Official says Soviets 'pursuing propaganda'

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — One White House official accused the Soviet Union of "pursuing propaganda" to divide the Western alliance Monday, but another later declared a unilateral ceasefire in the war of words between the superpowers.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes refused to comment on fresh accusations from Moscow that the administration had been "irresponsible and dangerous" and had resorted to "stale arguments" and "a gross lie" in rejecting an arms control gesture by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Satisfied the United States had "made a definitive response" to Gorbachev, Speakes said he would not succumb to any "attempt to goad me into responding" to the new attack from Moscow.

"The escalation," he said, "stops here."

While describing Soviet rhetoric and attitudes at the arms talks in Geneva as important indicators of U.S.-Soviet relations, Speakes played down the latest exchange and said, "we would be hopeful that it would not change the prospects for a summit, nor the prospects for arms reductions, nor the prospects for improved U.S.-Soviet relations."

His comments came several hours after national security adviser Robert McFarlane, in a series of taped television interviews, toughened the skeptical response Speakes had delivered one day earlier to Gorbachev's announcement of a moratorium on Soviet missile deployments in Europe and called on the United States to do the same.

The White House dismissed the move as a revived attempt by Moscow to maintain a 10-to-1 advantage in medium-range nuclear missiles and said the placements of U.S. missiles in Western Europe would continue as scheduled.

Sailing Club faces second rejection

By Jeff Curl
Staff Writer

The government official who manages Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge said Monday that the Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club cannot relocate at Little Grassy Lake because it would be against U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service policy.

The club was forced to leave its old grounds at Crab Orchard Lake after the lake's sailboat basin was turned from a club managed facility to one managed by private concessioner. Ken and Susan Barnhart, the new managers, said keeping the club at the basin would take money from their rental sailboats.

Peter Hoffswell, the club's commodore, said that after it had to lift its boats from Crab Orchard Lake, the club became interested in the possibility of relocating at Little Grassy Lake.

There are many spots along Little Grassy's shore which could hold the club's 11 boats and which would be large enough to handle all 80 members, he said.

Other people liked the idea. Peter Carroll, assistant professor in physical education, has rented the club's sailboats at $20 per person for use in sailing classes. He said Little Grassy Lake's small size and low winds would be ideal for teaching sailboating.

Barnhart offered to rent boats to SIU-C at $50 per student, Carroll said. He added that he and the club have had good relations in the past and that he would like to keep renting from the club for his classes. Besides, Carroll said, the club's sailboats are bigger and more challenging to learn on than the Barnharts' current rental boats.

However, Wayne Adams, manager of the refuge that houses Crab Orchard, Little Grassy and Devil's Kitchen lakes, said there is "no opportunity" for the club to be at Little Grassy.

Letting the club have its own spot on the lake would go against refuge policy, Adams said. Current policy says one must go through a private concessioner when wanting to rent boat space.

"Putting everything under private concessioner has been government policy for a number of years," Adams said.

Legislators have mixed views on tax findings

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

Local state legislators have mixed reactions to a recent Chicago Sun-Times report which noted that three out of five Illinois corporations pay no state income taxes.

Some legislators say that the trend is to be expected in light of the state's present economic situation, while others feel that corporations might be taking advantage of too many "loopholes" in the tax system.

The Sun-Times story, published Sunday, cites Illinois Revenue Department records which indicate that the Illinois businesses which do pay their income taxes contributed less than 15 percent — or $553 million — of the total income tax revenues collected last year.

Individual taxpayers, on the other hand, paid about $3.2 billion or 85 percent of the total state income taxes collected last year, the article stated.

Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, called the figures "just one of the facts of life," and credited the ailing Illinois business climate for the trend.

Dunn was also mildly critical of the Sun-Times article.

"It makes it sound like corporations are the bad guys," Dunn said.

"I guess the supposition is that we ought to raise taxes on businesses," Dunn said, "but according to the Illinois Constitution we can't raise corporate taxes without tax raises to individuals."

Rep. Bruce Richmond said he was unaware of the extent of non-paying corporations prior to the publication of the Sun-Times article. He said that the numbers were to be expected, however, given the several pieces of legislation the General Assembly has passed in recent years that give tax breaks to businesses with the idea of attracting them to Illinois.

"I don't believe that businesses should be exempt from taxes," Richmond, D-Murphysboro said. He added, however, that the incentives the legislature has created are necessary to help "businesses that are struggling in the recession."

Rep. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, said he "can agree with some tax incentives to attract business," but that he was unaware of the magnitude of the breaks available to corporations.

"If it is this extensive we need to make some modifications," Rea said.

Sen. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, also said that something must be done to modify tax incentives.

Gus Bode

Gus says if the legislators hadn't made the loopholes so big, the corporations wouldn't have fallen in.

Engineers, SIU-C officials consult mediators

By Pete Rhodes
Student Writer

The Broadcast Engineers, represented by Local 702 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and officials from SIU-C met with a mediator Monday afternoon on the SIU-C campus in an effort to resolve a 9-month-old contract labor dispute.

The broadcast engineers, who work in the control rooms and monitor equipment in the SIU-C radio and television stations, have been working without a contract since last August and presented a five-day notice of an intent to strike after contract talks broke down during the last week of February.

Keith Sanders, dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, who represents SIU-C in the negotiations, has said the main issue in the labor dispute are the engineers' reluctance in helping with the training of students and the excessively high labor cost of running the radio and television operations at SIU-C.

Gary Roan, Local 702 business representative for the engineers, said the training of students is not an issue because the engineers are willing to aid in the training of the students if the training is part of a bona-fide program and not an effort by SIU-C to replace engineers.

Jack Dyer, director of university relations, said that as of late Monday afternoon the details and progress of the talks were still unknown, but SIU-C officials were cautiously optimistic; the talks would continue and the labor contract dispute could be resolved.

Sudan forces labor unions to abandon general strike

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — Sudan's new military government, threatening wholesale arrests for high treason, forced labor leaders Monday to abandon a general strike that led to the downfall of President Jaafar Numeiry. News of the end of the strike and an appeal by labor union leaders for all union members to return to work was broadcast by the state radio network following a series of meetings between the new government and the unions.

Iran accuses Iraq of using chemical weapons

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran accused Iraq of using deadly chemical weapons on their southern battlefield Monday, causing "a number" of injuries, while U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar held peace talks in Baghdad. In Baghdad, the official Iraqi News Agency said Iraqi President Saddam Hussein told Perez de Cuellar he is willing to negotiate an end to the war with Iran, but that Tehran does not want peace. In Washington, the State Department said previously it had evidence Iraq had used chemical weapons in its 4-and-one-half-year war with Iran.

Thatcher rejects Gorbachev's missile freeze

SINGAPORE (UPI) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher Monday joined President Reagan in rejecting Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's call for a freeze on medium-range nuclear missiles aimed at Europe, calling it "unacceptable." She said the freeze the Soviet Union has proposed shows the superiority of Soviet weapons in the intermediate nuclear range.

Thousands protest missiles in Great Britain

MOLESWORTH, England (UPI) — Thousands of anti-nuclear demonstrators today formed a human chain around a planned cruise missile base to protest the stationing of U.S. nuclear weapons in Britain. Military helicopters flew overhead as more than 12,000 demonstrators braved the rain outside the Royal Air Force base in Molesworth, 60 miles north of London. At least 19 people were arrested, police said, as protesters hung daffodils and peace symbols on the seven-and-one-half-mile fence surrounding the base.

Japan trade offer meets official scepticism

TOKYO (UPI) — A much-touted package of market-opening measures to be unveiled Tuesday is not likely to satisfy the United States or immediately reduce growing trade friction with Japan, according to Japanese and U.S. officials. Senior Japanese officials have been cautioning for several days that the measures represent no "quick-fix" for the immediate problem of reducing Japan's $37 billion trade surplus with the United States.

Poland erects monument for massacre victims

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The government has discreetly erected a 12-foot marble cross in memory of 4,000 army officers who died in a World War II massacre blamed by some Poles on the Nazis but by others on Soviet troops, dissident sources said Monday. Poles had gathered for years near the area where the monument was erected. The site had become a symbolic tomb for the Polish army officers, who were taken prisoner by Soviet troops in World War II.

Former aide to Thompson to run for governor in '86

CHICAGO (UPI) — James Nowlan, a University of Illinois political science professor and former aide to Gov. James R. Thompson, announced Monday he will run as an independent candidate for governor in 1986. But Nowlan, 43, who announced his candidacy at a news conference, said he doesn't think his former boss should seek a fourth term. "I don't think he should run again because a decade in office is enough for anyone at the helm," said Nowlan.

Banks make 5,700 farm loans in past month

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — More than 5,700 spring planting loans were made to farmers by banks within the last month as part of the state's Agricultural Production Loan Deposit Program, aides to the state treasurer said Monday. Officials in Treasurer James Donnewald's office also said they expect thousand of additional loans will be approved by banks in time for spring planting, which begins later this month.

Candidates call campaign winning combination

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of profiles on USO presidential and vice presidential candidates.

By Cynthia Weiss
Staff Writer

Dan DeFosse and his running mate, Mark Case, Independent Party candidates for president and vice president of the Undergraduate Student Organization, said they see their campaign as a winning combination of the traditional and the non-traditional student.

DeFosse, a 38-year-old husband and father, represents what he has said is a growing number of non-traditional students. Case, 20, is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. Both are USO senators.

"We both saw the need for combining the traditional and non-traditional together. We need to end that separation that's been there for a long time," said DeFosse, junior in business education.

TRADITIONAL AND non-traditional students have the same problems and needs, DeFosse said, and they can better solve their problems and meet their needs by becoming part of a united student body.

Case said that students living on campus, off campus, on Greek Row, in Evergreen Terrace and in Southern Hills lead different lives, but all have "the same basic goals and aspirations."

"If we combine all those factions, maybe we can start to reach the goals for everyone, not just a small representative group," he said.

DeFosse said that issues affecting students, such as the rising inaccessibility of a college education, have become more and more serious.

IN ORDER TO combat budget cuts and tuition increases, student government organizations nationwide are going to have to start pushing toward becoming more viable organizations, he said.

The main issue of this year's USO campaign is the question of what kind of USO the students want, DeFosse said.

"Do we want an open and active USO that is going to out after all of the different factors actively and try to develop a USO that has credibility and that works for all the students?"

If so, DeFosse said, students should vote for him.

Case said he sees two general issues as the most important of the campaign: student involvement and tuition.

IF STUDENT enrollment and retention were increased, the cost of tuition would stabilize, maybe even decrease, Case said.

Case said he would also like to see more students involved in the wide variety of clubs available to them on campus.

"There are over 350 clubs on campus. Unfortunately, 30 percent of the students belong to the apathy club," he said.

As club members, students gain valuable experience and learn leadership skills.

"That's what the business world is looking for," Case said.

DeFosse and Case said they believe their experience qualifies them for the offices of USO president and vice president.

DEFOSSE WAS student body president at the College of Lake County, chairman of the Evergreen Terrace Area Council and has management and leadership training experience, he said.

DeFosse is also the founder and co-editor of the Evergreen Terrace Express newsletter. This, he said, will help him to fulfill one of his campaign promises — putting out a Recognized Student Organization newsletter.

As a freshman, Case was president of Pierce Hall. He has been a member of two USO commissions, USO's Committee on Internal Affairs, various SIU-C clubs and was a Student Life Adviser.

DeFosse said he thinks the campaign "boils down to the question of why each candidate wants to be president or vice president of the USO."

DeFosse added that his commitment separates him from the other two presidential candidates, Tony Appleman (Phoenix Party) and Stuart Lowrey (no party).

Vice-presidential hopefuls disagree on GPSC function

By Tom Atkins
Staff Writer

Two of the three candidates for officer positions for the Graduate and Professional Student Council stand unopposed, although write-ins will be accepted at the election meeting Wednesday night.

For the only-contested position of vice president of administrative affairs, Peter Frederick and Paul Antonacci hold different views of how position should be run.

Antonacci, 23, has held several previous student-government positions and was a council representative in the fall 1984 semester but resigned because of differences with the organization, the first-year law student said. Specifically, Antonacci believes the GPSC is not performing a practical function.

"What they've set out to do is not necessarily what is needed," he said.

Antonacci said the graduate and professional students are not receiving from the GPSC what they are paying for in fees — a problem he blames on too much administrative overhead. The council's funding should be divested among the individual graduate departments to serve the students better, Antonacci said.

Peter Frederick, 29, also running for vice president of administrative affairs, has been a GPSC representative since fall 1983 and is also a member of the executive board. Frederick disagrees with Antonacci about divesting GPSC funds.

The council must remain united to maintain its function as a formal communication channel to the University administration and to prevent the individual graduate departments from being ignored, he said.

"It's like the saying, 'if we don't hang together, we'll all hang separately,'" the botany student said.

Mary Brown, 24, stands unopposed for the presidential position.

Brown, the current GPSC liaison officer, said she plans to seek more opinions from council representatives.

"If they are dealt with on a more personable level, they'll be more likely to speak up at meetings," she said.

Having an ability to "shape solutions within constraints" is her strong point, Brown said.

Brown, who said she is "money motivated," is a student in the Master of Business Administration program and hopes for an upper-management position after graduation.

Mike Jacobs stands unopposed for the vice-president of Graduate School affairs.

Jacobs has held numerous student-government positions at other universities since 1978 and is currently a GPSC representative.

Jacobs, 25, said his interest in political communication and graduate work in that field will help him to improve ties between the GPSC and the Graduate School.

India files lawsuit for Bhopal deaths

NEW YORK (UPI) — India filed a federal suit Monday asking an unspecified amount of damages from Union Carbide Corp. for the deaths of 1,700 persons and injury to 200,000 others in the gas leak at its Bhopal plant, the world's worst industrial accident.

The suit said the damages could be so huge it could not immediately be determined the dollar amount India should get from the Danbury, Conn.-based chemical company.

Deadly methyl isocyanate spewed from an underground storage tank at Union Carbide's pesticide plant in the central Indian city last Dec. 3.

The Indian government filed the suit as the representative of all the victims of the Bhopal disaster. The suit cited the Indian Constitution, which makes the government guardian of its citizens' health and welfare.

Tom Failla, spokesman for Union Carbide, said the firm would have no comment "until we have time to study the suit."

The Indian government sought damages specifically for 1,700 persons killed and 200,000 injured in the gas leak, including "future generations of victims."

Other sources have put the death toll from the deadly leak at more than 2,500 persons and said the Indian government failed in its various estimates to take into account deaths among a shifting population of beggars affected by the leak.

The suit alleged that Union Carbide was absolutely liable for the disaster because it knew the gas was "one of the most dangerous substances known to man" and posed "unacceptable risks" to the people of Bhopal.

Dorm food edible, but not preferred

A STORY IN THE APRIL 5 DAILY EGYPTIAN concerning dorm food here may have been just a little difficult for Grinnell, Lentz and Trueblood hall customers to swallow.

The assistant director of University Housing in charge of food service went on the record to say the food that ends up on students' trays is of good (not the best) quality. Students have available — in the form of monthly food committee meetings — a forum to voice any complaints they may have, according to the assistant. Students, the assistant goes on to say, seldom if ever utilize the forum.

Further, in addition to the standard food service, the University, through the Wellness Center, makes available such valuable information as nutritional and dietary advice.

A well-rounded nutrition program at SIU-C is obviously of tremendous concern. And it is comforting to know that the University offers such additional, nutritional advice.

THE ASSISTANT, BY WAY OF LOGIC, contends that since University Housing receives few complaints concerning the quality of food, there must not be a problem. That contention means one of two things: University Housing is either blind to the reality of dorm food and how many students respond to it, or it is aware but would rather not admit it.

University Housing may indeed receive few if any complaints concerning the food. But that shouldn't be interpreted to mean that everyone is happy and smiling in Grinnell, Lentz and Trueblood halls. Rather, the lack of formal complaints should be taken as apathetic resignation by students that dorm food is just that — dorm food.

The food service should at least give students the credit of not beefing about their menu. What students really think and say about dorm food might surprise them. But going on record as saying that there doesn't appear to be any problem must come to the students who eat — or have eaten — dorm food as an insult.

Dance card filled at leaders' summit

REALIZING THAT IT TAKES TWO TO TANGO, the news that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has agreed to meet with President Reagan should mean that the long-awaited summit dance is on. It's about time.

Gorbachev looks to occupy his role as leader of the Soviet Union for many years to come, and President Reagan is assured of another four-year term in the Oval Office — the time is finally ripe for a summit.

The two leaders have now come out strongly in favor of such a summit, but they apparently approach the idea in differing ways.

For Reagan, announcing his intentions to hold a summit proved an opportune moment to press for Star Wars (Strategic Defense Initiative) and the MX missile. If his success in gaining Congress' approval for 21 MX missiles is any indication, his tactics would seem to be working.

FOR GORBACHEV, HOWEVER, THE MOMENT meant an opportunity to show good will. Gorbachev, in the announcement, stated that further deployment of medium-ranged nuclear weapons would be postponed, pending success at the arms reduction talks in Geneva.

Announcement of the moratorium comes as good news, but apparently not good enough. Soon after the announcement of the Soviets' concession, White House spokesmen were quick to dispel any notions of reciprocity by the United States.

White House Spokesman Larry Speakes said that a 10-to-1 Soviet advantage in medium range nuclear weapons means that a freeze would only benefit the Soviets — goodwill gesture or not.

Reagan has used the warming of relations between the two superpowers as a tool for procuring more and more weapons. Passage of the MX, according to the president, was vital for the United States' bargaining position. Conversely, the president's reaction to Gorbachev's announcement was to dismiss the Soviets' moratorium on some nuclear weapons as irrelevant.

Both partners may be coming to the arms reduction ball, but if one party starts making excuses why he cannot or will not participate, it won't make much of a dance.

Widespread appeal of Star Wars suggests search for new answers

WHEN RONALD Reagan, an old Hollywood hand, discovered that he couldn't get the label "Star Wars" off the national marquee, he did the next best thing: He chose the role he wanted to play. He would be the wise elder, the man who possessed the secrets of both hi-tech and hi-virtue.

In his Obi Wan-Kenobi guise last week, he told the National Space Club luncheon, "The Strategic Defense Initiative has been labeled Star Wars, but it isn't about war. It's about peace. It isn't about retaliation, it's about prevention. It isn't about fear, it's about hope and in that struggle, if you will pardon my stealing a film line, the force is with us."

Indeed it is. Star Wars has had a much more successful run than anyone expected. When it opened in Washington two years ago, the critics predicted that it would be laughed off the national agenda. Too far fetched, too expensive, nobody would buy it. But Star Wars has been recast from a comedy to a morality play and it's being taken very seriously.

By now, all the usual supporting players have taken their places in this production. The defense industry is salivating over contracts. Their scientists are talking about "interesting problems." The Pentagon even announced on cue that the Soviets are ahead of us in "Star Wars-type" defense. There are more people ready to support this program than people who can describe it.

I DON'T THINK we can credit this remarkable turnaround solely to the stage presence of the president. Nor can we dismiss Star Wars as science-fiction pap anymore. Reagan has done what he does best by making a direct connection with some deep anxiety and yearning in his

Ellen Goodman
Washington Post
Writers Group

mass audience: the anxiety about nuclear war, the yearning for protection. The irony is that Star Wars is an heir apparent to the peace movement.

It took four years of work by activists to rub away the national numbness toward the dangers of nuclear war. But their work left us with jittery nerve endings. Americans are conscious finally that we have, literally, no defense against nuclear weapons. But the freeze movement didn't offer a solution, just a pause at the status quo. There's not a whole lot of warmth in a security blanket of Mutually Assured Destruction.

Reagan has, quite simply, taken the moral high ground from the peace groups. He is offering shelter. It is no coincidence that last week the old false promise of defense — a massive relocation plan in case of nuclear alert — was quietly shelved. We now have a new false promise of a missile-proof America.

THIS ILLUSION is offered by all Star Wars supporters. The claim is, most succinctly, most simply, in the bizarre fundraising letter of the Citizens for a High Frontier. They state categorically: "This plan ... would make all of us safe from nuclear missile attack!" "If you fear nuclear weapons (and who doesn't) you'll be relieved to know that this system uses no nuclear devices of any kind," they write, "and that it will actually render harmless virtually all nuclear missiles anyone might fire at us."

The beauty of Star Wars to many, including the president, is that it imagines a technological fix to the human condition. We can have security without trust, especially without having to trust the Soviets.

Of course, not everyone is hooked by the attraction of a fanciful program with a $26 billion tag for five years of research. Only a handful of experts believe it would work. As for citizens, in the latest Harris poll, men favored developing such a system by three points, but women opposed it by 34 points. A full 75 percent of Americans agreed that the Soviets would counter these weapons with their own in another round of the arms race.

BUT THE psychological appeal of Star Wars is enormous, the imagery powerful. The most ardent opponent would like to believe with the High Frontiersmen in "a plan ... that would make all of us safe from nuclear missile attack!" ... A revolutionary approach to ending the balance of nuclear terror!"

The fact that Star Wars draws such a big crowd suggests that we're looking for new answers — any new answers. The peace movement made us feel more aware and less secure. There is less confidence today in deterrence. The public discussion has turned around. For the roots, to the very nature, of "defense" in a nuclear age. The dramatic trick will be to extend this discussion beyond the president's theater of the absurd.

Michael James, 10, brings the Lord to the faithful with help from his father, the Rev. Marvin James, at the Greater Gillespie Temple Church.

Child preacher has revival

Michael James is truly a miracle child.

Michael was born 10 years ago in Baltimore, Md., with alcoholic child syndrome, a disease acquired from alcoholic parents. Doctors at the Kennedy Institute in Baltimore were certain that Michael would never recover from the disease that had severely stunted his development as a young child.

He spent the first nine months of his life in hospitals. Then Michael got a break that many children with alcoholic child syndrome do not get. At the age of 18 months, he was adopted by the Rev. and Mrs. Marvin James.

Finally, after miraculous progress, Michael began to walk and talk at the age of three, much later than his peers. Michael had proved the doctors wrong.

Michael and his family credit the Lord to his recovery, and have been singing his praises ever since.

Michael has gone on to become the youngest licensed preacher of the Church of God in Christ, the largest black Pentacostal church in the United States with a membership of 3 million.

Michael and his family were in Carbondale during the Easter holiday conducting revival services at the Greater Gillespie Temple Church. This was their fourth trip to Carbondale.

Michael's father said that his son displayed an unusual talent for evangelical work at an early age.

When Michael was young, Marvin would read him passages from the Bible. Soon after Michael began talking he was able to complete verses before his father could finish reading them. Michael was soon able to recite verses without aid.

Michael soon gained attention for his testifying in churches in Baltimore. He was invited to preach before Baltimore youth groups, and eventually became a popular evangelist for all age groups.

Since he was ordained more than three years ago, Michael has taken his message to people throughout the United States. Besides frequent appearances in Baltimore, Michael has preached in Washington, D.C., Dallas, Memphis, New York and Florida.

Michael's public appearances are scheduled on weekends and during the summer so that he can keep up with his studies at Cedermere public school in Baltimore, where he is enrolled in a special class. He said his favorite subjects are reading and math.

Mmmm mmm. It's a thick crust, covered with spicy tomato sauce, smothered with fresh cut mozzarella cheese and garnished with whatever your favorite ingredients may be — sausage, ham, hamburger, pepperoni, mushrooms, olives, anchovies, peppers, onions, spinach or broccoli.

And there you have it: deep-dish pizza in Carbondale, served at eight of 11 pizza parlors in town — Godfathers's Goldmine, Italian Village, LaRoma's, Pagliai's, Pizza Hut, Pizza Inn and Quatro's.

A wide variety of tastes can be satisfied, from the zesty sauce at LaRoma's to the milder sauce at Quatro's, to the sweet and fluffy dough at Goldmine.

Deep-dish, or pan, pizza became popular here during the past six to eight years, said Mike Rogers, a manager at Goldmine, and some of the more experienced pizza chefs of Carbondale helped make it popular.

"I don't think you can take anybody off the street, put him in the kitchen and say, 'Make a pizza,'" Rogers said.

The dough-making process is the most important process for many pizza parlors.

"Every place makes a different dough," Rogers said. "Goldmine's dough is sweet and fluffy, which provides a light, bread-like crust."

The dough is about an inch to an inch and a half thick when it's finished, said Renee Bouchard, another manager at Goldmine.

"It depends on who makes it and on the season. The dough doesn't rise all the way to the top in the winter," she said.

"We've been known to put space heaters back there (in the kitchen) to make it rise in the winter," Bouchard said.

Most pizza parlors let the dough rise only once, Rogers said, but Goldmine's dough must rise three times, taking about 20 minutes, before that special fluff is reached. And it must be watched with a trained eye, he said, because the working conditions — heat and humidity — vary each day.

The first six ingredients — eggs, yeast, fennel seed, sugar, sweet basil and oregano — are combined and mixed in a large bowl beneath the Hobart mixer. When that mixture rises, or bubbles, Bouchard said, the flour is mixed in.

The mixture is then put in a bucket and covered until it rises, she said.

When it rises, the dough is poured into pans and placed on a shelf. "And the rise here depends on how humid it is," Rogers said, pointing to the 15 pans.

Opening the refrigerator and taking out a pan, he said, "The fridge keeps the dough from rising anymore. This is where it goes before we make the pizza."

"It's really a thing you learn to feel for," Rogers said. "It's pretty tricky."

Goldmine's light and fluffy dough may be a favorite of some pizza lovers, but thick-crust crisp and thick-crust pan at Quatro's and the thick crust at Italian Village are favorites of others.

Gary Somers, manager at Italian Village, agrees that the dough is important, but the taste of a pizza is what brings pizza lovers back, he said.

"Our sauce is important. That's where you get most of the flavor."

Working his 18th year at the restaurant, Somers said he always sees the same folks returning for pizza.

"We've stayed the same with ingredients in our recipe," Somers said. "We've made no change, and that's important."

Lance Zahner, manager at LaRoma's, said the special sauce he prepares can't be beat.

"Our sauce is puree. It comes in a gallon can, but we add our own spices," he said.

What really gives LaRoma's pizza its tongue-tingling taste is the parmesan cheese sprinkled in the sauce, Zahner said.

"Nobody else does that," he said. "It adds flavor to the sauce and makes it zestier."

But for some pizza lovers it's Quatro's that is the best.

Quatro's original recipe came from Pizzeria Uno in Chicago, manager Joe Bryniarski said.

The recipe has been altered through the years though, and Bryniarski believes it has been improved each time.

The difference between Chicago and Southern Illinois deep-dish pizza is the spices.

"Up there the sauce is made fresh. The chefs grind it and spice the way they want it. Here you don't have that luxury," he said. "A lot of people (from Chicago) are used to spicier foods and don't like our pizza because it's not spicy enough. Well, you can't please everyone."

Carbondale may not be deep-dish pizza capital of the world, but Southern Illinoisans can be sure to find something to satisfy their taste for deep-dish pizza somewhere in town.

Annual meeting of museum group set for SIU-C

The annual Museum Art Galleries meeting will be held at 7:15 p.m. Thursday at the SIU-C School of Law Auditorium.

Mike Dunbar, noted art administrator and sculpturer and coordinator of the state's Art in Architecture program, will lecture on the state's art purchasing program.

The Percent for Art program, as it is called, resulted from a legislative act mandating that 0.5 of 1 percent of the funding for a state building must be used for the purchase of art from Illinois artists. Works that will be on display Thursday will include pieces by internationally known fiber artist Claire Ziesler.

Author seeks old photos of local stores

The author of an award-winning book about a Southern Illinois boy's life during the 1930s is looking for Depression-era photographs to illustrate his latest book, subtitled "A second look at the Great Depression."

Author Robert J. Hastings needs old photographs of Southern Illinois grocery stores to be included in "A Penny's Worth of Minced Ham."

The book is a sequel to his 1979 publication, "A Nickel's Worth of Skim Milk: A Boy's View of the Depression."

Photos from Marion, West Frankfort, Pinckneyville and Goreville are preferred for his latest book, but he will consider anything that is submitted, he said.

Hastings is asking for loans of black-and-white photographs of the interior and exteriors of Southern Illinois grocery stores of the 1920s and 1930s.

The owner's name, address, phone number and information describing the contents of the photograph should be noted on an attached sheet of paper.

Photographs should be mailed to James D. Simmons, SIU Press, P.O. Box 3697, Carbondale, IL 62901.

Rev. Jackson leads march

PLATTSBURG, Mo. (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson led several hundred farmers in a peaceful march through downtown Monday, protesting the foreclosure sale of a farm home.

The Kearney Trust Co. purchased the farm of Perry Wilson Sr. in a peaceful foreclosure sale conducted on the steps of the Clinton County Courthouse, where a month ago the sale of Wilson's land turned violent.

About 1,000 people, many of them farmers, attended the sale and an earlier rally at which Jackson and several Kansas City area ministers spoke.

Kearney Trust, which holds a note on the house, purchased the farm home after making bids of $75,000 and $95,000. Members of the crowd yelled out during the sale but it went on without incident.

Following the sale, Jackson, flanked by Wilson and his wife, Jeanne, led hundreds of people through downtown streets of the small northwest Missouri community to protest the sale. Jackson, an unsuccessful candidate for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination, spent Sunday night with the Wilsons.

In Kansas City earlier Sunday night, Jackson addressed more than 2,000 at the midtown Metropolitan Missionary Baptist Church, calling for urban blacks and farmers to unite to thwart the rising number of federal farm foreclosures.

About 150 law enforcement officers from the Highway Patrol, Clinton County Sheriff's Department and sheriff's officers from adjoining counties stood by during the sale.

On March 15, nearly a thousand people gathered at the same courthouse steps in an attempt to stop the scheduled sale of Wilson's 700 acres. At that protest, which involved mostly farmers, officers used billy clubs to fight off the crowd. Eight people were taken into custody but no one was injured.

That protest did not stop the sale of the land.

French uncover weapons cache

PARIS (UPI) — French secret agents uncovered a guerrilla hideout and found a large weapons cache, including a gun that may have been used to kill U.S. and Israeli diplomats in Paris in 1982, court officials disclosed Monday.

The arms were discovered last week in an apartment used by the Armed Lebanese Revolutionary Faction. Italian and French police spent eight months dismantling the urban guerrilla group.

Counter-espionage agents discovered the hideout after finding the address book and Swiss bank account number of Georges Ibrahim Abdallah, arrested Oct. 24 in Lyon in eastern France as chief of the militant organization, the officials said.

Police said ballistic tests would determine if a Czechoslovakian pistol found in the flat in northwest Paris was used to kill the diplomats.

Col. Charles Ray, U.S. Embassy assistant military attache, was gunned down on a Paris street Jan. 18, 1982. Yaacov Barsimantov, second secretary of the Israeli Embassy, was killed near his home in suburban Boulogne April 3, 1982.

Police said the weapon also could have been used in abortive assassination attempts in France against acting U.S. Ambassador Christian Chapman Nov. 12, 1981, and Robert Homme, the U.S. consul general, in Strasbourg, March 26, 1984.

French agents also found 50 pounds of explosives, two rockets, two machine guns and numerous handguns, authorities said.

The hideout was found last week after the April 2 liberation in Lebanon of Gilles Peyrolles, director of the French cultural center in Tripoli, who was seized by terrorists in an unsuccessful attempt to win Abdallah's release.

French authorities said the terrorist faction comprises some 30 Lebanese Christians of Marxist beliefs from the village of Koubbeyt in Syrian-controlled north Lebanon.

French police closed in on Abdallah after Italian police arrested and questioned faction member El Mansouri on the Orient Express train Aug. 6.

Mansouri was carrying the same type of explosive that killed four people and injured 20 in a 1980 attack on the Rue Copernic synagogue in Paris.

The explosive also was used to boobytrap the car of U.S. Embassy commercial attache Roderick Grant in 1982. Two police explosives experts were killed trying to defuse the bomb.

SAILING: Use of Little Grassy denied

Allowing the club to have its own spot would be giving them "preferential treatment over the average citizen," and that's not going to happen, he added.

Adams said if the club does not work out a deal with the Barnharts, then he doesn't see why the club can't shuttle its sailboats via trailers. He said there are several public spots at Crab Orchard Lake where the club could put in their boats.

Hoffswell said the club has only one trailer. Being forced to trailer the boats would not only put additional wear on the boats, it would make sailing more of a hassle and result in less members, he said.

The club is already in financial trouble, Hoffswell added. By this time last year the club already had about 50 members signed up at $18 per person. However, since the club doesn't know yet if they will be able to relocate, the club currently has one paid member. The club is still paying for insurance and repairs, Hoffswell said.

"We're in big trouble if we don't get on a lake soon," he said, and added that he will try to meet with Adams sometime this week to discuss the issue.

Japan is economic scapegoat, speaker says

By Jim Ludeman
Staff Writer

The U.S. trade barriers to Japan are strictly an emotional reaction, said Mitsunori Namba, director of information service for the Japanese consulate in Chicago.

Namba, who was on hand to address the United Nations Simulation Association's model meeting Thursday night, said in an interview after his speech that the United States was using Japan as a scapegoat for more serious domestic economic problems.

"First you (the United States) have to consider your domestic economic situation.

High interest rates, strong U.S. dollar, big budget deficit. These are more serious problems for economy of the United States," he said.

NAMBA SAID the remarks were his personal opinion, and not an official opinion or statement of the Japanese government.

The United States is not the only nation that has trade deficits with Japan. Namba said there was also a lot of animosity between Japan and the European community.

Peter Hauser, Japanese consulate information officer assisting Namba, said that many European nations have high tariffs, quotas and other protective measures aimed at Japan.

"More nations in the world have high tariffs and low quotas (on Japanese products) that Japan doesn't have. So in a sense, Japan's market is much more open than Europe or the United States," Hauser said.

COMMENTING ON other areas of Japanese policy, Namba pointed out that Japan spends only 1 percent of its gross national product on defense.

Part of the reason for the low figure is because Japan is a nuclear-free zone, and produces no nuclear weapons.

Japan has no military, and relies on "international peace and stability," for its defense, Namba said.

Namba said he thought Japan's current defense situation was the best for Japan. Japan relies on the U.S. for defense, and this enables Japan to have "tremendous economic progress," he said.

Namba also said he thought that eventually Japan would have to have its own defense. The chance of increasing defense spending in Japan are hard to determine, though.

"IT IS VERY hard to get a consensus to change the defense policy in Japan," he said.

In his address, and in the interview afterward, Namba commented on Japan's role in the United Nations.

Japan is an involuntary financial contributor to the United Nations, meaning it has to give money. In addition, Japan is the second largest involuntary contributor to the United Nations, Namba said.

Japan has an official policy of staying out of U.N. peacekeeping forces such as those in Lebanon, and thinks countries should be allowed to resolve the differences between themselves.

Japan has also called for the South African government to end their apartheid rule.

Group offers friendship, support for widowed

By Dawn Cunningham
Student Writer

A woman's husband dies. Friends, family and neighbors surround her with support and sympathy. Two weeks later they return to their own lives and the widow is left alone.

This seems to be the road toward loneliness for widows and widowers, unless they live in the Carbondale-

Murphysboro area. People who have experienced the recent death of a spouse will receive a letter in the mail, followed by a visit from one of the coordinators of the Widowed Persons Service.

The Widowed Persons Service offers companionship and friendship, as well as listens, said Claudia Hanna, service coordinator and co-chairman.

The service was established three years ago. Widowed people meet every Saturday for coffee, talk, laughter, and to lend an ear to widowed people.

"We have a good time. We don't sit around and grieve," said Vanita Janello, a coordinator of the service. "The service is intended to bring people together in a social atmosphere, to talk and have fun," she said.

Janello said that the coordinators have experienced the death of a spouse and can relate to the patrons of the service. The widowed people do not have any obligation to the service and can stay as long as they like. Many of the members have established friendships with other members, which is the main objective of the service.

The service is open to widows and widowers of any age, not just senior citizens.

Hanna said the service has a steady clientele, with about one new member every month. The last Sunday of every month the service meets for counseling.

Concerns of Nicaraguans related by peace delegates

By Sarah Rohrs
Staff Writer

"The Nicaraguans love to ask questions," said Sallie Schramm, who recently returned from that country as a member of a Witness for Peace delegation.

"What are you doing to bring peace to our country?" is a very tough question to answer, said Schramm, graduate student in both community development and health education.

Schramm and Bill Perk, community development instructor who also has been to Nicaragua, spoke at an International Forum lecture last week on Nicaragua and SIU-C's potential involvement in Nicaragua's urban and rural planning.

Witness for Peace is a organization that takes Americans to Nicaragua to participate in that country's affairs. Schramm was on a special delegation of 66 women, who helped Nicaraguans recognize International Women's Day March 8.

SCHRAMM DESCRIBED the day's activities in a separate interview. The delegates and families of the 23 people who have been killed by contras since December 9, 1984, "reclaimed" the road from Esteli to San Juan de Limay, she said.

The delegate members carried banners and blue crosses during the 30-kilometer walk and weeping families planted them at the murder sites, she said.

Women related many stories of losing sons and husbands during the two-week stay. It was very sorrowful, she said.

Even though "war is all around you," Schramm said, "the Nicaraguans are so hopeful for a peaceful future. They want to have a peaceful relationship with the United States," she said.

PRESIDENT REAGAN has painted the Nicaraguans as being Cuban and Soviet puppets and the country as a military threat to the United States, Schramm said.

"Reagan tries to make Americans think that Nicaragua military bases are as big as the United States," she said. "This is very far from the truth."

Nicaragua is still a very poor country and the contra war is draining the country's resources. It is also making it difficult for the nation to pick itself back up after the 1979 Sandinista Revolution, which took control out of the hands of the Somoza Regime.

Perk said the revolution has not solved the huge problems in Nicaragua. The Nicaraguans don't have the necessary tools, resources and information for effective rural and urban planning, he said.

"THERE ARE NO libraries in Nicaragua to look up the answers to problems," he said.

There is tremendous potential for Nicaraguans "to open the eyes" of Americans by asking for their help in technical planning. This might also lead to opening up new markets for U.S. goods, he said.

Ancient hunting is meeting topic

Hunting and foodgathering strategies used 2,000 to 10,000 years ago by natives of the American Midwest will be the focus of a two-day conference at SIU-C Friday and Saturday.

The "Foraging, Collecting and Harvesting" conference is expected to attract scholars from throughout the Midwest and eastern United States.

Author and archaeologist James A. Brown, professor at Northwestern University, will deliver the keynote address titled, "Food for Thought: Where Has Subistence Analysis Gotten Us?"

Registration for the conference is $15. More information and registration is available from Barbara Emil, coordinator, 536-7751; or Sarah Neusius, archaeological investigations, 536-5529.

The conference is sponsored by the SIU-C Center for Archaeological Investigations and Division of Continuing Education.

Bodybuilding champions' work pays off

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

The first "Mr. and Ms. SIU" bodybuilding contest drew a rowdy, overflowing audience to Student Center Ballrooms A and B Saturday where novices Tom Royals and Johnna Bonic were named champions.

The contest, sponsored by Pi Sigma Epsilon and the SIU Weightlifting Club, featured seven male and six female students. Before five finalists were named, the contestants went through a segment of mandatory poses and performed short individual routines.

Royals, winner of the men's division, performed like a showman onstage. "You have to come out with the attitude that 'I'm it. I'm the winner,'" he said after the contest.

The 29-year-old senior in physical education from Flossmoor said that he had done his homework and knew how to amuse to the audience. He said that he has been lifting weights for over five years.

Bonic, 21, the female champion, gave a much more low-key performance than Royals. But the senior in elementary education from Mattoon said she enjoyed her stage debut, though she said she felt relieved once it was over. Bonic said she took up bodybuilding as a hobby two and a half years ago.

Both champions said they prepared for Saturday's competition for over two months. Royals said his training included working out for one to three hours six days a week. He said he usually works out every other day.

Though this was the first time on stage for both winners, each of them said they will be competing in an Illinois collegiate bodybuilding contest this weekend in Marion.

Both also said they met with strong competition Saturday. For Bonic, that competition included her younger sister, Carmille, who placed third. The younger Bonic is a junior in dental hygiene.

The second place female finalist was Kim Von Hatten, senior in electronic data processing. Fourth place was awarded to Chris Bertocchi, food and nutrition major, and fifth place went to Cheryl Reeves, junior in respiratory therapy.

The second place men's finisher was Kent Probst, junior in advertising, and the third place finisher was John Sleconich, senior in electrical engineering. Fourth place went to Doug Ulmer, senior in administration of justice and fifth place went to Joseph Jurkovich, senior in microbiology.

The top three finishers in each group received trophies and the other two were given medals. Organizers of the event said that none of its three judges were affiliated with SIU-C or familiar with any of the contestants.

Members of Pi Sigma Epsilon, campus marketing fraternity, said they hope to make the contest an annual event.

Cardinal speedsters to test Carter in season opener

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets open their season Tuesday and already their chief off-season acquisition, Gary Carter, may be severely tested.

Carter, the All-Star catcher expected to turn around the fortunes of the Mets this year, may get to show off his powerful throwing arm quite a bit against the St. Louis Cardinals, a team regarded as the fastest in baseball.

The Cardinals stole more bases (220) than any team in baseball last season and in Lonnie Smith, Ozzie Smith, Terry Pendleton and Willie McGee they have four players capable of stealing more than 35 bases this year.

Carter, on the other hand, is one of the best in baseball at throwing out runners. He had the third best success rate in baseball last season, throwing out 47 of 106 runners for a 44.3 percent.

Carter's job against the Cardinals may be made more difficult, however, because the Mets' starting pitcher, Dwight Gooden, is one of the worst in baseball at holding runners on base. Gooden worked hard in spring training at improving that weakness, but it is hard to determine how much he has improved since not many runners got on base against him this spring.

Tuesday's Opening Day pitching matchups at Shea Stadium pit two of baseball's best pitchers against each other. Gooden was the National League's Rookie of the Year last season and set a rookie strikeout record of 276 while the Cardinals' starter, Joaquin Andujar, was the league's only 20-game winner.

A sellout crowd — the first pre-season Opening Day sellout in Mets' history — will be on hand to greet the Mets, who are sporting a new look this year from the team that finished 6.5 games behind the Chicago Cubs in the National League East last year.

In all, there are 12 players on the Mets' 25-man roster who were not with the team for their Opening Day loss to Cincinnati last season. Three of those — Carter, third baseman Howard Johnson and shortstop Rafael Santana — will be in the starting lineup.

"There's a ton of things different about this team," said Mets' manager Davey Johnson. "I can focus my attention on the pitching this year. I have less concern about the other positions because players have established themselves. The big decision will be in my starting rotation. The guys I have here are more than capable of getting the job done."

The Cardinals also have a new look from last season. The most notable change is the absence of relief ace Bruce Sutter, who played out his option and signed with the Atlanta Braves after tying a major league record with 45 saves last year. The job of No. 1 reliever now falls squarely on the shoulders of Neil Allen, a former relief ace with the Mets who has struggled through two erratic seasons since joining the Cardinals.

Also missing from the lineup is right fielder George Hendrick, now with the Pittsburgh Pirates. In his place in the batting order is Jack Clark, a former All-Star with the San Francisco Giants. Clark will play first base for the Cardinals with Andy Van Slyke taking over the right field spot formerly occupied by Hendrick.

Pendleton, a third baseman, also will be starting his first full season with the Cardinals. He was one of the biggest surprises in the league last year, batting .324 and stealing 20 bases in 67 games after being brought up from Louisville of the American Association.

Fisk will likely miss Sox' opener

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Veteran catcher Carlton Fisk, who suffered a hip pointer in an exhibition game last week, is not expected to start Tuesday when the Chicago White Sox open their season at Milwaukee.

Manager Tony LaRussa said he was making plans with backup Marc Hill in the lineup.

"From what I've seen I doubt if Fisk can play," LaRussa said. "I don't think he'll feel much better in that (cold) weather."

Fisk, who missed more than 30 games last season after suffering a thigh bruise on opening day in Baltimore, hurt the hip Friday night in a slide to home plate. It flared up Sunday when he ran hard to second base after a sixth-inning double.

Trainer Herman Schneider said it will be Fisk's decision whether he can play.

Kansas City edges Jays, former Saluki Stieb 2-1

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Willie Wilson doubled home two seventh-inning runs to support the combined five-hit pitching of Bud Black and Dan Quisenberry and give the Kansas City Royals a 2-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Monday in the season opener for both teams.

Black allowed all four of the hits, struck out three and walked one over 7 2-3 innings for his second consecutive Opening Day victory.

Quisenberry came on after Black allowed a single to Lloyd Moseby and a walk to George Bell in the eighth and retired pinch-hitter Rance Mulliniks on a fly ball to left to earn his first save.

Toronto ace Dave Stieb, a former player at SIU-C, carried a three-hitter and a 1-0 lead into the seventh inning but allowed a leadoff double to Darryl Motley. He then retired the next two batters before hitting No. 9 hitter Onix Concepcion with a pitch. Wilson then hit a liner over the head of left-fielder Bell to score both runners.

Back-to-back singles by Jesse Barfield and Jeff Burroughs put Toronto runners on first and third against Black in the second inning and Buck Martinez then lofted a sacrifice fly to left field to give the Blue Jays a 1-0 lead in front of a record Opening Day crowd of 41,086 at Royals Stadium.

Whitaker, Tigers nip Indians

DETROIT (UPI) — Lou Whitaker followed rookie Chris Pittaro's RBI single with a tie-breaking sacrifice fly with one out in the eighth inning Monday to help the Detroit Tigers make a successful start in defense of their world championship with a 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Larry Herndon singled with one out in the eighth to chase reliever Tom Waddell and Ernie Camacho walked Chet Lemon before Pittaro's third hit of the game knocked in a run to tie the score at 4-4.

Whitaker then drilled Camacho's second pitch deep to center to put Detroit in front.

Jack Morris went the first eight innings, striking out six, walking six and giving up six hits to get the victory before Willie Hernandez came on to get his first save.

George Vukovich ripped a two-out RBI single to right to finish a three-run sixth inning that gave Cleveland a 4-3 lead.

Lance Parrish's two-run single broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth and gave Detroit a 3-1 lead, but Julio Franco singled off rookie third baseman Pittaro's glove to open the Cleveland sixth and trigger a three-run uprising that put Cleveland ahead.

Brook Jacoby's sacrifice fly tied the score.

Red Sox power past Yankees

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox literally powered their way to a 9-2 opening day win over the New York Yankees. Jim Rice belted a three-run homer, Tony Armas added a two-run shot and Dwight Evans tacked on a solo blast to lead Boston assault. Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd allowed two runs and five hits over seven innings to nail down the victory. New York's Phil Niekro walked in two runs in the go-ahead third inning and took the loss. The 46-year-old right-hander—oldest Opening Day starter in history—lasted just four innings and walked five batters while striking out three. He left with the Yankees trailing 5-2.

New York took a 2-0 lead in the second when Mike Pagliarulo walked with two out and scored on Butch Wynegar's double down the right-field line. Wynegar then scored on Bobby Meacham's single. Boston tied it in the bottom of the inning. Mike Easler opened with a single and Armas, the major league's top hitter with 43 last year, then belted a 1-0 pitch over the left-field wall.

Boston took the lead to stay in the third when Evans doubled with one out and Rice and Easler walked to load the bases. Armas, Bill Buckner and Rich Gedman walked for a 4-2 lead.

Murray, Orioles defeat Rangers

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Eddie Murray hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning Monday to give the Baltimore Orioles a season opening 4-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

The Orioles got only two hits in the game, but Murray's homer, off relief pitcher Dave Rozema, came after Cal Ripken walked and snapped a 2-2 tie. The blast made a winner of Don Aase, who had replaced starter Storm Davis in the eighth inning.

The Orioles were held hitless for six innings by starter Charlie Hough, but the knuckleballer issued four of his eight walks in a two-run sixth inning, which also featured two passed balls by catcher Don Slaught.

Texas took a 1-0 lead off Davis in the fifth inning when George Wright got a two-out walk and scored on two-out double by Curtis Wilkerson.

Hough walked Ripken, Murray, Fred Lynn and John Lowenstein after two were out in the sixth inning to force in a run and Slaught's second passed ball of the inning allowed Murray to score the go-ahead run.

Texas tied the score on Pete O'Brien's two-out RBI single.

Cubs delay roster moves

CHICAGO (UPI) — General Manager Dallas Green of the Chicago Cubs says he is undecided about the final roster cut to get the Cubs to the 25-player limit by the midnight, Monday deadline. Outfielder Brian Dayett, infielder Chris Speier and outfielder Gary Woods are reportedly on the bubble. Green says he is working on some possible moves, which may not take pace until the last minute.

Despite snow flurries that hit Wrigley Field today, the park is considered in good shape for tomorrow's opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates. According to groundskeeping officials, the sod is "soggy" but not unusual for this time of the year. A sellout crowd is expected for the opener.

Because of the poor weather, both the Cubs and the Pirates cancelled scheduled workouts this morning. The Cubs went to their annual pre-season banquet.

Men's tennis team loses to Southwest Baptist

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

The SIU-C men's tennis team dropped a 7-2 decision to NAIA power Southwest Baptist College of Bolivar, Mo., Monday at the Arena Courts.

Southwest Baptist, which won the 1984 NAIA national championship and is currently the second-ranked NAIA team, won all but one of the singles matches in claiming the easy victory.

"They were a little bit tougher than I expected," SIU-C Coach Dick LeFevre said. "And once we got behind, we had a hard time catching up."

Southwest Baptist defeated Murray State Saturday, a team SIU-C lost to 7-2 last Tuesday.

The Salukis were hindered by the absence of No. 6 singles player Scott Krueger, who's been hospitalized for the past five days. Robert Holt replaced Krueger in the Salukis' lineup.

Per Wadmark, SIU-C's No. 1 singles player, lost to Raul Saad 6-2, 6-1. Gabriel Cocn was defeated by Sven Groeneveld 6-3, 6-3 at No. 2 singles and Chris Visconti lost to Gregg Yarbrough 6-1, 6-1 at No. 3 singles.

Rollie Oliquino was the only Saluki to win a singles match, as he defeated Terry Hawthorne 6-3, 6-4 at the No. 4 spot.

"I think Rollie Oliquino has finally come out of it and has gotten his knee back into shape," LeFevre said. "That's a good sign for the troops."

In the other two singles matches, Lars Nilsson lost to Bianne Marino 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 at the No. 5 spot and Robert Holt was defeated by Kevin Johnson 6-1, 2-6, 6-4 at No. 6 singles.

Southwest Baptist won two of the three doubles matches. Saad and Marino beat Wadmark and Oliquino 4-6, 7-5, 6-2 at No. 1 singles and Groeneveld and Yarbrough downed Coch and Nilsson 7-5, 6-4.

The tandem of Visconti and Holt won at No. 3 doubles, defeating Hawthorne and Johnson 7-6, 6-3.

With the loss, the Salukis are now 7-12 on the season. They will return to action this weekend when they host Louisville, Southwest Missouri and St. Louis in a quadrangular meet.

Islanders face new role as hockey playoffs begin

(UPI) — The New York Islanders, in recent years the top dog during the post-season, are just another underdog this year heading into their Stanley Cup matchup with the Washington Capitals.

The Islanders, NHL champions for four straight years before being dethroned in the finals by Edmonton last season, completed the regular season with 86 points — their lowest total in any of their playoff-qualifying seasons. They allowed 312 goals, the most since their dismal first season, and have won only once (1-4-1) in the last six games.

New York begins their best-of-five Patrick Division semifinal with the Capitals Wednesday night at the Capital Centre. The New York Rangers are at Philadelphia, Boston is at Montreal, Quebec is at Buffalo, Minnesota is at St. Louis, Detroit is at Chicago, Los Angeles is at Edmonton and Calgary is at Winnipeg in other opening-round matchups.

Washington, with the league's third-best point total while permitting the second fewest goals, has been eliminated in the playoffs the last two years by the Islanders. Capitals defenseman Rod Langway knows what to expect from New York in the playoffs.

"It's going to be a war," Langway said. "There's no doubt it's going five games. And it's going to be decided by one-point games. I just know we better be ready to play."

Washington has 50-goal scorers Bobby Carpenter and Mike Gartner.

The Flyers, the NHL's regular-season champions, have been eliminated the last three years in the first round and have lost nine straight post-season games. However, they are heavy favorites to crush the 26-44-10 Rangers.

"They are obviously a comfortable, confident team, but confidence is something you can shatter," the Rangers' Anders Hedberg, who will retire after this season, said. "They have to live with bad playoff experiences. We have to live with a bad season."

The Canadiens, the Adams Division champions, look to eliminate the Bruins for the second straight year. Montreal does not have anyone among the top 25 scorers in the league and rely on tight checking and strong goaltending by Steve Penney and Doug Soetaert.

Michel Goulet, with 55 goals, and Peter Stastny, with 32 goals and 68 assists, lead the Nordiques' potent offense. Quebec swept Buffalo out of the playoffs last year.

run. It was Jones' second homer of the day and eighth of the season. The Saluki junior has now slugged 18 home runs in his 2.5 years in Carbondale, moving him up to sixth place on SIU-C's all-time list.

"Robert's really come on of late for us. He's really getting a hold of the ball," SIU-C Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said.

hitting Burke for seven runs in the fourth and fifth innings, Bellissimo was settling down and taking charge of the game. Bellissimo struck out five Saints in the last two innings as he picked up his first complete game of 1985, and gave up just two hits after Tony Cavallone's two-run homer back in the fifth put CSF up 4-0.

"Jay is a good pitcher. He hasn't had enough work the last couple of weeks, so we needed to work him a lot today," Jones said. "He went out today and made some mistakes, but he didn't give in. He did a great job."

A six-run inning in the Salukis' half of the second, was all SIU-C needed to win the opening contest. John Scott struck out 11 CSF batters in five innings of work, and improved his record to 2-0 as the Salukis (19-12) ended a three-game losing streak with the 9-5 win.

"John Scott hadn't pitched in a long time, and he did an excellent job. His 11 strike outs were the most by an SIU pitcher in a long time, and he did it in five innings," Jones said.

Charlie Hillemann's two-run homer started the Salukis' scoring, and after three walks by St. Francis starter Scott Barnewolt, Pitchford singled home two more runs to put SIU-C up 4-0. An error by shortstop Tim Trimble allowed SIU-C's fifth and sixth runs of the inning to score.

An error by Saluki third baseman Kevin Pour helped the Saints get two runs back in the top of the third to make the score 6-2. Jones started Pour at third base and Jay Hammond at shortstop for both ends of the double-header, in an apparent effort to improve the defense on the Salukis' left side of the infield. Jay Eurch, who's struggled at third, moved over to first, and Terry Jones, who has committed 13 errors at short, sat out the afternoon.

CSF cut the gap to 6-3 in the top of the fifth, but Jones' home run just inside the left field foul pole got the run back for SIU-C in the bottom of the inning, and put the game out of reach.

Bob Osborne pitched the final two innings for SIU-C, giving up two runs and striking out two batters to combine with Scott for a season-high total of 13 strike outs by Saluki pitchers for the game.

Barnewolt went the distance for CSF, giving up seven hits and walking nine Saluki batters. SIU-C scored 16 runs for the day, with just 11 base hits, but was aided by 16 CSF walks.

The two teams will play another double-header in Carbondale on Tuesday, with game one scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

Sixers' Toney sidelined by injury

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers Monday placed Andrew Toney on the injured reserve list, meaning the 6-foot-3 guard will miss the last four games of the regular season.

The 76ers also returned backup center Clemon Johnson to the active roster after spending the last three weeks on the injured reserve list, and signed Steve Hayes to a contract for the rest of the regular season.

Toney, who is averaging nearly 18 points per game, sprained his left ankle in a March 30 game against Chicago and has missed three of the last four games. He played last Friday night against Chicago but sat out Saturday against Indiana.

A 76ers spokesman said Toney will be eligible for the first game of the playoffs even though he missed only four. During the regular season, a player on the injured list must sit out a minimum of five games.

Johnson missed the last 11 games with a sciatic nerve condition in his left leg. He also sat out 10 games from Feb. 15 to March 4 with the same injury. He will be available for Tuesday night's game against the Boston Celtics at the Spectrum.

Hayes, a 7-foot center, was signed to a 10-day contract on Mar. 19 after playing for Tampa Bay of the Continental Basketball Association. He signed another 10-day pact on March 29. He has appeared in nine games for the Sixers.

Track women enjoy respectable performance

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Saluki coach Don DeNoon said the women's track team looked respectable last weekend at the SEMOTION Relays in Cape Girardeau, Mo.

"The one comment I made is we hope to look respectable and we were," he said. "Outside of Alabama, we had as many high scoring finishes as anybody else."

The Salukis were paced by junior Denise Blackman, who won the 100-meter dash in 11.6 seconds and shattered her school record in the event by one tenth of a second.

"Denise has overall strength and natural ability in the 100," DeNoon said. "In the relay events, Denise ran some good paces. Denise ran consistently all the way through and the people who ran with her, also ran well."

The 4 x 100-meter relay team of Jennifer Bartley, Karen Cooper, Brenda Beatty, and Blackman finished seventh in 47.66, and the 4 x 200 and the 4 x 400-meter relay teams added sixth-place finishes.

The 4 x 200 relay team of Bartley, Cooper, Cathy Davis, and Blackman finished in 1:39.7. The 4 x 400 relay team of Blackman, Cooper, Darcie Stinson, and Kathy Raske completed the race in 3:52.9.

"I thought we ran the relays well," DeNoon said. "If we would have been in the heat we beloned, we would have finished third in the 4 x 200."

The other top Saluki performance was turned in by senior Connie Price, who finished second in the shot put with a 48 feet, 3.5 inch effort. Marlene Fraum of Northeast Missouri State won the event in 48-5.5.

"Talking to John Smith (a Saluki assistant coach), he put his throwers through a very tough week of practice and I wasn't expecting a performance from Connie at that level," DeNoon said. "We're very excited with what she did."

Price added a seventh-place finish in the triple jump with a personal best effort of 36-8.

DeNoon was also pleased with sophomore Lisa Hicks, who finished eighth in the 5,000 and 10,000-meter runs. Hicks ran the 5,000 in 18:05, and the 10,000 in 37:26.

"There were 20-plus runners in each event and she finished eighth Friday in the 10,000, and eighth Saturday in the 5,000," DeNoon said. "That was an outstanding double."

DeNoon said Cynthia Joy and Laurie Dvorak performed well in the javelin. Joy finished third in 138-9, and Dvorak was fourth in 136-7.

Despite making a false start, sophomore Karen Cooper shattered her school record in the 400-meter hurdles and finished fourth with a time of 1:01.

The women's track team returns to action Saturday in the Murray State Invitational at Murray, Ky.

Crenshaw hopes to regain old form at 49th Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — This will obviously be a week filled with memories for Ben Crenshaw. He only hopes that it will also be a week filled with good golf.

"You've got to come to Augusta in a positive frame of mind," said Crenshaw as practice rounds began in advance of the 49th Masters.

"If you don't the course will beat you."

For Crenshaw, the last few years have held a disappointingly few number of positive moments.

The overwhelming exception, of course, was his Masters victory a year ago — a win that was popular throughout the golfing community and brought an immeasurable amount of relief to the player himself.

Crenshaw and most of the best players in golf returned to Augusta Monday to begin preparations in sunny, if slightly cool, conditions.

A year ago Crenshaw spent a whirlwind week in Augusta, one which closely followed a decision to obtain a divorce from his wife Polly. With that pressure having been taken off his shoulders, Crenshaw proceeded to sweep pass Tom Kite in the final round and claim his first major championship.

The next week, back at his home in Austin, Crenshaw was the picture of contentment.

He could not recount his feelings enough times. Anyone who stopped to talk would get the full story. And as the week went along, he admitted:

"I'm loving every minute of it." But the euphoria did not last. During the remainder of 1984 Crenshaw had only three top 10 finishes. He missed the cut at the U.S. Open and PGA and finished ahead of only three players among the elite 41-man field which took part in the World Series of Golf.

This year has not started out much better. In nine starts Crenshaw has made the cut just three times with his best finish a tie for 18th in Hawaii.

Last week in Greensboro he shot 75-78 and missed the cut.

In an attempt to get his game back together last month, Crenshaw did what he usually does when his game suffers. He went back to Austin for sessions with his long-time teacher — 80-year-old Harvey Penick — and his college teammate Brent Buckman.

Penick, who later this year will be inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame, and Buckman, head professional at Austin's Onion Creek Country Club, put Crenshaw's game back in order when it hit bottom two years ago.

"I listen hard to Harvey," Crenshaw said. "He knows me like nobody else does. A lot of people have tried to help me. A lot of friends have suffered with me through the things I've been through the last few years."

"But it just comes down to me and my golf clubs."

"I've played some bad golf this year, but you just have to accept things like that. I feel good about my game again."

"I'm still working to find some shots."

"You have to feel you can hit the shots here because if you are not in a good frame of mind you are in trouble."

"Last year on the final day at the 12th hole (the famed par-3 over Rae's Creek) I hit a shot totally by feel. I couldn't have hit that shot the year before (during his slump).

"That is the kind of shot you have to hit here."

Only one player in the history of the tournament has ever won back-to-back titles — Jack Nicklaus in 1965 and 1966.

Rose's heroics enable Reds to defeat Expos

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Like that intrepid mailman, neither rain nor snow can keep Pete Rose from his appointed rounds with baseball destiny.

In a National League opener twice-delayed by snowstorms Monday, Rose drove in three runs with a double and a single to pace his Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 win over Montreal.

Rose shrugged off 39-degree weather by going 2-for-3 to up his career hit total to 4,089 and move within 93 hits of breaking Ty Cobb's all-time hit record of 4,191. The 43-year old hometown hero, starting his first full season as Reds' player-manager, received standing ovations from a sellout throng of 52,971 after ripping a double down the left field line in the fifth inning and lining a single to right in the seventh.

"It was a great feeling because I knew the fans wanted to see us win the opener," said Rose. "I'm from Cincinnati, so I know how big a tradition Opening Day is in Cincinnati."

Rose insisted he wasn't bothered a bit by weather so horrendous that at times it wasn't even fit for football — howling wind that turned rain into monsoons and sudden snowstorms that turned the field white.

"I was just swinging today like I did all spring in Florida," said Rose. "I really don't think anybody on our team felt cold because of the way we played."

"I told my team before the game that if you go 0-for-4 and lose, it's going to be a lot colder than if you get a couple of hits and win. We were aggressive out there today and Mario (Soto) pitched very well."

Soto pitched the first seven innings for the Reds and permitted only four hits and one run, while striking out five and walking two.

"I've never seen this kind of snow before," said Soto, a native of the Dominican Republic. "But, this was one of my best days and it surprised me — because of the weather, because I've never pitched very well against Montreal and because I had arm trouble in spring training."

Buck Rodgers had his Montreal managing debut spoiled by Rose and Soto.

"Rose sure led by example today," said Rodgers. "All the great players have a sense for the dramatic and Rose had a great Opening Day at home."

"This was the first time I'd seen Soto and he came as advertised."

Baseball Salukis win pair of games over St. Francis

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

Gerald Pitchford's grand slam home run keyed a six-run Saluki fourth inning that erased a 4-0 College of St. Francis lead in game two and enabled SIU-C to sweep a pair of games from the Fighting Saints on Monday at Abe Martin Field.

Pitchford, who went 2-for-4 in SIU-C's 9-5 win in the opener, stepped up to the plate after CSF pitcher Mike Burke had walked four straight Salukis, and hit a high fastball over the fence in left-centerfield to clear the bases and give SIU-C a 6-4 lead.

"I was looking for a good pitch. I figured he had to come in with it because the bases were loaded and they were still up by two. It felt pretty good because we needed a big hit and it was my first grand slam in college," Pitchford said.

The Salukis scored their six runs in the fourth inning while coming up with just two base hits, Pitchford's blast and a lead-off home run by Steve Finley. SIU-C was out-hit 8-4 in the nightcap, but managed to outscore the Saints 7-4 by hitting three home runs and patiently accepting seven walks from Burke, who went the distance for CSF (12-18).

The Saints jumped on Saluki starter Jay Bellissimo (3-2) for four runs and six hits in the first four innings, while Burke held SIU-C without a hit until Finley's shot sailed over the right field wall in the bottom of the fourth.

Designated hitter Robert Jones capped off the game's scoring with a high, towering home run to center field which accounted for SIU-C's seventh. See PAIR, Page 18

Kerry Boudreaux was forced by St. Francis a double-header Monday. SIU-C won both shortstop Tim Trimble during the first game of games to improve its record to 19-12.

Perry scandal shocks Saluki cage players

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Saluki forward Cleveland Bibbens said he was "stunned" by the news that center Kenny Perry was receiving $900 a month from Roy White, a Carbondale chiropractor.

"I had no idea about what was going on with Kenny. He kept it to himself," Bibbens said. "I'm surprised something like this came up."

Bibbens, the Salukis' top player this season, said he wasn't offered any money from the boosters or the coaching staff and didn't think his teammates were offered any money, either.

"You let your conscience be your guide," Bibbens said. "I don't need anybody's money."

Bibbens, who transferred from Michigan State to SIU-C following the 1981-82 season, felt Perry shouldn't have accepted the money.

"In Perry's situation — he is a married man but his family has money, and Laura's (Kenny's wife) family has money," Bibbens said.

"I think they could have survived. His parents were there if they needed them, so I think they could have helped him. I've been surviving."

Last month, Saluki freshman point guard Kai Nurnberger quit the team because he said Van Winkle didn't have a close relationship with his players.

"There were a couple of players that felt that way because Van Winkle has his ways of doing things," Bibbens said. "But he's a nice coach and as far as talking to him, you can always go to him if you have a question and want to talk. He doesn't go to you."

Cleveland Bibbens

Bibbens played for Van Winkle his freshman year at Jackson Community College in Michigan before transferring to Michigan State.

"I'm happy I'm a senior with this going on," Bibbens said. "I wouldn't be surprised if they drop the whole basketball program, though I wouldn't want that to happen."

Junior co-captain Dan Weiss said he had no knowledge that Perry was receiving money.

"I think it was a shock to the whole team," Weiss said. "People expect the players to have all the insight, but all we know is what we read in the newspaper or hear on the radio."

Weiss said regardless of whether Van Winkle is retained, he'll stay at SIU-C.

"No matter what happens, I'll stay here," he said. "I'm going to get my degree from Southern, that's what I came here for."

Junior forward Tony Snooks, the Salukis' top returning player, said he isn't sure if he is going to be back next year.

"I want to stay here but I'll have to wait it out because they might drop the program or put us on probation," he said. "I have all intentions of staying."

Snooks came on strong in the last seven games of the year and averaged 9.6 points and 6.1 rebounds.

I liked Stafford Stephenson as a coach but it came to me as a shock that one of the players was getting paid because he (Van Winkle) said they didn't do that," Snooks said.

Stephenson resigned Thursday after admitting to apparent violations of NCAA rules regarding payments to Perry.

Van Winkle remains positive about recruiting

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Despite the turmoil that has surrounded the SIU-C men's basketball program the past month, Saluki coach Allen Van Winkle has remained positive about recruiting.

"We had some recruits visit last weekend, and we'll have several others visit this week," Van Winkle said. "We feel good about recruiting and feel more involved about some good high school seniors and junior college players."

The first day national letter of intents can be signed is Wednesday, and the signing period runs through April 15.

Van Winkle, who doesn't have any verbal commitments, has seven scholarships to offer. He is losing six seniors to graduation from this year's 14-14 team and the seventh scholarship opened when freshman point guard Kai Nurnberger quit the team last month.

Van Winkle said he hopes to sign either six front line players and one guard, or five front line players and two guards.

During the one-week early signing period last fall, Van Winkle's signed guard Thad Matta of Hoopston-East Lynn High School and forward Todd Krueger of Lone Tree, Iowa.

Last January, Van Winkle gained a third player when sophomore guard Greg Matta transferred from Alabama-Birmingham to SIU-C. Greg, Thad's older brother, won't be eligible until the end of the fall semester.

With the Missouri Valley Conference losing an outstanding senior class due to graduation, Van Winkle thinks a number of teams can challenge for the conference title next year.

"I think the whole league is going to be a scramble and really up for grabs," Van Winkle said.

"I think we have every opportunity in the world to climb into the fourth, third, second, and first spots and compete as one of the top three or four teams in the league."
