA Championships in Lincoln, Neb., April 4-5.

Baseball team shines in Florida sun

While spring break vacationers from SIU-C basked in the Florida sun, the baseball Salukis shined against rough, nationally-ranked competition, compiling a 6-3 record on their annual spring trip in Miami.

"I have to be very pleased," coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said. "The kids played exceptionally hard, and we were never sloppy."

Though the power-laden Salukis were out-homered five to three in nine games, their bats sang with a .318 average with 15 doubles and 10 triples. The opposition was held to a .252 average with seven doubles and four triples.

Infielders Jay Burch, Jim Limperis and Chuck Verschoore all hit over 400 in Florida, while outfielder Robert Jones drove in a team-high 12 runs with a .333 average.

The pitching lineup, a concern for Jones, performed well with a 4.85 earned run average, compared to opponents' ERA of 7.01.

Todd Neibel was the ace of the staff with 11 whiffs in 12 innings and a 2.25 ERA in two starts. Gary Bockhorn produced two victories in as many starts with a 4.91 ERA.

With his split-fingered fastball, reliever Larry Beattie saved one game in seven innings pitched with a 1.29 ERA.

Third sacker Chuck Locke was unable to play after the third game because of a sore arm, but his replacement, rookie infielder Joe Hall, proved to be more than ample. Hall hit .333 with five RBI in Florida.

"He's not just a hitter. He did a commendable job with the glove," Jones said. "Right now, he's our starting third baseman."

The SIU-C season started on a sour note March 8 with a 4-1 loss to defending national champion Miami, who is ranked No. 2 by the Collegiate Baseball Tab. The stingy Hurricane pitching staff allowed just five hits. The Salukis scored their only run with a Locke sacrifice fly which scored Charlie Hilleman. Neibel suffered the loss despite allowing four hits and two earned runs in five innings.

Two days later, left fielder Gerald Pitchford ripped a solo home run and drove in another run on a sacrifice fly to pace to the Dogs to a 16-3 victory over Fairleigh Dickinson. The rest of the game was called off in the bottom of the eighth because of rain.

Center fielder Steve Finley scored three runs and tallied another three RBI in an 11-6 win against Creighton, which was then undefeated in five games.
