Horton: Enrollment to top last year's

SIU-C's official fall enrollment figures were given a final check Tuesday and an official announcement is expected Wednesday.

Frank Horton, vice president for academic affairs, while declining to predict the total, said the figure will be "above last year—that's for sure." Horton said he had not seen the final figures, which he said were still being compiled late Tuesday.

Another University source said the total will be "right on target" at the 21,700 which was projected at the start of fall semester.

President Warren Brandt announced last spring that freshman enrollment would be cut off when registration for fall reached 21,700.

Enrollment of freshmen was curtailed in August and about 130 freshmen were subsequently denied admission. The director of Admissions and Records said 6,479 of the 7,894 who applied had been accepted.

Enrollment last fall was 21,214, an increase of 2,205 over fall of 1974. Spring enrollment was 20,756.

Health plan aimed at medical costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's new five-year health plan released Tuesday places top priority on controlling runaway medical costs, and de-emphasizes last year's proposal to boost liquor and cigarette taxes as a preventative health measure. The report, "Forward Plan for Health," represents the U.S. Public Health Service's blue-print for tackling major health problems during 1978-82.

The major concern is health care costs, which rose 300 per cent during the last decade to $118.5 billion last year, said Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Until costs can be contained, federal policy making in health will be dominated by these basic economic considerations," Cooper said. "Proposed solutions must address the total health care system, not merely a major component or program in that system."

The new five-year plan, the third in a series, calls for a "major attack on cost escalation as the factor now driving national health policy." It emphasizes greater use of preventive services, such as public immunization programs, improved quality of care and more research on medical malpractice.

Malpractice insurance adds up to $15 per bed each day to hospital rates and $2 billion to national health care costs, the report said.

The report makes mention, without specifically endorsing proposals advanced last year to restrict liquor advertisements and boost liquor taxes and to increase taxes on cigarettes high in tar and nicotine.

The Public Health Service said, however, that it continues to support efforts authorizing the Federal Trade Commission, which is not part of HEW, to set maximum tar and nicotine limits.

The report said that another proposal mentioned last year, to provide federal funds for nationwide fluoridation of school and community water supplies to reduce dental disease, is under serious consideration this year.

"With the cost of dental services increasing and with children's dental care under serious consideration as a national health insurance benefit, nationwide fluoridation takes on added significance and becomes increasingly attractive, it said.

Federal health planners said they will increase funding for state immunization projects and venereal disease programs. They said they expect the national swine flu immunization program to become the model for immunizing high-risk groups such as the elderly in the future.

Students to vote on dental health service

By Joan Pearlman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A referendum on the proposed Health Service dental program will be on the November Student Government election ballot, Student Body President Tom Jones said Tuesday.

Jones said the program will be presented to the Board of Trustees at their February meeting if the referendum is supported by the student body.

The program is scheduled to begin fall semester, 1977 if it gets Board approval.

Jones announced plans for the referendum in July. At that time Sam

McVay, Health Service director, said there had been talk about starting a dental care program since he took over as Health Service director four years ago.

The program would mean a $1.50 to $1.75 increase in student fees, Jones said. Participation in the program would be voluntary. Students who prefer to go to their own dentist will not have to pay for a service they will not use, he said.

Jones said that from what he has heard, student approval of the program will hinge on SIU's budget for next year. "If Gov. Walker's veto is not overridden on the budget for 1977-78, students fees will have to go up anyway," he explained. Jones said if student fees are going to be raised, students may not be willing to finance the dental program.

Mike Smith, a West Side senator who has been working the proposal for the dental program since March, said he feels students will vote in favor of the referendum if "the rationale of the additional fee is explained to them."

The projected cost of the program is about $65,000, Smith said. The largest expense is the cost of a full-time dentist, estimated at $30,000 and a receptionist, estimated at $5,000.

Smith said the University has some dental equipment at the School of Technical Careers (STC), but it would cost $15,000 to $20,000 for enough equipment to begin the program.

Smith said it has also been proposed that the dental program be coordinated with the (STC) Careers Hygiene program. Dental hygienists from STC could work with the dental program, he said.

The program would provide both primary and emergency care, Smith said. Students would have to pay only for the cost of materials. Jones said the estimated cost for filling a cavity is $5.

Smith said "one dentist should be sufficient to get the program off the ground." If more dentists are needed, students fees will have to be raised, Smith added.

School aid, tax speedup issues of special session

By T. Lee Hughes
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—In a politically charged pre-election atmosphere, Illinois lawmakers return Wednesday to the Capitol to try to unsnarl the issues of school aid and a proposed speedup in collection of state sales and withholding taxes.

The special legislative session was called last week by Gov. Daniel Walker, who tempted legislators with the prospect of another $50 million in state school aid if they would return, and do his bidding.

But the issues are so complex and the stakes for the fall election so high that some educators and politicians are wondering whether anything can be accomplished during the special session.

Here, at a glance, are the issues involved in the special session and their implications for education and the fall elections.

SCHOOL AID

During its spring session the General Assembly passed a bill making sweeping changes in the state school aid formula, a bill that provided benefits to so many school districts that it was dubbed the "Christmas tree."

The most controversial provision would have forgiven Chicago schools $24 million of a $55 million school aid penalty they face for closing early last year.

But through use of his amendatory veto, Walker took the unusual step of linking immediate approval of most of the formula changes to legislative approval of his controversial tax collection speedup proposals.

In effect, Walker told lawmakers that if they passed his tax speedup measures he'd go along with the extra benefits for schools. If they didn't, the state couldn't afford those benefits now, Walker said.

TAX SPEEDUP

When he introduced his budget last March, Walker also proposed a speedup in the collection of state sales and employe withholding taxes from larger businesses.

The proposal would not hike taxes, but merely speed the rate at which those employers turn over to the state tax money they collect.

Walker said the measures would bring the state a onetime windfall of $95 million this fiscal year, which began July 1. But in the face of opposition from the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and other business groups, the legislature refused to pass the bills during its spring session.

Now Walker says that if legislators want their formula change package, they'll have to approve the $95 million tax speedup.

EDUCATION FUNDING

Last month Walker cut $84.5 million from the $1.287 billion school aid bill approved by the General Assembly, including money tied to implementation of the formula change package. Walker says now that if the legislature approves his tax speedup proposals, $50 million of his cuts can be restored through a supplemental appropriation bill that will be introduced during the special session.

Gus Bode

Gus says some people would give their eye teeth to see that referendum pass.

News Roundup

Schools peaceful across nation despite busing

It was reading, writing and arithmetic — not raving, rioting and resistance — as schools in several cities across the nation opened Tuesday under the kind of court-ordered integration plans that have caused havoc in recent years. In Louisville, Ky., where anti-busing protests and a bombing marked the weekend, classes Tuesday opened normally. In Boston, almost a symbol of resistance to busing for the past two years, officials expected less tension when students board buses to start classes Wednesday.

Aside from troubles over busing, the teachers' strikes that have signaled the return to school in recent years broke out again in numerous cities. Teachers' spokesmen expected even more strikes this year because of cutbacks in school budgets.

Kissinger, Tanzanian President may meet

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Tuesday that Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere had invited him to come to Africa as soon as possible to begin efforts to head off a race war. A spokesman for Nyerere, however, said Kissinger had invited himself. In a news conference, Kissinger said he would hold up a definite decision on making such a trip until he received a report from William E. Schaufele Jr., the assistant secretary of state for African affairs, now in Africa. Schaufele went to Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Tuesday, to be briefed on the outcome of a summit meeting by black African leaders.

Nyerere's press secretary, Sammy Mdee, said in Dar es Salaam that no invitation had been issued to Kissinger.

"He asked to come and we said all right come along," said Mdee.

U.S. firms comply with Arab boycott of Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — American firms which sell goods and services to the Arab world are complying at least 90 per cent of the time with stipulations imposed in connection with the Arab boycott of Israel, a House panel said Tuesday. A report issued by the Commerce oversight and investigations subcommittee estimated that during 1974 and 1975, Arab requests to comply with the boycott affected some $4.5 billion worth of U.S. sales and proposed sales to Arab countries.

The report, culminating an extensive probe by the subcommittee, said that the Commerce Department has been lax in monitoring the boycott's impact on American business and has "implicitly condoned compliance with the Arab economic effort against Israel."

Examination of Russian MIG excites military

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military sources said Tuesday they expect an intelligence bonanza from examination of the first advanced Soviet MIG25 jet fighter to land within reach of U.S. Air Force experts. The sources said American technical intelligence specialists have been all over a MIG25 "Foxbat" interceptor since it was flown to northern Japan Monday by a defecting Russian air force pilot.

Of special interest to U.S. technicians is the radar used by the Russians to guide the missiles that the Foxbat would fire at U.S. fighters such as the F15 in an air battle. American specialists also are reportedly gathering vital first-hand information on the MIG25's twin turbojet engines, its airframe design and construction.

Viking II views Martian Utopia Plain

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The second of Viking 2's swiveling cameras took its first look at the Utopia Plain on Tuesday, scanning a section of the Martian desert site heretofore unseen by man. The new views might help scientists understand how that section of Martian landscape was formed. Some features of the area already photographed by the other camera on Viking 2's robot lander "suggest you can start thinking about exotic depositional mechanisms — processes involving water or ice," said Thomas Mutch, head of the lander photo team.

Carter says F.B.I. director should be fired

Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter suggested Tuesday that FBI Director Clarence Kelley, who accepted gifts from subordinates and whose apartment was outfitted with $355 worth of government-supplied window decor, should have been fired. Based on his knowledge of the matter, Carter said he would have fired Kelley. But the candidate would not say whether, if he wins the election, he will in fact dismiss the FBI chief. "I will cross that bridge if I come to it," he said.

Legislators vote stops cost-of living raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Tuesday to deny a cost-of-living pay raise this year to members of the Senate and House, but allow such a raise for federal judges, Cabinet members and other federal officials. A 46-25 vote doomed this year's automatic raise from $44,600 to about $46,750 for all members of Congress. The House voted against it last week.

Hearing set to question police plate use legality

City Atty. John Womick is organizing an administrative hearing on orders from City Manager Carroll Fry to determine whether the Carbondale Police Department's use of a license plate registered to George Mace, vice president for University relations, on a police surveillance auto violated the law.

The hearing is set for 1:30 p.m. Friday Sept. 17.

The incident began when Mace's plate was discovered on an auto used by the Carbondale police tactical squad.

An investigation of the incident will be made by J. Phil Gilbert, Carbondale assistant city attorney, and a report of his findings will be given to Fry at the hearing.

Fry, Police Chief George Kennedy, the city attorneys and any police officers involved in the incident will be called into the hearing.

The purpose of the investigation will be to determine whether the police violate the Illinois Motor Vehicle Act concerning the registration and display of license plates on vehicles.

Kennedy has been ordered by Fry to give Gilbert his full cooperation in the investigation of the incident.

Fair's "sting" bilks pair; police shut down booth

By Steve Hahn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two SIU students became $68 "pigeons" at the Du Quoin State Fair Sunday.

Paul Ducoff a junior in business and Paul Morath a junior in occupational education each lost $34 slowly, but not too surely during a 45-minute stint they spent at one of the fair's game booths. "We wanted to win the large animal," Ducoff said.

But they were lucky, they got their money back and after talking to police, the booth where they lost their money was closed for violating a Fair rule which prohibits any booth owner from taking more than $20 from a single person, said Capt. Robert Presley, an SIU Security Police officer working at the Fair.

The booth, however, operated the length of the Fair, with the closing coming only hours before its end. Presley said other people had complained about the booth, but none had lost more than the $20 limit.

The game, known as "Hundred Mile" or "Football" is quite simple: all that is needed is an 18 inch square box, eight small balls... and a willing player.

The eight balls are thrown by the player into the bottom of the box which is lined with approximately 70 holes. Each hole is assigned a value of six points. The balls land in the holes, the numbers are added and the score is tallied. Low scores such as 15 points and below and high scores such as 42 points and above are winners. They give the player miles or yardage, with 100 miles needed to win a large stuffed animal.

The catch is that with eight balls, it takes a 1.8 average ball value to get less than 15 and 5.2 average ball value to get more than 42.

Players are recruited to the booth by either a "free" pass or an experienced "caller's" cry or both, Ducoff said. The caller or runner of the game is the central figure, his job is to keep the players playing.

After a first free toss, Morath had amassed 50 yards, or so said the caller. "My guess is that he didn't get the true 50 yards because the guy (caller) grabbed the balls up real quick," Ducoff said. "He was slick. We were stupid. You're not used to those games, otherwise you wouldn't be there in the first place."

The second round cost both players 25 cents each. This time they decided to combine their yardage and amassed 20 yards for a total of 70 yards. Ducoff said the game went on this way until they had quickly gained 95 yards. As the rounds continued, however, the price to play increased, until after nine rounds they were each paying $4 a round.

Why continue playing? "Do you want to throw away $20 when you have only a few yards to go?" Ducoff asked. "The guy kept saying 'The only way you lose is if you quit.'"

"I got what I deserved, I was tempted to get the balls and throw them in all directions," Ducoff said. "What's a couple of dollars, we thought we'd get the large animal."

Police seek Simon's aid in discrimination charge

By Pete Retzbach
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

White SIU Security officers, stalled in their efforts to file a reverse discrimination complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) against the EEOC and the University, have sought the help of U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, Officer Mike Thomas said Tuesday.

On July 12, Thomas wrote a letter to EEOC to protest a pre-determination settlement between the black Security officers and the University and to seek an injunction against it. The letter was never answered, said Officer Mike Norrington, one of the complainants.

On Aug. 13, Norrington contacted Ralph Allen of the EEOC requesting that the forms necessary to lodge a complaint of discrimination against the University be sent. No forms have ever arrived, Norrington said.

The EEOC mediated a pre-determination settlement in April after the black officers filed a complaint with the EEOC charging the Security Police with racial discrimination in hiring, promotions, reassignments, discipline, wages, job evaluations and selection of officers for police training schools.

The pre-determination settlement is an EEOC procedure which provides for settlement without a formal investigation into the matter.

White Security officers allege that as a result of that settlement, they are now being discriminated against.

A letter signed by 36 white security officers published in the Daily Egyptian Aug. 23 said that the pre-determination settlement between the black officers and the University discriminates against the white officers.

Thomas and Officer Nelson Ferry met with Simon Saturday to discuss the problems the white officers are having with the EEOC.

Thomas said that while he was there, Simon dictated a letter to be sent to the EEOC requesting information as to why the EEOC has not responded to the white officers' complaint. He requested the EEOC act on the complaint.

From left, William Warfield, a bass-baritone singer, Natalie Hinderas, a concert pianist and Clark Terry, trumpet player and leader of the Clark Terry's Big Band will be some of the featured performers at the Festival of Black American Music, to be held at Shryock Auditorium, Sept. 8-11. The concerts will present music ranging from work songs and spirituals through jazz, blues, ragtime and "classical" compositions.

Black American composers featured

By Michael P. Mullen
Entertainment Editor

A free concert Wednesday, featuring works by noted black American musicians, will open a four-day SIU Bicentennial Festival of Black American Music.

The School of Music's Symphony Orchestra, the Concert Wind Ensemble and Chorale, and special guest soloists will perform at the 8 p.m. concert in Shryock Auditorium.

Among the pieces to be performed are: Joseph Boulogne Chevalier de Saint George's "Concerto No. 1 in G Major," featuring violinist Darwin Apple of the St. Louis Symphony as guest soloist; Howard Swanson's "Short Symphony;" Ulysses Kay's "Forever Free;" and John W. Work's "The Singers." Other works by Hale Smith and Julian Work will also be presented.

Other artists to be featured in the festival are bass-baritone William Warfield, the Morgan State University Choir, Clark Terry's Big Band, concert pianist Natalie Hinderas and ragtime pianist J. Hamilton Douglas.

The festival is an outgrowth of the Great Lakes Musicians Reunion and is being held in conjunction with the reunion.

The Great Lakes Reunion Band grew out of a Second World War Navy program which saw over 5,000 black musicians trained as bandmen during the war.

The festival and reunions have been organized by Samuel Floyd, associate professor in the School of Music, who wrote also a monograph history of the Great Lakes Musicians.

"The festival is a unique event in the history of the performance of black American music," said Robert Floersch, a research assistant to Floyd.

"We are interested in quality and these people are among the best. Dr. Floyd has worked feverishly to bring these famous artists here to perform," Floersch said.

Clark Terry and several members of his band are Great Lakes Musicians.

"The festival of black American music started with the reunion we've had with the Great Lakes Musicians and it simply grew and grew from there until we have what we have now," Floyd said.

The schedule for other events in this series is as follows:

Thursday, Sept. 9: 1 p.m., lecture and recital by William Warfield, Student Center Auditorium; 4 p.m., lecture and recital by J. Hamilton Douglas, Home Economics Auditorium; 8 p.m., recital by Natalie Hinderas, Shryock Auditorium;

Friday, Sept. 10: 1 p.m., concert by the Morgan State University Choir, Shryock Auditorium; 4 p.m., lecture and recital by Natalie Hinderas, Student Center Ballroom A; 8 p.m., recital by William Warfield, Shryock Auditorium.

Saturday, Sept. 11: 1 p.m., clinic for Illinois high school students and band directors featuring Clark Terry and his Big Bad Band, Altgeld Hall, room 114; 3 p.m. Concert by the Morgan State University Choir, Eurma Hayes Center, 441 E. Willow St.; 5:30 p.m., festival banquet in the Student Center Ballrooms; 8 p.m., concert by Clark Terry's Big Bad Band featuring an appearance by the Great Lakes Reunion Band, Shryock Auditorium.

The program is sponsored and partially funded by SIU, Black Affairs Council, Graduate Student Council, Student Government Activities Council, Black American Studies Program, Bicentennial Committee, School of Music, the National Endowment for the Arts, Illinois Arts Council and the Carbondale Bicentennial Committee.

All events in the program are free except the festival banquet and the Clark Terry concert.

Residency rule to put senator out

By Bonnie Gamble
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student senator Bret Pritchett said Tuesday he plans to announce his resignation at next Wednesday's Student Senate meeting.

Pritchett was elected in fall, 1975 to represent University Park. His term would have expired at the end of this semester, but because Pritchett no longer lives in University Park, he faces the possibility of impeachment.

Although Pritchett admits he now lives on the west side, he said he is not worried about being impeached.

"I thought I'd stay in for a few weeks and help them get things going," Pritchett said.

A provision of the Student Government Constitution states, "A senatorial candidate at the time of the election need not live in the district from which he is running. However, a senate electee must have taken up residence in the senate district for which he ran by the first senate meeting of the term in which he is to be officially seated and remain in his district until the end of his or her term as senator. If this requirement is not fulfilled, the candidate will not be seated or will immediately lose his or her seat if he or she has been seated." Joe Gasser, housing services administrator, confirmed that Pritchett does not have a University Park housing contract for this semester.

Pritchett's resignation has no effect on the disputed East Side senate seats. Another provision of the senate constitution reads, "In the case of an open seat, the seat will be filled by another student who ran for the election from that district, and is still qualified to hold the seat, and had the next highest amount of votes in his favor, and provided that student indicates acceptance of the position."

More education for circuit judges

By H. B. Koplowitz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Circuit courts throughout Illinois will be left in the hands of associate judges this week as Circuit Court judges head to Chicago for the Judges Conference to be held Wednesday through Friday.

Judge Richard Richman of the Jackson County Circuit Court in Murphysboro said the conference is the result of an Illinois Supreme Court ruling which interprets the 1970 Illinois Constitution to mean that once a year all the circuit judges in Illinois must meet at the same place at the same time.

The conference, a series of seminars conducted by Chicago law school teachers, is "a kind of continuing education for judges," Richman said.

But Richman believes the three-day conference, held at the taxpayers expense, "as presently formulated does not fulfill the mandate of the constitution because it does not get into the more important aspects of the administration of justice."

Instead, Richman said, the seminars "deals with current cases which working judges who are doing their homework are already familiar with."

Richman made several suggestions toward improving the conference:

—The conference should be split up into smaller conferences conducted on a regional basis;

—The conference should be held some other time than the week after Labor Day, which Richman said is the busiest week of the year;

—It should be held on a weekend instead of during the week;

—Alternate locations for the conference should be considered.

Associate Judge Robert Schwartz will conduct Jackson County Circuit Court business this week, most of which will be pre-trial motions for jury trials to begin next week.

New usefulness for Dole shuffle

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features Syndicate

Senator Robert Dole will make a wonderful Vice President if he can just curb his compulsion to be candid.

Down in Spartanburg, S.C., last week, for example, a local reporter asked him if he favored black majority rule in South Africa.

"Glad you dropped in," replied Mr. Dole. Now, there's a perfect Vice Presidential response to a question. It's warm. It's friendly. It makes the press feel welcome. That's good public relations.

But Mr. Dole simply couldn't leave it alone. After a pause, he said, "I think it's going to come one of these days." Then he said, "I think so, under certain limitations." Then he said, "I favor it with limitations." Then he said, "But I want to check it first." Then he said, "I don't want to get hit with a bomb."

From this, people might think Mr. Dole doesn't know what he thinks until he calls up Mr. Ford's staff in Washington and they tell him what he thinks. That's what happens when you start explaining perfectly reasonable answers. Any husband knows that.

Take a husband who's late to breakfast and is in trouble, merely because he arrived through the front door.

"Where have you been all night?" his wife may ask, that being a perfectly reasonable question.

"Glad you dropped in," he should say, tossing in a firm handshake, for this shows he's in favor of togetherness.

"What happened to that tacky blonde trollop you were doing the Bump with?" she might well inquire.

"How are the aphids in your mother's coreopsis?" he should respond, as this demonstrates his devotion to the familial ties that bind and his humanitarian hopes of good health for all.

"Did I see you drive off with her after the party?" This is a difficult question. Perhaps the best answer is:

"I think we can safely look forward to a steadily-improving economy with lower unemployment and diminishing inflation as long as stability can be maintained in the Middle East." This indicates he is no fly-by-night husband but a solid, dependable provider with an eye to the future.

Woe betide him should he dissolve into babbling explanations about dead batteries or empty gas tanks. But if he can continue his dignified responses through two cups of coffee, a shave and a shirt change, he can go off to work leaving behind a wife who can't help adoring such a provenly loving, compassionate, reliable husband.

But Mr. Dole blew it. Now people will ask him how, if he becomes President, he will know what he thinks? Let's hope this bitter experience has taught him the answer.

Glad you dropped in.

Short shots

While some people have referred to Sen. Robert Dole as the pineapple, others think of him as just another lemon.

Karl Grubb

During this year's elections, it appears Ford will stay in the White House and look presidential while sending his vice-presidential candidate out to engage in political hyper-Dole.

H. B. Koplowitz

Maybe the reason Ford wants to increase the number of national parks is in hopes Jack will get lost during the campaign.

SIU over-administered?

Leading members of the SIU administration recently took a two-day retreat at John A. Logan College near Carterville.

In order to figure out what the administration was up to, it seemed appropriate to look at the administrative structure.

The undergraduate catalog devoted 23 pages to administrative organization, and the structure looks roughly like this:

Office of the President-Warren Brandt, Hollis Merritt, Assistant to the President;

Vice president for Academic Affairs-Frank Horton, and under this office are listed the following: six colleges; five schools; University Programs and Academic Support Units; heading these are: 13 deans; five directors; one adjunct professor and one manager;

Vice president for Fiscal Affairs-Robert Gentry, and under his office are: assistant treasurer; controller; bursar; one manager and eight directors;

Vice President for Student Affairs- Bruce Swinburne, and under this office are listed the following: five directors; two deans and one Ombudsperson;

Vice president for University Relations-George Mace, and under this office: 11 directors;

Director of Campus Services-Clarence Dougherty, and under his office: five directors and two managers;

That is, in very brief form, SIU's administrative structure. It does not include departments and their heads, countless assistants and less important administrative posts. Publishing the whole list of administrative personnel would fill several pages of this newspaper.

In other words, what you're looking at is the tip of the iceberg. This University's administration is so huge and seemingly cumbersome that it's a wonder they don't take a more lengthy period of time to figure themselves out.

Surely, this abundance of organization is for a useful purpose. An institution with over 20,000 students certainly needs to be organized, and hopefully, the two-day retreat dealt with how the University could be better organized.

For instance, the Arena manager position is still vacant in the wake of Dean Justice's resignation, and the retirement of R. P. Hibbs has left the Celebrity Series to be tossed about from director to director like a hot potato. Surely, these items were on the retreat agenda.

But, judging from past experience, the only statement the administration is likely to make will read something like this: "We've taken these matters into consideration. Feasibility studies to cover such contingencies in the future have been undertaken. Search committees have been formed to provide leadership in the selection of qualified personnel."

The administration can afford itself the luxury of a two-day "retreat" to enable its left hand to find out what its right hand is doing. It's little wonder that the smaller and less significant affairs, such as Arena management and Celebrity Series administration, get lost in the shuffle. That's some administration.

Apartheid wearing out in Africa

To the Daily Egyptian:

For well over a decade, the United Nations had consistently censured South African government for her apartheid policy and position on Namibia (South-west Africa). It was believed that South Africa would "harken to the voice of wisdom and reasoning," and change her policies. But as always she remained adamant to her old ways, refusing to read the handwriting on the wall. Instead she decided to face world opinion by creating an independent Black African state outside the diamond and gold-rich South Africa.

Today the selfish and exploitative attitude of the South African government remains one of the major causes of the bone of contention between blacks and whites, and in fact the death of many blacks in recent weeks.

The day of reckoning is fast approaching. The political magnetism of apartheid is fast wearing away, even among members of the South African parliament as they come to grips with reality.

With the United States now solidly in support of the UN position on apartheid and Namibia, it is hoped that those nations not already implementing the UN resolutions would give their support so that equality of opportunities could be established. After all it makes sense, doesn't it?

Carter's position on abortion reasonable

By Robert Wren
Assistant Editorial Page Editor

Jimmy Carter was in Washington last week to meet with the nation's Roman Catholic hierarchy concerning his stand on abortion, which is purportedly giving him problems with Catholic voters.

Carter's stand on abortion is quite simple: he opposes it. But he also opposes a constitutional ban on abortions.

For that, Catholic clerics, supposedly speaking for all the nation's Catholics, are up in arms over what they believe to be "an inconsistency that is deeply disturbing to those who hold the right to life to be sacred and inalienable."

As usual, the Church is being unrealistic. They claim to speak for all members of their religion, yet recent surveys indicate that as much as 80 per cent of young married Catholics practice some form of birth control, other than the rhythm method practice sanctioned by the Church. And if that many are violating that particular Church law, how many Catholics are really opposed to abortion to the extent of wanting to amend the Constitution? And as far as speaking for the nation's Catholics, I happen to be of that religious persuasion, and I can't recall these leaders ever asking me for the time of day, let alone my opinion of abortion.

Carter asked for the meeting between him and leading Catholic clerics. Rather than let his straightforward position on a controversial issue stand as is, he feels obliged to explain it to a rather select interest group. The more intelligent, and perhaps courageous, thing he could have done is what John Kennedy did in 1960: that is, refuse to make religion an issue. (That Carter wears his religion on his sleeve is another matter.)

Editorial

Which is what abortion is, a religious and moral issue. Opposition to abortion isn't the exclusive province of Catholics, contrary to what you might read in the nation's press. Millions of people oppose it. On the other hand, millions support the right of a woman to have one. No one really likes abortion, but it has become a fact of life.

Abortion should be a personal decision, and it's never been known to be an easy one. To those who oppose it, I can merely say don't participate in it. And you certainly have a right to try and change the law. But a constitutional amendment is not the way. The Supreme Court, interpreting the Constitution, struck down anti-abortion laws as being unconstitutional. The Supreme Court has been known to reverse itself; the only permanent thing about the law is that it changes. So someday a state may pass an anti-abortion law and it will be upheld.

Let Carter hold to one of the few solid stands he's taken in this campaign; it's certainly reasonable.

Those who oppose abortion would have the rest of us focus attention on the rights of the unborn, while we have yet to pay enough attention to the rights of the born.

Profit vs. real news?

Television journalism strictly show business

By Edward P. Morgan
In The Public Interest

Broadcast journalists owe Barbara Walters a vote of thanks. Not that her million-dollar-a-year contract with ABC to become an anchor-person on the evening news will raise other fees. Some of the established stars may get their paltry $400,000 per annum upped. After all, as Harry Reasoner might say, this is an era of equal opportunity.

What Barbara has done to earn a salute is to concede in public, along with her reported fringe benefits for a hair dresser, what we in the media have known all along, television journalism is strictly show biz.

TV contracts, incidentally, don't call them journalists. The category is "performer." Even the most conscientious journalist can be seduced by the "celebrity" status the tube bestows. Yet for all the ego-stroking, genuine journalists have not made broadcast news the spectacle it has become. It is my 40-odd year experience that news on the American air is better, fairer and more interesting than anywhere else in the world.

Yet it could be so much better still but for the constant, mounting pressure from the front office to make it more exciting, to make it more of a spectacle, to bring people into the anchor spots that will galvanize and magnetize if not mesmerize and seduce the viewers so they will multiply and thereby cause profits to do the same.

Today the press, especially its electronic facets, is under searching scrutiny by a skeptical, even cynical public.

A million-dollar baby in a five-and-ten-cents store merchandising the news between commercials may sell goods but it will never sell sufficient enlightenment and understanding to entitle us to protection under the First Amendment to which we are also supposed to be responsible.

Good night Barbara and, I guess, good luck.

Commentary

The news shows have long been packaged to please you, to hold you as an audience. Which brings up a requirement unknown to the public: the recognition factor. Regardless of the richness of your journalistic experience, unless people identify with you on the tube, you've lost. But if you attract more viewers than you scare away, then you've got a positive recognition factor and you're in like Flynn, or rather like Barbara. Controversial though she is, her recognition factor is so positive it rings bells.

Sadly, the very nature of broadcasting made the show business treatment of news inevitable. First radio added the pear-shaped voice. Then television added the face, the carnation boutonniere, the dimple and the décolletage so presto we have that odious term "personalized" news.

Local tv stations in huge markets like New York, in fierce competition for the mass audience, have tried to jolly up the news as if it were a cocktail bar happy hour. The anchor person jokes with the weatherman and a comely reporter humorously describes her entrapment in traffic. Was there banter at Waterloo? Don't get the idea that Barbara started this anchor spot inflation. One anchor slot on a local New York news show went for $225,000.

Boycott yellow fin tuna, end slaughter of dolphins

By Becky Barron
Daily Egyptian News Editor

The tuna and the dolphin are battling it out, fin to fin.

American yellow fin tuna fishermen slaughtered 134,000 dolphins last year in their quest for tuna.

It's been known for centuries that a relationship exists between the dolphin and the yellow fin tuna. Wherever the dolphin leads, the tuna follows. Or is it vice versa? No one knows. What is important to fishermen is that they catch tons more tuna with less manpower by following their inadvertent ally, the dolphin.

Before 1950, tuna was caught by the hook-and-line method. Then a clever fisherman put two and two together (namely tuna and dolphins) and discovered an easy way to trap tuna: by following the friendly dolphins.

The fishermen attract the attention of a school of dolphins knowing that tuna will be swimming beneath. Then they throw a large nylon net over an area three quarters of a mile long by 400 feet deep around the school. This method catches plenty of tuna. But it also traps and drowns thousands of helpless dolphins tangled in the net, unable to escape. This is a sure-fire way to guarantee plenty of tuna for casseroles and sandwiches; to hell with thousands of suffocating dolphins.

The Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 demands that the tuna industry reduce the killing of dolphins to "insignificant levels approaching a zero mortality." But in 1975 the number of dolphins slaughtered at the mercy of American tuna fishermen increased to 36,000. American fishermen are responsible for 85 per cent of dolphin deaths.

Conservationists have found a solution to these needless slayings. They suggest using smaller webbed nets making it less likely for a dolphin to find its fins entangled. Therefore, more dolphins would have the opportunity to escape from the net.

However, a catch-22 is involved with any clamp-down the government attempts to enforce. American tuna fishermen have threatened to fish under foreign flags, making them immune to any American regulations. At least 22 former American tuna seiners are operating under foreign flags already.

But dolphins aren't nationalists. They can't distinguish between an American ship and a foreign ship. They just like us humans for our own sake. It's not uncommon along the coastal states to hear of one of these sleek, beautiful and graceful mammals rescuing a stranded sailor.

Dolphins are intelligent, maybe even more than humans. They are indeed more humane than humans. It's been four years since the Marine Mammal Protection Act was passed. Still, tons of dolphins are lured, trapped and drowned each year by greedy fishermen.

One possible response consumers have concerning the plight of dolphins is a boycott of all canned tuna using the yellow fin variety. White meat tuna is slightly higher in price. But the extra pennies paid would be well worth it if yellow fin tuna fishermen got hurt in the wallet a bit and were forced to find a way to spare dolphins.

Female guard gets nothing but respect

DANBURY, Conn. (AP)—A female correctional officer, trained to handle a pistol and a carbine at a men's federal prison here, has had "a mellowing effect on the whole institution," a prison psychologist says.

"The guys respond to her sensitivity and concern for their welfare," said Dr. George Steinfield, a psychologist at the medium security Federal Correctional Institution (FCI).

One inmate says that Gloria Pappajohn of Danbury is "the greatest thing that ever happened to us."

"No one says anything derogatory to her, everyone respects her. When you see a 'hack' in uniform, you think of the cop on the street who suppressed you, searched and seized you—there's hostility. But no man's gonna let anything happen to her in this place."

Mrs. Pappajohn worked in the FCI's mental health department for 2½ years before switching to the correctional officer job. When the federal government said women were eligible for correctional officer jobs except in maximum security prisons, she traded in her typewriter for a ring of keys and rotating shifts patrolling prison grounds.

She learned to use a carbine and .38-caliber pistol for duty in the prison's tower where she stood watch for fires, unusual movements in the nearby woods and escape attempts.

She's also worked the yard, unarmed at the time, overseeing cleanup details and following the garbage truck on its rounds to make sure inmates don't stow away in the trash and escape. At night she patrolled the yard with her flashlight, checking doors and probing corners looking for the unexpected.

Mrs. Pappajohn says the hardest thing for her to get used to is the five bed counts for prisoners she must be on hand for.

"I'm not frightened but I feel as if I'm intruding on what little privacy they've got left," said Mrs. Pappajohn, whose husband and two sons have had to get used to her overnight hours.

She says she is not terribly anxious to work in "receiving and stripping" but thinks "they're going to skirt around that."

"But I took the job as a firm believer in equal opportunity and I'm not going to be treated any differently than the men," she said.

"I don't know if it's to prove to them a female is able to do it or what."

Mrs. Pappajohn says her fellow guards have been very helpful.

"They did kid me a little bit but they really have helped me, steered me right."

Recycling group says public should watch recyclable ads

NEW YORK (AP)—Is "recyclable" a synonym for "recycled"? No, says the National Association of Recycling Industries (NARI), warning the public to beware of being misled by shopping bags, containers, packaging and other paper materials that bear logos and slogans implying that they have been made from recycled fibers when they actually have not.

M.J. Mighdoli, NARI's executive vice president, says there has been an increase in recent years in the misuse and misdirection of symbols connoting recycling and such messages as "This is Recyclable."

Another way some firms confuse the recycling issue, the association claims, is to use such slogans as "Recycle This Paper" or similar scheduled for Wednesday on WSIU-FM, stereo 92: 6 a.m.—"Today's the Day"; 9 a.m.—Take a Music Break; 11 a.m.—Opus Eleven; 12:30 p.m.—WSIU-FM Afternoon News; 1 p.m.—Afternoon Concert; 4 p.m.—All Things Considered; 5:30 p.m.—Music In The Air; 6:30 p.m.—WSIU-FM Evening News; 7 p.m.—Options; 8 p.m.—International Concert Hall; 10 p.m.—Musica Helvetica; 10:30 p.m.—WSIU-FM Late Night News; 11 p.m.—Night Song 2 a.m.—Nightwatch.

phrases. Others, NARI says, actually misrepresent the recyclability of a product, implying that it can be recycled when it cannot.

"An item may be recyclable, but that does not mean it has been made from recycled materials," says Mighdoli. To genuinely serve the public interest in conserving natural resources and improving environmental management, NARI believes manufacturers should use maximum amounts of recycled materials in their products, he adds.

Many companies are striving to maximize recycled fiber content in their products and they legitimately use the recycling identification, Mighdoli says.

Sexual awareness: subject of weekend

A "Sexual Awareness Weekend" will be held Sept. 17, 18 and 19 in the lounge of the Home Economics Building, Sandy Lands, coordinator of Human Sexuality Services, said.

"The purpose of the weekend is designed to deal with human sexuality as a dynamic part of the whole life process," Lands said.

Registration ends Sept. 15. Forms can be picked up at the Division of Continuing Education, Washington Square Building C, the SIU Counseling Center in Woody Hall, or the Human Sexuality Service, 112 Small Group Housing.

"Quarter Night" tryouts to be held

Auditions for the Southern Players "Quarter Night" production will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in room 1017 of the Communications Building.

"Quarter Night" is a program of three original one-act plays written and directed by students of the Theater Department and performed in the Laboratory Theater. The name of the program is derived from the price of admission.

The fall semester presentation of the program are: "Food and Entertaining," written by Ron DeFord and directed by Eric Fourchot; "Lunch with Jean Paul Sartre," a comedy by King Lambird, directed by Jim Zimmerman; and "Poor Rose," written by Terry Allen, directed by David Bachan.

"Food and Entertaining" has two characters, one of which can be played by a man or a woman with ability in mime. "Lunch with Jean Paul Sartre" calls for two women and one man. "Poor Rose" has one major role for a woman and three minor roles for women and men.

"Quarter Nights" auditions are open to anyone in the Carbondale community.

returned to the Division of Continuing Education with a $10 registration fee.

"The workshop should help someone increase their comfort level with their own sexuality, become aware of sexual alternative lifestyles, the range of people's sexual behavior, identify sexual myths and fallacies, and deal with their sexuality in a rational, responsible and accepting context," Lands said.

Limited to 24 participants, the areas of focus will be sex education, masturbation, sex in relationships, (including both heterosexual and homosexual) and the place of sensuality in participant's lives.

"Participants are invited to openly discuss with others their feelings toward their sexuality," Lands said, "and the weekend is designed as an educational and personal growth experience, not as therapy for personal or sexual problems."

The format has already been decided but will be varied to include large and small group discussions, extensive use of sexually explicit films and film strips.

Two leaders and four facilitators will conduct the workshop and function to keep the weekend going as scheduled, Lands added.

The workshop begins Friday, Sept. 17, at 5:30 p.m. and continues until 10:30 p.m. Saturday activities resume at 9 a.m. and conclude at 11 p.m. The workshop begins Sunday at 9 a.m. and ends at noon. Participants are responsible for their own meals in the allotted times and dress will be casual.

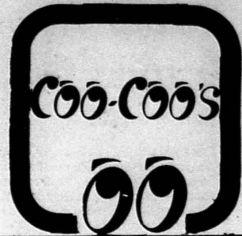

Other upcoming workshop weekends include "The Introduction to Sexuality for Men" and "The Introduction to Sexuality for Women."

Those will be held separately on Oct. 22 and 23. Registration is limited to 20 participants.

A "Sensual and Sexual Enrichment Workshop for Couples" will be held Nov. 12, 13 and 14. The registration is limited to 12 couples at $15 per couple.

All the workshops are sponsored by Human Sexuality Services, and the SIU Counseling Center in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education.

Writer retreats to world of his own, is light years away from neighbors

By William Prater
Associated Press Writer

PEORIA, (AP)—Thousands of miles from the aerospace industries of Southern California where he used to work a light year distant from Peoria neighbors, science fiction writer Philip Jose Farmer wanders in and out of the distant future and vanished past.

Farmer says he moved back to Peoria six years ago because Los Angeles was too polluted and overcrowded. He says his new neighbors "know what I do for a living, but they don't read science fiction."

So Farmer, considered one of the most innovative writers in his field, retreats into worlds of his own making.

Riverworld, for example, is a sort of purgatory where all mankind since the missing link are dumped to act out roles in Farmer novels on religion and man in society.

The first in the Riverworld series, "To Your Scattered Bodies Go," earned Farmer the Hugo award for best science fiction novel of 1971. He also has Hugos for best novella of 1969, "Riders of the Purple Wage," and for being most promising author with his 1952 novel, "The Lovers," which ignored all of science fiction's traditional tabus against sex.

Farmer's books reveal man as exploiter. "When I was a young writer, I believed in rationality," he said in an interview. "Not any more. Man is basically irrational. He just justifies his actions with logic."

But I try to show that no matter how bad you are, you're capable of being better—of doing good."

Many of Farmer's stories involve the "middle-size mid-Illinois city of Busiris," a thinly-disguised Peoria. In "Stations of the Nightmare," Paul Eyre of Busiris asks Leo Tincrowder, a neighbor who writes science fiction, "Why don't you ever write anything good about anybody?"

Tincrowder replies: "The people get the kind of science fiction writer they deserve."

Peoria is Farmer's old home town, but he says he has few friends and lives a quiet life.

"My old friends moved away, we've got our daughter and grandchildren here, and my writing keeps me too busy to really socialize," he said.

The author is working on three novels simultaneously. "You just have to wall yourself off from one world and step into another," he said.

One of the books Farmer is working on is the long-awaited conclusion to the Riverworld series, which takes place on an alien world of the future. Another, in the Hadon of Opar series, is based on the civilizations of ancient Crete and Babylon.

To many people, Farmer is most famous as the Tarzan Hunter. He has created a meticulous genealogy of the jungle warrior and conducted an alleged interview with the aging 8th Duke of Greystoke. Farmer said he has received more than 50 letters, some for forwarding to Tarzan and others wondering if Farmer had indeed seen the Ape Man in a Chicago motel.

Unfortunately, Farmer has more ideas than writing time, and unfinished stories flow from his nimble mind in free verse.

Farmer has plans to write a novel in the name of Jonathan Swift Sommers III of Petersburg, Ill., fictional favorite author of The Space Wanderer. The Wanderer in turn is the hero of "Venus on the Half Shell," a comic space fantasy written by Farmer as the fictional writer Kilgore Trout, in turn dreamed up by author Kurt Vonnegut.

Sommers' bizarre science fiction mysteries about the genius German Shepherd Ralph Von Bow Wow may include Von Bow Wow composing a novel, "Some Humans Don't Stink." The result would be Philip Farmer at his most complex: fiction within fiction within fiction within fiction.

Farmer was a technical writer for an aerospace firm in California until 1969, when he lost his job in a massive industry layoff. He said he believes the world is headed for a tragic end and that Peoria is as good a place as any to watch it from.

Unless something drastic is done about pollution of the oceans and the energy crisis, "civilization is going to crumble," Farmer predicted. "Man will revert to savagery . . . And that may be to the good. It will stop the source of pollution and give our resources time to build up before the cycle starts over again."

Science is not bad, just misused, Farmer contends. "We have the scientific and technical knowledge that could make this a good world. But social and political factors prevent it."

Carter plans visit to Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Jimmy Carter will swing into Illinois Thursday for an early-bird version of Mayor Richard J. Daley's traditional torchlight parade for the Democratic nominee.

The torchlight parade, featuring thousands of patronage workers and their families tramping through the city, has been a feature of Democratic presidential campaigns for decades.

Usually it is held on the Saturday before the presidential election, but this year it has been moved up to a week after the start of the fall campaign.

Asked if the precinct troops would be mobilized as usual for this year's torchlight trudge, a committeeman replied: "We've been told to get them out."

Visitors to the torchlight march on behalf of Hubert H. Humphrey in 1968 expressed amazement at the spectacle of legions of sewer workers, garbage men, their wives and children, marching resolutely through Skid Row, oblivious to derelicts collapsed in doorways next to empty wine bottles.

Carter also is set to stop in at the Democratic State Convention.

"What To Look For Before You Buy An Advanced Calculator" helps you make a wise purchasing decision. Pick up your free copy at your campus bookstore. Or telephone 800-538-7922 (in Calif. 800-662-9862) toll-free for the name of your nearest dealer.

HP-21 Scientific.

New low price — $80.00*

The HP-21 makes short work of the technical calculations even so-called "non-technical" courses require.

If you need a calculator that does more than simple arithmetic — this is it — especially at its new low price.

- 32 built-in functions and operations.
- Performs all standard log and trig functions (in radians or degrees).
- Performs rectangular/polar conversion, register arithmetic and more.
- Addressable memory.
- Two display modes: Fixed point and scientific.

HP-22 Business Management. $165.00*

The HP-22 easily handles the kinds of calculations you face in business courses today, in management tomorrow. Breeze through business math calculations. Build existing statistical data into reliable forecasts. If you're going into business administration, this is the calculator for you.

- Keystroke programmability.
- Branching, conditional test and full editing capability.

Campus Briefs

Basil C. Hedrick, director of the University Museum and Art Galleries, has been re-elected as a member of the board of directors and as a member of the executive committee of the Afghanistan Studies Association, an international organization headquartered in United States. Hedrick has been named by the Asian Studies Association as a member of the South Asia Regional Council for Afghanistan. Hedrick, formerly dean of International Education at SIU-C, has edited books on Afghanistan and has visited the nation on various occasions.

Joseph Talarowski, chairman of the Theater Department, is on sick leave as of Sept. 1, 1976. C. B. Hunt, dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, has appointed Edward McGlone, chairman of the Speech Department, as acting chairman of the Theater Department for September and October.

The National Endowment for the Humanities has a program entitled, "Youthgrants in the Humanities," which offers support to individual and group projects that relate in a clear way to the humanities. Youthgrant awards for individual projects average under $2500 and grants for group projects range up to $10,000. The deadline for preliminary proposals for summer projects, 1977 is September 15.

The National Science Foundation operates a program of Student Originated Studies (SOS) which is designed to encourage students to express their concern for society and the environment. The program supports undergraduate and graduate students for a 12 week summer period. Participants are paid a stipend of $90 a week as well as for the expenses of the project. The application deadline for next summer (1977) is Dec. 1.

Prostitution ring broken up by IBI

CHICAGO (AP)—A $100-a-week call girl ring that included housewives, women college students and a crane operator in a South Side steel mill has been broken up. The Illinois Bureau of Investigation said.

An IBI spokesman said agents posing as patrons raided a phoney construction company office on the far South Side and arrested three women before the Labor Day weekend.

Charged with keeping a place of prostitution was Alice Rhaburn, 50. Dornice Jones, 28, and Cindy Reff, 21, were charged with soliciting.

The spokesman said Miss Jones was a regularly-employed crane operator at a steel mill and 16 women were on call, some of them housewives supplementing family incomes and college students earning money to return to school.

The names were found in a work book, but no further arrests were made, the spokesman said.

He said persons using a six-bedroom complex adjacent to the office paid $100 each for services.

"Customers were offered any kind of alcoholic drinks and as much as they wanted of it while they waited," he said. "Patrons also could watch pornographic movies or look at pornographic magazines while they were waiting."

Beg your pardon

Because of a typographical error; the phrase "home deliveries" was missing from a statement by Dr. Ronald A. Ferguson, director of the Family Practice Center, clarifying the center's policy on prenatal classes.

The statement, which appeared on Page 5 of Tuesday's issue, should have read: "We encourage people to go to Lamaze classes. However, for health reasons we do not suggest and advise home deliveries as an alternative to hospital delivery."

Professor Robert Jackson, national known lecturer on large animal sciences, and international convention swine judge from the University of Texas at Austin, will be on campus through Sunday. He will meet with instructional designers evaluating swine and animal industry processes.

The Southern Illinois Audubon Society will hold a pot-luck dinner, followed by a program presented by Ronald Brandon, SIU professor in the Zoology Department on Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the Carbondale Savings and Loan. For more information contact Judy Faulkner at 549-3497.

SIU head Football Coach Rey Dempsey will hold a "get-acquainted" meeting with SIU students on Wednesday, at p.m. in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

The one-hour session will feature comments by Dempsey on the upcoming season and a question and answer session will follow Dempsey's remarks.

Academic advisement appointments may be picked up Thursday for College of Science students in the President's Scholar Program, student workers, seniors graduating in May and students who qualify under the "fast track" program. Students registering under the "fast track" program must have a tentative schedule completed in advance of their advisement. "Fast-track" appointments will be held on Sept. 27 and 28.

The German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) has sent three german graduate students to SIU, upon the application of Hans H. Rudnick, Associate Professor of English.

The students are at SIU to improve their language skills, obtain a first-hand impression of the American life and take graduate courses in their different fields of interest.

Walker tightens disclosure bills with veto power

SPRINGFIELD. (AP)—Gov. Daniel Walker used his amendatory veto Tuesday to tighten up two bills designed to regulate disclosure of customer records by banks and savings and loan institutions.

Generally the legislation prohibits a bank from disclosing a customer's records unless the customer gives his consent.

But the governor said the working of the bills could have the effect of expanding the areas of permissible disclosure beyond those currently followed.

"I believe that the depositor's rights to privacy should be defined in law, and that there should be penalties for violations of those rights," Walker said in a statement.

The governor said he also amended the bill to clarify a provision dealing with the subpoena of bank records for investigations by law enforcement officials.

Beg your pardon

A story which appeared in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian was, in fact, incorrect in stating that code enforcement officer Sheryl Jones will ride on a garbage truck. Jones, a recent graduate of a special code enforcement program at the University of Illinois, will accompany the truck in her car.

The story also stated that she would be paid $11,000 a year as a code enforcement officer. $11,000 was budgeted for the position but Jones will be paid $9,800.

Rates keep rising, says utility report

WASHINGTON (AP)—No end is in sight to the soaring rates that consumers are paying for electricity and gas, congressional researchers say.

Electric and gas rates leaped $12.6 billion in 1975 after climbing $9.6 billion in 1974, according to the report compiled by the Congressional Research Service for the Senate Committee on Government Operations.

"We wanted to determine whether the massive $9.6 billion increase of 1974 had put ratepayers on a plateau or a foothill," the report said. "The results are in. They show that utility customers are being hoisted upward from the 1974 ledge toward an invisible peak.

The combined $22.2-billion hike for the two years more than doubled the total rate increases in the previous quarter century, according to the Research Service, a branch of the Library of Congress.

The bulk of the increases was passed on to consumers automatically through fuel adjustments clauses.

Electric and gas utilities raised their rates $3.1 billion in 1974 and $4.1 billion in 1975 through general increases. At the same time, they increased rates $6.5 billion in 1974 and $8.5 billion last year to compensate for rising fuel costs, the report said.

Electric utilities accounted for the bulk of the increases: $7.7 billion in 1974 and $9.2 billion in 1975. The natural gas industry raised its rates $3.4 billion in 1975, the report said.

Poor practice irks Dempsey and staff

By Rick Korch
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor
 The football Salukis ran into their old habits at practice Tuesday, and the best that can be said is that they got it over with before the season opener Saturday against McNeese State.

"It was hard to believe they were so lousy," Coach Rey Dempsey said. "They couldn't have beat a junior high team today."
 "It was one of the few days that we didn't go all out. I don't like days like that," he said. "If we play like that Saturday, we'll get the heck kicked out of us."

But Dempsey isn't worried very much, and said, "It was just one of those days. I expect them back to normal tomorrow (Wednesday)."

The team will hold its last two-hour practice Wednesday before cutting back 15 minutes on Thursday. Both practices will be held on the grass field east of the Arena so the team can get used to playing on real grass like the field at Lake Charles, La., home of McNeese State.

"We're working on team work more than individual work, and slowly, but surely, we're letting the team on their own," Dempsey said.

"Offensively, we're more selective on plays, and we're working on them," he said. "We've thrown a few out."

The Salukis are also working on their two-minute offense, and sending plays in from the sidelines with the guards.

"Defensively, we're working on McNeese's favorite plays," Dempsey said. "And we're working on the two-minute defense in case we're winning."

In Thursday's practice, the Salukis will work on putting "the finishing touches on everything," Dempsey said. "This one will be for review, special teams, and trick plays."

Friday, the team will leave at noon, and fly to Louisiana. At 8 p.m., they will conduct practice at Cowboy Stadium, home of the McNeese State Cowboys.

"We'll practice for an hour to loosen up and review again," he said. "We also want to get used to playing under their lights." Saturday's game will be played at 7:30 p.m.

Move to change Hambo

Du Quoin, Ill. (AP) — Several horsemen say the near death of Hambletonian winner Steve Lobell from exhaustion should cause changes in the traditional format of harness racing's premiere stakes.

Billy Haughton, who drove the 3-year-old trotter in four grueling heats Saturday, says he won't enter another horse in the Hambletonian unless the rules are changed.

"It's like conditioning a quarterback for one quarter of a game and then asking him to go four," Haughton said. "It cannot be done without possible harm. Maybe it is time the drivers had a voice, along with the Hambletonian Society."

"What are they trying to prove that standardbreds are stronger than thoroughbreds? We already know that," Haughton added.

Haughton said he and several other veteran trainer-drivers plan to have a meeting on the subject in either Delaware or Kentucky. He said they intend to petition the Hambletonian Society to change the rules of the Hambletonian and the other big stakes.

The Hambletonian field of 18 trotters had the horses starting in two tiers Saturday. There was a different winner in each of the first three heats and they returned for a fourth to determine the winner. The key rule is that a horse must win two heats to win the Hambletonian.

One possible alternative would be to allow the Hambletonian to be split into divisions if more than 16 horses are entered.

The Hambletonian Society, a group of 21 horsemen controlling the event, met Sunday and voted to increase the entry fee from $3,000 to $4,000 and to divide the field if more than 20 horses were entered.

About three hours after winning, the bay colt Steve Lobell, who had suffered a cut leg in the third heat, went into shock in his stall.

Billy Haughton, his son, Peter, their barn crew and veterinarians worked for 3½ hours to save Steve Lobell's life. They reduced his temperature from 106 degrees to 102 degrees by hosing with water, body rubs and breathing into his nostrils.

Haughton said the colt will be shipped back to New York and turned out a week before he resumes training for the Colonial Trot on Sept. 18 at Liberty Bell. Steve Lobell is owned by attorney Richard Murray and restaurant operator Herman Siegel, both of New York.

William R. Hayes, president of the Du Quoin State Fair and a director of the Hambletonian Society, said, "I can understand Billy Haughton being emotional after a tough day like we all had Saturday, but I think the whole thing is being blown out of proportion."

Logan College baseball team ready to start

The John A. Logan College baseball team will be defending their Southern Illinois College Conference fall season baseball crown when they open Sept. 7 at Vincennes University.

During the 1975 fall season, the Volunteers won the crown by running up a 15-5 mark.

The Volunteers face a tough schedule this year, and will be missing the services of three all-conference players from last season.

Only four players will return from last season's champs. Returnees include all-conference catcher Dennis Morgan of Marion, Jim Crouch, a pitcher and first baseman from Carbondale, infielder Mark Imhoff of Murphysboro and outfielder Dave Hayden of Carbondale.

The newcomers will have to adjust quickly, if the Volunteers are going to repeat this season.

The Loganites' first home game will be Sept. 9 against Paducah Community College.

Golf squad takes second place at UI

The women's golf team finished second in their first meet Saturday against Purdue and the University of Illinois at Champaign's par 73 blue course.

The triangular meet, which Purdue won with a score of 329, was not a total loss, according to Coach Sandy Blaha.

"I was very happy with the way we performed," she said. "We at least beat Illinois for the first time in four years."

Blaha is happy with the result because four freshmen turned in the top scores taken for the team total of 344. U of I came in third with a 349 score.

Sandy Lemon has the lowest mark for the Salukis with an 84. Becky Beach of Illinois had the best score of the meet with 79.

"Sandy (Lemon) could have done better," Blaha said. "She shot a 10 on the first hole (a par five), and had a little sand trap trouble later."

"This was her first competition, though, and she bounced back very well," she added.

The other freshmen and their scores were Judy Dohrman, 86, Lori Sackman, 86, and Jo Idoux, 88.

The Salukis' next tournament will be the Missouri Invitational Sept. 10-11 at Columbia, Mo.

Free Astro-turf runs out fast

Hundreds of people were disappointed Tuesday morning when they found they could not cart away as much of SIU's old Astro-turf as they could carry.

SIU's Athletic Department decided to give away the remnants of the old Astro-turf from McAndrew Stadium on a first-come, first-served basis. Appointments were to be made Tuesday for Friday's give away. Half-hour appointments were taken for the 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. time slots. When there was one person for each half-hour slot, no more appointments were taken, said Jim Hicks of the office of University Relations.

Several persons contacted the Daily Egyptian saying that when they called for an appointment early Tuesday, they were told that the Astro-turf was already given away.

But Jim Hicks said Tuesday afternoon that when all of the time slots had been filled he started a waiting list. He said there were 45 people on the list. Hicks said, "We've had hundreds of calls about it."

Tom Simons, sports information director, said Gale Sayers, athletic director, John Novotny, assistant athletic director and Bill Brown, former assistant athletic director, came up with the idea for the give away last week.

Mountaineers club to meet

Cross country team to host powerful Illini

By Doug Dorris
Assistant Sports Editor

Craig Virgin, last year's NCAA cross country champion, comes to Carbondale this Saturday with his University of Illinois teammates to open the cross country season. The dual meet is 10 a.m. at Midland Hills Golf Course.

Virgin also represented the United States in the 10,000 meters in the 1976 Summer Olympic Games.

"Virgin is the best in the nation," said Lew Hartzog, SIU head cross country coach. "Virgin is a friend and a fine kid. Under certain circumstances, he could have been the NCAA champion four times." Virgin is a senior from Lebanon.

Hartzog called the meet the toughest of the year. "Illinois could be a truly great team," said Hartzog. "They finished eighth in the NCAA finals last year, and they've got everyone back."

Not that Hartzog and the SIU team are going to the meet just to collect autographs from the Illinois runners. "I'm sure our people will run well with every ounce of their ability," said

Hartzog, who has been the SIU track and cross country coach since 1960. "We just don't run poorly against U of I."

Last year in Champaign Illinois beat SIU 18-41 (the low score wins in cross country).

"Our team is considerably stronger than last year, when we were 3-4," said Hartzog. "We could very easily have a much better team and still not win a meet."

The SIU schedule is loaded with some of the top college cross country teams in the nation, including Indiana, Western Kentucky and Kansas.

SIU will send eight runners against Illinois: Jerry George, Pat Cook, Mike Sawyer, Paul Craig, Ray Valek, Kevin Moore, Michael Bisase and Larry Haney.

"Right now," said Hartzog, "Sawyer and Craig are running extremely well, better than anyone else on the team. They've surprised me, in fact."

Craig is back in school after missing last year, having returned to his home in Northern Ireland. "When he first came to SIU he was only 17," said Hartzog. "He was just too young to adjust well. Now he's more mature and is an accomplished runner."

"Sawyer grew up in the last two races in track last year, when he finished second to Virgin in the 5,000 meters, in the Illinois Intercollegiate," said Hartzog.

Co-captains George and Cook, the only two seniors on the squad, are running "up to my expectations," said Hartzog.

Bisase, from Uganda, is running cross country for the first year, after being imported by Hartzog to run the quarter-mile and half-mile in track. "He'd never run more than a mile," said Hartzog, "but now he's very impressive in cross country. He has pride, and that's what makes an athlete."

Freshman Haney from Benton is "running in our top five right now," according to Hartzog. Haney entered college after spending four years in the Marines. "He's not a smooth runner. He's a laboring, strong runner," said Hartzog, an ex-Marine himself.

Following the Illinois meet will be a second meet at 11 a.m. in which SIU's B team, consisting of underclassmen, will go against Paducah Jr. College.

No admission will be charged for either meet, and Hartzog and Assistant Coach Don Merrick even jokingly offered to buy any SIU student who comes to the meet a coke.

Midland Hills Golf Course is five miles south of campus on Illinois 51. The four-mile cross country course covers notoriously hilly terrain.

Saluki opener more than just another game

On Saturday a new era of Southern Illinois University football will begin. The Salukis, under new Head Coach Rey Dempsey, will travel south to Lake Charles, La. for the first game of the 1976 season against McNeese State.

For McNeese State, the game will be just another season opener. For the Salukis, it will be much more.

It will be the first game for the revamped athletic department headed by athletic director Gale Sayers. The administration at this school is dedicated to improving the football program, and the McNeese State game will show how much they have done so far.

And it will be the first game for Dempsey, who was hired to turn around the perennial losing football program at SIU. A fast look at past SIU teams shows that he took over a tough job, and the McNeese State game will show just how much he has accomplished so far.

No Saluki team has finished above .500 since 1971. Since then, SIU has labored through four straight losing seasons, with a combined won-loss record of 7-33-3.

The Salukis weren't even competitive in most of those games. Of the 33 losses, 22—exactly two-thirds—were lost by more than a touchdown. Some were lost by many touchdowns, such as the 70-7 massacre by Oklahoma State in 1973, or the losses last year to Northern Illinois (52-12) and East Carolina (41-7).

Since things can't get much worse, the future can only look promising for the football Salukis—and indeed it does.

Dempsey has a reputation of turning around losers. He did it at two Ohio high schools, and again on the collegiate level at Youngstown State.

What Dempsey did at Youngstown is a prime example of what he is trying to do at SIU.

Youngstown suffered through eight straight losing seasons before he took the helm in 1973. His first year, he started out slow with a 1-6 record, but won

Korch on Sports

By Rick Korch
Sports Editor

the final three games of the year. In his second, and final, season he guided the team to an 8-1 mark.

Dempsey has said that he will turn around the football program here, but he always adds that he can't do it in one year—it takes time.

He will not make a prediction on the record of this year's team. The only goal he has set is that the team show improvement. How much, he didn't say, but he probably won't be satisfied unless there is a vast, noticeable improvement.

With only three days to go before the season starts, Dempsey has seen a lot of improvement so far, but also sees a lot of improvement needed.

Most of it is needed on the defense. Last year's squad let up 33 points per game.

The defensive line is small, and it accounted for many of last year's problems. But what they lack in size, Dempsey and his defensive coaches are hoping aggressiveness and technique will substitute. Whether it works remains to be seen.

The linebacking should be adequate. Carlton Spain, Dan Morgan and Joe Barwinski are small height-wise, but they have the weight for their positions.

The biggest defensive problem last year was in the secondary, where the Salukis were often burned on long passes.

But that figures to be improved this year. Three starters return, and they will be joined by Joe Hage and freshman Oyd Craddock.

Like the defensive line, the offensive linemen are small, except for the two tackles who are both 6-4. The two guards and center all lack experience, and may be a problem throughout the long season. Again, that remains to be seen—maybe they will come through.

Probably the strongest part of the team is the running game, led by Andre Herrera and Lawrence Boyd. Both players, (along with back-up Gary Linton) are good, strong ballcarriers, and if they stay healthy, they will present many problems for Saluki opponents.

Herrera could carry the ball 20-30 times per game, and if he does, he has a good chance to gain 1,000 yards during the season.

SIU has always had a quarterback problem, but they may have their man in transfer Jim Kelly. After dislocating his hip last May, Kelly took a long time to heal, but it now looks like he will start Saturday for the Salukis.

If he does, look for the Salukis to have a potent offense. Kelly has a very good arm, and should have no trouble throwing to receivers Lawrence Love, Greg Warren and Vic Major.

It should now be time to make my prediction on the Saluki record. However, it would be wiser to wait two weeks, until after the first two games, and before the home opener.

No matter how good or bad the Salukis are this year, they will show a vast improvement over past years. They might not be .500, but they should be competitive in every game—you can be sure they won't lose 70-7. And finally, there is no truth to the rumor that Gale Sayers is going to suit-up and be disguised as a freshman walk-on for the Salukis.
