Federal mediator to arbitrate in strike

By Linda Henson

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Negotiations between striking Carbondale high school teachers and the high school board of education may begin Tuesday at 7 a.m. with the arrival of a mediator from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS).

The way was cleared for the FMCS mediator Tuesday night when the Carbondale Community High School District 165 Board of Education voted unanimously to instruct their attorney, negotiator, Charles Hines, to work with the teachers in bringing the mediator to Carbondale.

Before the strike began, the Carbondale Community High School Education Association (CCHSEA), which represents the teachers, requested an FMCS mediator, but the board wanted a mediator from the American Arbitration Association, as called for by the contract.

Don Lawrence, president of the CCHSEA, said Wednesday the federal mediator is "what we wanted all along."

"We would like to get the board to the negotiating table and have some good negotiations," he said. However, the teachers' association would make no prediction of an end to the strike.

About 1,400 students have been kept out of class by the strike, which entered its fourth day Thursday.

No business was transacted at a board meeting scheduled for Wednesday night for lack of a quorum. The board plans to meet every night at 7 o'clock in the learning center of Carbondale High School until the strike is over.

The board said in a prepared statement Wednesday that it "regrets that it is not in a financial position to give serious consideration to legitimate demands."

The CCHSEA has asked for a $300 increase in the hourly base salary, a contribution by the board of one-half of the teachers' contributions to the state retirement system and several other items related to class size and working conditions.

The statement also said, "The board must be concerned not only with keeping the doors open during this current year, but also every other year after this."

Real Martin, district superintendent, told the board at the meeting held Tuesday night that the district has a $120,000 deficit in the education fund. He said, "Whatever happens, we have to readjust our budget. If we didn't have a financial situation we wouldn't have a problem."

Martin told a group of interested citizens that attended the Tuesday board meeting that he didn't think the teachers understood how bad the financial situation really is in the district. Martin said the teachers think the money is there.

Several private citizens asked the board if it would be possible to attend the meetings in order to be better informed of the situation. Hindsman said, "At this point, I would meet in Shreve Auditorium if it would help."

Meanwhile, in the elementary district, the teachers' association agreed Wednesday to the terms of the contract offered them by District 95 Donald Tindall, president of the board said he received word of the agreement from superintendent George Edwards. Edwards had been notified by Marcia Sinnott, president of the teachers' association.

Student senator wants pot decriminalized

By Steve Hahn

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Despite the failure of previous attempts to decriminalize possession of marijuana in Carbondale, an SIU student senator plans to bring the issue before the City Council for another debate.

Bret Pritchett, the student senator, said Wednesday he plans to present the council with decriminalization laws now on the books in other states and with plans for a Carbondale law in an attempt to persuade the council to reconsider present pot penalties.

Decriminalization of possession would mean such criminal sanctions as jail sentences would be replaced by civil penalties such as fines.

The legalizing status of marijuana possession would remove all penalties.

Pritchett said he is not overly optimistic that he will be able to adopt decriminalization, but feels his presentation will help open the door for a referendum on the question.

He said his attempts to complete a petition to force a referendum failed this summer because of student government apathy and a lack of students registered to vote in Jackson County.

City Council member Joe Dukin and Mayor Neol Eckert are in favor of decriminalization, but the other members of the council are either for a statewide law or against decriminalization altogether.

In April, 1975, SIU's chapter of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) failed to get the council's support for decriminalization.

The Illinois Constitution provides that a referendum can be forced within 30 to 90 days. If legal petitions containing 10 percent of the number of voters who participated in the last election are filed with the City Clerk's Office, approximately 3,000 persons voted in the last city election.

Pritchett said he would like Carbondale to make the possession of less than 30 grams of pot punishable by a $25 fine. Present state law makes the possession of over 30 grams a felony, but convictions of any amount of pot generally result in a criminal record for the offender.

Dayan calls for reduction of U.S. arms to Mid East

By Arthur Max

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The United States should reduce military aid to Israel, de-escalate the Middle East arms race and work for a new Arab-Israeli agreement to end the formal state of war, former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Wednesday.

"There must be a way of coming down the hill of de-escalating," the patched-over Israeli hero of the 1967 six-day war said in an interview with The Associated Press.

"The only solution is... not to give us more arms for our security, but to give effect in Ann Arbor, Mich. and Bloomington, Ind., both college towns, but the statewide law in Oregon is probably the most famous. It provides for a maximum fine of $500.

"If I could go to America and make a suggestion, I would say: Cut the billions of dollars and provide us with an end-of-war commitment from Egypt," he said.

But he added that Israel "must have a nuclear option" to offset the numerical superiority of the Arab states and their financial capability to buy weaponry."

Police fire on rioters in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police opened fire on rioting mobs Wednesday in the giant black township of Soweto as black workers and farmers militants trying to enforce a dwindling job boycott. At least three blacks were reported killed by police gunfire and the total death toll was feared much higher. Estimates by local newspapers have put the number of dead at 25. Monday and Tuesday rioting had been their last attempt at a walkout in a white suburb and broke out Monday night.

Two blacks were reportedly killed Wednesday when police fired on mobs attacking homes. A third reporting died when police shot into a group attacking a Zulu man, apparently in reprisal for Zulu attacks Monday and Tuesday night. Police have refused to issue an official death count since Tuesday morning, when they confirmed five persons had been killed Monday and Tuesday. A total of 25 to 26 people had been confirmed killed since riots first erupted June 16 in Soweto. All but three of the dead were black.

Ford names Baker new campaign manager

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford shook up his campaign staff Wednesday, naming James Baker, his chief pre-convention delegate counter, to replace Rogers C. B. Morton as director of the fall campaign against Jimmy Carter. The President told reporters that Morton will continue to be active in the campaign as head of a special multi-man steering committee. Responsibilities of the committee will be announced later, Ford said.

"I want to thank Rog Morton for the fine job he has done under difficult circumstances," the President stated. He then named Baker to head the President Ford Committee, saying "he was a very accurate delegate counter in the pre-convention. He did an excellent job."

Baker, 41, a one-time Houston corporation lawyer, was instrumental in pinning down the last 10 delegates for Ford during the period before last week's Republican National Convention when the President was in a tight struggle with Ronald Reagan.

House Committee votes to subpoena Schorr

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Committee voted Wednesday to subpoena CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr in an effort to find out who leaked the secret House Intelligence Committee report to him. Chairman John F. Flynn said the committee voted 8 to 4 to authorize him to subpoena Schorr and 8 to 3 to subpoena three other witnesses to testify Sept. 12. Schorr has said he would not testify unless subpoenaed and even then he would not discuss sources who gave him a copy of the House Intelligence Committee report.

Schorr has acknowledged he was responsible for publication of the report. The House ethics committee, in a rare statutory action, requested the House order the report kept secret. Flynn, D-Ga., said the committee also authorized him to subpoena Clay Felker, publisher of the Village Voice, Aanen Latham, a writer for New York magazine which Felker also publishes, and Shelly Zalaznick who was not immediately identified.

Second trial finds man guilty of extortion

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — William A. H. Wilson was found guilty Wednesday of charges he extorted $7,000 from the Atlanta Constitution following a dispute with publisher James Murphy. Wilson, who was a former Liberian ambassador, had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the charges, which stemmed from Murphy's abduction in February 1974. Murphy, now editor-publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, was editor of the Constitution at the time of the abduction. Williams, 36, sat quietly as the verdict was read.

New candidates vie for Student Attorney post

By Bonnie Gamble

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The search for a student attorney is actually no closer to completion than it was last fall as a second group of candidates is being considered for the job.

At a meeting Wednesday of the Search Committee for Student Attorney, the president said he would like to have the final decision by the second weekend in September. Jones said the three candidates interviewed last spring had all taken other jobs before a decision could be made to hire one of them.

Three new candidates are being considered. One has already been interviewed and the committee hopes to interview the other two before Labor Day, according to Jones.

No c-tract has been written nor has a salary been set for the student attorney position. At the suggestion of the student attorney ad hoc committee, president, Jones, Ray, Hueschmann, graduate student counselor, and Welch will meet with Jones, Huffman, SIU Legal Counsel, to discuss contract considerations.

Although its advertisement for a student attorney, the American Bar Association Journal offered a salary of $12,000 plus per year, the committee feels it can offer approximately $18,000.

Airport restaurant gets okay for liquor license

By Tom Chester

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Jackson County has granted the new owner of the Sky Room restaurant on the second floor of the terminal at Southern Illinois Airport a class A liquor license allowing him to serve beer, wine and liquor.

Regional Stearns, county liquor commissioner and chairman of the County Board, signed George Dailey's (owner of the Sky Room) license Wednesday and pro-rated the normal $400 licensing fee to $275, because it will expire with other county liquor licenses on Jan. 1. States Atty. Howard Hood had recommended that Stearns hold a public hearing to seek input from county residents and give the States Attorney's Office time to study the legal implications of issuing the license.

Stearns said Hood believed that under state law a liquor license could be awarded to an airport facility only when the population of the municipality the airport serves exceeds 50,000.

Dailey, represented by his Carbondale attorneys, said this was not the case and cited other Illinois airports that serve liquor without meeting the population requirement.

Hood contended that they may be doing so illegally.

With the controversy unresolved, Stearns decided to sign the application. His signature was a gamble that paid off for Dailey since he had already begun construction of the bar before being awarded the liquor license.

Dailey has recently bought the right to the restaurant which he will rename The Flight. He said Wednesday he has invested $28,000 in remodeling the restaurant, which is now closed. When it reopens on Labor Day, it will have a bar, stage and dance floor.

Green Earth buys local land for public use

By Elizabeth Becia
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Twenty three acres of untouched land will be saved for the people of Carbondale through the efforts of Green Earth Inc., a land preservation group. Green Earth and Stotlar Raymond Lumber Company of Carbondale finalized a land purchase agreement Wednesday morning which had been in the negotiation stages for several months.

In a public ceremony the Stotlar Raymond Lumber Company sold 23.1 acres to Green Earth Inc. at $300 per acre. The sale represents the group's first acquisition.

The property is the north-east section of a 130 acre parcel located just outside the city limits of East Park Street. Kathleen Fralish, president of Green Earth, said a public meeting will be held soon to see how citizens feel the land can best be utilized. Steve Sissulak, a representative of Stotlar Lumber, said Green Earth's tentative plans for the land would be an asset to the luxury development planned for the rest of the property.

"The natural area will serve as a buffer zone between the noise of the city and the relaxed pace of an exclusive tract development," said Sissulak. "We feel the two types of land use are completely compatible.

Councilman Hans Fischer said the city is preparing a master plan for acquiring land for future development similar to Green Earth's action.

Green Earth incorporated in 1974 for the purpose of obtaining land to establish a system of natural areas for the people of Carbondale. The land purchased Wednesday was selected from 12 possible sites.

Fralish said any development of the area will be only to enhance its native beauty and provide access to and protection for the area.

Man ordered to complete prison stint

By H.B. Kuplowitz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An appellate court ruled Tuesday that a Carbondale man must serve the last three weeks of a weekend jail sentence he was given in September 1972. The Fifth District Appellate Court ruled in the case of William K. Bose vs Jackson County Court Judge Peyton Kunce has set a precedent by determining that time off for good behavior does not apply to periodic sentences.

In the case, the periodic sentence, which he served on weekends, was one year minus six months for probation time already served.

According to the appellate court, periodic imprisonment was created by the Illinois Legislature in January 1971 as a judicial alternative to probation or imprisonment. The function of periodic imprisonment is to "allow the offender to continue a useful life, support his family and stay within his community while undergoing punishment and corrective treatment for his offense."

The Haynes-Kunce controversy began in March 1972 when Haynes pleaded guilty to criminal damage to property and was sentenced to one year's probation.

Probation was revoked after another incident six months later, and Judge Kunce sentenced Haynes to periodic imprisonment.

On June 7, 1975, Jackson County Sheriff Don White released Haynes from custody after he served twenty days less than his sentence. Haynes was released from jail on probation on the theory that he was entitled to credit under the Markets in Human Freedom Act. The act allows a credit of four days for every month of a fixed term of imprisonment for a misdemeanor.

On June 12, 1975, Kunce ordered another hearing on the matter, contending that the court was pleased guilty to criminal damage to property and resentenced Haynes to periodic imprisonment.

Haynes appealed ruling. By the time the appeals court granted him bond, he had three remaining weekends to serve.

Kunce said the appellate court decision was "setting a precedent for the State. He said Haynes would be forced to serve the last three weekends of his sentence in the Jackson County Jail once the appellate court order was reversed."

"The Haynes case will determine the way periodic sentences are handled," Kunce said.

It is possible to appeal the case. Kunce said his sentence might be reversed in order to allow time already served to be used. Time of imprisonment.

Punishment of N. Koreans urged

By M. H. Ahn
Associated Press Writer

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The United States pressed North Korea Wednesday to punish the soldiers who killed two Americans at Panmunjom a week ago and at the same time agreed to study a North Korean proposal for physical separation of allied and Communist guards at this truce village. Some Western diplomats said the North Korean proposal, made in earlier years by the United States, could help defuse the tense situation on the Korean peninsula. Allied and Communist troops have been on alert since the two U.S. Army officers were slain a week ago in a dispute over pruning a tree. The United States has beefed up its naval and air forces in the area.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Han Kyong proposed the guard separation plan during a 40-minute formal session of the joint allied-Communist military armistice commission — No. 380 since the truce was signed in 1953.

The general, accompanied to the meeting by goose-stepping guards, made one of the mildest North Korean speeches ever heard here even leaving out the label of "U.S. imperialist aggressors," always used in the past for the allied side.

Han also read out a message conveyed privately last week in which North Korean ruler Kim Il Sung termed the Aug. 18 Panmunjom clash "beggarly" and urged both sides to avoid such incidents in the future.

U.S. Rear Adm. Mark F. Freedrich, chief delegate of the U.S.-led United Nations Command, said Kim's statement was "a positive step" and the separation plan may be "a positive step" and would be studied. But still, he said, "Your response is unsatisfactory" because it mentioned no concrete action to make amends for the slaying.

Freedrich said the allies demand punishment of those responsible for the killing and ordering to North Korean troops against physical contact with or shouting at the allied or North Korean guards at Panmunjom. The admiral also insisted on assurances of allied freedom of movement in the area, as guaranteed by the armistice agreement.

them," said Dayan in a wide-ranging talk in the back-yard of his home.

Although out of government for two years, Dayan, now 60, attracts a wide political following and retains his seat in the Knesset, Israel's parliament. It is not known, however, how much influence, if any, he holds in government quarters.

He is regarded as the architect of Israel's lightning victory in the 1967 war and remains for many Israelis a military hero.

But Israel was caught unprepared and suffered early setbacks in the war of October, 1973, when Dayan was defense minister. His reputation was tarnished and his career in the highest ranks of government ended.

Dayan now is a loner in Israeli politics. A year ago he defied his Labor party and voted against ratification of the truce accord with Egypt, mediated through Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Some Laborites wanted to expel him from the party.

Dayan, who said he has no desire to re-enter the government, still is critical of the agreement. He said Israel should have rejected any accord that did not commit the Arabo-to end the state of belligerency.

"We missed an essential opportunity to get a real step toward peace... We evacuated the Sinai passes and the oilfields for nothing in return," Dayan maintained.

He was referring to the Abu Rudeis oilfields on the coast of the Gulf of Suez, which were earning one million dollars a day when Israel relinquished them.

Grant pardons
Let's leave Vietnam in the past

By Robert Wren
Associate Editorial Page Editor

Jimmy Carter ran into trouble this week with the American Legion.
Carter told a gathering of legionnaires in Seattle that, if elected President, he would pardon all those who refused to be drafted to fight in Southeast Asia. While the members were polite to Carter, several gave the thumbs-down sign to his proposal of a blanket pardon.

Amazing. Almost two years after the soul-wrenching conflict that lasted for more than a decade, for all practical purposes, however, our society still wants draft resisters punished.

Carter's willingness to bring the pardon issue to the forefront is admirable, if ill-advised. Certainly he knew that the American Legion would disagree with a blanket pardon.

In September 1974 President Ford set in motion a program of conditional amnesty to draft evaders and deserters if they reaffirmed their allegiance to the country and worked for up to two years in public service jobs.

However, out of 113,337 men eligible for the program, only 21,729 applied, with 14,514 given outright pardons or pardons conditioned on public service work.

How long will the United States' thoughts remain in Vietnam? We came, we saw, and we lost. Certainly the war (the Congress never declared war) was one of the darkest chapters in our history.

It is well worth noting that both Ford and Carter issued their proposals for a pardon in front of the American Legion, an organization whose leaders still live in the past. They remember the glory days of World Wars that were won, not negotiated, and that to fight in a war for the grand old flag was considered an honor.

There are those who will never be satisfied on the question of draft evaders and deserters. On one side, we have the advocates of punishment for anyone who refused to fight in Southeast Asia and, on the other, those who think that no punishment should be forthcoming for those who refused to fight in an immoral, unjust war.
Present system unfair

SIU tenure guidelines belong at grassroots level

By Doug Anderson
Graduate Student

The controversy touched off at SIU this spring when the Faculty Senate proposed new tenure guidelines is inevitable—and definitely for the good of the University. The Senate's intention was well-intentioned, in that changes in the middle of an academic year are unfair to those involved.

To complicate matters, current tenure standards are open to various interpretations. Since University-wide policies are the same, there is only one standard to which all departments must conform, and that standard must be interpreted to fit each discipline's unique needs and circumstances.

Commentary

Under this system, there would be no need for ad-

Unfortunately, the precise practices and procedures used in assessing a teacher's fitness for tenure are seldom clearly stated. An important—and often frustrating—question for many teachers is how to research and teaching. The Daily Egyptian reported that Horton contends that evaluation of teaching is the single most important criterion in determining tenure eligibility. Some people, however, think that evaluation of teaching should be based on the number of publications and other academic achievements, rather than on classroom performance. Others believe that tenure should be based on a combination of academic and teaching performance, with each factor being given equal weight.

Instructors, when hired, know exactly where the responsibilities of the position lie. They are clear, and cannot be easily interpreted. For example, a new instructor may be given the responsibility of teaching a course, but may not be given the responsibility of research. This can lead to confusion and dissatisfaction among faculty members.

Administrators who have never observed the teaching of a particular instructor should not make decisions about tenure. They should rely on the opinions of experienced faculty members who have observed the instructor's teaching performance. This ensures that decisions are made based on accurate and reliable information, and that instructors are not unfairly denied tenure.

The controversy over tenure guidelines at SIU highlights the need for a new approach to the issue. The current system of tenure guidelines is unfair and outdated, and needs to be replaced with a more equitable and effective system.
SIU art professor’s love of Ireland spurs hope of study-tour for students

By University News Service

A professor’s love of Ireland could broaden the horizons, and probably health, of any young artist. And if an SIU-C art professor has his way, some of his students soon will be following him to the Emerald Isle.

After touring Ireland on sabatical leave earlier this year, SIU-C artist James E. Sullivan is proposing a possible study-tour for University students.

"Ireland is a wondrously alive place, full of vivid, light hearted people and possessing a beautiful landscape," said Sullivan.

"After a short time there I found myself encouraging young Irish art students to put aside their desires to leave for the Continent and turn to the inner beauty of Ireland.

"And since returning to Carbondale, I have been exploring any possibilities for our students to spend time in Ireland enjoying the artistic and cultural opportunities I discovered there," Sullivan said.

Sullivan, who coordinates SIU-C’s art history and General Studies art programs, admits finding funding to support such a travel-study program will be difficult in these times of higher education belt-tightening.

"However, a few months ago I wouldn’t have believed I’d be going to Ireland myself," he said. "Then I heard Herman Lantz (professor of sociology at SIU-C) had coordinated a student exchange program with Ireland. He was able to lend me invaluable assistance in getting my trip together." Sullivan was accompanied by his daughter Kathleen, a recently graduated Carbondale Community High School senior. She spent much of her time investigating the Protestant-Catholic conflict of Northern Ireland.

"She produced a pretty comprehensive paper for one of her high school classes and learned a lot about Ireland and its people," Sullivan said.

During his stay, Sullivan was a visiting lecturer at the National University of Ireland’s University College in Galway, the Com- prehensive School of Shannon and the National College of Art and Design in Dublin.

There he became involved in SIU fraternity captures award

SIU’s Theta Zeta chapter of Alpha Tau Omega was named first national runner-up in community service at the 53rd Annual Congress of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity held Aug. 18-21 in Indianapolis.

One hundred forty-seven chapters competed for the award, which is given for social service excellence. Alpha Tau is noted locally for its "Jump for Thumps" trampoline marathon for the American Heart Fund, and for its work with the United Fund, the Prisoner’s Art Show, the Jaycees, and the American Red Cross.

helping his students fashion art programs for a variety of groups, including some elderly residents of St. Brendan’s Home for the Aged near Galway.

"Artists are too often inclined to stay inside their own studios to realize their own forms," Sullivan said. "I try to encourage my students to try to apply them and turn to the outer world.

"If his present efforts end in fruition, Sullivan’s students—both in Galway and at SIU-C—will soon be sharing their ideas with each other.

Foxhunters hound mid-Florida town

DELTONA, Fla. (AP) - The dogs are running again.

The running dogs are fox hunting. But what they're turning up are angry residents.

Each year about this time in this largely undeveloped pine forest and lake region of Central Florida, hunters from surrounding communities and rural regions bring their dogs to the Deltona area to participate in what they call a healthy family sport.

The problem is that the howling, yapping hounds run at night — and they're now doing it up and down streets and alleys of residential neighborhoods of this rapidly growing community of 12,000.

They upset garbage cans, trample gardens and send family pets and children into a panic.

Sleepless Deltonans, their tempers and blood pressures rising, are trying to put a stop to it. But they're not having much luck.

The two sides have attempted to find a solution, but a weekend meeting served merely to sharpen opposing viewpoints.

The angry residents want Sheriff Ed Duff to take action against the dogs and hunters.

The sheriff says his deputies are powerless without specific laws.

Network to hold training sessions

The Jackson County Network will hold training sessions on telephone counseling and crisis intervention beginning Monday, Aug. 30.

The sessions, to be held at the network offices at 900 S. Illinois Ave., will be from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. every day through Friday.

The problem is that the howling, yapping hounds run at night — and they're now doing it up and down streets and alleys of residential neighborhoods of this rapidly growing community of 12,000.

They upset garbage cans, trample gardens and send family pets and children into a panic.

Sleepless Deltonans, their tempers and blood pressures rising, are trying to put a stop to it. But they're not having much luck.

The two sides have attempted to find a solution, but a weekend meeting served merely to sharpen opposing viewpoints.

The angry residents want Sheriff Ed Duff to take action against the dogs and hunters.

The sheriff says his deputies are powerless without specific laws.

Robbins, Fender star at Fair

Two of country music's most popular male vocalists, Freddy Fender and Marty Robbins, will share the billing when the twin shows get under way on opening night of the 1978 DuQuoin State Fair.

Fender claimed the coveted single of the year award from the Country Music Association for his remake of "Before the Next Teardrop Falls." Both a country and pop chart hit, it was a whole new career for the ex-Chicago migrant farm worker whose appeal centers on his unique brand of "Tex-Mex country." Robbins, meanwhile, is a long-time favorite in the country music field. A past Grammy award winner, Robbins has a long list of top hits and is almost as well known in auto racing circles.

In fact, Robbins will double at DuQuoin on the opening day of the fair. "What more could a country singer want?" he explained. "I will be riding in the pace car and presenting the trophy to the winner of the world championship auto race." His new album "What More" is enjoying healthy sales.

Robbins and Cash have never appeared in the same field before.

Both Clark and Cash have recently received Country Music Association awards in the past. Clark was awarded the vocal of the year in 1974, while Cash won Entertainer of the Year.

Both Clark and Cash, who make their homes in Nashville, will be appearing in the Country Music Association awards show to be taped and broadcast live on ABC TV Oct. 27.

Tickets for the Fender-Robbins show are priced at $7, $6 and $5. Cypress Cash and Ray Clark are two other country favorites appearing.

Ticket information is available at the Fair Office.

Beach Boys new album: a bum

By Keith Toshara
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

15 Big Ones
The Beach Boys
Brother "BB" 251

The latest Beach Boys album comes after a fairly uneventful four-year hiatus from doing any recording. "Holland," the band's finest effort, displayed the last tuner, save for one cut on the following live album.

This new collection, which heralds the return of Brian Wilson to the group's forefront, just can't match the quality and complexity of "Holland" or "Surf's Up" or "Smiley Smile," for that matter. The seven originals and eight non-agey remains include some Beach Boy harmonies arrangements and playing that have made them famous, but the emotion doesn't seem to be there. Part of this problem could come from the fact that dozens of people play on this album when only the band itself is needed. Everyone from the Captain and Tennille to Rick's licks are complex within themselves. Particularly nice are "Every" and "Beyond the Universe." With Derringer's leadership, the aggressiveness this band has, and a little higher quality in songwriting, Derringer could turn into an incredible band in a short time.

Julius Wechter of the Baja Marlina Band overpopularize all but three of the cuts here, making it look like the band has no confidence in its playing, which has always been pleasing. The inclusion of the eight odd numbers doesn't help matters, either. Only "Rollin' Over" and "Just Once In My Life" have any spirit and character to them. The latter is a hash and emotional ballad.

Five of the seven new songs are authored by Brian Wilson and are very happy, bouncy sounds reminiscent of the band's famed surfing sound, but only "Rollin' Over" and "Theme Song" come over as songs. Instead, Mike Love and Al Jardine turn in the highlights here. Jardine's "House in Cincinnati" is an enjoyable light rockers, and Love's "Everyone's in L.A. with You" is a warm ballad with beautiful soaring harmonies. "15 Big Ones" doesn't leave the profound impression that several of its predecessors did, and we're left wondering if Brian Wilson has come to grips with what his band could be turning out.

Derringer
Blue Sky PZ 2381

The debut album by guitarist Rick Derringer's new, and supposedly permanent, band doesn't allow any new trails with its eight cuts, but it does show a lot of polish, playing ability and potential for the future.

Derringer has chosen three young and fairly unknown talents to play with him, and they all do excellent jobs. Vinny Appi's drumming is crisp and fierce, but he is overshadowed by guitarist Danny Johnson and bassist Kenny Aaronson throughout. Johnson plays with all the fines and professionalism Derringer does, giving Derringer a fine partner to bounce off of. Aaronson's work is very fast and fills in a lot of ground in this very basic group. Derringer himself is very satisfying, singing better than ever and playing with noticeable enthusiasm.

The one only weakness here is the repetition of the songs. Derringer relies too heavily on letting one or two basic riffs carry each song, which practically invites boredom. But, luckily for everyone...

Mondale for Veep suits Daley fine

By James Gerstenzang
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale, beginning his first major campaign trip as the Democratic vice presidential candidate, won a glowing endorsement Wednesday from Mayor Richard J. Daley, dean of the big city mayors.

Daley, emerging from a 30-minute private meeting with Mondale, called the candidate "one of the outstanding statesmen of our time."

Mondale, he said, is "a great senator who has been interested in the problems of America and the people of America, interested particularly in the problems and people of the cities."

The Minnesota senator, in turn, described Daley, leader of one of the most powerful local Democratic organizations in the country, as "one of the truly great mayors of our time."

The talks dealt with campaign issues and the political situation Mondale and Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter face in Illinois.

"Gov. Carter and I intend to campaign intensively throughout the state," Mondale said.

He said a Democratic victory is "going to be a work, hard work, by a lot of people, and I think it's going to happen."

"Illinois will be one of the crucial states in this election ... we see it as a pivotal, crucial state in this campaign," Mondale said, referring to its rural and urban makeup.

The meeting with Daley was the first in a series of sessions Mondale will have with state and city political leaders on his nine-day, 16-city trip.

Mondale also met with editors of U.S. foreign-language newspapers and called exiled Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn "an unusually gifted witness to the oppression of a totalitarian state."

Following the Daley meeting, Mondale said no issue showed the contrast between the Democratic and Republican candidates as well as the issue of problems facing the cities.

"The Republicans," he said, "had 'engineered two recessions,' had no national program for health care and no solution to 'improve the lot of our cities.'"

Both Mondale and Daley said they supported Carter's position on abortion. The former Georgia governor has said that while he personally opposes abortion he would not favor a constitutional amendment prohibiting it.

The Mondale trip, designed to lay out campaign issues the candidate will be talking about, introduces the senator to key political leaders across the counties.

Doctor says prejudice is transsexuals' main problem

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 2,000 sex change operations have been performed in the United States in the last 10 years, and one of the biggest problems today, says a doctor involved in many of them, is the continuing prejudice toward transsexuals.

"Prejudice toward transsexuals has been a disgrace in this country," said Dr. Roberto C. Granato, who performed the sex change operation on Dr. Renee Richards, whose participation in women's tennis competition has been the center of recent controversy.

"I encounter prejudice from the medical community, the nursing community and the lay community," he said. "It is difficult, little by little, that has broken down. Now, people want to learn about the procedure, they want to help.

"In male-to-female surgery, the male sexual organs are removed. The urethra—the canal that carries urine from the bladder to be expelled—is preserved and trimmed to female size, and the skin of the penis is kept and used later as lining of the new vagina. The female clitoris is created with erectile tissue from the penis.

"The vagina is placed in the normal area between the bladder and the rectum. This means the interior wall of the vagina is in direct contact with an erogenous nerve network, permitting orgasm during intercourse. Breasts are increased with silicone.

"The patient is in the hospital for eight days, and in four to eight weeks, she can have normal sexual relations," Granato said.

The female-to-male operation is more complex and not as rewarding for the patient, Granato said, because it is difficult to obtain erectile tissue for a penis. He said he has only been involved in three female-to-male operations.

"Before I consider operating, the person has to have a complete evaluation from a psychiatrist, counseling, and must have taken female hormones for at least a year and undergone all the beautifying and cosmetic processes as a female," he said.

"Then I do it, after written advice from a psychiatrist.

"Dr. Richards, a 12-year-old ophthalmologist, wants to play in the U.S. Open tournament at Forest Hills, N.Y., next week. Tennis officials have demanded she take a chromosome test to prove her sexuality. She has refused to take the test, arguing it is an infringement on her rights and an invalid indication of a person's sex."

Granato said he agrees. He said the test would reveal traces of male chromosomes and is unfair because "sexuality is in the individual's mind and body. Chromosomes are secondary."

New curfew cools city

Gangs' grip on Detroit eases

By Marty Hair

ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's new curfew ordinance is slowing down incidents of youth gang violence and calming the nerves of the nation's fifth largest city, officials say.

But Mayor Coleman Young, maintaining a "crisis" exists in the Motor City, planned to address regional "crises" on local television Wednesday night to appeal for support of his anti-gang measures.

Gang violence plagued the city's streets in June and July, and escalating to a mini-riot staged by youths at a downtown rock concert Aug. 15.

The trouble-makers, identified by police as 120 black gang members, grabbed purses, beat people and police as the arena where the concert was held.

Mayor Young, identified by witnesses as gang members, said Wednesday.

Since the Cobo incident, however, police and city officials say reports of gang violence have dropped. In fact, police say there has been no gang trouble since the rock-concert incident.

They credit a new curfew ordinance, the recall of 450 laid-off city policemen, and a new policy of prosecuting first-time felons.

Young has described the gang members as "Huckleberry Finns' trying to be John Dillinger" and has said the city "is determined never to have another Cobo Hall."

Three young Detroit men identified by witnesses as gang members were arrested Tuesday on two counts each of assault with intent to commit murder and assault with intent to commit armed robbery. Witnesses said they turned the trio in because they were fed up with hearing the youths brag about crimes.

The 10 p.m. curfew ordinance, invoked last Thursday for youths under 18, is in effect for 60 days. The number of youths arrested under the curfew has dropped.

"It's a strict measure. The kids realize this gang action is just not being tolerated," said one police spokesman. "They're staying home and off the streets."

A total of 187 youths has been arrested so far, ranging from 56 in one night a week ago to 19 Monday.

Sniping reported on Interstate 55

By The Associated Press

Four instances of sniping at truckers on Interstates 55 and 74 have been reported to state police, a spokesman said Wednesday.

One trucker, Larry Voyight, 46, of Fond Du Lac, Wis., was treated for cuts after a bullet apparently shattered the glass in his rear view mirror. He was traveling on I-74 near Danville about 9:30 p.m. Sunday when the shot was fired, police said.

State police in Springfield said there were three reports of sniping on the north edge of the city about the same time.

A total of 187 youths has been arrested so far, ranging from 56 in one night a week ago to 19 Monday.

"Where town and campus meet"

Stores will close at 5:00 to prepare for this fantastic sale. They will reopen at 6:00 p.m.

"We have surveillance details on the gangs. These people are just not coming out on the streets now," said Sgt. Don Nash. The additional police curfew detail would be used "until this crisis is over," he said.

Merchants say the number of break-ins at downtown businesses has fallen since the curfew took effect. One group, the Central Business District Association, had earlier said it would hire a private security force to patrol stores at night. Now, association officials said, the special patrol isn't needed because the retired police officers are doing the job for them.

Teaching aids can improve skills through new program

By Scott Singleton

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Teaching assistants will get a chance to increase the effectiveness of their classroom presentations through the Learning Resources Service (LRS) program scheduled to start Thursday.

According to Virginia Riegel, instructor at LRS, "One of the purposes of the program is to acquaint the TA's with our services."

During Thursday's session, to be held from 3-3:30 p.m. in the Morris Library Auditorium, the teaching assistants will be familiarized with the many services available to them through the LRS and other facilities on campus.

One part of the LRS consists of the Self-instruction Center, which provides a way to distribute commercially purchased and locally produced instructional materials to students.

The Student Media Design Lab provides a place for students to produce a wide variety of materials for class presentations, projects and activities.

Also available through the LRS is the SLU film library, containing 3,000 educational films for classroom use. There is no charge for use of the films.

During the introductory session, Judy Willford, the undergraduate librarian, will explain the services available to teaching assistants and their students. "We'd like them to know what is over here before they turn their kids over to us," Ms. Willford said. One new feature of the library is the establishment of a program in which teaching assistants can set up an appointment with an undergraduate librarian to individually work out research problems.

Another department that offers help is the Teaching Skills Laboratory. This facility allows teaching assistants to become familiar with videotaping and other media tools.

The Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Center, which assists graduate students in preparing and analyzing test and evaluation of the Instructional Improvement Questionnaire will also be represented at the program. After the introductory session, there will be individual sessions on instructional communications, planning for instruction, selection and use of media, and evaluation.

Daley orders workers fired due to residence

CHICAGO (AP) - A laborer for the Chicago street department resigned Wednesday rather than face a de facto job loss out of a special suburban school program and move to the city to comply with a residency requirement.

A captain in the Chicago fire department said he may be forced to separate legally from his wife who refuses to move back to Chicago. They are among Chicago employees caught in a residency crack-down.

Mayor Richard J. Daley ordered the firing of all city workers not living in the city or in the process of moving into it.

Frank J. Volpi, 39, a city employee who lives in a suburban of Darien, said his wife and kids will not move into it.

"If they say you don't live here in Chicago because your wife and kids don't live there, obviously you have to separate from your wife and kids if you want to keep your job," said Mr. Volpi.

'President's' vote bound for Carter

By Dan Tedrick
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP)—President Carter wants Jimmy Carter be president.

President Carter, actually President Carter Jr., is a lifelong Democrat who has "great expectations of me."

"I was 14 or 5 years old, I've been embarrassed by it," he said in an interview. "It has helped me make friends, though."

Carter, who has 10 brothers and sisters—one named Scarlett O'Hara Carter and another named Jimmy—he plans to vote for former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee.

President Carter Jr. said he'd like to meet the candidate to tell him that "I'm going to vote for him. I'll be an honest and let him know who I am."

Carter's father, a retired sawmill worker in Broken Bow, Okla., who "does nothing anymore but sit around and fish and get Social Security," named his son after himself and is "really proud of me and my success in my job," Carter said.

He lived in Broken Bow until he was 18, attended two colleges with the idea of becoming a teacher and served in the Army in Vietnam for two years. After his discharge in 1967, he settled in San Diego.

He said he's popular at work but believes he's failed to live up to his parents' expectations—indicated by their choice of his name.

HISTORIC CHICAGO TREE FELLED BY DUTCH ELM

By Charles Chamberlain
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Sequence ushered in the atomic age under the branches of a tree near Enrico Fermi's secret nuclear laboratory in 1942, but it has failed to conquer Dutch elm disease and the historic tree at the University of Chicago is doomed.

"It's rather ironic, isn't it?" said Herbert L. Anderson, research associate of Fermi and now a professor of physics at the university. Anderson will be at ceremonies when the old 75-foot high "Council Tree" is felled Thursday and hauled to a saw mill to be cut into boards for a commemorative bench.

"Fermi and his group of scientists used to have informal discussions in the shade of that tree usually at luncheon," said Anderson. "We'd sit out there and explore things. It was from these talks that things were discussed before they pilled out—just half-baked ideas.

The tree stands outside Eckhart Hall where Fermi had set up a laboratory. Some 100 yards away, under west stands of a squash court at Stagg Field.

Fermi and his team of atomic scientists produced the world's first self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction Dec. 2, 1942, changing the course of history. In 1915, when the tree first took roots, Albert Einstein announced his General Theory of Relativity, leading the way for nuclear power.

The old stands and squash court were torn down in 1957. A bronze plaque marks the spot where the controlled release of nuclear energy was achieved.

Herbert, superintendent of grounds at the university, said he noticed the tree dying last month.

The crown was 20 per cent infected, he said. "We tried to save it with the latest systemic fungicide But we failed."

CULTURAL CUTBACK DUE TO RISING COST

By Louise Cook
Associated Press Writer

Symphonies, theaters and other cultural institutions in several areas of the country are in serious financial trouble, facing declining deficits caused by rising costs. The Associated Press survey of the American Shakespeare Theatre, which is almost closed this year because of a lack of funds, said Wednesday it had cancelled a fall tour due to money problems.

The Associated Press has found that inflation and recession, compounded in some cases by labor problems, have added up to red ink for a wide variety of operations—from Radio City Music Hall in New York City to the symphony orchestras of Cleveland and St. Louis.

Some institutions, like New York's Metropolitan Opera and the Boston Symphony Orchestra, have traditionally operated at a deficit. Others say the cultural crunch is relatively new and they are trying to balance the budget with higher ticket prices, intensified fund-raising efforts and help from local governments.

Violence in U.S. reaches new high

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In an average hour last year in the United States, two persons were murdered and six women were raped. Before that hour ended, 51 persons became victims of aggravated assault. 32 persons were robbed and 112 vehicles were stolen.

In addition, 360 burglaries were committed and 720 persons or businesses became victims of larceny.

According to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reporting Tuesday, the Federal Bureau of Investigation tabulated nearly 100,000 forcible rapes last year. The Bureau also tabulated nearly 7 million violent crimes committed in the United States. Before that hour ended, 55 persons became victims of serious crimes committed by serious offenders.

City squatter prefers butterflies to bedbugs

CHICAGO — Home to Peter Zagoldon is a weedy, vacant lot that he keeps free of trash because he has nothing better to do and his mother always taught him to keep things clean.

Some residents in the high-rise area of the North Side have looked out their windows and thought they saw a body in the middle of the nearby lot. But it was only Zagoldon, 43, stretching beneath his blankets and shuffling off the dew before starting his household chores of cleaning up paper, rocks and weeds in the lot he calls home.

"He’s always tiding up and the other day he even swept the alley,” said one woman.

Zagoldon, a native Chicagoan who is between jobs as a day laborer, said he collects $10 a month in welfare and eats at aassen and other hand-out spots near downtown.

"I also collect bottles and sell them to supermarkets for tobacco money,” he said. "I prefer sleeping out here, but I usually flop in the upstairs lot because they don’t let you stay in the park after 11 p.m."

If there is a difference between the two men, they want to charge $45 and $50 a week. Can you imagine that?" —

Police and the neighbors don’t bother him, said Zagoldon.

Horns of plenty

In a sea of derbies and brass are the members of the SIU Saluki Marching Band. The marching band needs French horn, baritone, clarinet players and others to fill the ranks of the band, said Mike Hanes, leader of the marching band.

Marching band needs students for positions

French horn players, baritones and clarinet players are some of the positions not yet filled in this year's Southern Illinois University Carbondale Saluki Marching Band. Students with an ability to play these as well as other instruments are needed to fill the ranks of the SHU's marching band.

"There is no limit on members," said Mike Hanes, band leader and assistant professor of music. Last year's band included 106 members and Hanes hopes to see at least 120 this year. "The bigger, the better," Hanes said.

Many applications have already been accepted and the percussion section is already filled, but Hanes said that many positions are still open. All members are offered two hours of credit in the school of music but usually only 80 per cent are music majors.

"With today's marching bands becoming increasingly popular," Hanes said, "more emphasis is being placed on sight and sound rather than on sound alone." The Saluki Marching Band uniform consists of a tuxedo, Hamburg hat and colorful armbands.

Don't alienate voters, urges conservative

CHICAGO (AP) — The chairman of the American Independent Party urged national convention delegates Wednesday to adopt a pragmatic party platform that would not unnecessarily alienate voters. "You have to get the grass down to where the grass can get it. You have to go to the platform to the issues that concern the average American people," said San Diego attorney William K. Shearer, who founded the conservative group in 1966. Speaking to the opening session of the AIP platform committee, Shearer recommended adoption of a platform that would be appealing to farmers and blue-collar workers in industrial areas, not to those in upper-income, salt-water districts.

"Martians" joke gets no laughs

OWENSBORO, Ky., AP (AP) - Bernard Wink and Ronnye Bell Bacon thought their practical joke would trigger laughter, but the two Martians ended up being sentenced for overlooking a city ordinance.

They thought the Martians in aluminum masks, gloves and antlers—a gray morning visit to a grocery store where their friend lived—Larry Mofield, worked as a clerk. Mofield called police, because "at 2 a.m., you never know if you're going to be robbed or not." Wink, 18, and Bacon, 34, were charged with violating a city ordinance that forbids persons aged 12 and over from wearing masks inside the city and were sentenced to 20 hours of volunteer work.
Female cadet begins to have doubts if West Point life worth the rigors

By Malcolm N. Carter Associated Press Writer
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) -

Candice Butler has shed her pockedot blazer for a pair of olive-green fatigues. But she's not sure the change is worth it.

Midway through the first two months of arduous basic training that is commonly called "beast barracks," she was asked on a sweaty day whether she'll graduate for the U.S. Military Academy in four years.

"Well, I'm thinking about it," the 19-year-old cadet from Upper Arlington, Ohio, confesses. "I'm trying hard.

Is she having doubts?

"Some, yes. But I'm just hoping I get through the physical training part of it. I'm not worried about mental pressure at all, but I get very bad leg cramps during the runs, and that's holding me back somewhat.

Since Cadet Butler and 118 other cadets ended a 174-year-old tradition of male exclusivity here on July 7, 19 women and 95 men of a total 213 cadets have left. That's normal, the academy says.

"She's questioning herself more every day as to why she's here," Cadet Butler's roommate, Regina Todd, 21, observes. Cadet Todd, a former Army enlisted woman, was the first woman cadet to be a roommate in the third year.

"She's extremely weak physically," Cadet Todd said of her roommate. "She has absolutely no military bearing ... and she doesn't have a desire for a career in the regular Army."

Her squad leader, senior Cadet Frank Appeladero, seems concerned about her and says, "She doesn't impress me as the military type."

Indeed, Cadet Butler realizes that her main goal in life is to be a physician. She says she is trying to sort out conflicting assessments of her about premied preparation at West Point.

"If the academy's standards can't compete with those of other colleges, then there's no reason for me being here," she concedes. "If I didn't have any trouble with the physical training, I wouldn't have any decision to make at all."

Her shortcomings, the cadet says, have been in running, marching and yanking the bolt of her M16 rifle which has smaller springs for women.

"For me, it's very fatiguing," she says, adding that, like most others, her sleep averages less than seven allotted hours a night.

While some of the women have broken into tears during the hazing that all cadets face, Cadet Butler says she's "sort of let's go in one ear and out the other."

The women seek solace in each other in the sanctuary of their rooms, she says, but confide as well in men.

Asked what keeps her from quitting, Cadet Butler says it's a matter of pride: "If I quit now, I'd be letting myself down. I can't do that, I've got to keep going. Plus I don't know what I'd tell all the people back home. My parents will accept any decision that I give them, but myself, I can't accept it."

Proposed Alton dam project endorsed by President Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced that President Ford has endorsed legislation passed by the Army seeking authorization of a replacement for Jocks and Dam 26 on the Mississippi River just north of St. Louis. Army Secretary Martin B. Huff- man sent to Congress a proposal for the design and construction of a new dam and its 1,200-foot lock to replace the existing Jocks and Dam 26, regarded by Army engineers as inadequate for safe, extended and reliable use. "Jocks and Dam 26 is a vital link in our inland waterway system," said a statement released here. The President is in Vail, Colo. "For example, last year over 26 million tons of grain — equal to 25 per cent of our entire production bound for export — moved through this facility. The existing structure, nearly 50 years old, has deteriorated so significantly that it will not be either safe or reliable for continued navigation over the decades ahead," the statement continued.

Ford said the environmental impact statement has been completed and filed, and he urged Congress to act quickly on legislation to authorize the project. "Upon enactment, I shall direct the secretary of the Army to proceed with construction as expeditiously as possible," his statement said. "We cannot avoid further delay."

An accompanying background statement said the replacement is expected to cost about $260 million and require from eight to 10 years. However, the General Accounting Office reported Tuesday that the Army Corps of Engineers now estimates the cost at $473 million. Completion of the locks and dam should provide for an increase of 13 million tons annually over the 23 million ton capacity of the existing structure, and it will not result in any interruption to barge traffic.

Additional study planned for Great Lakes Basin

ST. CLAIR, Mich. (AP) — The Great Lakes Basin Commission has decided to give additional study to a joint plan to meet controversial water resources problems in the area.

Leonard Crook, executive director of the commission, said a committee would attempt to put the plan in final shape for presentation at the commission's November quarterly meeting in Duluth, Minn.

Crook said one part of the comprehensive plan calls for public involvement in future questions about the Great Lakes.

He said the public involvement proposal would help develop a comprehensive plan by ensuring that problems are solved through a consensus of residents and planners in the Great Lakes basin.

Lake level regulations and the possibility of reopening the Great Lakes to oil and wet gas drilling were discussed at a caucus of the eight Great Lakes states.

But Crook said no action was taken because the commission needs more information on a recent Canadian government request to the U.S. State Department that the matter be further discussed.

At present, some drilling for wet gas is allowed in Canadian waters, but state laws have barred such activity on the American side.

Drilling has been opposed by conservation groups and others who feel there is a danger of pollution. Some sources said Canadian officials believe the energy crisis has changed the picture and there now is an awareness that energy resources need to be developed and researched.

The State Department has taken no official position on the matter.

Women’s field hockey team ready to pour it on

By Dave Henn
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU women’s field hockey team is preparing for another season, and coach Julee Illover feels the team will be stronger than last year’s 16-3-1 powerhouse.

Illover, in her eighth season as coach, has 10 starters returning from last year’s varsity squad, and six returnees from the “B” team.

“I have to say this is the strongest team I’ve ever coached,” said Illover, pointing out that the team is a super offensive ball club.

“We run up scores like 6-0, 4-0 and 3-0, which is very unusual in field hockey,” she explained. “Your typical score is 1-0, or scoreless ties, but this team fields 10 players that are offensive threats.”

Illover said the offense is so potent (60 goals in 20 games last year, that it naturally helps the defense along.

Two returning stars from last season are senior goalie Peggy O’Connell and sophomore forward Helen Meyer. Both were selected to the College South All-Stars last season which played in the Midwest Tourney.

“We have 35 girls trying out for the team right now,” Illover said. “By the end of the week I expect about 40.” Illover said she will carry 30 players on the roster to fill out the “A” and “B” squads.

Seventeen players from the team just got back from a field hockey tournament, and they’ll be Two teams which give SIU the most trouble are expected to be major obstacles when the women attempt to improve last season’s record. They are Principia College in Elsah, Ill., and Indiana State in Terre Haute, Ind.

The Salukis lost twice to Indiana State last year and tied Principia in two meetings.

Opposing teams better be ready because, as coach Illover put it, “We had a potent offense last year, this year I expect even more scoring.”

Ex-Saluki waives by Bears; hopes set on expansion teams

By Rick Kerch
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

The star Saluki of last year's football team, receiver Ivy Moore, was placed on waivers Tuesday by the Chicago Bears. If he is not picked up by another team, he will probably try to catch on with either the Buffalo Bills or the Tampa Bay National Football League team.

Moore, who was interviewed last week at the Bears training camp in Lake Forest, Ill. said that he was trying to make the team, but he was unsure of his chances. At the time, the Bears were going to cut two more receivers, and Moore said, "I hope to make it, but I haven't been able to show my stuff yet."

After playing in the wishbone offense at SIU, Moore said that he had to get used to orientating to a passing offense.

"I'm just learning now," he said. "I'll give it another shot and get cut. There's a lot of money to be made in this game."

Moore expresses the confidence that most players in sports seem to have, and said, "I think I can make it in pro ball. The expansion teams will be my first choice if I'm cut."

Although Moore has been placed on waivers, the Bears can still recall him for use on the taxi squad reserves spot on the roster during the regular season. Last week, Moore thought that he had a good chance to make the taxi squad, which carries about five players.

Near the end of last year's season, Moore broke his wrist and sat out the remainder. He felt that he would be drafted "in the sixth or seventh round," but when all 28 teams neglected him, he signed with the Bears as a free agent in April.

"I was disappointed not to get drafted, but I still wanted to see how a pro team was."

"The biggest surprise is that it wasn't as hard as I thought," Moore said. "The NFL is more of a learning process."

As a 6-3, 210 receiver, Moore looks very skinny on the field, but his weight is comparable to many other receivers.

He felt his biggest disadvantage was playing the wishbone at SIU, and not getting as much publicity as he felt he deserved. But he does not consider going to SIU a mistake, although he would have "got more publicity at other schools."

Moore seems to be having a good time playing for the Bears, although he said, "the rookies get the rough end of everything."

To combat the rookie syndrome, Moore and four other receivers formed the "Fantastic Five."

"We're all going to pull for each other, boost each other up and let the others get cut," but as the season continues, "the Fantastic Five" is diminishing in number, and only two members have yet to be waived.

Although he is 300 miles away, Moore is still concerned with the SIU football program.

"I've met Dempsey a few times and he'll do a wonderful job. The players are already developing a winning attitude," he said.

As he opened the door of his Lake Forest College dormitory, he said, "Say hi to everyone at SIU."

Bulls name Badger new head coach

CHICAGO (AP) - Assistant Coach Ed Badger was named head coach of the Chicago Bulls Wednesday and given a multi-year contract by the National Basketball Association.

"This is the realization of a dream," said Badger in Los Angeles Wednesday in announcing the Bulls' entry in the Southern California sports community.

Badger joined the Bulls last season as assistant coach of the Washington Bullets.

Badger, who starred in basketball for the Iowa Hawkeyes in the early 1950's, has 30 years of coaching behind him at the high school, college and professional levels.

He coached Wright College in Chicago and won 21 or more games for 14 straight campaigns. He was an assistant coach of the World University Games team which finished first and second in the last two years. He has been head coach of the University Games team.

Badger said he would assist coach the U.S. Olympic basketball team which finished first and second in the last two years. He has been head coach of the University Games team.

In 1974 he was head coach of the World University Games team that won the gold medal in Moscow and posted a 21-1 mark.

Badger joined the Bulls on a part-time basis as assistant and head scout in 1973 while maintaining his post as athletic director and coach at Wright. He joined Motta full-time last season.

"I will be able to maintain my role as athletic director and coach at Wright," Badger said.

The Office of Recreation and Intramurals has scheduled team manager meetings for both the 12-inch softball and floor hockey league.

The softball meeting will be held at 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Morris Library Auditorium, and the floor hockey meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m. the same day in Room 121 of the Arena.

All teams should have a representative present to obtain information, and team rosters should also be submitted at the meetings.

For additional information, contact the intramural office in Room 138 of the Arena. The phone number is 336-5521.

Cross country squad runs amid obscurity

By Doug Dorris
Assistant Sports Editor

While the SIU football team under Coach Ray Dempsey Jabors amid a flurry of publicity to prepare itself for its Sept. 11 opener, the SIU cross country team under Head Coach Lew Hartung also works to prepare for its Sept. 11 opener amid a flurry of obscurity. Distance running is a lonely man's sport.

The team has been working out since Aug. 20, twice a day at 6:30 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. During each session, a runner averages 8-9 miles and on some days covers as much as 18 miles a session.

Don Merrick, assistant cross country coach, evaluates the team as being strong, though not a strong as the 1973 Hartung edition. In 1973 SIU was undefeated in the regular season and won the Illinois Intercollegiates, scoring a record low 18 points.

The three top returning letterman are seniors Jerry George and Pat Cook, and junior Mike Sawyer. Sawyer finished fourth in the Missouri Valley Conference Cross Country Championships held last November in Carbondale, while George finished 12th and Cook 22nd. Saluki senior John St. John finished second in last year's championships to lead SIU to a second place tie in the team standings.

Other returning letterman are Brian Bauers, Derek Moore, Raymond Valek and Steve Seaman.

New blood on the team expected to contribute heavily are sophomores Paul Craig and Mike Bisase, and freshmen Dave Benner and Larry Haney.

Pat Cook, from Uganda, is a middle-distance runner on the track team who is trying cross country for the first time.

Craig, from Ireland, is the younger brother of Gerry Craig, a four-year SIU cross country letterman who anchored the 1973 championship team. According to the coach, "Paul Craig leads us into a better athlete than his brother.

Saluki kickers gaining consistency

Editor's note: This is the first part of a six-part series on the SIU football team. Subsequent articles will deal with other phases of the Salukis team.

By Rick Korch
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

If the SIU football team can move the ball during the upcoming season, the kicking of Ken Seaman could keep the Salukis in contention. But if the team can't move the ball, the punting of Steve Mick could help keep the opponents out of the end zone.

Seaman, the 6-foot, 165 lb. senior, is optimistic about having one more good year. Two years ago, Playbuddy named him one of the sophomores to watch in 1974, and when he did, he has been disappointed in his performances.

"This is my last chance, so I'm hoping to do better," said the man who holds almost all of SIU's placement records. "I hope we can give me another opportunity this year.

"He's looking good this year," said Coach Vicki. "Desmond's coaching is getting better, and he has good concentration.

"Over the second time in Seaman's four-year SIU career, he is getting a lot of work with a holder and center, and

Merrick is described by Merrick as the sleeper of the team, possessing good distance runner on the track team who as well as track.

With women's tennis practice having started, Sue Briggs reaches for a ball Wednesday at the University tennis courts. In early June, she won the regional meet and advanced to the nationals, where she didn't fare as well. (Staff photo by Carl Wagner)

Dempsey's coaching staff is also instructing him more than last year.

"Jim Zumhahen (Seaman's holder) has the best hands on the team," Seaman said. "And he works hard. Last year, quarterback Leonard Hopkins held for kicks, and couldn't spend as much time practicing as Zumhahen, who is an end.

Last year, Seaman scored 39 points, second on the team, but far below his total of 61 in his freshman year. But he had his best year in field goals percentage, sending eight of 13 through the crossbars.

Against Arkansas State he boomed a 51-yarder against the wind and said he'd like to "try a 60-yarder in a hurricane wind" this year if it's needed.

Seaman feels that he is consistent inside of 50 yards, but said he should make "everything inside 30 yards." Although he can't set a points goal because how many chances he gets is up to the team's performance, he has set a goal of 100 per cent on extra points and 80 per cent on field goals.

And when the Salukis can't move the ball, punter Mick will be called in to try and send the opponents far back into their territory, although he first has to improve his consistency.

Dempsey said that Mick has the leg to send his punts 70 yards, but he's too inconsistent now. But we'll work hard with him to get him consistent by the first game.

Mick also feels that he has to improve his height and hang time, and more important, his concentration. The six-foot, 20-year-old transfer from Mississippi was kicking about 125 times a day during the double practices sessions, but has dropped down to about 75 and 75, 57 or 73 a day so he won't burn himself out, which he did in the spring.

His center, as Seaman's, is Michael Arthur, who both kicks and punts. "You can't see what I do. But I hope that I can do 80 yards or better."

Freshman Lee Petroff is pushing Seaman for the kicking duties and will handle the kickoffs.

"He has great hang time, and can kick off to the goal line, and into the end zone," Dempsey said.

Ken Seaman, who holds almost all the SIU placement records, stretches before practice.
