Simon raises a million in February

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Sen. Paul Simon raised nearly $1 million for his presidential bid during February, but has less than $500,000 left after paying most of his debts and staff salaries, Einar Dyhrkopp, a Simon campaign manager, said Monday.

Brian Lott, a Simon press aide in Chicago, said Simon paid all but $143,000 of a debt that was more than $500,000. Simon raised $930,000 and received $3,000 in federal matching funds, he said.

Dyhrkopp said Simon received an avalanche of contributions after he threatened to drop out of the race.

"Friends and supporters wanted him to be able financially to stay in the race," he said. "He's much better off financially than he was, but he's operating on a day to day basis."

"Illinois is a key state and he's got to win big," Dyhrkopp said. "If it (money) keeps coming in at this rate, he'll have a sufficient quantity to Much is at stake today in the nation's first attempt at a regional primary.

About one-third of the delegates needed to win the Democratic and Republican nominations will be chosen in 20 states, from Washington to Florida, which are holding presidential contests today.

John Jackson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and a political science professor, said the races likely will:

—Knock New York Rep. Jack Kemp out of the Republican race;

—Prove that ex-TV evangelist Pat Robertson, a Republican, has a narrow appeal, even though he probably won't drop out; —Break Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore because "he has based his appeal in the South. If he can't win in the South, he can't win anywhere";

—Do little to help the campaign of Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt. If Gephardt finishes third, as expected, it will hurt his campaign.

For the Democrats, 1,307 of the 2,082 delegates needed for the nomination are up for grabs.

Iraqi missiles hit Iran, Iran retaliates in kind

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran said three Iraqi missiles slammed into homes and a clinic in Tehran Monday, killing 30 people, and it retaliated by firing two missiles into Baghdad in the ongoing missile war that has killed 148 people in the past three days.

At least 657 people also have been wounded during the past three days of Iraqi attacks on Tehran and on the cities and towns of western Iran. Iraq has released no specific casualty figures.

Iraq has fired 41 missiles into Tehran since Feb. 29 and three into the city of Qom, the spiritual base of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's religious rule, in a bid to force Iran to accept a U.N. cease-fire. Iran has fired 21 missiles into Baghdad.

The latest round of attacks is the worst since Iran and Iraq, at war for more than seven years, began targeting civilians in the "war of the cities" some five years ago.

Iraqi forces fired three surface-to-surface missiles from a launch site along the rugged border.

Debate over $768,745 plagues Foundation

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The Illinois Auditor General wants the SIU Foundation to turn over $768,745 in interest on money earned from the sale of a dormitory in Carterville, and the Foundation claims it shouldn't have to.

What should be done with the interest has been in dispute since the Foundation sold the dormitory in 1976. The Foundation has used the money for grants and scholarships, so the Legislative Audit Commission has not tried to force the Foundation to give the money to the state.

"We are hoping that when we get to the next Legislative Audit Commission meeting and they see that we have spent the remainder of the money on grants and scholarships, that this issue will be settled," Bryan Vagner, controller and treasurer for the Foundation, said.

He said the commission told the foundation to use the money for that purpose at the last meeting.

John Day, executive director of the Legislative Audit Commission, said the Foundation's use of the money for grants and scholarships "was about as satisfying a response as could be expected under the circumstances."

"I don't want to say it was wholly acceptable, though," he said.

The auditor general says the interest from money made on the sale of the dormitory, which was financed through tax-free bonds from the Foundation, should be given to the state.

Arab guerrillas seize bus, kill 3 then die in firefight

AROER, Israel (UPI) — Three Arab guerrillas hijacked a busload of nuclear plant workers in the southern Negev desert Monday and executed three Israelis before troops stormed the bus and wiped out the death squad in a hail of gunfire, an army commander said. Eight other bus passengers were wounded in the minute-long firefight that erupted on a desolate stretch of highway near the Bedouin village of Aroer. The Israeli dead included one man and two women.

Banking crisis inflames Noriega's opposition

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Opposition groups lined up Monday and executed three Israelis before troops stormed the bus and wiped out the death squad in a hail of gunfire, an army commander said. Eight other bus passengers were wounded in the minute-long firefight that erupted on a desolate stretch of highway near the Bedouin village of Aroer. The Israeli dead included one man and two women.

Reports differ on violence in Tibetan China

BEIJING, China (UPI) — Hundreds of police sealed off the center of the Tibetan capital of Lhasa and made dozens of arrests in a crackdown following the worst anti-Chinese unrest in three decades in the Himalayan region, sources in Lhasa said Monday. The sources also confirmed daylight violence Saturday was considerably worse than official media acknowledged, with hundreds and perhaps thousands of protesters attacking police. Foreign witnesses said as many as nine people died in the disturbance, but official reports said only one person was killed.

Tutu announces formation of dissident group

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Archbishop Desmond Tutu and other opponents of apartheid announced Monday formation of a new dissident group to defend democracy and called for a massive protest of government oppression. The Nobel Peace laureate said the unnamed group planned a protest rally Sunday, coinciding with a national day of 'prayer against oppression' called Monday by religious leaders.

Pilot, flight crew exempt from new FAA rule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Airlines serving major U.S. airports are being given exemptions from a new rule requiring flight crews to pass through metal detectors, the Federal Aviation Administration said Monday. The rule was imposed after a former ticket agent apparently smuggled a gun aboard a airliner and went on a shooting rampage that caused the plane to crash, killing all aboard. In cases where pilots and flight attendants may have to walk great distances to gun control points, an exemption is allowed.

Hearing-impaired students make school close

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hundreds of Gallaudet University students, angered by the selection of new school president with normal hearing, blocked entrances to the 2,300-student institution for the hearing-impaired Monday, forcing it to close. As many as 350 students on foot and in cars jammed entrances to the university in a continuation of a protest that began Sunday night when the Gallaudet board of trustees chose Dr. Elisabeth Ann Zinser as president over two hearing-impaired candidates.

High court rules against struggling farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously Monday that a farmer's experience and labor cannot be considered capital in Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings, dealing a setback to indebted farmers fighting for their land. In an earlier ruling, an appeals court stopped the foreclosure on loans of two farmowners and instead drafted a reorganization plan that allowed the farmers to keep their land and counted their experience and labor as assets that might enable them to operate profitably in the future.

Investigation links East Chicago police, drugs

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (UPI) — When East Chicago police department officials first suspected some of their officers were involved in drug dealing, they turned to the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, officials said Monday. The subsequent investigation revealed tales of at least one drug-dealing cop who made a veiled threat against his chief of police. The investigation so far has resulted in the arrest of one officer and the resignations of three other cops.

Council authority queried

The Undergraduate Student Organization says the Sports Club Executive Council should draft a constitution to help it operate more effectively.

In an emergency meeting called by senators Monday night, the USO questioned the council's authority to revoke the RSO status of the Aikido and University Martial Arts clubs.

The council, which is the governing body of University-approved sports clubs, is scheduled to vote Tuesday night on whether to allow the clubs to retain RSO status.

USO members questioned the council's parliamentary procedures, and many expressed concern about who gave the council its authority.

The USO directed President John Attard to ask the council to extend the deadline for the clubs to obtain national affiliation.

Two martial arts clubs recommended

Aikido Club status still pending

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

The executive committee of the sports club council has recommended that sports club status be given to the University Martial Arts Club and the University Aikido Club.

Both the Aikido Club and UMAC have found an acceptable national affiliation. The clubs had been denied sports club status because they didn't fulfill requirements for national affiliation. The deadline to present a national affiliate was today.

However, documentation of the Aikido Club's national affiliation still is pending. The Aikido Club will be given sports club status if its affiliation with the Aikido Schools of Ueshiba, Japan, can be documented by April 1.

Papers proving the Aikido Club's affiliation were presented Tuesday to Kathy Rankin, sport club fiscal officer. But Rankin refused to accept the papers because they lacked the signature of a national representative of the Aikido Schools of Ueshiba.

If the documentation isn't shown by April 1, the Aikido Club would go back on probationary status.

UMAC has been able to present proper documentation of its national affiliation with the United States Moo Duk Qwan Federation.

However, the committee was hesitant in recommending sports club status for UMAC because it was unsure whether UMAC was duplicating the form of martial arts taught by the SIU Tae Qwon Do Hapkido club.

Representatives of UMAC and the Tae Qwon Do club explained the differences in their clubs to the committee. Since UMAC teaches the moo duk qwan discipline, not hapkido, the committee decided the clubs were different.

The committee's recommendations for sports club status will be considered at 6 p.m. today in the Recreation Center Conference Room.

Don't let paranoia quell free speech

THE NATIONAL ORGANIZATION for the Reform of Marijuana Laws is attempting to elicit support for Registered Student Organization Status at SIU-C. This is a responsible move by people who believe the current laws are unfair.

If American citizens disagree with the majority of society and a specific law, they have the right to speak their opinions and work for change. This freedom is guaranteed in the Bill of Rights and should not be forsaken because of the current anti-drug crusades that attempt to depict all marijuana smokers as degenerates and threats to society.

WHETHER OR NOT marijuana should or shouldn't be legalized is, at this point, secondary to the issue of supporters of legalization who won't speak their minds. Some marijuana supporters haven't even seen the stuff and wouldn't recognize a "pot" plant if they mowed it down in their own backyards. Yet they keep quiet for fear of being labeled a criminal. Allowing NORML status as an RSO would go a long way in quelling this paranoia.

In the 1960s, it was not uncommon to see college students rally around all sorts of causes. Some of the most memorable were in support of marijuana. Large-scale "smoke-ins" were held to display opposition to harsh cannabis laws. This sort of protest often resulted in confrontations and arrests; it revealed pro-marijuana sentiment at a high risk to the activists.

THE 1980s BROUGHT the so-called Reagan Revolution, and love it or hate it, the truth is that marijuana's popularity suffered in this decade. Although the "revolution" is all but dead, even as late as two weeks ago, the First Lady said a trail of "death and destruction" followed casual marijuana users as they relaxed in the privacy of a "nice condo." She also accused marijuana users of being accomplices to murder. This was a brilliant mistake.

It's no wonder that many supporters and would-be supporters of marijuana are intimidated by this sort of name-calling and stereotyping. These tactics may educate the public on the dangers of drug abuse, but they also endanger what some feel is their right to engage in what they view to be an essentially victimless crime, especially if they cultivate their own marijuana and do not sell to others.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the Carbondale Metropolitan Enforcement Group said no secret records are kept on known marijuana supporters. He said the laws are only enforced when broken, and just because people voice support for marijuana doesn't mean they'll be watched closer than anyone else. But he also said laws will be enforced when broken, and that's the way it should be.

NORML doesn't plan to turn SIU-C into one massive smokers' haven. It merely seeks to allow students with concerns about the fairness of current marijuana laws a chance to voice their opinions and perhaps prompt legislative action.

It always is tough to take an unpopular stand, even if that position does have many silent supporters and a basis in the Constitution. The days of smoke-ins may belong to history, but the issue of citizens' rights still is alive. Don't be afraid to exercise those rights because of strong-armed methods by the Reagan administration.

Letters

Letter shows racism abounds

Black activism needed

The mentality of white America never ceases to gnaw at my patience and passion, making me grind my teeth in disgust. Individuals such as Kurt Sicilia love to feign amnesia, forgetting that for nearly 100 years after emancipation, the white bark of American genealogy smashed and battered the black man's spirit with Jim Crow.

And he would be so bold as to advertise his ignorance by saying "stop rumbling black man." He has forgotten how his grandparents gleefully took picnic baskets to untried lynchings. Stop rumbling black man?

He has forgotten the segregation, estrangement, and strangulation of blacks in American history. Stop rumbling black man?

He has forgotten how his parents, drunk with racial hate, leaped upon non-violent women and children in Montgomery. Stop rumbling black man?

Has he forgotten how he himself holds that very noose of racial prejudice within his own trembling hands, ready to choke and stop the flow of blood in our spirit. That was not only twenty years ago and earlier, but in more subtle ways, that is today. Only a fool could not know that.

It has often occurred to me that white America views humanity with its own very unique pair of eyes—maybe the black man was created to improve his dismal vision. And today, blind, nervous, inane men like Kurt Sicilia, cry out that America is unfair. He cheers for the invisibility of blackness as his ancestors did. If his insight — insofar as they would dare, even they would laugh at his naiveness. — Benobra Carr, sophomore, pre-med.

Whites hold advantage

I am responding to Kurt Sicilia's letter "Blacks ask for too much special treatment." If you had taken a small portion of your time thinking about the ideas you wrote, your opinion would have been different.

Had you compiled facts pertaining to the black population, you would have found that we do possess "the short end of the stick." Blacks have significantly lower incomes than caucasians.

Scores on national college tests are lower for blacks than caucasians. Our scores are not lower because of our failure to study but because of blacks not being able to afford the private schools that are filled with caucasians. This is the why some organizations sponsor black scholarships — to counteract the advantage that caucasians have through their opportunity for a better education.

The opinions of blacks aren't always voiced by the caucasian leaders who are our lawmakers. Therefore black organizations and other minority organizations are formed so that everyone's convictions are heard. Then, based on the advice of minority organizations, these caucasian executives can form laws to benefit the population as a whole.

The next time you decide to write a letter, it would be beneficial for you if you think about what you write before you write about what you think! — Christopher Williams, junior, accounting

Black culture ignored

In response to Kurt Sicilia's letter entitled "Blacks ask for too much special treatment," I am surprised that a senior in journalism lacks so much insight.

Black organizations were formed to bring unity to blacks and to educate them. For example, Blacks in Communications Alliance was formed to communicate ideas, issues, problems and solutions relating to the black media and black people in general.

In my grammar and high school I was taught everyone else's culture and history except my own: i.e. European, Asian, white American, Russian, etc. I agree with you that everyone should be treated as total equals, but the fact of the matter is that we are not.

Blacks are not even recognized for their contributions to American history, science, literature, or their efforts in every war. That's why we have Black History Month and need the Black American Studies program to re-educate everyone to some of the truths not mentioned before. So, Mr. Sicilia, I think you better wake up and realize blacks' position before you call yourself a journalist. — Michael Taylor, assistant producer, WSIU-TV.

buy TV advertising in other states."

Barbara Brown, a Simon delegate candidate and political science professor, said Simon decided Feb. 24 not to campaign in today's races because he could spend a lot and not get much in return.

"It would cost a great deal to attempt an effort in the South, when it appeared that things didn't look good across the board in the South for Simon," Brown said. "He can still pick up some delegates without spending a lot of money."

"Paul was very, very certain that he didn't want to put himself and his supporters deeply in debt," she added.

At Simon's Illinois campaign kick-off rally Friday in Marion, which was not a fund raiser, Dyhrkopp said he received more than $3,000 in cash donations. Brown said that last week, five people gave her checks and every check had a note attached that said "I hope he doesn't get out."

People seem to be saying Simon's voice must be heard, Brown said.

"It's not so important that Paul Simon be the front-runner or even win the nomination as Paul Simon's being a voice in the party saying things that the Democratic party needs to hear," Brown said. "There's more at stake than who wins the nomination. The very nature of the party is at question here."

Dyhrkopp said Simon couldn't continue talking about balancing the federal budget when he wasn't balancing his own campaign budget.

Robert Conner, spokesman for the Black Affairs Council, said Jackson knows that students will be on Spring Break. But he explained that Jackson is visiting the Southern Illinois area, not just the University. Conner said he expects 2,000 people at the rally.

"He also knows that a lot of students will stay for the rally and that a lot of students live in Southern Illinois," Conner said. "Anyway, why shouldn't he come here?"

"This is a good area for Jackson to visit," Conner said. "Martin Luther King had a lot of difficulty in this area — Cairo. It's a good place to start."

The Black Affairs Council and Students for Jesse Jackson, a student campaign organization with at least 50 members, had asked Jackson campaign headquarters in Chicago if Jackson would come to the University, Conner said.

Students for Jesse Jackson have held a rally, distributed literature and campaigned across Southern Illinois, he said.

An ABC-Washington Post poll of Super Tuesday states released Wednesday showed Jackson and Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis tied with 25 percent of the Democratic vote. Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee had 19 percent and Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt had 13 percent.

John Jackson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and political science professor, said Jackson, who is likely to finish first in most of the Super Tuesday contests today, probably will sail into the March 15 Illinois primary with enough momentum to win in Chicago. However, he probably will finish second behind Sen. Paul Simon in the rest of the state, Dean Jackson added.

Jackson of Chicago, has had impressive showings in Minnesota, Iowa, Maine and Vermont — all of which have small white populations.

Jackson, 42, has never held public office, but fought at King's side in the civil rights battles of the 1960s and was at King's side when the civil rights leader was shot on a Memphis, Tenn. hotel balcony April 4, 1968.

Jackson says he would devote more federal money to college grant and loan programs, that he would trim defense spending by eliminating the MX missile, Star Wars and the F-15 fighter and supports tougher foreign trade regulations.

"Today will probably be inconclusive for the Democrats because they will be extremely split," Jackson said. "(The Rev. Jesse) Jackson will most likely get 23 percent, Dukakis 20 percent and Gephardt 18 percent."

With 803 of the 1,139 delegates required to wrap up the Republican nomination being awarded today, Vice President George Bush could practically secure the nomination, Dean Jackson said.

It will be virtually impossible for Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas to catch Bush, who is the front-runner and someone acceptable to the South, Jackson said.

Dole will have to win in Illinois to have a chance of catching Bush, Jackson added.

Dennis Davis, a professor of political communication, said the Democratic Party may be in a "real mess" after today's races.

"If Bush emerges with the lead, Republicans will have a tremendous advantage over the Democrats," Davis said. "It will look awfully good for Bush if he carries most of Super Tuesday. Any (Democratic) candidate chosen last minute at the convention probably won't have enough momentum to get elected in a general election."

If Bush doesn't rap up the Republican nomination today, he'll be close to it, Davis said. Dole will have to win Illinois, Ohio and California to stay in the race, he added.

The 20-state Super Tuesday was set up to make it easier for moderate Democrats to get nominated, Jackson said. It also was created so the South would have more influence on who ultimately is elected president, he added.

But it doesn't seem to be working that way.

Jesse Jackson, who is the most liberal of the candidates, is leading in the polls in the South. Some of the Southern Democrats will vote for Robertson on the Republican ticket. Eleven of the states holding primaries today allow Democrats to vote in Republican primaries and vice versa.

But Dean Jackson said, "It won't be enough to carry Robertson to victory."

Only state agencies can issue tax-free bonds, the auditor general argues, and therefore the Foundation had to be acting as an arm of the University.

By state law, if the Foundation was acting as an arm of the University, the money made would need to be turned over to the state.

But the Foundation argues that it was not acting as an arm of the University. It claims it made the transactions as an independent, not-for-profit corporation and that the interest on the money should remain with the Foundation.

The Foundation invested the money it made on the dormitory sale in Northern Trust of Chicago, an investment firm.

The interest the Foundation earned on the investments was twice as high as the interest the Foundation had to pay on the bonds it issued.

The auditor general made a similar argument in 1986, when the interest earned was only $519,185.

Police Blotter

Two University students and a Carbondale man were treated for hypothermia — subnormal body temperature — after the canoe they were in capsized on Crab Orchard Creek and they walked two miles to a residence for assistance Friday night, the Jackson County Sheriff's office said.

Carlos Corcelles, senior in management, Michael Lynch, graduate in curriculum, instruction and media and Tatsuya Ishii, 24, of Carbondale were treated and released at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale Friday night, police said.

Police said the canoe capsized two miles south of Dillinger Road. The men swam to shore and walked to a residence on Dillinger Road, where they called an ambulance.

'Cheesy' name a coincidence

Kentucky band back in town

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

Naming a rock 'n' roll band Government Cheese seems like a stroke of genius, but Tommy Womack said it was just a matter of coincidence.

"The first time we got together to rehearse we were trying to think of a name for the band," Womack, guitarist and vocalist, said. "We happened to have some government cheese laying around the apartment."

Their first performance the next day was at a packed fraternity party at Western Kentucky University, and by the end of the first song, only four or five people were left, Womack said.

Government Cheese, consisting of Womack, lead vocalist and guitarist Scott Willis, bassist Billy Mack Hill and drummer Joe King, will perform Thursday night at Hangar 9.

All four members are graduates of Western Kentucky University, where they met and formed the band.

"We, like everybody else, thought we were vicarious and unique," Womack said. "We didn't know there was a band just like us five miles down the road and five others 20 miles down the road."

Despite its inauspicious beginning, Government Cheese has aged well over the years.

The band has released two extended-play records, "Things Are More Like They Are Now Than They've Ever Been Before" and "C'mon Back to Bowling Green... And Marry Me."

Success may not be very far away for Government Cheese. "C'mon Back to Bowling Green... And Marry Me" sold more than 10,000 copies and the single "Face to Face" was made into a video that appeared on M-TV's 120 Minutes.

"You could compare our situation to a halfback looking for a hole to run through," Womack said. "When that hole opens up, we'll take our music and run with it. We'll take it as far as we can without compromising the music."

The band's music has been compared to such groups as R.E.M., the Rolling Stones and Carbondale natives Jason and the Scorchers.

"One of our favorite terms is garage pop," Womack said.

A large part of the band's success is due to the fact that the band members do not take themselves too seriously, Womack said.

"We're all four frustrated class clowns," Womack said. "We don't want to play the gloom and doom musicians with smoke pouring out on stage and wearing black."

White House pledges new Contra plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House promised Monday to send Congress another request for aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels and President Reagan dismissed the last offer from House Democratic leaders as an attempt "to pass the buck of responsibility."

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the administration will work with its allies in the House and Senate to fashion a new aid request after the defeat Thursday of a $30.8 million package of humanitarian assistance in the House.

At the same time, Fitzwater acknowledged that without agreement on parliamentary shortcuts or a ready-made vehicle to bring any such request to the House or Senate floor, the administration lacks a plan for action.

"We've got the basic proposal," he said. "What we don't have is a way to bring it to a vote."

White House strategists were eying the more conservative Senate as the starting point for their next Contra aid proposal, though leaders of both parties agreed the future of any such request is far from bright in either chamber.

Iran armistice dismissed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department dismissed Iran's response to a U.N. call for a cease-fire with Iraq Monday and asked the United Nations to move ahead with an arms embargo against Iran.

The unsigned paper, handed over to U.N. officials last week, implied that Iran was now ready to accept U.N. Security Council resolution 598, passed unanimously last July, calling for an immediate cease-fire and mediation on the differences between Iran and Iraq. The two countries have been at war for more than seven years.

However, State Department spokesman Charles Redman described the unsigned message as the "Iranian non-paper," diplomatic jargon for a governmental communication that is not attributed to any official.

OPEC tries to curtail falling prices

By United Press International

Oil prices unraveled further Monday as selling again erupted in face of concern over reports that OPEC is extending discounts to hold on to clients in the gutted world market.

Oil rallied Friday after Ecuador's deputy oil minister said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would begin polling its 13 members Monday on whether to hold a meeting of cartel's pricing panel to halt the recent slide.

On the European spot market, where oil is sold to the highest bidder, the United Arab Emirates' Dubai light — the key OPEC crude from the Middle East — skidded 30 cents to $13.20 a barrel. Britain's North Sea Brent crude lost 15 cents to $14.20 a barrel.

Play it safe on your break

Drink moderately not excessively

By Maureen Madden
Wellness Center

It's Spring Break and you probably are getting ready to head south with thousands of other college students.

The ads luring you down South emphasize the fun side of Break, so it might be in your best interest to balance your expectations with a more realistic and honest view of it all.

Spring Break is Halloween weekend in Carbondale magnified and extended. Your trip South has the potential to be a great experience, but if you're not careful, you can come back with some souvenirs you didn't bargain for. Considering some precautions now may afford you a safer and better time down South.

The decision-making process goes beyond where you're staying, how much you have to spend, and how you're getting there. For starters, decide not to drink and drive.

In addition to the danger placed on your life and the lives of others, if you're caught driving while under the influence anywhere from Illinois to Florida, you can be fined $200 to $1,000. You could be put in jail and have your license revoked too.

Also, with an out-of-state DUI, the state of Illinois can press additional charges upon your return.

Remember, people under the influence of alcohol can be dangerous to themselves and others. When you go out, appoint a designated driver and be on the alert for drunk drivers. Since alcohol impairs judgement, it could also make you an easy target for theft, assault, or date rape.

Often in situations like Spring Break, people think that participating means consuming alcohol to excess. You don't have to abuse (or even use) alcohol to have fun.

Set limits for yourself and don't drink if you don't want to. If you drink, do so in moderation. Sip alcohol and pace your drinking so that you're never taking in more than one drink per hour.

Eat before and while you drink to aid the absorption of alcohol. When you're in the sun for long periods, drink water or soft drinks rather than beer.

During Spring Break peer pressure is at its peak. Be aware of everyone else's influence over your behavior and try to make your own decisions about alcohol and drug use.

When people, alcohol and illicit drugs converge in this intensive party atmosphere, an "anything goes" type of attitude is created where people can and do get hurt. Throw out the "It won't happen to me" attitude. From getting your wallet stolen to getting raped, to being jailed for a DUI — it can happen to you.

Spring Break can be a wonderful time, or as many of our students have discovered, it can be a time of great hassle and even personal tragedy. Make up your mind now to have a healthy and fun break. A little advanced planning and thinking for yourself will help insure your safe return to SIUC.

Masters and Johnson AIDS report rapped

NEW YORK (UPI) — The research team that startled the nation with a detailed study of the sexual revolution in the '60s called Monday for an end to promiscuity among heterosexuals because they said AIDS is spreading faster than officials estimate.

Sexuality experts William Masters and Virginia Johnson, who already were under attack for their most recent findings, released a new book that included assertions regarding casual transmission of the

But even before the findings were officially released, AIDS experts charged the book would fan public hysteria with its claims that under certain unlikely situations AIDS could be spread by kissing.

Robertson drops suit, will pay court costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge granted Monday the motion by Pat Robertson to dismiss the $35 million libel suit the Republican presidential candidate filed against former Rep. Pete McCloskey, R-Calif.

U.S. District Judge Joyce Green granted Robertson's request to drop the suit after the former television evangelist agreed to pay McCloskey's court costs, estimated by McCloskey's lawyers to be between $10,000 and $15,000, for the long-simmering dispute.

"It seems very clear that this is a surrender" by Robertson, said Robert Sloan, a McCloskey lawyer.

Sloan said that dismissing the case "with prejudice" and denying legal fees "was tantamount to a decision" for McCloskey.

Dismissing the case with prejudice means Robertson cannot refile the suit later and generally, in libel law, a successful defendant is not awarded attorneys' fees.

At issue in the case, which Robertson filed Oct. 21, 1986 — three weeks after announcing his exploratory campaign for the presidency — was Robertson's Marine Corps record during the Korean War.

McCloskey, in a letter to Rep. Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., which Jacobs later made public, recalled Robertson bragging that he used the influence of his father, Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., to dodge combat duty in Korea.

McCloskey also told Jacobs, for a time a co-defendant with Robertson went to Korea, his major duty seemed to be that of "booze officer," ferrying liquor for the officer's mess from Japan to Korea.

"It is important that I demonstrate the falsehood of these stories," Robertson said when he sued. "Otherwise, if I am elected president, how could I, as commander in chief, ever order a young American into combat if the record is not absolutely clear that I never shirked military duty."

Jacobs was later dropped from the suit, but efforts to settle the case out of court failed and on Sept. 23, 1987, Green set March 8 as the trial date.

But that date was set for Super Tuesday, when 735 delegates to the GOP convention, one-third of the number needed to win the nomination, are at stake in 20 states.

Then, neither Robertson nor his lawyers objected to March 8, and Robertson was quoted as saying, "I look forward to a trial whenever it takes place."

Jackson tours South

Jackson pays visit to AIDS patients

DALLAS (UPI) — Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson visited AIDS victims Monday, the day before the giant Super Tuesday contest, and called for a compassionate national response to the epidemic.

The candidate met with several victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome and said to one, "I want to thank you for giving us the chance to share, to show we care."

In a small room, Jackson sat on a couch with Kevin Waller, 25, who described some of his symptoms to the candidate, then came close to tears when he said, "I miss my family — lots of peoples' families have just turned their backs."

Jackson put his arm around Waller's shoulders, assuring him, "I have a commitment because I care. We need less hype and more education."

At the same time, Jackson again stressed the need for an all-out war on drugs, since one way AIDS is spread is through intravenous drug use.

Later, he said he has not made a decision on whether clean needles should be made available to intravenous drug users. New York City has instituted such a program to counter the spread of AIDS.

Aboard his chartered jet as it flew across south Texas, Jackson told reporters repeatedly that drugs are a national security and policy question and an epidemic that cannot be left to local police.

He also said he was "more sensitive" to the drug issue than the other candidates and outlined a plan that, if he was elected, he would implement — including the appointment of a White House "drug czar" to coordinate the battle against drug importation and use, a budget increase for the Coast Guard, which is charged with stemming the flow into the United States.

Jackson issued a statement in which he suggested a "compassionate response" to the epidemic that would include preventive education targeting high-risk behavior, massive federal funding for AIDS prevention, treatment and cure and a system of voluntary and confidential testing and counseling to those who may have been exposed to the virus.

The candidate was moving through Texas — one of 20 mostly Southern and border states with primaries or caucuses Tuesday — and planned an airport rally in Tyler before traveling later Monday to Birmingham, Ala. He plans to wait for results in Houston Tuesday night.

With polls confirming his strength among the South's black voters, Jackson courted that constituency in the days before Super Tuesday. In a typical swing Sunday, just 48 hours before the voting, he went to two black churches in Georgia, mostly black Grambling University in Louisiana and another black church in Texas.

Witness: Mecham tried to impede inquiry

PHOENIX (UPI) — Gov. Evan Mecham's impeachment trial entered its second week Monday with Arizona's top police officer testifying Mecham committed a crime by ordering state police not to cooperate with an inquiry into a death threat.

On another front, lawyers went to court Monday to argue motions on criminal charges facing Mecham for allegedly trying to conceal a campaign loan.

Prosecutors requested a 30-day delay in the criminal trial, while Mecham's lawyer said the governor wants to go to trial on schedule, March 22.

Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Michael Ryan gave Mecham's lawyer until Tuesday to file a written objection to a postponement. The judge also took under advisement a defense motion to dismiss four of the six felony counts against the governor and a request that the defense be allowed to interview grand jury members.

In the impeachment trial, Col. Ralph T. Milstead, director of the state Department of Public Safety and the prosecution's key witness in its charge Mecham tried to thwart the death-threat investigation, said he was shocked at the Republican governor's insistence that he not help Attorney General Bob Corbin.

"The attorney general's out to hang me and I'm not going to help him in any way," Milstead quoted Mecham as saying during a telephone conversation Nov. 15, 1987. That was two days after a state official reported a death threat by a Mecham political appointee and key fundraiser against another gubernatorial aide.

Milstead, testifying at the start of the second week of Mecham's impeachment trial, said the governor was "very upset" and "angry" to learn the DPS and the attorney general were cooperating in the inquiry.

The conversation, Milstead said, was a seven- to eight-minute courtesy call made to Mecham to bring the governor up to date about the situation.

NY Post's publisher has plans for profits

NEW YORK (UPI) — Real estate developer Peter Kalikow took over as the new owner of the New York Post Monday, vowing to halt the hemorrhage of red ink at nation's oldest continuously published daily newspaper.

The agreements transferring ownership of the 187-year-old newspaper to Kalikow from Australian-born media magnate Rupert Murdoch were signed late Monday afternoon, Howard Rubinstein, a spokesman for both men, said.

The millionaire real estate developer said he was committed to expanding the Post's readership base through millions of dollars in promotion, adding features, greatly expanding its investigative reporting and strengthening advertising revenues to make the paper profitable.

Chinese, University swap ideas

In America, the entree might be hamburgers and french fries.

In China, the meal could be pork, stir-fried vegetables and rice.

But college students in either country would be unlikely to rave about campus cafeteria food.

That was the consensus when Harvey Welch Jr., vice president for student affairs at SIU-C and Du Lizheng, who holds the same post at Northeast Normal University at Chang Chung in the People's Republic of China, compared notes last week.

"Do the students at your University say the food is bad?" Welch asked.

"Yes!" Lizheng said, "Young people nowadays are all the same."

Lizheng and Chen Yanping, assistant director of Northeast Normal's office of foreign affairs, arrived at SIU-C campus Feb. 1 and spent a month seeing first hand how SIU-C organizes and administers its student affairs offices.

Under terms of a long-standing agreement, exchanges between American and Chinese faculty, students and administrators have been scheduled periodically.

Lizheng plans to use some of SIU-C's methods at Northeast Normal, SIU-C's sister university.

This semester 23 students from Chang Chung are studying at SIU-C under exchange arrangements.

Challenger relatives get claims paid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government and Morton Thiokol agreed to pay more than $7.7 million to settle claims by survivors of four astronauts killed in the 1986 Challenger disaster, documents released Monday showed.

The settlement consists of payments to be made to the families over an extended period of time, with Morton Thiokol, builder of the space shuttle's solid rocket boosters that caused the deadly explosion, assuming 60 percent of the cost and taxpayers covering the other 40 percent.

According to the internal Justice Department documents, released under a Freedom of Information Act request, the company and the government used $7,735,000 to purchase annuities to settle the claims. The money was placed with an investment company, which will make the agreed-upon payments to the survivors.

Thiokol paid $4,641,000 in a lump sum to the Treasury, the documents showed, and the government assumed $3,094,000.

The settlement covered the immediate families of mission commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, mission specialist Ellison Onizuka, payload specialist Gregory Jarvis, and New Hampshire schoolteacher, Christa McAuliffe. In exchange, the families agreed to settle "all potential claims" against the government.

The families will actually receive more than $7.7 million because the annuities pay out over a period of several years.

The total amount they will receive and the breakdown of total payments to each family were not disclosed.

MVC loss doesn't diminish Herrin's season-long magic

PEORIA — Rich Herrin used up his last miracle some time ago.

Perhaps it was used to battle Bradley, or to defeat Illinois State, or to survive two overtime games with Indiana State, or to slip by Drake in the memorable triple-OT.

But whenever the magic vanished, the Salukis had nothing left to save them, trailing Creighton by three points with two seconds left and Randy House at the free-throw line.

Herrin had pulled a game-saver from his hip pocket too often this season. Most of his luck was spent just getting this team where it might be in a position to win.

But at the last postgame conference for Herrin and seniors Steve Middleton and Tim Richardson, no one hung their heads. None.

They knew this team had fought hard from the opening tip against SIU Edwardsville on Nov. 20 to House's free-throw that left the Salukis two points short, 89-87 Saturday.

From the Press Box
Troy Taylor

"We've got high class young men that know how to fight," Herrin said.

This has been a season of fighting. While the team did not always play well, it kept pace with opponents that had far more talent.

Herrin never gave up on this team, which finished 12-16 overall and fourth in the MVC standings — an improvement over 1987 when the Salukis were sixth.

Right up to the end Herrin punctuated his displeasure with an official's call or his team's lack of execution with a characteristic stomping of his right foot on the gym floor.

And he didn't fail to encourage his players, even when they were struggling. With eight minutes left and SIU-C behind Creighton by 10 points, Herrin was in the thick of the huddle telling his team not to give up.

The team didn't give up, taking a one-point lead as Middleton swept past the screen set by House for a baseline layup with 30 seconds to go.

That was the magic of this season. It wasn't the last-second heroics by Kai Nurnberger or the fabulous one-on-one moves by Middleton, but rather the devotion Herrin showed for this team.

It's obvious he loves his players, even when he gets down on them. The kind of loyalty which he instills bodes well for the future.

that atmosphere. Bradley coach Stan Albeck is all for it.

"It will be a good ballgame," Albeck said. "There is a great rivalry here. It makes for a great matchup. I think it will be an exciting game — a great way to end the MVC tournament."

It will be a game of contrasting styles. Bradley is an explosive offensive team, averaging 92.8 points per game. Illinois State coach Bob Donewald preaches defense.

"We'll come out and play the kind of game we're capable of playing," said Bradley forward Donald Powell, who had 25 points against Creighton. "As long as we're playing well, we're going to be OK."

The Braves are led by scoring sensation Hersey Hawkins, who is leading the tournament in scoring with 79 points in two games. Hawkins is just 38 points away from matching Oscar Robertson's all-time Missouri Valley career-scoring mark of 2,973.

"I have no idea if I'll get it," Hawkins said. "I'm not going out with the idea of scoring 38 points. I'm just looking to help my team win."

Illinois State led the Valley in team defense, holding opponents to 68.9 ppg. However, stopping Hawkins, the nation's leading scorer, will be difficult, Donewald said.

"You're not going to hold Hawkins," Donewald said. "(Point guard Anthony) Manuel is an outstanding player and Powell is playing well. There's no magic, no tricky secret. We'll just show up and play. If we play well, we'll be competitive."

Illinois State is capable of keeping pace with Bradley. Illinois State beat Bradley 85-74 on Jan. 4 at Carver Arena. At Horton, Bradley barely won 78-71 in overtime.

"We don't concentrate on defense to the exclusion of our offense," Donewald said.

Illinois State last won the tournament in 1983 when it beat Tulsa 84-64. "It's an NCAA berth; has been a goal for us all year," Illinois State guard Matt Laphorn said. "Now we have a shot with one more game."

MVC Highlights

The Hawk in flight

Bradley's Hersey Hawkins glides past Creighton's Porter Moser, No. 21, and Chad Gallagher during the Braves' 101-77 rout Sunday. Hawkins, the nation's leading scorer, had 38 points and is only 38 away from tying Oscar Robertson's record of 2,873 points.

Above the crowd

Sasha Radunovich, Wichita State's 6-foot-9 junior from Titograd, Yugoslavia, tries to soar past persistent Illinois State defenders. The Redbirds did not yield to Radunovich, holding him to six points and forcing him to miss five shots from close range. Illinois State beat Wichita State 59-51 and plays Bradley at 8:30 tonight for the title.

A final Kai

Kai Nurnberger, the Salukis' 6-foot-11 junior guard, avoids the block by a Creighton defender on his way to a reverse layup. Nurnberger had 19 points and seven assists in his last appearance this season as SIU-C lost to Creighton 85-67.

the media also noticed the Salukis.

Steve Middleton was a unanimous first-team selection on both all-conference teams. Kai Nurnberger was a second-team choice by the media and an honorable mention pick by the coaches. It was the first time since the 1978-79 season the Salukis placed two players on the teams. Randy House was an honorable mention selection by the media.

Freshmen Rick Shipley, Sterling Mahon and Dave Busch earned considerable playing time and played key roles in the Salukis' first-division finish.

With 6-foot-10 high school center Tony Harvey and 6-foot-7 junior college forward Barry Dunning signed in the fall, the Salukis are looking to add more players on the national signing day, April 13.

"We have to sign a couple of high school players and a couple of junior college players," Herrin said.

The Salukis are looking for a guard who can immediately step in Middleton's spot.

With seniors Middleton and Tim Richardson departing, the team will show a slightly different look next season.

"They'll be some changes made but there won't be any drastic changes," Herrin said. "We'll still play the up-tempo game and we'd like to put more (defensive) pressure on people.

"We're definitely going to go inside more but we'll still put the three-point shot up," he said. "It'll make the three-point shot much easier if we have a better inside game."

Men's tennis wins 1, falls to Iowa

By Jeff Griesser
Staff Writer

The men's tennis team beat Gustavus Adolphus College, but lost to the Iowa Hawkeyes after the Salukis' No. 2 singles player dropped out because of an injury.

No. 2 Fabiano Ramos strained his back against Gustavus Adolphus on Saturday and did not compete the Sunday against Iowa.

Ramos suffered a similar injury last year in the team's first match of its spring trip and was unable to compete. This year's spring trip begins Monday against Northeast Louisiana State.

"It (the injury) isn't as bad as it was last year," Ramos said. "Last year I couldn't even walk but now I'm getting along OK. We should have more of an idea about it tomorrow, but for now I'm swimming and trying to stay in shape."

Coach Dick LeFevre said Ramos should be in shape to compete next week.

The Salukis beat Gustavus Adolphus 7-2. No. 1 Jairo Aidana and No. 2 Ramos lost their singles matches but everyone else, including the three doubles teams, won in straight sets.

"Our doubles teams are really starting to play well," LeFevre said. "The No. 2 team had some problems against Iowa, but we've been playing better doubles."

SIU-C had to forfeit No. 6 singles and No. 3 doubles Sunday against Iowa because of Ramos' injury. The match ended at 9-0, with the Salukis on the losing end.

"We had to move everybody up a spot," LeFevre said. "Then we had to just forget about the No. 3 doubles team. One injury can really hurt a team. There isn't another sport in which the loss of one player can be so catastrophic."

Women lose three weekend matches

By Jeff Griesser
Staff Writer

Despite losing to Iowa State, University of Illinois and SIU-Edwardsville, the Saluki women's tennis team played well this weekend, Coach Judy Auld said.

"It was a positive weekend," Auld said. "I could really notice the improvement from Friday to Saturday night. The only match I was disappointed in not winning was Iowa State."

The team lost 6-3 to Iowa State on Friday morning in Belleville.

Michelle Jeffrey won her No. 4 singles match in straight sets and Julie Burgess outlasted Deb Stoppelmoor at No. 6 singles, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4. The No. 1 team of Ellen Moellering and Beth Boardman came away with the Salukis' only doubles win.

Two matches the team lost could have gone either way, Auld said.

Ellen Moellering lost to Kris Stotler, 7-6, 4-6, 6-4 at No. 1 singles. Maria Coch and Sue Steuby lost to Stoppelmoor and Jennifer Nelson, 7-6, 4-6, 7-5, at the No. 3 doubles position.

On Friday night, the Salukis lost to Illinois, 7-2. Dana Cherebetiu defeated Susee Stout 7-6, 6-2 at No. 3 singles, and Jeffrey won again at No. 4, 6-2, 6-2 over Loren Smotesky. The only three-setter against the U of I occurred at No. 2 doubles where Cherebetiu and Jeffrey lost 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

"I thought we looked kind of tired against U of I," Auld said. "We were really dragging against them."

The Salukis lost to SIU-E, 5-4, on Saturday.

SIU-C won its No. 6 singles and No. 3 doubles matches by default because SIU-E had only five players. Sue Steuby won her match at the No. 5 singles spot, and Cherebetiu and Jeffrey pulled out a three-set victory at No. 2 doubles by beating Michele Wreen and Sandi Stace, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

"I thought we looked good against Edwardsville," Auld said. "I was really pleased with our performance."

The losses give the Salukis a 0-3 record for the spring and 9-6 overall.

Softball team wins opener against Austin Peay, 4-2

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Softball shortstop Theresa Smugala, in her first appearance since being sidelined with a knee injury a year ago, made it clear she was back at full strength.

Smugala hit a home run in her first at bat as the Salukis captured the season opener 4-2 over Austin Peay in 10 innings Saturday in Clarksville, Tenn.

"I'm very pleased with Smugala, both at the plate and with her defense," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "It's a tribute to her to comeback after a year's absence."

The Salukis led 1-0 in the second game of the doubleheader. However, the game was called after three innings because of darkness.

The team has a 2:30 p.m. road doubleheader against St. Louis today.

"We haven't played St. Louis for several years," Brechtelsbauer said. "I know they've played more games than us so we can't go in and take them lightly."

The Salukis have not played St. Louis since 1982. In the series, the Salukis have won all three meetings.

Against Austin Peay, the Salukis improved their series record against the Governors to 4-0.

Lisa Peterson, a free baserunner at second because of the extra-inning tie-breaking rule, scored the game-winning run on Shelly Gibbs' sacrifice fly in the 10th.

The score was 1-1 in regulation. After SIU-C scored one run in the top of the ninth, Austin Peay led off with a triple.

Austin Peay tied on a suicide squeeze when Saluki catcher Michele Davidovich dropped the ball at home in a collision with the Governors' baserunner. Davidovich, who caught two baserunners attempting steals, reinjured her hip and had to be taken out of the game on the play.

Volleyball team knocked out of semifinals

The women's volleyball team was eliminated in the semifinal round by Northwestern 16-14, 15-9 in a spring tournament Saturday in Normal.

In pool play the Salukis defeated Illinois State 15-2, 15-

13 and Bradley 15-10, 15-8, but lost to 1987 NCAA Final Four qualifier Illinois 15-3, 15-11.

"Our goal was to get out of pool play, and into the semifinals," assistant coach Sonya Locke said. "Our pool was strong. It was stacked. We had to play well to get out."

The volleyball team, which plays in Champaign this Saturday, is 6-3 in the spring season.

Dogs hockey club up for championship

By Jeff Griesser
Staff Writer

The SIU-C Wild Dogs hockey club needs one victory to win Tri-State Amateur Hockey League championship.

SIU-C and the Evansville Horizons meet in the deciding game of the best-of-three championship series at 8:15 tonight at Swonder Ice Rink in Evansville, Ind.

SIU-C, in its second year in the league, finished first in the regular season.

"I think we have a good chance of winning it," Darren Kohlenberger, Wild Dog goalie, said. "We should have it won already but we can't worry about that right now."

In the first two games, SIU-C won 8-1 on Thursday, then lost 7-4 on Saturday.

Kohlenberger believes his sub-par performance was a key ingredient in Saturday's loss.

"It was the worst game I've ever played in my life," he said. "The rest of our team was playing pretty even against them but I just couldn't stop anything. All but one of the goals was my fault."

Larry Dooly, in his first game with the team, had two goals and one assist Thursday.

Although Evansville scored first, SIU-C's Kohlenberger stopped a penalty shot and started a rally.

"I think the team really picked up after the penalty shot," Kohlenberger said.

Tony Krause and Dominick Esposito each had a goal and an assist, but Evansville managed to score seven times for the win.

SIU-C player-coach Kevin Quinn was awarded the league's most valuable player award at a banquet Saturday night.

Quinn also was voted team MVP. Kohlenberger was voted most improved player and Scott Brydges received the sportsmanlike conduct award.

The relay team had a false start on its first attempt during the time trials, and then waited about a half hour before making a second attempt.

"It happens sometimes," Nagy said. "You just can't let it bother you."

On Friday, Carry qualified for the men's team with a time of 56.13 in the 100 breaststroke.

For the women's team on Friday, one swimmer and one relay team qualified.

Co-captain Karen McIntyre qualified in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 55.76. McIntyre came from behind to pass teammate Lori Rea, who already has qualified for the NCAA's in the event.

The women's 200-yard freestyle relay team of Rea, Jackie Taljaard, Iris von Jouanne and Kathi Wire qualified with a time of 1:35.04, just five-hundredths of second under the qualifying standard.

Before this weekend's meet, the men's team had qualified Garmendia in the 200 butterfly, Roberts in the 200 backstroke, and the 400 freestyle relay team of Nagy, Roberts, Goelz and Sean Morrissey.

Previous qualifiers for the women are Rea in the 100 butterfly and diver Celia Gales on the one-meter springboard.

Intramural wrestling tonight

By Greg Huber
Staff Writer

The annual intramural wrestling tournament opens at 6 tonight and runs through Wednesday at the Recreation Center gymnasium.

The tournament weigh-in will be today at the Center between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Preliminary bouts take place today and the championship is set for Wednesday.

"It's one of those specialty sports. You can't just hop in there and do it," intramural coordinator Buddy Goldammer said.

Both individual and team wrestling will be featured.

Weight categories run from 118 pounds-and-under, advancing in eight-pound increments up to the heavyweight bracket.

Many of the 40 participants signed up for the tournament had wrestling experience in high school or junior college.

The SIU-C tournament is these participants' only chance to wrestle competitively.

The school formerly had an NCAA-sanctioned team but that was dropped during the 1985-86 season because of budget cuts, according to Sports Information.

Former wrestling coach Linn Long said there is still an outlet for wrestlers at SIU-C.

After Spring Break, wrestlers will meet at 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday in the Arena's East concourse for workouts, Long said.

Many wrestlers train for federation and amateur games in the Illinois and Missouri area. They also prepare for the Prairie State games, Long said.

Freshman Eric Bradac strokes to a time of 15:25.87 in the men's 1,650-yard freestyle at the Region Eight Championships Sunday in the Recreation Center pool. Three swimmers and two relay teams qualified at the weekend meet for the NCAA's.

Swimmers rack up qualifiers

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The swim teams added to their list of NCAA qualifiers at the Region Eight Championships this weekend at the Recreation Center pool.

The Salukis qualified two men, one women, one men relay team and one women relay team.

"We had a great weekend," Coach Doug Ingram said. "We're very pleased."

Sophomore Jeff Goelz qualified in the 50-yard freestyle during time trials after the meet ended Sunday. His qualifying time was 20.37.

"It was about time," Goelz said. "I had swam it about eight times during the weekend. I just kept doing time trials, and I was real close every time. It was a big load off my shoulders when I finally got it."

Senior co-captain Kevin Nagy missed qualifying by one-hundredth of a second during the same time trial.

"It was an emotional roller coaster," Ingram said. "You're happy that Jeff qualified, but then you look up and see that Kevin was so close and you're disappointed."

Nagy said, "I was happy because it was a half-second faster than my meet time, but at the same time I was disappointed because I missed by only one-hundredth of a second."

Nagy said he would try to qualify again during practice.

"I'm not sure if I can swim at the Ozark Seniors Invitational next weekend, so I'm going to try during practice," Nagy said.

The men also qualified the 400-medley relay team of Scott Roberts, Lee Carry, Harri Garmendia and Nagy during the time trials, setting a pool record with a time of 3:19.41. The team had missed qualifying by a tenth of a second on Saturday.

Herrin: Much effort went into Salukis' fourth-place finish

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The Salukis' first-round loss to Creighton is still on Coach Rich Herrin's mind, but he isn't going to let it take it away from the team's accomplishments this season.

"Overall, I think we made progress," Herrin said. "I never thought I'd ever be excited about a fourth-place finish. I'm very excited about it because our fourth-place finish probably took as much effort as Bradley's first-place finish."

The Salukis ended the season at 12-16. Their conference mark of 6-8 gave them a fourth-place tie with Creighton. The last time the Salukis had a commendable finish was the 1978-79 season, when the Salukis finished in a four-way tie for third at 8-6.

This season's 12 victories matched the total of last year's 12-17 team. However, 11 of the losses this season were by five or less points.

"We're a much better basketball club than we were (last season) even though we won the same number of games," Herrin said. "We were in every ballgame with the exception of two — the Missouri game and the Tulsa game."

"Our record in the league could have been 10-4 or it could have been 1-13. We got almost our share of victories. We would have liked to win a few more of the close ones. The majority of the time the players gave a nice effort and that's all you can really ask."

The Salukis peaked toward the end of the season. Their four-game winning streak, which ended with a 68-67 win at home against Illinois State, was the highlight of the season, Herrin said.

More fans came out to see the improved Salukis. Average attendance at the Arena jumped from 3,323 to 4,497 this season.

ISU-Bradley championship to be a 'brawl'

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

PEORIA — Creighton coach Tony Barone made his prediction on tonight's Missouri Valley tournament championship game between Bradley and Illinois State.

"It'll be a brawl," said Barone, a former Bradley assistant who has first-hand knowledge of this fierce, natural rivalry. The game starts at 8:30 p.m. in Carver Arena.

The two central Illinois schools are neighbors. Bradley, located in Peoria, is just 40 miles to the northwest on I-74 from Illinois State's home in Normal.

When the teams met during the regular season, the games were sellouts at both Bradley's home at Carver Arena and at Illinois State's Horton Field House.

Even before Bradley had completed its 101-77 thrashing of Creighton on Sunday, the Braves fans in attendance were chanting "We want ISU!"
