CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) - Palestine Liberation Organization commandos armed with guns and explosives Monday seized an Israeli cruise ship with about 450 people aboard off the coast of Egypt and demanded the release of 50 Palestinian prisoners.

The Italian news agency ANSA said the commandos were threatening to blow up the vessel if Israel did not meet their demands.

Egyptian security sources in Cairo said a seven-man commando team held the 23,629-ton cruise liner Achille Lauro as it moved between the port cities of Alexandria and Port Said.

ANSA, quoting Italian consulate authorities in Port Said, said 454 people were aboard when the guerrillas raised the cruise liner.

In Washington, White House deputy press secretary Ed­ward Djerejian said the captors of the ship were demanding the release of 50 Palestinians from Israeli prisons as ransom for release of the ship.

"We've been in touch with our embassy in Rome," he said, adding he did not know if any Americans were among the approximately 100 passengers and 500 crew aboard the ship.

Crew members launched an SOS alert when the comm­mandos boarded the cruiser.

In Jerusalem, the Israeli Foreign Ministry said, "We are in touch with the Italian ambassador. According to reports we have, they want the release of 50 terrorists. Italian television is saying they're demanding 500 million dollars for the people." Force 17 is PLO leader Yasser Arafat's elite bodyguard unit.

Eagle population soaring at Crab Orchard

By Norm Helkens
Staff Writer

It's not easy being a young bald eagle. Consider the first eaglet in many years to sur­vive after hatching at Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge.

The eaglet, last seen flying over the refuge, survived one windstorm in its giant nest on top nest, but then fell to the ground in a second windstorm when the nest was blown from the tree in 1980. Jim Carse, outdoor education planner for the refuge, said the parents built another nest, and successfully raised two young birds to flight stage in 1981. The pair laid eggs for three years, but have rejected eggs and raised two eaglet this summer, he said.

Bald eagles are soaring in Southern Illinois, where they didn't exist for many years. About 50 wintered at Crab Orchard last Christmas.

"Most of the eagles that winter in Southern Illinois migrate from the northern United States and Canada," Cameron said. Concentrations are highest around Christmas time.

The earliest nesting at­tempts in recent history happened in 1973, but the nest was unproductive and blew down one year later, he said. In 1975, a pair built another nest and added to it for several years with no nesting.

"Nesting eagles must have privacy, or they will abandon the nest," Cameron explained. "Federal regulations prohibit the nesting of eagles in a zone of non-disturbance around the nest." The rule is tightly enforced at Crab Orchard, Cameron said.

He added that while nesting bald eagles cannot be ob­served, wintering eagles can be seen with powerful binoculars and telescopes. They often perch in trees near concentrations of aquatic animals.

The eagles can be seen in the eastern half of the 41,000 acre refuge, which extends from Carterville Beach Road to Marion.

Wayne Adams, project manager at the refuge, said that it is optimistic about the future of the birds in Southern Illinois, because the habitat has improved.

In the last few years, we noticed a slight but steady increase in the eagle population," he said.
Police sealed off the Leftist guerrillas' camp south of Beirut Monday in a new outbreak of fighting against Palestinian fighters. At least one person was killed. As force fighting erupted in the camps south of Beirut, Syrian peace-keeping forces consolidated their positions in the northern port of Tripoli to enforce a cease-fire agreement between the warring Moslem militias.

Guerrillas threaten to mine Salvadoran roads

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) - Leftist guerrillas threatened Monday to mine the nation's main highways as part of their economic sabotage campaign against the U.S.-backed government. Monday was the second time in five days that the gray transportation strike declared by the rebels, and thousands of government troops have been deployed on highways in an effort to protect motorists who venture out.

Court rejects delaying 'MOVE' hearings

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - The Pennsylvania Supreme Court denied a last-minute request Monday from a police union to postpone hearings into the fiery battle with the radical cult MOVE. The union, which had petitioned for a special commission, scheduled to start Tuesday, could violate the constitutional rights of officers called to testify. But an attorney for the Philadelphia Special Investigation Commission said that commission was created as a fact-finding and advisory body, not to accuse individuals of wrongdoing.

Israeli troops kill members of PLO hit squad

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) - Israeli troops in the occupied West Bank killed four members of a PLO hit squad suspected of slaying five Israelis and wounded 18 others, the army announced Monday. The four were killed in a clash in the hills south of the Arab town of Hebron, the army said. A fifth was wounded and captured. There were no Israeli injuries.

Court refuses to hear death-penalty cases

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The U.S. Supreme Court Monday refused to hear the death penalty cases of two Illinois men — bringing down one of the nation's fasting condemned murderers — and 42 farmworkers who were convicted of violating the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act last year. The court refused to hear the cases of Lewis, 42, and George Del Vecchio, 27. Both men are being held at Downer Correctional Center in Chester, Ill.

Chrysler decides to locate automobile plant in Illinois

NORMAL, Ill. (UPI) - Officials Monday toasted with champagne a decision by Chrysler-Mitsubishi to build an auto plant in central Illinois, saying it will mean thousands of jobs and millions in tax revenue. An estimated $60 million worth of state and local incentives was offered to Chrysler Corp. and Mitsubishi Motor Corp., Gov. James R. Thompson said.

Balanced budget measure still has Senate deadlocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, ignoring warnings that government checks could start bouncing, Monday failed to raise the federal credit line to $2 trillion because of a four-day-old deadlock over balancing the budget. By a vote of 34-62, President Reagan, the Senate was stalemated over the balanced budget measure, which would take the deficit down to zero in six years.

Riot death of British officer first on mainland

LONDON (UPI) — Police sealed off an inner city housing project Monday and threatened to use plastic bullets and tear gas to quell rioting by youths who hacked an officer to death and also rioted in northern England with shotguns and gasoline bombs. The death of police officer Keith Blakeleake, 40, was the first ever death of a police officer on the British mainland. Authorities said some residents claimed police harassment and warned of more violence.

Shiite Moslems pound Palestinians with shells

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Moslem militiamen using Soviet-made tanks and artillery pounded three Palestinian refugee camps south of Beirut Monday in a new outbreak of fighting against Palestinian fighters. At least one person was killed. As fierce fighting erupted in the camps south of Beirut, Syrian peace-keeping forces consolidated their positions in the northern port of Tripoli to enforce a cease-fire agreement between the warring Moslem militias.

State data cites 45,000 teens pregnant yearly

By Alan Richter
Staff Writer

In Illinois, about 45,000 women between the ages of 10 and 19 become pregnant each year, said Gov. James R. Thompson in a proclamation on teenage pregnancy. The figures are from 1982 statistics, the most recent year for such data.

The proclamation also stated that Illinois adolescents gave birth to over 24,000 infants in 1983, which is 13.6 percent of all births in the state.

In Carbondale, pregnant teens can receive assistance from the Adolescent Health Center, a medical clinic for people ages 12 to 25 located on the corner of West Main Street and University Avenue in the Schwartz Building.

ALTHOUGH THE center's largest case load is for family planning, "we are seeing everything from sore throats to sexually transmitted diseases," said ARC parent-group coordinator Linda Ficko.

The center, which began in 1975 with a grant from the Rural Health Initiative, is one of the three agencies that comprise the Shawnee Network Adolescent Pregnancy Program. SNAP!, the local agency of Parents Too Soon, which is the Illinois program designed to deter teenage pregnancy and the consequences of adolescent childbearing and parenting.

WHEN ILLINOIS received money from the Federal Jobs Bill in 1984, Thompson took the funds, which could be used in whichever way the state thought important, and used them for Parents Too Soon, Ficko said. She said that funds also have come from a three-year grant funded by Ounce of Prevention, which is part of the Department of Family Services and the Harris Foundation. The Harris Foundation is a charity established by Irving Harris when he put up about $250,000 to aid pregnant teens and asked the state to match the funds, Ficko said.

IN JACKSON County, 98 out of the 713 births were to females 19 years old or younger, and 25 of them were born to Carbondale adolescents, said Ficko, who feels this number, based on 1983 statistics, is increasing. The youngest pregnant female to seek aid at the ARC was 12 years old, while the center is presently helping an 11-year-old girl who is keeping her child, Ficko said.

"The number of births seems small, but the numbers keep multiplying since a teenage mother is more likely than not to have a second and third child," Ficko said.

A CHILD born to a teenager not only has a good chance of having a brother or sister, but also has a greater chance of dying since 25 percent of Illinois' mortality rate is connected with adolescents. Thompson's proclamation stated. Ficko was the biggest problem is inadequate early prenatal care. In addition, teens' diets are usually poor and often they are experimenting with alcohol and other drugs while they're pregnant, she said.

"Under the age of 15, the body is just not developed to have a child," Ficko said.

FICKO NOTES that the biggest advantages of the AHS is that group sessions are conducted just with other teens, a person's name is kept secret.

SPECIAL to the University of Illinois is the Harris Foundation. The Harris Foundation, with $1.25 million provided by the Harris Beneficial Foundation, appropriated the funds to aid pregnant teens and asked the state to match the funds, Ficko said.

Too Soon, a University-wide program, is the Harris Foundation, with $1.25 million provided by the Harris Beneficial Foundation, appropriated the funds to aid pregnant teens and asked the state to match the funds, Ficko said.

"The University already has a proposition. " said Sharon Grieson, CSBO Child president.

"The University already had the 5 and 10 cent proposal in their proposition," said Sharon Grieson, CSBO Child president.

"Any more that than would have hurt the across-the-board may increase. We just wanted the 8 percent to consist of as much across-the-board increase as possible and still allow for some adjustment for seniority."

Why educate women at all?

Is there an educational, developmental or redeeming social value to incorporating athletically talented women into a university system? Yes. Undoubtedly. Do women benefit by participating in athletics character, building, team play, learning to both win and lose, perseverance, etc.? Yes. Again, undoubtedly. But why bother to educate women? We can give them athletic scholarships.

Why bother to provide experiences which will help them develop their senses of competence, perseverance, and fair play? Why give lip service to these ideals if we intend to slam the door shut on the culmination of all that we've tried to instill? If we, as an institution, can't bring ourselves to acknowledge our own most perfect example of the educational opportunities we strive to offer: (Dr. Charlotte West), what message are we sending to those we hope to educate? They truly walk confidantly in life, or will they feel they are in SIU-C's "Most Sportmanlike Travesty"? — William Clifton, Jr., Senior, Higher Education.

Something worth saying about

I want to protest in the strongest terms the discrimination against SIUC being practiced by the Soviet Union.

In Monday's Daily Egyptian it was reported that Russian agents had infiltrated four Illinois universities in order to steal classified scientific information. Pointedly, SIUC was not among the four. This is not only a reflection of SIUC's excellence, but of the quality of its students. Although none come immediately to mind, there are plenty of secrets here worth stealing. It's our own cannon's achievement, which is at stake here. — Robert Colvin, School of Medicine.

Cannon caper ignores democracy

I am deeply concerned over the recent opinions expressed in the Daily Egyptian relating to the removal of the "Cannon of Many Colors," notably the opinions of Mr. Purcell and Mr. Mitchell. They and a few others feel quite at ease with the fact that a very small group of individuals can make a secretive decision without consulting the rest of the student body of this University. It is a sad day indeed when even the student body of this University can be convinced such a blatant abuse of the democratic process inherent in our country. These two gentlemen feel that the painting of the cannon was vandalism and use this reasoning as justification for the cannon's removal. They fail to realize that the painting of the cannon over the past 30 years has been a form of expression for students that have walked the halls of SIU.

Students in the 1960s and 1970s painted the cannon as a means to express their feelings over such issues as civil rights, Vietnam and Watergate, to name a few. It is said that the cannon was painted black as a sign of mourning on the day President Kennedy was assassinated and again when the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. was killed. It is disturbing that such expression can be called vandalism by some individuals.

Traditional values change over time, Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Purcell. What was once your tradition of sitting on the cannon between classes has in the past 30 years become one painted on the cannon. Regardless of which tradition prevails, the removal of the cannon to the museum destroys any and all traditional value the cannon had. The museum will serve only as a burial site where the cannon will gather dust and go unnoticed by thousands of students who enter this University in the future.

It is time to save this campus for everyone. The数n cannon has killed its tradition. They have destroyed the minstrel show painted by students before us placed on this campus. — Dan Sheridan, USO East-side senator.

Cannon needs higher status

I'm writing in regard to the removal of the old cannon from its resting place for the last 15 years (since Old Main burned down in 1969). Perhaps an historic account of the cannon is in order. I used the archives at Morris Library to conduct preliminary research on the cannon. Previous to being located near the Law School, the cannon had stood in front of the Old Main building, since at least 1899, according to Mr. Charles E. Feirich. She recalled seeing it when attending the first grade in that year (The Egyptian, Sept. 28, 1982). It is likely the cannon had been placed in front of Old Main around 1899. It was at this time the cannon became a monument to the men of the Civil War. Previous to the

Sotin needs integrity to bring back equality

Cannon capers have been ongoing for many years. The painting of (defacing old public property is a criminal offense, and the cannon was no exception. In the 1950s and 60s, if someone was caught defacing the cannon they were punished by having to remove the paint. If no one was caught in the act of painting the cannon, then a worker from the Physical Plant removed the paint.

Now that the Cannon is just a replica, you can redecorate it any way you like. It's time to start afresh and rebuild the thing the cannon needs. Morale needs to be researched to find out just where it is from. It could be a government project, by removal of all the paint and then a careful inspection can be made. Perhaps the cannon can be camouflaged on a new canvas. It is displayed properly with the monument status it seems to have earned, partly in the University Museum. — David Parmelee, junior, Anthropology.

Glad to be back

During the weekend of Sept. 27 and 28, it was a pleasure to be around SIU. The music was well received and beautifully performed organ recital by my former organ professor, Mark W. Tkach of Springfield from 1966 to 1972 while earning both of my music degrees.

Not having been on campus since 1971, I cannot begin to tell you how impressed I was by the positive atmosphere which was only accentuated by friendly students and a beautiful campus.

Thanks, Southern, for giving me a wonderful lift! — Stephen Hamilton, professor of music, Virginia Intermont College.
Affirmative action equals reverse discrimination

I would like to clarify a point that I believe several people and groups have misunderstood. In South Africa, a paradoxical situation exists. There are three issues involving affirmative action that have been discussed - one is the process of selecting the senators, the other is the inclusion of the SIU as a legal entity, and the third is the affirmative action issue.

The SIU Foundation recently used the process of selecting the senators to invest money in South Africa-related businesses because they have signed the codes of ethics. This new process should be firmly supported.

The Daily Egyptian enquired about a new policy, which may address the issue of equal employment. This new policy should be supported.

Since the SIU Foundation was introduced about a decade ago, they have made minimal impact on the lives of black students. The Arthur D. Little research firm shows that in 1989, nearly three-quarters of all black employees employed by the SIU are engaged in unskilled or semi-skilled work while only 2% of all white employees were so employed. The goal of the SIU's third principle - to ensure work for equal qualified work, is meaningless in a job situation where 75% of all employees are stratified. There has been no attempt by the SIU to give black workers in terms of managerial and supervisory jobs, as is established by the Paymaster.

Black critics concur that the Sullivan responses are in fact counterproductive, disguising the true nature of corporate investment in South Africa. The fundamental weaknesses of black workers' answers to the question of who benefits from the apartheid system, according to the author of the article, are related to the lack of understanding of the apartheid system. It is the model Sullivan signatories that are bolstering the most strategic sectors of South Africa's economy. The Sullivan signatories, such as IBM, GTE, Unilever, Kodak, and British American Tobacco, which fund the SIU Foundation are invested, pay taxes and advertise while in buttressing and modernizing apartheid. IBM, for example, is the single largest supplier of software and data processing equipment controlling between 38 and 50 percent of South Africa's market. By 1993, IBM alone will account for 40% of all capital equipment sold to government.

Through its $425,954 investment in the SIU Foundation, IBM in return is invested in the apartheid system, while African companies are denied access to the market. IBM, for instance, is the single largest supplier of software and data processing equipment controlling between 38 and 50 percent of South Africa's market. By 1993, IBM alone will account for 40% of all capital equipment sold to government.

It is evident that the Sullivan Principles are no more than a public relations exercise by the apartheid rulers. It allows a company to look as if it has good intentions, while forestalling actions that seriously challenge the apartheid system.

Business or government setting is to ensure that candidates have therapeutic treatment when it comes to the question of apartheid. The system has been rejected by the SIU because it is one of the apartheid system. The Sullivan Principles have been more democratic and have required that candidates be accepted on the basis of their qualifications. I speak from experience, and I know that the SIU has rejected more qualified candidates passed over for less qualified minorities in order to fill quotas set by the government.
DATA: 45,000 state teens pregnant yearly

Anonymous and all information is confidential. The main efforts of the program are directed toward education and encouraging males to take more responsibility.

"So much of sex education is after the fact," Poole said. "It needs to be built into the home and, if not there, then in the school."

One female, Sue — not her real name — who had sex education classes in high school and is involved with the AHC’s program, said she became pregnant while taking the pill. Sue, 17, said the pill’s ineffectiveness was due to too small a dose and her lack of taking it at the same time each day. She said that having a child made life more difficult.

"I HAD to get married. I think I would still be dating other guys," Sue said. "It’s real hard seeing people living in the dormitories and knowing that I could have been there. Scared is the main word for it."

Marriage caused her to leave her high school after her junior year, which she said was difficult since she had to graduate at a different school. "I was really socially active," Sue said while her child was crying, "pompoms and the whole works."

ANOTHER AHC planned parented participants who is an SIU-C student wishes to remain anonymous "came pregnant while using, spermicide jelly and condoms for birth control. The pregnancy, which was unknown by the father until the child was born, created shock in her parents and confusion in herself, in addition to an interruption in her life."

I wanted to join the Army," she said, "that was part of what I wanted to do."

Both felt that having a child created a lot of responsibility and cut down on recreational activities and both recommended the AHC’s program to pregnant teens.

SIU: Complete divestment requested

"I WOULD just as soon wait until the trustees meet to make the list available," he said.

The bill was flanked at the rostrum by Andy Leighton, SIUC student trustee, and Garry Lohr, SIU student trustee. Leighton, once a supporter of a proposed student SIU Trustee, suggested the AHC’s creation.

Committee members questioned whether Stock should be chosen to fill the committee members, served as chairman and also voted in the screening process of candidates. Roger Robinson, a Medical School faculty member and a Faculty Senate appointee. suggested each committee member separately discuss alleged irregularities in affirmative action procedures with Somit and Affirmative Action Officer William Bally.

Robinson said he concluded that the affirmative action process — designed to prevent discrimination — was not working. Screening procedures had not begun until the afternoon of Monday, Sept. 15, and all five finalists had been announced by Stock on the previous Saturday.

Questions also were raised about the importance placed on fund-raising experience as a qualification for athletics director. Stock has been quoted in news reports as saying marketing and promotion of athletics were "one of the important things" looked for in the candidates.

Gopelrud defended fund-raising as an important criterion.

"People who give big bucks want to be asked by the AD," he said.

In an interview after the meeting, Robinson said Bally had told him he would resign if any violations in the affirmative action process were discovered.

Robinson and Bally had told him her process was not begun, however, until Sept. 30, when Stock and Somit asked that the athletics director search be reviewed.

Robinson said that apparently the criteria for the screening process and the applications were reviewed "in just a couple of hours" by Bally.

Robinson said he was involved with the Women’s Athletics Department and IAAC members began raising questions about the search process last week.

President Somit, in an interview a week last week, said he is satisfied that affirmative action procedures were followed and that he has no intention of reopening the search.

Along with the list of possible investment opportunities, Tripp said he will submit a plan at the trustees’ meeting Thursday that will outline a way for the University in pull out of its present corporate financial ties.

"I’d love to live in a body overall is against apartheid, and would support efforts to divest," Tripp said.

"That is part of what I wanted to do."

"I wanted to join the Army," she said, "that was part of what I wanted to do."

Both felt that having a child created a lot of responsibility and cut down on recreational activities and both recommended the AHC’s program to pregnant teens.
Shuttle ends secret Defense Department trip

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The shuttle Atlantis closed out its clandestine military mission Tuesday when it landed after a successful launch to take a load of classified Defense Department cargo to a test center in California.

Ground Operations manager Fritz Widick said the $1.1 billion shuttle, the fourth and final member of NASA's fleet, was generally in "excellent condition," but engineers were investigating an area of insulation tile damage on the left wing to find out if the underlying metal was expected to cause excessive heat.

Widick also said three of the ship's main landing gear were in good condition with apparently minor damage to the fourth. Atlantis is scheduled to be ready for the trip back to Florida on Friday.

"It's again proven that the design of the space shuttle is an excellent design and is serving all our purposes," he said in an interview. "We've been very pleased with the inaugural flight of Atlantis." With morning sunlight glinting off its wings, Atlantis gracefully landed on the sprawling Mojave Desert flight test center and dropped like a rock before pulling up gently touching down at 10 a.m. PDT, kicking up a cloud of dust as it barreled down the dry lakebed runway at more than 200 mph.

ASSOCIATE NASA administrator Col. Moore, the head of the civilian shuttle program, said Atlantis proved it is "just an outstanding bird."

"Six times the secret Defense Department trip again proven that the space shuttle is an excellent design and is serving all our purposes," he said in an interview. "We've been very pleased with the inaugural flight of Atlantis."

"We've been very pleased with the inaugural flight of Atlantis."

The smiling crewmen, dressed in light blue flight suits, shook hands with ground crews and inspected their ship briefly before being whisked away in a motor home.

"ATLANTIS was a very clean bird," said Stewart, a veteran of two shuttle flights. "I don't think you've ever seen a cleaner first flight on any aircraft, going. It was just superb."

Even Pailes, who the Air Force has kept off limits because of his secret role in the mission, was allowed to say a few words to well wishers before the trip to Houston.

"I'm an Air Force payload specialist and I'd like to say it was a real privilege and a lot of fun, too, to participate in the mission with NASA," he said.

THE NEXT shuttle mission, a weekend Spacelab mission for West Germany, is scheduled to begin Oct. 20 aboard the shuttle Challenger. Atlantis is to fly again in late November.

Atlantis' military mission, the second fully classified American manned spaceflight, was conducted in strict secrecy but sources said the shuttle's payload included two advanced defense communications satellites.

The $75 million radio relay stations presumably were launched Thursday or Friday.

Student to describe visit to youth festival in Moscow

A U.S. delegate to the 12th World Festival of Youth and Students, Nicole Glasser, will share her experiences of the event Tuesday from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Quigley Hall lounge. Glasser, a junior at SIUC, will describe her visit last summer to Moscow. Topics of discussion will include world peace and negotiations, propaganda and bilateral meetings between the U.S. and such nations as Japan, the Soviet Union, Vietnam and Israel.

Over 12,000 students, youth and their representatives from 150 countries attended the Festival; 200 attended from the U.S. Glasser was chosen to participate as part of the U.S. delegation because of her political experience in state and national student associations.

For more information Glasser may be contacted at 536-3381.

F-Senate to talk on policy

By Alice Schueler

A resolution opposing a policy for the collection of debts by University employees will be discussed by the Faculty Senate at their meeting Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

The policy, proposed by the Bursar's Office, states that the bursar may withhold money from an employee's paycheck to cover financial obligations that the employee may have to the University.

However, the resolution opposing the policy states that if it is adopted by the Senate, it would not imply that the Senate encourages non-payment of proper debts to the University.

The Senate will also discuss a resolution asking that the amount for domestic individual travel of faculty and staff be raised to $3,500.

Also on the agenda is a resolution of a nomination for the Distinguished Professorship Committee, the announcement of the nomination of Vivienne Hertz to the Honors Council, currently headed by acting director Richard Peterson of the English Department, and the nomination of Lawrence Dennis for the Restructuring Committee at the Senate's last meeting, Sept. 10.

Sphinx Club soon accepting applications membership

By John Tindell

Staff Writer

The Sphinx Club, the oldest honorary club at SIUC, will begin accepting membership applications Wednesday, says club president Louis Pukelis.

The Sphinx Club was founded in 1939 and is designed to honor SIUC juniors, seniors and graduate students who have a GPA of 2.5 or higher and are involved in student government or community activities.

Pukelis said that inductees to the club will have their picture and a short biographical sketch published in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Who's Who is the Who's Who among students, and prospective employers can contact Who's Who for information on club members. The Who's Who yearbook is distributed nationwide to hundreds of potential employers.

Membership in the club is free and Pukelis expects that many applicants will have to be turned down for lack of membership openings. Students who apply should provide the selection committee with two letters of recommendation from SIUC faculty or staff as well as the necessary application forms, which can be obtained in the Office of Student Development beginning Wednesday.

The Sphinx club officers are Louis Pukelis, senior in radio and television; Mark Care, vice president, senior in graphic design; Christy Wyrostek, secretary, senior in radio and television; Leah Palisch, director of public relations, senior in marketing; and Karen Guth, fund raising chairman, senior in finance.

Local unemployment rate stays over state average

By Jim McBride
Staff Writer

Although some counties experienced decreases in unemployment rates, August unemployment rates remained high in Southern Illinois, according to figures from the Illinois Department of Employment Security.

NATIONAL AND state unemployment averages for August were 1.0 and 8.8 respectively, while most rates in Southern Illinois counties remained significantly above that, said Dennis Hoffman, labor market economist for the Illinois Department of Employment Security.

UNEMPLOYMENT FIGURES rose slightly in Jackson County from 8.2 to 8.3 percent during August. Hoffman said, however, that Jackson County traditionally has a low unemployment rate because of employment and marketing opportunities associated with Southern Illinois University.

PERRY COUNTY experienced a one percent increase in unemployment during the period, largely because of layoffs in coal mining and manufacturing in the county, Hoffman said.

VESSELL also attributed a drop in Johnson County’s unemployment rates to employment increases at the Vienna Correctional facility.

The unemployment rates for area counties for July and August, 1985 and August 1984 were respectively: Jackson County, 8.2, 8.3 and 8.2; Williamson 17.6, 16.9 and 15.0; Franklin, 16.2, 17.4 and 13.2; Randolph, 8.6, 7.8 and 9.4; Perry, 12.7, 13.7 and 14.5; Union, 15.3, 14.6 and 13.9; and Johnson, 12.9 and 16.8.

Hard work pays off for female triathlete

By Sandra Todd
Staff Writer

It started out as a fitness kick for Sandy Schreiber two years ago - running, swimming and cycling simply to get into shape. Now she is an actively competitive athlete participating in an array of events, including triathlons.

Schreiber, a graduate student in education psychology, won the third triathlon event in two years at the Little Grass Lake triathlon two weeks ago.

Swimming one kilometer in the autumn-chilled waters of Little Grass Lake, running ten kilometers through what Schreiber describes as a "tough winding course" and finally cycling 12 miles through the twists and turns of Giant City State Park, she finished the event with no challenge in sight in one hour and 47 minutes, a new course record for women.

Schreiber's first triathlon, which she won, was an event sponsored by the SIU-C women's swim team in the spring of 1983. She went on to compete in the Doc Spackman Triathlon and won the event in 1984 and '85.

"The first time I really started to train was in the summer," said Schreiber. Evidently, the hard work paid off, because Schreiber placed third in her age group and ninth overall at a half-triathlon event last summer in Paducah, Ky.

A half-triathlon consists of a 1.2-mile swim, 18 miles of grueling bicycle riding and a 13-mile run. For the Iron Man Triathlon, which is held in Hawaii each November, each distance is doubled.

Schreiber completed the race in five and one-half hours, just 10 minutes short of the qualifying standard for the Iron Man Triathlon.

Ten minutes in an event such as a triathlon is a short span of time, especially since transitions from swimming to cycling or from cycling to running can add minutes to a competitors final time.

"I try to visualize the next transition, because the time element is essential," Schreiber said. "If you take too long on transitions, it could hurt your time or even your place."

With an ultimate goal to participate in the Iron Man competition, Schreiber - who prefers to train alone - maintains a rigorous training routine to stay in top condition.

"I'm more inclined to push myself by training on my own," she said. Running and swimming top her workout priority list, as she tries to run at least 30 miles per week, and swim 3,000 to 4,000 miles yards per day.

Schreiber tries to cycle 30 to 40 miles per week, and she cites it as her weakest event in triathlons.

At the Little Grass Lake event, "I got pretty far ahead on the first six legs, but lost some ground on the bike," said Schreiber. "Running is my strongest, it makes the difference."

During competition, Schreiber said that she tries to think about what lies ahead of her, and the best way to approach it.

"I look ahead to the next person, and concentrate on catching them," she said. "I just try to pass one person at a time and try to keep going."

Future plans for Schreiber include attempting her first marathon at the St. Louis Marathon in November, and qualifying for next year's Iron Man competition.

Women netters do well at SIU-E

By Sandra Todd
Staff Writer

Although the women netters had to contend with some unfavorable weather conditions over the weekend at the SIU-E Cougar Invitational, they turned in some good match performances.

"I feel like some of the players are on the verge of getting over a hump," said Saluki coach Judy Auld. "If they can get over it, their confidence will build."

Two players in particular whom Auld says are on the verge of breakthroughs are Sue Stehly, at No. 3 seed, and Julie Burgess, at No. 4.

"They're both hitting well," said Auld, "but they're not winning the right points. It will take time and experience."

Stehly shut out her SIU-E opponent 6-4, 6-4, but went on to lose her next match to Purdue's Kristen Dicken 6-2, 6-3.

Burgess lost her opening round match in the No. 4 flight to Carrie Costigan from the University of Illinois 8-3, 6-2.

In first round action in the top flight, No. 1 singles netter Ellen Moellerig played aggressively in the tie breaker, but wins the set and match 6-2.

In doubles action, the No. 1 duo of Moellerig and Mary Pat Kramer beat Purdue in the first round 76-46. In the second round, they were overmatched by Drake 6-2, 6-2.

Congratulations to Tonya Jennings, 10-Speed Grand Prize winner of the Black Affairs Council Scavenger Hunt. BAC would also like to thank Phoenix Cycles, Gusto, and other sponsors, as well as the campus offices and other participants for that time.

Bad weather at Purdue hurts women golfers

By Anita J. Stoner

The Saluki women’s golf team could not surpass the best of Bu Biddle with the weather in mind. The Boilermakers captured the tournament, shortened by rain to 36 holes. The Boilers trail the tournament,ertura with the Danvers excellent sportsmanship in each sport.

The tournament play of Saluki senior Jill Bertram continued to shine. Bertram, the only Saluki to do well at the intraurals hold championships, decide winners

The Intramural softball tournament hosted by Inter Col and Cross Country held last week decided the champions in each sport.

In the intramural softball championship held Thursday at the arena fields, The Scrappers beat the Drovers 15-11 to take the title in the men’s A Division championship.

Men’s B Division saw the Spudmashers amass 13-1 championship. The two teams held Thursday in the arena fields.

The ABE Club demolished the SRO 20-4 for the Curic B championship.

Intraural coordinator Buddy Goldammer said he thought the teams showed excellent sportsmanship throughout the season.

Saturday saw the running of the intramural cross country tournament in conjunction with the Danvers’ Invitational.

The female runners took part in the race, but they were joined by 30 high school runners. The high schoolers were members of the junior varsity teams that were competing in the invitational.

There were two criteria for winning the cross country championship. First, the competitors estimated the time it would take to finish the 5,000-meter course. Second, they ran the race. Whoever finished the race first won.

John Hughel won the estimated time race. He guessed that he could run the course in 20 minutes, and fell just 0.204 seconds short. Hughel’s time was 19:47.46 — the closest of all the predictions.

Chris Gaffrey was second in the estimated time race. His estimated time was 19:07, and he ran a 20:55, which put him 1:48 behind.

Mike McGill had a better day than he expected, said coach Sonya Gaffrey. McGill predicted he would run the course in 20 minutes. He ran it in 19:47.46 — 1:51 faster than his estimate.

Tom Letten, the finish line first, McGill second and Gaffrey third to stroke the second phase of the contest.

Interception intentions

Saluki defensive back Ira Davis, 38, leaps in front of a pass intended for Illinois State wide receiver David Wilson. Davis missed an interception but still blocked the pass.

Iowa remains atop UPI poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Iowa, a last-second winner Saturday after registering three blowouts, remained college football's No. 1 team Monday in the UPI Board of Coaches' voting.

The Hawkeyes, who ascended to the top spot for the first time since 1961 last week, stayed on top when dynamic quarterback Chuck Long completed a four-touchdown pass performance by rambling 3 yards into the end zone with 27 seconds left Saturday to down Michigan State 32-31.

Iowa, 4-0, received 16 of 42 first-place votes and 364 points to edge Oklahoma. The Sooners received 14 first-place votes and 271 points to remain No. 2 for the fourth straight week.

There were no new teams in the Top 20 from last week, but Ohio State tumbled from third to No. 15 with its loss to Illinois. Michigan jumped two spots to No. 3, getting 19 first-place votes and 294 points. No. 4 Florida State and No. 5 Oklahoma State received one first-place vote apiece.

Sixth-ranked Penn State rose one spot and No. 7 Arkansas zoomed up four places. Alabama remained at No. 8, heading into Saturday's game at Penn State.

No. 9 Nebraska jumped one spot and Brigham Young improved two places to round out the top 10.

No. 11 Auburn bounced back from a loss to Tennessee to win Saturday and climb from 13th while 12th-ranked Air Force leapfrogged from No. 15. Tennessee moved up one position to No. 13 and 14th-ranked Texas shot up from No. 16.

After Ohio State, No. 16 UCLA, No. 17 Georgia and No. 18 Baylor all rose one place. Louisiana State, a loser Saturday to Florida, crumbled from ninth to 16th. Indiana held at No. 20.

There were three Big Eight teams in the top 10 while Southeastern Conference and Big Ten clubs made the ratings.

The top four teams appeared on all 42 ballots.

Ditka says 49ers better than Bears

LAKE FOREST (UPI) — The records notwithstanding, Chicago Bears' coach Mike Ditka said Monday the San Francisco 49ers still have a better team than his unbeaten club.

However, Ditka said next Sunday's game with the Super Bowl champions at Candlestick Park will be a good barometer of how good his 5-0 club is this season.

"San Francisco is still the best team in football. They have excellent personnel," Ditka said of the 5-0 San Francisco. "They are still the Super Bowl champs. We are approaching to where the 49ers were one or two years ago."

San Francisco blanked Chicago 23-0 in the NFC championship game last season. Ditka said he isn't concerned about any revenge factor but did say playing a

"heavilyweight" like the 49ers should tell how much his club has improved.

"It's a good barometer. These two teams may play again and if I was a betting man, I'd say it would happen," Ditka said.

The Bears are off to their best start since the 1985 championship club, of which Ditka was a member. Actually, the Bears' only loss that season was in the sixth game of the year against the 49ers.

"I don't remember much about that game," Ditka said. "I'm hoping that we can start thinking about 1985 rather than going back to 1983."

Linebacker Otis Wilson said the Bears won't intimidate the Bears, who own a two-game lead in their own division.

"They aren't playing the caliber of ball they are accustomed to," Wilson said. "They're going to have to worry about what we're going to do. They are a good team and we will pressure them."

Wilson said the club should be loose for the contest and predicted the Bears should fare better than the last meeting.

Ditka said the 49ers are basically doing the same things as one year ago but will have extra motivation to beat the Bears because they are in a tight divisional race with San Angeles.

"I'm sure they're telling their players that," Ditka said.

The Bears should have everyone available for the game, although defensive lineman Dan Hampton and Richard Dent will have limited practice time. Dent suffered a hip pointer in the win over Tampa Bay Sunday.

Democratic Senate predicts '70 Series

By Ron Warnick

Washington (UPI) — The democratic Senate has predicted that the Super Bowl will be a "Show-Me State" and the possibility that the St. Louis Cardinals may play the Kansas City Royals in the World Series.

Both teams open league championship play this week.

Senator Ted Kennedy, who is from St. Louis, told the Cardinals' stadium in St. Louis that he expected "Show-Me Series" in baseball's classic this fall.

Kennedy was referring to the World Series and said "Show-Me State" and the possibility that the St. Louis Cardinals may play the Kansas City Royals in the World Series.

In remarks on the Senate floor, Danforth said the Royals
