Federal building approved for area

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

and Budget has approved his request for a $5 million federal building to house all federal agencies in the Carbondale area. Gray said he expects an immediate session of the Public Works Committee to be called Thursday to approve the project. He said he expects speedy Senate approval. Mayor Neal Eckert said he was pleased to hear the announcement. "We've been waiting for the approval. This is good news."

Gray said the project would be built with private financing and the repayment made from rents now paid to private landlords.

Eckert said that would mean a private contractor would construct the building and the government agencies would pay off the contractor with money spent previously for rent.

No federal appropriations will be needed, Eckert said. He explained the government should own the building after 30 years.

Acquisition of the land and the letting of bids would be handled by the General Services Administration (GSA).

Eckert said the city will have very little to do with the planning and construction of the building. Eckert mentioned that Gray has asked for input from the Carbondale Planning Department.

Eckert said the city has been waiting for the approval to determine how to plan a building to house city offices.

Some possible suggestions include constructing the city building as a wing to the federal building. Another would be to have the city building situated next to the federal office building.

"We must examine prospects to see if we can get along with it," Eckert said.

If the city building is constructed along with the federal building, Eckert said the city would be required to finance its own part.

James Rayfield, city planning director, said he thinks it would be a good idea to incorporate the city offices into a governmental complex.

Rayfield pointed out that since the federal building will not be owned by the government for 30 years, real estate taxes may possibly be levied.

Gray said approval by the House and Senate public works committees is the final authorization. Under the 1972 Public Buildings Amendments, the legislature does not require House or Senate approval or the President's signature.

Council members explain ordinance drop

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale City Council members explained Tuesday their reasons for dropping without discussion an ordinance allowing the sale of hard liquor to 19 and 20-year-olds.

The proposed ordinance, recommended by Mayor Neal Eckert and the Liquor Advisory Board, died at the formal meeting of the council Monday night for lack of a second to Councilman Clark Vineyard's motion to pass it.

Councilmen Archie Jones and Hans Fischer and Councilwoman Helen Westberg said Tuesday they were opposed to the ordinance and saw no reason for further discussion.

The proposal was discussed by the council members at the Oct. 22 informal meeting.

Fischer said he doesn't object to lowering the age for the purchase of hard liquor, but he does have reservations about the city using its home rule powers to pass the ordinance.

"If the state cities rush in and pass such ordinances, the state may pass legislation restricting home rule," Fischer cautioned.

DeKalb, home of Northern Illinois University, passed a similar ordinance extending the sale of hard liquor to 19-year-olds. Citing home rule powers, DeKalb officials said they could pass such an ordinance because it was not specifically prohibited by the state liquor law.

The state law allows the sale of only beer and wine to 19 and 20-year-olds. The required age for the purchase of hard liquor remains at 21.

City Attorney John Womick agreed with DeKalb's stand when he told the council at the Oct. 22 informal meeting that Carbondale could pass the or-inance since no state statute prohibits it.

Fischer said he would rather wait for the results of the DeKalb case. He said once the legal question is cleared in the courts, he would vote for the ordinance.

"The state is sensitive about its powers," Fischer said. "Many legislators are in favor of home rule powers if cities don't abuse them. I think the passing of the ordinance would be an abuse until the court makes a decision of the matter."

Ms. Westberg said she was surprised that there was no discussion of the ordinance at the meeting.

"I did plan to add my own views but that was the only thing I would have added to the discussion. I thought those who favored the ordinance would open the discussion," Ms. Westberg said.

She said her views were stated at the Oct. 22 meeting and they had not changed. At that meeting, she opposed the ordinance because it would increase the availability of liquor to teenagers and because of its possible illegality.

Ms. Westberg said even if the state approved such action she would oppose the ordinance. She explained she did not approve of allowing 19-year-olds to buy hard liquor.

Jones said he did not feel that he should repeat his stand on the ordinance at the meeting. He said he had made it clear at the Oct. 22 meeting that he was against the ordinance.

Jones said it was against his moral opinion to lower the age for buying hard liquor to 19. He also said the doubtful legality of the ordinance affected his opinion.

"I'm going to listen to reports of other towns (which have passed similar ordinances) and see what the ramifications are," Jones said.

Vineyard said he was disappointed the Job evaluations may be delayed

By Marcia Bullard

Evaluations of the job performances of SIU's top three administrators will probably be taken off the agenda at Thursday's meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees.

If the report is not presented, it will be the second delay in two months. The report was originally slated for the board's October meeting but was postponed until November "because the committee just didn't have it ready," according to board Chairman Ivan Elliott Jr.

The board will meet at 11 a.m. Thursday in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

The evaluative report was commissioned last March and is being worked out by the Committee on Board and Executive Officer Relations. Members of that committee are Elliott and trustees William Allen, Bloomington, and Victor Rouse, Chicago.

There has been speculation that the report will recommend some revamping of duties among the two SIU presidents and chief of board staff. SIU-C President David R. Derge, SIU-E President John S. Rendleman and Chief of Board Staff James M. Brown are the subjects of the study.

Elliott said he has not been able to meet with the other two committee members since the October board

Trustee election rules set by committee

By Jeff Jouett
Student Writer

Party affiliations and leafleting will not be allowed in the upcoming student trustee election, if the election guidelines as outlined by the ad hoc committee on election laws are approved by the Student Senate.

The committee agreed on the suggested guidelines for the Dec. 5 election in an extra-session meeting Tuesday morning. The guidelines to be presented to the Student Senate Wednesday include:

—Only students attending SIU who have been resident, full-time students for three consecutive quarters and have at least one year remaining at SIU (one-half year remaining for this year's election only) will be eligible.

—Candidates must be currently in good academic and disciplinary standing.

—Candidates must present petitions signed by 300 current SIU students. Petitions will be made available Nov. 9 at Student Government offices. Completed petitions will be accepted up to Nov. 16. A student may sign more than one student trustee candidate's petition.

—Campaigns must be conducted without party affiliations. Candidates must resign offices in student organizations if elected.

—No leafleting will be allowed.

—Advertising is allowed up to a $200 limit, but must be approved by the election committee. "Advertising" is defined to include display ads in newspapers, posters, television and radio spots, and other media as approved by the election committee.

—Candidates must attend a meeting with election officials on Sunday, Nov.

18, after the close of petitioning, to discuss programs and media events scheduled by the election committee for debate on issues relevant to the student trustee position.

—Attendance at 75 per cent of these scheduled programs is mandatory for candidates.

—No campaigning will be allowed until Monday, Nov. 19.

—Candidates must assume responsibility for the conduct of their campaign workers.

—A third party may contest the election committee's okaying a candidate's right to run, may challenge names on a candidate's petition, and may protest violations of campaign laws by a candidate.

—Violation of campaign laws will result in disqualification of the candidate and his or her name will be removed from the ballot.

—An election committee of two graduate students and two undergraduate students will be established. This committee will prepare petitions and ballots, hear third party challenges, decide if candidates are in violation of campaign laws, and "administratively interpret election laws".

—If election committee rulings are contested, a judicial board made up equally of Student Senate members and Graduate Student Council (GSC) members shall be appointed to hear the appeals.

—Position on the ballot will be decided by lot. No party affiliations will be listed on the ballot and no write-in votes will be counted.

These guidelines were suggested by the ad hoc committee with the intentions of giving all candidates an equal chance in the election and to discourage party affiliation, said Sharon Yeargin, executive secretary of GSC.

Next DE hearings to be public

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Academic Affairs Committee voted three to one Tuesday not to bar reporters and the public from further hearings into the investigation of the Daily Egyptian editorial policy.

Garry Seltzer, chairman of the committee, was in favor of private hearings because "they were creating a lot of sensational charges."

"I thought it better to give no publicity than unfair publicity," Seltzer said. The speakers so far have made many allegations that have not had a chance to be answered, he said.

Seltzer said the other committee members overruled him because "they thought it would be more of a public service to leave the hearings open."

The other voting members were Marc Kamm, westside non-dorm senator; Mark Harris, eastside non-dorm senator; and Gloria Underwood, Brush Towers senator.

The hearings resume at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Government office with testimony to be given by Bill Harmon, former managing editor of the Daily Egyptian. Harmon is now a full-time journalism instructor.

Witnesses at previous hearings included Fred Whitehead, assistant professor of English; Diane Miziaiko, Daily Egyptian staff writer; and John Sheridan, an undergraduate University senator.

The investigation was authorized Oct. 10 after Whitehead told the Student Senate a letter he wrote concerning SIU President David R. Derge and the Kalmbach Trust Fund was refused for publication by Howard R. Long, fiscal officer of the DE.

Senate will be asked to back course in TM

David Hubbard, a former SIU student, will ask the Student Senate's support in establishing a class on transcendental meditation (TM), Jim Kania, senate vice president, said Tuesday.

The senate is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

Kania said the ad hoc committee's proposals for election laws for the Dec. 5 election of a student trustee and student senators may be brought up for a senate vote.

"I have not been contacted yet by any committee member to be put on the agenda," Kania said.

Other items on the agenda, Kania said, are:

—Student Government appointments.
—Funding of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity.

—Recognition of the Golf Club.

—A resolution that the area of the street between Wilson Hall and the crosswalk in front of Brush Towers be painted.

—A resolution that the parking division be asked to move the stop sign on the east side of the street to the east of Brush Towers to allow pedestrian passage.

—A bill designating Saturday as clean-up day.

BAC cleared of improper fund usage

By Debby Ratemann

The Black Affairs Council (BAC) has finally been cleared of accusations made last spring that their 1972-73 funds were spent illegally.

Jack Baier, coordinator of student activities, said Tuesday that an audit

Chile executions

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Six more persons were executed by firing squad Monday, bringing to 94 the number of announced executions since the armed forces ousted Marxist President Salvador Allende Sept. 11.

A government statement said the six latest victims were convicted by a military court of organizing an "armed, para-military group" and sentenced to death.

In addition to those listed as executed, nearly 100 other persons have been shot and killed while reportedly attempting to escape from military patrols or jails.

The government also has reported 500 persons killed in fighting that followed the coup, but other estimates are that at least 1,000 persons lost their lives in gun battles between security units and pro-Allende snipers.

released last week shows that BAC "was $2,300 in the red, but did not misuse funds."

"I'm tickled pink about it," Bill Clarke, coordinator of BAC last year, said Tuesday. Clarke graduated in August and is working in the Financial Aid Office at SIU-Edwardsville.

Baier accused former Student Body President Jon Taylor and me of ripping off BAC funds and pocketing the money ourselves," Clarke said. "I view it as a political move to get BAC defunded."

Clarke said the audit "proves students are responsible if you tell us what to do. Baier never told us what to do and we weren't aware we were not following proper accounting procedures."

Clarke was referring to the BAC's use of a private checking account at a Carbondale bank last year, which is not proper procedure for student organizations.

The BAC's "operational practices and management were not compatible with University procedures and business practices," Auditor Jack Simmons said in a letter to Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne.

The 1972-73 BAC budget was $20,100 with $2,300 spent in addition. "That's pretty good considering we had a $3,000 deficit from the year before," Clarke said.

Student Body President Mike Carr said he was uncertain where the $2,300 will come from, "but it will probably be taken out of this year's BAC budget," he said.

Baier said the audit was one of three done this fall "on the three biggest student organizations—BAC, Student Government and Student Government Activities Council. We found no illegal expenditures."

Students organize women's escort service

By Tom Finan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A group of SIU students, concerned about women students walking alone at night, has organized a free escort service for women residents of Thompson Point.

By dialing 3-ESCI (for Escort Information), the woman will reach one of 20 volunteer women dispatchers, who take turns working at Lentz Hall.

The dispatcher will send out a man from the office, if there is one there, or she will call one of the 40 male volunteer escorts, who has agreed to be on duty at his room for the night.

The escort will then walk to the woman's dorm, pick her up and walk with her anywhere on campus, or as far into town as the telephone booth by Baskin Robbins. To be escorted home, the woman needs to call the service again.

Escort service is available every night except Friday and Saturday from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. Each escort works one of the two night shifts every two weeks.

Barry Halgrimson, organizer of the service, said he went to RF's and asked them to circulate a petition against what he felt were dangerous conditions for women walking alone on campus.

Persons signing the petition were asked to attend a meeting, at which the escort service was organized.

Halgrimson feels the escort service was badly needed. There were three rapes in the first three weeks of school," he said.

Assistant Security Officer Edward McCue said there has only been one attempted rape report since the beginning of the quarter and no reports of actual rape.

Community Relations Officer Don White checked out the legal aspects of liability for the escort service and congratulated them for their interest, but there is no official police position on the escort service.

There has been no official screening of volunteers for the service, Halgrimson said, but added, "I know about 75 per cent of them and I can vouch for them." Of the rest, he said, "Why would anyone volunteer so much time, unless they were a good person?"

About 20 women have used the escort service since it was initiated October 29, Halgrimson said.

"We had a problem with trust in the beginning, but things are picking up now. I think it will gain popularity by word of mouth," he said.

Coverup incident told in McGovern campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee was told Tuesday of a cover-up incident in Sen. George McGovern's California campaign organization. The testimony came as the panel probed for Democratic dirty tricks during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Committee counsel, meanwhile, were instructed to make a renewed effort to set up a meeting at which members of the committee could question President Nixon about the Watergate scandal and other campaign activities.

Michael Heller, a 19-year-old Mount Hood, Ore., Community College student, testified that he worked in the Democrats for Nixon headquarters in the Los Angeles Jewish community.

McGovern workers in the same neighborhood helped distribute numerous anti-Nixon leaflets, he said, including one he termed "as low and dirty as you can get."

That leaflet, introduced as an exhibit, was headlined "Nixon is Treif" and was attributed to the Jewish Campaign to End the Indochina Holocaust. Treif is a Yiddish word meaning not kosher, unclear or, as a later witness interpreted it in context, "Nixon is a no-goodnik."

The leaflet contained a statement that "Nixon brings the ovens to the people rather than the people to the ovens," a reference to the Nazi slaughter of Jews during World War II and perhaps, as committee counsel Samuel Dash suggested, a comparison of American use of napalm in Indochina with Hitler's use of crematoria.

The committee then called Paul Brindze, a law student at the University of California at Los Angeles, who testified that he was in charge of the McGovern campaign headquarters in the same neighborhood where Heller worked for Nixon.

Brindze said a man who identified himself as a member of a radical Jewish group against the war came to the headquarters and asked to have duplicated 3,000 copies of the leaflet which was promoting a rally against a local Jewish candidate who had endorsed Nixon.

Brindze testified he gave permission for the copies to be made on an office machine, but told the man he was acting unofficially, contrary to McGovern campaign policy and would not permit his workers to help distribute the leaflets.

ordinance was not passed. "The action proposed was a solution to the problem of enforcement."

"I would like the legal question cleared but this might be months before it is resolved," Vineyard said.

Vineyard suggested the city should pass the ordinance and drop it if the state says it is illegal. "There is no evil intent. The illegality would be technical," he said.

"If the home rule powers of the city weren't granted to be exercised, then there is no use having them," Vineyard said.

Emission standard termed to be threat to auto industry

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of Ford Motor Co. said Friday automotive emission control standards pose "the most serious threat to our business since World War II."

The auto industry, however, has made more progress in controlling engine pollutants "than any of us thought possible," said Lee A. Iacocca in remarks prepared for the 1973 National Plastics Exposition.

"Having our feet held to the fire has been an extremely painful experience," Iacocca said. "But in all candor I must admit it's likely we have come further faster than otherwise would have been the case.

"But that doesn't alter the basic limits on our technology or lack of definitive knowledge about the levels of control really necessary to protect public health."

The Ford executive said 1970 amendments to the Clean Air Act "set impossible control standards which were arrived at in a nonscientific manner and without public hearings."

Iacocca contended the natural forces of a free market can be a valuable asset in solving the nation's problems.

Scouts to meet

The Egyptian Council of Boy Scouts will hold its monthly board meeting Thursday, Nov. 8, in the Student Center Ballroom A at 7:30 p.m.

According to M.E. Stephenson, scout executive of the Egyptian Council, the primary discussion will be the possible merger of the St. Louis Council area with the Egyptian Council area.

The meeting is open to the public.

Air search begins

A search began Tuesday night for a light aircraft believed down in the Southern Illinois area. The plane was reportedly enroute from St. Charles, Mo. to Birmingham, Ala.

The aircraft was reportedly last seen at St. Charles, Missouri Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois Wing of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) has been authorized to conduct a four state search mission in cooperation with the CAP in Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama.

Eleven planes and 70 people are expected to take part in the mission. The CAP building at the Williamson County Airport, near Marion, will be the headquarters for the search.

Anyone that has any information concerning the aircraft should call 993-4851.

meeting and it is "very doubtful" the report will be made Thursday.

"I have talked with the committee members over the phone and done some paperwork," Elliott said, "but we don't have it done yet."

The board is expected to approve a revised funding scheme for the phase II renovation of McAndrew Stadium. The new resolution asks the board to approve bids for the project with the understanding that the contractors will cut down costs by $375,000. The bids are presently for $2.4 million, some $500,000 over original estimates.

To eliminate the $375,000, the Communications Center and some seating in the west grandstand will not be built.

The weather:

Cloudy and cool

Wednesday: Cloudy and cool with the high temperature in the low 40's. The probability for precipitation 45 per cent. Wind will be from the S to SE at 5-12 mph. Relative humidity 60 per cent.

Wednesday night: Cloudy, cool and a 50 per cent chance for drizzle. The low temperature will be in the upper 30's.

Thursday: Fair and cool with the high around the middle 40's.

Tuesday's high on campus 44, 2 p.m., low 35, 4 a.m.

Correction

Air Illinois Airline's new aircraft was mistakenly identified in a headline in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian as an SIU plane.

The new turboprop, a Hawker Siddeley 748, will make a pre-inaugural flight to Chicago Wednesday and be put into service Nov. 15.

The committee to lynch a president

The Committee to Lynch a President (CLAP) was having a stormy session.

The executive committee sat like feudal lords at a table up front in the meeting room while the members laid siege to them with arguments.

"Shouldn't we be fair about this?" came a cry from the floor.

"Absolutely not!" shouted Sneed, vice-chairperson of CLAP and former head of the local McGovern committee. "The less fair we are, the better chance we have to get him. That's what counts—not fairness."

"I agree," chimed in the treasurer, also head of the Civil Liberties Association. "His guilt has been proven in the newspapers. We don't want a trial or anyone using facts to confuse us. String him up!"

"But let's at least have a show trial," someone demanded. "That would make it look reasonable and fair."

"A good idea," shrilled the secretary. "We want to look like we aren't biased—even though we are." The secretary was also head of the local branch for Students for Civil Rights.

"No!" hollered the chairperson. "Lynch him! Why be so hypocritical about it?" He had been the campus leader of Students Destroying Society (SDS) and saw efforts at moderation as attempts to split the party. "As much violence as possible, as soon as possible, and don't worry about details," he declared to his fellow members of the executive committee. "That will be the salvation of the Movement."

They all nodded in agreement, including the secretary who had seen the light.

"But we really can't expect to lynch Nixon," someone objected.

"What will we do?" someone shouted.

"We have to lynch someone," declared the executive committee in unison.

"Well," suggested the chairperson, "if we can't lynch Nixon, we'll just lynch the university president—I think he's a Republican too."

As there were only a few murmurs from the floor, this motion was considered carried and they went out to do just that—in the name of fairness, reason and justice.

What a committee

To the Daily Egyptian:

The nonsense, the hypocrisy, and perhaps the abysmal ignorance of this administration's Academic Excellence "vision" is revealed by the notice of 30 October from J.K. Leasure indicating the Academic Excellence Review Committee of this University. Alphabetically, they include: a student, a teacher of Instructional Materials, a teacher in the School of Technical Careers, a teacher of Speech, a Dean of the School of Engineering and Technology, an Assistant Dean of Agriculture, a Dean of the College of Human Resources, a Professor of Sociology, a Professor of Physiology, and a Professor of Accountancy. Need anything else be said about a University (sic) that has teachers of Art, English, History, Languages, Philosophy, Physics; which has a leader who discusses the University of Chicago and Northwestern University as "private catholes."

The president investigates himself

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

It's becoming increasingly clear that the country is being run by two men. One is, of course, the President. And the other is, of course, Mr. Nixon.

The President conducts foreign affairs, confers with Dr. Kissinger and delivers Presidential addresses. Mr. Nixon is in charge of wiretaps, personnel, campaign contributions and holding press conferences to kick the press around some more.

For example in his last press conference, Mr. Nixon defended the President. Sort of. While "many thought the President was shell-shocked and unable to act," nothing, he said all in the same sentence, will "affect me in doing my job."

Sly innuendoes like this have naturally widened the rift that has been growing between the two men in recent months. It's little wonder that the President made five trips in one week to his mountaintop Camp David hideaway to confer secretly with Mr. Nixon.

The growing split between the two leaders, insiders report, culminated in a dramatic head-on clash just the other night.

The President: I'm sorry, Dick. My decision to hand over the tapes to Judge Sirica is irrevocable.

Mr. Nixon: But all the work I went to, sir, to protect your executive privilege, your Presidential confidentiality, your Constitutional separation of powers—firing Cox, bamboozling old Senator Sam into a deal, hoodwinking the press.

The President: I know you acted out of the noblest of motives, Dick, but my mind's made up. I will hand over those tapes to the Judge tomorrow as I promised.

Mr. Nixon: But you can't, sir.

The President: I must, Dick. Turning over those nine tapes is the only thing that will restore the Nation's confidence in my integrity.

Mr. Nixon: But you can't, sir.

The President (frowning): Stop saying I can't. Why on earth can't I?

Mr. Nixon (hesitantly): Because two of them are missing.

The President: Good Lord! Two out of nine? Well, at least the odds are better than four to one that the Dean tape is there. That's the crucial one, Dick.

Mr. Nixon (wiping perspiration from his upper lip): You say that one's crucial, sir?

The President: Of course! Dean was the only Watergate witness to link me directly with the cover-up. That tape of our conversation will prove my innocence once and for all.

Mr. Nixon: Maybe Haldeman erased it when he borrowed it.

The President (ashen): It's gone? Why is it always the one critical thing that goes wrong? (Suddenly suspicious) Wait! It was you who erased it, Dick. Why did you do this to me? Why did you destroy the one piece of evidence that could prove me innocent. Why?

Mr. Nixon (mopping his brow): Somehow or other, sir, it just never occurred to me you were.

This stab in the back is too much! Let every patriot, fellow Americans, rally around and support our great President in his hour of crisis.

And, meanwhile, let's appeach Mr. Nixon.

Self-discipline for doctors

Who disciplines doctors who are incompetent in their work or outrageous in their charges? Theoretically, the medical profession itself. (Plus a mounting volume of malpractice suits.) In practice, tho, the self-government of the medical profession all too often exists only on paper.

The Oct. 29 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association contains an editorial signed by Edwin J. Holman, office of the general counsel, A. M. A. It concludes, "Medical societies alone and medical societies in concert with boards of medical examiners . . . must impose discipline when it is reasonably called for and must publicize their actions so the faith of the public may be restored." Mr. Holman dismisses as mere excuses the contentions that disciplining doctors will invite lawsuits or constitute unacceptable criticism of a fellow physician's judgment.

Last June the new president-elect of the A. M. A., Dr. Malcolm C. Todd, said at New York, "Ninety-five per cent of the doctors are doing a good job but the other 5 per cent are getting us into trouble and we should take a firm stand against them." Dr. Todd urged doctors to testify willingly against "bad apples," to drop them from membership in medical associations, and to urge revocation of their license to practice.

It is not only politicians who should be ethical, teachers who should be accountable. Doctors should be required—by someone—to meet minimum standards of competence in practice and reasonableness in billing. If the medical profession will not really police itself, it is inviting government to do so. A sincere and effective job of self-discipline by the medical profession would be in the public interest.

Hare brained "free college" plan

At a time when answers to problems of financing higher education are needed, an SIU trustees' committee has come up with a "solution" that would make the problem much worse.

It recommended that Illinois provide free education for all citizens of the state attending state colleges and that state scholarships for students in private colleges be cut off.

William W. Allen, Bloomington, chairman of the committee, attempted to explain the startling recommendation by saying that current Illinois policy makes higher education "a right of the poor and a privilege of the rich." Middle-income students are caught in the middle, he says.

Allen is wrong in concluding that a college education is a right, and therefore it should be provided free. If this fallacious assumption were true it could make higher education not only immensely more costly to the public but far less meaningful than it now is.

It is doubtful that colleges and universities could find either space or instructors if literally everyone could attend. Taxpayers, already paying heavily to support higher education, certainly would not buy this scheme.

As outlined, it also could deal a heavy blow to private colleges which right now need increased support, rather than a fiscal knock in the head.

The proper reaction to the inequities in tuition payments and grants pointed out in the report is to correct them, not simply to put the entire burden on taxpayers' backs. Nor is there the slightest reason to attempt to reverse the growing cooperative spirit between public and private schools. We need both. The nation has reaped great benefits from a pluralistic educational system. There are no grounds to abandon this freedom of choice for a monolithic system that could become regimented and extremely costly.

—St. Louis Globe-Democrat

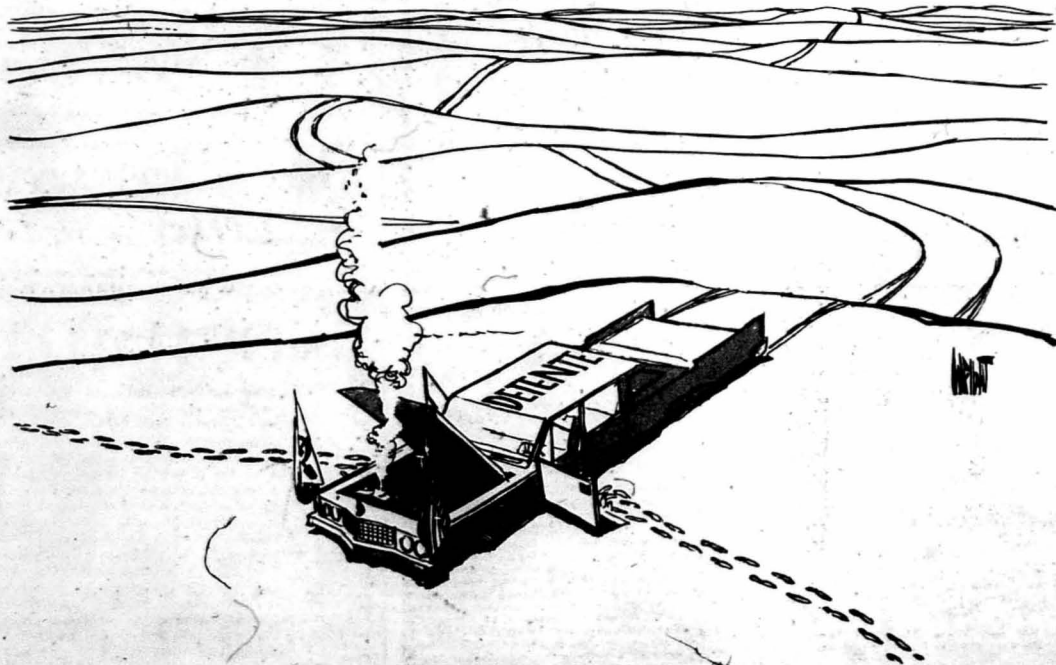

The justice said

By M. R. Williams

The year is 1968. The United States Supreme Court is faced with the question whether a state court may deny a defendant a jury trial where he was accused of a major misdemeanor. Does the Federal Constitution which guarantees every citizen a trial by jury override State law? Yes, holds the Court. Agreeing, Mr. Justice Black said:

"I am very happy to support this selective process through which our Court has . . . held most of the specific Bill of Rights protections applicable to the States to the same extent they are applicable to the Federal Government.

"Among these are the right to trial by jury decided today, the right against compelled self-incrimination, the right to counsel, the right to compulsory process for witnesses, the right to confront witnesses, the right to a speedy and public trial, and the right to be free from unreasonable searches and seizures." (Duncan v. Louisiana, 20 L.Ed. 2d 491)

Symphony performance spoiled by 'lousy conductor'

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

It's frustrating to hear a good orchestra let astray by a lousy conductor.

And that's the Detroit Symphony's Monday night performance at Shryock Auditorium in a nutshell. For the Detroit Symphony's tour, Rafael Frunbeck De Burgos chose to program pieces that are so frequently heard that one could dub them crowd-pleasing warhorses. Which does not mean that the compositions are necessarily bad, but simply that they are crowd pleasers.

A Review

Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto is an excellent showcase for a virtuoso pianist. Monday night's pianist was Cristina Ortiz, who has achieved a high degree of technical accomplishment at a tender age. She has mastered all of the runs and trills that the concerto demands with finesse.

But through all of her bodily contortions (she hunched over the piano, attacking it from above rather than from the side) her performance was not expressive and musical enough to do the romantic concerto justice. More specifically, she played the smooth "andante" passages with a bumpy—rather than fluid—left hand. Perhaps she assumed this interpretation to contrast the piano, with the deep blue tone colors of the orchestra. At any rate, the lack of smoothness in her playing was not only misconceived, but irritating.

Also irritating was Ravel's "Bolero," but one cannot heavily criticize the quality of the Detroit Symphony's performance. Ravel wrote "Bolero" with such a constant repetition of rhythm and melody that the resulting effect is comparable to the Chinese water torture, no matter who performs it. De Burgos' judgment in programming this shallow music is highly questionable.

The most complex and innovative composition on the program was Stravinsky's "Petrushka," which is an excellent opportunity for a fine orchestra and conductor to show off what they can do. But De Burgos outrageously abridged the piece. The first 35 shimmering pages of the score were ignored, as De Burgos began "Petrushka" with the "Russian Dance" passage.

The Detroit Symphony's librarian explained after the performance that the score was cut because it made the program too long. What makes this act of score-slicing so disgusting is that De Burgos indulged himself in an unprogrammed encore, Gimenez's "La Boda de Luis Alonso," extending the length of the concert that he has attempted to prune by shortening "Petrushka."

And if tampering with the score wasn't enough, De Burgos interpreted "Petrushka" as a series of short dance episodes instead of a total cohesive piece of music. Each episode had it's own distinct musical personality, which exploited the burlesque grotesque mood of the piece. But the sharp contrast between the garish musical tone colors and the excessively wide range of dynamics made the composition very disjointed when viewed as a whole. The fourth tableau, however, hung together pretty well, but the ending was cut.

If Stravinsky could have heard Monday night's butchering of "Petrushka," he would have had De Burgos obliterated. And with my blessing.

So now we are left with Glinka's Overture to "Russian and Ludmila," which was the only inoffensive piece on the program. In fact, it was impeccably played. And De Burgos' long legato phrases clipped at the ends suited the overture well. The Detroit Symphony's cello section possesses an exceptionally rich tone, which was at its best during the Glinka composition.

Monday night's performance proved that the Detroit Symphony is a capable ensemble. But they deserve a much better conductor than De Burgos, who has the taste and musical judgment of a high school drum major.

Faculty Lounge patronage way up

Use of the new faculty lounge in the Student Center was way up Tuesday following near-zero patronage on opening day Monday.

"We're very pleased with the response," James Sheppard, assistant director of the Student Center, said Tuesday. "I saw at least 15 to 20 people down there during the noon hour, and they all seemed to be enjoying themselves."

The new lounge is in the old Orient Room on the south end of the Student Center Cafeteria. It is open from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. and all faculty members are welcome, Sheppard said.

Local blood drive will start at SIU after Thanksgiving

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be on campus Nov. 26 through 30 as part of a blood drive sponsored by Angel Flight.

The drive will be held in the Student Center Ballrooms. Appointments for donors will be made between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tables will be set up Nov. 12 through 15 in the Student Center.

Donors also may sign up Nov. 16 through 19 and Nov. 20 at Lentz Hall at Thompson Point and at Trueblood and Grinnell Halls in Brush Towers and University Park.

Basic requirements for giving blood are that a person be 18 years old or older and weigh at least 100 pounds.

Planning group to consider ideas for Cedar Lake

Policies for the development, planning and operation of Cedar Lake will be reviewed by the Planning Commission at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Hall Courtroom.

The commission will discuss suggestions made by Carbondale citizens at the Oct. 24 public hearing and decide on a final draft of policies to be submitted to the Carbondale City Council.

The policies, prepared by commissions' Cedar Lake Planning Committee, received general approval at the hearing.

The issues drawing the most response were the allowance of hunting, the extent of development in the lake area and the allowance of motor boats.

Nixon plans to outline conservation proposals

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon, advised by a key aide that voluntary measures won't be enough to meet a mounting energy problem, plans to outline new conservation proposals, possibly in a television-radio address Wednesday night.

Nixon scheduled a Tuesday afternoon session with his Cabinet to discuss energy shortages aggravated by a cut-off of imports of Arab oil. He will meet with Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress on the same subject Wednesday morning.

The White House said Nixon plans "a series of suggestions and actions" to be accomplished both administratively and through legislation and might choose to do so in an address to the nation.

John A. Love, Nixon's energy policy adviser, has told the President that in the long run, he does not believe voluntary curbs on energy consumption would be enough to meet the problem.

During a Florida-weekend and again Tuesday, Nixon was studying option papers in a search for ways to curtail usage of gasoline, heating and other fuels and yet have the least impact on the daily lives of Americans.

Warren said White House officials, but not necessarily Nixon, would be holding a series of meetings on energy matters this week with elected state and local officials and representatives of business, labor and consumer groups.

Warren also acknowledged that Nixon is weighing a variety of potential steps aimed at dealing with his Watergate problems with the hope of putting them behind him.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, flying here from Florida with Nixon Monday night, told a small group of newsmen aboard Air Force One that Nixon will not resign "no matter how great the criticism."

At one point, Ziegler said Nixon was devoting a great deal of time to energy problems and the search for a Middle East peace, "not to this Watergate foolishness."

Ziegler said Tuesday he did not intend to suggest "that the entire Watergate matter was foolishness." It has elements of impropriety and tragedy as well as "a combination of some foolishness," he said.

Twenty injured in Chicago fire

CHICAGO (AP) — Twenty persons were injured, three critically Tuesday in an explosion and fire on the ninth floor of a 31-story building under construction in downtown Chicago.

The $30 million building at 125 S. Wacker Drive-Adams street and the Chicago River is being erected by the Northern Trust Bank. Officials estimated damage at $150,000.

A short circuit in a 12,000-volt transformer caused the explosion in an electrical vault on the ninth floor, firemen said. The line was being inspected by utility workers preparatory to turning on power in the structure.

Of the 20 persons taken to hospitals, 11 were treated and released. In addition to the three in critical condition, three were reported in fair condition, and three in good condition. Those most seriously injured were burned. Others suffered from smoke inhalation.

Constitution test not required for graduation

The state requires every student graduating from a public university to complete instruction in American patriotism and the principles of representative government plus proper use and display of the American flag. These are usually covered by a Constitution test in government or history courses taken as part of the General Studies curriculum.

However, SIU believes most students receive this instruction in high school or junior college before coming here, said Robert McGrath, dean of admissions and records.

He said the University of Illinois has never required the American patriotism course and Illinois junior colleges are accepting certification from high school and graduating students without further instruction.

The dropped requirement will not affect General Studies hours requirements, McGrath said. Students had to take one of 10 courses which offer the American patriotism material as a part of General Studies in the past.

Students do not have to take any of those courses now, but the number of course hours required for General Studies will remain the same.

Those students preparing to teach and who plan to seek Illinois teacher certification must still meet the certification requirements in the government area.

Saluki Flying Team gains tournament berth

The SIU saluki Flying Team has gained a berth in the Tournament of Champions of the National Intercollegiate Flying Association (NIFA) scheduled for May in St. Cloud, Minn.

The team won the regional competition last weekend at Bi-State Parks Airport in Cahokia.

Individual awards were won by Donald Moderow, Captain Lee Buland, Lenny Boltz, Kenny Morris and Dick Hammarland. In addition, the team received $100 to help with the expenses to the national meet.

The regional competition was sponsored by Parks College-St. Louis University.

Other teams in the competition were: Belleville Area College, Middle Tennessee State University, Parks College-St. Louis University, Indiana State University, Purdue University, Vincennes University, University of Illinois and University of Notre Dame.

Civil Service pay proposal to be answered

A resolution answering administration recommendations for a 21.7 per cent pay hike for Civil Service workers next year will come before the Civil Service Employees Council (CSEC) Wednesday.

The meeting will begin at noon in 121 General Classrooms and will be attended by Danilo Orsencanin, executive vice president and vice president for administration. Orsencanin said Tuesday he will attend mainly as an observer.

There will probably be a discussion of CSEC's meeting with State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, said Lee Hester, CSEC chairman. Hester said there may be a request for a second such meeting, to deal with civil service salaries.

Saluki performance will be all-student production

The half-time Marching Salukis show at Saturday's SIU-Drake football clash will be an all-student production.

Tradition indicates that the half-time festivities at the last home game of the season will be completely produced by the seniors in the Marching Salukis band. Accordingly, Director Mike Hanes has turned over artistic control of the show to the 18 senior Salukis.

The seniors have arranged all the numbers and charted all the routines for a half-time pageant that will include "South of the Border," "Goin' Out of My Head," "Going in Circles" and "In the Mood." One of the numbers will feature the Saluki Twirling Corps.

Capping the program will be "Senior Salute," a medley arrangement including "Up, Up and Away" and "Thanks for the Memories."

The senior show will be "as exciting and innovative as ever," Director Hanes said. Hanes does not hesitate to turn his seniors loose, he said, because "the best ideas of this band come from its members."

The SIU-Drake contest also will be the last game of the season featuring a guest high school band. The 100-member, all-brass 1973 Swingin' Brass of Effingham High School will perform Saturday.

Although Saturday marks the last

Marching Salukis football appearance this year, they will perform once more this quarter at a free concert. The concert is set for 8 p.m. Dec. 10 in Shryock Auditorium.

House debates new transit plan for Chicago area

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois House suspended its rules Tuesday to allow the immediate introduction of a new plan to form a Regional Transit Authority (RTA) for the Chicago area.

The new plan, introduced by members of both political parties, was billed as a compromise between rival RTA plans proposed by Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker and Republican House Speaker W. Robert Blair of Park Forest.

The Walker and Blair plans were debated by the Senate Transportation Committee Tuesday, while the House scheduled a discussion by full membership on all three RTA plans on Wednesday.

The new RTA plan, combined features of both the Walker and Blair proposals.

"In case neither the Walker nor the Blair plan is enacted, we would hope that our bill may provide an acceptable vehicle for compromise," Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Chicago, principal sponsor of the new legislation, said.

Under the Katz plan, the RTA would be funded with fixed per cent of the revenues raised in the six-county area from the state's 5 per cent sales tax.

To provide property tax relief downstate, the General Assembly would appropriate to county governments outside the RTA area a fixed per cent of sales tax revenues raised in the downstate counties.

Katz said the amount of sales tax revenue returned to each downstate county would vary in proportion to the amount raised in that county. Thus, he said, the size of the property tax reduction would vary from one county to another. He said the range would be from about two to six per cent.

Sales tax revenues, Katz said, would provide about $50 million for the RTA and $35 million for property tax relief. He said that if federal funds become available for the transit authority, sales tax revenues might be used for property tax relief in the Chicago area.

3 Dog Night concert to feature multi-media

Three Dog Night has developed an all new multi-media show for Friday's concert at the Arena, which will feature a nostalgic trip to the fifties.

The show features a 30-minute medley of rock and roll tunes, several costume changes with grease hair wigs, pink satin outfits and several surprise members.

Also appearing in the concert will be Deodato, a new instrumental group best known for the success they have had with their 2001 Space Odyssey sound. Deodato will open the 8 p.m. concert with one hour of music. Three Dog Night will follow with two hours of the multi-media show.

Tickets for the concert are priced at $4.50, $5.50 and $6. SIU students receive a 50-cent discount off the top two prices. Many good seats are still available, however, only a few of the top price tickets remain.

Tickets may be purchased at the Student Center until noon Friday and at the SIU Arena until 5 p.m. Friday, or at Penneys, Sav Mart, Tempo, or Wards in Murphysboro through Thursday. Remaining tickets will go on sale at the door.

Both sides trade fire in Mideast

By The Associated Press

Israeli and Egyptian troops traded small-arms fire across the Suez cease-fire line Tuesday while Syria reported Israeli jets fired rockets at it's positions on the Golan Heights.

The cracks in the Middle East cease-fire were reported as Arab leaders worked out arrangements for a summit conference in Algeria late next week.

U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Tunis for the second stop of his Middle East peace tour after an overnight stay in Morocco, where he conferred with King HASSAN II.

Following a meeting with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba, he scheduled meetings with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt in Cairo on Wednesday. Egyptian government spokesman Ahmed Anis said Kissinger's talks with Sadat would be "of paramount importance."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov was also traveling in the search for a peace settlement. He held talks in Damascus with Syrian leaders amid reports his next stop would be Baghdad.

In Tel Aviv it was announced that Israel had authorized a 50-truck convoy to carry badly needed food and water to the 20,000 men of the 3rd Army stranded behind Israeli lines.

The convoy was in addition to the first 125-truck supply fleet approved by Israel 10 days ago under pressure from Washington. Word of the new convoy reached the tense cease-fire front just as the last seven trucks of the original convoy were being unloaded.

Israel announced that 1,854 Israeli soldiers had been killed in the Middle East fighting, the largest toll in any conflict with the Arabs since the first fight for independence in 1948, when nearly 5,000 died.

A spokesman for U.N. peace-keeping forces said U.N. troops had been unable to deploy into Israeli-held areas of the Sinai Desert because "the Israelis are still examining the practical aspects of their support to the U.N. emergency forces." He did not elaborate.

He said Egypt has given the U.N. forces a map showing positions of Israeli and Egyptian armies when the first Mideast cease-fire went into effect Oct. 22.

Egypt demands that Israel pull back to this position before there can be any exchange of prisoners or other steps taken toward a peace settlement. The Israelis apparently have yet to supply their map of the Oct. 22 line, which the U.N. forces are under instructions to restore.

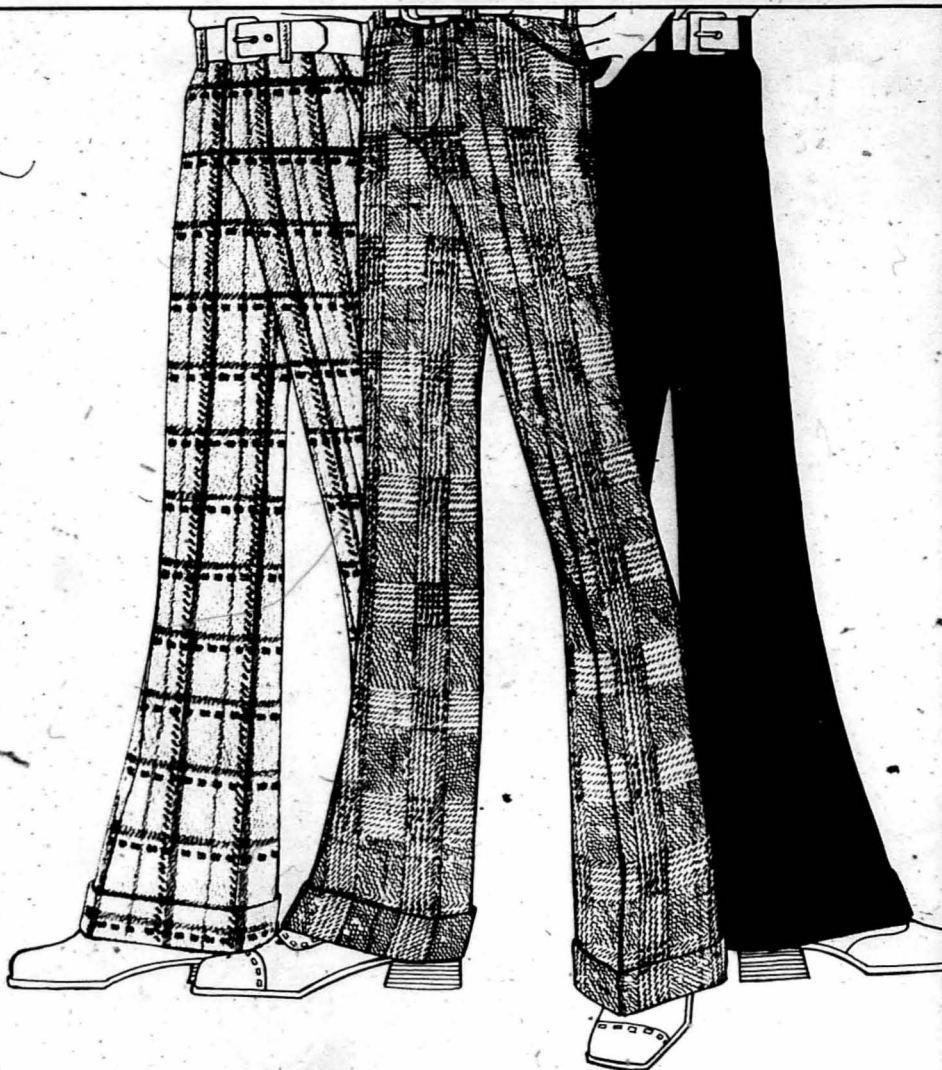

Saigon says rocket attack enemy signal

SAIGON (AP) - A rocket attack on the government's Bien Hoa air base and the storming of two army outposts near the Cambodian border signaled the first phase of a new Communist offensive, Saigon authorities said Tuesday.

A barrage of 35 Russian-made 122mm rockets hit the big air base and nearby civilian areas just before daybreak, destroying three F5 fighter bombers. The government said one soldier and a child were killed in the bombardment and 22 soldiers and civilians were wounded.

The Bu Bong and Bu Prang border camps were overrun Monday. Spokesmen said Tuesday that about 200 soldiers from the camps are still missing and it was feared they had been wiped out.

A government communique said the number of military and civilian dead on both sides since the Jan. 28 cease-fire has topped the 50,000 mark, standing at noon Tuesday at 50,044.

City Council passes railroad ordinances

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ordinances annexing and zoning of the Gulf Railroad right-of-way were passed unanimously at the Carbondale City Council's formal meeting Monday night.

The land, which runs north along the railroad tracks from the city limits to Dillinger Road, was zoned I-2, general industrial zone. The zoning was made in accordance with the Planning Commission's recommendations.

A planned industrial park will be located east of the tracks and south of Dillinger Road.

In other action, the council approved an agreement between the city and Clark, Dietz and Associates retaining the engineering firm for the K-Mart project. The K-Mart store will be built east of Carbondale along Route 13 across from J.C. Penney's.

The agreement retains the firm to prepare final designs and calculations, construction plans and specifications for the project and to provide general administration of construction for the water and sewer main extensions.

The council authorized City Manager Carroll Fry to execute the agreement.

The council also approved an engineering contract with the firm for the design and planning of utilities in the planned industrial park.

Fry pointed out that, under the agreement, no work would start until funds for the engineering services becomes available from a federal or state agency, or until the city authorizes the work.

The council awarded a bid of $6,309 from Modern Office Methods, Inc. for a communication recording system for the Carbondale Police Department.

The bid is $491 under what was budgeted for the system. It will be installed about 30 days after written notification of the contract award. Council also authorized Coun-

Vineyard to ask for a grant from the Illinois Bicentennial Association for improvements of Woodlawn Cemetery.

Quail hunting outlook good

The Southern Illinois bobwhite quail community appears to be pressing ahead with a population comeback, and hunting prospects on the eve of the season which opens Saturday look better than last year. For one thing, according to the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory, there are more birds; more than last year, but still about 10 per cent below the average over the past 20 years.

But even more important to hunters may be the fact that much more of the deep downstate corn and soybean crop has been harvested than at this time in 1972. This means birds should be concentrated more uniformly in brushy and weedy cover, and easier to locate. John Roseberry, who has directed the SIU Laboratory's annual quail census, says populations are still recovering from bad years in 1970 and 1971. But they have yet to reach boom census counts of 1967-68.

Nesting success and breeding bird carryovers from last year are rated good.

The Wildlife Laboratory survey is conducted on 2,800 areas of representative research land.

Drop in city crime rate continues

Al Gendek
Student Writer

Police Chief Joe Dakin told the Monday night meeting of the City Council that crime has remained down in Carbondale despite an increase in rural areas.

Dakin based his statement on some unpublished 1973 figures. He appeared before the formal meeting of the Council to present a special Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) report which evaluated the Carbondale Police Crime Deterrence Program.

In summarizing the ILEC report

Dakin explained that in 1971 Carbondale had the 5th highest crime rate in the state. He said that within six months that rating had dropped to 36th and presently Carbondale is ranked 56th.

The report itself praised Dakin's work. "Under the leadership of Chief Dakin the Department has added a number of new programs," the report said. "Police Community Relations, Operation Identification, Crime Prevention Bureau, and the Crime Deterrence Project are some of the most noteworthy."

Councilman Hans Fischer then asked Dakin to furnish figures every six months to evaluate the state law allowing liquor consumption by 19-year-olds.

"Reports are inconclusive at this point because they can't pin down all the data," Fischer said.

Dakin said that statistics have been gathered since Oct. 1, 1973 and that the reports would be given. He said the figures deal with such offenses as disorderly conduct and drunk driving.

"If the trend is what it has been in other parts of the country we can expect these kinds of things to increase," Dakin said.

Dakin did cite one possible crime decrease as a result of the state law. He said that as the drinking age goes down there will be less arrests for underage possession of liquor.

Professors return from Brazil trip

Stephen Satterfield
Student Writer

Farrel Olsen, who recently returned from a two-year visit to Brazil, categorized classes at the University of Santa Maria as a three-ring circus. Olsen said that students and teachers come and go as they please, unlike universities in the U.S. where classes are fitted into a relatively tight schedule.

In a School of Agriculture seminar Friday, Olsen, associate professor of plant and soil science, and Richard Welton, assistant professor of agricultural industries, told of their work at the University of Santa Maria. The university is located in the state of Rio Grande de Sul which is the southern most state of Brazil.

Welton said Rio Grande de Sul is truly "the breadbasket of the country." Olsen explained that there are about 12,000,000 cattle raised there and as far as grain production is concerned, Brazil ranks second in the world for corn yield.

Welton explained that he was in charge of conducting seminars in the agriculture schools. He went on to say that agricultural high schools are very common in Brazil. The students both live and work at the schools.

Both Olsen and Welton agree that there is great agricultural potential in Brazil and specifically in the state of Rio Grande de Sul.

Bork promises hardy investigation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Acting Atty. Gen. Robert Bork pledged Monday to pursue the Watergate investigation vigorously and said he has placed Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen in charge of it.

Bork, who became acting attorney general Saturday and fired Cox, said he told Petersen Sunday about the President's expectation of a vigorous investigation.

"Mr. Peterson, of course, would not have it any other way and neither would I," Bork said.

Foreign students will spend holiday with local families

By Karl Plath
Student Writer

During Thanksgiving break, most SIU students will leave campus to spend the holidays with family or friends. But what of SIU's international students who find themselves alone in a foreign country?

This year, as it has for several years, the International Student Center will sponsor a "Hospitality Program" to help alleviate the problem. Under this program, foreign students will be able to spend all or part of the break with local families.

Margret Williams, service office supervisor at the center, said the program has been very successful in the past. "Last year we placed about 50 students with 35 families," she said.

"We try to carefully match the desires of the families and the students," Ms. Williams said. "Some students may request farm or rural families or homes with children. Some families may request particular nationalities or age groups," she added.

Suzuko Mita, Ph. D. candidate in home economics from Tokyo, Japan, stayed with a family last year that had requested a Japanese student.

"They had a pen pal in Japan and liked Japanese customs. They wanted to learn more about them," Ms. Mita explained.

Ms. Mita, who has stayed with over 20 different families during her three years at SIU, says it is also a learning experience for her. "I want to know Americans, to have American friends, and to understand American family customs," she said.

She said anyone participating in the program can expect to have a "very wonderful time." The families are concerned about what you want. They are very kind," she explained.

This year, Ms. Williams expects more participation due to an increase in international students. She hopes more families will volunteer, but expects no problems in this area.

Interested families or students should contact Ms. Williams at the International Student Center, 453-5774.

HEW representative to seek local interns

A representative of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) will be on campus Nov. 16 to interview prospective interns.

Lee Chenoweth of the Career Planning and Placement Center said HEW is looking for outstanding persons with management potential. Applicants are eligible regardless of the discipline of their major or the degree they hold.

Chenoweth emphasized the desirability of the internship program to students in the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Sciences, who may be having or will have a difficult time finding a job.

Those accepted into the HEW internship program will begin with a minimum General Schedule classification of five, which carries an $8,000 salary for bachelor degree holders. Within a few years it is possible to work up to a federal classification of 13, which carries a permanent position and a $20,000 salary, Chenoweth said.

He said that either before or after the interview applicants must take the federal service entrance examination and score 95 or better. Veterans are given a five-point preference. Students with a GPA of 4.375 or better can automatically score 100 in the federal test, Chenoweth said.

The next federal service test will be given at 8:30 a.m. Saturday in Egawson 101. It will last all morning. Those desiring to take the test must apply at the Career Planning and Placement Center prior to test time.

Chenoweth said anyone interested in a 30-minute interview for the internship program should request an appointment at the Career Planning and Placement Center.

Edwardsville fire reported as arson

EDWARDSVILLE, (AP)—A fire that did $10,000 damage to the Edwardsville High School agricultural shop Oct. 19 was "definitely arson," State Fire Marshall William Buxton said today.

The fire started in a metal cleaning tank containing solvent and should have been contained by safety devices that apparently were tampered with, Buxton said. Most of the damage was caused by smoke.

The degree was conferred during the 104-year-old black college's annual Founders Day observance, by the college's president, Dr. George A. Owens.

STC seeks camera repair program here

David Fredman
Student Writer

SIU's School of Technical Careers is awaiting a decision by a national organization of photo-technologists on a proposal to establish a vocational camera repair program here.

Terence Brown, assistant dean of the School of Technical Careers (formerly VTI), said the idea for a camera repair program was suggested last spring by Norman Goldberg, technical director of Popular Photography magazine, made the suggestion while touring the Cinema and Photography Department.

Early planning began when Goldberg discussed the idea with Brown, Bob Davis, department chairman of the Cinema and Photography and Bill Horrell, professor in the department.

"We decided that in order for a program like this to be successful we would need the full support of the camera industry. We discussed such things as industry sponsorship, placement, internships, recruitment and funding," Brown said.

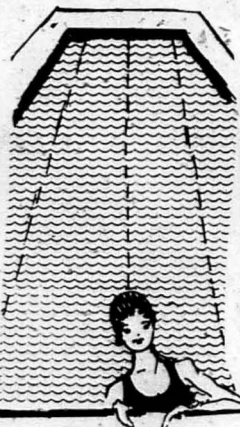

Goldberg discussed the proposal at the 1973 Society of Photo-Technologists (SPT) convention, and Brown received a letter from the SPT saying that the organization was willing to help.

Brown said that correspondence with the SPT is still in progress. Funding, equipment and program development are the main topics being discussed.

"We are soliciting the industry right now for funds and ideas, but we don't know the exact dollar and cents figure that it would take to get the program rolling," Brown added. Brown said if the program gets started it will be the first of its kind. Early planning indicates that the program would be located on the Carbondale campus, where the STC is currently moving its programs.

"I think the program would greatly benefit SIU. We have a good location in that we are centrally located, and the camera industry would give us the kind of attention that would be very beneficial in job placement," Brown said.

Telpro looking for volunteers for music show

If you've been dying to see your face on the boob-tube and would like to hear a little free music besides, just turn on down to the color studios of WSIU this Friday and make a dream come true.

"Telpro, an organization of radio-TV majors, will videotape 'May the Circle Be Unbroken,' a show featuring six local musicians in-the-round this Friday and needs 40 to 50 students to sit in a 'circle around the circle,' Barry Halgrimson, one of the musicians, said Tuesday.

"We'll begin filming at 6:30 p.m. Friday and shoot until 9," Halgrimson said. "We'll have to turn away anyone who is late."

"Everybody's welcome," Halgrimson said, "but you'll have to come early to get a seat." The studio is in the Communications Building directly across the hall from the radio-TV department's offices.

Besides Halgrimson, Dana Shippy, Jacque Rose Grimm, Rob Sulski, Pam Sodor and Dennis Pearne will perform.

Aviators gain 15 pledges

Alpha Eta Rho, the professional aviation fraternity, recently completed its 1973 fall rush session.

John Bleen, treasurer, said the fraternity took 15 new pledges. There are currently 32 active members.

Bleen said the purpose of Alpha Eta Rho is "to promote aviation in any way we can." The fraternity sponsors speakers who give talks at their weekly meetings. These talks are open to the public. In the spring, the fraternity plans to hold a dinner meeting for the general public with several well-known speakers on hand. Plans for this event are incomplete.

Also in the planning stages is the purchase of an airplane which could be used by all qualified members. According to Bleen, the plane would be bought with money saved from past years and a loan from a bank.

Ramsey Clark defense witness in Chicago 7 trial

By Mary Ganz
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO—Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark testified Tuesday about his role in planning security for the 1968 Democratic National Convention street demonstrations which led to the Chicago 7 conspiracy trial.

Clark testified as a defense witness in a contempt trial of five Chicago 7 defendants and two of their lawyers.

Clark, interrupted again and again by objections from attorneys prosecuting the contempt charges, began to detail the events which led to the indictment of the Chicago 7 defendants on conspiracy and anti-riot charges.

Morton Stavis, chief defense counsel, told Judge Edward T. Gignoux of U.S. District Court that Clark's testimony was needed to show "the climate of events leading up to the indictment and trial" of the Chicago 7 defendants for charges stemming from violence during the 1968 convention. Lawyers for the prosecution objected repeatedly, stressing that such testimony was irrelevant to the contempt charges now before the court.

Thomas P. Sullivan, a lawyer involved in the case, testified Tuesday that he was "dumbfounded" at the actions of Judge Hoffman early in the original conspiracy trial when Hoffman cited four other attorneys for contempt.

Sullivan said Hoffman became angry because four lawyers whose names appeared on briefs for the defendants had not shown up in court at the start of the trial.

Sullivan, who represented the attorneys, testified that the four had been introduced in court as participants only in the pre-trial portion of the case.

"I never experienced—never heard of a judge holding a lawyer in contempt just because his name was on the brief and he didn't appear for trial," said Sullivan, an attorney with a Chicago law firm.

Under cross examination, Sullivan testified that he was unable to pursue a defense of the four lawyers with Judge Hoffman at the time of the citations because the judge left the courtroom. "We were all standing at the lectern dumbfounded," he said. "Everybody was talking at once . . . frankly, we couldn't believe what we were seeing—Judge Hoffman got up and left the bench."

The contempt orders against the four lawyers later were vacated.

Gignoux dismissed contempt citations against two defendants Saturday. The two, John R. Froines and Lee Weiner, had been acquitted in the conspiracy trial of all charges. The other five defendants, David Dellinger, Tom Hayden, Jerry Rubin, Abbie Hoffman and Rennie Davis, were convicted of violations of the anti-riot act.

The convictions later were overturned on appeal.

The five and their attorneys, William Kunstler and Leonard Weinglass, are standing trial for some of the original 175 contempt citations imposed by Judge Hoffman. Some were dropped earlier by the prosecution; others thrown out Saturday by Judge Gignoux.

Nixon's personal secretary to testify

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's long-time personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, was notified Tuesday she will be called to testify about her review of the subpoenaed Watergate tapes.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, presiding over a fact-finding hearing into two Watergate-related recordings the White House says never were made, interrupted the fourth day of proceedings to say: "As long as we're going into this detail, will someone please get word to Miss Woods that she will be called as a witness in this case?"

Douglas Parker, a White House lawyer, said he assumes Miss Woods will be permitted to testify.

The White House deferred comment and Miss Woods was not available for comment.

Presidential aide Stephen V. Bull testified that Miss Woods reviewed some of the nine tapes sought in the subpoenas, frequently typing at the same time.

But Bull repeatedly refused to say whether Miss Woods was making a transcript and said he didn't even ask.

"I intentionally did not do this because it was not my business," he said.

Meanwhile, the Senate Watergate committee sought to determine whether Nixon would meet with panel members to give his account of the Watergate scandal.

Committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said after a closed committee meeting on the move that members would be willing to meet with the President at the White House and not require him to testify under oath.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., who proposed the meeting, said a public record of such a meeting should be published afterward.

The White House had no direct comment on the proposed meeting, but a spokesman said Nixon intends to deal with Watergate matters "in a clear and fair way."

In another action, the committee heard public testimony from four witnesses called by Republican members to discuss so-called dirty tricks allegedly perpetrated against the Nixon re-election campaign last year.

Bull said Miss Woods began listening to the tapes and typing Sept. 29 at Camp David, Md., and continued this work the next week in Washington and through the following weekend at Key Biscayne, Fla., where Nixon has a home.

When she was not working with the recordings, Bull said, the tapes were kept in a safe in her office and in a specially obtained heavy safe, guarded 24 hours a day, at Key Biscayne.

Final exam schedule announced

The 1973 Fall Quarter examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Some questions might develop for which answers can be provided at this time.

1. Classes that meet longer than one hour on Tuesday and Thursday, such as four quarter hour classes, should use the examination period established for the earlier of the hours. (For example, a class meeting from 2:00 to 3:50 on Tuesday and Thursday would hold its examination at 7:50 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 15.)

2. Some classes meeting only on Tuesday and Thursday may not use a lecture instructional technique but do hold final examinations. For example, a laboratory or seminar type class may meet on Tuesday and Thursday from 11:00 to 12:50. Such a class would have its examination at 5:50 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 13.

3. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations and for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination week to provide sufficient notice for all.

The following points are also pertinent relative to the final examination schedule:

1. One and two credit hour courses have their examinations during the last regularly scheduled class period prior to the formal final examination week.

2. A student who has more than three examinations on one day may petition, and a student who has two examinations scheduled at one time should petition his academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that a student may decide to miss his scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for a student whose petition has been approved by his dean.

3. A student who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given a student who misses a final examination and is not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

4. A special note needs to be made relative to examinations for evening sections for those classes which have been granted a special time for examining all sections. As some students attending at night may not be able to attend the special examination period scheduled for the daytime, each department involved will have to arrange special examination periods for such students. This problem involves those night students who are fully employed during the day and who are taking night courses because it is the only time they are able to do so.

Thieves lift music instruments, TV

Burglars took seven musical instruments from Lincoln Junior High School, 429 S. Washington Ave., Sunday. The theft took place before 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The thieves broke into several offices damaging desks and locks. There are currently no suspects.

A black and white Montgomery Ward television set was reported stolen from room 1632 Schneider Hall Monday. The theft took place between 2 and 5 p.m. The set was valued at $50.

Two tires were stolen from a car parked at Southern Hills, sometime late Monday or early Tuesday.

OAS applications for fellowships now available

The Organization of American States (OAS) training program announces that applications for fellowships for research and study in member countries of the OAS are available.

Fellowships will be granted to researchers with advanced training in the field of knowledge in which they have specialized. Candidates must have a university degree and demonstrated ability to pursue advanced studies in the field chosen. They must be accepted to the foreign universities that they wish to attend and have a sufficient knowledge of the language of that country.

The deadline for applications is Dec. 31 or June 30. Information and applications may be obtained from: Office of Fellowships and Training, Secretariat for Technical Cooperation, Organization of American States, Washington, D.C. 20006.

Proficiency exam for Geography 300 offered Nov. 30

A proficiency examination will be offered for Geography 300, introduction to geography, from 2 to 4 p.m. Nov. 30 in the classroom at 1008 S. Elizabeth St.

A new volume entitled "A Bibliography of Nepal" has been compiled and published by four SIU faculty members.

The compilers of the 281-page bibliographic project are Basil C. Hedrick, dean of international education; John O. Anderson, professor in speech pathology and audiology; Ratna S. J. B. Rana, former faculty member with the department of geography; and Judith W. Grimes, researcher at the SIU Museum.

The book is published by The Scarecrow Press, Inc., Metuchen, N.J.

According to Hedrick, this book was prompted by "a need to keep abreast of increasing information being written about Nepal."

"This bibliography is more complete than any such volume available pertaining to Nepal, and it will serve a useful purpose for those who consult it as a reference work on Nepal," he said.

The book consists of 17 sections of journals and books on Nepal, followed by an author index at the end of the collection.

"The compilers have donated all proceeds of sales of this book to the Southern Illinois University Foundation to help defray some of the cost for any Nepalese students who may want to come and study here," Hedrick said.

W. D. Klinefelter, professor of zoology, has been selected to serve on a team of national authorities to review the Department of Natural Resources, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, from Monday through Thursday.

Five SIU School of Medicine faculty members have been invited to present papers at the 84th annual meeting of the American Association of Medical Colleges (AAMC) in Washington, D.C., this week.

SIU has the distinction of having more faculty members presenting papers at the meeting than any other college or university. Of the 32 papers accepted for presentation, four are by SIU-C faculty members.

Maurice Levy, Rosalia Paiva, John E. Ware, Jr., Mary K. Snyder, and W. Russell Wright, all of SIU's Office of Medical Education, will be presenting papers at the five-day sessions.

The meeting, which begins Sunday, is expected to draw over 4,000 persons. The theme selected for this year's sessions is "Preparation and Role of the Physician: Comparative Approaches."

A paper co-authored by Levy, professor of medical education and director of the Department of Educational Resources and Development at the Medical School, will be presented at the Thursday session. The paper is entitled, "Effect of Previous Clerkship Experience on Readiness for an Internal Medicine Clerkship." He will also chair a session on medical student characteristics at the Thursday meeting on research in medical education.

On Tuesday, Levy will address the American Academy of Physicians' Assistants Conference at Georgetown University. He will discuss the National Board of Medical Examiners Examination at the AAPA conference.

Paiva, an SIU associate professor, will present "High and Low Levels of Dogmatism in Relation to Personality Characteristics of Medical Students: A Follow-up Study," at the Thursday session.

Ware, Snyder, and Wright, co-authors of a paper entitled, "The Factor Structure of Consumer Beliefs and Attitudes: Implications for the Evaluation of Medical Care and Medical Education," will also present their paper at the Thursday session.

Lois M. Rasche, Ph.D., at the Counseling and Testing Center, will also present a paper at the session. Her paper is entitled, "Evaluation of a Systematic Approach to Teaching Interviewing."

D. Dax Taylor, associate dean for medical education at the School of Medicine, will chair the business meeting of the Group on Medical Education's Steering Committee and will co-chair an educational session co-sponsored by the Group on Medical Education and the Group on Student Affairs.

Career Day '73 slated Nov. 13-14 by firms

Representatives of five companies, a metropolitan police department and the U.S. Army will be on campus two days this month to answer questions about job opportunities.

Career Day '73 is scheduled for November 13-14 in the Student Center Ballroom A. On Nov. 13, hours will be from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For the fifth year, the Society for the Advancement of Management, is composed chiefly of business and marketing majors, is holding the event.

Booths manned by organization representatives will be set up in the ballroom. Photographs, pamphlets, filmstrips and other literature will be provided.

SAM Vice-President Gary Walter explained the program is informal to put students at ease. He added, "The firms are not here to recruit you, but rather to inform you. If an interview is desired, students will be referred to the proper contacts."

Organizations represented will be Sears, Osco Drug, St. Louis Police Department, the Army, General Tire and Rubber Co., Fidelity Union Life Insurance and Diagraph-Bradley.

Students may come and go as they please over the two day program, Walter said.

Figures like national debt

Physical Plant workings boggle mind

By Julie Tizane
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Explaining the workings of the SIU Physical Plant is like trying to explain the national debt—the figures get so large they are hard to comprehend.

After all, how many of us ever swept 33 acres of walks, mowed 300 acres of lawn or turned on a 3500-ton air conditioning unit? How many have paid a $467,295 water bill or a $1,308,100 electric bill?

Those many acres of walks and lawns are only a small part of the 865 acres maintained by the physical plant. (The entire campus includes 2,859 acres.) The bills mentioned are for 1972, and are bound to increase each year.

Physical Plant director Anthony Blass lists four areas of responsibility for his department: Building maintenance, building services (custodial), grounds and utilities maintenance. There are 328 full-time employees and 200 student workers to carry out those responsibilities. Most of the students work in building services; about 50 of them hold clerical and miscellaneous positions with the department.

The Physical Plant people must concern themselves with matters that nearly everyone at the University takes for granted. For instance, the water used to rinse chemical vials in labs and the gulps taken at the water fountain were part of 397,133,750 gallons consumed by SIU last year. That light overhead may be one of over one million lamps in the academic buildings that accounted for part of 114,370,000 kilowatt hours used on campus last year.

The more complex maintaining the University becomes, the more important simplicity is to Physical Plant operations. The most important factor in the simplification of temperature maintenance is SIU's

Central Campus Utility Control System (CCUCS).

The control unit, looking like a transplant from a space control center, is housed in the steam plant building. For eight and a half years the computerized system has monitored the temperature, manned the fire alarms and even set the clocks in the newer buildings housed in the campus core area.

The control console for the system is relatively small, almost switch-board size. The person sitting at the control desk looks onto a shiny array of lights, switches and dials. A computerized typewriter juts from the console, to the controller's side.

Central Control Supervisor Jim Bailey explained that each building on the system and each area within the building, has a specific code. The person at the control panel can dial in any building to check and adjust the temperature. All building temperatures are checked and logged on schedule; any system malfunctions or abrupt changes are typed out automatically in code.

To demonstrate the effectiveness of the system, Bailey pointed out how easily a controller can maintain the temperature in the Arena during a basketball game. As excitement and activity on the court or in the bleachers increases, the temperature may rise several degrees. The controller, dialed into the Arena, watches the digital temperature readout on the panel and can lower the temperature to keep fans and players cool, if not calm.

Some older buildings, including Wheeler, Atgeld and the Women's Gym, are not on CCUCS. Agriculture and Life Science I, not presently included, will soon be integrated into the system. The Student Center is not included, nor are any dormitories except the high-rise.

Ten of Bailey's staff of 13 controllers are student workers, mostly engineering students. Bailey noted that the experience is very beneficial for the students, who are completely in charge of the operations on evenings and weekends.

While the small control center staff works behind the scenes on one set of Physical Plant responsibilities, a much larger and more noticeable group attends to another. A majority of the department's employees is directly involved in keeping the facilities clean and in good repair.

Every month the Physical Plant will receive around 2,500 requests

Special exhibit

VIENNA (AP) — The City Council of this city has voted $110,000 toward the financing of a special Arnold Schoenberg exhibit from May 25 to June 23, 1974, to honor the composer's 100th birthday.

The exhibit will have 50 paintings by Schoenberg, handwritten notes and other papers. Schoenberg was an inventor and held several patents, among them those for a notewriting and a bookbinding machine.

from individuals needing some kind of work done. Every weekday 25 to 30 calls come into the department and additional requests are made to central control, which mans the phone after hours.

All in all, over 560,000 man-hours are given to facilities maintenance each year, with an additional 140,000 man-hours spent in chores over and above maintenance.

What could make the Physical Plant duties easier? A change in attitude on the part of many, according to director Blass.

The fact that people constantly ruin floor tiles, carpeting and equipment with cigarette burns is particularly bothersome to Blass.

"Smoking is one of the things we're most concerned about—but it's the man in front of the classroom that really needs to be concerned," he said. "You wouldn't burn carpeting in your own home...You wonder if some people even care."

Those conveniently located vending machines are also a problem, Blass noted, since students always seem to drop wrappings on the most conveniently located receptacle—the floor.

The SIU community can always help the Physical Plant by reporting maintenance problems.

"When people see that we're interested in getting things done, they're easier on us," Blass commented. "After all, our mission here is to support the academic people and their programs."

SIU Alpha Tau Omega to become state chapter

The SIU Alpha Tau Omega colony will become the Illinois Theta Zeta Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega (ATO) at an installation ceremony Saturday.

The ceremony, scheduled for the Student Center, will include participation by initiation teams from ATO chapters at Northwestern University, the University of Illinois, Western Illinois University, Calver-Stockton College, Monmouth College and Stephen F. Austin State University.

Following the installation ceremony, a banquet, scheduled for 7 p.m. at the University Club in the Ramada Inn, will honor the new fraternity. Doug Weaver, SIU Director of Athletics, will be a guest. Representatives of the 15 fraternities and sororities at SIU also will attend. Alpha Tau Omega alumni have been invited.

SIU's ATO colony was founded in October, 1972. Since then, its membership has grown from three to 40. The colony's petition for status as an ATO chapter was approved recently by the fraternity's 147 undergraduate chapters in the United States and Canada.

Spartans thin for OSU game

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State's problem against nationally top-ranked Ohio State Saturday is to show up in one piece.

"We were kinda wiped out," Michigan State coach Denny Stolz said Tuesday of his Spartans' costly 21-0 Big Ten football victory over Wisconsin last Saturday.

Among three Spartan players requiring surgery on left knee injuries sustained against the Badgers was star quarterback Charley Baggett.

"We'll have to wait until we get to Ohio State before we can resolve our big personnel problem," Stolz told the Chicago Football Writers by telephone.

Also lost for the Michigan State season were offensive tackle Phil Smolinski and center Charles Ane.

"We just have a fantastic assignment getting ready for the nation's No. 1 team," said Stolz, whose Spartans have an overall 3-5 record and stand 2-3 in the Big Ten.

"Ohio State is an awesome football team. It has no weaknesses, is well coached and has great athletes, plus having a lot of momentum as the country's top team."

Reserve quarterback Tyrone Willingham carried on ably after Baggett was injured early in the Wisconsin game, but Stolz said depth at the position would be a big problem against the Buckeyes.

Basketball officiating meeting set

Students planning on officiating at intramural basketball games must attend the following basketball rule interpretation meetings prior to the start of the season.

The meetings are scheduled from 7-9 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 12 and Thursday, Nov. 15 in the Arena, Room 125. All interested persons must have a current A.C.T. Family Financial Statement on file with the Student Work Office at Washington Square.

Officials are paid $3 per game. Play starts on Tuesday, Nov. 27.

All students interested in entering an intramural basketball team for competition during the Fall and Winter quarters must attend a meeting for team managers at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 13 at Lawson Hall, Room 161.

Team rosters must be submitted in order to be officially entered. Blank rosters can be obtained in the Office of Recreation and Intramurals.

For further information, contact the Office of Recreation and Intramurals at the Arena, Room 128 or call 453-2710.

Mini-Soccer

meeting slated

Any SIU student interested in entering a team in the Intramural Indoor Mini-Soccer Tournament must attend a meeting for team managers at 4 p.m. Monday, at the SIU Arena, Room 121.

All team rosters must be submitted in order to be officially entered. Blank rosters can be picked up at the Office of Recreation and Intramurals.

The tournament will be held from 6:30-11:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 14 and Thursday, Nov. 15.

For further information contact the Office of Recreation and Intramurals at the Arena, Room 128 or call 453-2710.

Flag football schedule

The following intramural flag football games are scheduled for Wednesday by the Office of Recreation and Intramurals:

At 4 p.m.—Galouts vs. Volunteers, field 1; Marks vs. Up Your Alley, field 2; Clams vs. Electronic Zippers, field 3; Lewis Park vs. Merlins-Buffaloes, field 4; and Cool Blues vs. Burnouts, field 5.

Each Alex Agase, ap- person at the Chicago session, cautiously ap- big Nov. 24 Big Ten bet- in Ohio State and four- higan.

Minnesota, Saturday invades a Nov. 17 tangle with Michigan and the Boiler-makers do not play Ohio State.

"I've watched both Ohio State and Michigan on films and it will be a tight game," said Agase. "Neither team makes mistakes. Anybody who scores two touchdowns could be the winner, or a field goal could win it."

Indiana coach Lee Corso, whose Hoosiers lost to both Ohio State and Michigan, said "both are so good that mistakes in the kicking game" could decide the showdown at Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I don't know which has the better kicking game," joked Corso. "Both have had to do a lot of kicking off and kicking for extra points, but neither has had to punt very much."

"The best field goal kicker might win the game, but they've never had to kick any field goals."

Indiana, winless in the Big Ten at 0-5, is host Saturday to North-western 2-3 whose coach Johnny Pont left Indiana after last season to take the Wildcat job vacated when Agase moved to Purdue.

"Pont was very popular at Indiana," said Corso, "and the players he recruited may have a little extra incentive playing against him. We have a five-game losing streak, but we're not discouraged at all."

Pont, whose Wildcats were outaced by Minnesota 52-43 last Saturday, said "There's no question of my emotional involvement playing at Indiana, but it's not affecting our game plan." The game is for the players, for who recruited them."

Ohio State keeps its No. 1 ranking

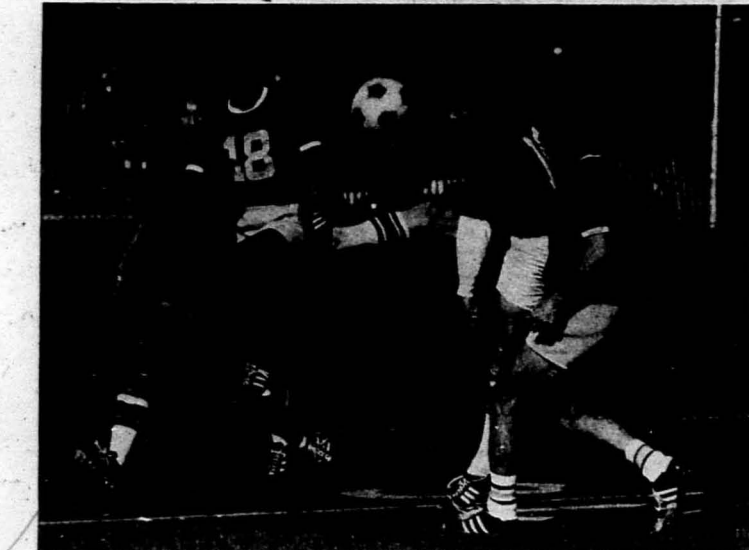

Unbeaten Ohio State maintained its No. 1 ranking in the weekly Associated Press major college football poll Tuesday while No. 2 Alabama picked up some ground.

Woody Hayes' Buckeyes and Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide remained in a two-way race for the lead after shutting out opponents last weekend. Ohio State ran its record to 7-0 with a 30-0 romp over Big Ten foe Illinois and Alabama made it eight in a row by rolling over Mississippi State 35-0. Voters in the weekly poll gave OSU 35 first-place votes and 1,146 points and 14 favored Alabama, which amassed 1,096 and narrowed the gap of a week ago by 46 points.

The next five teams, all unbeaten although third-ranked Oklahoma has been tied once, remained unchanged from a week ago. The Sooners, 6-0-1 after a 34-17 triumph over Iowa State, polled seven first-place votes and 910 points.

Fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 5 Notre Dame each received one No. 1 vote and 888 and 745 points, respectively. Penn State, the only other team in the Top Twenty to receive a top vote, drew four and 714 points.

Belleville West regains No. 1 downstate football rating

By The Associated Press

For the third time, Belleville West's Mighty Maroons have captured the top spot in the Associated Press Downstate High School football poll.

Belleville West, holding first or second in the poll since the beginning of the season, swelled its record to 8-0 with a 28-21 triumph over Edwardsville last weekend.

The Mighty Maroons grabbed 10 to 14 possible first-place votes from the AP's panel of sportswriters and sportscasters to replace Sterling which plummeted from the top perch to sixth spot.

At that, Belleville West got out of scrap from Rockford East which moved from third to second in a 29-0 blanking of Rockford Harlequin and trailed the Mighty Maroons on a point basis only 128 to 119.

Belleville West led the AP poll the first two weeks before Peru St. Bede took over, to be replaced as the No. 1 club by Peoria Manual, before Belleville West regained the top spot two weeks ago.

Last week, Sterling pushed Belleville West back into the No. 2 notch, but Sterling stumbled last weekend to Freeport 27-14 and the Mighty Maroons now are back as King of the Hill.

Freeport made the biggest poll advance, jumping from sixth to third, barely shading Quincy which held fourth. Quincy's Blue Devils closed their season with a 44-6 romp over Hannibal, Mo., for a final 8-1 record.

Herrin maintained fifth place defeating Johnson City 38-12 to its 26th successive victory, an all-time record in deep Southern Illinois. East St. Louis spanked East St. Louis Assumption 36-6 to keep seventh spot with a 6-1-1 record.

Decatur St. Teresa, at 9-0 one of the four unbeaten, untied clubs in the Top Ten, moved from 10th to No. 8 by whipping Sullivan 42-8. Decatur Arthur dropped a notch to ninth after a 14-7 conquest of Springfield Langhiser. Spring Valley Hall slipped from ninth to 10th despite a 38-18 decision over Ottawa Marquette.

While most downstate schools wind up the regular season this weekend, Belleville West still has three games left, against Belleville Althoff, Granite City South and a Thanksgiving Day showdown with strong East St. Louis High.

Last season, Belleville West bowed to East St. Louis 25-16 in a final Turkey Day clash.

Rockford East closes Friday night against Rockford Jefferson which has won only one game.

Female dynamos power to Macomb

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Macomb, Illinois may never be the same after four female dynamos from SIU leave there after playing in the Midwest Regional Field Hockey Tournament on Saturday and Sunday. The four women earned the right to play in Macomb after SIU and eight other schools participated in the Midwest College South Field Hockey Tournament over the weekend.

The tournament was held to choose players for two all star teams to represent the Midwest College South Field Hockey Association at the regionals in Macomb.

The weaker sex?

Palmer talks about quitting golf

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) - Pain, anger and frustration all were deeply etched into the lines and creases of the famed, expressive face.

And, for the first time, Arnold Palmer talked about quitting the game he—perhaps more than any other player—raised to its present peak of popularity.

"Dammit, I'm gonna retire. I can't play this game any more. I'm gonna get out. Quit. Never play it again."

He muttered it only half aloud. It was obvious that the comment was only an expression of his deep, gnawing frustration; obvious that he had no real thought of quitting the game he once ruled.

But the fact that he made the statement, in his last appearance at the Sahara Invitational two weeks ago, indicated the depth of feeling in this proud man who is fighting the burden of 44 years and almost two decades of intense competition.

"I just can't seem to get everything together at one time," Palmer said before a practice round for the new World Open Golf Tournament which begins a two-week, 144-hole run Thursday.

"I seem to be right on the verge of playing good—then something always happens."

"Look at Sahara. The first round, my chipping was just terrible. Just awful. Twice it took me three to get down from the fringe. Then the next day I'm chipping good. And I putted good, too. Something like 25 putts. But my irons were terrible."

"Then the next round I hit the irons real good. I had the ball right on the flag, inside 15 feet all day, and I can't

The players were chosen by a selection committee made up of a chairman and one member from each of the participating schools.

The players were to be chosen strictly on their performances during the weekend competition. As a result, SIU placed two women on each all-star team. The women are Debbie Zalk, Debbie Elders, Judy Benedict and Annel Griffin. Zalk and Elders were selected for the first team, while Benedict and Griffin made the second team.

During the weekend action, SIU won two while losing one. Saturday morning, SIU started out on the right foot with a 1-0 victory over Indiana University. The lone goal scorer for SIU was Jeannene Jenkins.

In the afternoon game, Purdue and a sloppy field combined to hand SIU a 1-0 loss. Sunday morning, SIU bounced back with a 3-0 blanking of SIU-E. Goal scorers for Carbondale were, Vici Flamank, Debbie Zalk and Peggy Conroy.

The four women; bright, bouncy and beautiful are full of fun, but take their hockey seriously. Debbie Zalk, a senior, majoring in physical education is the team's leading goal scorer with 10 goals out of the teams season total of 20. She has also led the team in scoring for the past four years.

Ms. Zalk, known affectionately as Bobby Hull, has been playing field hockey for the past 10 years. The last four years she has played on SIU's varsity team, before that she played field hockey for four years on her high school varsity team, plus two years experience in junior high school.

Ms. Zalk credited her success to her teammates. "I owe everything to my teammates, I could never do it by myself," she said. "They pass and set me up," she added.

Debbie Elders, also a physical education major and a senior described her position "at right fullback as the last line of defense before the ball gets to the goal."

Ms. Elders has played field hockey here for the last four years. This is her third year as a member of the College South Team.

The team as a whole is a strong defensive unit but is offensively minded. "Everybody on the team thinks get the ball up to the net and score," Ms. Elders said.

Judy Benedict, the quiet member of the group is a junior, majoring in physical education. She is the team's number one goally and has played in every game of the season, allowing only six goals.

Annel Griffin, a senior in physical education has been playing field hockey for the past seven years. This is her second year on the college South second team.

Ms. Griffin described her position at left halfback as the person who runs up and down the field constantly. "Basically, my job is to get the ball away from the opponent's offense and give it to our offense," she said.

Ms. Griffin said, "I don't think I played as well as I have at other times in the season. I could have played better," she added.

Julie Illner, coach of the team said, "I felt they did not play their best because they were too excited and too tired from getting everything ready for the tournament."

"The best game we played was against Indiana University because we play better against stronger teams," she said.

Ms. Illner said the male trainers at the games were surprised to learn that we don't stop the game when someone gets hit with a stick or a ball.

"We don't stop the game unless someone is seriously injured," she said. "If you not hurt seriously, you just limp around until the pain stops," she added.

Field hockey may sound like a rough and tough sport, but Ms. Zalk summed it up this way, "Field hockey is a ladies game and ladies play the game."

Dropped kicks continue to keep Salukis down

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"We must realize we can win if we don't make mistakes, a disappointed Saluki Coach Dick Towers said after the 16-16 tie with Ball State Saturday in Muncie Ind. "This is the third game we have given away because of dropped kicks."

But the Salukis will have only three get the damn ball in the hole. I couldn't make a putt. Shot one over par. It's been like that all year."

But this season hasn't been all that bad. He won the Bob Hope Desert Classic, breaking the longest victory drought of his fabled career. At one stage of the last round he led the U.S. Open, but drifted back to fourth. He challenged for the lead in the Hartford Open but finished third. He starred in the American Ryder Cup team's victory in Scotland. He's won $85,983.

And, with Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Lee Trevino among the missing, he's one of the top choices in the World Open. It offers $500,000 in total money, with a record $100,000 to the winner.

The format calls for 144 holes, twice the usual number and the longest tournament on record.

more chances to prove they can function outside the apparent hex of fumbleitis and errorphobia. SIU will meet Drake at home Saturday and finish up the season with away games at Indiana State and Illinois State.

Towers said he was extremely upset with the tie because a win would have enabled the Salukis to possibly finish with a winning season. Now the best SIU could finish would be 5-5-1.

One of the two bright spots in the Ball State tie was the running performance of Larry Perkins. The senior tailback from Memphis, Tenn. picked up 144 yards rushing and bettered his seasons total to 758 yards. Perkins will need to average 81 yards per game to go over the 1,000 yard barrier.

The schools individual single season rushing mark is held by Bob Hasberry, who ran for 1,178 yards in 1969.

The other bright spot was the kicking of freshman soccer-style kicker Ken Seaman. Having hit on seven of 12 attempts, Seaman's three field goals against Ball State tied a school record for most field goals kicked in a game. The record is shared by Ralph Galloway, who kicked three against Tulsa in 1967 and Greg Goodman, who kicked three against Louisville a year ago.

Saturday's opponent Drake, 2-7, is coming off a victory Saturday over Wichita State. Drake has had quarterback problems all season. The only common opponent the Salukis and Drake have played this season has been Dayton. The Salukis lost to Dayton 23-19 while Drake was beaten 16-9.

The Salukis also may focus changes at the quarterback position. Towers has indicated that there is a chance Leonard Hopkins may get the starting nod on the basis of his showing in a reserve capacity against Ball State. Fred McAlley, SIU's regular quarterback, was injured in the first quarter of that game but is expected to be ready for Saturday's contest.

Leaks named AP College Back of the Week

By Herschel Nissenon
Associated Press Sports Writer

"There were a lot of us who weren't playing as we should," Roosevelt Leaks says of Texas' first four games, which saw the perennial Southwest Conference champions manage only a 2-2 record.

Then Leaks got the word from a member of the Arkansas band the day before the Longhorns met the Razorbacks. The word went something like this:

"Good luck tomorrow; you're gonna need it."

Leaks has brought nothing but bad luck to Texas' opponents ever since. He rushed for 209 yards and three touchdowns in a 34-6 trouncing of Arkansas and followed that with 193 yards and two TDs as Rice fell 55-13.

Last Saturday was the best of all. Leaks charged for a whopping 342 yards—a SWC record and just eight yards shy of the national mark—in 37 carries and scored twice as Texas walloped Southern Methodist 42-14.

For that performance, the 5-foot-11, 220-pound junior fullback from Brenham, Tex., was named National College Back of the Week.
