Renovation of Shryock Delayed for Full Year

By Kevin Cole

A one-year delay in a $1,200,000 renovation of Shryock Auditorium will allow the use of that SIU landmark for large-group functions through next summer quarter, according to Joseph N. Goodman, coordinator of SIU Information and Scheduling Center.

The 50-year-old structure, scheduled to undergo a one-year remodeling beginning this summer, will "most probably" be the location of the Theta Xi Variety Show, operas, the Community Concerts and the Celebrity Series during the 1968-69 academic year, Goodman said.

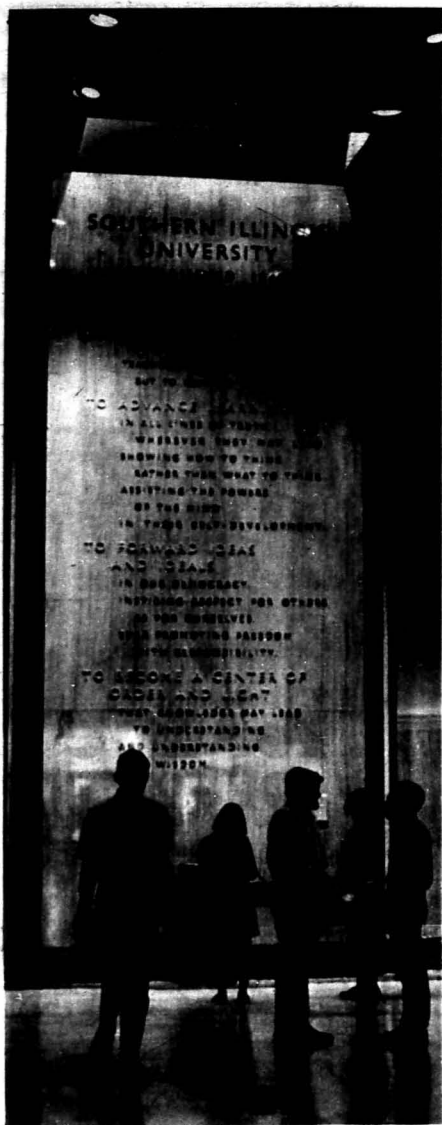

The events had been rescheduled for other locations on campus after the renovation project was announced earlier this summer.

University Convocations, however, will be held in the Arena as planned. Goodman said problems that would be created by rescheduling some 5,000 students and by renegotiating each performer's contract made moving Convocations impractical.

A lack of bidders for general contracting work and a lack of state funds led to the delay.

"Area firms were apparently too tied up on other jobs to consider the general contracting. We thought about drawing up new specifications and asking for bids on them, but then we learned that the Governor was not going to release the funds for at least another year," said Goodman.

Physical education classes scheduled for the Arena at 1 p.m. Thursdays--regular Convocations time--will meet at the University High School gymnasium.

Complaints Aired Over Construction Parking

By Nick Harder

Numerous complaints involving reserved parking spaces for construction workers on the SIU Carbondale campus apparently have prompted the campus architect's office against a University employee group with the chairman of the Parking Committee and the SIU Security Police squeezed in between.

The complaints come from students, faculty and non-academic employees who charge that a large number of vehicles owned by construction workers and their firms, which are located at several sites around the Carbondale campus, are taking up parking spaces which formerly have been allotted to blue decals only.

Most of the complaints refer specifically to the parking lot west of Morris Library which holds about 15 cars. The construction workers occupy a majority of these spaces with their vehicles every day and have attached over a half-dozen reserved signs to the chain-link fence around part of the lot.

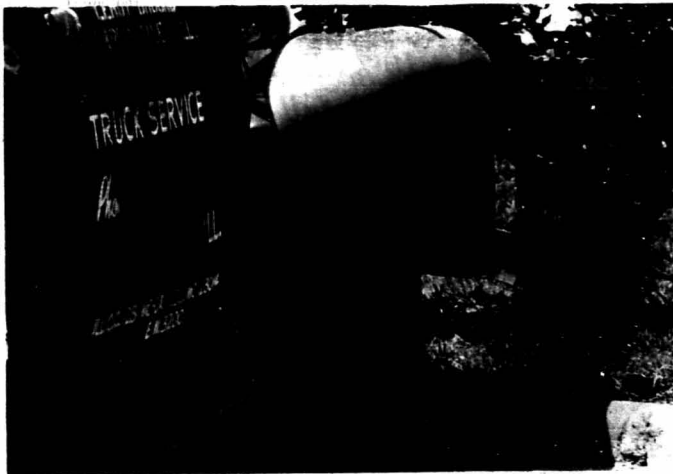

Lee Hester, a member of the Non-Academic Employees Organization, is urging his group to oppose the reserved space policy.

"I'm not so much arguing for myself," said Hester. "I come to work early and leave early so I can usually get a space without too much trouble. It's the people who pay for the stickers so they can park there that are being hurt. Why should someone pay for something then not receive it, while others don't pay anything at all and park there?"

Willard Hart, campus architect, said the reserved spaces for the contractors vehicles are part of a University contract arranged years ago and with the complete approval of the Board of Trustees.

"We could have taken all the spots," said Hart, referring to the west library lot. "But I felt that it would be unjust to those who needed as badly as those construction workers to park there."

'Kaleidoscope' Premieres

New Television Show Praised

Trying to be witty, funny, entertaining, and interesting for over an hour and a half is no easy task, but Paul Dugas' new weekly TV show, "Kaleidoscope," came pretty close Wednesday evening.

The WSIU-TV (Channel 8) show followed the format made famous by Jack Paar, and now followed by virtually all late-evening TV shows.

Unlike the network shows, however, "Kaleidoscope" is televised live, which gives the show an aura of spontaneity frequently lost in edited, video-taped TV productions.

Appearing with Dugas on the premier show were singers Less Lannom and Diana Douglas and the Street Corner Society Band.

Dugas also interviewed Carbondale's Mayor David Keene, Robert Dreher, director of SIU's famous Crime and Corrections Center, and Saulo Musoke, the "attorney general" of Uganda.

Keene gave a matter-of-fact, off-the-cuff appraisal of what he termed the narrow-mindedness of many political figures in southern Illinois. Keene was also critical of many Carbondale residents who call him up to demand "law and order" in the prosecution of students and minority groups. He said "these same people want to forget about law and order, however, when it comes to enforcing zoning and traffic laws."

Dugas said he would invite Keene back to the show for a further discussion of the problems of southern Illinois.

Dugas noted that the show will make a special effort to present quality entertainment from the surrounding area, and that entertainers wishing to be on the show should contact WSIU-TV for an audition.

Aside from a few technical problems, the first airing of "Kaleidoscope" proved that independent and educational TV stations can produce quality telecasts without bending under the yoke of networks or syndicated programming.

Swimming Raft, Guard Telephones Installed at Lake

The Physical Plant Construction Division has installed a new swim raft in Lake - on - the - Campus Wednesday, according to Herman Summers, project manager of the plant.

Ordered from a marine equipment company in Oklahoma, the 30 foot by 30 foot raft is much larger than the old one.

Other lake improvements now in progress include installation of telephones on lifeguard chairs and two new lifeguard chairs.

Cop Has Case All Locked Up

BALTIMORE, Ohio (AP)—If anyone saw patrolman Wes Barton walking down the street Thursday in handcuffs, he offers this explanation:

Barton was speaking to a group of pupils in a Headstart program at a school and was demonstrating the use of handcuffs. He had one hand in a cuff. The pupils asked why he didn't put the other cuff on. He did—then realized the key to the cuffs was in his pocket.

First he asked the pupils to get the key, which they did, then to unlock the cuffs, which they could not do. Neither could the teacher.

So Barton walked five blocks down the street to a State Highway Patrol post where more experienced hands set him free.

Chateaux Photos Displayed

An exhibition of photographs of a French chateaux is now on display in the SIU Museum in Old Main.

Fred Schmidt, curator of interpretation for the museum, said the photographs are of the chateaux of the Loire, the most permanent monuments to the reign of Francis I, king of France during the first half of the 16th century. Included in the photographs are displays of a variety of interesting architectural detail.

The photographs, which are being circulated in the U.S. by the cultural division of the French Embassy, will be on display until Aug. 20, Schmidt said.

Place of Recital Listed Incorrectly

Dolores Cohen's soprano voice recital will be presented Wednesday evening in Davis Auditorium at 8 p.m. An earlier story based on a news release had reported that her recital would be in the Home Economics Building.

Mrs. Cohen, wife of well-known poet William H. Cohen, said that the recital is to fulfill the requirements of her bachelor's degree, not master's, as was reported.

Decision on Birth Indicates Church Dogma Out of Date

Antero Pietila is a Finnish graduate student in the Department of Journalism at SIU. He has worked for newspapers in Finland and the United States and has served as a foreign correspondent for a large Finnish daily.

By Antero Pietila

Readers must excuse this writer for his being still too fascinated about the developments in the Roman Catholic church to discuss anything else. Psychologically this may be interpreted as a hope in his Lutheran mind that pondering these kinds of questions might save his soul in the forthcoming ordeal of a comprehensive examination. This kind of hope most certainly will be in vain, however, as journalism traditionally has very little to do with heavenly affairs and La Fontaine even once concluded that "every editor of newspapers pays tribute to the devil."

Much in vain also the writer has tried to find anything in the press that would back his theory that the real issue in this controversy may be power, not birth control. Paul Johnson, writing in Britain's New Statesman came quite close though.

"He (the Pope) had another choice—to my mind the simplest and best," writes Johnson. "He could have said that, having studied the findings of the commission, and in view of the immense complexity of the matter and the rapid development of scientific invention in the field, he felt it was right to leave the method of family planning to individual consciences, provided they were always motivated by the doctrine of parental responsibility, as traditionally taught by the church. This would have cut all the Gordian knots without in any way involving a refutation of previous pontiffs."

In describing the encyclical, Johnson uses some rather vivid language: "What he has produced is a botched-up encyclical, turgid, tendentious, but yet unclear; wholly lacking in moral or theological authority; and devoid of the sense of social responsibility which a man in the Pope's position should exercise."

He then concludes that the whole affair will serve to demonstrate the rapidly-declining authority of the Holy See, and the inability of the central power of the Roman Catholic church to adapt itself to the age in which we live.

This is where Johnson leaves us. And this writer is prone to think that even if the Pope had adopted a more progressive line in the birth control question, this very same controversy would have developed sooner or later around some other question. For the world has changed too much without the power structure of the church changing in any way and for the first time in its history, the most powerful members of the church are outside Europe.

The Vatican apparently has not yet fully realized the implications of this change, just as it failed to recognize in the middle ages the changes in the political climate of northern Europe. Thus Martin Luther became an agent of change in the hands of German electors who readily saw how they could use his Reformation in order to rid themselves from the economic and political tutelage of the Roman Catholic church.

This supremacy, of course, is no more. But similarly the constellation of power that used to be in Europe is no more there either. Conferences that once were held in Berlin or Rome, conferences where the fortunes of the world were decided, are not held there any longer. And even if they were, the most influential participants would come from outside Europe proper.

It took a long time for Europeans to realize this change. How long indeed is illustrated by Winston Churchill's last term as Prime Minister. Whatever civilian war hero he had been in the early 1950s, he was a Victorian colonialist in a revolutionary age without any real understanding of what was happening in Asia or Africa.

Because of its isolationist foreign policy before World War II, America's scramble to the position of the most powerful nation in the world was not readily realized either. Yet the signs of this development were long visible.

The year 1892 was the last time the United States had an unfavorable trade balance and although this country was still a debtor nation in 1900, the gap between international debits and credits was being closed with amazing speed. By 1914 Americans owned about as much as they owed abroad and during World War I it was America that helped Britain to finance its war effort.

That this change went unnoticed in the Vatican is no wonder as the United States was still basically a White Anglo-Saxon Protestant society. Yet the pattern of immigration had already changed. During the 14 years following 1900, over 13 million immigrants entered the country. This new immigration was radically different from the older immigration in its places of origins, purposes of coming, religious, cultural and economic characteristics. In 1907, the year of greatest influx, about 80 per cent of the total came from Italy, Austria-Hungary, Poland and Russia. Unlike the native population or the old immigration, which had come from western and northern Europe, the majority of these people were either Roman Catholic or Jewish by religion.

The next turning point in this development occurred in the 1920's when the conflict between rural Protestant Yankees and the new immigrant urbanism heightened in the person of Al Smith. He was the first national hero that the urban immigrant Catholic America produced, an Irish boy from New York's Lower East Side who became governor and a presidential candidate of the Democratic party.

It took more than three decades before a Catholic was elected President of the United States but he was elected just as a Jew will be some day. John Kennedy's election was a manifestation of a decrease in the WASP-ism of this society, a process that will take time but which is well under way. And even Kennedy's passing from the scene did not change the situation basically, partly because of the fact perhaps that in spite of the Protestant Texan in the White House there was a Kennedy administration in exile waiting for the right moment to come back to power and glory.

Pope Paul VI

By now the immigrant hordes of the early 1900's have long ago melted into this nation but it is still questionable whether the Vatican has fully realized the implications of this fact. Now for the first time the economically powerful Catholic church is in North America and it represents a totally new brand of Catholics. Although still paying respect to a host of symbols that are essentially European, these new generations of American Catholics have irrevocably severed their immigrant ties to Europe. At the same time the sociological development in America and in western Europe has departed from the old traditionalism and there are new breeds and problems that have not been known ever before.

This verbal criticism the papal encyclical has received in the United States and the highly developed European countries has much in common. However, there is one difference. Europeans criticize an European Pope who may have erred in his judgment; Americans criticize an European pontiff also but at the same time they are much more aware of the disparity that exists between the distribution of spiritual and mundane power in their church. This disparity has never developed into an issue yet because the authority of the Pope has never before been questioned in the American Catholic church. But with today's shrugging shoulders and talking about "that old Pope in Rome" even this may change.

University Objectives Emblazoned in Library Sound After 12 Years

By Mary Lou Manning

To Exalt Beauty
In God,
In Nature,
And in Art,
Teaching how to love the best
But to keep the human touch;

Resting among the famous -- school presidents and state governors-- in Morris Library are the poetic objectives of SIU. The verse appears in metal letters, porcelain filled, on a background of gray southern Illinois marble amidst the gallery of University dignitaries.

To Advance Learning

In all lines of truth wherever they may lead,
Showing how to think rather than what to think;
Assisting the powers of the mind
In their self-development;

During the July, 1955 meeting of the Board of Trustees, a proposal was made to draw up a statement of the University's institutional policy to be placed in the foyer of the then-new library. A committee consisting of Vernon Nickell, representing the Board; Aubrey Holmes, of the alumni, and Charles Tenney, of the University staff, was selected to compose the statement.

"The biggest problem we had was getting together," explained Tenney, now vice president for planning review. "The other two men weren't working on campus."

The committee first read objectives and mottoes of other universities. They studied inaugural addresses of university presidents as well as higher education literature.

Finally the committee drew up the first draft. "The painful part was trying to digest what we learned and put it into writing. The first draft was too long and detailed," Tenney said.

After about 10 drafts, the committee members went over the statement word for word until they were satisfied and the objectives of SIU were born.

Nearly a year later, the objectives were adopted by the Board and placed in the library.

To Forward Ideas and Ideals

In our democracy,
Inspiring respect for others as for ourselves;
Ever promoting freedom with responsibility;
The University found several uses for the objectives. Besides the display in the library, they adorn all public documents of SIU.

In 1958, Reinhard Rutenbeck a graduate student from Germany, took photographs illustrating the objectives. When news of Rutenbeck's endeavor reached President Delyte W. Morris, the President asked to see the pictures and eventually had them published in book form.

Many classroom talks have been taken from the ideas of the objectives, and speakers use them in commencement Speeches. They also appear in all SIU catalogues.

To Become a Center of Order and Light

That knowledge may lead to understanding,
And understanding to wisdom.
Nearly 12 years have elapsed since the birth of the objectives. Much has changed since then. Is there a need for revision?

"I would put more emphasis on responsibility," said Tenney. "I don't believe in freedom to obstruct others' freedom."

"The school's real responsibility is to allow a student to dig up his own facts and relate them to his own problem."

Tenney would also place more emphasis on communication.

"But on the whole, I would stand by them although some of the phrases are a bit old-fashioned and optimistic."

Confusion, Complaints; Parking Woes Continue

"Consequently," Hart continued, "we have allotted only six or seven reserved spaces for the vehicles of the various primary contractors. They've got to have a space for their messenger vehicles which must make runs to town and to other construction sites on the campus."

Paul Isbell, chairman of the Vehicle Traffic and Parking Committee, said that to his knowledge no one has given official permission to the construction workers or their firms to park in spaces near the library, let alone in reserved spaces there.

"Our committee is going to discuss this question along with other parking problems very soon," said Isbell. "As for the library west lot in particular, it's a real problem. It's sort of land-locked with all those buildings and the woods around it. We realize the construction vehicles have to have some place to park; the question is where?"

Isbell also said that "our first move is to try to put the construction vehicles inside a fenced off construction area. This is best but not always possible."

"We're going to try to do right by everyone but it's going to be very difficult."

Hester said that, to his knowledge, when tickets issued by the SIU Security Police were attached to the cars of construction workers parked in the library west lot, the workers were apparently tearing the tickets up.

Captain Randal McBride, SIU Security Police, interviewed before Hester made his statement, said that, as he understood it, the University architect's office had been given official permission to allot reserved spaces for the construction vehicles west of the library. McBride was not available later to comment on whether tickets were being torn up by the construction men.

Hester said he will consult with other members of his employees organization and probably seek legal advice on whether the University has the right to deny spaces to vehicle owners who have paid for blue decals.

In an initial effort to seek information from University officials on the parking areas around the library, Hester said he got nowhere.

"We tried contacting Mr. (Paul) Isbell (chairman of Vehicle Traffic and Parking Committee) all this week but couldn't find out anything. We were told by his secretary that he wasn't available."

Isbell said late Thursday that he had just received a complaint from a non-academic employee though it was not Hester.

Library officials recently petitioned Carbondale campus Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar to review the proposals for a fully metered lot in the now blue decal main area of the library.

MacVicar, at that time, was not certain the petition originated from the Library but noted that most of the signatures (over 50) appeared to be those of library officials. He also noted

He also said the campus mail envelope the petition was sent in listed the last address as the library.

'Rebellion' in Convention, Too

Riots in Florida as GOP Meets

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Liberty City became "occupied territory" Thursday night as National Guard troops moved into a riot-torn area where two Negroes were killed during a frenzy of burning, shooting and looting.

"We've had two killed," said Police Lieutenant Jay Golden.

He said the unidentified victims both were shot by police in the riot area. Four other persons were hospitalized with gunshot wounds.

Golden said he had reports of a possible third shooting death.

Five hundred troops supplied police at 6 p.m., when a curfew was ordered in the trouble area, 10 miles across Biscayne Bay from Miami Beach where the Republican National Convention was underway.

The troops had orders to sweep everybody off the streets.

"They're treating it as 'occupied territory,'" Golden said. He said the curfew area was a strip "two miles by four miles."

Negroes said one of the reasons for calling a meeting that broke up with trouble Wednesday night was to protest "lily white" Republican delegations from some states.

Meanwhile at the convention, Richard M. Nixon plucked Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland out of obscurity Thursday to be his vice presidential running mate, pleasing Republican conservatives but spreading surprise and disappointment among some northern GOP leaders.

Before announcing Agnew as his chosen running mate, Nixon reviewed his criteria that the vice president be "qualified to be president," an effective campaigner and "one who could assume the new responsibilities that I will give to the vice presidency, particularly in the area of states and cities."

Agnew said he is proud of his civil rights record and considers it one reason he was chosen. But he said also "no civil rights can be realistically achieved without the restoration of order, without the abandonment of the condoning of civil disobedience."

Just last week, he told a news conference that police officers should not hesitate to shoot looters during riots when the thieves fail to heed commands to halt.

"If the general public gets used to the idea that as long as you can out-leg a police officer you can get away scot free, the whole system of law and order will break down," he said.

The Republican National Convention ratified Richard M. Nixon's choice of a vice presidential running mate Thursday night, nominating Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew despite an attempted rebellion.

Michigan Gov. George Romney was put up as a rival to Nixon's man as liberal dissent surfaced on a turbulent convention floor.

But the dissidents didn't have the vote.

Sen. Jack Miller of Iowa said he would put the name of New York Mayor John V. Lindsay in nomination, but he never did. Romney didn't hide the fact that he would have relished the second spot.

But before the roll call vote was completed, Romney stood to move that the Agnew nomination be made unanimous. A chorus of ayes, with but a scattering of audible dissent, made that official.

Called 'Deadly Warfare'

55 Policemen Casualties
In Disorders Since July 1

(AP) — Eight policemen have been shot to death and at least 47 wounded by gunfire in U.S. cities since July 1.

In the summer's worst incident, snipers killed three officers and wounded eight in Cleveland, Ohio, July 23. Of the other officers killed since July 1, three were gunned down by persons caught in allegedly criminal acts, one was killed by a rifle fired by a suspect and the fourth was shot after being called to break up a quarrel between a woman and a rejected suitor.

Among those wounded, 10 were struck by shotgun pellets in disturbances by Negro demonstrators in Peoria, Ill., on July 30 and seven more suffered similar wounds Wednesday in disorders in Harvey, Ill.

In Brooklyn, N.Y., two patrolmen were shotgunned from ambush and wounded after they answered a phony call to quiet a family quarrel.

Two black militants have been charged with murder in the Cleveland deaths.

Other police dead include: Detective Robert Gomer, 34, of the Michigan State Police, shot in the back by a rifle bullet Thursday in the Detroit suburb of Inkster while trying to arrest a Negro youth suspected of firing at a patrol car. The youth was shot dead in a chase which followed.

Two other officers were wounded.

A Detroit policeman was killed Monday night after being called to break up a quarrel between a rejected suitor and a woman. A suspect is a police prisoner at Detroit General Hospital recovering from a bullet wound in the head.

A Washington patrolman killed July 2 when he tried to arrest a man on a robbery complaint.

A patrolman killed in Philadelphia July 15 while investigating a $59 streetcar robbery.

In San Antonio, Tex., a policeman was killed Monday by a 14-year-old boy he had arrested.

Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes called the outbreak in his city "just plain deadly warfare." He has agreed to consider police demands for higher-powered rifles, armored vans, shields and specialized training.

In New York, the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association has offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the sniper who shotgunned the two patrolmen in Brooklyn.

PBA President John Casese said his group was "determined to take every possible action to insure that this wild lashing-out at the nearest symbol of authority is stopped cold."

Two other New York policemen were wounded July 3 in Central Park by a man who already had slain a woman and fatally shot an elderly man. A Tactical Patrol Force patrolman was wounded by a sniper on the same day.

In Los Angeles Monday night, two officers stopped a suspicious looking car with four Negroes inside. Officials said one of the men drew a gun and fired and the policemen shot back.

When it was over, three of the Negroes were dead, and both officers were wounded.

Going to Egypt

Finishing up her work at SIU international student services, Orpha J. Richmond of Bushton, Kansas, is ready to leave for Cairo, Egypt. Miss Richmond has been awarded a teaching fellowship at the American University in Cairo to teach English for one year.

SIU Graduate Appointed Fellow To Teach English in Cairo, Egypt

A graduate of SIU has accepted a position teaching English in Cairo, Egypt.

Miss Orpha J. Richmond of Bushton, Kansas, who received a master's degree in education specializing in teaching English as a second language in June at SIU, has been appointed teaching fellow in English at the American University in Cairo for one academic year, beginning in September.

Miss Richmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Richmond of Bushton, is a general adviser and special assistant in International Student Services at SIU. Her duties involve offering advice to inter-

She has developed a deep interest in learning languages and cultures of other countries since she attended Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia, where she received her bachelor's degree in education last year.

Majoring in English and German in her undergraduate study, Miss Richmond plans to study Arabic while teaching in Cairo.

"It's a good way of pro-

Swimming Study

Silvia vs Red Cross

To swim or not to swim--that isn't the question. The best way to teach swimming is.

Laurence E. Holt, under joint appointment with SIU and the A. L. Bowen Children's Center in Harrisburg, has been working on the answer since May with the help of the Center's 240 mentally retarded youngsters.

With his wife, Alyce, Jacqueline Puhl, a women's physical education instructor at SIU, and two Bowen Center employees, Holt is trying to prove the Silvia method faster and more efficient than the Red Cross method of teaching youngsters to swim.

The Silvia method employs such aids as a teaching pole, kick board and an egg flotation device belt strapped to the body that allows the student swimmer to stay afloat at all times.

Holt believes the Silvia method can help reduce the fear some people have of swimming.

Holt recently received his doctorate from SIU and is teaching a course at Southern in assessment and remediation of learning disabilities. He is also serving as a liaison between the Center and SIU graduate students interning at Bowen.

In Broken Window

A broken window was the only apparent loss after a break-in at the Lake-on-Campus boatdock Wednesday night, according to boatdock student work supervisor Mike Casey.

Casey said the window was the same one that was broken in a break-in earlier this summer in which two walkie-talkies, some tools and $10 were taken.

Pacific Assignment

Phillip and Maridell Foster with part of the 3,200 pounds of supplies they will take to the Pacific island of Kusaie, where they will teach for two years.

Couple Takes Teaching Jobs On Primitive Pacific Island

An SIU alumni married couple from Harrisburg will head for the island of Kusaie in the Southwest Pacific where there will be no electricity and no doctor.

Such factors are not stopping them from taking on federal teaching assignments on the primitive Pacific island in the Caroline group.

Phillip Foster, 27, and his 26-year-old wife, Maridell, are taking enough food, household items and medicines to last them two years. They are scheduled to be dropped by seaplane Aug. 26 at Kusaie.

Foster will be supervisor of English language teachers in four elementary schools and one high school, and his wife will be a high school mathematics and physics teacher.

Kusaie has a population of 3,000, of whom 1,200 are enrolled in the school system.

Foster said they were offered a choice in April by the U.S. Department of Interior between teaching in Guam or Kusaie. The Guam site would have been modern, but they felt a primitive island would be more challenging.

They are taking 200 pounds of air freight with them. Another 3,000 pounds of supplies will come later by ship.

One of the items will be a refrigerator, in spite of the absence of electricity, because they will also be taking an electric generator.

They have obtained drugs with the help of a pharmacist, and have been taught how to administer shots. They are taking seed to grow their own vegetables, but no fruit. Fruit is plentiful on Kusaie.

Foster said he would be assigned a jeep for traveling among the five schools. They hope to buy motor bikes for their personal use.

Foster, who received his M.A. in teaching English as a foreign language, and Maridell, who has a B.A.—both from SIU—were married in 1961 in South Vietnam where her father, Fred Armistead, was a member of an SIU education team from 1961 to 1967. Her mother taught in an elementary school in Saigon. The newly married couple stayed in Saigon to teach in high school until 1963.

Lost and Found

Identification Needed To Claim Lost Articles

Lose anything lately? Find anything?

Procedure on what to do in either case has recently been issued by the University Center Director's Office.

If the item has been turned in, the owner may claim it by checking first at the Information Desk in the University Center and then in the Director's Office, on the second floor of the Center. The item must be described and identified beyond reasonable doubt.

In no case will any person be allowed to search through or pick over the Lost and Found items, it was stressed.

On the other hand, if an item is being turned in, rather than claimed, the finder is asked to attach an information tag securely to the item. For example, tags should be put inside front covers of books and notebooks and inside pockets of clothing. A rubberband can be used for jewelry.

For safekeeping, jewelry and billfolds should be taken directly to the Director's Office.

Items turned in to the Information Desk will be kept there one week, after which they will be taken to the Director's Office.

The Director's Office will

Student to Give Piano Recital

A student piano recital is to be given Wednesday by W. Charles Paul. He will play selections from Bach, Schubert, Brahms, Chopin and Lobos.

At the end of each quarter items remaining in the Lost and Found cabinets will be boxed, marked and stored. Several years ago the stored articles were auctioned. This method may be used again but no such plans have been made.

Leprosy Germ Is Cultivated By Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese scientist said today he has succeeded in cultivating the world's first cultured leprosy germs.

Medical officials said it long has been considered impossible to produce the germs and the achievement reported by Dr. Toyoho Murohashi, 54, could pave the way to successful treatment of leprosy.

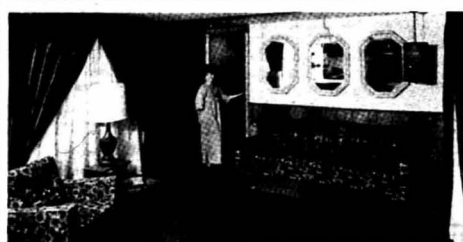

Murohashi, head of the tuberculosis department of the National Institute of Health, presented a report on his findings at a meeting of the National Institute of Health, Japan-U.S. medical science cooperation committee Wednesday.

After adding leprosy bacilli taken from leprosy patients, he said he kept the mixture at 37 degrees centigrade or the average temperature of humans.

Murohashi said he tested the cultured germs on humans and confirmed that the product was leprosy bacilli.

Woman Gymnast's Versatility Tested in Tryouts

By Barb Leebens

To compete as a member of the 1968 U.S. Women's Olympic Gymnastic team, a woman must be able to compete in the all-around event.

Next week four SIU hopefuls will be competing for a berth on that coveted team in Long Beach, Calif. They are Joanne Hashimoto, Linda Scott, Sue Rogers, and Terry Spencer.

The Olympic Committee requires all participants to compete in four events: the bar, the balance beam, floor exercise and vaulting. Each event requires a compulsory set of routines prescribed by the Olympic Committee. An optional routine planned by each girl is also required.

Joanne, a native of Sacramento, Calif., was a member of the 1967 U.S. Student World Games, an All-American in 1967-68 and 1968 Collegiate American Bar Champion.

A junior from Spokane, Wash., Linda was named All-American in 1966, '67 and '68. Sue, from Denver, Colo., was an All-American in 1967 and 1968. Terry is a recent graduate of Carbondale Central High School.

The trials will run for four days which will require each girl to perform 16 times or four times on each event. Total scores will be added up and the committee will select 10 girls to make the team.

About 25 girls will be trying for a berth on the team. The girls will be divided into about four groups of seven each. Each group will perform on one set of requirements and then after the whole is finished the group will continue on to the next event. A girl is allowed only five minutes to warm-up between her performances.

"Being one of the 10 girls chosen for the team is quite an honor," Coach Herb Vogel said, "but this does not mean that you will compete in Mexico City."

From Long Beach, the girls will commute to the Olympic training camp at Lake Tahoe until up to their departure for the Olympics about the second week of October.

Three coaches have been invited to attend to coach the team. Vogel has been extended an invitation, but so far has neither accepted nor declined the honor. Also invited are Dale McClemets, coach of Seattle YWCA and SIU's first woman Olympian gymnast in 1964, and Dick Mulvihill, coach of the Champaign team in Champaign, Ill. "It is a great honor to be chosen to coach the Olympic team, and there are several things that I must consider before I make my decision," Vogel said. "First it is a long time for a teacher to be out of school and second, it depends on how many of my girls make the team."

The choosing of an American Olympic team comes late as compared to other gymnastic countries. Japan for example, chose its women team back in November. It has six coaches for eight girls.

"I would accept the coaching job to protect my girls," Vogel said. "Our girls are already in very good condition. Many times in these training camps the coaches tend to push the whole group too far. You have to coach each individual member of this team on an individual basis so that they don't wear themselves out before the Olympics."

No El Paso Contest On Basketball Schedule

Coach Jack Hartman's quintet will have one less basketball game to play next winter. The University of Texas at El Paso will not appear in the SIU Arena on Feb. 15 as previously scheduled.

"It was not actually a cancellation," said SIU Athletic Director Donald Boydston. "We sent them a contract and there was a verbal agreement to play the game but they didn't return the contract."

According to Boydston, UTEP Coach Don Haskins told Hartman that his schedule was filled and that it was impossible to bring his team here to play.

The Southern-UTEP game was billed to be one of the biggest games of the year.

The Miners usually have one of the finest teams in the nation and they went all the way to capture the NCAA title in 1965 with a win over Kentucky in the finals.

Boydston said it was too late to fill the Saturday night vacancy and thus the Salukis will undergo a 12-day layoff between the Feb. 10 meeting with Central Missouri State and a game with St. Louis scheduled for Feb. 22.

Prestige-wise, UTEP's change of heart will take some of the luster off Southern's schedule. In 1966, the only time the two teams met, the Salukis knocked off the Miners 59-54 and elevated the then small-college quintet into the national spotlight.

However, the Salukis still have an impressive home slate with Southern Methodist, Tulsa, Kentucky Wesleyan, Long Island, Evansville and St. Louis all appearing here.

Hartman, a long-time friend of Haskins, is attending clinics in the southwestern United States and could not be reached for comment.

Three Saluki Hurlers Experiencing Troubles

Three SIU baseball pitchers are apparently having their troubles this summer in the Central Illinois Collegiate League.

Skip Pitlock, pitching for Lincoln, has posted only a 5-4 mark and owns a 2.57 earned run average despite a no-hitter last week.

Pitlock allowed one run with four walks in the no-hit game which he pitched against Springfield.

In 70 innings this summer, Pitlock has walked 39 while striking out 73. As a Saluki last season, he accomplished a 4-3 record while walking 58 and striking out 62 batters.

Salukis Bob Ash and Steve Webber have not fared as well.

Three of Ash's six appearances for Bloomington have been as a starter but he has managed only a 1-4 record. He has but one complete game to his credit thus far and is credited with a high 5.14 ERA while allowing 27 hits in 21 innings of play.

Webber, a transfer from Muscatine Junior College, has not won while losing four games. In four incomplete appearances, he has walked 28, hit three batters and been charged with four wild pitches in 26 innings.

SIU-Tulsa Game To Be Televised In Color Jan. 25

A national television sports network will do a color telecast of the SIU-Tulsa basketball game scheduled for Jan. 25 in the Arena.

The game will be produced by Sports Network Inc. of Paterson, N.J., the same regional network that carried the SIU-Wichita State game from the Arena last January. This year's game, however, will be in color.

According to Athletic Director Donald Boydston, a wrestling match will follow the game, giving the fans a double-header.

The game will begin at 2 p.m.

Eddie Stanky May Sign Up With Cubs??

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Stanky, recently dismissed as Chicago White Sox manager, may return to major league baseball—possibly under his old professor, manager Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs.

Baseball writer George Vass of the Chicago Daily News Thursday reported in an interview with Stanky at his Mobile, Ala., home:

That Stanky had a "firm job offer" from Durocher, although Eddie had no idea what Leo had in mind.

That, in effect, he was fired by the White Sox, although owner Art Allyn "gave me permission to resign after I had made sure my contract was in good order."
