Thompson's budget: Tax hikes proposed for cigarettes, telephones

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Illinois' top legislative and political leaders said Wednesday Gov. James R. Thompson's fiscal 1991 budget is a "blueprint for bankruptcy" that would probably be totally rewritten by the General Assembly.

Thompson's proposed $26.3 billion budget for fiscal 1991 includes increased taxes on cigarettes, telephones, waste haulers and storers of hazardous chemicals. Thompson also outlined a major initiative to reduce the state's solid waste.

The governor said the tax increases are needed to provide adequate funds for current and new programs, but even members of Thompson's own party said the state should be careful not to spend beyond its means.

"I don't think the budget's going to go very far," said Republican Secretary of State and gubernatorial hopeful Jim Edgar. "I think it would be a mistake to raise taxes again this year. We had a sizable increase last year, $1.2 billion. I think this budget's going to have to be re-examined. I think you'll find before it passes, the General Assembly will rewrite it."

Several of the taxes are one-time increases that would not be available in fiscal 1992 for a new governor. Edgar's probable general election opponent, Democratic Attorney General Neil Hartigan, said the budget — if approved — would "leave me or Mr. Edgar in Governor Thompson has suggested four more increases in taxes today, and a large amount of additional spending, some of which is going to go on in terms of the next administration. That's a credit card mentality. This thing is a blueprint, all right, but it's a blueprint for bankruptcy in this state," Hartigan said.

$1.56 billion on agenda for higher education

By Lisa Miller and Tony Mancuso
Staff Writers

Higher education's fate in Illinois has been dubbed as bleak, and officials don't foresee a brighter outlook if Gov. James R. Thompson's budget is adopted by the General Assembly.

Thompson recommended $1.56 billion in fiscal year 1991 appropriations for higher education, $90 million less than the Illinois Board of Higher Education requested.

Despite a record high increase in educational funding during fiscal year 1990, this year's budget allocations will not cover the state's higher education needs this year.

Although higher education will be given about $44 million more than last year, a 2.4-percent increase, the additional money will not offset the inflation rate, which will be about 4 percent.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, a longtime champion of higher education, said he was not pleased with Thompson's appropriations, and he did not anticipate the assembly allocating any more money for education by the end legislative session June 30.

Legislators supportive of environmental plan

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday asked the General Assembly to fully fund a $536.3 million, seven-year plan to provide grants to local governments for building landfills and other waste management facilities.

Legislators generally supported the "Illinois Environmental Challenge" included in Thompson's fiscal 1991 budget but business groups attacked financing for the program and said it would not solve the landfill problem. "The typical American family produces more than 4,500 gallons of garbage each year," Thompson said. "That's either going to have to stop, or at least be reversed sometime soon."

"If it doesn't stop, we're not going to have a place left to put it, and those plastic bags of rotting, stinking garbage will begin mounting up in our kitchens and homes and yards. By then it will be too late for any rational

FDA announces plan to improve food labeling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan, likening the supermarket to the Tower of Babel, Wednesday announced the first major government effort to improve food labeling in 17 years.

Sullivan said the labeling changes are needed to reduce the "confusion and frustration" that exists among Americans trying to select healthful foods.

"Some food labels are hard to read and understand. Vital information is missing. And frankly some unfounded health claims are being made in the market place," Sullivan said. "It's a real mess."

The labeling changes to be proposed by the Food and Drug Administration this year will require most foods to carry consistent nutrition labels, Sullivan said.

Currently, the FDA requires nutrition labeling only when a food company adds vitamins, minerals or protein or makes a nutritional claim. About 60 percent of all packaged foods currently bear nutrition labels, most provided voluntarily by manufacturers.

Other changes include establishing uniform serving sizes, and standardizing currently unregulated descriptions like "low fat" and "high fiber," the health secretary said.

"The grocery store has become a Tower of Babel, and consumers need to be linguists, scientists and mind readers to understand the many labels they encounter," said Sullivan, referring to the biblical story in which God mixed up human language and people could not understand each other.

The last time U.S. food labels were changed significantly was in

Within the next six months, the FDA will propose rules to:

- Require nutrition labeling for all foods that are "meaningful sources" of nutrition. Some spices, flavors and foods made by small businesses may be exempt.

- Mandate new nutrients — such as saturated fat, fiber, cholesterol and calories from fat — be listed on labels. Make some currently required nutrients, such as thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, optional.

- Ensure standard serving size.

Student fee increases to be considered

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

Six student fee increases will be considered by the SIU Board of Trustees at its monthly meeting today in Edwardsville.

The board will vote on the following proposed SIU-C fee increases:

- A $72-a-semester increase in residence hall rates and a $13-to-$18-a-semester increase in apartment rentals rates, both effective summer 1990.

- A $14.50 fall 1990 increase and a $8.75 summer 1990 increase in the Student Health Fee.

- A $6-a-semester increase in the Student Recreation Fee, effective fall semester 1990.

- A $3.20-a-semester increase in the Student Activity Fee, effective fall semester 1990.

- A $1-a-semester increase in the Campus Housing Activity Fee for residents of Evergreen Terrace, effective July 1, 1990.

- A 65-cents-a-semester increase in the Students' Attorney Program Fee, effective for fall semester 1990.

The residence hall increase would help offset reduced working cash in the proposed budget deficit for fiscal year 1991.

Specific allocation of the funds is not projected in the proposal, but some reserves may be used for a major enhancement of the electrical supply system to minimize the length of future short-ages.

The proposed rates are below those of the University of Illinois and are competitive with the other state universities, according to a Board of Trustees document.

A fee structure change separating utility fees from rent fees at Evergreen Terrace apartments is included in the proposal.

Softball team to visit Florida, Georgia during spring break

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

While many SIU-C students take it easy during spring break, the Saluki softball team will be working hard under the southern sun. The Saluki women will play some of the best teams in the country March 10-19 during a spring trip to Georgia and Florida.

The first four days of the trip will be grueling as the Salukis have seven games scheduled. The remainder of the trip will be spent at the Florida State Invitational, where the Salukis play at least five games.

SIU-C will play Mercer University for the first time in a doubleheader. The Salukis then will play nationally-ranked Florida State.

Florida State beat the Salukis 4-2 last year and softball coach Kay Brechtelsbauer and her squad hope to avenge the loss.

"Florida State is a very strong team. They have been strong for a number of years," Brechtelsbauer said. "We've had some good ball games against them and we hope we can take this year's contest from them. They're a good team though, there's no doubt about it."

Following the single game with the Seminoles, the Salukis play another doubleheader against Valdosta State, also a first-time opponent for SIU-C.

"I don't really know much about Mercer or Valdosta State, but if they have any strong pitching they will be very tough," Brechtelsbauer said.

The final games before the Invitational will be a doubleheader against Florida A & M. The Salukis beat them last year, but it took them nine innings before blowing them out 10-2.

"Florida A & M has not shown to be quite as strong, but they are up and coming. I don't really know what their pitching situation is right now. If they've picked up any quality pitching, then we'll have our hands full," Brechtelsbauer said.

The Salukis will get a day of rest Thursday before jumping into competition at the Invitational. Last year SIU-C tied for third out of 19 teams.

Saluki women eye NCAA bid

Gateway finals begin tonight

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The Gateway Conference basketball tournament features four similar teams Friday and Saturday at the Arena.

The top-seeded Saluki women, 19-9 overall and 14-4 in the Gateway, battle fourth-seed Bradley (16-11, 12-6) in the second semifinal game at 8 p.m. Friday.

No. 2 seed Illinois State (19-8, 14-4) plays No. 3 seed Southwest Missouri (19-7, 14-4) in the first semifinal game at 6 p.m. Friday.

The championship game will be at 7:35 p.m. Saturday. The winner receives an automatic bid into the NCAA tournament.

Saluki coach Cindy Scott said the teams are evenly matched.

"It is going to be a great tournament," Scott said. "All of the teams have beaten each other. There isn't much difference between the four."

SIU-C, Illinois State, and Southwest split in head-to-head competition during the regular season. Bradley split with Illinois State and Southwest, but lost twice to SIU-C.

Bradley never has beaten SIU-C (0-16). But Scott says this is a meaningless statistic.

"What we've done against Bradley in the past doesn't matter," Scott said. "Bradley is a very capable team and we were fortunate to beat them twice this season."

Bradley is the Gateway's leading rebounding team (43.1 per game).

Val Wancket, a 6-0 junior forward, is averaging 11.9 points and 7.8 rebounds. Junior Sheila Jenkins (10.7, 7.9) and 6-3 sophomore-center Eileen Yerkes (10.7, 6.3) give Bradley a balanced

"Bradley is potent at every position and probably have the strongest frontline in the Gateway," Scott said.

Braves coach Lisa Boyer said rebounding may determine the outcome.

"Because of our size, we probably match up with Southern better than anyone else," Boyer said. "I expect it to be a battle of the boards."

Boyer, whose team was picked to finish eighth in the preseason coaches' poll, said her team proved skeptics wrong.

"We weren't expected to be here," Boyer said. "We continually had to prove ourselves because people thought we were a fluke. We're real excited to be in the tournament."

Scott hopes for continued steady play from junior forward Amy Pakers (20.4, 10.6) and sophomore point guard Colleen Helmstead who has averaged 8

Four Saluki divers will battle stiff competition at zone meet

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

Imagine going to class tomorrow to take your midterm and the only people still enrolled in the class are you and the person who always blows the curve. That's what the situation will be like this weekend at the NCAA zone diving meet.

Senior Dave Sampson, sophomores Laine Owen, Michelle Albrecht and Greg Testa will travel to Southern Methodist University in Dallas to face some of the toughest competition of their lives.

"The finals are unbelievable," SIU-C diving coach Dave Ardrey said. "The hardest part is getting there. Then there is the challenge of diving with 31 of the best divers in the country."

The zone meet is held as a preliminary to the NCAA championship finals. To qualify for the zones a diver must achieve a qualifying score established by the NCAA based on the previous year's NCAA finals' scores. A diver can accomplish a qualifying score at a dual meet (6 dives) or championship meet (11 dives).

Qualifying scores for men on the 1-meter board are 290 in dual meets and 465 in championships meets. On 3-meter it is 310 and 480.

For women, qualifying scores on the 1-meter are 245 (dual) and 375 (championship). On 3-meter it is 255 and 425.

From Zone D, which SIU-C competes in, the top three divers will advance to the championship finals.

"The NCAA championships are something you train for all season, not just for a week or two," SIU-C swimming and diving coach Doug Ingram said.

"I know we're ready," Ardrey said. "We're probably a little over ready. I think they're tired of being here and they're ready to get to the meet."

Owen, who has qualified on both boards, has consistently conquered qualifying scores throughout the season. She attended the zone meet last year as a freshman, but felt the pressure of the big meet and did not perform up to expectations.

"Laine is ready to compete. She's ready to go prove some things to some people," Ardrey said. "She had some problems there last year, but she learned from those problems. Now she's ready to go prove herself."

"I've always told her that you go and compete and you do the best possible job that you can and then the winning takes care of itself. That's the way we'll go down there."

Sampson, who qualified on the 3-meter board at the Saluki Invitational Feb. 3, is in his last

Terrorists say they won't release American hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A terrorist group said Wednesday it had no intention of releasing the two American hostages it holds without "a positive atmosphere" and charged the United States was mounting a military operation to free the captives. The group, which calls itself the Justice Organization and which holds U.S. nationals Joseph Cicippio and Edward Tracy, warned it would retaliate against "American interests" if the United States resorted to force to try to free the hostages.

Afghan coup leader takes flight to Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Afghan Defense Minister Shah Nawaz Tanai, accused of leading a failed coup against President Najibullah, arrived in Pakistan with his family on military helicopter Wednesday and was taken into custody, Pakistani sources said. Tanai's flight to Pakistan came the day after fighting erupted in the attempt to overthrow Najibullah. The fighting continued Wednesday despite the claim by Najibullah's pro-Soviet government that it crushed the uprising Tuesday.

GA-RANKUWA, South Africa (UPI) — Mobs in the troubled black homeland of Bophuthatswana went on a rampage of arson and looting Wednesday after police fired on thousands of residents demanding reincorporation into South Africa. Eight people were killed. Bophuthatswana President Lucas Mangope declared a state of emergency in the eastern portions of the homeland where the unrest erupted, and South African Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha said South African security forces were providing "cooperative assistance" to their homeland counterparts.

Libya denied the allegations that it has produced chemical weapons in the plant and repeated its assertion that the facility was a pharmaceutical factory.

Senate rejects Thompson's changes to grand jury bill

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The Illinois Senate voted 20-18 Wednesday to reject Gov. Thompson's changes to a bill creating statewide grand juries to investigate drug crimes. The bill was designed to more quickly seize the profits of drug kingpins and money launderers and has been unsuccessfully proposed in the General Assembly since 1970. Thompson made substantial amendments to the bill in January, eliminating a provision that would have automatically repealed the law in 1993.

Official: Vietnamese assistance needed in search

By Dale Walker
Staff Writer

Authorities believed to be in possession of burial records

"We have to lean on the Vietnamese to account for our missing men" because Vietnam should have records ranging from a simple burial report to possession of a large number of stored remains of Americans lost in the Vietnam War, the chief of the special office for POW/MIA, said.

"Armies around the world operate in much the same way," Col. Joseph A. Schlatter, said.

If an American was killed or found dead during the war, the valuables on his body would be taken and a report would be made and sent up through channels, Schlatter said.

Schlatter said in the 1972 Operation Homecoming it is possible that some men were not returned.

Often, the body would be buried and a record of where the body was buried would be recorded, he said.

Schlatter spoke to about 75 people at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Auditorium.

There are 2,304 men unaccounted for in Indochina, Schlatter said. Of those, 1,192 are missing and 1,112 are reported to have been killed, he said.

Schlatter addressed the issue of the possibility that some men were not returned in Operation Homecoming in 1972.

"We don't find evidence to support the thesis that live prisoners were not released," he said.

However there are cases of people who were alive on the ground and in radio contact. All of a sudden they could not be heard and now are unaccounted for, Schlatter said.

There have been 1,342 firsthand live-sightings in Indochina, Schlatter said. Of these, 321 were fabrications and 895 were individuals previously accounted for.

Of the 126 unresolved live sightings, 54 were reportedly living free and 74 were in a prison situation, he said.

Schlatter said that many firsthand sightings can be resolved for various reasons. One example he cited is that Vietnamese believe they can get themselves and 10 of their relatives to the United States if they come up with "evidence" that they know the whereabouts of the location of a dead or live American.

Often some false reports are generated by the Vietnamese government, Schlatter said, adding "we are involved in the spy vs. spy game."

Another cause of a high number of sightings is cases where a person either looks like an American or is an American in their prison system (not a POW) and is reported as a missing American, he said.

Schlatter added that at least 50 Americans have ended up in the Vietnamese prison system since 1975. This is often caused by drug smuggling activities.

Another cause for a high report percentage comes with the occurrence of yachts getting too close to the Vietnamese coast and the passengers being seen as spies.

Schlatter said there have been 11,047 refugee reports since 1975.

Of those 2,870 are crash or gravesite reports, 1,342 are firsthand sightings, 2,125 are hearsay and 4,710 are "dogtag" reports.

Dogtag reports are reports accompanied with dogtag identification to "support" the story.

The refugee reports, like the category of firsthand sightings, are often repeated sightings of the same person, false or sightings of people that appear to be Caucasian but are not American MIA/POWs, he said.

During the question and answer session, many Vietnam veterans asked specific questions about recent and long-standing issues.

One person asked if there are live sighting reports in Vietnam that are classified. Schlatter said every case is classified.

Another audience member asked if the United States is doing something now.

"I've got stuff that I won't talk about to anybody (meaning it is still a government secret)," Schlatter replied.

In the lecture, Schlatter said

Laos has allowed the United States to excavate eight crash sites, but the government has knowledge of about 150 crash sites.

The Vietnamese wanted money for rebuilding. Former President Richard M. Nixon said he would give $3 to $4 billion. When he rescinded that offer, does that mean that they (the Vietnamese) are holding Americans for ransom, one person asked.

"They've (the Vietnamese) never raised this issue again, and they have never said anything about hostages," Schlatter said.

Congratulations, Basketball Salukis

WAY TO GO Salukis!

Both the SIU-C men's and women's basketball teams, coaches, staff and supporters must be congratulated on the hard work and dedication that went into the excellent seasons they have had this year.

The statistics speak for themselves. The men's team played in front of a sell-out crowd of more than 10,000 rabid basketball fans Tuesday night at Illinois State University's Redbird Arena. Under the direction of Rich Herrin, the Missouri Valley Conference Coach of the Year, the team finished the regular season with a 26-7 mark. After a disappointing first half (not to mention four grueling days of tournament play), the Salukis were able to rally their strengths to give the Redbirds the contest they deserved. What the Salukis lacked in the way of home court advantage, they made up for with determination and such key players as Jerry Jones and Matt Wynn.

ALTHOUGH THEY MISSED the MVC championship and an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament in a heartbreaking race to the finish, the Salukis gave the Redbirds a run for their money. The breathtaking final minutes of tournament play that hinged on a last-minute attempt at a three-point shot kept fans and players alike on the edge of their seats as the two teams duked it out. When the dust cleared, the Redbirds held the numerical advantage on the scoreboard, but there were no losers in this contest. When you finally put your best foot forward you are the winner, no matter what anyone says, and that's just what our Salukis did.

Coach Cindy Scott and the women's team were not to be outdone, however. After a very aggressive, successful season, they should be extremely proud of their record of 19-9 overall and 14-4 in Gateway Conference play. SIU-C earned the No. 1 seed in the Gateway postseason tournament, which they are hosting, and are favored to take it all when the action begins on Friday.

HOMECOURT ADVANTAGE equals hometown excitement. We should all turn out on Friday and Saturday evenings to give these women our support. The action promises to be no less exciting this weekend as it was last weekend for the basketball Salukis. The winner of this contest will receive an automatic bid to the NCAA tourney, so go get 'em, Salukis! We're behind you every step of the way.

Leader's hunger strike stilted

Kansas City Star

Panamanian President Guillermo Endara is getting a reputation as the Mahatma Gandhi of Central America. What did he do to protest the Panama Defense Forces' mistreatment of him and other opposition leaders during the days of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega? He fasted.

What did Endara do to protest proposed cuts in U.S. aid to Panama? Fasted, again. While Gandhism is a commendable form of non-violent civil disobedience, it is often used by the powerless to influence the powerful. Often the targets of these acts are people in government.

But Endara is the government, at least as far as Panamanians, who elected him, and the U.S. government are concerned. Therefore, he must act presidential and come up with more creative ways of dealing with Washington officials to convince them to do more for Panama.

When Panama doesn't get its way, will Endara fast against the International Monetary Fund and Inter American Development Bank? That's hardly a way to encourage investment.

Endara isn't likely to influence Washington with these hunger strikes. Truth be told, some people see in Panama a man who could probably stand to lose a few pounds. If Endara were as frail in appearance as was India's Gandhi, perhaps his point would be made more effectively in these terms.

Certainly, Sen. Patrick Leahy of Vermont, who proposed the cuts in the $500 million aid package prescribed for Panama, will not be moved by Endara's hunger strikes.

Endara said he chose to fast to be "in solidarity with my fellow citizens in Panama who suffer malnutrition because of poverty." And while many Panamanians may appreciate this act of solidarity on behalf of their neediness, surely they would prefer a president who has the strength to fight attempts to cut aid, not one too weak to go the distance.

Letters

Some SIU boosters need spirit boost

First of all, I would like to congratulate Rich Herrin and his fabulous Salukis on an outstanding season which, in my opinion, is far from being over.

To travel to Normal to play the host team Redbirds in the MVC Championship game with the largest crowd ever recorded and get a win stolen by an incredible three points is remarkable.

I attended the game, and other than losing my voice, acquiring one of the most excruciating migraine headaches that I have ever had and spending more money than I had anticipated, I had an awesome time.

But my biggest complaint is not about something or someone 225 miles away but right here.

Yes, I am speaking of our "Oh, how great our athletics are" boosters.

As the section in which I sat proceeded to yell, scream, chant cheers, wave signs, clap hands and SUPPORT our Salukis, most of the donation-giving boosters sat down and used their thick wallets as seat cushions.

I know not all boosters act in this fashion; an incredible amount are die-hard fans.

But just attending the games doesn't cut the cake. It takes noise, spirit and enthusiasm to get the job done.

For instance, at a home game, when the crowd starts "the wave," whenever it reaches the booster section it fizzles out.

I have been to every home game and a few away ones, and only once have I ever seen the wave completed successfully.

Yet another incident occurred at ISU Tuesday night.

Before the game, I was carrying a sign which read, "You'll take our 'Ship' and like it" (intended to refer to that fabulous forward, Rick Shipley.)

An elderly man and woman proceeded to inform me that they were SIU-C alumni and that with my "vulgar" sign I was giving not only myself a bad reputation but Southern as well.

These were "loyal fans who have backed the Salukis even when they had losing records." However, I saw that couple stand only once the entire game, and yes, that was during the National Anthem!

Lastly, I would like to apologize to any boosters who DO have great school spirit and who enjoy yelling for the Salukis.

To those Boosters whose only concern is the tangible contributions to the success of the Salukis: put your money where your mouth is, and then maybe you will make some noise.—Todd J. Thomas, sophomore, speech communication.

People are individuals, not simply different hues

I'd like to respond to letters published from Mr. Swenson and Ms. Rudd on Feb. 14 and March 2, respectively.

The truth is that discrimination/racism affects both groups at SIU-C. I and some other black students wonder why this university (and others) assume that we have to lower academic standards expected of us; I consider this an insult. On the other hand, I'm sure that Mr. Swenson and other white students (and even I) wonder why there are special black student organizations and even foreign student organizations but no white student organizations are allowed; that's also insulting.

Each group experiences discrimination to which the other can't relate. The black man who can't get a decent job because he is a minority and the white man who can't get the same job because he isn't in the same boat. Instead of pointing fingers, why not get off our self-righteous high grounds and find common ground by really communicating to promote understanding of the other guy's problems.

The way we perceive and react to each other is the problem; a change in thinking and socialization is the solution. Each believes the other is out to get them or take what's rightfully theirs.

You'll be a victim of the system as long as you see yourself as such; why not stand for the rights and dignity of everyone? Try seeing people as individuals for a change. It's very refreshing indeed.—Veronica Lee, senior, speech communication.

'Obscene' Palestinian display portrays reality

It is stated that the contents of the Palestinian Student Association display in the Student Center are "offensive." I will go beyond that and say: they are obscene. Obscene is the same manner as the Turkish genocide upon Armenians; obscene in the same manner as the Nazi Holocaust; obscene in the same manner as Kampuchea and Salvador and the continued slaughter of innocents by international terrorists and "freedom fighters."

If these offensive acts were taking place in my hometown, I would want the world to take notice and voice its concern.

Well, these "offensive" acts are taking place daily in the homeland of our fellow students and their only demand of us is to take notice of the facts—in this case, photographic evidence. Were it not for this photographic documentation, the Nazi Holocaust might today be forgotten or minimized.

The genocide in the Palestinian homeland is indeed offensive. To deny Palestinian students every opportunity to educate the University community to the existence of that genocide is obscene.—T.E. Kelley, junior, administration of justice.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

"Higher education got a tremendous increase last year," Dunn said. "I think educators are just going to have to be satisfied with what they have been allocated this year."

Dunn also doubted the assembly would adopt an 8-cents-a-pack cigarette tax increase to help support higher education, a tax increase that could bring in an estimated $80 million into the Illinois economy.

Last year lawmakers raised the cigarette tax by 10 cents, 8 cents short of Thompson's proposed 18-cent increase. Thompson proposed the 8-cent increase during the fall session, but to no avail.

State Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, said he was disappointed by the governor's appropriations for higher education, but he was not surprised.

"This budget is not cast in stone," Richmond said. "There is still a chance higher education could see some more money."

State Sen. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, said there was definitely not enough money appropriated for higher education, and the budget would have to be dissected carefully before it was approved by the assembly.

"My guess is that the budget priorities will have to be changed before the end of the session," Rea said. "The legislative opinion is sometimes very different from the governor's opinion."

SIU Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said IBHE adopted the governor's budget without any discussions.

"It's a pretty grim budget, as we already knew it would be," Pettit said.

Thompson's budget provides a $5.4 million — or a 2.3 percent — increase for SIU in fiscal year 1991, according to IBHE Deputy Director Ross Hodel, who said the governor budgeted $238.3 million.

Hodel said the figure is $11.4 million less than IBHE's recommendation and $32.9 million less than the SIU Board of Trustees' request.

Pettit said if the Legislature adopts the governor's budget and no more for higher education, three existing problems will continue to worsen.

The problems, which will not only affect the SIU system, but all institutions of higher learning, include:

■ Serious salary problems.

■ A backlog of newly-approved programs by the IBHE that will not receive funding from the legislature.

■ A backlog of capital projects approved by IBHE, many of which will not receive state funding for six or seven years.

"I'm still hoping we won't have to raise tuition," Pettit said.

Hodel said if the budget does not change, University faculty members will receive a 3-percent salary increase, which is far below the IBHE's requested 12-percent increase.

However, capital development projects at SIU-C will benefit from the governor's plan. SIU-C will receive $17.2 million for its new steam power plant project and $14.6 million for its new biological sciences building, he said.

Hodel said if Thompson's budget remains unchanged or is cut by the legislature, the University might have to consider raising tuition.

"It's too early to tell what the General Assembly will do, but tuition hikes will remain an open question," he said.

If the budget remains the same, SIU-C will receive $168.9 million in operations and grants appropriations, $4 million more than last year. The figure is $8 million less than IBHE's recommendation and $22.9 million less than the Board of Trustees' request, Hodel said.

Apartments are not included in the proposed increase.

The increases could only be avoided by depleting working cash balances and deferring maintenance and renovation projects, according to a board document.

The Housing Area Presidents' Council and the Undergraduate Student Government voted in support of the proposal. The Graduate and Professional Student Council does not oppose the increase.

Brush Towers, Thompson Point, University Park and Greek Row room and board rates would be increased from $1,312 to $1,384 each semester for 1990.

Southern Hills rates, reflecting the increase, would range from $252 to $292 a month. Evergreen Terrace rates would range from $241 to $260, minus electrical utilities. Evergreen Terrace rates subject to approval of SIU Foundation and Department of Housing and Urban Development.

University Housing's total proposed income from operations and investments for fiscal year '91 is $15,091,900. Total proposed expenses are $17,460,100. A bond revenue fee will cover another $1,116,000. The remaining deficit of $1,252,000 is to be covered through the use of cash and receivables of $524,800 and through revenue from the proposed increase of $727,900.

The board will also resolve to retain the firm of Campbell Design Group of Belleville as engineer of the Central Electrical Distribution System Renovation, a capital project at SIU-E. The SIU Chancellor will be authorized to oversee the execution of the resolution.

The board will vote on recommending the presentation of the Distinguished Service Award, SIU-E, to Ronald L. Thompson at the June 9 commencement.

A summary report of purchase orders and contracts awarded for both the SIU-C and SIU-E campuses during January 1990 will be entered into the minutes.

Changes in faculty-administrative payroll for both campuses will be submitted for ratification.

The Board Academic Matters Committee will report on the funding of programmatic requests for fiscal year 1991.

The Board Finance Committee will discuss SIU-C food service bids being reviewed and computing activities.

Under the proposal, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency would administer a $500 million grant program to provide matching funds to local governments for seven incinerators, seven landfills and 25 transfer stations where recyclables are sorted out of garbage.

The proposal also would clean up abandoned hazardous waste sites, reduce toxic pollutants, provide financial assistance to businesses for pollution prevention projects and dredge the Waukegan Harbor.

The program also would be administered and funded through the departments of Energy and Natural Resources, Conservation, Agriculture and the Pollution Control Board.

The Agriculture Department's program would collect and dispose of unused farm chemicals declared unsafe by the U.S. EPA, and Conservation Department would run a statewide tree planting effort.

A recent report by the IEPA said the state would run out of landfill space by the year 2000 if current trends continue.

IEPA spokesman Will Flower said the proposal would "allow local governments to get on the ball and implement (their mandated) solid waste management plans in the future."

The environmental initiative would be funded largely by increasing solid waste disposal fees from $1.27 to $6.03 per ton and imposing a new chemical substance storage fee expected to raise $24 million.

The average household would pay about 90 cents extra per month because of the higher disposal fees on waste haulers, Flower said.

About 5,500 facilities in the state would have to pay a maximum of $50,000 per year to store hazardous chemicals including benzene and methanol, Flower said. Chemicals in consumer goods, laboratories and medical facilities and agricultural operations are excluded, he said.

Rep. Thomas Ewing, R-Pontiac, said the state needs to address the solid waste issue, "but we should do it up front. Tipping fees are just a hidden tax," said Ewing, one of the top financial leaders in the General Assembly.

Integrating curricula focus of spring colloquium

By Aaron Nauth
Staff Writer

Proposal for 'cultural pluralism' class passes liberal arts council

Stressing cultural differences within the humanities at SIU-C was discussed by three associate professors Tuesday as a part of the spring colloquia series on integrating curricula and transforming the University.

"What we're trying to get at is getting students to realize that there is a plurality of culture," Sally King, associate professor of philosophy, said to an audience of about six people.

The American educational system and culture promote the idea of people who are different from Americans being looked at as less than human, King said.

King made up a proposal requiring all general education students to take one course in cultural pluralism through the general education system.

The course would have to be primarily focused on a culture that is non-dominant, which is non-male, non-white and European derived. This would include minority races, women and world studies.

"Students can go through the University now with the idea that they're educated, when all they're educated in is white-male European derived culture," King said.

King said her proposal was passed by the liberal arts council but has not been instituted into the curriculum yet.

King teaches a feminist philosophy course and said it is like preaching to the already converted people with open minds who are going to find these things out whether they take the course or not.

"What we really need to get at is the GE courses and GE students who don't really want to take it and don't know one thing about it," King said. "They're the ones who need it the most."

King made a proposal requiring all general education students to take one course in cultural pluralism.

Gary Smith, associate professor in English, pointed out some myths about African-American literature and how he tries to overcome them.

The first myth he noted was that the African-American culture does not exist. If it does exist, another myth is that it is inferior because it supposedly does not match up to the standards of Western culture.

African-American literature can then supposedly only be refined when it comes to Western literature, Smith said.

Another myth is that if the African-American culture is viewed as enriching, it must be made marketable; therefore, it must come to terms with the Western intelligence.

Smith's response to these myths is that the literature would encompass the African-American experience. America needs to recognize that minorities of made ongoing and vital contributions to literature, Smith said.

"I naturalize the literature by situating it within my survey courses," Smith said. "Homosexuality, the lesbian experience, the Asian-American experience, the African-American experience and the Native-American experience have not been a vital part of American literature."

Smith said we also need to re-examine and re-interpret works already within the canon of literature as well as examine the non-canonical literature to come to terms with the minority presence.

Clarisse Zimra, associate professor of English, said she is trying to make her students aware of what she calls a hidden agenda which deals with how students interpret the text according to their perceptions.

"More than one approach should get taught because what we are after is teaching the students new ways of reading regardless of the text in which to apply the reading," Zimra said.

Zimra said our interpretations of the text we read is never innocent of cultural bias as well as how read and respond to it.

"What I do has always had me very much aware that theoretical thinking is always contextual and so that then makes me ask questions of what I do in the classroom," Zimra said.

Zimra said she is desperate to get students past their standard reaction to literature.

French researchers: Abortion pill safe

BOSTON (UPI) — In findings hailed as the most definitive evidence yet that the French "abortion pill" is safe and effective, researchers Wednesday released the results of the largest study to date of the controversial drug.

The drug RU 486 produced a 96 percent success rate among 2,115 women in France without causing side effects such as pain or profuse bleeding more frequently than conventional abortions.

The study, published in The New England Journal of Medicine, confirms earlier smaller studies. It was conducted by the French pharmaceutical company Roussel Uclaf, which developed the drug but only sells it in France, in part because of fierce opposition from anti-abortion groups.

Dr. Sheldon Segal of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York, welcomed the report in an accompanying editorial as "very important — the definitive study we've been waiting for."

The research "should give Roussel Uclaf assurances about the drug's safety that they need in order to introduce it into other countries," Segal said in an interview.

A company spokesman in Paris called the study "definitive," and added the firm now believes the drug's safety is not in question. The drug works by blocking the hormone progesterone, causing a fertilized egg to be dispelled.

Urination innovation: 'She-inals' make splash in Pensacola as women get to try new way to go

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — More than five years after coming up with her eyebrow-raising idea, the inventor of a urinal for women will see the first production model installed at a regional airport next month.

"I think the women who use public restrooms on a regular basis are going to be very excited," said Kathie Jones, president of Urinette Inc. of Pensacola.

She thinks women will eventually demand the "She-inal."

The She-inal looks like a urinal with a flexible tube and flared cup on the upper end. A disposable paper lining covers the surface of the flared end. When the hose is returned to the bracket, a lever is pulled and water flushes clean the hose — paper and all.

Unlike urinals for men, She-inals will be in stalls.

"We're in production now and our first fixture came off the assembly line Friday afternoon and delivered here Monday," said Jones. The base is made in Omaha, Neb., and the funnel and handle unit in Pensacola.

Jones has signed a contract to provide four She-inals by April 1 to Pensacola Regional Airport, which is slated to be finished in the late summer or early fall.

Plumbing engineers have specified the female urinal for projects in several other locations, including a factory in Iowa, a performing arts center in Illinois, and projects in Pennsylvania, Colorado and Maryland.

Michael Gould, Carbondale painter, poses at the Associated Artists Gallery. Gould next to his painting "Near Oraville" Tuesday paints in a studio in Vergennes.

Local artist draws inspiration from picturesque Vergennes

By Stephanie Steirer
Staff Writer

Colorful landscapes created by Carbondale painter Michael Gould bring to life the brilliant colors of the city of Vergennes.

Each landscape scene is within walking distance of Gould's studio in scenic Vergennes, which is about 15 miles northwest of Murphysboro. From these scenes, he creates his own interpretation of color, which he uses as a focus in each of his painting.

In his studio, Gould creates large canvas oil paintings from smaller oil pastel-paintstick pictures, which he creates on the scene.

"Near Oraville" is a landscape scene just outside of his studio.

"This (painting) was done on an autumn morning," Gould said. "I was struck by the brilliant colors and the triumphant clouds of this scene."

Gould uses red and blue to symbolize the feeling of power and vigor, which are the subject of this painting.

Gould bases his painting style on simplification. "I place more emphasis on color and less on detail," Gould said.

He works with color dynamics to create an emotional effect from which he hopes to elicit a similar emotional response from the viewer.

"Red Landscape" is an extremely vivid scene using bright yellow and orange.

"In this piece, I've taken more liberties with the colors," Gould said. "I'm trying to get away from using the traditional color blue for my skies," Gould said. The sky in "Red Landscape" is a mixture of light green and orange and when these colors are combined, they create a brilliant yellow.

After 11 years of painting, Gould feels he has finally approached a real understanding of the use of color combinations in paintings.

Gould, who is a part-time art appreciation instructor at Rend Lake College in Ina, considers himself to be an impetuous painter. "I like to get right into the painting," Gould said. "This allows discovery to happen while I'm painting."

Gould feels that his painting has opened his eyes to the world around him. "Beauty is everywhere," Gould said. "It is not hard to find."

Gould has 19 paintings on display at the Associated Artists Gallery, 213 S. Illinois Ave. His exhibit runs through March 31.

University students excel in Memphis opera contest

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

A trip to the Metropolitan Opera's regional competition in Memphis, Tenn. paid off for two SIU-C contestants.

Last month, Jeanine Wagner, Bruce Baumer and Clay Hulsey qualified for the district or first round of the opera's contest. The three were selected out of 21 other singers at the district level.

Last weekend, the trio advanced to Memphis where both Baumer and Wagner placed in the top three. But only one singer, Roy Cornelius Smith, graduate student from the University of Tennessee, advanced on to the New York competition.

In New York, the winners of the semi-final round will each receive a $10,000 scholarship and the opportunity to sing on the national Metropolitan radio broadcast.

Baumer, a graduate student, took second place and received $400.

Baumer said he was grateful for the chance to compete in the contest and looks forward to entering next year's competition.

"It's a good experience for a young singer," Baumer said. "It adds to your self-confidence the next time around."

Baumer said it is hard to tell what the judges are looking for in contests such as these.

"The contests are so subjective," Baumer said. "It all depends on what the judges are looking for. You don't know."

Wagner, director for SIU-C's Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater placed third and received $300.

Wagner said she felt good about placing at the district level. Each level of the competition increases in difficulty as the competition becomes more refined.

Wagner said the fact that three out of the 13 people were from SIU-C reflects well on the music program.

Rules to change for Boat Regatta

By Richard Hund
Staff Writer

The Great Cardboard Boat Regatta will undergo a "minor but important rule change" this year, according to design professor Richard Archer.

Class One boats must be made entirely of corrugated cardboard except paddles and oars for the April 28 event. Seating, oarlocks, steering equipment and all other parts of the boat are affected.

Metal parts were previously allowed for some parts of the boat, such as the oarlocks, Archer said.

"(The participants) were getting a little high-tech on us," he said, adding that students began using aluminum in boats. "If they want to get high-tech, they can go to class too."

Archer said the community does not realize the worldwide recognition of the regatta.

"I just don't think most people in the area have the scope or appreciation for how big this thing has grown," he said. "(The event has) not become the big community event it has in other towns."

Cardboard boat races started in such places as Dallas; Hartford, Conn. and even Australia from the event that started in Carbondale in 1974, Archer said.

Renowned sociologist to lecture

By Aaron Nauth
Staff Writer

A prominent sociologist will speak about her research and how technology is changing occupational careers, at 7 tonight in Farer Auditorium.

The title of Marliiss Buchmann's speech is "Work Careers and the Maelstrom of Change."

In her book, "The Script of Life in Modern Society: Entry into the Adulthood in a Changing World," Buchmann argues there has been a change in the character of the life course and especially the stages of the life course, said Annette Lareau, assistant professor of sociology.

Buchmann looks at the transition from school to work and work back to school. Lareau said Buchmann compared how people made the transition from work to school between the 1960s and 1980s from high school and beyond. Buchmann found that the life course is more diverse now than in the '60s because it is compounded and delayed by child-bearing and marriage from some groups of women, Lareau said.

Buchmann is a visiting professor at Stanford University at the center for European studies in Palo Alto, Calif. She also is working on a new national survey in Switzerland, assessing the impact of technological change on work careers, which is funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation.

Police Blotter

Michael J. Owczarzak, 19, a sophomore in administration of justice, reported to police he was confronted by two individuals Sunday night and had a jacket taken from him.

A University Police spokesman said Owczarzak was approached at the rear of the Air Force ROTC building by the two subjects. Police said the two told Owczarzak to give them his jacket and any money he had on him.

Owczarzak turned his pockets inside out to show the two that he did not have any money, and was punched near the eye. The two individuals fled after hitting Owczarzak, the spokesman said.

The jacket was valued at $75, the spokesman said.

IBM announces an enhancement to the PS/2. A high-speed loan.

Discounts up to 40% available.

If you're like most students, you're often running on empty when it comes to ready cash. That's why we've come up with the IBM PS/2® Loan for Learning. It's easy. It's fast. And it's affordable.

Interest rates are substantially lower than those of most consumer loans. Just 1.5% above the Prime Rate (as published in The Wall Street Journal).

Qualified students (or their parents), faculty and staff¹ can borrow from $1,500 to $8,000 for the purchase of an IBM Personal System/2.^{2*} The one-page application makes it as easy as applying for a credit card.

Pay for your PS/2 in easy bites. Take five years to repay. Choose from two payment plans: Standard (fixed) or Graduated. Under the Graduated plan, you pay as little as $33.32 a month for a PS/2 Model 30 286 preloaded with software.

Here's the smart way to get the money you need, for the PS/2 you need. Visit your campus outlet for an application or call the Nellie Mae Loan Hotline at 1 (800) 634-9308.

For more information or a demonstration, contact the Computing Information Center in the Basement of Wham at 453-5155

† The loan offer is available only to qualified students, faculty and staff who purchase IBM PS/2's through participating campus outlets.
* Applicants must have a combined minimum annual income of $20,000 to be eligible.
 The monthly payment is based upon 100% financing repaid in 60 monthly installments based on the chart below and includes the 1% guarantee fee. The interest rate is variable, subject to change each month.

Amount Financed	Months	Monthly Payment	Months	Monthly Payment	Months	Monthly Payment	APR
$2,322.22	12	$33.32	12	$33.32	36	$33.32	12.37%

year of intercollegiate diving and hopes to excel at the NCAA level.

Albrecht will be attending the NCAA zone meet for her first time.

"Michele's hard to predict," Ardrey said.

Testa has come on strong the second half of the season and scored his qualifying times at the Saluki Invitational.

"Greg is diving very well right now. After January he started to make some improvements. We changed some things in practice and he has really taken off and is diving real well," Ardrey said.

Teams from the Big East, Big Ten, Big Eight, Atlantic Coast, Metro, Mid-Atlantic and Gateway conferences will be represented at the Invitational. The 23-team field will be divided into four divisions and the top two teams from each division will advance to the playoffs.

"All the teams in this tournament have been in the top 20 nationally or have been first or second in their region in the last couple of years. We'll see some very good competition," Brechtelsbauer said.

The Salukis will meet Connecticut, Nicholls State, Miami of Ohio, Nebraska and Furman in their division. SIU-C holds a combined record of 5-1 against these teams, but the Salukis have never before faced Connecticut or Furman.

"This thing is going to be up for grabs," Brechtelsbauer said. "There just isn't a team in there that we can take a breather against. They're all tough."

"We'll find out this weekend if we're ready."

points, 6 assists, 1.8 steals and only 2.5 turnovers during the Salukis' four-game winning streak.

"Amy has been stellar all season," Scott said. "Colleen is playing with confidence and making things happen. Her leadership has made all the difference."

Illinois State and Southwest also have their sights set on a Gateway title.

The second-seeded Redbirds are the defending conference champs and have won more Gateway crowns (1983, 1985, 1989) than any other team.

Redbird coach Jill Hutchison said the tournament is well-balanced.

"The teams are evenly matched and have all had their ups and downs this season," Hutchison said. "I think it's a matter of who produces on a given night."

Hutchison has received impressive seasons from senior forward Char Govan (20, 8.4) and junior-center Cindy Kaufman (16.8, 5.2). But Hutchison said Illinois State has its hands full against Southwest.

"They (Southwest) are extremely aggressive on defense and have several people who contribute," Hutchison said. "We had trouble inside against all of these teams. That will be a key factor for us."

The third-seeded Bears are making their first tournament appearance since 1987.

Bears coach Cheryl Burnett said depth may be a factor for her team.

"If we play two games, our personnel may help especially with the kind of defense we play," Burnett said.

What You Should Know About Date RAPE

High Risk Factors:

SEX ROLE STEREOTYPES:

Women - Be aware of stereotypes that prevent you from self-expression, such as "anger is unfeminine".

Men - Be aware of stereotypes that promote violence against women, such as "It is manly to use force".

IGNORING YOUR INSTINCTS:

Know that you have the right to set sexual limits. If you feel you are being pressured past your limit, you are right. Trust your gut feelings.

INEFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION:

Communicate your limits. If someone starts to offend you, tell them. Tell them directly, forcefully, and don't worry if you have to be firm.

Protecting Yourself:

- Say no when you mean no, say yes when you mean yes, and stay in touch with your feelings to know the difference.

- Believe in your right to express your feelings and learn to do so assertively.

- Be aware of stereotypes that prevent you from self-expression, such as "Being passive is feminine".

- Be aware of specific situations in which you do not feel relaxed and in charge.

- Hear what the other person is saying. Don't guess. Don't assume.

Remember:

* You and your partner have the right to say no, at any time, without feeling guilty.

* Stopping doesn't mean a loss of manhood or womanhood.

* Stopping doesn't mean that something is wrong with you.

* It does mean people are people, not objects, and have a right to different opinions.

* Alcohol and drugs interfere with clear thinking and effective communication.

* Money spent on a date doesn't obligate either person to sexual favors.

Healing Yourself:

If you or someone you know has been raped, there are services available to you:

- Women's Services (453-3655) provides short term counseling and a Rape Survivors Support Group.

- SIU Counseling Center (453-5371) provides long-term counseling.

- Rape Action Committee (529-2324) is a 24 hours crisis intervention service providing emotional support, information, and advocacy for rape victims, their friends, and family.
