New center to help SIU-C students

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

Job training and placement opportunities for students are tentatively scheduled to begin July 1 at the Pontikes Center for the Management of Information, Thomas G. Gutteridge, dean of College of Business and Administration, said.

The center also will provide teaching and research grants for faculty, Gutteridge said.

The center will make use and occupy currently existing space of the College of Business and Administration offices.

The center has received approval from Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit and is presently before the Board of Higher Education for acceptance.

The board must accept the reasonable and moderate extension of this program, Catherine Walsh, assistant to the chancellor, said.

"A reasonable and moderate extension is just a focusing of resources into one definite area. This program is a logical outgrowth of (COBA)," Walsh said.

"The proposal is currently in process," Howard Webb, vice chancellor for academic affairs for SIU, said.

The center's preliminary funding has come about through an endowment of $1 million from Kenneth Pontikes, an alumnus of COBA.

The money was part of an overall goal of a $4 million fund raising campaign, Time For Pride, for COBA.

Rebecca Fines Fournier, assistant dean for External Affairs and Development, said she wasn't at liberty to disclose at this time how much money has been raised.

Time For Pride supports such programs for COBA.

"Time For Pride is the umbrella under which we received this gift," Fournier said.

The money will come in three installments that stretch over a three-year period.

The $1 million will be invested in money-making projects like bonds and only the interest will be used directly to get the center started, Greg White, associate dean of COBA, said.

Gus says trying to get job experience is a trying experience, but the center provides good experience.

Bomb threats cost cash

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Every time a bomb threat is made against a University building where class is in session, students who leave class are out about $22 worth of learning and training experience.

The cost per class for an average undergraduate student taking 12 to 15 hours is $22 dollars.

When a bomb threat is received, professors are required to allow their class to leave for safety precautions. Students must make individual decisions to stay in class or leave.

The SIU-C Security police declined to give an exact number of bomb threats this semester because they said any publicity on bomb threats would encourage the people to call in false bomb threats. In 1987, the security police reported 10 bomb threats and four in 1988.

Manfred Landecker, assistant professor of political science, said the next time a bomb threat is made during a class he teaches, he will leave the building along with his students.

Sculptor creates monuments from life

By Phyllis Coon
Features Editor

World dignitaries and American war heroes, cast in bronze illuminated by track and spot lighting, stand tall in the paneled family room of a house on Chautauqua Road.

The display is a monument to life as seen through the eyes of sculptor Fredda Brilliant.

"What I make depends on what I see in life," Brilliant, who has been sculpting since 1936, said. "I've seen unnecessary wars and unnecessary killing. That touches me, so I do something like that."

Brilliant points across the room to a bronze figure about a foot tall—the Soldier.

"He is on his knees leaning forward on his gun exhausted, but very grateful to be alive," Brilliant said.

On the floor, under the stard the Soldier sits on, is a helmet that is worn by the model of Brilliant's work in progress, which is a tribute to the women of the wars.

"Men weren't the only people who were there," Brilliant said.

Brilliant and her husband, Herbert Marshall, emeritus University professor, are looking for an association to commission the sculptures, Brilliant said.

"The SIU veterans association was very excited about the sculpture, but no one has come back with a concrete offer," Brilliant said.

Brilliant, who was born in Lodz, Poland, grew up in Australia.

Her sculptures can be found in public squares, art museums and galleries, universities and private collections in England,

Australia, India, Poland, Israel, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Blood donors needed to keep school record

By Wayne Wallace

Only 384 pints of blood were donated by students, faculty and community volunteers during the first two days of the University's spring blood drive, Vivian Ugent, blood drive coordinator, said.

As "SIU-C Gives" enters its third day of collections in the International Lounge and Ballroom D of the Student Center. The University is 2,116 donations shy of its 2,500-pint goal, which must be reached by Friday to maintain SIU-C's record as the nation's No. 1 school for peacetime blood drive collections.

"We have a ways to go," Ugent said. "But we're hoping it will build more and more each day. Sunday we had 119 give and 265 gave (Monday)."

"We'd like to see more of everybody come out: students, faculty, staff, community members," Ugent said.

As extra incentive for students to meet the 2,500-pint mark, a challenge from the University of Missouri has been issued, vowing to match and surpass the number of SIU-C donations at an upcoming drive on its Columbia, Mo., campus.

Area residents joined abortion support march

By Phyllis Coon
Features Editor

A woman six to seven months pregnant was one of more than 300,000 people who marched down Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington D.C. in support of legalized abortion.

"She was in the midst of the crowd carrying a sign that read, 'Happily pregnant and whole-hearted pro-choice,'" Beth Firestein, a counseling psychologist at the University Women's Center, said.

The pregnant woman along with many other people who aren't normally thought of as pro-choice supporters helped to set a tone for one of the largest women's rights marches in U.S. history, Firestein said. "That's what surprised me the most," Firestein said. "There were Mormon pro-choicers there and Catholic pro-choicers there."

The march, which took

Progress party candidates want reform in USG

USG candidate says experience is his key factor

By Miguel Aliba
Staff Writer

After considering 35 party names, Tim Hildebrand chose to run under the Progress party ticket in the April 19 Undergraduate Student Government general elections. Hildebrand, a presidential candidate, has served two years as the president's assistant and has been appointed to several student advisory committees.

Appointed by the president, the president's assistant is responsible for assigned tasks as well as substituting at meetings the president cannot attend, Hildebrand said.

Hildebrand said his experience working with the past two presidents has given him a good understanding of what is required of the position.

"I know the responsibilities of the president," Hildebrand said, adding he now works side by side with USG President Bill Hall.

Hildebrand, a sophomore in political science, said he wants to educate students on how USG works as well as what it does for students who need help.

"I want to get the students to come and realize what USG really is," Hildebrand said. "It's a place for them to come for help."

Hildebrand said people this year consider USG "a joke," a situation he hopes to rectify.

Tim Hildebrand

"This year, a lot of people that have come to USG have been kind of pushed aside," he said. "I think we need to spend more time with the students and let them know who we are, bring them, and help them."

Hildebrand criticized the inactivity of the current USG Commissioners saying the commissioners seldom give reports. The seven commissioners are responsible for reporting to the senate current information about their specific area. The areas range from academic affairs to student welfare.

"Dealing with committees, committees as a whole at USG stink," Hildebrand said.

Hildebrand said it was the responsibility of the chief of staff to manage the commissions, a job that has not been done well.

Of the 51 senatorial candidates in the race, 33 are running under the Progress party ticket.

Senate contender wants to change 'office politics'

By Miguel Aliba
Staff Writer

With reform in mind, Lisa Sproule is the Progress party vice presidential candidate vying for a seat in the executive branch of the student government.

Sproule said she wants to reform the USG to prevent it from returning to what she calls, "a chaotic state."

Sproule proposes to reform the USG by changing "office politics" and working closer with the chief of staff.

"I want to get it (USG) back together," Sproule said. "I think it has fallen apart and I want to push for USG to get back on the good side of everyone."

"Everyone looks at USG at this University as kind of a joke," Sproule said. "Not exactly right now, but as of what happened last semester with the Julian Taylor incidences and the impeachment wars that were going on."

Sproule, a sophomore in political science, was appointed to the senate in October of 1988. One month later she was elected by the senate to the USG Finance Committee where she currently serves.

Sproule said she got involved in student government near the end of last semester's impeachment wars, a time she remembers as being filled with political confrontations.

Sproule said a former senator, who helped her obtain a senatorial seat, wanted to influence her vote against the Juliana Taylor impeachment.

"Just because he (former senator) got me involved doesn't mean I was going to vote with him, which he thought I was."

Sproule voted for the Juliana Taylor impeachment. "I stuck to my own opinion," she said, adding that once she has made up her mind on an issue no one could change it.

Though Sproule has had less than a year experience in the senate, she is convinced she can fulfill her role as vice president if elected.

"I believe I'm qualified just like the next person," Sproule said. "I have always been a student leader, back in high school I've always been a leader.... I think I'm perfectly qualified."

Sproule said open communication between Hildebrand and herself will allow them to work well together and serve the students' needs.

Progress party states issue stance

The Progress party platform includes:

- Getting new parking lots.
- Instituting computerized meal tickets for on and off campus students.
- Extending Bursar office hours.
- Extending Library hours on the weekends.
- Extending the Paner computer lab hours to 24 hours a day.
- Combining the staff and student directory.
- Having all students enroll in a Black American Studies class to show the administration there is overwhelming support for it.
- Lobbying for an educational tax increase.
- Getting two major fast-food restaurants into the Student Center.
- Establishing a University on-campus towing service.
- Supporting responsible alcohol consumption at University events.
- Establishing a mass transit system by fall of 1990.
- Providing a catalog with class and instructor evaluations.

DE says goodbye to 'Mr. Education'

FORMER STATE SEN. John G. Gilbert died Friday morning. He left behind him a legacy of a Southern Illinois University whose development he contributed to greatly during his 12-year-reign, part of that time as Republican chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

Gilbert teamed with then University President Delyte Morris to bring money into the University. Gilbert was an influential but soft spoken senator who supported public money for public education but fought attempts to pay for private schools through the public rolls. His committee consistently voted down recommendations for private schools despite heavy lobbying from religious groups.

YET GILBERT was a conservative. He supported higher education, but didn't believe that students should vote in the districts where they went to school, unless they were married and paid for their education. During the 1970 University riots, Gilbert recommended to Gov. Richard Ogilvie that the University not be closed and said that stronger steps should be taken against student insurrection. From 1948 to 1956 Gilbert was Jackson County States' Attorney.

The 1933 graduate of the University later in life was to be elected to the SIU Foundation Board of Directors, and in 1984 he began raising money for prevention of the disease that would eventually kill him — cancer.

APPOINTED BY Gov. James R. Thompson in 1977, Gilbert became the first Southern Illinoisan appointed to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Sen. Paul Simon said, "In the field of education, he contributed immensely. SIU wouldn't be what it is today without John Gilbert's efforts."

The Daily Egyptian says goodbye to "Mr. Education."

Opinions from elsewhere

Kansas City Star

Shed no tears for the U.S. semiconductor industry, which has been complaining about access to the Japanese market for more than two years. It turns out that while its lobbyists prowled the halls of the Capitol seeking trade protection, major producers are cleaning up in Japan. This industry is trying to pick our pockets with higher tariffs even as its Japanese sales figures are taking off.

Intel Corp.'s chip sales in Japan were up 72 percent last year. Motorola Inc. was up 60 percent. Texas Instruments Inc. rose 47 percent.

Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher has been calling for a "fair" share of the supposedly "closed" Japanese market, but if Mosbacher has found the magic talisman that tells us all what "fair" is, he should let everyone in on the secret.

Semiconductor manufacturers say higher sales do not necessarily translate into an expanding market share, which is true. But it's also true that this impressive sales growth does not jibe with the sob story being sold in Washington.

Part of the reason for the sales growth is that American companies are playing a smarter game. They are being more patient. They are showing more concern for quality and service. Salesmen have occasionally hand-delivered chips in suitcases to meet shortages, and the biggest producers have built factories in Japan. As a result, they are being treated as if they were Japanese companies.

Some companies are establishing closer working relationships with their customers. Sony incorporated a Motorola chip into its plans for a new video camera after Motorola officials revealed blueprints of its latest chip design. When the camera appeared on the market, Sony competitors took it apart, saw the American chip and began calling Motorola with their own orders.

Yes, it will take time before American producers completely break through the Japanese tendency to buy Japanese. But the galloping U.S. sales figures hardly justify the gnashing of teeth on this side of the Pacific.

U.S. semiconductor companies now have a 10.8 percent share of the Japanese market. Washington says that should be 15 percent by the end of the year, based on a much-disputed side letter to a 1986 semiconductor trade agreement.

Demanding these pre-arranged market shares is unreasonable, especially since the presumed penalty for non-compliance is higher punitive tariffs that will penalize American consumers by raising prices. It makes little sense to undermine the purchasing power of Americans for the sake of an industry that is enjoying such impressive sales growth.

Higher education only for 'elite'

Dear President Guyon, I came to SIU in the spring of 1987 on an academic scholarship from the Office of New Students Admissions as well as a Merit Recognition Scholarship from the ISSC.

When these scholarships were exhausted, I actively sought out a way to continue to afford SIU.

The extent of advice given to me was to fill out an ACT-PPS form and hope for a Pell Grant. At no time was I given information about scholarships, loans or grants that I, as an honors student, may apply for.

I then took on the burden of paying for my education myself and continued to apply myself academically and progress rapidly toward a degree when tuition increases were imposed and I was forced to become a half-time student so that I could work the maximum amount of hours at a campus job.

This slowed my progress to a near halt, but with personal loans from friends and relatives, as well as an understanding landlord, I struggled by. When the most recent increase in tuition was announced, I knew that I could not keep building the debt I had incurred and found myself unable to afford SIU any longer.

Although I understand that no one person may take the blame for these increases, I cannot help but point a finger at you in having failed your responsibility of providing affordable education to SIU students, as you have greater influence and political power than I or any vote I have cast.

At the time of the latest tuition increase, I had completed many of the General Education courses and some of the core requirements for my degree.

Had I been able to afford to obtain a degree, these classes would be an integral part of my life as this degree would surely make me a valuable employee.

However, since I have been financially forced out of higher education, without a degree, I find doors being shut in my face by prospective employers and the classes I have taken are completely useless.

Higher education has put me in massive debt, unemployed, on welfare and soon a collection agency will be asking me about my roll in it.

It is obvious to me that my good grades are not important to you or your University. It is obvious to me that you do not stand behind your ardent verbal support of higher education for anyone but a select caste of ruling elite.

It is also obvious to me that I have wasted the past two years of my life in addition to thousands of dollars of my own money in the pursuit of a degree at SIU.

Included in this amount of effort I have wasted is the outstanding sum of $187.88. This may seem like a small amount to you, but to an unemployed college drop-out it is a massive amount.

I have every intention of paying the $187.88 I owe SIU as I realize I made a commitment of paying for my attendance there, but since both you and SIU have failed in your obligation to provide affordable education to SIU students, I am putting this at the bottom of my list of bills to pay. — Eric Pounder, Chicago.

More to variety than just metal bands

This letter is in response to Mike Edward's letter in the April 7 DE about heavy metal at SIU.

What kind of joker are you? I'm going to stomp all over your buzz by telling you that half the bands you named lack variety. The rest are clones of the Metal genre that are prominently displayed on the kingpin show of variety — MTV.

Where is your head? Oh, I forgot. You left pieces of it stretching from Bangladesh to San Bernadino.

I agree that there should be more variety at the Arena. Personally I'd like to see Al DiMeola, Joe Satriani, Yes and Rush to name a few.

I'd also like to see top name jazz performers at the Arena. I think that the Arena's variety problem occurs because of too many metal bands. The whole metal scene is being contaminated with no talent fashion bands, designed to make money, not music.

All of metal is not like this, although some brainwashed youths will bang their heads to anything that is loud and obnoxious.

Music is a form of art and expression. I realize some metal bands understand this, but the majority express the same thing over and over again.

Metal is a style lost in itself. There is no possible way to stretch it anymore. You might as well have an album that is entirely made up of screaming idiots trying to destroy their guitars instead of playing them.

Sure, some metal tunes start off acoustically, but in the end they're all the same power chords. — Chris Howard, senior, music business.

Editor's note was condescending

After two letters of protest about the fire victim body bag photo, there's no need to belabor the point of the utter insensitivity of the DE's decision to print such a thing. But the following editor's note to these appropriate response. Instead, we got a "lesson" on the merits of responsibility from our patronizing student newspaper.

If we as adults can recognize the reprehensibility of such editorial trash, isn't it safe to assume that we can fathom for ourselves the image of death after a tragic fire? According to the Daily Egyptian, we have to have it plastered across the page in black and white before we can begin to understand the reality that such a tragedy can happen to us and that we better take the necessary precautions to avoid such things.

Editors, stick to reporting the news and drop the sensationalism disguised as "protection" of your readers. Perhaps you will heed a lesson in humility: Admit you were wrong instead of adding insult to injury. — Barbra Brewer, graduate student, journalism.

BRILLIANT, from Page 1

Dignitaries from those countries who have sat for her include former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and former President John F. Kennedy. Talking about the dignitaries brings a sparkle to Brilliant's eyes. She points to a picture of her and Pope John Paul II hanging on the south wall.

"He's a wonderful man," Brilliant smiles. "Very warm and open."

Brilliant and her husband met the Pope on a trip to Rome in the early 1980s.

"Fredda is still supposed to do a sculpture of him," Herbert Marshall said. "The plans and the time schedules had all been laid out, but then the assassination attempt happened and the project has been on the back burner ever since."

The attempt on the Pope's life was made in 1981.

One of Brilliant's sculptures students could be most familiar with is that of Delyte Morris, former University president, which stands in the center of Old Main Mall. She began work on the sculpture in 1969.

The statue has stood witness to one event that has had enthusiastic students climbing it —Springfest.

Brilliant's reaction to the students' presence on the statue—laughter.

"The students who were on the statue were very loving," Brilliant said. "If I were a student I would go up to the statue and embrace it and have a picture taken with it."

The Morris statue was unveiled on April 9, 1963, in Morris Library. In the spring of 1967 it was moved to the center of Old Main Mall.

"I didn't like it in the library," Brilliant said. "It was originally supposed to be out there."

Brilliant said she was told by the University administration that they couldn't afford to build the planned base out of the original stones from Old Main, which burned down in 1969.

"But they could afford money to spend on bathroom tiles and hire an architect to copy the design on the water fountain that was next to the statue," Brilliant said. "Lucky there wasn't a urinal next to it or they might have copied the design around it."

The University administration sees its relationship with Brilliant and her statue differently.

"The Morris statue was a major purchase for the University," Albert Somit, former University president, said.

Somit came into the statue situation mid-stream, he said. He found out that there had been several problems, including a long dispute about how much Brilliant thought she should get paid.

Money just wasn't a problem with Brilliant, he said.

"When I learned about the statue it had been casted, but it was still sitting in Paris because there was not enough money to bring it back to Carbondale," Somit said. "The more I thought about the statue the more I realized that it belonged at the University."

In purchasing the statue, the University couldn't use state funds, he said.

"The Foundation had agreed to pay for the statue, but I think the cost changed mid-stream, so the statue was left in Paris," Somit said.

In 1982, Somit met with Foundation officers who personally pledged money to bring the statue back to the University.

place Sunday, started with a pre-rally at the Washington Monument.

Twenty-two people from Carbondale and the area joined the demonstration against the Supreme Court's decision to hear a case that could effectively overturn many of the protections granted women under the court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade case that legalized abortion.

"Even if the court overrules Roe vs. Wade, we can't turn our backs," Diane Hoadley, a University law student who went to the march, said. "We have to force the courts to follow the majority, which is a pro-choice group."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson was one of the speakers at the pre-rally, she said. Jackson spoke out for the equal rights of women, she said.

Early Sunday afternoon, the crowd had been estimated at about 85,000 people.

But by the end of the day, Julia Pachoude, a graduate student in speech communication, Hoadley and Firestein all estimated the ever-growing crowd at about 600,000.

"We waited an hour and a half to march the mile and a half," Pachoude said. "After we finished marching there were still people just beginning the march."

The press had been calling people along the route spectators, but Pachoude said the people along the route were demonstrators who had finished the march and had gone back along the route to watch.

"I wasn't even sure there was pro-choice in this country, but now I think there is," Hoadley said.

She said what helped change her doubts were the large number of people at the rally. "I really think it was a big day in history," Hoadley said. "It was very exciting."

Firestein said many of the other signs people were carrying were humorous.

"When you walked past the signs, some of them you just had to laugh at," Firestein said. "There were deliberate exaggerations like 'Menstration is murder, save every egg.' But even with the humor it catches people's attention."

Missouri-Illinois Regional Blood Services, was present at Monday's kickoff ceremony for "SIU-C Gives" to formally present the University of Missouri's challenge.

Elias said that blood drives on the Columbia campus usually yield around 2,000 pints.

Harvey Welch, vice president of student affairs, answered Elias' challenge, saying, "When this drive is over, I'm certain that our students will maintain SIU's customary position at the top of the heap."

Another guest at the kickoff ceremony for the week-long blood drive was Itchy Jones, Saluki baseball coach.

BOMB, from Page 1

"During the bomb threat in Faner on Thursday (April 6), I gave my students the option to stay or leave my lecture," Landecker said. "Two students left, but one came back."

Landecker said the students probably felt intimidated so they didn't leave.

"Next time I will lead the walk out during a bomb threat," he said. "I won't jeopardize the safety of my students."

There have been several bomb threats on campus this semester, but no bombs have been reported found.

One bomb threat canceled a GE-B 202 psychology midterm in Lawson. Since rescheduling the midterm for 1,300 students was impossible, the entire grading scale had to be reconstructed.

Eric Landrum, psychology lecturer, said the bomb threats are getting out of hand this semester.

Brandi Freeman, freshman in early childhood development and a student in the psychology class, said since there have been so many bomb threats this semester, students are starting to take them too lightly.

"A bomb threat is an almost everyday occurrence on campus," Freeman said.

Sam Fitch, sophomore in Spanish, said: "I was in class when there was a bomb threat in the Agriculture Building. I think the bomb threats are detrimental to the learning of the students."

Official explains Israeli view on Mideast conflict

Hillel Foundation sponsors lecture at Interfaith Center
By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

"I'm here to give you the official version of the truth," Benjamin Dagan, representative of the Israeli Consulate in Chicago, said.
Dagan traveled to Carbondale to present the Israeli government's side on conditions in the West Bank and Arab-Israeli relations in "Problems and Solutions for the West Bank" at the Interfaith Center last week.
The Hillel Foundation sponsored the series of lectures.

Israel was created as a modern state at the end of World War II when British-occupied Palestine, the ancestral home of the Jewish people, was annexed to provide a homeland for the millions of displaced Jews.
Palestinians are Arabs native to Israel, who were displaced by the conception of Israel as a modern nation. Many resent what they view as Jewish usurpation of their land. Although many still live within the borders of Israel, they are not citizens.

The West Bank is an Israeli-occupied territory that is home to more than 1.5 million Palestinians. Formerly controlled by Jordan, it has been Israeli territory since 1967.

Dagan said Israel advocates allowing Palestinian self-rule within a "cooling off" period of about five years.
"The Palestinians want self-government. If Israel were to give everything back immediately, it would be anarchy, then who knows what? Terrorism runs rampant there, and there is no one Arab group that is in control," Dagan said. "None of the groups recognize each other. Israel is just looking for a peaceable solution," he said.

The political conflict has led to the creation of many Palestinian independence groups, the most famous of which is the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

Although PLO leader Yasser Arafat has said he accepts Israel's existence, Israeli officials do not believe him and many Palestinians will not support his new stance. As a whole, the PLO refuses to formally recognize the state of Israel and stands accused of terrorism by the Israeli government, Dagan said.

"Until the PLO recognizes our right to exist, we will not deal with them in that manner," he said.

The presence of Israeli military personnel and Jewish settlers has angered Palestinian groups. In recent years, the mounting tension has led to widespread, violent rioting and hatred on both sides of the conflict and injuries on both sides, according to Dagan.

"We don't want to kill anyone, but we will use force if necessary. We deeply regret when people get hurt, but our soldiers have to protect themselves," Dagan said.

Dagan said Israelis are not willing to give up what they have fought for and what they consider to be their right to possess.

"It's very difficult to make concessions. We captured the Sinai in '48 and again in '56. Both times, Israel bowed to international pressure to give back the land without a peace treaty," Dagan said. "I believe this actually encouraged the Egyptians in '67. What we are saying is, no more unconditional withdrawal from Israeli occupied territories without a peace treaty," he said.

Israeli Lt. Col. Yehuda Weinraub, director of the Israel Aliyah Center, spoke briefly on the conflict from a strategic point of view.

"Israel is deeply concerned in matters of national security. We must look at the bigger picture in the Middle East," he said.

"The Middle East is a highly unstable area. Not only is Israel caught between bilateral conflicts between Arab nations, but the very ambience, the milieu in which Israel exists is hostile. This is the neighborhood where we live, but in which they play hardball," he said.

"We need that essential period of time to implement territorial elections where the people can elect their own local leaders," Dagan said. "We will not deal with the PLO. We will also conduct a partial withdrawal of troops to reduce tension and friction."

"Then we will begin other steps toward peace. There's no way to solve it (the conflict) now, but four, five, six years down the road, there will be more of an established relationship between the two sides. It will allow us to work this out peacefully."

Official: West Bank conflict needs work from both sides

By Fernando Feilu-Moggi
Staff Writer

Mutual recognition of the states of Palestine and Israel is the key issue to solving the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, a speaker for several Jewish and lay groups concerned with bringing peace to the two nations, said.

Harold Karabell, a member of the St. Louis chapter of the New Jewish Agenda and of American Friends of Peace Now, spoke at the Interfaith Center as part of the program "Problems and Solutions for the West Bank," organized by the Hillel Foundation.

Karabell told an audience of about 30 that he was speaking for groups of Jewish and non-Jewish organizations that disagree with the Israeli government views of solutions to the conflict, and that believe a fast, peaceful solution is possible.

Karabell said the Israeli-Palestinian conflict is not a zero sum game, where the victory of one side represents the defeat of the other, but a problem where compromise and mutual recognition are the most rational, viable solutions.

He said the objective of the peace groups' proposals is to end destruction and recognize the right of the two nationalisms, the Israeli and the Palestinian, to exist in a sovereign territory.

Karabell said the Algiers conference of 1988, where the Palestinian Liberation Organization recognized the state of Israel's right to exist, represented the political maturation of the PLO and the first step towards the change in political strategy that can lead to peace in the area.

Karabell said these ideas of mutual recognition for peace are being accepted more and more among Israeli and non-Israeli Jews who have seen the effects of their government's actions as morally, religiously and politically wrong.

Karabell emphasized the fact that to achieve peace the cooperation of the two sides is imperative.

He said the policies of continuation of the 1978 Camp David accords, a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt, which included a long-run settlement of the Palestinian question. Hostility towards PLO leaders and positions held by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir on the legitimacy of the PLO as representative of the Palestinian people also are steps in the wrong direction, he said.

Karabell spoke a day after representatives of the Israeli consulate in Chicago offered the Israeli government view of the situation, as part of the same program.

Student teaching motorcycle safety

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

The motorcycle safety program at SIU-C provides an education for those taking the course as well as for the instructors. Mike Ashner, coordinator of the motorcycle rider program, said.

Greg Smith, senior in health education and traffic safety, is gaining experience as a motorcycle safety instructor while continuing his education. Smith is one of three student workers who teach between 10 and 12 safety classes each year for the Safety Center. Smith has been an instructor since May 1987, and plans to continue teaching until he graduates.

Ashner said he asks students who take his motorcycle instruction course whether they would be interested in teaching the free motorcycle safety classes the University offers to the public.

Ashner said students who express an interest can be hired to teach the safety class after they receive certification from the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, located in Irvine, Calif.

Smith estimated he has taught 35 of the 20-hour classes on campus and five off campus. Ashner said student teachers provide instruction for about one-third of the safety classes each year.

Smith said there is a great deal of variety in the people he teaches. He teaches high school students just getting their licenses, college students, wives of motorcycle riders and older people who just want to learn how to ride a motorcycle.

"Even if you've ridden for a lot of years, you will learn something in the course, possibly something that could save your life," Smith said.

The next motorcycle safety course, which will be taught by Smith, will be held this weekend at the Safety Center, Building 56. Motorcycles, helmets and insurance will be provided by the University free of charge. Those interested in taking the course should contact the Safety Center at 453-2060.

Lecture topic to explain paradoxes

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

Paradoxes will be the topic of the next lecture at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Department of Philosophy Colloquium Series.

George Kimball Plochmann, professor emeritus of philosophy, will deliver "Paradox: The Stimulus and Bane of Philosophy" as a free, public talk in Faner Hall, Room 3059.

Plochmann said the paradox has inspired philosophers for over 2,500 years. He said having a problem with two outcomes in direct opposition to each other is often difficult.

During the lecture, Plochmann will give examples of famous paradoxes, will explain how philosophers have dealt with paradoxes and will classify them.

Applications for director being sought

By Joanne Bickler
Staff Writer

The SIU School of Medicine is seeking applicants for a program director at the school's Department of Family Practice.

The program, located in Decatur, is accredited to train 12 residents.

The applicant hired will report to the chairman of the Department of Family Practice at the School of Medicine. The program director is responsible for a broad range of activities dealing with the ongoing development and operation of the Family Practice Residency Program in Decatur.

Another responsibility is supervising operations and planning at the Family Practice Center.

The director also will have to teach courses to the residents at the Decatur program, and is expected to participate in workshops to enhance the director's teaching skills.

As a faculty member, the director will have to design and carry out his or her own research projects.

Applicants must be board certified or eligible for family practice and have five years experience as a full-time physician in a family practice residency program.

Research post in medicine open

The SIU School of Medicine in Springfield is seeking to fill a research position.

The pediatrics and medical microbiology — immunology departments are recruiting a researcher for a position involving biochemical, molecular and immunological research.

A bachelor's degree in biological sciences is required.

Applications should be in by April 15, but the deadline could be extended.

$200 scholarship offered to women

The Carbondale branch of the American Association of University Women is offering a $200 scholarship to women enrolled in or entering graduate or professional training at SIU-C.

For more information, one may call 549-7527.

1989 SPRING SEMESTER FINAL EXAM SCHEDULE

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

- The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed time for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 T TH
09:00 - 10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of the entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Spring '89 Final Examination schedule to be Thursday, May 11 at 12:50 p.m. - 2:50 p.m.

- Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

- Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

Much of what you feel is caused by what you think, how you interpret things and your point of view.

To Your Health

Therefore, if you feel bad about a situation, it is probably because of your view of the situation, not the situation itself.

Many people have "irrational" beliefs and thoughts that keep them from taking charge of their lives. Two of the most common are "I must have love and approval from everyone in order to be happy," and "I must be good at everything I do."

The rational counterpart to these internal statements are, "I would like to be loved by everyone, but I don't need this to be happy," and "I don't like to make mistakes, but it is not the end of the world if I do."

Irrational beliefs keep us from taking charge of our lives since they tend to make us afraid to be assertive with others or to try new things.

In order to take charge of your life, you must believe that you have several legitimate rights. Some of these include:

- The right to decide how to lead your life.
- The right to change your mind and make mistakes.
- The right to like yourself even though you are not perfect.
- The right to formulate your own values, beliefs, opinions and emotions.

When you express these rights, needs, desires and feelings in an assertive rather than an aggressive manner, you will feel freer and have more honest relationships with others.

Assertive behavior is honest and direct and does not put the other person down. An example of an assertive statement is, "I felt embarrassed when you told me to shut up in front of my friends." Notice that this statement starts with an "I" and is very specific. This is more likely to get a nondefensive, open response.

Daily Egyptian given awards in national contest

By Jackie Lay
Student Writer

One newswriter, one graphic design artist, one cartoonist and the editorial staff were among the winners from the Daily Egyptian who received Gold Circle Awards at the 11th Annual College Press Convention.

The Gold Circle Awards are given to individuals in areas where they achieved excellence.

Several college newspapers competed with the Daily Egyptian for the Gold Circle Awards. The three newspapers with the most winners were:

The Daily Egyptian won four Gold Circle Awards for the 1987-1988 academic year in a national competition for college newspapers.

The Shorthorn, University of Texas, with 17; the Indiana Daily Student, Indiana University, with eight; and The Daily Northwestern, Northwestern University, with seven.

Mike Dailey, graphic design artist at the Daily Egyptian, was awarded first place for "Truck Collision." The design illustrated the scene of an accident that occurred on the corner of Wall and Main Streets on Dec. 6, 1988, where a pick-up truck and a semi-trailer collided.

A graduate of SIU-C, Dana DeBennest, received first place for her article "Locking Rack." The article contained a description of Carbondale in its "heyday," from 1958 to the present, outlining the technological and environmental changes that have occurred over the years.

The Daily Egyptian editorial staff was awarded a certificate of merit for "Put AIDS Victim on Local Task Force." This editorial involved the possibility of an AIDS victim to be on the SIU-C Task Force on AIDS, in order to get as much first hand information as possible about the disease.

Daily Egyptian cartoonist Stephen Cox received third place for his cartoon "It's A Rough Life." It depicts everyday life from a satirical point of view.

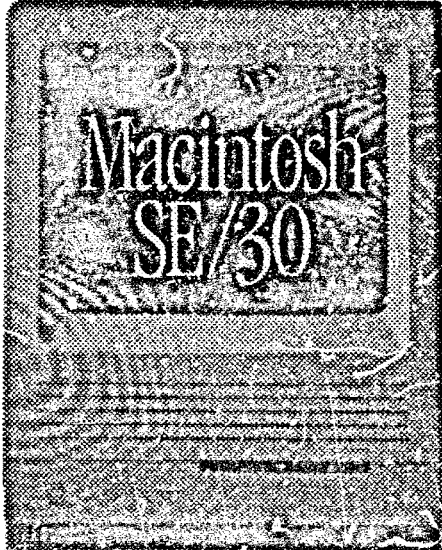

Last year's winners were

Mary Caudle for "Koch Has a Right For Homeless Woes," and "Condoms Selling Faster Than Ever," by Toby Eckert.

The awards were announced at the opening ceremony of the convention held at the Doral Inn in New York City.

Twelve college newspapers, magazines and yearbooks received Gold Crown Awards, representing the top 3 percent of college publications, which were evaluated by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association during the 1987-1988 academic year.

Gold Crown Awards are awarded to newspapers for overall general excellence.

Former FBI agent discusses reasons for being kicked out

By Fernando Feliu-Moggi
Staff Writer

Jack Ryan says he is accused by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of being the first agent ever to refuse to carry out an order for reasons of conscience.

Ryan, who was fired from the FBI more than a year ago because he refused to investigate a group of pacifists who protested U.S. foreign policy in Central America, spoke last night at the Newman Center in a lecture sponsored by the Latin America Solidarity Committee.

In a press conference prior to his lecture, the 49-year-old, former FBI agent said trouble arose when he was ordered to investigate a group of anti-government activists accused of attacking military recruiting centers.

"They were calling peace activists terrorists, just because they did not agree with government policies," Ryan said.

Ryan said because of a series of religious and personal convictions acquired through the years, he saw the action as absurd.

"I could have ducked out on it, but I look another step and put on paper that I wouldn't have anything to do with it," he said.

Ryan said the FBI ordered the investigation because the groups opposed U.S. policy in Central America despite the lack of evidence that the group had committed any violence.

He said his assignment came at time when he was experiencing a gradual awakening on many issues that he had disregarded previously.

Ryan said his attitudes changed on issues, such as racism and sexism. Before his awakening, he did not regard them as violent.

His attitudes also changed with respect to U.S. foreign policy in Central America.

"We have killed," he said. "American weapons, American planes, American bombs have killed over 70,000 people in El Salvador."

Ryan identified his religious views with those of the theologians of liberation, Roman Catholics who help the oppressed, and that he called "the Christianity of the underdog."

Ryan said the policies of oppression are being used on voices that rise against the government. He said these policies "are immoral, violent and illegal."

He said he saw himself as having been an oppressor during his years at the FBI.

After he gave up the assignment, Ryan said another agent took the case and found the pacifist group had not engaged in violence.

When the FBI fired him, Ryan had served for 21 years, and was 10 months away from retirement.

Ryan is suing the FBI for unlawfully dismissing him, and he hopes to return to his job.

"The FBI doesn't lose very often, but it does sometimes," Ryan said. "I would be proud to be back on service, but if I had to do it again, I would act the same way."

SIU Board to consider parking lot

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

The expansion of a parking lot adjacent to and north of the Rec Center, proposed by the Board of Trustees, has been reviewed and approved by the University's Traffic and Parking Committee.

Approval from the Board of Trustees at the meeting Thursday in Springfield would expand parking lot 94 by about 200 spaces.

The board estimates the cost of the parking lot addition to be $275,000. The money to fund the project would come from the Traffic and Parking Revenue Fund. Money in the fund comes from parking tickets and other parking fines.

University President John C. Guyon said the extra spaces will be needed to compensate for the new users of the Rec Center after the reconstruction is finished. The completion date for the Fitness Center is set for September or October of 1989.

The $5.4 million renovation of the Rec Center will include a six-lane 260-meter track, two squash courts, four multipurpose courts and six racquetball courts. It also will include a weighroom, a three-lane elevated track and an addition to the sports medicine office.

The site available for the parking lot is University-owned land, so no additional land purchase would be necessary, Guyon said.

Approval by the board is needed at the Thursday meeting because preliminary steps approved quickly may help the completion of the parking lot coincide with the completion of the Rec Center.

Preliminary steps include the selection of an architectural and engineering firm to be made if the approval is given Thursday.

Guyon said the plans and specifications for the project will be presented for approval of the board at the May 11 meeting.

Schmidt hoping to make possible last year his best

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

PHILADELPHIA — Before a luncheon Friday, a swarm of Phillies fans besiege and beseech Mike Schmidt to sign autographs.

Schmidt obliges. Not grudgingly, not cheerfully. He simply obliges.

A fan asks the 39-year-old slugger how his damaged right shoulder is recovering from offseason surgery.

"That's an original question," Schmidt says. He doesn't look up and doesn't answer the question as he mechanically embellishes another baseball and another program.

When guests are called to their seats, however, Schmidt continues signing and shows more warmth. The Phillies' goofy mascot, the Phanatic, jokingly kisses Schmidt's feet and begs him to sign a picture.

"You got a pen?" Schmidt said, laughing.

Schmidt signs the picture, "Mike Schmidt Hates the Phanatic." Before he hands it back, he crosses out "Hates" and writes in "Loves."

Such is the nature of the tenuous relationship between Philadelphia fans and Schmidt, whose 544 home runs make him the seventh-most prolific slugger in history.

"When you take the total package," St. Louis Cardinals manager Whitey Herzog said, "he's could be a first-ballot

"I tried to remain as confident as I possibly could through spring training. But still, seeing the ball go out of the ballpark and having a couple real good at-bats was something I really need."

—Mike Schmidt

Hall of Famer.

Despite his stature, Schmidt has been jeered almost as often as cheered at Veterans Stadium. In the twilight of his career, in what he says he is almost 100 percent sure will be his last season, Schmidt is facing more scrutiny than ever as he tries to rebound from his least productive season and arthroscopic surgery.

He is trying to appeal for a reconciliation with the fans.

"Why don't we make a little truce right here, right now?" he says when it's his turn to speak at the banquet. By the time he finishes, however, he burns his lips on the peace pipe. "One thing's for sure. We will entertain, whether you deserve it or not."

At this juncture of his career, there were those who believed Schmidt did not deserve another chance. But after many fans had written him off, after one Philadelphia columnist wrote of what a shame "this mortification of flesh" is, after the Phillies themselves had lost faith, Schmidt appears to be showing signs that he still is capable of entertaining.

Although he had just 12 home runs and 62 runs batted in 108 games last season and a homerless spring training, Schmidt has hit two home runs in the Phils' first five games, both at Wrigley Field in Chicago. That quickly prompted the same columnist to write, "I can't believe I ate the whole thing."

Schmidt can believe it, but he was relieved to have the flashy start.

"I tried to remain as confident as I possibly could through spring training," Schmidt said. "But still, seeing the ball go out of the ballpark and having a couple real good at-bats was something I really need."

"You can tell people all you want about how confident you are, but you have to show yourself and them by doing it between the white lines."

Phils' president Bill Giles, who was willing to risk losing Schmidt to free agency, has been bolstered by Schmidt's performance.

"He could have had five home runs with a little different wind direction," Giles said. "Some people said he only had warning track power. Well, he hit the ball a little further than the warning track."

But warning signs still surround Schmidt. He generally expects to perform well at Wrigley Field. He once hit four home runs in a game there and now has 50 career home runs at Wrigley.

His defense remains a concern, since his range now is limited and he has yet to show any zing in his arm since the surgery.

"Most of our medical people don't think he'll be able to play all year," Giles said. "They think his shoulder will break down again. But our medical people have been wrong before."

"If somebody had me enter a contest to predict exactly what he would do, I'd say he would hit about .260, hit 20 to 30 home runs, drive in maybe 80 or 90 runs."

Schmidt, who is candid once he drops his guard, is leery.

"It remains to be seen over the course of the season — hot weather, nagging injuries — whether I'll be able to perform like I did when I was a young player," he said. "I may, but I'm not going to say that's a sure thing."

About his defense, which he was forced to defend during spring training, Schmidt laughs.

PARADE, from Page 20 —

ERA amended

The Salukis' team ERA has dropped significantly since the start of the season. After the first week of play, the team had a 7.05 ERA. In successive weeks the ERA dropped to 6.65, to 6.09, to 5.41 and finally to its present level of 4.89. All told, that's a 31 percent improvement.

Around the horn

The 5-game win streak the Salukis had snapped Sunday by Illinois State was the longest in 23 games, going back to last season's 11-game win streak that ended with a 10-5 loss to Creighton in the Missouri Valley tournament... Doug Shields tops the stats sheet as a centerfielder, as a pitcher and as a batter. His fielding percentage is perfect after 40 chances. On the mound, he leads with three complete games and one save. At the plate, he has 28 runs, 40 hits, 11 doubles, 60 total bases, a .400 average and 11 stolen bases.

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT
In the next few years, the number of jobs requiring a college education will greatly exceed the number of college graduates available to fill them. Employers are racing against time and each other to begin attracting future college graduates to their organizations that want to hire college students to work full-time during the summer in career related positions. Work in your field of interest and gain valuable experience while earning a respectable income $4 a summer. To be eligible you must have completed a minimum of one year (24 credit hours) in college and have attained at least a "C" (2.0 on a 4.0 scale) grade point average.
To get your summer position, simply match your career interests to the needs of an employer listed in our SUMMER CO-OP DIRECTORY. The directory lists thousands of summer positions available in Illinois. With a slight majority of the positions are in the Chicago and surrounding suburban areas, there are still many located throughout the rest of the state. Job descriptions are organized into 53 general categories - Accounting, Advertising, Engineering (CIVIL, electrical, mechanical), Education, Fashion Merchandising, Finance, Graphic Arts, Law, Marketing, Nursing, etc. Whatever your interest, there are a number of positions to choose from. Work with and learn from some of the top professionals in the field. The directory comes complete with application materials and a toll-free number to call for assistance in arranging interviews.
OUR GUARANTEE
For every summer position we list with an eligible college student, MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP receives a fee from the employer for our services. Services to the employer include: being in our directory, pre-screening applicants and arranging interviews. Our services are at no cost to the college students. However, we cannot afford to waste our time and resources on those who are not serious about finding quality summer employment. The scales of producing and sending the directory alone (they are the size of a telephone book) are very high. This is why we must request $5 to help cover the costs of each directory and all applicants and resumes we send out. If you are unable to find a summer position suitable to your needs and interests, you can return them for a full refund. If you do accept a position, under a listing agreement with MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP, the employer will refund the $5 on your first paycheck.
This is an excellent opportunity to "test" your career interests in the real world before completing a degree. Take advantage of the shrinking pool of educated workers. Earn while you learn this summer. Flexible jobs to fit your workload schedule. All jobs provide great pay and benefits. (College students are allowed eligible tax credits for having college students over the summer.) So, what will it be? Fast food like at Fortune 500? The choice is yours.
Don't procrastinate, this can be a very important and valuable summer for you. Send your name, current school address, home address, and $5 refundable fee:
MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP
Summer Applications Dept.
Oak Brook Center, Box 954
Oak Brook, IL 60522-954
Make check or money order payable to MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP.
Directory and application materials will be sent out to you by express mail the same day we receive your request. Please, no phone calls until after you have looked through the directory and know which positions you are interested in.

Men's golf team claims fourth in own tournament

By David Gailianetti
Staff Writer

Men's golf coach Lew Hartzog was hoping for a bit better showing in his own tournament.

With a final score of 616 in their hands, the Salukis had to settle for fourth place in the SIU-C Invitational at Rend Lake Golf Course, just two strokes behind second-place Milikin and one stroke off the pace of third-place Western Illinois.

"The kids didn't play well and they know it," Hartzog said. "But we'll pop back."

Morehead State took the tournament title, combining scores of 300 from Sunday and a 296 Monday for 596. Hartzog said the crown winner was impressive.

"They were great," Hartzog said. "Down in Florida we beat them by one place and three strokes, but they really shot well which surprised us."

The Salukis put together rounds of 310 and 306 for their 616 total. Eastern Illinois took fifth in the competition with a 633.

Individually, sophomore Britt Pavelonis lead SIU-C with rounds of 77 and 75 for a 152, good for a sixth-place tie overall. Western Illinois' Jay Low also scored a 152.

Mike Cowen finished with a 77 and 76 for 153, Mark Bellas with an 82 and 76 for 158, Sean Leckrone with two rounds of 79

"The kids didn't play well and they know it. But we'll pop back"

—Lew Hartzog

for 158 and Dirk Klapprott with a 77 and 81 for 158.

Freshman Sean English shot a 75 and 80 for 155, but his total was not added to the team score because he played as an individual.

Hartzog said freshmen Klapprott and Leckrone played well, and he has been pleased with their performances overall this season.

"Our two freshmen would play well and then hit a bad hole," Hartzog said. "Bellas has been our leader all the way through, but two bad rounds really put him down. He was just not getting his puts to go in, and normally he is a pretty good putter."

Tim Day of Morehead State was the top golfer, with a 72 and 75 for 147 to take home top medalist honors. Western Illinois' Mike Held finished second at 73 and 75 for 148, Pat Strong of Morehead State third with a 74 and 76 for 150 and Brett Taylor and Mike Brumfield both tied for fourth at 151.

The Salukis will next see action this weekend in Kentucky at the Eagle Classic in Kentucky Dam, Ky. It will also provide SIU-C with another shot at Morehead State.

Red Sox new first baseman feels right at home

BOSTON (UPI) — Nick Esasky needed only one game to make a friend of the Green Monster.

Boston's new first baseman slammed a solo homer and Mike Smithson pitched 3 1-3 innings of scoreless relief Monday, leading the Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians in their home opener.

Marty Barrett hit an RBI double and Rich Gedman, Ellis Burks and Jim Rice added RBI singles.

Esasky, acquired in the off-season from the Cincinnati Reds, was playing in his first game at Fenway Park. He had three hits, including a double off the wall.

"Nick Esasky has certainly adjusted to the wall right away," said Cleveland's Joe Carter.

The trade for Esasky was based largely on expectations that his swing was well-suited to the short left-field wall.

Wade Boggs said that Esasky and Fenway Park are a perfect match.

"From what I've seen, from spring training to today, I thought this park was built for me," said the five-time batting champion. "But now I think it's built for Nick Esasky."

Fenway's short wall and the prospect of easy home runs has destroyed a lot of swings.

"I knew the wall was out there, but I just wanted to keep my concentration on the pitcher," said Esasky.

Boston Manager Joe Morgan said of Esasky's home debut, "It's only one game. I don't think he can get three hits every day. Not even Boggs can do that."

The triumph was only Boston's third in its last nine home openers. Since 1984, the Red Sox have a 27-6 home mark against the Indians.

Cleveland, 4-2, was looking to win its first four road games for the first time since 1966.

Boston is 2-4 after dropping its first four games.

Mike Boddicker, 1-0, allowed five hits and two runs — on Joe Carter's two-run homer — before giving way to Smithson, who picked up his first two career saves in successive days. Smithson, filling in as a closer because of the groin injury to Lee Smith, allowed two hits.

"Now maybe it's going to get me the ball more than last year," said the 6-foot-8 Smithson.

Cleveland starter Joe Skalks, 0-1, making his major-league debut, allowed six hits and three runs in six innings. He was the first Indians starter this year not to pitch at least seven innings.

The Red Sox went ahead 1-0 in the second when Dwight Evans doubled and scored on Gedman's single. Boston picked up another run in the third when Boggs singled, Barrett walked and, after a passed ball, Burks blooped an RBI single to center field.

The Red Sox added a run in the fifth when Barrett and Burks walked and one out later Rice stroked an RBI single.

Cleveland pulled within a run when Jerry Browne singled with one out in sixth and Carter followed with his second home run, into the left-field screen.

he won't. He's willing to come out and help us, and we appreciate his effort."

Gooden, who had a team-low 3.13 ERA last season, was penciled in as the top reliever when he suffered an inflamed nerve in his right shoulder.

"You can't question his dedication," Jones said. "You can see how hard he's worked to just get in this position."

The Salukis enter the game with a 14-13 overall record.

Although the Salukis have a 5-9 record away from home, they have already beaten the Purple Aces twice this season.

SIU-C defeated Evansville 8-5 and 15-4 in a doubleheader last Tuesday at Abe Martin Field.

Steve Fisher named Michigan's new head coach

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Steve Fisher, a week after leading Michigan to the NCAA title, Monday was named basketball coach of the Wolverines with the understanding he need not produce another championship next season.

"There is no pressure to win 26 games or the Big Ten title," Fisher said after a news conference announcing he would succeed Bill Frieder.

"He just told me to continue to be myself, act the way we did in the last six games and the wins would take care of themselves."

Fisher, an assistant coach for seven years at Michigan, was named interim coach after Frieder left for Arizona State two days before the NCAA Tournament.

Athletic Director Bo Schembechler said he interviewed no other candidates for the head coaching job.

"His contract is the exact same length as mine — which is forever," Schembechler said. "He'll be paid in line with what a basketball coach at a major university gets paid."

"Now he can get a new suit once in a while. He'll have three meals a day on the table. He'll even be able to take a vacation once in a while, if he wants to."

Fisher, who turned 44 while

Michigan was winning the NCAA title, said he was elevating Mike Boyd to the No. 1 assistant's job and making Brian Dutcher, who put in full-time hours for part-time pay last season, a full-time staff assistant. Dutcher is the son of former Minnesota Coach Jim Dutcher.

"Mike is in the same position I was," Fisher said. "He wants to be a head coach. We want to put him in a position where he can show people he's more than just a recruiter."

Schembechler said he spoke with his friend, Indiana Coach Bob Knight, about Fisher. The Michigan athletic director said Knight knew little about Fisher although Schembechler said the Hoosier assistants recommended him.

Fisher was interviewed by Schembechler and Associate AD Jack Weidenbach for three hours last Tuesday.

Baseball team sees squad changes

Designated hitter's spot finds parade of many player's faces

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Watching to see who'll occupy the designated hitter's spot in the baseball team's lineup has been this season's soap opera. The players in this drama: Brad Hollenkamp and Rick Damico, who both bat from the left side of the plate.

Hollenkamp (.230, 15 runs batted in) seemingly had the duty tied up after getting four hits, including a grand slam home run, last week. But an 8-for-3 showing against Illinois State on Saturday caused Coach Itchy Jones to make a switch.

Enter Damico (.242, 17 RBIs), who went 3-for-10 and had a double. However, Damico did not have an RBI against the Redbirds.

"I felt when the season started our best hitters would be Brad Hollenkamp and Rick Damico," Jones said. "And if either Brad and Ricky were hot, we'd be in a lot better shape. That's why I keep going back and forth, hoping one gets hot."

Waiting in the wings is sophomore Mike Kirkpatrick, who started his college career as a pitcher, but has since moved to being the No. 2 first baseman behind Shaun Lewis.

As of Monday, Kirkpatrick's batting average was third best on the team, .381, with only 21 at bats. Of his eight hits, two have been doubles and one a homerun.

"Kirkpatrick's a gamer. He seems to get the job done," Jones said of the righthanded batter. "But when I compare his swing to Brad and Rick, I would have to rank it third best."

"I keep thinking that once we face a lefthanded pitcher, we'll get Mike in. But we've only gotten a steady diet of righthanders."

Thicker than water

Jones, fresh off capturing his 700th career coaching victory, was the keynote speaker at the "SIU Gives" blood drive Monday. A regular donor, Jones also contributed the first pint. The blood drive, which will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day this week (except Wednesday, when it goes from noon to 6 p.m.), is the result of a challenge issued by the University of Missouri.

Arms and legs

The throwing arm of left fielder Jeff Nelson and the speedy legs of right fielder Ed Janke provided for two top notch defensive plays Sunday.

Two-night pair to feature debut of Saluki pitcher

Kent Wallace, a 6-3 freshman righthander, will make his first collegiate start when he takes the mound today in the lead game of a two-night doubleheader for the Salukis at Evansville.

Wallace, who has a 0-1 record and 7.60 earned run average in 7 1-3 innings pitched, will be followed by freshman lefthander Bryan Oestreich (0-1, 6.43 ERA), who is making his fourth start.

"These midweek games are played to give the young kids a chance to come to the front, so that we know we can count on them the weekend (conference) games," said Coach Itchy Jones.

The first game starts at 3 p.m. at Bosse Field.

Today's games also will mark the season premier of senior righthander Shane Gooden, who spent the first third of the season rehabilitating his right shoulder.

"We may get Shane in an inning or two," Jones said. "The pain in his arm won't be any greater if he pitches or if

Women's tennis squad thriving in Gateway play

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

Judy Auld and the women's tennis team are busy doing their Gateway Conference spring cleaning.

The Salukis made a clean sweep this weekend as they beat conference foes Illinois State, Indiana State and host Western Illinois in Macomb.

Auld said she thought all three matches were very competitive.

"All of the matches were close and hard fought," Auld said. "We won the close ones when they were on the line."

The Salukis beat Illinois State 5-2, Indiana State 5-4 and Western Illinois 5-2. The singles heroes for SIU-C were Maria Coch and Dana Cherebetiu.

Coch won all three of her weekend matches and has now won 11 of her last 12 matches. Cherebetiu also was 3-0 at the No. 2 singles spot.

"Maria and Dana both got three good wins," Auld said. "When you beat three conference opponents in one day you've got to be pleased."

The Salukis were slowed down by an injury to Lori Edwards. Edwards braved a pulled quad muscle that hampered her play, but didn't keep her from competing in all three of Saturday's matches.

With the three wins, the Salukis raised their spring record to 12-2, 8-0 versus conference opponents.

Coach says despite poor record Evansville poses good opposition

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

With a six-day rest and a weekend off from practice, the Saluki softball team will take on Evansville in a doubleheader at 2 p.m. today in Evansville, Ind.

After beginning Gateway Conference play last Tuesday with a two game sweep of Eastern Illinois, the Salukis (10-9) are up against non-conference foe Evansville (7-20).

"You never know," said coach Kay Brechtelsbauer in regards to the team's break from practice over the weekend.

Brechtelsbauer said that in the past a weekend without practice has sometimes been beneficial.

The Aces' biggest wins have been against Indiana State and Drake University, with a 2-1 score in both games. The Aces

"I think they are much better than their record. They are tough in hitting and throwing, and they have lost some tough games to some fine clubs."

—Kay Brechtelsbauer

were eliminated in the second round of play last weekend in the Western Collegiate Conference tournament.

Brechtelsbauer said despite the Aces losing record, Evansville is not to be taken lightly.

"I think they are much better than their record shows," said Brechtelsbauer. "They are tough in hitting and throwing, and they have lost some tough games to some fine ball clubs."

At the plate, the Aces do not have a batter hitting over .300. First baseman Robin Raczke is Evansville's strong hold with a .270 batting average.

The Salukis fare better at the plate with three batters hitting over .300. Freshman shortstop Cheryl Venorsky leads the team with an impressive .365 batting average, three triples and 19 hits. The Salukis as a team is hitting .238 while their opponents are swinging .191.

Junior second baseman Shelly Gibbs leads the team with 20 hits and six extra bases.

The Salukis have four shutouts this season, and sport a strong pitching staff composed of four hurlers. Sophomore Traci Furlow (4-2) has a 1.48 ERA.
