By Ralph Becker

PUBLIC INTEREST: "Class of '53," a searching study of the minds, most and morals of our teen-age generation, told in their own unrehearsed and uninhibited words, and aimed at answering the question "Is this a lost generation?" will be narrated by U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas on CBS Radio tonight at 7 o'clock central standard time.

Under Irving Gitlin, who produced "Bomb Target . . . USA" and "Footloose," "Award-winning," "The Nation's Nightmare," and "The People Act" series, a team of six Feature Project reporters and representatives of a dozen CBS Radio affiliated stations recorded the voices, impressions and reactions of approximately 1,000 teen-agers for "Class of '53'."

Broadcast as part of CBS Radio's continuing service in the public interest, "Class of '53'" is the

SIU Will Offer Travel If You Have The Yen

By Dan Halloran

Southern's summer school program need not be one of tuxedos and regimenned hours. If you have the yen (desire) and the yen (money) you can spend a month or so in Canada, Alaska, and the North-western United States, on a geographically department field course and receive 12 hours credit while you are at it.

And for those more domestic souls with an archaeological bent there is Anthropology 341. Students will participate in actual archaeological research at a site that is yet unsettled but will probably be in the Cache river drainage area.

On Campus activities include an art education workshop which provides students with theoretical and practical experience in art as related to problems at all levels of art education. The student may be able to obtain a working knowledge of such art as weaving, pottery, metal, drawing, and painting.

Two education workshops in teaching elementary science and in high school curriculum will be offered by the department of education. These two courses may be completed in two to four weeks.

"Problems in Industrial Supervision" will be the theme of a conference offered by the psychology department during the summer term. Representatives of firms interested in employer-employee relationships are invited to attend the six day conference.

Better Methods of Supervision, "Reducing Absenteeism and Turnover," "Improving Morals and Attitudes," and "Increasing Production and Efficiency" will be additions to those activities already mentioned. Courses will be offered by 32 different departments during the term. Students taking on-campus courses during the spring term must register for summer term courses before May 23 or be subject to a late fee assessment.

Last year's traffic toll of deaths and injuries was the heaviest in history.

Speeding on U. S. Streets and highways last year killed 13,430 men, women and children.

A Critic At The Movies

Doesn't See Double, But Experiences Double Take

"Movies are better than ever," it says here. However, after the one I endured a few nights ago, I am inclined to disagree somewhat with this statement. The camera technique and color by Technicolor (complete with chrome plated rifles with gold receivers) were flawless, and the acting, while some what below par, was passable.

However, as I sat through the show, I was bothered with a growing conviction that I had seen the affair before about five years ago. The picture bore a striking resemblance to one which came out about that time, not with Indians and chrome plated Henry rifles, but with Germans and M-1's. This older movie, which we will call the original for sake of distinguishing between the two, was concerned with an Allied patrol in Africa which had been cut off from their lines by the Axis Korps.

They had a tank which carried them to an abandoned oasis where, by a rare stroke of good fortune, they found a small trickle of water in a well cut from their lines.

As the show wore on, they were beset and surrounded by the Germans, who, by the way, had no water. The hero sent two German scouts back to their outfit at the oasis. He created this illusion impression that water was plentiful by pouring some water on the ground. He furthered the thought by appearing to sob and chafe at various times before the thirsty Nazis.

He sent an ultimatum to the German commander, offering to trade guns for water, and at the same time he sent a messenger to the Allied lines via a half-track. Our first hero's speech to his little band regarding them to give their lives to the cause was very touching and effective; effective in fact that our second hero used it almost word for word in persuading his little band to stay on, despite the Indians.

Now, at someone once said, here's the rub. In the reprint of the original, we are fighting Indians and we have a stagecoach, fondly called "Buttercup," to convey us to our oasis instead of such an unromantic object as a tank. Our second hero incidentally looks much more at home behind a .38 Combat Special than he does wielding a single action Colt. Leads his party of cavalry men and associates to safety in an abandoned mission where they hope to find water. Of course they find water. By a rare stroke of good fortune, a small trickle in the form of a scum, side up and the feature lead captures them and sends them on

Alpha Eta To Sponsor Work Day Tomorrow

Alpha Eta society is sponsoring a work day tomorrow. They will clean yards, wash windows, and may other odd jobs around the household.

The proceeds of the day will be used to furnish the new sorority house at 701 S. University.

Anyone interested in taking advantage of the work day may call University Ext. 307 from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. tomorrow.

back to their chief with the impression that water is plentiful at the oasis. Do you follow me?

After the timely arrival and departure of the scouts, the fighting sergeant (a slight variation here; our first lead was an officer) delivers the now famous oration to his little company of wayfaring pilgrims. He then dispatches an Indian, saved by them from the clutches of the desert, to a distant fort for aid and assistance. Needless to say, the parties were rescued to the tune of blaring bugles and truck horns in each case.

It not generally my nature to complain over the loss of a half a rock. I usually spill more than that in one night. However, when I am forced to pay twice to see one show, without of course the stimulus of female accompaniment, I feel that I must give vent to my r

Now Your Blood Donation Also Helps Fight Crippling Polio!

NEW USE FOR GAMMA GLOBULIN HELPS PREVENT CRIPPLING EFFECTS OF POLIO

GIVE BLOOD NOW! GAMMA GLOBULIN TAKES 3 MONTHS TO MAKE! MUST BE READY IN TIME FOR PEAK POLIO SEASON!

Controlled medical tests show that Gamma Globulin has often helped prevent the crippling paralytic effects of Polio. (The major use of Gamma Globulin up to this time has been in the prevention and control of measles and infectious hepatitis.) By injecting children with Gamma Globulin the incidence of paralysis in Polio has been greatly reduced. Gamma Globulin is made from human blood. Blood that only you can give.

entire your body, certain cells produced "antibodies" which are still in your blood. These protective "antibodies" either destroyed the Polio virus . . . or helped your white blood cells destroy them.

GAMMA GLOBULIN NOT A "CURE-ALL"
It must be stressed that Gamma Globulin is not a "cure-all." However, recent field tests scientifically demonstrate that Gamma Globulin does give temporary protection against the paralytic effects of Polio.

STOCK PILE CRITICALLY LOW

There is now not nearly enough blood available for Polio use . . . especially if an epidemic should again strike this summer.

Because it takes one pint of blood to make one dose of Gamma Globulin for the average child . . . and because Gamma Globulin protection lasts only a short time . . . it is obvious that more and more blood is urgently needed.

"LATER" WILL BE TOO LATE!

Since Gamma Globulin must be processed or "fractionated" from pooled blood derivatives, it takes three long months before your blood can be made into Gamma Globulin. That's why it is important that you give blood now!

Yes, helping prevent Polio is one more reason—a powerful, compelling reason—why you should give blood NOW! If enough blood can be secured quickly, America's desperately small stock pile of Gamma Globulin may be built up in time for the peak Polio season ahead.

ARMED FORCES GET WHOLE BLOOD FIRST
It is a fact that our Armed Forces get first call on all blood donated. Because if a badly wounded American soldier doesn't have whole blood immediately, he dies.

Blood is needed at home, too—for the hospitalized "veteran"—for emergencies and disasters on the home front—and to help build up a reserve that is large enough and mobile enough to see us through possible enemy attack.

Yes, your blood donation not only helps fight Polio, but serves all America because . . . the blood you give is used wherever it is needed most—first!

The IRAN GOVERNMENT announced it is expelling Marc Purdue, Associated Press correspondent, for sending abroad what is labeled false and provocative news regarding the interests of Iran. "Honesty, fair, foreign interest, said Purdue has received notice to leave Iran within three days. He gave no details of the government's charge. Purdue is the least of number of foreign correspondents to be expelled from Iran since the government took over the holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He has been in the country since last December. His home is in Evansville, Ind.

"WILLIAM OATIS," back from two drab years in a Communist prison cell, turned to joyous laughter today. The AP correspondent, lately held with his wife and newborn at the New Weston Hotel before he set out to tour the city.

But first he expressed thanks to all who worked to set him free. He wanted to buy a new suit. He hasn't had a new one since the Czechs imprisoned him on espionage charges. And, until today, he hadn't had time to sleep since the same captors suddenly released him Saturday. Oatis made no further mention of his arrest and the charges against him. He said he did not know how long he would be staying in New York City. He was looking forward to a vacation, he said, and wants to see relatives in Indiana, St. Paul, Minnesota, and Arizona.

THE TERRIFIC ROAR of the cars that were running up to the 500-mile race May 30 at Indianapolis, Ind., died down for half an hour Tuesday. The track was closed during the funeral of Chevrolet driver, 50-year-old veteran, Fred Collins, who was killed on a practice run last Friday. George Connor of Los Angeles had a close call with death himself in the crack-up of a racing team special Monday. Connor's race car, which had spun one and a half times and the car crashed into the wall on the northwest turn. Wrecks and withdrawal of the Italian Ferrari car caused the race to be postponed to 8:30 down to 78, and only 74 of them are at the track.

THE LAST COMMUNIST invaders of Laos were reported on their way out of the little mountain Indochinese kingdom. French-Lao forces were said to be in pursuit, but apparently with no great prospects of catching them. French sources seeking reasons for the surprising withdrawal have speculated that the invasion may have been called off on orders from the Soviet Union and Red China.
