Illinois hit statewide by storms, tornadoes

By John Mohler
Staff Writer
and UPI

A major storm system of strong winds and tornadoes swept through central Illinois and was expected to reach Jackson County late Sunday night, a local meteorologist said.

Paul Howerton, of the Carbondale Emergency Services and Disaster Agency, was unable to predict the storm's severity when it hit the area.

Howerton said the storm had reached northwest Jackson County at 8:30 p.m.

He said Jackson County probably will receive moderate thunderstorms.

The system was most severe in central Illinois, with eight confirmed tornado touchdowns near the towns of Waverly, Jacksonville and Murrayville near Springfield, Illinois District 9 state trooper Kent Barry said Sunday night.

Barry said the weather caused property damage in the areas, but he knew of no serious injuries or fatalities.

The strong winds downed power lines east of Springfield, causing police to close Interstate 72 because the downed lines stretched across all four lanes, Barry said.

The Southern Illinois Airport Weather Service reported that areas in central Illinois had winds of 70 knots and large hail.

A knot is equal to one nautical mile per hour.

Regions in Missouri received hail and 50-knot gusts that were expected to reach Jackson County, the weather service predicted.

A tornado watch was posted for northern, central and western portions of Illinois until 9 p.m. Winds of 20 to 40 mph were clocked in the Chicago metropolitan area, with gusts as high as 60 mph, the National Weather Service said.

Large tree branches were reported down in scattered parts of the Chicago area and plate glass windows were blown out of some store fronts. About 50 downed trees were reported in Chicago, city Streets and Sanitation Department officials said.

Bible-quoting dispute to end

Stivers, Caldwell end threats to take issue to court

By James T. Davis
Student Writer

Both of the key figures in a dispute over a Bible-quoting substitute teacher have dropped threats to take the dispute to court.

John Stivers, a graduate student in higher education, threatened to sue the state's public school system after Curtis Caldwell a substitute teacher at Lincoln Junior High School, quoted the Bible during class.

Stivers' two daughters are students at Lincoln. Stivers claimed that Caldwell violated the girls' civil rights when Caldwell quoted biblical passages in class.

Caldwell threatened to sue Carbondale Elementary School District No. 95 for violating his right of free speech after the District 95 School Board ordered him to abide by rules barring teachers from expressing their religious beliefs in the classroom.

Caldwell has since been relieved of his position at Lincoln.

Stivers said he is dropping his threat to sue because the

Curtis Caldwell

Civil Rights Restoration Bill passed recently by Congress bars teachers from espousing religious beliefs in the classroom.

Stivers also said that his daughters, whom he claims were called "devil worshippers" by children at school, are getting along with their classmates now.

Caldwell said he doesn't intend to file a lawsuit because "I don't believe the Lord wants me to do that."

However, Caldwell said the issue is not over. Resistance to religion in the classroom is a long-term problem that only can be solved by asking God to work in the hearts of people and show them the need for change, he said.

"The Lord hasn't played his hand yet," Caldwell said.

Larry Jacober, Carbondale Elementary School District No. 95 superintendent, said Caldwell was dismissed from his substitute teaching position after he refused to agree to follow a school policy barring religion from the classroom.

The policy states that instructors may not "express personal, political or religious beliefs, nor engage in religious instruction while in performance of their duties as teachers in the classroom."

Caldwell said he couldn't agree to the policy because it asked him not to be religious. "I don't stop being religious when I leave church. I can't separate my faith from the rest of my life," Caldwell said.

Caldwell said he never mentioned Christianity by name while in the classroom. "I wasn't trying to convert anybody," he said. "I was just referring to Old Testament passages."

Caldwell said he wanted to start the day with some wisdom and that he quoted non-biblical works as well.

Suspect arrested in Miley murder

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

An autopsy report on the death of murder victim Michael D. Miley will be completed "any time now," Union County Coroner Darryl Rendleman said last week.

Richard C. Nitz, 36, of Marissa, a suspect in the murder, is being held at Williamson County Jail in Marion following his arrest at 12:20 p.m. Friday in St. Clair County near Belleville, police said.

Police said additional arrests are possible as the murder investigation continues.

The investigation is being conducted by the Jackson County Sheriff's Department, SIUC Security Police, Illinois State Police and the Murphysboro Police Department.

Williamson County State's Attorney Charles Garnati initiated murder charges to obtain a warrant on Nitz Thursday, police said.

Nitz was charged by a judge in St. Clair County Friday and bond was set at $500,000, police said.

The Williamson County Sheriff's Department was given custody of Nitz after the court appearance, police said.

Police said Nitz allegedly robbed and killed Miley in Williamson County near Crab Orchard Lake on April 6. Nitz allegedly placed the body in Millions lost on Army spy operations

Gus Bode

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a four-year search, the Army has been unable to trace $11.5 million improperly spent on spy operations throughout the world in the early 1980s, according to Army officials and internal reports.

Army officials have initiated steps against seven individuals to recover $150,000 in lost or stolen funds, and an eighth could face criminal prosecution for shredding key documents during an internal investigation, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Military officials said the Army's routine destruction of accounting records, on orders from top commanders, has forced auditors to reconstruct expenditures from bank documents, informal receipts and contractor records. Investigators doubt they ever will be able to track most of the missing money.

The $11.5 million in untraced funds, that officially have been classified as lost, were among $170 million that the spy units improperly tapped from outside accounts to pad their budget.

The new developments mark the latest Army attempts to unravel a sweeping special operations scandal that already has led to sanctions against more than 500 people, officials said.

However, the Army has

Strikers refuse to leave Polish shipyard, pay offer

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Striking shipyard workers aided by Solidarity founder Lech Walesa Sunday rejected an offer of a pay hike and ignored an ultimatum to abandon the yard, still demanding that the banned union be legalized. A shipyard source said talks between the 1,500 workers and the management of the Lenin Shipyard broke off after two hours, and the management issued an ultimatum demanding the strikers leave the yard.

Mitterrand wins 2nd term as French leader

PARIS (UPI) — Francois Mitterrand won a second seven-year term as president of France, exit polls showed Sunday, defeating underdog Prime Minister Jacques Chirac in an election marred by a violent attack on rightwing demonstrators in the capital. Mitterrand polled a solid 58.9 percent in the final presidential vote to trounce Chirac, according to unofficial projections issued shortly after the voting booths closed. It was the first time anyone had won a second term as president by direct election since the start of the Fifth Republic in 1958.

Soviet dissident groups form opposition party

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dissidents from across the country defied police intimidation Sunday to press ahead with a conference to form an opposition political party that poses an unprecedented challenge to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's reform policies. Scores of police and plainclothes KGB agents remained mostly on the sidelines during the opening Saturday of a three-day meeting of the Democratic Union, but they increased pressure on the participants Sunday, detaining and questioning at least 10 union members.

Panamanian banks reopen, limit withdrawals

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Banks in Panama prepared Sunday to cash checks for the first time in nine weeks, a move expected to ease the country's economic crisis and reflect Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega's ability to stay in power despite U.S. pressure. Leading banks placed full-page ads in Sunday newspapers announcing they would be open for business today, although government restrictions will limit the amount of cash clients can withdraw from their accounts.

Bush knew of Panamanian links to drug trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President George Bush was aware of Panamanian links to the international drug trade almost five years ago but had no "concrete information" about the role of Gen. Manuel Noriega until this year, aides said Sunday. Commenting on a report in The New York Times that Bush was told in December 1985 of allegations that Noriega was involved in narcotics trafficking, the aides acknowledged much was known of the Panamanian drug connection at the time.

U.S. prepares aid program for Philippines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration, in a strong sign of support for Philippine President Corason Aquino, plans to launch a "mini-Marshall Plan" to provide up to $10 billion in aid to the Philippines, officials said Sunday. The plan for the Philippines, unlike the U.S. program in the 1940s that helped rebuild war-torn Europe, involves major assistance from other countries, such as Japan and West Germany, with the United States playing a more limited financial role.

Sailor faces court-martial for AIDS assault

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Navy petty officer from Arkansas faces court-martial today on AIDS-related assault charges. The Navy charges he knowingly engaged in unprotected sex after learning he had tested positive for the virus believed to cause AIDS. The case against Petty Officer 2nd Class John Crawford, 27, is the first of its type ever tried in a Navy court. According to the Navy, Crawford had unprotected sex with a woman he met at bar in April 1987.

NTSB expected to blame pilots for jet crash

DETROIT (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board is expected to conclude Tuesday that pilot error and a breakdown in a cockpit warning system caused last year's crash of a Northwest Airlines jetliner that killed 156 people, a source close to the investigation told the Detroit Free Press. The crash of Northwest Flight 255, which occurred Aug. 16 shortly after takeoff from Detroit Metropolitan Airport, was the second deadliest in U.S. aviation history.

Tree-cutting methods anger local residents

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

Tree-cutting crews contracted by Central Illinois Public Service Company are "ruining trees that don't interfere with utility wires, some Carbondale residents say.

"It's the rape of the woods," Mary Simon, who lives at 808 Taylor Drive, said. Pine trees that were once 75-feet high were cut down to half that size by a tree-cutting crew in March, she said.

But Buddy Powers, CIPS area operations supervisor, said trees are being cut according to state law to ensure safety and continuous power service.

"We are just doing routine tree cutting," Powers said.

"These trees are going to die," Simon said, as she showed sap running out of holes where limbs once grew.

"If they are going to destroy the tree, they should destroy all of it, instead of just leaving it there," Simon's husband, Ernest, a retired College of Technical Careers dean, said.

"It's wanton destruction," Mary Goss, an adviser in the pre-major advisement center, said. Tree cutters "absolutely demolished" the trees in the backyard of her home at 903 Briarwood Drive on Tuesday, she said.

"They cut trees that had nothing to do with power lines," Goss said.

Powers disagreed.

"It's a regular jungle out there," Powers said. "People plant things right underneath power lines."

Teri Morris, CIPS public relations spokeswoman, said the tree cutting is based on "sound horticultural principles."

CIPS recently started using a directional pruning method, which "trains" trees near power lines to grow away from the lines, Morris said.

With directional pruning, tree cutters cut a parent limb, slowing the growth of interfering branches, which makes cutting less frequent, Harry McLeod, CIPS area superintendent, said.

The method used previously involved shearing off only branches that directly interfered with power lines, but also allowed more branches to grow back.

That made subsequent cutting more difficult, McLeod said.

Karen Stoelzie, a lecturer in plant and soil science, said the theory behind directional pruning is sound, but tree-cutting crews aren't consistent. She is a member of the University's Clean and Green committee.

"It's very obvious (in the Simon's case). They (tree cutters) just went in and butchered the trees," Stoelzie said. "They just kind of did a crew-cut."

City forester Greg Kline said the directional pruning works fine for such deciduous trees as maple or oak, but doesn't work as well on evergreens such as Simon's pine trees.

"You can't direct growth" on pine trees, Kline said. "When you cut them off, growth just stops. What they will have is a flat-topped pine tree."

Kline said the old method looked nicer, but directional pruning is the accepted and preferred method by tree-cutting professionals.

"It (directional pruning) looks radical the first time through," Kline said. "It doesn't look as nice as it did before, but over time it will fill in."

DE press causes paper's delay

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The Daily Egyptian was down but it came out.

About 15,000 copies of the Daily Egyptian were printed late Friday morning on the Harrisburg Daily Register press because of an electrical failure at the DE's press.

Bud Mills, the Daily Egyptian's press electrician, was called in at about midnight to fix an electrical problem at the press. The problem was corrected, but the press was operating at one quarter of its normal speed, Mills said.

The press was operating under "crippled conditions" and only about 10,800 copies of the paper were printed before the motor burned up, Mills said.

Arrangements were made to print the remaining 15,000 copies of the paper at the Harrisburg Daily Register press.

Because the Harrisburg paper has a smaller page size than the DE, the paper's pages had to be reduced, which left a large border on the outside edge of the paper, Jay Brodell, business manager for the DE said.

Despite the delay in printing and distribution and the unusual format of the paper, there was only one complaint from an advertiser, Brodell said.

All of Friday's papers were printed and delivered by about 3 p.m., he said.

Today's paper was printed at the West Frankfort Daily American press.

The DE press might be operating in time to print Tuesday's paper, Brodell said. However, alternate plans are being made in case the press cannot be repaired in time, he said.

Police Blotter

A 32-year-old Pittsburgh, Pa. man was killed in a two-car accident on New Route 13 in Murphysboro Sunday morning, the Jackson County Sheriff's Department said.

Police said that Ronald M. Tucker, a passenger in the car driven by William B. Ollie, 23, of Carbondale, was killed in the accident.

Ollie and Janice Knoke, 32, of Murphysboro, were charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and other drugs in the accident, police said.

Police said both drivers were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital in Murphysboro after the accident one-half mile east of Williams Street.

Police reports said the accident occurred in the west-bound lane at 4:12 a.m., but provided no other details.

Two other passengers in the car driven by Ollie were not injured, police said.

Police are searching for three men who robbed a Herrin man and struck him with a pipe in a parking lot at 102 S. Washington St. Saturday night, Carbondale police said.

Bruce Zanzaterra, 31, sustained major head injuries in the attack, police said.

As Zanzaterra was leaving his truck, the men approached him and demanded his money, police said. A scuffle ensued and Zanzaterra was struck at least four times with a pipe, police said.

Put AIDS victim on local task force

THE SIU-C TASK Force on AIDS should include an AIDS victim in order to get as much firsthand information as possible about the dreaded disease.

Although the most likely person to fill this position is from Scott City, Mo., this is no viable reason to omit the contributions he could make. Some people feel that just because he isn't affiliated with SIU-C or from Illinois that his input doesn't belong. That's downright narrow-minded; in a case like this, you should take help from wherever you can get it.

The fact is that this task force needs all the help it can get, and if that help so happens to come from the Show-Me state rather than the Land of Lincoln, well, it doesn't take away from what the task force can accomplish. And since they are trying to get information on the problems people with AIDS face, it would be just plain dumb not to listen to an AIDS victim's perspective.

THAT MANY FEEL AIDS won't strike them is no secret, and misunderstanding the disease leads to many unfounded prejudices. Education and research are much more constructive than condemning AIDS victims as deserving of their unfortunate situations. No one does much of that publicly, but in private this practice will continue until the tragedy of the disease sinks in and people realize AIDS is everyone's problem.

At SIU-C, AIDS hasn't yet made a big impact. This is fortunate, but the University community must continue its safe sex practices, and if you haven't been practicing safe sex, know that it's time to start.

AIDS ITSELF PROBABLY has done more to change sexual behaviors of today's college students than a hundred task forces could. The emergence of condoms as a popular form of birth control, the tendency to engage in monogamous relationships and the increase in sexual abstinence can, without much difficulty, be seen as a cause-effect link to AIDS.

Having an AIDS victim on SIU-C's AIDS Task Force can only help to educate students, faculty and the public at large. This education will help propagate safe sex.

rejected possible legal or disciplinary action against Gen. John Vessey, who as the No. 2 Army official was found to have approved the periodic shredding of the units' financial documents in 1982.

Vessey, who later became chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and now is retired, said he did not know that the shredding violated defense and White House regulations.

The Army has asked the Justice Department to consider criminal prosecution of Maj. Richard Joubert, a since-retired intelligence officer who destroyed records of $9 million in expenditures in 1985 after being advised that an internal investigation had begun, a Pentagon spokesman said.

In addition, the Army is seeking reimbursement for about $150,000 of the untraced funds from seven financial officers and operatives, the spokesman said.

A large portion of that money disappeared after having been stored as cash in bursars' safes for distribution as travel advances, he said. Investigators reported one bursar lost a cash-filled briefcase after having drinks with a couple of female acquaintances.

Since 1984, when internal inquiries into the operations began, the Army has court-martialed three spy chiefs found to have misused more than $160,000 and sought to recover funds from more than 500 personnel who received $1 million in excess travel money.

United Press International learned of the Army's financial abuses in a four-month inquiry that included interviews with dozens of Army and congressional officials and a review of thousands of pages of internal reports on the Army's spy and counter-terrorism units.

The units were strengthened and centralized to improve U.S. intelligence-gathering capability after the disastrous hostage rescue mission in Iran in April 1980.

Later, the units attempted numerous operations in Central America and the Middle East, and some in the United States that were directed at the Soviet Union.

UPI has reported that, with

Army reforms set to curb abuses by its spy units

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army moved swiftly in 1984 to tighten controls over its free-wheeling spy units and now has the best supervised special operations of all the military services, according to Pentagon and congressional sources.

Recently, the Army has tried to fend off pressure from the CIA to restrict the amount of information it provides to Congress, congressional sources said.

Army Secretary John Marsh, Chief of Staff Gen. John Wickham and Vice Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell Thurman moved to ensure that top officials were accountable for the units after investigations found widespread financial improprieties.

Besides uncovering financial abuses that have led to prosecutions or other legal actions against more than 500 personnel, investigations have found that the Army did not inform Congress of the details of its special operations in the early 1980s.

Some former Army operatives, however, have questioned whether the new controls have added bureaucratic requirements that are stifling the effectiveness of the spy operations.

Michael Foster, a retired lieutenant colonel who worked on special operations in 1982 and 1983, cited a hypothetical example of a pilot trying to land on a dirt airstrip in South America when he is unexpectedly told to pay a $150 "landing fee" by armed airfield guards.

"That pilot has to suddenly decide," Foster said, "whether to pay the token fee and continue his mission or abort it because he has received no prior authorization to pay."

Under the Army's stringent new controls, Foster suggested, more pilots might take the cautious approach and end the operation.

An Army official said, however, that the new units, because they have the explicit backing of the service's top military and civilian officials, are operating more effectively. Any inefficiencies result not from bureaucratic delay, he said, but from operational questions raised by the Army secretary or the chief of staff.

the approval of the Army's top military officials, the spy units dipped into off-limits accounts to improperly obtain $170 million in additional money — nearly five times their original budget. The units were allotted about $36 million between 1981 and 1983, an Army official said.

The search for missing funds began in the spring of 1984.

An Army spokesman said most of the untraced $11.5 million probably was used legitimately on three unidentified Army intelligence projects in the United States, but some money could have been stolen or squirreled away in secret overseas accounts by freewheeling U.S. agents.

The Army legal review last year reported that $11.75 million could still not be traced. In the last year, Army auditors poring through duplicate bank and contractor records have been able to trace $250,000, an Army spokesman said.

The Army does not expect its auditors ever to discover the destination of more than an additional $3 million or $4 million, a spokesman said.

A detailed look at the spy units' financial abuses, according to Army officials, reflects an operation plagued by carelessness, greed and loose controls.

Nebraska tornado leaves 2 dead

GRETNA, Neb. (UPI) — A tornado that hit with no warning killed a mother and her baby on a farm and critically injured the father, who drove nearly 2 miles for help while "his intestines were showing," a sheriff said Sunday.

The twister hit the mobile home of Dennis and Joan True on a farm 20 miles southwest of Omaha at Saturday night. Sarpy County Sheriff Pat Thomas said he was watching the thunderstorm and there was no warning of the tornado.

"The lightning was beautiful. It looked like the Northern Lights. It wasn't even sprinkling or raining," he said. "And then all of a sudden they said a tornado had touched down near Gretna.

"The tornado hit and was gone before anyone knew it. The National Weather Service had nothing (warning) as far as we're concerned."

Joan True, 29, died Sunday at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. Her 2-year-old daughter, Lynn, was found dead in their driveway. Dennis True, 31, was in critical but stable condition at the Midlands Hospital in Papillion.

Thomas said that after the twister struck, True drove a vehicle with flattened tires and shattered windows nearly two miles into Gretna to a house on a feedlot operation, where a woman called authorities.

"The husband miraculously drove into Gretna," Thomas said. "He was severely injured. He had severe cuts on his back. His intestines were showing. I don't know how he made it."

Thomas said the Trues were living in the mobile home while planning to build a house on the farm.

"The trailer looks like somebody put an M-80 firecracker in a matchbox and lit it," Thomas said. "The whole farm area is just torn all to hell."

"We had at least one tornado," Thomas said. "But even if we wanted to we couldn't have set off a warning because the storm caused a power outage."

Residents in Gretna started going door-to-door warning neighbors about the possibility of another tornado.

Iowa State melee results in 45 arrests

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — About 45 bottle-throwing revelers were arrested and eight law officers were injured in a drunken melee early Sunday that marked the third night of disturbances during Iowa State University's Veishea weekend.

More than 70 local and state law officers dodged bottles and rocks thrown from a crowd of 5,000 people who started a bonfire with piles of furniture and debris on a street near the ISU campus at 1:45 a.m. The fire burned most of the night.

"This is unprecedented. We've never had this uncontrolled rioting and damage to this extent before," said an Ames Police Department spokeswoman. "Traditionally, Saturday night of Veishea week is the worst night for law enforcement people and Sunday they all prepare for finals week."

Eight police officers — several with injuries requiring stitches — were treated and released at Mary Greeley Hospital after they were struck by bottles and rocks when they moved in to break up the mob.

President's office allows deans to manage cuts in salary budget

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

For the past two years, deans, rather than the president's office, have been deciding how to compensate for parts of their salary budgets for which money doesn't exist. The deans say they prefer it that way.

"While it puts the heat on us, it also lets us control some of the destiny of our colleges, and I prefer it that way," John Jackson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said.

President John C. Guyon, who set up this method of handling the budget when he was vice president for academic affairs, said he thinks putting the control in the deans' hands has been successful.

"We've given the deans the privilege of plotting out the course of their colleges. They always knew what was going on, they just couldn't manage their resources," he said.

When the colleges' budgets are determined, the University assumes that not all the money approved for salaries will be used. But each college has more positions than there is money for.

Ernest Lewis, associate vice president for academic affairs, said that colleges generally don't spend all the money available in their budgets for salaries because throughout the year, faculty positions open up through attrition and retirements. This means the money budgeted for those positions isn't spent.

So the deans have to look ahead and try to determine which parts of their salary budget will be freed through the year to make up for the missing money.

Lewis said that if the colleges were issued salary budgets that were limited to the actual amount of money available, then there probably would be extra money in salary budgets at the end of the year.

He said the state then probably would reduce the amount of money the University could use for salaries.

The president's office used to determine how to make up for the nonexistent money in the colleges' budgets. The deans are pleased that they now are allowed to do to take over the task.

Agriculture Dean James A. Tweedy said: "It gives us as deans a much better chance to handle our resources. Our new system, in my mind, is much better than the old system."

But the deans did say they wish the problem was less severe.

"It's always difficult to have to give money back," Michael Youngblood, acting dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, said.

Jackson said he wished the amount he has to make up for would decrease. He has to make up for enough money to pay the salaries of nine people, he said.

Lewis said part of the reason the amount of money needed to be accounted for is so large — more than $1 million — is that when the University's budget was reduced last year, departments were given clearance to spend as much as before on salaries, when in actuality they had less money to spend.

Reputed drug baron faces verdict

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A key trial in America's war against drugs enters its final stages Tuesday with final arguments in the case of reputed cocaine billionaire Carlos Lehder who will face judgment without putting on a defense.

The arguments are expected to take three days after nearly six weeks of jury selection, testimony from 115 government witnesses over 22 weeks and the unexpected defense decision to rest without calling a single witness.

Arguments had been expected to begin Monday but were delayed one day because of the illness of one of the defense attorneys.

Lehder's capture and six-month trial has been the government's biggest plum in the fight against illicit contraband.

The list of government witnesses included former CBS news newscaster Walter Cronkite, who said he was intimidated into leaving an island in the Bahamas which Lehder had taken over. Prosecutors said the island, Norman's Cay, was protected by heavily armed guards.

Government documents said Lehder invited the deposed shah of Iran to move to the island, and that he also invested in a car racing venture with a man whose racing partner was Paul Newman.

Court papers also showed that the man who sold most of Norman's Cay to Lehder said his company had learned that the late Howard Hughes and Club Med were interested in the property.

Defense attorneys apparently were not intimidated by the prosecution's name dropping or any other facet of the government case.

When U.S. Attorney Robert Merkle rested, Lehder's attorneys announced they did not plan to present a defense, intimating the government had not proved its case.

Bad writing contest gives awards to rotten entries

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — An Indiana journalism student's dreadful description of a "fine-tuned" woman with "hair as dark as new tires" was named the best of the worst Sunday in the annual Bulwer-Lytton bad writing contest.

Rachel Sheeley, 20, a student at Franklin College in Franklin, Ind., beat out entries from more than 10,000 writers in what contest founder Scott Rice, an English professor at San Jose State University, called "the Baltimore Orioles of literary competitions."

The aim of the contest was to write the opening sentence to a worst possible novel.

"It really takes a very good writer to write deliberately bad," Rice said.

Sheeley's winning entry:

"Like an expensive sports car, fine-tuned and well-built, Portia was sleek, shapely and gorgeous, her red jumpsuit moulding her body, which was as warm as the seatcovers in July, her hair as dark as new tires, her eyes flashing like bright hubcaps, and her lips as dewy as the beads of fresh rain on the hood, she was a woman driven — fueled by a single accelerator — and she needed a man, a man who wouldn't shift from his views, a man to steer her along the right road: a man like Ali Romeo."

It was the seventh annual Bulwer-Lytton, named after the British novelist who coined the line, "The pen is mightier than the sword," but was known for his awkward language, unbelievable plot twists and overdone descriptions. Rice likes to point out his famous opening line, "It was a dark and stormy night."

Rice compares the contest to the annual "Bad Hemingway" contest held at one of the many Harry's Bar and American Grills. The difference is the Bulwer-Lytton contest does not restrict itself to the style of one author.

Consultant: Have questions to ask potential employers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Knowing what questions to ask in a job interview is just as important as knowing how to answer questions and can give a job applicant an extra edge, a career consultant said.

"When you go for an interview, you'll be nervous," Carol Shelton, founder and president of Academy Communication Service, said. "Everyone has this fear. Confess to your nervousness, but don't make a big deal out of it."

Once the actual interview starts, she said, a job candidate should never answer questions with just a "yes" or "no" and avoid using the word "workaholic."

"And don't say anything that sends the message you want a paycheck and medical benefits more than a job."

Should the employer ask if you have any weaknesses, Shelton said to pause for a moment, then say, "I don't think in terms of weaknesses," or, "I think I've found them and am working to improve them."

Toward the end of an interview, an employer will generally ask the applicant if there are any questions.

"Here's your chance to show that you've prepared for this interview and really want the job," she said.

Some possible questions to ask are: — "What do you want to accomplish?"

"What do you want done in the first two or three months?"

"What makes you satisfied?" and conversely, "What are sources of dissatisfaction?"

Personality, past jobs focus of good resume

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—A resume is basic to any job search and you should focus it so an employer not only gets an idea of what you've done but also who you are, one manager says.

"There is no one answer to how to prepare a resume," Marilyn Marr, a public relations and marketing manager for 15 years, said.

"An employer spends only 35 seconds looking at your resume," Marr said, so don't bog it down with extraneous details. List what is pertinent to the job you are seeking.

Of course you will include your name, current address and telephone number, but hobbies or social memberships might best be left off and under no circumstances should you send a photograph.

"It would be thrown out immediately because of the equal employment statutes," said Marr. "The employer could be accused of discrimination because he saw your picture."

An objective statement — a sentence or two outlining what you seek in terms of a job — sometimes does more harm than good, she said.

"If you're going to include an objective statement, personalize it for the job you are applying for," he said. "Otherwise, leave it off and take care of it in the accompanying cover letter."

Resumes include previous work experience and education, "especially important in that first job," Marr said.

"If you have a grade point average 3.0 or above, it's less than a 3.0, forget it. mention if you made the dean's list or if you paid your own way through school."

TO APPRECIATE ITS TRUE QUALITY,
TEST RIDE IT FOR 300,000 MILES OR SO.

The BMW R100RT is perhaps the one touring bike that could endure such a test ride, and finish it in one piece. A longevity to which the unique BMW 300,000 Mile Club is testimony.

Testimony, also, to the durability of BMW's classic horizontally-opposed engine. Whose beauties can be discovered with a test ride considerably shorter than the one proposed above.

Know yourself, expert instructs job seekers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — One of the more important — and often forgotten — aspects in looking for a job is taking a look at yourself, a career consultant said.

"Self-knowledge is important because it tells you how to link to a job," independent career consultant Wanda Hambrick, said. "This is an area a lot of people skip."

To help jobseekers learn about themselves and what they want in a job, Hambrick guides them through a soul-searching questionnaire that asks where you want to live, hours you want to work, people you want to work with, how much money you want to make and what interests and skills you have.

"Where do you want to live?" she said. "You're going to be working the rest of your life, so you might as well be in a place you like."

As far as working conditions, Hambrick said, "Do you want to work nights, or weekends, or overtime?" Included in the working conditions are how you fit in with other people and how much power you want, she said.

With regard to salaries, Hambrick suggested you make up three kinds of budgets: bare bones, OK and comfortable.

"Make up a budget before you begin looking for a salary," she said. "If you take a job you don't like, make sure you make a lot of money so you'll have some to spend on things you like in what times you can get away."

Men's golf team fifth at MVC championships

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The men's golf team placed fifth at the Missouri Valley Conference Championships in Des Moines, Iowa, this weekend.

The Salukis finished with a 72-hole total of 1,214, just one stroke behind fourth-place Bradley. Tulsa won its second straight conference championship with a 1,182 total. Wichita State was second with 1,195 and Illinois State third with 1,198. Drake and Creighton finished sixth and seventh respectively.

"I said before the tournament that I'd have liked to finish ahead of Bradley, but I'm not displeased," Coach Lew Hartzog said. "We almost caught them. I thought the boys had a good tournament."

Hartzog said that 38-mph winds drove the scores up during the final round on Sunday.

"Everyone's score went up," he said. "Tulsa shot 305 on the last round, which is incredibly high for them."

The Salukis' Mike Cowen and Bobby Pavelonis were named all-conference after tying for fifth at the tournament, each shooting a 299.

Mark Bellas shot a 307 for SIU-C, Jeff Mullican a 310 and Britt Pavelonis a 328.

"Mullican didn't have a good tournament."

Women's tennis signs Texas ace

The women's tennis team signed one, that's right, just one recruit this spring. But Coach Judy Auld said her signee is a tennis ace.

Lori Edwards of Plano, Texas, joins the Salukis, which went 22-14 and were second in the Gateway tournament this year.

"Lori is going to make her presence felt in a hurry at the college level," said Auld, the Gateway Coach of the Year. "She's an excellent athlete with all the shots. Her tennis background is exceptional and she is dedicated toward continued improvement."

Edwards has participated in the U.S. Nationals in Flushing Meadows, N.Y., the U.S. Clay Court Championships and the Women's International Cup in Florida.

Dale Meyer (4-1) earned the win by pitching 4 2-3 innings of scoreless ball in relief of starter Lee Meyer, who left in the third with a sore shoulder.

In the Salukis' first game 8-3 victory, Dale Kisten (7-7) scattered nine hits over nine innings to even his record for the first time since March 30.

The big blows in the game were a two-run homer by Jeff Nelson in the second and a three-run double by Dave Wrona in the eighth.

The Salukis swept Saturday's doubleheader, 5-4 and 6-5, with clutch relief pitching.

In the first game, the Salukis scored five runs in the third and hung on to win. Rich Campbell (6-3) took the Salukis into the eighth before yielding to Gooden, who picked up the save.

In game two, Indiana State jumped to a 5-2 lead in the sixth with the help of four Saluki errors. But the Salukis came back to score one in the sixth and two in the seventh to tie the game.

In the eighth, Brad Follenkamp's sacrifice fly scored Rick Damico with the game-winning run to give the Salukis a 6-5 extra-inning win.

Chad Metten (3-2), who relieved Cliff McIntosh, received the victory by holding Indiana State scoreless in the final three innings.

Rugby team defeats alumni

By Greg Huber
Staff Writer

About 75 SIU-C rugby football club alumni came back to Carbondale for the annual alumni match Saturday at the rugby pitch behind Abe Martin Field.

The Old Loads played hard in the A-side match but lost 17-7.

The Old Loads took an early lead on a three-point penalty kick by Steve Elderton, but was then held scoreless for most of the game.

Dave Graham scored the first four-point try for SIU-C and SIU-C never trailed again. Saluki kicker Derrick Spalt was next to score a try, followed by Doug Johnson. Spalt made the two-point conversion kick after Johnson's try.

In the second half, Spalt made a 50-yard drop kick for three points. That kick bounced off the goal's center post and into the air before continuing through the uprights.

With the score 17-3 near the end of the game John Cona finally scored the only try for the Old Loads.

rugby club president Tom Eumson was right when he said the Old Loads were out of shape.

"We are old but we're tired," Gallagher said. "They stopped the streak."

But in the second match with B-side players, brute force and raw aggressiveness were more evident. The Old Loads handily won that match 14-4.

This was the last match of the season for the ruggrers.

Bulls move to 2nd round; Jordan sets scoring record

CHICAGO (UPI) — Michael Jordan scored 39 points and rookie Scottie Pippen added 24 Sunday, lifting the Chicago Bulls to a 107-101 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers to advance the Bulls to the second round of the NBA playoffs.

The Bulls won the best-of-five series three games to two, with the home team winning every game. For the first time in the series, the Bulls won a game in which Jordan scored less than 50 points. The Bulls also won their first playoff series since defeating the New York Knicks in the first-round in 1981.

Jordan set an NBA record for most points in a five-game playoff series with 226 points. His five-game average of 45.2 fell short of the playoff series record of 46.3 by Jerry West.

Pippen's mid-court steal and slam with 27 seconds left in the third quarter gave Chicago its first lead of the game at 78-77.

Women golfers No. 1, again

By Steven Weish
Staff Writer

The women's golf team won its third Gateway Conference title, the first team ever to do so, in Springfield, Mo.

SIU-C shot a 54-hole total of 951 to beat defending champion Wichita State by 30 strokes Friday. The Salukis also won the title in 1984 and 1986.

"Our main goal all season was to win the championship back, so we're extremely happy," senior co-captain Tina Kozlowski said.

The Salukis grabbed a 19-stroke lead on the first two rounds Thursday and never looked back. Vicki Higgerson shot a career-low 154, including a 74 on the first round, to lead the team.

The team clinched the title by shooting a 311 on Friday, the lowest team total of the spring. Kozlowski and Julie Shumaker each shot a 75 on the final round.

SIU-C players captured the top three spots at the championship. Shumaker finished first with a 233 total, Kozlowski second with a 234 and Higgerson third with a 235. At last year's championship, Shumaker was sixth, Higgerson was seventh, and Kozlowski finished eighth.

Lisa Meritt finished eighth with a 250 and Lisa Johnson placed 10th with a 254.

"This is the first time all season that everyone seemed to play well at the same tournament," Kozlowski said.

Wichita shot a 981 for second. Illinois State finished third with a 996, Southwest Missouri fourth with a 1,039 and Northern Iowa fifth with a 1,082.

Kozlowski and Shumaker were named to the all-conference team.

Baseball takes 4 from Indiana State

Timber!

For Indiana State's second trip in a row to Carbondale, the Saluki baseball team cut down the Sycamores in four-straight games.

First place wasn't on the line like it was when the teams met in 1986, but the series was played with a championship-type intensity this weekend at Abe Martin Field.

The Salukis beat the Sycamores 5-4 and 6-5 on Saturday and 8-3 and 2-1 on Sunday to finish third in the Missouri Valley. Indiana State has now lost eight straight games in Carbondale.

The Salukis improved to 35-20 overall and will face Bradley in the first round of the MVC tournament at the home of Wichita State, which beat Creighton for the Valley championship.

Indiana State, 28-24 and 6-14, finished up at the bottom of the Valley.

Shane Gooden came in from the bullpen in the fourth game to complete the sweep and earn his second save of the series.

With the Salukis ahead 2-1, Gooden came in with runners on first and third with two outs in the seventh. The first batter, Larry Russell, hit a grounder far to Rick Gaebe's left at second base. Gaebe fielded the ball and fired to Gooden covering first to end the game.

Gooden is gaining confidence in his new role as the stopper in the bullpen.

"When I walk out there now I feel like I can get anybody out," Gooden said. "There's no way they can get a hit or score a run. It's a great feeling."

The Salukis had only one hit until they scored two runs in the sixth.

With one out, Gaebe singled, stole second and went to third when the catcher's throw sailed into center field. Joe Hall knocked in Gaebe with a ground ball single up the middle. After Hall stole second and moved to third on a balk, Chuck Locke drove in the

Men's track soars in pre-MVC meet

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The men's track team gained momentum for the Missouri Valley Conference Championships with home victories over Purdue and Missouri Sunday.

"This should give our kids a vote of confidence going into the MVC," Coach Bill Cornell said. "I was surprised we won considering we ran people out of position."

SIU-C scored 86 points followed by Purdue with 71 and Missouri with 42.

Ron Harrer led the Salukis with victories in the hammer throw, discus and javelin.

Harrer's winning distances were 172 feet, 2 inches in the hammer, 196-1 in the discus and 213-9 in the javelin. He also placed third in the shot put with 50-7.

The Salukis' other first-place finishers were Bret Garrett, Jack Shepherd and the 4 X 400-meter relay team of Kevin Steele, John Stinson, Garrett and Erick Pegues.

Garrett, who usually runs the 800-meter, won the 1,500-meter run in 4:04.

Jack Shepherd ran a 15:53.45 in the 5,000-meters to beat teammate Kent Leeks. Shepherd and Leeks ran side-by-side for the last two laps before Leeks pulled up five feet before the finish line to give Shepherd the victory.

The 4 X 400 relay ran a time of 3:13. It ran its fastest time of the season, 3:09.05, at the Saluki Invitational April 30.

Second-place finishers were Larry Holloway in the 110-meter high hurdles at 14.5, David Beauchem in the 1,500-meters at 4:04.1, Gereard Horan in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles at 53.82 and Leek in the 5,000-meters at 15:53.91.

SIU-C finished second and third in the triple jump. The Salukis were second, third and fourth in the 200-meter dash.

Ron Harrer

Harrer to trials

Senior Ron Harrer qualified for the U.S. Olympic trials with a discus throw of 203 feet, 1 inch in an exhibition following Sunday's meet.

"It didn't surprise me," Cornell said. "In warmup at last year's conference, he threw one 210-foot. He just tries too hard and forces the issue."

His throw also was good for a school record.

Men's tennis misses Valley title by 2 points

By Jeff Grieser
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's tennis team came within two points of winning its first Missouri Valley Conference Championship in 11 years.

SIU-C was second with 61 points, behind Wichita State, which had 63 points and won the tournament an unprecedented 11th straight year.

The Salukis were led by a strong singles team that won three individual titles. Jose Demeterco, Mickey Maule and Juan Martinez won at the No. 2, 3 and 5 spots respectively. SIU-C's Fabiano Ramos lost to Wichita's Paul Rosenich 7-6, 7-5 in the No. 4 singles final.

"We came so close," Coach Dick LeFevre said. "I was afraid they (Wichita) had too much horsepower when we went in, but once we got going it was O.K. Our guys did a good job. We had four singles players and two doubles teams in the finals and that's quite an accomplishment."

LeFevre said his team was in it all the way.

"We had some chances to tie the thing," he said. "We were close at No. 4 singles and No. 3 doubles, but we just came up a little short."

SIU-C's No. 3 doubles team may have had the best chance to give the Salukis a tie. Martinez and George Hime were up against Wichita State. SIU-C won the first set, 7-6, lost the second set by the same score, and was tied, 6-6, in the final set. The Salukis led the 12-point tie-breaker, 5-2, then lost the next five points.

"It was a tough one to lose," LeFevre said. "It just didn't work out for us."

Third went to Tulsa, which had 56 points, followed by Illinois State with 44 and Indiana State with 33.

The Salukis ended the season at 17-12. LeFevre noted a strong schedule as the key factor in his team's success.

"We played three teams in the Top 25 and seven conference champions," he said.
