Plan would link grades to aid

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

"Give me grades so I can get a scholarship."

That's what SIU Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said high school students may ask their teachers to do if a proposed plan to include academic merit as a criterion for financial aid isn't modified even more.

The plan is being spearheaded by a group of Illinois private university administrators.

Peter Tyor, a member of Educators Concerned for Quality Performance, said Monday that his organization is asking the state to rebudget a program that has been stagnant and alter the criteria for awarding state funding.

As the vehicle for implementing the plan, Tyor said the group was modifying the Illinois Academic Scholarship Program to aid over 7,500 high school students instead of the 1,850 that the same program helped three years ago. In the 1980-81 school year, the state funded $2 million in that program's first and only year.

College-bound high school seniors in the upper 5 percent of their class would receive a scholarship ranging from $250 to $1,000 a year for up to four years from the Illinois State Scholarship Commission by the plan, he said.

In addition to the academic scholarship, students could still apply for aid through the Illinois Monetary Award Program, Tyor said.

Although supportive of meriting academic scholarship, Shaw said the proposal could have ultimately cost the state from $14 million to $20 million, or half of all student financial aid granted by the ISSC. The group's plan is about 14 percent to 20 percent of all financial aid granted by the state, Shaw said.

"We ought to favor a program that rewards academic scholars, but that doesn't mean we should put half of our money in that program," Shaw said.

A "grade inflation" problem could possibly occur, causing more losers than winners on the access side if the plan isn't scaled down even more, Shaw said.

Shaw said that the group was concerned with the students' rights of "access and choice" to higher education in the state. The two should be balanced, he said, to prevent some students from receiving more financial aid than others without necessarily deserving more.

"If we're giving differentials for students going to Northwestern, then we ought to give

Reagan trip planned to Far East

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan sets out Tuesday on a 15,650-mile trip to Japan and South Korea, underscoring both the U.S. military posture in the Pacific as well as frustrations with Tokyo over trade problems.

Extraordinary security was readied in both countries. Japan mobilized a 90,000-member protective force and South Korea put its military on higher alert.

North Korea has branded Reagan's visit a "very dangerous war junket." In Tokyo, police said they uncovered a plot by leftist radicals to attack the U.S. embassy and a U.S. Navy base.

Reagan, accompanied by his wife, Nancy, will fly first to Japan, with a brief refueling stop in Anchorage, Alaska. Crossing the international dateline en route, he will arrive in Tokyo at midday Wednesday and meet with Emperor Hirohito and Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone in a working day that will stretch more than 20 hours.

Over the next two days, Reagan will talk further with Nakasone, attend a state dinner given by the 82-year-old emperor, address the Japanese Diet (parliament) and visit the prime minister's private villa west of Tokyo.

Reagan will arrive in Seoul on Saturday and address the national assembly. He also will talk with President Chun Doo-hwan, and be the guest at state dinner given by the South Korean leader.

On Sunday, Reagan will fly to the demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea and meet with American troops stationed there. He will return to Washington on Monday.

Coming in the wake of the Soviets' downing of the Korean airliner carrying 269 persons and the terrorist bombing in Burma that killed 14 high-ranking South Koreans, Reagan's trip will focus heavily on security matters.

U.S. officials suggest Reagan is likely to call attention to a significant Soviet military buildup in the Far East over the past 15 years, and express determination that the United States will remain a Pacific power and stand by its allies if they are threatened.

The United States does not think Japan, in particular, is spending enough on its goal of defending its land, air and sea lanes out to 1,000 miles. One administration official, speaking anonymously, said one of Reagan's objectives "will be to provide further encouragement to the Japanese, so that they will reach these goals during this decade."

State has no plan to repay billions to retirement system

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

The state of Illinois is almost $2 billion in arrears to the State University Retirement System and is continuing to borrow against the fund with no plans to repay it, according to James Ford, legislative chairman of the SIU-C Annuitants Association.

Ford said 8 percent of all full-time SIU-C employees' salaries are put into the fund, and are supposed to be matched by the state. To his knowledge, Ford said, the state has badly underfunded the system for the last three years. There have been repeated "raids" on the system too, as the state has funded salary increases from money borrowed from the system, he said.

This year's $70 million state appropriation to the fund was cut $8.9 million when the state ran into financial difficulty this spring. In May the Illinois legislature adopted a resolution to pay back this year's underfunding of the retirement system.

Ford criticized the plan, which spreads paying back this year's shortfall over five years, because it only pays 6 percent interest to the system. Ford said he believes the system ought to be paid at least 10 percent interest.

State budget official Mark Gallagher said 6 percent interest to the system is fair, even though the retirement system earned 9 percent on its assets last year. The 9 percent return was extraordinarily high, he explained, but over the past five years, the percentage has been close to 6 percent.

For instance, the system's income was up from $70 million in fiscal year 1982 to $116 million in 1983. Even though interest rates are high today, no one can predict what they'll be five years from now, he said.

Gallagher also described the total shortfall as a "liability" that Illinois will have to pay in the future, and he said the total liability is $1.7 billion. He said liabilities are only 45 percent of assets, which some pension experts feel is optimal, while others feel there should be no liabilities.

But Ford said there will be a day of reckoning when the state will not have money to pay annuitants if the underfunding continues. The state still has no plan to make up the liability to the fund other than this year,

$2.1 billion approved for MX

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Monday approved spending $2.5 billion to produce and install 21 MX intercontinental missiles. Opponents conceded that the 56-37 vote may mark the last serious attempt to halt deployment of the powerful strategic weapon.

Sensors brushed aside arguments by Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others that the MX is outdated and vulnerable to Soviet attack.

"I believe it is necessary to make to make one last effort if only to clear my conscience," said Bumpers, acknowledging defeat shortly before the vote.

"The MX is a missile without a mission and a weapon without a home," Kennedy said.

President Reagan and other supporters say the MX is needed as a "bargaining chip" to pressure the Soviet Union to negotiate seriously at the Geneva talks on curbing strategic nuclear arms.

Assistant Senate Republican leader Ted Stevens of Alaska contended that the MX is a critical link in the U.S. nuclear arsenal, allowing a response to Soviet attack by firing missiles from nuclear-powered submarines, long-range bombers or underground silos.

"Without the MX we will be hard-pressed to keep the peace," Stevens said, but with it, "we will go to the bargaining table with a complete traid."

The Senate vote clears the way for the Air Force to begin replacing aging Minuteman III missiles with MX weapons in existing silos in Wyoming and Nebraska beginning in 1986.

Unless there is a breakthrough in the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks, the Reagan administration plans to install 100 MX missiles, each carrying 10 highly accurate nuclear warheads which can be aimed at separate Soviet targets.

In seeking to eliminate the $2.1 billion in MX funds from a $252.5 billion military spending bill now moving through the Senate, Bumpers termed the missile "a weapon of the past."

He said Defense Department figures showed that nine of every 10 MX missiles would be destroyed in a Soviet nuclear attack.

Incumbents, challengers face 'hot' race for school boards

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

Elections for Carbondale Community High School District 165 and Grade School District 95 will be held Tuesday. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

If the weather is nice, County Clerk Robert Harrell said he expects a large turnout due to the large number of candidates seeking a small number of seats, making the election a "hot" one.

Nine people, among them four incumbents, are seeking seats on the 165 board. Thirteen people, including five incumbents, are running for positions on the grade school board.

Running for four-year terms on the 165 board are: Michael Altekruze, SIU-C College of Education faculty member; incumbent Arthur Black, education administrator at the Illinois Department of Corrections; incumbent Robert Brewer, board president and assistant busser at SIU-C; Michael Diamond, Carbondale businessman; and Gib Gerlach, Carbondale businessman.

Seeking two-year terms on the high school board are: incumbent Barbara Bennett; Donald Boehne, faculty member at John A. Logan College; Linda Brandon; and incumbent Larry Young, teacher at Menard State Penitentiary at Chester.

Candidates running for two-year terms on the grade school board are: incumbent Harold Bardo, faculty member in the College of Education; Margaret Crowe, Don Garner, faculty member at the SIU-C Law School; and incumbent Anita Lenzi, board president.

Four-year term candidates are: Beth Arthur, Department of Curriculum Instruction and Media at SIU-C; incumbent Karl Bartelsmeyer, Illinois Department of Corrections; Frances Laster, special education teacher in Harrisburg; Hugh McDowell, School of Medicine; Jack McKillip, SIU-C Psychology Department; incumbent Jean McPherson; Arnold Taylor, Prairie Farms Dairy supervisor; Deanna Wheelers; and incumbent Gordon White, SIU-C Institutional Research and Studies faculty member.

The polling places: Precinct 1, Thomas School, 805 N. Wall St.; Precinct 2, Carbondale Community Center, 607 E. College St.; Precinct 3, High Rise, corner of South Marion and East Walnut streets; Precinct 4, Community Center, Public Housing, North Marion and East Oak streets; Precinct 5, Eureka C. News Roundup

Former plant operator indicted

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted the former operator of the Three Mile Island plant Monday on criminal charges of falsifying safety test results before the worst nuclear power accident in the United States.

Federal officials have said that if such false reports were filed, they could have contributed to the severity of the March 1979 accident in Middletown.

U.S. Attorney David Dart Queen, who announced the 11-count indictment, refused to say if the alleged violations by Metropolitan Edison Co. led to the accident, in which Unit 2's main cooling system lost water and the radioactive core overheated. Another reactor, Unit 1, was undamaged.

"The indictment is going to have to speak for itself," Queen said.

Andropov absent from parade

MOSCOW (AP) — President Yuri V. Andropov did not join the Politburo lineup in Red Square Monday to watch the Revolution Day parade, a grandiose display of military might and patriotism that is the Soviet Union's most important celebration.

It was believed to be the first time a Communist Party chief missed the event, which marks the anniversary of the 1917 Bolshevik revolution that brought the party to power. On Saturday night Andropov failed to attend a gala Kremlin session opening the celebrations. Officials said he had a cold.

Reagan welcomes medical students

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Monday urged the American medical students evacuated from Grenada to honor the U.S. troops killed on the island by speaking out "about their courage and commitment as they risked their lives for yours."

Saying he was angered "that certain people belittled the danger you were in," Reagan welcomed nearly 500 of the 550 students of St. George's University Medical School to a White House ceremony at which student representatives presented him and American servicemen with tokens of appreciation.

To a cheering, flag-waving crowd on the South Lawn, the president said, "It's very easy for some smug know-it-all in a plush, protected quarter" to criticize the invasion, which Reagan has since called a "rescue mission."

Thompson to run Reagan campaign

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Governor Thompson was named Monday to run President Reagan's re-election campaign in Illinois, an apparent victory of pragmatism over philosophy.

Thompson, a moderate Republican who has split with the president from time to time — notably on defense spending — beat out former state Sen. Donald Totten of Hoffman estates, director of Reagan's 1980 and 1976 efforts in Illinois.

"Governor Thompson is clearly an important figure and has all of those resources at his disposal in Illinois that we want to capitalize on," said Jim Lake, spokesman in Washington for Reagan-Bush '84.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat to fold

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat announced Monday that the 131-year-old newspaper will cease publication Dec. 31, leaving the city with only one major daily paper.

"The Globe-Democrat has incurred substantial losses for many years and we do not see that any substantial contraction in its operations will bring relief from these losses," said Publisher G. Duncan Bauman.

He said he did not expect any arrangement could be made to save the paper before it closes.

The announcement brought a stunned silence to staff members summoned at short notice to a staff meeting just after 6 p.m.

"Then people shouted 'My God, it's true,' and many of the women broke into tears," said Mark Edgar, a Globe-Democrat city reporter.

Bauman declined to say how many employees would be affected or how much money had been lost. The paper is owned by S.I. Newhouse Publishing Co.

"Closing the Globe-Democrat is a sad event, but the fact is that few cities in the United States are able to support two daily newspapers," Bauman said. The only remaining paper in the city is the Pulitzer-owned Post-Dispatch, an afternoon paper.

In 1981, employees for both newspapers accepted an 18-month wage moratorium as publishers of both newspapers cited multimillion-dollar losses despite their joint publishing arrangement.

"The Globe-Democrat has provided the city with two voices and with strong competition," said executive editor George Killenberg. "It's a sad, sad day for such a talented staff."

The paper won a Pulitzer prize in 1969 for an investigation into a local steamfitters union.

Some staffers hoped that a buyer could step in and save the newspaper, despite the announcement.

them for students coming to SIU," Shaw said.

Tyvor said students in the state who plan to attend Illinois institutions would receive at least $250 by the plan. If students showed financial need and maintained at least a C average, they could get $1,000, he said.

A C average is low, Tyvor said, but none of the ISSC programs have such a requirement. "Its only requirement is that you stay in school," he said.

Tyvor said that if college costs a student about $5,500, the ISSC subtracts that from what the family can afford to pay, from monetary awards and grants and from a certain amount of self-help the student can provide. The $1,000 funding generated by the plan could sometimes make up the difference, he said.

Originally the group wanted to make academic merit a criterion within the MAP, which is operated strictly on financial need. Tyvor's organization withdrew the proposal after hearing substantial opposition last month at a public hearing sponsored by the Illinois House Higher Education Committee.

Tyvor said the organization had requested a $1,500 and then a $1,200 maximum award prior to the hearing in Springfield where the new plan was addressed.

Mr. Rogers gets set for war

PITTSBURGH (AP) — King Friday XIII suspected that Cornflake S. PECIAL was making bomb parts for the neighborhood of Southwood, so he decided he'd better stock up on some bombs himself.

Any day now he'll be mobilizing for battle.

What? War in Mister Rogers' Neighborhood of Make-Believe? Death and destruction as the theme for a children's show?

With news of the invasion of Grenada and the bombing of the Marine barracks in Lebanon fresh in the minds of America's children, war now invades the television world created by soft-spoken Fred Rogers.

The five half-hour shows that make up the week-long series, called "Conflict," were taped and scheduled last summer, but Rogers said the recent events in Grenada and the deaths of 230 U.S. servicemen in Lebanon give the series even more meaning.

"Little did I know that we would be involved in worldwide conflict now," Rogers said. "But that's all the better because our shows give families an opportunity for communication. If children should hear the news of war, at least they have a handle here, to assist in family communications."

The week-long series which started Monday precedes, also coincidentally, the Nov. 20 showing of ABC's TV movie "The Day After," which is about nuclear holocaust in the American Midwest.

"Conflict is no stranger to very little children," Rogers said. "They know that disagreements can lead to fighting."

"So often conflicts arise from a lack of communication, false assumptions or confusion, and that's what happens in the Neighborhood of Make-Believe."

"Conflict" makes up the first of three weeks of new "Mr. Rogers" programs produced by WQED, Pittsburgh's Public Broadcasting Service station, for broadcast nationwide this season. The rest of the shows this season will be reruns.

Conflict began brewing in the Neighborhood on Monday.

while a bill has been introduced to take money out of the fund for state economic development, Ford said.

He has discussed the funding with local state legislators, whom he said have been "sitting on the fence" about the issue. Ford did mention, however, that Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-116, is supporting the annuities.

State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-59th, voted against a bill which cut the retirement system's appropriation, but he supported the payback plan, according to Chris Carpenter, press aide to Buzbee.

Ford said he fears yet another raid on the retirement system funds, since the Illinois Board of Higher Education requested 10 percent raises to SIU-C faculty and others last week.

"The funding issue pits active faculty against retired faculty in a competition for state dollars," Ford said. Active faculty members may need better salaries, but those salaries shouldn't be paid for with retirement funds, he said.

Ford said faculty members in their forties and fifties should be concerned about the state of the retirement fund, because it could be a "dry well" by the time they retire.

At a meeting on Oct. 14, the 500-member SIU-C Annuities Association voted not to form a political action committee to lobby for the group's interests. Nonetheless, Ford said he expects the group to act decisively as the funding issue becomes more pressing.

"We can't be short-sighted," he said. "One hundred more faculty and staff retired last year," and the pressure on the system is building, Ford said. Ford said the retirement system has been poorly funded and poorly planned in the past, but he hopes to mobilize constituency groups such as the Faculty Senate and Administrative and Professional Staff to work to improve the fund.

Bumpers said the administration should be trying to spend more on missiles for the fleet of Trident nuclear submarines and less on land-based missiles.

Monday's vote is the latest development in a long, seesaw battle in which U.S. presidents and defense planners have tried to find a way to replace the existing Minuteman missile arm.

Compared to previous MX fights, the Senate debate Monday was tame. Only a handful of senators took part, and the outcome was a foregone conclusion.

The Democratic House approved MX funds by nine votes last week, and in August, after an anti-MX filibuster led by Gary Hart, D-Colo., the Senate approved continued production by a 58-41 vote.

In one other vote on the defense appropriations bill, the Senate agreed to reduce by $100 million the $1.275 billion the Pentagon spends on outside consultants.

Clinic may not need to be licensed

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

The Carbondale Clinic may not be required to have a "certificate of need" to get insurance companies to reimburse patients for the use of its planned surgical center.

Certification is needed in order to get a state license for a free standing health facility. And some insurance companies, such as Blue Cross-Blue Shield, require licensure before they will reimburse patients for the cost of using the facility.

But clinic administrator Wayne Given said he has a letter from the Illinois Department of Public Health saying that since the clinic's surgi-center is not free-standing, but being added on to the clinic, it does not require licensure.

If the state doesn't require a license, Given said, he does not see how insurance companies can refuse to reimburse people who use the center.

"In any case, we're going ahead," Given said.

The clinic and Carbondale Memorial Hospital both applied to the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board for certificates. Memorial's application was rejected by the board Friday. Memorial administrator George Maroney said the clinic's decision to build its center without getting a license may have influenced the board's decision to deny the hospital's application.

Given said the clinic withdrew its application in mid-October and decided to construct the clinic without licensure.

Construction on the approximately 6,000 square-foot, $670,000 center could begin in January if the weather permits, Given said, though no contractors have been hired.

City sets schedule for pickup of leaves

Free leaf pickup by the Carbondale street department will continue through Dec. 23, according to information from City Hall. Persons wishing to have leaves removed need to bag or rake them to curbside or ditchside prior to leaf pickup time.

The leaf pickup schedule will follow the weekly city refuse collection routes.

Two men charged in shooting

Two Carbondale men remained in Jackson County Jail Monday charged in the death of 20-year-old Michael R. Reichert, who was shot once in the chest Sunday after an "apparent argument," police said.

Arrested about an hour after the shooting, which happened in the parking lot of the Bleu Flambe Cocktail Lounge at 801 E. Main St., were Larry J. Halliday, 20, of Route 3, and Nelson R. Imhoff, 22, of Route 1.

According to police, the two were arrested at a trailer court south of Carbondale at 2:30 a.m. Police were called to the parking lot at 1:20 a.m.

Reichert, of Brookside Manor, 1200 E. Grand Ave., died at Carbondale Memorial Hospital shortly after the shooting.

According to the Jackson County State's Attorney's office, Halliday and Imhoff are scheduled for an initial court appearance Tuesday morning.

Details about the circumstances surrounding the incident have not been released by police. A man who identified himself as the owner of the cocktail lounge, but who refused to give his name, said he wouldn't comment on the shooting on the advice of his attorney.

Funeral arrangements for Reichert, who was born in Anna, are being handled by the Riggan-Pillatsch Funeral Home in Carterville.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reichert, he attended schools in Carbondale and Carterville and was of the Pentecostal faith. He is survived by his father, of Carbondale, and many aunts and uncles.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the funeral home. Burial will be at the Blairsville Cemetery. Visitation is from 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home.

New Saluki records

THE SALUKI football team has mowed down any and all opposition this season, and one casualty has been the NCAA I-AA record book.

Already this season, with one regular season game left and an unknown number of playoff games, the Dogs have set six records and tied one other. They are as follows:

- Most interceptions in one game — eight against New Mexico State. Ties I-AA record, sets Missouri Valley Conference record.
- Most touchdowns scored on punt returns in a season — four. Ties I-AA record.
- Most interceptions returned for touchdowns in a season — three, Donnell Daniels, SIU. New I-AA record.
- Most extra points in a row for one season — 47, Ron Miller, SIU. New I-AA record, new MVC record.
- Most yards gained on interceptions — 447, SIU. New I-AA record.
- Most touchdowns on interception returns — 4, SIU. Ties I-AA record.
- Most paid attendance at McAndrew Stadium — 16,600, SIU vs. ISU.

ALL THIS record setting, besides boosting recruiting opportunities and school spirit, may also financially help SIU athletics. The winning season is boosting tickets sales and generating much needed interest from the alumni. Add to that the possibility of post-season playoff games, which sport healthy television rights, and you have a bright fiscal future on the horizon. If the Salukis keep winning, the athletics fee increase could become a moot point. Go Dogs.

The moral America

Maybe America has no "Moral Greatness" to speak of anymore. Perhaps it never really had it.

I agree with Mr. Saenz on a number of points. First, it often does appear that one of the basic tenets of the corporate American work ethic is "personal profit and aggrandizement of a few" through the misfortunes of many. Second, there is mention of "the struggle for freedom and human dignity" — noble endeavors indeed. If any social, economic, or political institution can help a people achieve these goals, I am in full support. Third, there definitely have been quite a few instances of "unsophisticated" covert operations by the U.S. Government to suppress regimes which were deemed to be a detriment to our national security; but then in an open society such as ours, the cloak of secrecy is rather threadbare.

Since my knowledge of Caribbean affairs is limited, I feel I cannot make a valid judgement of the events in Grenada. However, by their own admission, Grenadian officials of the former Bishop regime have verified that the Soviet Union had played a significant role as one of the driving forces of the revolution. It's interesting that Mr. Saenz is quite firm in his convictions regarding freedom and independence. Maybe Mr. Saenz should attempt to write a public letter of a similar caustic nature about Soviet policy as a resident Soviet citizen — he just might be lucky enough to permanently relocate in the winter wonderland of Siberia. — Igor Vern, Senior, Engineering.

Grenada invasion 'criminal'

Most of the world community has condemned the U.S. invasion of Grenada as a criminal act of imperialist aggression and a violation of international law.

Contrary to the ludicrous and obvious lies of the need to rescue students and of the Soviet-Cuban "threat" that President Reagan used to justify the invasion (that was planned as early as 1981) it's clear to most of the world community that the U.S. invaded Grenada to overthrow the socialist, independent government and set up a neo-colonial government in order to bring the country under U.S. domination.

The invasion of Grenada is part of a historic and escalating U.S. imperialist campaign to overthrow socialist, independent governments; to destroy national liberation movements and install puppet dictatorships in order to protect and expand U.S. domination under the phony pretext of the communist "threat" in the name of "democracy" and "peace."

The Reagan administration's invasion of Grenada, overthrow of its government, and murder of its citizens and Cuban workers is a violation of U.S. law, the Geneva Convention, the Rio-Treaty and of human right violations on a massive scale. Reagan is a criminal in the legal and moral sense and a threat to human rights and world peace. He should be impeached.

Congress should not ignore Reagan's violations of legal and human rights. It should start impeachment proceedings against him, pull the troops out of Grenada immediately, allow the Grenadian people to determine their own affairs and end U.S. intervention in the Middle East and Central America before Reagan embroils the two regions into a Vietnam-type war. — Richard Picariello, Marion.

'Extraordinary promotion' to come before Faculty Senate

I encourage all interested SIU faculty members to come to Tuesday's Faculty Senate Meeting at 1 p.m. in the Mississippi River Room. The main feature will be the question of the extraordinary promotion of Faculty Senate President Herbert Donovan by Vice President John Guyon.

However, be sure to bring your copy of the Faculty Handbook (1979) with you! Of importance is the second paragraph on page 23 where the procedures talk about applying criteria as uniformly as possible, and page 27 where the procedures require that, "Once the dossier leaves the academic unit, no further information should be added to the dossier other than that required by collegial procedures with regard to the review committee's and the dean's recommendation."

Vice President Guyon's statements in the last few days have raised questions about the involvement of President Albert Somit in this unusual decision. Since the JRB panel reports directly to the president, please read, in particular, the section in the faculty handbook dealing with the Grievance Procedures (page 34-37).

The record clearly shows that from Dec. 1982 when the Dean of COLA recommended that Herbert Donovan not be promoted to Full Professor, until September 1983 when John Guyon did promote him, extraordinary circumstances prevailed. The entire faculty is entitled to know from President Somit and Vice President Guyon what went on. — John Gregory, Professor of Mathematics.

Grocery labels are not good reading

CONSUMER ADVOCATES keep pounding this advice into our heads: read product labels to find out what you're really getting for your money. That's good advice, but many people just don't have the time to browse a grocery store like it was a library. But I took the time.

Grocery shelves are arranged like shelves in a library. They are placed side-by-side and parallel to each other. Their aisles are long, wide and built for speed and convenience, but that's where the similarity ends. Product labels do not make for enjoyable reading.

For example, the ingredients on the salad dressing labels I came across sounded like poison. Take Xanthum gum and Polysorbate 60 for instance. The company that makes the dressing claims the ingredients improve the pourability and creaminess of the product, but they sound like toxic waste from Times Beach, Mo. to me.

William Jason Yong
Staff Writer

WHAT GIVES the dressing its alleged "natural" taste was not revealed on the label. What the company is really saying is that there are no natural ingredients involved in that "natural taste."

But, lo and behold, natural ingredients are often used in making non-food products. Shampoos are among them. Some shampoos contain things like "pure wheat germ oil and honey." If you run out of syrup for your pancakes, these shampoos may be a better-tasting alternative.

Having used shampoos with protein, wheat germ oil, honey, mountain herbs or coconut oil, your hair may look terrific, but flies will be buzzing around your head while you're trying to concentrate in class.

I RECENTLY bought two different brands of shampoo. One had something called "ammonium" in it, but the label assured consumers that it will keep hair "feeling clean, smelling fresh."

The other shampoo contained sesame oil, soybean oil and corn oil. The company claims that one of the functions of the ingredients is "to restore elasticity." What I don't understand is that each time I pull a strand of hair from my head to test its elasticity, it comes all the way out — some elasticity.

Another ingredient, the label told me, was "lecithin" and its function is listed as a "body builder." I fantasize what a woman might say as I walk past them: "Wow! Look at his hair. They're bulging with muscles. Macho. Ooohh." Eat your heart out, Tom Seleck.

Toothpastes usually have an "active" ingredient called "sodium fluoride." Are there any "inactive" ingredients, by any chance? Nine out of 10 dentists recommend this or that toothpaste, or so the labels claim. I want to know what the dissenting dentists have to say.

ONE of the ingredients in a mouthwash was "domiphen bromide." The label claims this ingredient is very strong and should be used "after meals and before social engagements." Well, if my shampoo builds up the muscles in my hair, this product may work who-knows-what magic in my mouth. But, I assume, if someone doesn't eat or date, this mouthwash won't work for them.

The next time you go shopping, remember to follow the advice expounded by consumer advocates. You may discover a chewing gum that has an active ingredient called "xeromiphen hobia" that will cure your pimples.

Such irresponsible behavior has no place at this university

To the turkey who found it necessary to relieve himself all over the stall, floor and toilet-paper dispenser in the men's restroom on the first floor of the south wing of Faner Hall: who in the hell do you think you are?

That type of immature, irresponsible, antisocial behavior has NO place at an institute of higher learning, or for that matter any public facility. (I guess if you want to desecrate your own shrine that's your own business.)

It is exactly this type of inconsiderate, malicious behavior that makes the world the screwed-up place it tends to be sometimes!

Furthermore, I think most people assume that a student entering a university, high school or the first grade has learned how to take care of certain needs in a modest, mature manner befitting someone of the human race. Unfortunately SIU doesn't offer any remedial courses in potty training!

Finally, I would also like to call your attention to one other small fact. I am unaware of your motives for such a childish act but assuming you were directing your perverted hostilities at the University, it's faculty or it's students, I would like to remind you that your tuition dollars also pay for the maintenance of University facilities. It is because of people such as yourself, who perpetrate these stupid and senseless acts of vandalism — be they the destruction of University property or something as inane as your defilement of a restroom — that the cost of education continually rises for all of us. Therefore, in the interest of saving yourself some money as well as the rest of us, I sincerely hope you will find it in your heart to take aim next time. Grow up! — Greg Shaw, Senior, Finance and German

In support of Paul Simon...

I'm writing this letter in support of Paul Simon for the U.S. Senate.

As a student, I'm concerned about the availability of financial assistance. Assistance is necessary for to complete my college career. That's the major reason why I'm for Paul Simon. Paul Simon chairs the House Higher Education Committee, and led the fight to stop Reagan's "New Federalism Meatcleaver." Reagan wanted to end federal student financial assistance.

Paul Simon cares about student needs, which is why he'd make a great U.S. Senator.

Simon, a co-sponsor of the Nuclear Freeze, supports the effort to pass the Equal Rights Amendment and pushed for passage of the Voting Rights Act extension. Paul Simon questions wasteful defense systems, like the MX dilemma, and moreover led the fight against it.

Students across Illinois have the rare opportunity to make a difference this spring by working for a person who's worth voting for. That person is Paul Simon, the chief defender of federal student aid in Congress today. Imagine what he will do as our senator, if we work to elect him.

The organizational meeting for "Students For Simon" is Thursday in the Orient Room of the SIU-C Student Center. All graduate and undergraduate students, be they Republicans, Democrats or Independents are invited to attend. Together we can make a difference. — Basti Demczak, Freshman, Administration of Justice.

Library is hurting from hiring freeze

I'm very happy that Vice-President Guyon has "seen no major problems" resulting from the hiring freeze from his haven in Anthony Hall. The library, however, is hurting badly because of staff reductions. I'm afraid students and faculty will become increasingly aware of the situation as services languish over the coming months and years. — Alan M. Cohn, Humanities Librarian and Prof. of English.

Hong Kong fate teeters between London, Peking

Jack Prasai
Staff Writer

WORLD INTEREST in Hong Kong's fate blossomed after a five-year countdown began for settlement of the colony's sovereignty in July of last year. The stock market there plummeted to its lowest level since the crash of 1973, and real estate prices, once among the highest in the world, nose-dived 40 to 90 percent.

The Hong Kong "jitters" hardly went unnoticed in London — or in Peking, which has greater interest in ensuring the continued prosperity of Hong Kong than is often thought.

STEVE LOHR of The New York Times wrote recently that "while British companies and individuals trading in Hong Kong might bring about $100 million a year to the British economy ... China may be getting up to $3 billion a year, or 40 percent of its total foreign exchange earnings, from trading with and through Hong Kong as well as remittances from overseas Chinese." On top of this, he wrote that "the colony's entrepreneurs are the principal investors in China's special economic zones, on which the Chinese are depending to help create jobs and economic growth."

China's interest in Hong Kong's continued well-being is apparent in other ways, also. China has billions of dollars worth of investments in Hong Kong, ranging from banks and department stores to trading companies and tailor shops, all of which would lose value should Hong Kong go "down the drain." This was suggested by Cao Weilan, deputy director for economic affairs at China's Xinhua News Agency's Hong Kong Bureau, in a recent interview with the Far Eastern Economic Review. Cao said, "China has a proven record of conducting its business according to Hong Kong laws and regulations just as traders and merchants from other parts of the world do."

HOWEVER, the British Foreign Office has argued that "Hong Kong's stability and prosperity are to be preserved, and if London is to discharge what it regards as its moral commitments to Hong Kong, "some official administrative role is essential after 1997." In other words, what London is reportedly telling Peking is that while the two systems, capitalist and communist, have existed side-by-side to mutual benefit in the past, they are essentially incompatible and cannot be mixed together.

The Chinese believe that sovereignty without administrative powers is meaningless. In fact, according to the Chinese, the recent emphasis that their leaders have put on recovering Hong Kong and on wiping out a national humiliation — while letting the British out of an "embarrassing situation" — would tend to suggest that China might agree to an unofficial British presence in the form of senior civil servants after 1997.

THE CHINESE and British have gone about negotiating with exemplary foresight on what is a very delicate and complex issue of far-reaching consequences. Serious thinking began on the subject when British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher visited China last year — a full 15 years before 1997. Clearly both London and Peking have recognized the need to prepare the public on each side of the issue for the changes that loom ahead.

It is remarkable that when many other countries have simply marched in and gobbled up small colonial enclaves like Hong Kong, the might of the People's Republic of China has been demonstrated quite effectively in the settlement of an awkward issue left over by history.

'Ron Reagan has broken international law'

My first draft of this letter contained insulting criticism for John Dyslin; but I rationalized that childish name-calling is ignorant and I'd rather devote some of this space to civil analysis of his letter and the issues it addressed.

John wrote about "cowards and simple minds" protesting U.S. involvement in Lebanon and Grenada, but most of the things he said made me wonder how much thought he had put into his criticism.

He mentioned that the Marines were in Lebanon "to have peace in that troubled country." How does it serve to keep the peace between warring factions when you actively engage in artillery barrages against one of the combatants, as we are doing? Sounds more like war than peace to me. He suggests that we should support the Gernayel government in Lebanon. I don't know what his rationale for this is, but I do know that it has nothing to do with the opinion of the Lebanese people, because they don't support it at all. He praises the display of ethnocentric hatred toward Iranians as a result of the hostage crisis. Is he aware of U.S. financing of the police state set up by the Shah to funnel great portions of that country's wealth into his own and American corporations' bank accounts, or of the number of innocent civilians who were tortured or murdered by the Shah's secret police?

Regarding Grenada, he states that there's nothing wrong with murdering hundreds of people (perhaps over a thousand by now), because of a conjecture as to the well-being of others. Or does Dyslin believe that it's all right to kill someone because he or she is communist (or lives in a communist state)?

Incidentally, the invasion constitutes a direct violation of Article 34 of the UN Charter. That means Ron Reagan has broken international law.

But what really bothered me about John's letter was its underlying philosophy. He seems to feel intense hatred toward Iranians, communism and, most importantly, free thought, as evidenced by his love-it-or-leave-it attitude. John speaks of patriotism, but I'm not so sure he knows what that word means. It doesn't imply a strict adherence to everything the president says, or to some religious-ethical-moral code, or a no-holds-barred struggles to maintain the (economic, social and philosophical) status quo. What it does mean, at least to me, is the embracing of the freedoms and obligations that we have here; the freedom to think and say what we believe (and even what we don't), and the obligation to preserve others' rights in the same vein. — Bruce Stapely, Thermal and Environmental Engineering.

Book ban excuses border on absurd

Seeing the list of banned books in the Nov. 3 DE shows me how close we are coming to "1984" and "Fahrenheit 451." Some of these books like "Grapes of Wrath" and "Huckleberry Finn" are true classics of the literary world.

The excuses given for banning them are absurd. The banning of Alfred Hitchcock's book is possibly the most absurd. Tales of the supernatural have been part of cultures throughout time.

I know of a book that has questionable language, sex and violence. Perhaps it should be banned also. It's not on the list but it's called the Bible. — Ken Scott, Senior, Speech Communication.

'Earthwalk' details odyssey

By Terry Leveck
Entertainment Editor

Did you ever feel like taking some time off from college?

The Walker brothers did — and chose quite an outlandish vacation; they spent 15 months hiking, climbing, swimming and canoeing their way from Anchorage, Alaska to the Mexican border.

David Walker visited SIU-C Sunday night to tell the story of their trip. It involved 1,500 slides and took an hour and a half to chronicle the adventure.

The brothers were going to college at Washington State; David was a junior, and didn't want to work a 9 to 5 job on break, he said. Phil was working for the forest service in Alaska. Neither had any specific experience for the trip — except that they were in shape.

"I had a death wish, I needed to push myself," David said after the show. "I also wanted to experience friendship."

And that he did, spending almost the entire trip with only his brother. The slide presentatation captured the beauty of some rarely-traveled trails and places that trails don't reach.

The presentation tried to capture some of their emotions, like sitting on a summit in Alaska, looking down on a storm they just trekked through.

Phil is quoted in the show at that point: "Did you ever feel totally at ease with yourself and your surroundings?"

The show stressed the underlying importance of harmony of man with nature that is necessary for places like those shown to remain.

The brothers took 3,000 pictures on the 15-month adventure, with the full intention of bringing what they saw to other people. Both majored in filmmaking and photography in college, and felt this was a creative way to get their foot into a Hollywood filmmakers' door.

"They may not be interested in 'Earthwalk,' but if they have heard of it, they might say 'Oh yeah, Earthwalk, come on in,'" David said later, while discussing future film projects with his brother, Steve, who is traveling with the show.

The Walkers made their trip in 1974 and 1975. They had been sitting on all the slides, restricted from presenting them because of lack of funds. That's where Kodak came in. Last year Kodak approached them, after the two approached Kodak the previous year, and gave them the money necessary for the show — $60,000 worth of equipment.

David is still beaming with energy almost 10 years after the trip. When everyone cleared the ballroom, the 33-year-old whipped off his classic sweater and khaki pants, ready to jump into action tearing down the stage, in a pair of shorts and a shirt, and of course hiking boots (the lightweight, nylon variety).

His smile barely dissipated for the rest of the night, but lines around his eyes revealed his weariness from almost three months on the road, with two more weeks to go. The presentation will reach 80 universities.

David will return with his brother Steve to Malibu, Calif. for two months off, while all the universities are on break before going back on the road to finish the tour. Phil is married and has a few kids, David said, so the touring duties were left to him.

The trip didn't deeply change the California natives, but it did make them feel close to God. "Nature is the art of God," David said. "You can look at it, touch it, feel it, you're dealing directly with God."

The two bushwhacked all the way through Alaska, and met upon some rough times that gave them the idea to cut short the trip.

"When we were caught in the Wrangells (mountains), we thought we'd bail out as soon as we got out," David said. They were caught in mud and water from an early thaw for two days early in the trip. "We were lost, and wet and tired."

But once they did get out "the sky was blue, somebody helped us along with" spirited supplies, and they were on their way once again. Other food and equipment supplies were mail dropped by their parents at various points throughout the trip.

David said the Indians helped them out a lot. "They offered us food, let us bed down with them, and gave us lots of good advice," David said. "They're still there in the bush hiking."

Sitting back with a tall glass of iced orange juice after the evening was complete, David admitted that telling the story over and over again does get tedious.

Telpro offers hands-on experience

By Liz Myers
Staff Writer

For 110 dedicated radio-TV students, Friday nights are a time for a valuable learning experience.

They're members of Telpro, student television production organization. Every Friday night these students forfeit the traditional end-of-week revelries for hands-on experience in a WSU-TV studio — but that doesn't mean they don't have fun.

"We are talking about getting to the 'inside' of the studio for four to five hours," said Mark Homan, senior in radio-TV, operation manager for Telpro. "It's something you can't get from the classroom."

In Telpro, students from all majors can get experience in every job in TV production, Homan said.

They design and light sets, direct, create graphics, work as grips (production assistants) and even write the scripts, said

Building of Alton Dam a study in superlatives

ALTON (AP) — The new Alton Lock and Dam 26 under construction in the Mississippi River might not be the eighth wonder of the world, but its dimensions are certainly a source of wonderment.

When completed, the facility will weigh 1,086,980 tons, and will contain 500,000 cubic yards of concrete, enough to build a roof 26 feet thick over Busch Stadium in St. Louis.

Enough steel will go into the dam — 70,480 tons — to build 35,000 luxury cars. It will contain about 192 miles of pilings driven down to bedrock — 15,000 of these, each 65 to 70 feet long and weighing 2.7 tons.

The dam will stretch 1,160 feet from bank to bank, while the length of the lock and guidewalls will be 3,920 feet — more than a half mile.

Four hundred men and women working three shifts a day, five days a week, are employed in building the dam, from both sides of the Mississippi.

And their boss is delighted. "There's not a better job in the (U.S. Army) Corps of Engineers, bar none," says J.D. (Jim) Bissell, the resident engineer.

Bissell has worked on three dams in the Arkansas River during his 24 years with the Corps, but this is the first time he's been in charge of building one. His job is quality control.

"We sure don't want to build something that will fall down next week," Bissell says in his Arkansas drawl.

Student arrested and charged

An SIU-C student was arrested and charged with assault and battery Saturday after he allegedly struck another student, according to SIU-C Security.

Kevin L. Sanderlin, 20, of 214 Schneider Hall, was arrested after the incident at about 2:10 a.m., police said.

The victim, 18-year-old Todd Himms of Schneider Hall, and witnesses said Sanderlin struck him in the jaw and then threw him to the ground for no apparent reason.

Sanderlin posted $50 bond and was given a notice to appear in court.

In a separate incident Friday night, a 20-year-old female student reported to SIU-C Security that she was grabbed at 10:40 p.m. by a man as she was walking between the blue barracks to her home in Mae Smith.

The man fled the scene after grabbing the woman, police said.

It's hard to imagine how it could.

Looking down into the temporary cofferdam, which holds back the mighty Mississippi to allow the Corps to work, visitors see a project spread over 25 acres studded with giant cranes, chattering pile drivers, trucks, cars, stacks of materials, sheds and scurrying people.

Standing inside the "hole," as it is called, they're far below river level, and the lock and dam project's size is overwhelming. Just the seepage from the river into the work area is astounding — 70,000 gallons of water are pumped back into the river every minute around the clock.

Bissell says it's not only the biggest project he's ever worked on, but is also the biggest single Corps of Engineers project in the United States.

After a 10-year fight, Congress in 1978 authorized construction of a replacement for Lock and Dam 26 at an estimated cost — not adjusted for inflation — of $470 million.

The lock and dam system raises the level of the Mississippi at Alton to enable barges drawing 8½ feet of water to navigate the river.

Actual work on the dam began in 1980 and the first phase "is real close on schedule," says Bissell. It is to be completed in April 1985.

former operations manager Patrice Maenza, who now serves on Telpro's executive committee.

Telpro has been in operation since 1970, and is contracted by private and public organizations to do video-tape features, averaging from 3 to 15 minutes in length, said Maenza, a senior in radio-TV.

Telpro also produces student written works, Maenza said. After closing membership to the organization four weeks after each semester begins, the executive committee decides what student-written video productions are going to be produced.

Telpro has done video productions for the American Heart Association, the Department of Special Education and the blood drive. The group also has produced an eight-minute comedy skit entitled "The Violation" that will be sent to the national competition of AERho, the professional broadcasting organization.

Telpro is currently working on "Hot Rocks" a one-hour rock video show, complete with concert schedules, rock videos and veejays (video disc jockeys) from WCIL; a reenactment of a Biblical story; and "Rejection Slips," a comedy skit about a writer who wants to get a story published in a magazine.

The faculty adviser for Telpro is Bill Johnson, a radio-TV instructor. Students interested in joining Telpro can contact Patrice Maenza or Mark Homan in the Radio-Television Department in the Communications Building.

Republicans discuss strategy for increasing voter turnout

By John Racine
Staff Writer

Some politicians think it is a handicap that Southern Illinois covers a lot of the map and does not have many people.

Joe Hale does not.

Hale, the Republican state committeeman for the 22nd Congressional District, said at the 1983 Downstate Republican Conference in Mount Vernon that Southern Illinois is in a "unique position because it has a large geography and only a few people."

That, he added, "gives us a big job to do."

Li Gov. George Ryan agreed, saying that Southern Illinois representatives have an edge over their northern counterparts.

"Downstate representation has many advantages over those in the north, like Cook County," Ryan said. Downstate representatives "reach a common ground with constituents a lot faster than those in the larger areas," he said.

"You now have four Republican representatives from Southern Illinois in Springfield," Ryan remarked. "We would like to have the other six."

Despite such advantages the Republican party in Southern Illinois needs to be strengthened, some politicians said at the convention Saturday.

Ryan said there is a need for a stronger downstate Republican party because the Democratic party has been breaking tradition and expanding into the suburbs of Chicago.

"In the past there was a saying that 'we can let the Democrats have Chicago because we've got the suburbs,' well, the last election proved that that was not true," Ryan said.

"We can't dilute the party here or in the north," Ryan added. "The state has had a natural geographic split for years."

State Rep. Ralph Dunn, R-DuQuoin, a candidate for State Sen. Ken Buzbee's seat in the 58th District, said the party needs better communication.

"This conference is necessary," Dunn said. "We need to get together like this more often."

Dunn also recommended that minorities such as students, women and blacks, be courted more by the GOP.

State Rep. Bob Winchester, R-Rosiclare, agreed with many of Dunn's points, adding that too many Republicans cross-over on ballots.

"The Republicans got wiped out in the last election," he said. "Too many of them crossed-over."

State Rep. Dwight Friedrich, R-Centralia, said, "Voting a straight ticket is the only way to go. And if I didn't believe that I'd be a Democrat."

Friedrich said he believes many people cross over on the ballot because they fail to see the difference between conservative Republicans and liberal, "bleeding heart" Democrats.

Friedrich said that precinct committeemen are the "backbone of the party" and called upon the 11,000 committeemen statewide to work harder for more support.

"Nobody ever gets too many votes, but I got too few one time and I didn't like it," he said.

The theory that the Republican party is the party of the rich has had an adverse affect on success of the GOP, Vermilion County chairman Joe Montgomery said. Montgomery also agreed that women and other minorities cannot be ignored by the Republicans.

"When I had some vacant positions I filled them with women and as it turns out they have proved to be some of my better workers," he said. "You had better believe that when I have more open spots I am going to fill them with women. They want to do the work."

Montgomery said that he has noticed an improvement in party unity and in GOP strength in his county since establishing a local headquarters.

McCormick said that the Republican party needs more forceful campaigning in order to keep up with the Democrats.

"We are timid compared to the Democrats," McCormick said.

The Republicans also need to close the gap with the Democrats in other ways, too. Don Adams, chairman of the Illinois Republican Central Committee, said that the Democrats are ahead of the Illinois GOP by at least 500,000 registered voters. A sizeable gap which, he said, needs to be closed.

The Democrats, he said, pushed for larger voter registration during the 1982 statewide elections.

Soviets pursue psychic war

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has achieved "significant progress" toward developing mind-control weapons, says a U.S. Army study disclosed in a new book on military uses of psychic phenomena.

Author Martin Ebon contends that mind-altering effects or "remote monitoring of brain wave activity" are among possible reasons behind the Soviet microwave bombardment of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

"Soviet scientists view the brain as an apparatus available for probing and manipulation," Ebon says. "They are well aware that perfected techniques in ESP and other phenomena would make effective wartime strategies."

Publication of Ebon's book "Psychic Warfare: Threat or Illusion?" comes amid increased interest in parapsychology research on Capitol Hill as well as within the Pentagon and U.S. intelligence agencies.

A report prepared recently by the Congressional Research Service, an arm of the Library of Congress, concluded that "psi phenomena" could be applied in education, medicine, geological exploration and business management.

Mind-control techniques also may prove useful for "military intelligence and police work" along with "crime, persuasion, mischief and disinformation," it said.

Psi phenomena include various forms of extrasensory perception, for example telepathy and "remote viewing" of distant locations. Another form is "psychokinesis," the ability to move or bend solid objects with the mind.

Critics of parapsychology, however, charge that much of the research is either scientifically unsound or fraudulent. Other skeptics argue that even if the phenomena exist, they are too weak and unpredictable to have military value.

Congressional supporters of psi research include Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He said he had discussed the parapsychology field with Soviet researchers during a visit to the Soviet Union in August.

"I personally have never experienced or seen a psychic event," Pell said recently. "But it seems to me there have been adequate scientific articles written that would indicate that they do occur."

To counter that potential threat, it said, the United States should develop special defensive tactics and begin to explore the use of its own mind-control weapons.

Speculation over possible purposes behind the Soviet microwave bombardment of the Moscow embassy — believed to have begun as early as 1953 — has centered largely on use of the beams for eavesdropping or to try to jam U.S. electronic intelligence-gathering equipment.

Session to focus on military activity

A lecture and discussion session about U.S. military involvement in Lebanon and Grenada will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Wesley Center, 816 S. Illinois Ave.

The session, which is sponsored by the Coalition for Change and the Palestinian Student Association, is titled "No More Vietnams."

The Rev. Ted Braun, minister of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Carbondale, will speak in opposition to the recent U.S. invasion of Grenada. David Williams will voice opposition to keeping U.S. troops in Lebanon.

The sponsors of the session said that recent U.S. military action in the Caribbean and the Middle East is part of a general U.S. policy of intervention that "raises the danger of wider war."

Beg your pardon

It was incorrectly reported in the Friday issue of the Daily Egyptian that the proposed athletics fee increase would raise the fee from $20 to $30. The athletics fee for full-time students is currently $30 and the proposed $10 increase would raise it to $40.

Marion man falls; injured during show

A Marion man was injured Friday after he fell from upper bleachers onto the concrete concourse at the SIU-C Arena during the Kenny Rogers concert, according to SIU-C Security.

Howard K. Durfee, 28, was transferred Saturday morning to Firmin Desloge Hospital in St. Louis from Carbondale Memorial Hospital after the accident at 10:15 p.m.

Police said he suffered a skull fracture, dislocated left elbow and laceration about his right eye.

Durfee fell from the bleachers as he was reportedly climbing over the rail to descend and go to the bathroom. Police said his girlfriend had warned him to walk down the bleachers.

Soviet Union program set at city library

Frank Klingberg, political scientist specializing in international relations, will present a travelogue-slide show on "The Soviet Union Today" from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Carbondale Public Library.

Klingberg, who visited the Soviet Union in August, will discuss relations between the Soviet Union and the United States. The library will have an exhibit of books from the Soviet Union.

the last Redbird threat.

In the third quarter, ISU kicked a field goal to pull to within 21-20. Following a Saluki touchdown on their next drive to make the score 28-20, ISU came back with a touchdown of its own.

WITH THE SCORE 28-26 and more than 12 minutes left to play, ISU went for the two-point conversion and a tie game. Quarterback John Coppens slipped while going backward to set up in the pocket. Defensive end Ashley Sledge rushed into the backfield and sacked Coppens.

One part of the game that Dempsey said he was disappointed with was when his squad did not extend its 21-14 lead late in the first half.

Linebacker Fabray Collins intercepted a Coppens pass and returned it 35 yards to the SIU-C 49-yard line with 2:11 left in the half. A holding penalty, though, pushed back the Salukis 10 yards on first down.

After quarterback Rick Johnson completed two passes for 27 yards, he ran for five more yards, which would have given the Salukis the ball at the ISU 29-yard line. A personal foul penalty on the play, though, pushed SIU-C back 15 yards. On the next play, Johnson's pass was intercepted and returned to the SIU-C 47-yard line.

FROM THERE, ISU gained 14 yards in three plays, setting up a field goal opportunity. Freshman kicker Paul Politi kicked a 50-yard field goal with one second left to bring ISU to within 21-17.

If the Salukis had been able to kick a field goal, then they probably would have went into the locker room at halftime ahead by 10 points, Dempsey said, instead of being ahead by just four points. Dempsey said it would have given his team a lift and the second half probably would not have been so close.

Dempsey said the offensive line was doing an "admirable job," even though it was not the starting line that he would have liked to have seen. Injuries have depleted the line, and starting center Tom Baugh was playing with a knee that was still hurting from the New Mexico State game the week before.

Quick tackle Ralph Van Dyke said after the ISU game that the first and the second string players on the line could step into the starting lineup.

"A lot of the players on the line are good enough to start," Van Dyke said. "I consider both lines as starters."

VAN DYKE SAID that the offensive line is doing "a pretty good job overall," but penalties and other mistakes have hurt the line from performing better.

Tight end Mike O'Day was one of the linemen to shine Saturday. O'Day made his first start of the year and caught four passes for 70 yards, including two touchdown receptions in the first quarter. O'Day had caught just two passes before the game this year.

Placekicker Ron Miller broke the NCAA I-AA record for consecutive extra points kicked in a season. Miller, a red-shirt freshman, has made 47 in a row this year.

SIU-C bowling team fighting for top in first conference race

By Scott Rich
Staff Writer

The SIU-C men's bowling team is in the thick of the conference race.

The men recently entered the Gateway Intercollegiate Bowling Conference and are five games behind the league leader with two weeks of conference play remaining.

Over the weekend the team was 8-6 in conference matches. Although the team fell from second to fourth in the conference race after the last two weekends of play, Bob Burnside, coach and adviser, believes that the men have a good chance to win the conference.

"The men are bowling better every week," Burnside said. "Our team average is climbing every match."

Members of bowling team are chosen from the SIU-C Bowling Club, which rolls weekly at the Student Center alleys. Burnside said that 10 members were chosen from the club and five represent the team in conference play.

"The secret is finding five guys who can click together," he said. "When one guy has a bad game, another person has to have a good one to pick up the slack."

Don Schwind, Tom Morrell.

Mark Hufnagle and Bob Burnside Jr. have been the four mainstays of the lineup. Schwind holds the high team average at 193, and Morrell has the high game, 263, and the best seven-game series with 1,580 pins.

The other team members, Tim Reilly, Dennis Heng, Mike Billings, Neil Kassel, Rodger Warner and Rick Riffer, have been alternating to fill the fifth spot in the lineup.

The men have combined to post a 24-18 conference record, five games behind league leader Florissant Valley Community College. St. Louis University and Merrimac Community College are tied for second, while SIU-C is fourth.

The University of Missouri at Rolla is fifth, followed by SIU-Edwardsville, Southeast Missouri State and Forest Park Community College.

If the SIU-C team wins the conference title, it will automatically be seeded in the Midwest Sectional Tournament and could possibly be headed for the National Collegiate Bowling Tournament in San Jose, Calif.

Burnside said the team has looked good so far, but is headed for some tough competition in the weeks to come.

During Thanksgiving break, the team will bowl in the 44-team National Collegiate Match Play Championship in St. Louis, Mo. Burnside said the tournament will be the team's biggest test so far this year, since some of the toughest teams in the country will be competing. National Collegiate and Junior College champion Vincennes University is the early favorite.

Indiana last obstacle for Illini in bid for long-awaited crown

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Illinois Coach Mike White, who worked for weeks to keep his players from looking past their next opponent to the Rose Bowl, no longer has that problem.

When the Illini step into Memorial Stadium on Saturday to play Indiana, their first Big Ten championship in 20 years will be just 60 minutes away — if they win.

"It all comes down to this week," White told a news conference Monday. "The Rose Bowl is, and always has been, the goal of this program. We know what this game can mean. We're excited as heck about it."

Indiana Coach Sam Wyche, who worked with White for the San Francisco 49ers, said he has mixed feelings about the outcome of this game.

"I am sincerely happy for Mike; I know he'll go to the Rose Bowl," said Wyche. "But we won't concede anything."

Salukis unanimous No. 1 pick

While grabbing the No. 1 ranking in the NCAA I-AA football poll for the third straight week, SIU-C became the first unanimous pick for the top spot in three weeks. The Salukis snared the four first-place votes for the first time this season.

Holy Cross dropped a notch to No. 3 after a 10-10 tie with Harvard Saturday. Northeast Louisiana climbed to the No. 2 ranking.

After the Salukis knocked off Illinois State 28-26 on Homecoming Saturday, SIU-C became the first collegiate team in the country to become 10-0. Nebraska, in I-A, followed with its 10th win after SIU-C had won.

SALUKI COACH Rey Dempsey said one of the things that he liked best about his team's win Saturday was the way the club "hung in there" in the last quarter.

"I'm proud of the team for the way it came back," Dempsey said. "They were taking a backseat for the first time all year in that game. We were playing like we were hanging on in that game.

"We had to motivate them to be the aggressor late in the game the way they have been all year. I liked the way they turned it around."

In the final five minutes against Illinois State, the Salukis recovered two fumbles, one which stopped the Redbirds at the SIU-C 8-yard line, and intercepted a pass that ended

Steele says swimmers still have tools to win

By David Wilhelm
Staff Writer

When the men's swimming team and 11th-year Coach Bob Steele open the season Friday night against Illinois, they will be trying to preserve a rich tradition of success at SIU-C.

Despite losing three top athletes, Steele is optimistic about the fortunes of his team during the 1983-84 season.

"This is one of the closest-knit teams we've had," Steele said. "Everybody is interested in improvements they make individually. With that attitude, the team concept will fall into place well. We know we have the potential to do it. It's up to them to lay it on the line and carry on."

Steele said that the team will not be at full strength when the season begins at 7 p.m. Friday in Champaign. Senior Keith Armstrong, who was third in the 100 freestyle last season at NCAAs, will not be available to the team until January. Two freshmen will also be joining the team in January. Steele expects them to "help us a lot."

"This year's team depends a lot on what the new kids can do," said Steele. "We have a solid nucleus through the first three classes. We lost two outstanding kids in Conrado Porta and Pablo Restrepo. Those two guys both placed individually in the NCAA championships. They were great and solid dual-meet swimmers. Replacing them will be tough."

Another top athlete not returning will be Doug Rusk, who quit school. Steele said that Porta, Restrepo and Rusk are the people he will miss the most.

Steele describes this year's team as a "well-balanced one." "We've got kids in all classes," he said. "We have about eight newcomers, plus four new divers. Our goal is to win the National Independents championships for the seventh time. Another goal is to make the NCAA top 10."

Reaching the top 10 in the NCAA has not been difficult for

Ruggers end season with two victories

Closing a successful season on a high note, the women's Rugby Club dumped Illinois State and Vanderbilt Saturday at home to close its season with a 12-5 record, which includes nine shutouts.

Earlier in the season the ruggers blanked Illinois State 12-0 at the state championships, but this time around the SIU-C win wasn't quite as polished.

Saturday the SIU-C club was held scoreless until the second half and finally edged the Redbird club 6-0, then came back later to blast Vanderbilt 28-0.

The match with Illinois State wasn't SIU-C's best effort of the season.

"Our skills were sloppy," said Maria Erickson, a club officer. "We just didn't play well as a unit in the first half. Our control-style game just wasn't there."

After a scoreless first half, SIU-C started to put the pieces together. Late in the second half, the ISU defense left a hole big enough for Anita Coleman to speed through for the only try of the contest. Erickson added a field goal to give SIU-C the 6-0 win.

After a 30-minute break, the SIU-C club returned to the pitch to demolish Vanderbilt.

"We took this last game in fun," Erickson said. "The lineup was shuffled and our players were put in positions that they were totally unfamiliar with."

Surprisingly, the rearranged SIU-C team had little trouble putting Vanderbilt away. The pack consistently won position in scrum downs and the back line successfully gained yardage by kicking.

The back line also got the ball out regularly to Coleman, the team's center, and Kris Stauffer, a wing. The duo put most of SIU-C's points on the board. Coleman tore through Vandy's defense to collect three tries, and Stauffer found space down the right sideline twice to add two more.

Erickson booted three field goals to give SIU-C a 26-0 win.

The two matches marked the close of SIU-C's fall season, which was highlighted by a second-place finish at the state championships and a fifth-place showing in the Midwest Regional Tournament.
