Athletics recruiting for top programs

By Jackie Konczuk

Staff Writer

The football program is in a crunch in intercollegiate athletics this year. It's facing a tight budget, with recruiting budgets slashed to as much as $33,000 from last year. Men's Athletics Director Gale Sayers has disclosed the football recruiting staff received about $54,075 for recruiting, compared to the estimated $107,325 coaches received last year, according to budget figures released by Sayers.

The Illinois state president for university relations, said in March that real deficits in the athletics department this year have been forestalled by trimming recruiting budgets, long distance phone calls, equipment purchases, and some personnel. Exact budget figures will not be available until June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Mace said last November the athletics budget was $340,888, a projected $361,830 deficit. A major cutback in men's athletics was recruiting, according to Sayers.

The reduction in recruiting budgets in SIU-C's top revenue-producing sports, football and basketball, were required, he explained, from the exigency. Football recruiting was cut from last year's $52,000 to $26,000 this year, and basketball from $26,000 to $15,000 for this year, Sayers said.

Renters urged to read leases carefully

By Karen Galle
Staff Writer

Looking for a place to live this summer? Or do you need an advertisement for housing, but a reminder that renting a new home, and the responsibilities that come with it, means signing a new lease. Here are a few points students should watch out for when signing the dotted line from John Vow. Cardenale's code enforcement director, and Esther Pratt of University of Illinois' Tenants Union.

First, read the lease before signing it. Each prospective tenant should read the lease and understand its provisions and stipulations. If something is unclear, ask the landlord or contact the Students' Attorney.

Some landlords know they are violating zoning laws, but protect themselves by accepting rent payments from only two tenants. You said students should first ask their landlords how the property is zoned, and if the landlord doesn't know, they should contact Code Enforcement and the city planning department.

Make sure the lease includes a clause that says the landlord must maintain the premises and perform repairs. Esther Pratt of University of Illinois' Tenants Union said, "Beyond taking out the garbage, everything that needs to be done around the house, such as cutting the lawn, making repairs or replacing broken windows, should be written into the lease."

Watch for the term "waiver of notice on default clauses." Normally, if a tenant default on a rent payment, the landlord must give the tenant five days notice of demand of rent before terminating the lease or beginning eviction proceedings. A waiver of notice clause eliminates the five-day grace period so the landlord can terminate the lease the day after the rent is due.

Pratt said students should protest any point in a lease where they are waiving their rights as a tenant. Watch out for the term "cession of judgment." Pratt said it's "the most confusing" clause in a lease and it is illegal in most states. But it's legal in Illinois and technically, it means the lessee constitutes any attorney to appear in his behalf and confess judgment in favor of the lessor." Pratt said the clause means that in the case of a law suit between the landlord and the tenant, any attorney, including the lessor's attorney, may represent the tenant at court.

"Essentially, the clause means that your landlord's attorney could step in to represent you in court."

Watch for agreements within the lease that allow the landlord to terminate the lease or increase the rent within 30 days without cause.

Consumers' "Watch"

Check the zoning laws in the neighborhood before signing the lease. If the house is zoned a single-family dwelling, only one family plus one person unrelated to the family may reside there. Student tenants are often unaware that their house is zoned for a single family and landlords don't always inform them when they sign the lease, you said.

If a complaint is filed and an inspection reveals that more than two unrelated persons are living in the house, the students can be held responsible along with the landlord. You said.

Berger files motion to replace time in jail with public service

By Diana Penner
Staff Writer

Always for Joyce Berger Wednesday filed a motion for modification of the sentence given Berger, convicted of voluntary manslaughter for the August, 1980 shooting of her ex-husband.

Berger, 37, of Murphysboro, was sentenced to four years probation and ordered to spend eight hours in Jackson County jail every Saturday for 12 months.

In the motion, Berger's attorneys, Charles Grace and David Watt of Murphysboro, ask that public service be substituted for the jail time.

The sentence presents "a real danger to the psychological, emotional and physical well-being of the defendant," the motion states, and "the potential harm of the sentence to the defendant will substantially outweigh other alternatives, which are available to the Court."

The hearing on the motion is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Frid., in Williamson County Circuit Court in Marion before Judge George Groe, who presided at the trial.

Mrs. Berger was originally charged with murder for the shooting of her ex-husband, former Murphysboro Police Chief Tobias Berger. She was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter.

Mrs. Berger's attorneys tried to show that Mr. Berger felt her actions were necessary to defend herself. Mrs. Berger testified that her ex-husband, from whom she was divorced in June 1979, had threatened her and her children and had sustained her physically and emotionally.

In returning a voluntary manslaughter verdict, the jury determined that although Mrs. Berger thought her actions were justified, they were not under the law.

Mrs. Berger has five sons between the ages of nine and 18.

Fry to meet with police union to discuss salary increases

By Leanne Waxman
Staff Writer

The Carbondale Police Officer's Association recently voted to reject the city's final salary offer, according to Mayor Fry. Fry requested to meet with representatives from the union before an official move to arbitration was made. The city's offer was to go into effect April 30.

Fry has not been involved in negotiations for the new contract thus far. The new contract would have been effective April 30. Fry previously stated, "It is not the practice of the city council or myself to get involved in contract negotiations."

Two from Carbondale injured in nine-car Amtrak derailment

By Leanne Waxman Staff Writer

"Everything happened so fast. I didn't have any time to be afraid," said Carbondale resident Sammie Morris, a passenger on the Chicago-bound Amtrak train that jumped the tracks near Mattoon Wednesday morning in a crash that injured 50 people.

"After it happened, there were people all over the aisles. I had slid out of my seat and was on the floor myself," the 62-year-old widow said in a telephone interview from her hospital bed. Morris, who resides at 208 E. Oak St., said she was quickly taken from the scene and admitted to the hospital for treatment of back injuries. The Carbondale resident of 16 years was bound for Michigan to visit her sister who had been admitted to a hospital in Jackson.

"I've got to visit my sister but it'll probably be a good while before I get on another train," she said.

The New Orleans-to-Chicago passenger train was traveling between 80 and 85 miles per hour through countryside near Humboldt, which is about 15 miles northeast of Mattoon, when the train jumped the tracks at about 9:10 a.m., injuring about half of the 121 people on board.

Most of the people who were hurt received minor injuries and were treated at the Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center in Mattoon, the hospital's associate administrator, Patricia Jenkins said. Some were admitted but their injuries were not considered serious.

Although 14 people boarded in Carbondale, only two Carbondale residents were included on the injured list. The other was Mildred Shreff, 87, of 209 N. Poplar St., who was treated and released.

The Associated Press reported that nine of the 12 cars on the Panama Limited derailed, including a baggage car and two empty passenger cars that flipped over on their sides.

"We had to knock the window out to bring one lady out," said conductor Donald Mathews of Urbana. "Actually, we don't know what happened."

The speed limit on the portion of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks where the derailment occurred was 50 mph. The train was about two hours late when the accident occurred, Amtrak spokesman Jung Lee said.

"There was a big bump, I grabbed the guy next to me because we were rocking back and forth quite a bit," said Kathy Smith, 19, of Aurora, who was lying on the floor next to the windows. "There were a lot of people hurt and a lot of people screaming."

Passengers were taken off the train and many sat, wrapped in orange blankets, along U.S. 45 as nurses from a nearby nursing home examined them. Ambulances arrived about 15 minutes after the accident and began taking the injured to Mattoon.

Farmer John Bolin, who was working in a field next to the track, said he looked up and saw the train "throwing fire and there was dirt flying. They went off pretty smooth. I think they were pretty lucky... going that fast and the cars stayed upright."

Amtrak said several empty cars, including a privately owned business car, were on the train when it was returned to Chicago after an exhibition in New Orleans.

State & Nation

Senate ratifies Muskie's appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) The Senate on Wednesday voted to elevate one of its own, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine to be the nation's next secretary of state. The vote was 94-2.

The Republican minority joined Muskie's own Democrats in praising the former presidential contender and respected veteran of 22 Senate years.

More hostages moved from embassy

By The Associated Press

Militants were reported Wednesday to have moved a 12th group of American hostages from the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran to another city, and two Iranian leaders rejected a suggestion by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher that the freedom of the U.S. prisoners could come faster because of the commandeering of the Iranian hostages in London.

In Milan, Italy, Iranian parties urge Bush, Kennedy to quit

WASHINGTON (AP) Pressure was building Wednesday on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and George Bush from within their own parties to withdraw from the presidential race after the latest round of primaries saw them fall further behind President Carter and Ronald Reagan.

But both Kennedy and Bush vowed to continue their campaigns despite landslide losses in Indiana, North Carolina and Tennessee.

The Democratic chairman in Texas and Indiana were recruiting other state party chairmen to join in sending a telegram to Kennedy urging him "not to continue the futility of his campaign agaist Carter."

On the Republican side, Reagan has the support of four of his former rivals for the nomination. Two of them, Sen. Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee and former Gov. John Connally of Texas, recently told a Republican "unity dinner" it was time to declare that the GOP presidential race was over and that Reagan was the winner.
Electoral process offers no choice

By Andrew Zinner
Staff Writer

Reluctantly, I now admit that our two major party presidential candidates are bound to be Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan. This is certainly not my choice. In fact, I wonder if there is nothing wrong with our electoral system.

Essentially, American voters will have a choice between a former Georgia governor-turned-incompetent president, and a former California governor with a mindset from the pre-1960's. Carter appears weak and vacillating, and is letting political ambition dictate his decision-making. Reagan's incredible statements indicate a general lack of a grasp of 1960's reality.

Sure, voters will have a third choice, but to state that he will run as an independent that truly rivaling either major party is laughable. But there are still the 19 or so candidates requiring the filing fees, grass roots organizations and attention that is given to much less qualified candidates.

The primary system was designed to focus attention on the leaders and send us an unbiased introduction into as many possibilities as possible. But the system is broken. Election officials do not have the foresight to create a workable system. Besides, primaries are held in only our two major parties, there is no place for a lone third-party hopeful. It is virtually impossible for such a candidate to capture the limelight or primary voters enjoy.

A common complaint among frustrated voters is that "both choices are the same. There are no distinct political differences."

This is because there is no room for a candidate with "different, practical ideas.

Another drastic problem is the inability of many qualified candidates. Another, the national recognition and consensus of support needed to capture the presidency. Christianity founded in Jesus

Commentary

I would like to comment on a letter published dated April 23. It stated that the Bible was not the only accurate source of prophecy and then posed the question of the possibility of a God who has spoken through various prophets throughout history—many of whom are the originators of the different world religions. This would mean that Jesus, Mohammed, Buddha and others actually worshipped and represented the same supreme being.

I would like to point out, however, that Christianity is founded in the person of Jesus Christ. Jesus is the only man to claim to be the actual son of God, and in fact made reference to being the son of God. He went on to state that he was the only man whom for it could experience salvation: I am the way, the truth, and the life. No man comes to the Father but through me" (John 14:6). He later substantiated this claim through his death and resurrection. This alone makes him the only one who has made reference to being the son of God. The scripture goes on to state: "For there is One Lord, and One mediator also between God and men, the man Christ Jesus who gave himself a ransom for all" (1 Timothy 2:5-6).

The message of the various prophets throughout the old testament found it's culmination in the person of Jesus. Through whom God has provided a way by which man can have direct communication with the sole creator. Therefore, to categorize Christianity with other religions is also to deny it's founder and it's messiah, who is the Lord Jesus Christ, Senior, Physical Education

(Perhaps the person who wrote this letter was simplyshoot e's about their religious beliefs, or they are not familiar with their religious beliefs, or they are not familiar with the teachings of Jesus Christ.)

Students rights violated

The following letter is in response to the recent arrest of a "backyard party."

Come on kids, wake up! Ten years ago they were busting our town because we didn't want to fight in a war in Vietnam. Today, they are doing the same thing because we want to drink at our friends' parties when we want to.

The town bars aren't making enough money. Is it fair to be sprayed with mace and published because we want to have an alternative to The Strip's "entertainments?"

Last week students' rights were violated. What will happen next week? Are we going to let it lying down? - Kevin Wiley, senior, Administration of Justice

Ramones are intense and powerful in electrifying ballroom jam session

By Ken Mac Garrigle

Staff Writer

It was 11:20 p.m. Carbondale time and the crowd was already in an ecstatic state of euphoria. Hot Steaming. They were in pain. This crowd was intense. One could feel the anticipation in the air.

The lights went down. A dramatic drum beat began and there they were, the Gods of the Sea Wave—the Ramones. They took the stage and the crowd went wild. And for the next hour and 15 minutes the Ramones would rock, rock, and roll this college city like it hasn’t been rocked since Bruce Springsteen shook the rafters of the Arena.

The Ramones hit the stage fast and immediately launched into three of their classics—"Blitzkreig Bop," "Teenage Lobotomy," and "Rockaway Beach." The Ramones single was to crack the Top 100. "Rockaway Beach" They paused for about five seconds. Caught their breath. Then, "1-2-3-4..." They were off again, this time on a non-stop six song tangent of Ramones’ real-rock including "Rock ‘n Roll High School" and their new single "Do You Remember Rock ‘n Roll Radio?" Joey and Dee Dee Ramone got rid of their leather jackets and got ready for another music jam. By this time, the standing room only crowd was ecstatic. They packed around the stage like a line at the Bursar’s Office: like a girl’s behind in a tight pair of jeans. This crowd was ready. They were ready to rock, even if they could only see the Ramones from the waist up.

This line-of-sight problem came about because the concert had "festival seating." Festival seating means no sitting, just standing and bobbing up and down to see the group. This set-up turned some people off.

"Ah, you should have gotten right in front," said guitarist Johnny Ramone after the show. "You could only see the top of us. Yeah, cause I looked out there and it looked like a couple of people were having trouble seeing. But what can you do?""We saw them, though," lead singer Joey Ramone added. "Yeah, we saw them," Joey said. "We were watching all of them. They put on a good show. They were a good bunch. This one goes out to all you wild college girls out there. Joey informed the crowd, "It's called 'She's the One!'" What followed was a five song jam highlighted by the Ramones’ most famous rocker, the irresistible. "Sheena Is a Punk Rocker."

Stage the Ramones are about as tight as any band can be. Their costumes—T-shirt, leather jackets, ripped jeans, tennis shoes—camouflaged their appearance as something other than a garage band. The Ramones are not a garage band. They are a group that overpowers their audience with basic power chords, fun lyrics and a good, good beat. They never let up on these audience. They also possess unlimited onstage stamina and something many groups lack an ability to go all the way.

They seemed to say, "Here’s our music, hang on for the ride." This rock rollercoaster (Continued on Page 8)
Rising travel prices make hosteling a possible alternative this summer

By Robin Saponar Staff Writer

The rising prices of gasoline, food, and lodging may keep some students from traveling this summer. An alternative to this may be to leave one's car behind, travel on bicycle and stay in an American Youth Hostel.

The term 'hosteling' means traveling under your own power—biking, hiking, canoeing, skiing and horseback riding. Living and traveling in a spirit of fun and friendship and using youth hostels as overnight accommodations. A youth hostel provides for people on their travels a place to sleep, wash and eat. While a hotel segregates people, a youth hostel brings them together. It is a meeting place at which people of different nationality, social background and opinions can meet and come to know each other.

According to an AYH handbook, hostels are supervised by houseparents. The AYH is a non-profit, non-sectarian corporation organized "exclusively for charitable and educational purposes" and open to all travelers of all ages. They were established in the United States.

The Illinois AYH Council is located in Chicago. Lawrence Rohrer, a volunteer at the council, said the purpose of a hostel is "to have a good time." He said there are about 4,000 members of the council.

We are a bunch of pretty self-sufficient people doing what they want to do," Rohrer said. "A lot of people doing what they want to do.

For Rohrer this is canoeing, his "specialty." He has run a few canoe trips and proudly claims that "we are the largest canoe club in Illinois.

"The charge for accommodation is kept to the minimum consistent with adequate standards. For this reason simplicity is the rule. There are no servants and visitors normally share in the domestic duties in the hostel. Beds are equipped only with mattress and blankets. Furnishing is simple, though it may be in good taste, according to an AYH booklet.

"In order to exercise some control over the use of hostels, admission is restricted to holders of a membership card. But a card can be obtained for a very modest charge according to age. Introductory membership cards are available for 'first time visitors' who want to try out the experience before purchasing the regular membership.

In 1933, Isabel and Monroe Smith took a group of students to Europe. They heard about hostels while they were there. Seventeen countries were members of the International Youth Hostel Federation at that time. In the summer of 1934 the Smiths attended the International Conference in London and the AYH was recognized as the 18th member of the IYHF. There are 50 countries in the IYHF today.

The first hostel in America was opened in Northfield, Mass. on Dec. 27, 1934. The hostel was situated in a barn and carriage shed.

Membership in AYH has increased from 57,000 in 1970 to over 62,000 in 1979. The number of people staying in hostels increased from 72,000 in 1970 to 220,000 in 1978. Hostels are located in 36 states.
Marines to assist guardsmen keeping order in Cuban camps

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - U.S. Marines were called in Wednesday to keep Cuban immigrants from taking more space and food in a tightening tide that has brought thousands of "Flotilla" refugees to the United States.

Immigration officials processed 400 refugees Tuesday, the third straight record day, plus another 2,000 by Wednesday afternoon. Under a state of emergency declared by President Carter, 500 Marines were sent by the Pentagon to assist 700 Florida National Guardsmen trying to keep order in the refugee camps.

Gen. K.C. Bullard, guard commander, said the state troops would remain in the area temporarily to "insure an orderly transition."

Meanwhile, he said, officials were seeking additional holding areas for the refugees who have been crossing the 90-mile Florida Straits for 2 weeks. One abandoned Navy air hangar housed some 3,000 refugees. About 5,000 have been taken to a tent city at Eglin Air Force Base in the Florida Panhandle.

Meanwhile, the office of Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt of Arkansas said the White House planned to send some refugees to Fort Chaffee Army Reserve base near Fort Smith. The base was used for Vietnamese refugees in 1975.

At Key West, facilities were packed and sometimes so short of food that refugees received only a single meal a day.

Arguments broke out when cuts and food ran short at the hangsar.

"It was terrible over there, just chaos," said Carlos Pach, a paramedic who spent the night trying to calm refugees and treating them for sunburn. "These people are coming over here and being put back into a prison."

Cuban community leaders who have been coordinating donation drives said supplies for the refugee centers were running critically low.

Refugee Cubans arriving Wednesday were given a meager meal of one ham sandwich, two small canned sausages, orange juice and dry sugar-coated cereal without milk.

"All of our food has been coming from private donations," said volunteer worker Anne Hernandez. "These people have given until they can't give any more."

Arturo Cobo, a local cooperator said the American Red Cross was buying new supplies of food and that he had been assured federal government supplies were on the way. "The fed is here coming, I know, but it is very slow," Cobo said.

Alphonso, a paramedic with the Federal Emergency Management Agency, said Washington's planning efforts had been hampered.

Ramon's explosive sound rocks fans at jam session

Guitarist Johnny was a popular student musician. He flanked the right side of the stage, dipped, bobbed, weaved and wiggled to a low hanging guitar. The intensity on his face was incredible. He's either a great actor or a driven musician. Perhaps both.

On drums, Marky Ramone was intense as well, not going through the motions in any way. Every beat, every cymbal crash, seemed to have purpose.

Lead singer Joey firmly planted himself in the middle of the stage and rarely moved. Bassist Dee Dee did some moving through. He played to the crowd. Moving up close to the audience all through the show, he'd smile, wave, point and have a good time — not your stereotypical bored bass player.

"1-2-3-4!" Another song, another trip down memory lane with the Ramones. The Ramones played an equal dosage of songs from each of their six albums. The final count was 30 songs altogether, including two encore numbers.

The two encore numbers were unique as well. Rather than play one song and then split, the Ramones played three songs during each encore. They closed the show with "We're a Happy Family."

House approves $611.8 billion balanced budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House on Wednesday approved a $611.8 billion 1981 spending plan that projects the first balanced federal budget in 12 years.

The budget, approved on a 255-193 vote, drew most of its support from Democrats. It comes at a time of increasing concern that a severe recession could make balancing the 1981 budget impossible.

The House spending plan, which covers the 12-month period starting Oct. 1, must still be reconciled with a Senate budget package currently being drafted.

Last March, President Carter called for a balanced 1981 budget as part of his anti-inflation strategy. However, most economists believe eliminating the deficit will have only a negligible impact on inflation.

Rep. Delbert Latta of Ohio, ranking Republican on the Budget Committee, urged his GOP colleagues to abandon their pride and vote for the principle of a balanced budget even though domestic spending was higher than they would like.

"For budget," said Latta, "we will be supporting the Federal Emergency Management Agency, said Washington's planning efforts have been hampered.
State plane costs ‘4 times more’ to return officials from Florida

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Taxpayers paid $1,790 for a state airplane to return Corrections Director Gayle M. Fransen and two other officials to Illinois from Florida, though a commercial flight would have cost substantially less, a newspaper group reported.

Lee Enterprises Inc., publisher of four Illinois newspapers, said the state Department of Transportation computed the cost of using the state plane at $1,790, about four times what it would have cost the three officials to return by a commercial flight.

The story said that Fransen summoned the aircraft after the end of a seminar on hostages in late April. Fransen and several other Illinois officials have become embroiled in a controversy over whether they skipped much of the seminar work, though they were sent at taxpayer expense.

Frank Bolz, the New York Police Department official who conducted the seminar, has said he refused to give certificates for completion of the course to Fransen and four other state corrections officials.

Bolz said the Illinois officials missed too much of the seminar to qualify for the certificates.

Lee Enterprises quoted him as saying: “I honestly thought that it was cheaper than flying commercial and I didn’t check. I also knew it was faster, and we had been away from our families for four days. “When we heard what it cost, Mike Lane and I both couldn’t believe it,” said Fransen.

This tape is excerpts from various concerts and in-studio footage of “Genisis.” The songs are from their “Lamb Lies Down on Broadway” tour.

Economists say inflation fears may be cause of rising prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Undergoing a recession without coring the causes is akin tohaving the surgeon decide, after he had cut you up, that he’d take a chance and not remove the tumor after all.

The equivalent is the warming now broadcast by economists who fear that if we fail to correct some obvious problems, serious ailments during the recession we will condemn ourselves to a repeat performance.

Among the first to be listed is the psychology of inflation. If people continue to expect prices to rise, the economists declare, prices will rise because people’s actions will make them rise.

While consumers are often victimized by the poor decisions of those higher up, they do exert tremendous influences themselves. The past few years provide examples of how inflation fears induce more inflation.

People buy in advance of their needs in order to beat price increases. This puts added pressure on the marketplace and the availability of goods. Prices react upward.

They borrow more heavily, knowing that the dollars with which they repay will be cheaper dollars. The borrowed money may be channeled into purchases that otherwise might not be made. Again pressure on prices.

They cut their rate of savings, reasoning that money left unspent declines in value. This leaves less money available for lending on inflation-reducing, efficiency-producing capital spending projects.

Management and labor demand higher wages in anticipation of higher costs, feeding the upward spiral until it becomes a tornado.

Even if the consumer is afoot with confidence, however, he can’t do much about process if productivity doesn’t grow. If the efficiency of production falls, inflation ensues.

This lagging productivity is said by some to be the greatest challenge in U.S. history. Many observers also say it is the most ignored challenge. Factories are outdated by technological or environmental change. They must be updated.

The question now is whether the tumor is going to be treated, so long as the patient has been opened up. Or whether we’ll just sew him back up as he was before.

High school dropout rate

hits 50 percent in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — More than half the students in the city’s public high schools drop out before grade nine, a private study indicates.

The survey, conducted by the Chicago Public School Board, has been released in a report that shows the dropout rate among students in the ninth grade in September 1973, only 20,846 went to school. Of those, 11,400 or about 55 percent did not return to school.

The BGA also reported that Chicago’s high school dropout rate was 24 percent in 1970 and 16 percent in 1960. No other city was in the top six highest in the country.

In the study, those who had left said they had lost interest in school. Most of the sample had not been notified by the school board.

However, school officials haven’t applied for available state funds to attack the truancy problem, the BGA said.

The results of the six-month study were published in the May issue of The Chicago Reporter, a monthly investigative news service which focuses on racial issues in metropolitan Chicago.

The study said policies in the city’s schools actually promote poor attendance patterns among students. It said parents often are not notified that their children are not showing up for class, and students often are dropped from the school rolls without an attempt to remedy the situation, as required by state law.

Once a student is dropped, he finds it almost impossible to return to school, since the school board has dictated no procedure for him to do so, the study said.

Further, the investigation found that the problem is being compounded by sloppy recordkeeping, with many schools lacking an accurate count of the number of students enrolled, attending or cutting.

It said the few existing programs to bispot dropouts are being threatened by proposed Board of Education cuts.

The BGA made these recommendations to help alleviate the problem:

— Parents should be notified on the same day their child is absent.
— The board should prohibit the suspension of students who have been truant.
— The board should establish evaluation programs to see whether they are doing the job and how they could be improved.
— The board should create a committee to improve sloppy attendance recordkeeping.

Non-nuclear, non-coal energy shift rated top concern by task force

By David Christiansen

About 40 Southern Illinois citizens met recently to discuss their ideas of what the most critical issues facing Illinois' future will be and to prioritize those issues to the task force's final report. Moreno's talk was an agenda for action for the task force had established a major shift to non-nuclear, non-coal forms of energy. That interest received 35 points.

"Agricultural land use and urban sprawl," received 28 points. Twenty-five points went to "promoting alternative energy" and 24 went to "waste disposal and universal and preventative health care." Moreno summarized the two basic themes of the task force's report this week: Illinois' future prosperity depends on hard choices about the best use of its natural resources, and the state's government and its citizens must be better equipped to make those choices intelligently.

In the future, the state of Illinois is going to have to make some hard choices. "If a better future, Illinois must attract private investment in the State maintain older, established communities; restore our deteriorating transportation system; adjust to energy shortages, protect our farmland, preserve and enjoy Illinois' natural and cultural heritage; confront the problem of a growing "economic divide" and improve state government's capacity to make wise choices for the future."

Noah "Mike" Hier, a St. Louis County professor and close follower of the task force, said the citizens' list of important issues will be brought before the Illinois General Assembly and compared for similarities and differences with the task force's report.

Hostages tell of captivity during 6-day embassy takeover

LONDON (AP) — They sweated in stifling heat and slept on the floor. It was dark all the time, with curtains drawn and shutters closed. A terrorist nervously twirled a hand grenade around him. A police officer refused to take a bath in order to conceal a gun he had hidden under his uniform.

That is what life was like inside the Iranian Embassy while a gang of Iranian terrorists held it for ransom.

The Daily Mirror, a London paper, said all 26 hostages, embassy clerk Abbas Lavasan, 25, "brought death on himself."

Furious when his captors chalked "Dean to the Ayatollah" on a wall, the Mirror said, he ignored pleas from the other hostages and announced that he would rather be a martyr than stay silent. The terrorists finally led him to a basement and shot him, the newspaper said.

The decision to send commandos into the embassy came shortly after the terrorists pushed Lavasan's body out of the front door Monday. Police listed the death toll in the embassy siege at seven — five terrorists and two hostages. A sixth terrorist was in custody.

Three Britons — among the 26 hostages seized — said they tried to keep a stiff upper lip, but also were afraid.

"They were fantastic," said Ronald Morris, 40, a businessman at the embassy. "They would have shot everybody. I am lucky to be alive. I have seen some horrible things."

Another captive, British Broadcasting Corp. TV news producer Chris Cramer, first hostage to be released after he became ill, said:

The 19 remaining hostages freed when British commandos stormed the embassy were asked by police not to talk about certain aspects of the takeover.

Patron abuse alleged in two Chicago stores

(CHICAGO — Shoplifting suspects have been strip-searched, beaten and intimidated by security guards at two large Chicago department stores, a television investigative news team reported.

WMAQ-TV said that guards at Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Goldblatt's are guilty of a "pattern of abuse and humiliation."

Goldblatt's denied the allegations, and Sears said such incidents were infrequent.

The report cited a number of cases where customers were abused, then released by the stores with the explanation that it was a case of mistaken identity. It also detailed cases where customers were knocked to the floor, thrown against the wall, grabbed by the hair, and handcuffed and beaten.

The report said customers were intimidated into signing statements admitting shoplifting, adding that merchants sometimes were planted on unsuspecting shoppers and some female suspects were strip-searched.

A terrorist nervously other hostages told the Mirror said:

"They should have been stripped. I am afraid of them."

A former security guard at Goldblatt's said he saw another security guard grab a woman suspect about 60 years of age around the chest and carry her inside an office. There she was pushed down on her back by the guard and drugged by her collar up concrete steps.

By the time the woman had been pulled to the top of the steps, her skirt had come off. Milner said. Later, he said, guards found the woman had receipts for all her merchandise.

The report said some guards are told by supervisors not to give false testimony in court cases against those accused of shoplifting. The report was critical of recently revised state laws that give security guards more power that is used to detain and search suspects.

Goldblatt's denied the report, saying that "the allegations must be seen as being made by employees who were dismissed by Goldblatt's for good cause and who are obviously disgruntled about it.''

Sears said the report was misleading, saying it "leaves the impression that such incidents are frequent. They are not, at least not at Sears."

Illinois determine sentencing law still controversial after two years

By Jim O’Connell
Student Writer

The last time to only after heated debate, Illinois House Bill 1390 passed. However, the issue is still in agreement on what the bill did change or what it was supposed to change.

HB 1390, the Illinois determinate sentencing law outlines certain sentence ranges in which a defendant can be sentenced. The sentence is reduced one day for each day served, provided the convict has no disciplinary offenses. This bill also abolished the parole board, which prisoners and administrators criticized for its arbitrary decision-making and unpredictability.

The new law also maintains the Class X system which provides for longer sentences and more severe penalties for violent crimes. Illinois is the fourth state to pass determinate sentencing legislation, which some have termed a move to the right in American criminal justice. State Rep. L. Michael Getty, D-Oak Lawn, who supported the bill and member of the Illinois Criminal Sentencing Commission, said the new law was designed to "warehouse" violent criminals while providing for the alternative sentencing of nonviolent criminals through house detention, halfway houses, or work-release programs.

This bill, however, was opposed by the population of Illinois prison and also stop the sending of small-time criminals to prison. The Prison Review Board, which replaces the Parole Board, works to oversee the effectiveness of the new system instead of handling individual cases. It is designed to focus on the prevention of crime by providing for appeals through a second chance.

Judges are now given instructions detailing exactly what mitigating circumstances can affect their sentence determination. These include whether the defendant acted under strong provocation and whether the crime resulted from a situation which led to the crime are likely to recur again.

The new law is required under the law to submit a report specifying the factors that led to the decision of the sentence for each felony conviction.

Automatic appeals of sentences are effective, and reduced, court observers have reported Appellate courts are now authorized to increase or decrease the sentence for each case reviewed. This is supposed to reduce the number of appeals and thereby reduce the clogging of the court calendar.

Critics of the law say it places too much responsibility on the prosecuting attorneys while taking away the discretion of the judge.

Jackson County State’s Attorney Michael Schwartz agreed, but said he doesn’t mind the added responsibility.

“That’s what the citizens of this county pay for," Schwartz said. "Responsibilities are being changed to cases with increased penalties. The jury will be less likely to convict unless there is overwhelming evidence. Some state’s attorneys often reduce the charge rather than risk acquittal."

Schwartz said he believes the law has brought more consistent sentencing throughout the state, but “the law is a cop-out.”

Instead of removing the soft judges, we just legislate them into conformity," Schwartz said.

Most of those interviewed agree that despite the law’s good intentions, many areas, including Southern Illinois, do not have the manpower or facilities to effectively carry out the conditions of the alternative sentence.

"Rehabilitation has been all but forgotten," Schwartz said. "Punishment has become the most important element of the criminal justice system."

The governor said that when he signed the bill it would speed the trial process and keep violent criminals off the street longer. Kennedy, on the Senate floor said deterrence techniques would deter crime.

The outspoken Jackson County Circuit Judge Richard Richman couldn’t disagree more with the law. He said it was not designed to give judges more alternative sentences.

"It is merely a legislator’s law. It is a reaction to the public’s concern with rising crime," Richman said. "It won't deter crime because the length of the sentence has nothing to do with deterrence. Crime because nobody thinks they'll get caught."

Union County Judge William Louis agrees with Richman. He said he feels frustrated by the new law. Louis had an alternative plan that he said would have given judges more control of prisoners once they were out on parole.

"Keeping a long sentence over their heads would give the parolees a strong incentive to reform their behavior," Louis said. "But when I presented my plan to the board they just laughed."

Louis reiterated the need for more alternative sentencing facilities, but Southern Illinois Louis said that in his circuit, there are only probation officers for over 500 cases. This has been changed in part by a 300 percent increase in cases this year due to the breaking of a story. Louis agreed with the criticism that he's been bombarded with court system.

But Louis defends this aspect of the law, saying this “important step” should be well thought of.

"It basically a trade-off of power from the judicial branch to the corrections offices," Louis said. "It's the legislation that is trying to get the best of the two systems."

Savings, farm equipment focus of House approved tax breaks

By Terri Colby
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Tax breaks for people with bank savings and for purchasers of farmland were approved Wednesday by the Illinois House, despite the governor's warning he would veto such legislation.

But the House refused to pass a bill to reduce the state sales tax on grocery food from 3 to 2 percent, and eliminate entirely state and local sales taxes on medicines and medical supplies.

Gov. James R. Thompson has already indicated he would likely veto all tax relief legislation with the exception of a single penny cut in the sales tax on food and medicine, and a modest expansion in property tax rebates for the elderly.

Despite that, the House approved 106-37 legislation to exempt from the state income tax interest of up to $1,500 earned by senior citizens on savings deposits. The bill, which goes to the Senate, will cost the state between $6 million and $7 million annually, said Rep. Ralph Capolongo, D-Chicago, sponsor.

Opponents argued that the per cent of senior citizens don't have savings accounts anyhow, and that the Senate probably couldn't afford the measure.

But Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, said: "Help them save the little savings they have."

— The House passed 105-15 a bill to allow all taxpayers an income tax exemption for up to $3,000 interest earned on savings deposits. The bill would also exempt interest earned on bonds, mortgages and personal loans.

— A bill to phase out the state sales tax on farm machinery sales was approved 131-17 by the House and sent to the Senate. Two percent of the 4 percent state tax would be removed Jan. 1, 1981 and the final 2 percent on Jan. 1, 1983, said Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, sponsor.

Two filmmakers attempt to produce fully documented history of CIA

NEW YORK (AP) — Filmmakers on Francovich and Howard Dratch spent nearly five years making "On Company Business," a documentary about the Central Intelligence Agency.

We were not trying to be another "Seven Days," Dratch says, referring to the former two-hour ABC reporter who broke a number of stories on the CIA in the mid-1970s. "Our objective was a 30-year overview that would have a cumulative power unlike the immediate impact of a newspaper expose."

"Our approach was, let's sit back and look at the CIA in a careful, intelligent way."

Their product is a three-hour, three-part documentary to be aired by many stations in the Public Broadcasting Service network beginning Friday evening at 9 EDT. Subsequent installments follow on May 16 and 23.

As with most PBS programs, air date and time may vary.

Much of the motivation for the project came during the congressional inquiry into CIA activities that followed Watergate. The agency revealed for the first time—among other things—interference in the domestic affairs of other countries.

The two filmmakers conducted about 50 interviews with persons with first-hand knowledge of the agency and its business, and spent months looking at film in this country and abroad that would support and illustrate what they had learned.

"We were dealing with an opaque kind of subject," Dratch says, "and that compelled us to cross-reference anything one interviewee said that what the others said." "We felt a demand," says Francovich. "For being extraordinarily careful with the film. A lot of what we did not use in the final version was to document what we did use."

The documentary traces a history of U.S. foreign policy, with the CIA as the common thread, from the end of World War II, through the Marshall Plan and Truman Doctrine, the Korean War, the Cold War, the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, Vietnam, the coup in Chile and the revolution in Iran. In addition, the film are former CIA officers Philip Agee, Victor Marchetti, David Andes Phillips and John Stockwell.

Overlooked pain-reliever is found to be effective for menstrual pain

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A drug previously overlooked because it appeared too weak for severe pain has been found effective in relieving menstrual cramps worse than labor contractions, Dr. Roger P. Smith, a neurologist, reported at this week's meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, said in an interview that the drug has been used in the United States for about 18 years - but use for severe menstrual cramps began only within the last few years.

"It's a sort of a distant relative of aspirin, and the type of pain treatment is not like headache pain. It's so severe we never thought to use anything this mild. Most of these women were using narcotics in an attempt to get some kind of pain relief," he said.

Smith said he and his partner, Dr. J. Roger Powell, measured the pressure of the cramps and found as much as four times the amount during labor.

"Twice the pressure is not the same as twice the pain," he said. "It's like an applause meter. But there's no question that it works."

He said mefenamic acid won't be used in place of narcotics - but it reduces the amount of fluid flowing in body tissues. And he emphasized that pelvic pain is not necessarily caused by fluid flowing in body tissues. And he emphasized that pelvic pain is not necessarily caused by fluid flowing in body tissues.

"It isn't a cure-all. It's good for some people in certain situations," he said.

He said Ponsel tests about 90 minutes after a violent attack and must be repeated every four hours, but he is needing a related drug which takes a third the time to work and lasts twice as long.

Police arrest, defoliate man

MOUNT VERNON (AP) - The man who was thrown from a tree was found by police.

Mount Vernon police arrested a man with covered with leaves and 35-year-old John Francis Thompson, who was covered with leaves.

A police spokesman said the man had leaves stuck in his cap, his shoes and pockets, and probably to his face. Police defoliated the suspect and discovered he was slightly overweight. The man was only carrying a key which he had stuck in his pocket.

A sheriff's deputy took the man to a hospital on the other side of town, but the man discovered the hospital had lost his keys. The deputy returned the man to the courthouse square and got him served on the law for the rest of the night.

New cracks in I-24 bridge found as inspection continues

CHICAGO (AP) — Engineers are keeping a wary eye on the Span, the Interstate 24 bridge over the Ohio River near its Southern Illinois city.

The four-lane bridge, opened in 1974, closed Aug. 3 after routine inspection revealed 119 defective welds or cracks in the structure. At its peak the bridge carried an estimated 135,000 vehicles daily between Illinois and Kentucky.

Contractors have been taking core samples of the defects, which are being studied at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa.

Byrne asks Olympics be moved to Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Jane Byrne said Wednesday the city is weighing the possibility of bidding for the Winter Olympics in Chicago this summer.

She said representatives of the city were meeting with federal officials to discuss this possibility.

But her administration seemed to be following the lead of the U.S. Olympic Committee And the federal government, which was taking a wait-and-see attitude.

The mayor emphasized the city is only exploring the possibility of being host for an alternative to the Montreal Olympics that were boycotted by the United States because of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Mrs. Byrne said housing for athletes, including 6,500 athletes, was a factor in discussions.

She added that field and college sports facilities, could be used for the games.

O’Hare’s control malfunction is cause of two ‘lost’ planes

CHICAGO (AP) — An O’Hare International Airport control tower computer malfunction may have caused “lost seconds” during a shift change and operators lost track of two approaching passenger planes, the FAA said Wednesday.

The incident Tuesday afternoon involved an American Airlines DC-10 from a Swearingen turboprop aircraft of Brit Airways of Terre Haute, Ind.

A spokesperson for the FAA said airline employees reported the malfunction.

The planes were approaching the airport from the south, assigned to different runways. They remained on the proper descent paths and at no time were on a collision course, officials said.

At the closest, the planes were about 400 feet in the air, said Peter Salmon, deputy chief of the tower.

“Ft is not, at this point, considered a pilot's error and an emergency situation,” the FAA spokesman said. “It was something that shouldn’t happen.”

He added, “If the pilots of the planes consider it to be a near miss, they report it as a near miss. And they did not report it.”

She said the planes remained a considerable distance away from each other.

A spokesperson for American Airlines, Bob Raynawald, said, “I believe he is referring to a situation where there was a potential for a conflict. We have investigated that matter and there was no potential for a conflict.”

Raynawald said the FAA was not investigating the incident further.

The FAA spokesperson said of the Chicago computer, “anything man-made fails once in awhile. It’s not a regular occurrence by a long shot. It happens so infrequently, that we haven’t made a study of this sort of thing.”

City learns how traffic federally about the pondered average household daily to six; issued its 'Report on Television' including: AP set, 83 percent. By percent. and most popular type of program. decade ago: program: Minutes

That stuff we already knew. That, there are more adults and fewer kids in the average TV households than there were a decade ago.

By Peter J. Bower AP Television Writer

TOKYO — Nippon Co. has issued its 'Report on Television 1980' confirming most of the generally held notions about American television viewing, including:

— Nearly all American households own a TV set, 83 percent, and most own a color set, 83 percent.
— There are more adults and fewer kids in the average TV household than there were a decade ago.
— Viewers watch more TV on Sunday night, and more "Minutes" than any other program.
— Sitcoms are the most popular type of program.

What is news is that television usage took a large jump in quite a while last year, up from six hours and 13 minutes per average household daily to six hours and 26 minutes. "The most important season ever reported," Nielsen noted.

The average American is now spending more and more minutes daily in front of the tube. But there are more who pondered this new information, the more I was bothered by it. Not about the amount of time they are watching, but about the quality of what they are watching. Bright lights of city

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — City engineer Cleo Hunt is sure the city's new $100,000 federally funded computerized traffic signal system will speed travel and cut down some congestion learns how it works.

Your Health

Second-hand smoke can be dangerous too

Editor's note: Your Health appears monthly in the Daily Egyptian. If you have some questions you’d like to see answered here, send them to Your Health, Student Wellness Resources, 220 Horrigan Hall.

Q. I feel very uncomfortable when I am in a room where people are smoking tobacco. Can someone else's smoke hurt me? If so, what are my rights?

A. According to information released by the American Lung Association, there are the dangers of inhaling "second hand" smoke is valid. Exposure to the smoke that drifts off the burning end of a cigarette makes the non-smoker's heart beat faster, blood pressure increase, and blood carbon monoxide level rise. Second-hand smoke contains more cadmium (a toxic heavy metal), nicotine, and tar than the smoke inhaled directly by the smoker. That's perhaps most unfortunate is that the smoker chooses to inhale these pollutants—you have not.

About your rights: the Surgeon General has said, "Non-smokers have as much right to clean air and wholesome air as smokers have to their so-called right to smoke, which I would redefine as a so-called right to pollute."

Assist your right to breathe clean air, especially in hour own home, in cars, and in designated smoking areas. You will be doing yourself, other non-smokers, and the smoker a favor.

done in those 13 minutes now lost to television.

If television is getting 13 minutes more of us, something else is losing out. What? Hmm

It takes about 13 minutes to watch one inning of little league baseball—half an hour in the day. The play is especially inarticulate. I've been deprived of all the innings of little league every week, and the crowds seem as large as ever. It must be something else.

It takes about 13 minutes to bat a medium-size dog with anti- flea shampoo if you do it right, leaving the lather on for five minutes.

It takes approximately 13 minutes to explain to your wife why you can't vacation in August this year and another half hour to explain why you can't vacation ANYWHERE this year.

It takes 13 minutes or so to make a proper child-adog if you don't have to prepare the chili.

It takes 13 minutes—exactly—to mow one-half of a 30 by 50 foot lawn.

After just a few moments' rumination, a rather blank image appeared: dogs pitfalls scratching, marriage dissolving, child-dogs losing their standing in the national psyche, certains, lawyer growling wild in the streets as still baffle officials.

The system began experimental operations recently, and so far, 45 of the city's 100 traffic lights are hooked to a central computer. Traffic movements is shown on a large map in Hunt's office.

Badminton coach sees improvement of female athletes

Here, the coach says to the athlete that "he's not as good as he thinks he is." That's got to be used selectively, though," Blair said. "You really can crush an athlete's confidence and ruin the athlete's confidence in you.

Blair said another approach used selectively is encouragement. He said there are built-in limits to this, too.

"You can encourage a person to the point where he can't compete without you right there watching him or her," Blair said. "It becomes a habit for the athlete and they eventually be hated before every competition."

Blair said both methods are used by coaches in both men's and women's athletics, along with many other methods.

Baseball negotiations continue

by The Associated Press

Negotiations continued Wednesday in the baseball labor contract talks with the two sides concerning themselves with more minor issues while the major problems wait on the back burner.

"These are not headline issues, but they're still critical," said Ray Grevey, chief negotiator for management in the talks with the union.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the major league association, agreed with that point.

"We're reviewing quite a few issues which are important in and of themselves, but they would have to be characterized as not as important as others," said Miller. "They may not be of the same magnitude, but they take as much time up as the others."

On the agenda for Wednesday was the definition of exactly what collective bargaining agreements are. A conflict existed as to what is the major stumbling block in the talks so far.

The players have warned that if an agreement is not reached by May 22, they will strike the next day, halting the major league season Memorial Day weekend.

Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett said he hoped minor issue could be cleared this week with negotiations set for Wednesday and Thursday. That would permit the talks to focus on the major issues next week.

Tuesday's session was the first in almost three weeks, but there was no indication if it either side had changed its view of the issues during the recess. "Nothing has changed," said Moffett. "The positions of the two sides remain the same."

Miller disclosed a Monday meeting with Grevey at which the management negotiator's position remained solid. Grevey told Miller he had polled the clubs during the time the two sides were not meeting.

"Obviously, he was trying to impress me," said Miller. "He said they were solid except for two owners. I know which ones. He wasn't aware that I know which one and he's not aware of what else I know."
Salukis settle for twobin split as Illinois ends winning streak

By Mark Pahls
Staff Writer

The Saluki baseball team had its eight-game winning streak snapped Wednesday afternoon as it lost the first game of a doubleheader to the University of Illinois, 3-2, in the bottom of the seventh inning at Champ-

Paign.

SIU came back in the ninth inning, however, pounding out 12 hits, including three home runs, as it won 3-2, giving junior Chris Wicks his second win of the season.

Several SIU players led SIU's scoring attack in the second game, including senior Brandon Taylor, as he homered off Illinois pitcher Dan Hamstra.

The home runs were the third and fourth of the season for Wicks and junior Scott Hurley, who went 3-for-4 in the second game with four RBIs.

Junior Jam Aducu contributed to the home run festivities in the second game and hitting his ninth homer of the season. The blast gave Aducu 21 career round-tripper you might be surprised on the all-time SIU home run list behind Chuck Curry, 27.

The task Lawn native also had a double in the second game along with three RBIs.

SIU put together a balanced scoring attack throughout the game, scoring five runs in the first, seventh and eighth innings, as the Salukis' hitting performance was enhanced by the Illini's pitching staff.

Wicks' start was the first collegiate one for the Champpaign native, who had not seen action since the Salukas' Florida spring trip. Wicks only allowed the pitched 8 innings this season prior to the Illinois meeting.

While the Illini's bats only had five runs in the game, they were silent in the opener.

Junior Harold Brown suffered his third injury of the season despite a solid performance. The Salukas were leading, 2-1, going into the final inning when the Illini's Brian Rock tagged a runner home on a groundout.

The Salukas' bats came alive in the second inning with a three-run home run, doubling the second and senior Ken Solow singled in him in the second and fifth innings. Ono.

They had got to take into the off-season, as it lost the double-header to the Illini, 2-1, with Wicks getting the victory.

The Salukas will be competing against host University of Illinois at the State University, Northern Illinois University, Western Illinois University, Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, Western Illinois University and Illinois State University.

The Salukas finished second last year and were far behind the women's WIU. This year's situation should be very similar to last years according to Coach Claudia Blackman.

"Western has to be considered the team to beat," Blackman said. "What I'm hoping we can do is to win the conference."

If the Salukas upset the Westerwinds, it will be the first time since the 1976 season in which the women will have to cope with injuries. WIU will be without the services of Wendy Winters. Winters is one of Western's best sprinters, long jumpers and hurdlers.

Blackman said the Salukas have injuries to both athletes, one of whom will have to be off the track.

"Cindy Bukwaskas and Lois Ellis," the team's sprinter, ·"Tauseen will try to return to the SIU lineup after a two-week absence due to stress fractures in both feet.

"We are going to try to run her in one race at a time," Blackman said. "If her feet hold out for the 800-meter run, she'll run in the mile and two-mile relays."

The statistician said Bukwaskas, who hurt her shoulder throwing the javelin four weeks ago, is up to her pre-injury standards.

Wicks has been battling the flu, giving Illinois the victory.

Despite their injuries, the Salukas will have good chances in the open.

"Erackle, who holds the SIU school record in the discus and puts the shot, will miss the meet because of his disabled wrist," Blackman said.

"SIU must be considered the favorite in the distance and middle-distance races, Blackman said. "Lori Newling will compete in the mile, 3,000- and 5,000-meter runs and should be able to win all three.

In the 1,500-meter run, Cathy Chiarello has a very good chance of winning, Blackman said.

"She will be well-rested," Blackman said. "I know her to be a good one to take the 800-meter Delap off the track."

The Illini's Kathy Chiarello finished third behind the Salukas' Chiarello and the Illinois State University's Jennifer Patnode.

The 10,000-meter run should be a battle among three athletes, Blackman said, with Patty Plymale considered one of the favorites. Along with Plymale, Blackman said, Illinois State's Amanda Daugherty and Penn State's Becky Loos to place.

SIU's top scoring event should be the long jump, Blackman said. Karen Lappin and Teresa Burgard will finish in the top three, according to the coach to the track program and summer strength and conditioning.

"I'm hoping we can do it," Blackman said. "If we can have strong performances in all events and make everyone work, we've got a good chance of placing in the higher spots."

As in past meets, Blackman said she expects the sprinters to score points.

"I'm hoping we can score in the 100-, 200-, 400- and 800-meter runs," Blackman said.

The long jump and discus should give the Salukas a good opportunity for points, Blackman said. Amanda Daugherty and Penny Holland will both have good chances in placing in the high jump and middle-distance races, Blackman said, and after a good week of training, Blackman said the sprinters will be able to perform to the best of their ability.

"There are always going to be inherent athletic abilities between the two sexes," Blair said.

Blair, a U.S. Air Force veteran, has held numerous coaching positions both for men and female athletes. On the high school level, he has coached men's and women's track and volleyball and men's basketball. As an assistant coach, he has helped with the women's track program and twice made volleyball camps along with his bandmixmort coaching responsibilities.

"My philosophies for coaching are the same for men and women," Blair said. "You've got to build your team's self-esteem and confidence, and that starts with getting experimented with."

"The coach's role is to help you gain your toughness, and we're really trying to get our minds more for different people," Blair said.

Always save the best for last.

That must be the philosophy of the women's track team as in past years, Coupeville-Cedar Grove-Centralia, it will try to return to the SIU lineup after a two-week absence due to stress fractures in both feet.

Give most collegiate coaches the choice between a position in men's or women's athletics and the vast majority would choose the obvious—the more glamorous, publicized male side of the coin.

Give the same option to SIU bandmixmort Coach Paul Blair and he might just be surprised.

"Right now, I'd much rather be coaching the bandmixmort team than say, the men's track or football teams," the 33-year-old Blair said.

"It's not a matter of exposure," Blair explained. "The entire women's athletics system is in a maturing stage right now and in the next few years it's going to be very exciting. It's at these times when a coach really can contribute."

Blair said women athletics are maturing in mental and physical abilities towards competition and skills. He said that in the past few years there has been tremendous improvement and this should continue for some time.

"I look back to my high school days and compare them to today and I find that in men's athletics things really haven't changed all that much," Blair said.

"You've still got your serious athletes, your jokers and the ones with talent that'll never use it," Blair added. "Women have the same problems, but other good things are really happening on the women's side of the fence."

"At the high school level, every year the women athletes really are improving. They're getting so much more coaching now than ever before and it's been an added incentive for the men to compete equally with the women," Blair said.

EAGER EVANS—Going into Wednesday's double-header at Illinois, SIU pitcher Paul Evans had a record of 3-2 with an earned-run average of 2.32. He defeated SIU-Edwardsville Sunday. Evans, a junior, could see this action weekend when the Salukas play five games in three days against David Lipscomb and Austin Peay at Abe Martin Field.
