City Council Delays
 Action on Meadows
 Development Area

The Carbondale City Council Monday night again delayed a decision on the Lewis Park Meadows development project for another week.

The approval for the project has hung fire for about five weeks because of the Plan Commission's earlier recommendation that the commercial area of the development be increased from seven acres to 15.

Mayor Keene said "concerning the severe weather, of course."

The mayor added two more members to his Liquor Control Advisory Board Monday night. David Luck, 607 Glenview Dr., and Dr. Donald Darling, 1701 W. Freeman, will serve with previously appointed Ward Morton, Charles Murden and Robert Stalls.

The project consists of 102 acres immediately west of Wall Street at Grand. It was originally planned that the area would serve 3,000 students and 800 families.

The council also voted to eliminate organized soliciting for charitable contributions in city streets. The regulation will go into effect June 1, and will limit solicitors to sidewalks.

The initial argument against an increase in commercial area was by Councilmen William Eaton and Frank Kirk stating that the area was not zoned for that much business, and that the Plan Commission had gone beyond its authority by increasing it.

The Mayor also issued a policy statement saying that the responsibility of "hiring and firing" of city employees will be solely the responsibility of the City Manager. Mayor Keene said no personnel changes were anticipated except as the City Manager sees fit on a day to day basis.

However, it was revealed Monday night that the land presently is not zoned because of the fact that the enacting clause was omitted in the original zoning ordinance.

Councilman William Eaton was reelected Mayor Pro Tem for another term.

The Council deferred final decision until the next meeting in the hope that by then the members will have received more detailed information concerning the commercial area of the development.

At the end of the meeting, Councilman Nelson expressed concern that the SIU Student Government did not have a regular representative to the City Council and hoped that one would be appointed in the near future.

In other action, the council voted to eliminate parking along Chautauqua Ave. east of Oakland, and along the north-south one way couple. Along the couple, the only parking allowed will be on the east side of south Illinois Ave., and the west side of University St.

VTI Offers
 Cosmetology Treatments

Cosmetology students at VTI are offering special student rates on beauty treatments "for men only," every Tuesday from 8 a.m. until noon, and from 1 to 5 p.m.

Services, performed by students under clinic-instructor supervision, include facials, scalp and dandruff treatments, shampoos, manicures, lash and brow tinting, hair tinting, hair straightening and permanent waving.

Mrs. Gladys Blanton, faculty chairman, said appointments are not necessary, but may be obtained by calling the Department of Cosmetology at VTI, extension 56.

Haircuts cannot be obtained under this program, she said. Students rates can be obtained by calling the Department of Cosmetology.

SIU Marathon Runners Relay
 Vietnam Message to St. Louis

Almost 100 well wishers honked or yelled, "good luck" to the SIU students of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity who ran relay-style from the Spring Festival to KXOK radio station in St. Louis Friday supporting the GIs in Vietnam, according to Bob Mills, in charge of the arrangements.

The well-wishers were seen all the way along the 107-mile route and no counter demonstrations were experienced, Mills said. About 80 per cent of the fraternity ran and "not one man stopped running along the entire trip," Mills remarked.

A scroll was passed from one runner to another. The scroll which was read over the air upon arrival at the station was a statement of support for the fighting men in Vietnam.

The runners left the Spring Festival midway at the SIU Arena in Carbondale at 10 p.m. When they arrived, they were given a police escort through the city to the Radio Park building.

Each of more than 40 men ran for a minimum of two miles at a time. The remaining 25 men arrived two hours ahead of time and ran en masse the last one-half mile, Mills reported.

A Carbondale auto dealer donated two tanks of gasoline and a book supply store donated the use of its van.

Sterling Professor Emeritus

Yale Professor to Give Lecture Series

Brand Blandshard, Sterling Professor Emeritus of Philosophy at Yale, will give a series of lectures at SIU.

Sponsored by the Department of Philosophy, Blandshard will speak on "Conformity and the Individual Mind" at a public lecture in the Home Economics Lounge at 8 p.m. May 19.

The former chairman of Yale's philosophy department will be a speaker at the Phi Beta Kappa annual banquet on the SIU campus Monday.

He will appear in a Department of Philosophy meeting in the Home Economics Building Room 208 at 4 p.m. May 18, to discuss "The Meaning of Rationalism."

Blandshard, known among scholars as "the philosopher's philosopher," served on the Yale faculty from 1945 until his retirement at the age of 68 in 1961. He has held the rank of Sterling Professor Emeritus in his retirement.

A philosopher and social commentator, Blandshard has been in demand to lecture at colleges and universities and to participate in scholarly meetings since his retirement. His two-volume book, "The Nature of Thought," published in 1940 was rated by a philosophical association committee as one of the ten outstanding works on philosophy produced in this country since 1900.

Born in Ohio, he received a B.A. degree from the University of Michigan in 1914. He took his M.A. degree at Columbia University in 1918, a bachelor of science degree from Oxford University in 1920 and his Ph.D. degree from Harvard University in 1921.

Letter to the Editor

Crude Language

To the editor: Probably the "speak out" which attracted the greatest number of students was the one concerned with civil rights. I feel, strongly, that activities which encourage public discussion of students' opinions are an integral part of a good education and university.

I was most disappointed, however, to hear a substantial number of students with vocabulary problems. When emotional, it seems that many students had a difficult time using other than the most base language (four letter words) as a mode of expression. In light of the fact that the crowd was sexually hetogenous, such language was unnecessary and indecent.

This type of language is embarrassing to people in the crowd, poorly represents the ability of S.I.U. students to express themselves, and casts a bad light on the group represented by the speaker.

The value of such performances is questionable and definitely detrimental to the free speech rights of students. Robert Wildrick

Act Protested

To the editor: In the May 1st edition of the Southern Illinoisian there appeared an article stating that the cashier of the Hub Cafe in downtown Carbondale refused to allow a white girl and a Negro boy to drink from the same glass through two separate straws. Only the incident was reported, no explanation was given for the action. Apparently, integrated soda sipping is forbidden in this public restaurant. As insignificant an issue as it may at first seem, it is nonetheless an overt violation of civil rights to say nothing of basic human rights. Once again, color has become the distinguishing mark determining what actions may or may not be participated in between two human beings. The state of Illinois has not seen fit to forbid miscegenation in marriage, but this citizen clearly condemns and forbids integrated soda sipping.

If the action on the part of the cashier is taken simply as another of many attempts to discourage Negro patronage, anyone can discourage what they please. But if the action is intended as an overt act forbidding Negroes from drinking from the same glass as whites, if the two consenting parties chose to do so, then it is a direct violation of rights. To register a complaint, that she does not approve of integrated sipping, is the prerogative of the cashier, but to forbid such an act in a public place is simply a violation of civil rights. Surely this sort of thing cannot be tolerated in this community.

Peter Christian Olsen

Freedom Is ...

There is one thing we'll say for the college year soon to end. It has helped us to define what's meant by academic freedom. In part, at least, academic freedom is the freedom to shout down anyone who may harbor some idea with which they are not in total agreement.

SIU Facility Would Help, Not Hinder Carbondale

For too many years, Southern Illinois has suffered under provincial attitudes toward growth and expansion.

These attitudes prevail in the opposition to the proposed University Center facilities. The fear is that the continuing education center will draw off revenues from existing area hotels and motels and ultimately drive them to the wall.

This is hardly the case. If these operations are as marginal as has been claimed, we fail to see why some are planning expansion and other national chains are considering moving in.

Conventioning has become a billion dollar business and its success or failure in a particular area depends upon the lodging and eating facilities available.

SIU would naturally attract a larger share of the convention trade if there were adequate facilities in Carbondale.

Obviously a University operated facility could not possibly absorb all of the people attending at any one time, and the result would be an overflow into area establishments.

This has been proven time and again in other university towns throughout the country. The addition of a campus center has served to attract more business than normally would have come in.

SIU and Carbondale have lost at least one convention in the past year due to a lack of facilities.

The Indiana University at Bloomington has a hotel with about 400 rooms and yet local motels have enjoyed continued prosperity.

South of Champaign, downstate Illinois has no area that could boast facilities sufficient to actively seek convention trade as a continuing source of income. Carbondale and SIU should quickly fill this vacuum by turning aside from the status quo and making this area a "downstate convention center."

A 100-room continuing education center on campus would provide a nucleus for this trade, and if any private operation is so marginal that an added 100 beds would drive it out of business today, then the failure is for reasons other than the added competition.

OEA Deserves Good Backing

Tighter administrative controls over anti-poverty programs are being proposed in Congress this year in an attempt to answer critics who have their knives sharpened to trim already inadequate funds and to even dismember the Office of Economic Opportunity and transfer its programs to other federal departments.

OEO faces an uphill fight this year. The preceding Congress, far more friendly to OEO's goals than this one, trimmed the current budget to $1.6 billion. Many promising programs had to be drastically curtailed and others dropped. President Johnson has requested $2.06 billion for the fiscal year starting July 1 from a Congress far more conservative and less sympathetic.

There have been mistakes made and there have been abuses and loose spending. The new laws proposed should remedy these situations. Many of the reforms requested already are being carried out administratively.

But the good works done so far through OEO far outnumber and outweigh the shortcomings. This is a demonstrable fact that should be remembered when partisan politicians attempt to ballyhoo the past weaknesses.

Vietnam No-Man's Land Would Curtail Fighting

We note with satisfaction the growing attention being given proposals for the creation of a swath between North and South Vietnam. One such proposal would have the military carve out a broad band perhaps 150 to 200 miles in length, in which all vegetation would be killed, the land sown with mines, and the strip garrisoned. The other proposal calls upon both sides to withdraw their forces 10 miles back from the present demilitarized border. This would create a 26-mile-deep no man's land between North and South Vietnam.

There is an apparently growing feeling that some means must be found to seal off the infiltration routes from the North southward. The creation of a mined and garrisoned belt would be an attempt to do this militarily. It would be an immensely difficult and costly operation, but it would have the advantage of extending right across Laos to the Thai border, thereby undergirding North Vietnam's main infiltration routes.

This plan has now won the powerful support of Montana's Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic Majority Leader. It has also been given a thrust with the present South Vietnamese efforts to lay out a defense barrier just south of the demilitarized zone. On the other hand, Pentagon doubts, centering around the size of the job and the number of men needed to garrison such a swath, have not yet been overcome.

The more limited proposal for a mutual drawback from the demilitarized zone has now been accepted by Washington, and is being proposed to Hanoi by its Canadian originators. This would not seal off the infiltration routes through Laos but it would reduce the danger and fighting along the 17th Parallel. —Christian Science Monitor

ABOUT 75 MILES OF PILING ARE BEING DRIVEN AT NEWPORT NEAR SAIGON AS PART OF U.S. CONSTRUCTION EFFORT.

Will Aid Future Economy

U.S. Construction Helps Vietnamese

(Editor's note: The U.S. is underwriting more than $1 billion worth of military and civilian construction in Vietnam. Most of the work is being supervised by the Navy's engineering arm. This is the first of a series of three stories on the massive program.)

By Seymour Francis
(Copley News Service)

SAIGON, South Vietnam—"The difficult," say the officers of the U.S. Navy Civil Engineer Corps, "we do immediately; the impossible takes a little longer."

They proved it in World War II and the Korean War when they and the Seabees, the fighting builders they command, joined the nation's invasion forces to build the multitude of wharves, docks, roads, supply depots and other accessories of war.

And they are proving it once more with a nearly $1 billion construction job in this war-shattered nation. The last "impossible" goal was set in January 1966: to reach a work-accomplished rate of $40 million a month by October of that year. The goal was reached a month ahead of time. The rate hit $41.4 million in September and climbed to a high of $51 million last January.

Meantime, the Seabee battalions accompanied the Marines ashore at Chu Lai, Da Nang and other spots to build the "quick and dirty" construction necessary to support the military operations. At the same time, the Seabees carried America's people-to-people program into the remote, undeveloped areas of South Vietnam and Thailand with civic action teams that teach the back country residents how to build and maintain the things their communities need.

The CEC is the officer corps of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NFEC) designated as the Department of Defense contract and construction agent for most of the building sponsored by U.S. military and other agencies in Southeast Asia.

In this capacity, NFEC is directing the development of deep draft ports, jet airfield complexes, roads, troop and refugee centers and civilian facilities such as hospitals and civic buildings of various types. One of them is the new U.S. Embassy building here.

Many of the CEC officers feel that the long-range socio-economic benefits of the U.S. construction program are being overlooked. They believe that many of the facilities they are building will provide a foundation for an exciting commercial breakout in Southeast Asia, once the current dispute is settled. This breakout, they believe, will raise the economic standards and improve living conditions for all Vietnamese.

Most of the construction in South Vietnam is being done under a Navy-supervised contract with the joint venture combine of Raymond International of New York; Morrison-Knudsen of Boise, Idaho; Brown & Root of Houston, Tex.; and J.A. Jones Construction Co. of Charlotte, N.C.

Known by its initials—RMK-BRJ—the combine is doing the work for a fixed base profit, under a cost-plus-award-fee contract of 1.7 per cent of the estimated cost. An additional 0.76 per cent of the estimated cost is possible, depending on the performance of the combine, which is judged on performance in areas that include quality of construction, cost reduction, maintenance of schedules and other factors.

Of the some $1 billion which NFEC is supervising, more than half is being funneled into the Saigon, Cam Ranh Bay and Da Nang areas, which hold promise of postwar commercial development that could equal or exceed that which has occurred in the last decade in Korea and Taiwan.

Generally speaking, the military installations included in the contract are temporary construction, built to austere specifications.

They include the "hooch-type" living quarters and aluminum matting for airstrips. By contrast, the permanent deep-water port and jet airfield complexes should prove to be multi-million-dollar assets for Vietnam's economy once the turmoil is calmed.

Sometimes overlooked, but of unknown potential, is the training of thousands of Vietnamese civilians to handle peacetime jobs ranging from tire repairman and lubrication specialists to such skilled trades as mechanics and operators of heavy construction equipment, computer programmers and operators, teachers and construction specialists. Such a broadened base of abilities, it is believed, will be a great advantage in the later commercial development of the country.

The construction buildup, now leveled off at a work-accomplished rate of about $40 million a month (or about $1.5 million a working day), is without precedent in U.S. construction history.

The story began in 1962, when NFEC (then the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks) assigned Raymond International and Morrison-Knudsen a $15 million contract to improve facilities for the Vietnamese air force. In the latter part of 1963, Raymond International and Morrison-Knudsen were awarded an additional $19 million construction contract.

And that was all until the spring of 1965 when, in accordance with newly developed U.S. policy to give added support to the Republic of Vietnam against its Communist enemies, American combat troops were sent it. At that time construction allocations jumped to about $155 million, with indications that this was a freshet before a flood of work.

With the buildup came a need to expand management and construction capability. So in August 1965, the firms of Brown & Root and J.A. Jones joined the combine. Since then, the overall contract in Vietnam has swollen to a funded total of about $1 billion, with completion of present projects scheduled for the fall of 1967. So far, the Navy-joint venture team is completing the projects ahead of schedule.

As the Department of Defense agent, the Naval Facilities Engineering Command is responsible for the design, plans, specifications, supervision and construction of all projects in the contract. Its CEC officers and civil service specialists guide and guard the integrity of the contract, assuring that allocated funds are spent legally, efficiently and economically in support of combat operations.

As the contractor element of the team, RMK-BRJ built its civilian work force to a peak, since trimmed for greater efficiency, of about 41,000 Vietnamese and 5,500 Koreans and Filipinos with about 4,000 Americans as foremen and supervisors.

Most of the Vietnamese had to be trained for their jobs so schools and training camps were established throughout the country. The workers were taught enough English to understand field instructions and read simple manuals, enough to converse with their American bosses, enough to know how to operate the more than $150 million worth of equipment that was poured into the country.

Employment has dropped somewhat as production goals were met. As the pace leveled off and in keeping with accepted management procedure, job rolls were trimmed. At last count, the joint venture was hiring about 32,600 Vietnamese, 5,100 Koreans and Filipinos and some 3,500 Americans skilled in construction trades.

Bullfight Interest Leads To Brassy Success

By Margaret Perez

He really got attached to the spirit of Mexican music where he was watching a bullfight once, and he's been trumpeting out the new jazzy, colorful sound ever since. He's Herb Alpert, founder and leader of the Tijuana Brass.

Interviewed before his Sunday night performance at the SIU Arena, Alpert looked somewhat like a tired English "Beatle"—Spanish style.

He wore an English-cut blue wool sport coat, gray hush puppies, dark socks and long sideburns. He was visibly tired, having performed the night before at the University of Iowa.

Alpert seems like a-much-too-modest young musician. One would never suspect that he recently received eight gold albums at a music festival in Sydney, Australia, and that three weeks ago national television broadcast his special program that is said to be the highest rated television special ever produced.

"We spent two and a half weeks shooting that special," Alpert said, "and it was about four months in the planning stage. The overnight rating of the program, I am told, was something like 58.4."

The figure Alpert quoted, in people-terms, represents a listening audience of about 60 million people, well over half of the TV watchers that night.

The young man and his group have been offered a stab at doing a television series next year. It also looks as if they will have an opportunity to sign a motion picture contract in the near future, Alpert said.

One thing Alpert does know for sure is that he will be going to Moscow in July for a film festival. Another thing he can be certain about is that he will make money whatever he does.

What makes this one-time jazz musician so successful? "I can't say that we were much of an overnight success," Alpert said. "We've been developing this new brass sound since 1962." Alpert, who has played the trumpet for 24 years, said he always wanted to be a jazz musician. His unique style of music is actually a blend of Mexican and American jazz. His first recording was "The Lonely Bull."

"It took me eight months to find my musicians," Alpert said. "I had to find musicians who could adapt themselves to play this new kind of music."

Although the members of his group have that Latin-American look about them, Alpert says that none of them are of real Mexican descent. He refers to them as the four lasagnas, three bagels and one American cheese.

"Perhaps the name of the group is a little misleading," Alpert said. "The music is not so Mexican as it may seem. My partner actually thought of the name of Tijuana Brass. We just wanted a name that people would remember."

There's little likelihood that music-lovers will very easily forget the name or the man.

It's Coming: SIU's Grass Bowl (for Teaching, That Is)

By Douglas Ray

When the landscaping project between Lawson Hall and Wham Education Building is completed, the campus will have another arena.

It will take the shape of a bowl and will be used for outdoor teaching, according to John Loneragan, associate university architect. Loneragan referred to the new teaching area as a grass bowl. "It will simply be a sunken area in the grass," Loneragan explained.

The seating capacity will be from 20 to 30 persons, Loneragan continued. The bowl will

Alternate Work Program Available To SIU Students

A representative from the Alton Box Board Co. of Alton will be on campus May 12 to interview students for participation in the cooperative education program.

Through this program the student has the opportunity to work for a term and go to school for a term on an alternating basis. Work duties are assigned in a field closely related to the student's academic major.

To qualify for this program, a student must have completed one year of college and be in good standing. Applicants will be selected from many academic areas.

Students who participate in this program earn approximately $100 a week while they work at the employment location. In addition to the Alton Box Board Co., opportunities to participate in a cooperative program are available at DuQuoin Packing Co., DuQuoin, Allis-Chalmers, Springfield, and Montgomery Ward in both Murphysboro and Mt. Vernon.

For further details, interested students should contact either Bruno W. Bierman or Ron Frazier at the Student Work Office.

Clothes Wanted For Area Needy

Children's clothes are being sought by the Jackson County Coordinating Agency (JCCA) for the War on Poverty.

Old clothes fitting children to age 15 are wanted. The clothes will be used for children of lower income bracket in the Carbondale and Murphysboro area.

The clothes are being collected at the 3rd floor of the city hall. However, by calling 7-2102, donors may have a field representative wearing a JCCA badge pick up the clothes.

Marketing Banquet Slated Wednesday

The American Marketing Association will hold its annual banquet Wednesday at the I.B.I. restaurant.

Today is the last day to purchase tickets for the banquet for guests, through the Department of Marketing.

allow teachers to take their classes outside in warm weather and will also be used for meetings and gatherings, Loneragan said. It will be located in front of the Wham Education Building, Loneragan said.

The evergreens presently being planted in this area will serve as a transition between Lawson Hall and Wham Education Building, Loneragan said.

At present the road is being removed and a sidewalk system is being installed. Loneragan said the sidewalks are being constructed to make it more convenient for students going to and from the classrooms. The sidewalks will also permit students in wheelchairs, and bicycle riders, to go to class conveniently, commented Loneragan.

Large sandstone rocks will be placed along the sidewalks to add beauty to the area, he added.

In approximately two months, the heat tunnel that presently runs inside the Wham Education Building will be moved outside along the landscaped area, Loneragan said.

The once-busy Grand Avenue will soon be the home of a new arena in a drift of evergreens and sidewalks.

Court Gives Girlie Books Free Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court gave "girlie" magazines and spicy paperbacks First Amendment free-speech protection from prosecution Monday.

In a 7-2 decision it threw out obscenity rulings against publishers and retailers of 10 magazines and two paperbacks.

"We have concluded, in short, that the distribution of the publications in each of these cases is protected by the First and 14th Amendments from governmental suppression, whether criminal or civil," the unsigned opinion said.

The ruling, in cases from Arkansas, Kentucky and New York, followed seven months of deliberation. Justices John M. Harlan, and Tom C. Clark dissented.

Meanwhile, on another controversial topic—dissent from U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war — the court voted 7-2 to leave standing the disorderly conduct convictions of 17 New Yorkers who participated in an antiwar demonstration in the Times Square area in midsummer 1964.

The dissenters, Justice William O. Douglas and Abe Fortas took strong exception to the majority's failure to state its views on the free-speech questions raised for the defendants by the New York Civil Liberties Union.

The court's ruling was a one-sentence, unsigned opinion that the appeal, heard last month, had been "improvidently granted" — in other words, that the case should never have been taken.

High Rate of Doctor - Suicides Attributed to Conflict of Roles

DETROIT (AP) — Doctors — the men who take the lives of others in their hands — too often do away with their own lives in one last bout with frustration and depression.

That was the finding of a study Monday that showed:

Psychiatrists are the most prone to suicide of all doctor specialty groups. The study said psychiatrists commit suicide at the rate of 70 per 100,000 per year.

Up to the age of 39, one out of four medical doctor deaths is a suicide, compared to less than one out of 10 in the comparable group in the general population.

The trouble, it seems, is a deep conflict between the role a doctor feels he must play, and the ultimate performance of that role, said Dr. Daniel DeSole and medical student Samuel Aronson.

In seven cases investigated more thoroughly, Dr. DeSole

Set at Warsaw Last December

Peace Probe Failure Disclosed; North Vietnamese Never Showed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson had a man in Warsaw early last December ready and waiting to open secret peace talks with a representative of North Vietnam who never showed up.

This peace probe failed. The reasons why are disputed between the U.S. and Polish governments. But the secret diplomacy which led to Warsaw produced the nearest approach yet to a U.S.-Communist statement on how the war might be settled.

The statement may yet play an important part in bringing the war to an end, if it is ever to end through negotiation, some high officials here believe.

The Warsaw maneuver, initiated and directed by Polish diplomats, had another result. Indirectly at least it led President Johnson to prohibit all U.S. bombing near the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi for more than four months.

North Vietnam was invited through Polish and other diplomatic channels to take some responsive step of de-escalation but never did so.

The story of this peace effort, from mid-November until two weeks ago when the bombs fell again at Hanoi, has been obtained from various official and diplomatic sources.

So far as official Washington is concerned, it can now be told because the episode has ended in failure to produce either peace talks or a scaling down of the war.

At the State Department, press officer Robert J. McCloskey said he had no comment on the story.

Johnson personally wrote a letter to President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

Government Gives $22 Million To Underdeveloped Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Education awarded $22 million in grants Monday to help underdeveloped colleges get on their academic feet. More than half the money goes to schools in 10 southern states.

The funds available under the 1965 Higher Education Act, will finance visiting scholars, added professors, special academic programs and student and faculty exchanges with nearby colleges and universities. About $6.6 million is earmarked for junior colleges.

"Grants under this program will assist in raising the academic quality of colleges with the desire and potential to make a substantial contribution to higher education," the Office of Education said, "but which for financial and other reasons are struggling for survival and are isolated from the main currents of academic life."

About $12.5 million was awarded to academic institutions in Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. In all, 325 grants were issued to schools in 46 states and the District of Columbia, including 104 to predominantly Negro colleges and junior colleges.

Last year, the program's first, more than $5 million was awarded.

A key feature of the program, officials said, is the establishment of 1,213 national teaching fellowships for the recipient colleges. The young teaching fellows — who are junior faculty members or qualified graduate students at established institutions — will spend up to two years instructing at the underdeveloped schools while the professors they replace get more graduate training. The fellowship pay $6,500 yearly.

Viet Cong Exaggerate U.S. Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Viet Cong leaders in South Vietnam informed Hanoi late last year that Communists troops killed 88,000 Americans during the first nine months of 1966, Pentagon sources disclosed Monday.

If that claim were correct, the Viet Cong would have wiped out well over one-fourth of the peak U.S. strength in Viet Nam in September, 311,000.

Defense figures for the same period, however, showed 3,558 American dead — and about 41,000 Communists killed.

This amazing disparity between what the Viet Cong claim to be achieving militarily in South Vietnam and what is actually happening was shown in a captured Communist document.

The paper, among many seized in the fighting, was a report on the war by the presidium of the Communist military organization in South Vietnam, the Central Office, South Vietnam.

Pentagon sources say it illustrates how the Viet Cong may be deceiving their leaders in Hanoi, as well as their troops, about the progress of the Communist effort to overthrow Saigon.

Officials feel the enemy's masking of the true military situation may be one reason the North Vietnamese continue pressing the war despite growing allied power. In short, they appear to be victims of their own lies.

U.S. officials last March spoke of how the Viet Cong were deliberately understanding their battle losses while exaggerating American casualties 20 to 40 times.

Greeks Ponder What's Next?

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The military junta in Greece appears to have run into an unforeseen development. It may not have expected its takeover to go so smoothly.

As a result, some diplomats believe, the officers in charge are being forced to face this critical question earlier than anticipated: What do they intend to do with the government they now rule?

The army established itself in power with remarkable speed after the April 21 coup. The coup itself was virtually bloodless. And there have been no violent or passive demonstrations since.

Greeks are waiting to see what the new government comes up with in the future.

It seems clear from the leaders' vague and sometimes contradictory statements that they simply do not yet know.

They have promised a "new Greek state," a revised constitution and a new government. They have spoken about strengthening the executive branch over the legislative.

Brig. Stylianos Patacos, the interior minister and one of the most powerful new leaders, indicated doubt to one group of foreign reporters as to whether there would be a parliament in the "new Greece," but to another group he said definitely there would be.

KA More Independent

College Papers Parallel Egyptian

The image of the Daily Egyptian is consistent with that of other college newspapers across the country, according to data collected for a survey by James B. Lemert, assistant professor in journalism.

Conducted on the Carbondale campus in February, 1966, the survey attempted to determine student communication patterns.

Results showed that the Egyptian and most college newspapers ran nearly parallel in all categories. KA was also considered in the study.

Students think the Egyptian is more honest, more competent, more credible and more timid than KA, the survey indicated. KA appeared to be more bold and more independent than the Egyptian, the survey indicated. Both were rated about equal in interest.

The Egyptian suffers increasing disenchantment as its readers advance in academic status. But there is a similar trend throughout the country, Lemert said.

Asked his opinion of the recent Coleman Report's criticism of the Daily Egyptian, Lemert said, "While I tend to agree with Coleman's conclusions about management of the Egyptian, I do not think his conclusions are supported by his data or mine."

And Golfballs?

World Trips, Apartments Appear On Wanted Lists of June Grads

By Nathan Jones

What would you pick for your graduation present, given any choice on earth? Or, if you were limited to the more practical range of $10 to $25, what would you want?

These questions were asked of approximately 20 prospective graduates and some of their answers, ranging from golf balls to a string of apartment buildings, follow.

Losing golf balls is one problem which David Parks wants to eliminate by getting plenty of them as his graduation present.

A recreation and outdoor education major, Parks said the large supply would be the perfect gift. Even with money no object, this graduating senior from Anna still just hoped for more golf balls.

Most of the approximately 20 seniors interviewed said they would like a trip around the world as a no-cost-ceiling present. One was Lester Callas, a Chicagoan who is majoring in physical education. But when asked for his choice of gift in the $10 to $25 range, Callas replied a nice double-breasted Alpaca midnight blue sweater, size large.

A third graduating senior interviewed was Rich Riano-shek, a senior majoring in business. He would like to start his business with a graduation present. His hope is for a string of apartment buildings on Lakeshore Drive in his home town of Chicago. Tickets on the front row at a rebuilt McCormick Place, to see Jack Jones is Riano-shek's idea of the perfect present in the $25 range.

For his graduation gift, Paul Dudle, a chemistry major, requests a restaurant and lounge. Knowledge of chemistry might help this resident of Chicago in preparing different foods and delicacies for it. In the more practical range of gifts, Dudle requested a used portable typewriter, preferably with elite type.

Practical minded Maria Hirniak would like a grant for graduate work in her major field of English. The senior from Chicago asked for one good evening dinner at Jacques in Chicago and afterwards a night club with a jazz band. She also added that she would like to eat and dance with "good" company.

Students Involved In Three-Vehicle Collision Saturday

An automobile and two motorcycles, all driven by SIU students, were involved in an accident Saturday evening at the intersection of Wall Street and Grand Avenue, police reported.

Gary L. Tension, a freshman from Marion, was the driver of the car, and John Pihl, a freshman from Harvard, operating a motorcycle, collided at the intersection. A second motorcycle, ridden by Allen M. Weintraub, a sophomore from Chicago, skidded into the Tension car, according to the report.

Carbondale police said Tension was going north and Pihl was heading south on Wall Street. The collision occurred when the motorcycle turned left and the Tension vehicle skidded on the wet pavement, police said.

Tom Kostka, 1206 Wall St., was treated at the Health Service and released. He was a passenger on Phil's vehicle, police said.

A Health Service spokesman said none of the drivers were listed as having received treatment.

SIU Student 'Keeps' Quarry for Divers

By Ken Fairman

Most SIU students will return to their usual summer job of salesman or construction worker. Not many will be able to boast of a different and interesting type of work, something out of the ordinary.

Jim Mittel, a junior from Chicago, can. He is the keeper of a quarry for scuba divers. He found this job several months ago and is looking forward to starting in June.

Mittel says a company was mining rock in Lemont, Ill., and uncovered a spring. The mining was stopped when the quarry, about 55 feet deep and 300 feet wide, filled with water. The owner of a scuba diving equipment shop in Chicago leased the quarry from the mining company, and soon after, Mittel was hired.

The quarry is perfect for scuba diving because the water is clear and deep, has mining tracks and a network of caves on the bottom, and even some old cars that were thrown in, he said. "Although," Mittel added, "there are a few water moccasins around."

Every so often a contest is held to see who is the first to retrieve various objects thrown to the bottom.

Mittel's job includes collecting fees at the gate, renting diving equipment, cleaning up the area, and other work "one does around a scuba diving quarry," he said.

Most important, Mittel says, "I count the people coming in and I count the people going out. If the number at the end of the day isn't the same, I get some scuba equipment and go down and look for them."

He said jokingly, "If they don't pay their fee at the gate, I go down and shut off their air."

Mittel is taking this different type of job because, he says, "I like to dive and I like to work outdoors, and the job is a good way to combine the two. The pay isn't so good, but how many people can say that they were the keeper of a quarry?"

Health Service

Students admitted to the health service over the weekend were: Linda Stallard, Woody Hall; Patricia Sue Brinker, 805 S. University; Dan Loren Seiters, Dunn Apts; and Kenneth Fisher, R.R. 1 Royalton. # Jim Schonhoff Wins Murray Invitational, Salukis Third

Jim Schonhoff won the individual medalist award at the Murray State Invitational Golf Tournament last weekend as he led the Salukis to third place in the 12-team meet. Schonhoff had a 54-hole total of 217, one over par. His scores for each 18 hole day were 72, 72 and 73 for what Coach Lynn Holder described as "great play."

As a result of his fine play in this tournament Schonhoff will take over the No. 1 position for the remainder of the season which will move Gary Robinson, the incumbent at the No. 1 slot, to No. 2 man.

Middle Tennessee State University won the three day tournament with a final total of 897-11 strokes ahead of the Salukis. A total of 72 golfers were entered in the meet from Murray State, Western Kentucky, Louisville, Missouri, Eastern Kentucky, Southwest Missouri, Illinois State, Austin Peay State, Lincoln University and SIU.

The weather for the tournament was cloudy for the first two days and on the last day of the tournament play was slowed by rain.

Six Salukis competed in the Invitational. Besides Schonhoff and Robinson, Steve Heckel, Jack Downey, Dave Wargo and Denny Kortkamp entered the meet for Southern.

Heckel finished the meet with a total of 228, with round scores of 73, 78 and 77. Downey was the third lowest golfer for SIU in the meet with a total of 231. He had scores of 79, 76 and 76.

Robinson, the top Saluki golfer most of the season, fell to fourth best in the Murray meet. Robinson finished with a 232, with round scores of 79, 74 and 79.

Wargo came in with a 237, 83, 81 and 73. Kortkamp finished with a 242, with 18-hole totals of 84, 80 and 78.

The Salukis became progressively better as the tournament progressed at Kentucky Dam Village, Ky. The SIU golfers finished the first day with a total of 470, the second day with a total of 461 and the final day with a finishing round of 456.

The Saluki golfers will be at Washington of St. Louis for a dual meet today. Southern last met Washington April 24 when the Bears competed in a quadrangular meet at SIU, which the Salukis won.

Murray State-Southern Meet In Stadium Track Dual Today

Southern's track team is at home this afternoon against Murray State, in the last home dual meet of the season.

The Salukis were rained out of a Saturday dual match with the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

The Kansas rainout makes today's meet the first dual meet of the outdoor season for Coach Lew Hartzog's squad.

The weekend of inactivity gave some of the Salukis a chance to rest muscle pulls and recover from ill health.

But it also deprived them of precious experience and work just about a month away from four consecutive weekends which take them to Milwaukee for the Central Collegiate;

Albuquerque, N.M., for the USTFF Championships; Provo, Utah, for the NCAA championships; and a site to be determined for the AAU meet.

Hartzog has announced that he has signed four promising high school athletes to letters of intent. The four are David Bayloss and Bobby Morrow of East St. Louis, Dan Tindall of Princeton, N.J., and Steve Thomas of P.O.J.

Bayloss is a record discus thrower, Morrow a consistent 1:56 half-miler, Tindall the top high school javelin thrower in the country this season at 23'11" and Thomas a 1:55 half-miler.

Saluki Tennis Team Stops Wisconsin for 11th Straight

Wisconsin became the tennis Salukis' third Big Ten and 11th consecutive victim of the season as Southern dealt the badgers a 9-0 defeat Saturday at Madison.

The undefeated Salukis recorded their sixth shutout of the year as each man won in straight sets.

Jose Villarete, the No. 1 man, downed Dan Bleckinger 6-2, 6-4. Mike Sprengelmeyer defeated the No. 2 Badger, Skip Pilsburg, 6-2, 6-2. Al Pena beat Pug Schoen 7-5, 6-4; Johnny Yang defeated Jim Siegal 6-0, 6-2; Jay Maggioro beat Don Young 6-3, 6-1; and Jerry Garver downed Dick Rogness 7-5, 6-4.

The doubles team of Villarete and Sprengelmeyer bested Bleckinger and Pilsbury 9-7 and 6-4. Pena and Garver defeated Siegal and Rogness 6-4 and 6-4; Yang and Maggioro beat Young and Jeff Unger 6-1 and 6-3.

The Salukis are three victories away from a perfect campaign. They face Murray State at home Friday and take on Oklahoma Saturday.

Coach Dick LeFevre expects the Sooners to be probably the toughest match of the season. Southern defeated Oklahoma at the Oklahoma City Invitational April 15. The winning margin was one match, at 4-3.

Women Gymnasts Win AAU Meet

SIU's women gymnasts completed another undefeated season, their fifth in as many years of competition, Saturday night when they won the National AAU Women's Championship in Louisiana.

Coach Herb Vogel's team racked up its 42nd consecutive victory without defeat, since the team was formed.

Southern copped the team title with a 29.5 score, 14.5 points ahead of runner-up Centenary College.

A unique scoring system produced only two teams which could score in the two-day meet. In order to gain credit for any team points a squad had to place at least two girls among the top six in one event. Therefore, a team could come up with several winners or high finishers, but unless they had two girls qualifying in any of these events they received no team credit.

Judy Willis and Nancy Smith, Southern's two top trampolinists, placed one-two in trampoline competition to gain places on the United States World Games team, which will go to London in June for the international meet.

Miss Willis scored 15.5 of SIU's team points. She was followed by Donna Schaezner with nine points and Miss Smith with 5 points.

Miss Willis took firsts in trampoline and tumbling, and second in vaulting. Miss Schaezner took second in tumbling, fourth in vaulting and floor exercise and sixth in all-around.

Carolyn Hacker was the winner of the all-around competition.

Vogel said the meet was extremely close throughout due to some failures on Southern's part in the balance beam.

"We had five girls within scoring range for the all-around competition after the Vogel said, "Joanne Hoshimoto turned in a fine job for us, but just fell down in one event, beam. She has progressed from 17th in all-around last year to seventh this year.

"Linda Scott is our best performer on beam, but her nose injury prior to the meet kept her out of practice for a couple of days. She did a good job elsewhere and just missed qualification for the Pan American Games trials."

Vogel also pointed out that Sue Rogers and Mary Ellen Toth both had several good events. Misses Rogers, Toth, Hoshimoto and Schaezner all qualified for the final Pan Am trials in Minneapolis in June and a possible trip to Winnipeg, Canada, in July.

Gail Daley will attempt to qualify for the Canadian team in June also.

Miss Hoshimoto's seventh place in all-around was one-tenth of a point behind Miss Schaezner and both were four-tenths out of fourth place.

The meet was probably the toughest for Vogel and SIU's collegiate champs in a long time. They had to leave Miss Daley at home with a bad knee, Miss Schaezner practiced for several weeks with a pulled muscle, Miss Toth missed several practices with an infected tooth and Miss Scott broke her nose and blackened both eyes a week before the meet.

But once again, when the scores were totalled Southern stood at the top of the United States in women's gymnastics, something which is becoming more habit forming than a smoking banana peels.

compulsory routine, but the kids had trouble in the optional routines on the beam," Vogel said.

He pointed to not enough polish on compulsory routines in the other events as another factor in the closeness of score.

However, Vogel was not one to deemphasize his team's performance and accomplishment.

Comment Withheld

On Illini Probation

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. David D. Henry, University of Illinois president, withheld comment Monday on NCAA action placing the university on two years probation.

The ruling Sunday cut off the Illini from any Rose Bowl participation or NCAA basketball playoffs and from football games on TV for two years after this fall's schedule.

Dr. Henry's office in Champaign said, "there will be no immediate statement," indicating there may be one later in the week.

Dr. Henry led Illinoians' fight to retain Coaches Pete Elliott, Harry Combes and Howard Braun. They finally were forced to resign under Big Ten edict in the slush fund recruiting shakeup.

Jim Valek replaced Elliott and Harry Schmidt succeeded Combes as head football and basketball coach, respectively. "I thought the university's action and the action of the Big Ten had cleared this thing up," said Gene Vance, the Illini's new athletic director, from Champaign. "I thought the NCAA perhaps would give us a one-year probation and suspend it."
