U.S. Rep. Paul Simon and an SIU-C constitutional law expert doubt that conservatives will keep a $98 billion tax increase off the books by hauling Congress to court.

A non-partisan group of 18 representatives, 17 of whom voted against the tax bill last week, charge the bill is unconstitutional because it originated in the Senate and the Constitution allows only the House of Representatives to originate revenue bills.

Included among the 18 representatives are Illinois Republicans Philip Crane and Daniel Crane.

The reduction of hours at Morris Library has touched a sensitive nerve among some students and faculty, but the hours aren't the only issue. Beginning Monday, the library will close an hour earlier Mondays through Thursdays and will open an hour later on Saturdays, a net loss of six hours per week. This operating hours reduction is blamed on the loss of 13 staff positions and $76.000 in support costs funding over the past two years. The staff and operating hours reduction, as well as the cancellation of thousands of periodicals over the past two years, has caused some to describe the staff property of the staff property is being placed high enough on the list of budgetary priorities.

Peacekeepers deployed in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The final contingents of foreign peacekeepers arrived Thursday and began deploying in hot spots along Beirut's dividing line, where some were welcomed by rice-throwing residents and others were met by PLO guerrillas reluctant to give up their positions.

The departure of the Palestine Liberation Organization continued, meanwhile, with the sailing of an Italian passenger ship with 697 guerrillas aboard and a Red Cross hospital ship carrying 167 wounded PLO members.

Sixty-one Syrian trucks and tank carriers crossed into west Beirut, an Israeli army spokesman said, to begin the evacuation of about 1,500 Syrian soldiers and 3,500 of the Palestine Liberation Army trained and attached to the Syrian army. The two groups are to begin leaving Friday.

Bush tells Legionnaires 'we don't trust Soviets'

CHICAGO (AP) - Vice President George Bush on Thursday called nuclear arms reduction the Reagan administration's most important foreign policy initiative, but rejected the notion of a freeze of such weapons as "harmful to our security and that of our allies"

Opinion & Gommentary

Lebanon's new leader must be diplomatic; unite feuding factions

THE ELECTION of Lebanon's youngest ever president on Monday raises many difficult questions. Bashir Gemaye., 34-year-old leader of the Christian Phalangists, is likely to be a "make-or-break" chief executive of that ravaged land. Will be be able to unite the more than 40 private armies of factionalized Lebanon or will be turn to settling old scores and start new troubles?

Gemayel faces almost impossible problems. Though the only candidate for the presidency, his election was far from smooth. Lettist Muslims in an effort to prevent the necessary quorum led an unsuccessful boycott of the elections. Immediately after the elections, the homes of at least three Muslim parliamentarians, including speaker Kumal Assad, were blown-up because the officials had participated in the elections.

Gemayel's election comes at a time when more foreign forces than ever occupy Lebanon — Israelis, Syrians and the PLO in Northern Lebanon. Both Muslims and Christians still bear this former w riord many grudges. Gemayel's men were responsible for gum' ig down the son of the former President Suleiman Franjeh, a Ciristian, in 1978. Gemayel himself is directly connected to a number of massacres that occured during the 1975-76 civil war.

TO THESE PROBLEMS, Gemayel brings a firm hand — for many Muslims an iron fist. Gemayel, who inherited his father's admiration for the Nati-type discipline of Hitler, is particularly noted for the firm peace he maintained in Christian East Beirut.

The new president will have to be ready to bury many old hatchets and his former foes must be ready to meet him halfway. So far he appears to have set a course for national reconciliation. A close ally of the Israelis, who had been his major arms suppliers, Gemayel must nevertheless move to oust the Israelis from Lebanon if he is to give credence to Lebanese independence and dispel fears of making Lebanon a client state of Israel. His trusted position with the Israelis may work to his advantage, making him the only person able to bring this about.

Gemayel will succeed only if he tempers his strongarm tactics with Christian principles of mercy and justice.

Once or twice a year Giant City State Park is the site of Southern Illinois' most dangerous and irresponsible clinic, the Army ROTC's appelling clinic. Last semester Uncle Sam treated the participants to hot dogs, hamburgers, yop and a bus ride to the park. In most cases those are the ingredients of a great time, but when combined with the casual rappelling instructions, and the "n atch me in braveness" attitude of such events, it's a good recipe for disaster.

Before we can really understand what the ROTC is doing at Giant City, we must understand exactly what rappelling is and what it is used for. Rappelling is nothing more than a method for descent. The early alpinists developed it as a safe way to descend steep inclines that could not be avoided. In his book "Basic Rock Craft," the famous climber-author Royal Robbins says: "Rappelling is the most dangerous part of climbing, it should be done with extreme caution and avoided whenever possible." The people who consider rapelling a sport have seriously changed the meaning of the word "sport." Using their distinction, erraking a six-pack of beer and then running back inter the start across Illinois High-

Cutting library hours sensible if left with no other choices

IN RESPONSE TO the D.E. editorial on August 26, "Cutting library hours at 'school of learning' doesn't make sense," several additional items of information need to be considered.

need to be considered.

The matter of reducing library hours was weighed very seriously by both the library staff and the university administration.

There was great rejuctance to take this step, and the decision was made only after very serious discussion of alternatives. Thus, both librarians and administrators share regret with students and faculty about this action.

During a period of budget reductions the university administration has provided some additional support for Library Affairs. Last year, in particular, when we were faced with the possibility of a major reduction in periodical subscriptions and journal orders, $100,000 was allocated to the library. Supplemental support cost funds were also allocated last year to enable the library to convert catalog records to machine readable records to machine readable.

format in preparation for joining the statewide Library Computer System.

FACED WITH CUTS in staffing and support costs, the library has made reductions in most operating expenses to date except cutting library hours. We became aware last spring that it was very unlikely we could continue our present schedule and we discussed the possibility of reducing hours with the Library Affairs Advisory Committee, which consists of faculty and student representatives. At its meeting last April, the committee recognized the problem and indicated its support for the library administration to take necessary steps including reducing hours in the face of budget cuts.

Last year we began to monitor library usage during late evening and weekend hours to determine how serious a cut in hours might be. It was found that use declined considerably after 16 p.m. and dropped sharply after 11 p.m. #2reover, based upon inquiries at the reference desks and circulation charges, it became apparent that during late hours the library was being used primarily as a study hall with most students using their own rather than library materials. I want to assure students and faculty members that we are not un-sympathetic to the need to provide adequate hours at Morris Library. The old schedule provided 98.25 hours a week, whereas the new schedule provides 92.25 hours a week. The six hour a week a week. The SIX hour a week reduction comes between 11 p.m. and midnight Mondays through Thursdays, between 9:00 and 10:00 p.m. on Fridays, and between 9:00 and 10:00 a.m. on Saturdays. During the last two weeks of each term the library will remain open until midnight every night, a net increase of 14 hours a week during that 14 nours a week during mar-period. In summary, we hope the new schedule will be given a chance to operate in order to avoid further cuts in purchases of new materials and other necessary services. - Kenneth G. Peterson, Dean of Library Affairs

Wellness Center sexuality program concerned with unplanned pregnancies

The sexuality program at the Wellness Center offers information, confidential counseling, groups and workshops on birth control, pregnancy, sexual concerns and relationship issues. In response to the letter of August 23, 1982, we have offered free samples of birth control methods in the past, but, no, we do not currently have available free supplies from drug company salespeople. However, birth control supplies are readily and inexpensively available to students at the pharmacy. (A quick price comparison shows you can purchase a large size of contraceptive jelly for $1.25 at SIU's pharmacy and a small size at a local drugstore for $7:

We are very concerned about the number of unintended pregnancies on campus. According to our surveys, though, it doesn't seem that the availability of methods contributes to the problem as much as choosing and using a method appropriately. That is why we offer help in the way we do to students. Sexual responsibility means aring enough to be prepared.

We welcome your suggestions. Call or stop by the Wellness Center at Kesnar Hall.

Better interaction is point of Clean-Up Day, SPC says

Preparation is already underway for this year's Carbondale Clean-up Day, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Oct. 9.
"The whole point about the annual Carbondale clean-up day, ever since it was sarted three years ago, is to get better interaction between students and community members." and community members."
and Jody Patton, chairperson of the committee responsible for the clean-up day

The clean-up day is expected to attract between 1.500 to 2,000 participants from various student organizations, business and community groups and church organizations, Patton and participated in the clean-up day and collect 25 tons of trash, she said.

Patton said she has asked for cooperation from the Carbondale City government and the Park District. The city government is very supportive of the idea, she said. The Park District will provide trash cans and the use of two gerbard. the use of two garbage and the trucks.

This year's clean-up day has been allocated a $3,000 budget, Patton said, $1,000 donated by the University and $2,000 by the Indergraduate Student Organization.

The clean-up day is sponsored WCH. the Student by WCIL, the Student Programming Council, the Park District, the City of Carbondale and SIU-C. This year's clean-up day differs from previous ones in three major ways. Patton said.

"First, we want to get more participation from the youths and the black community."

Patton said.

Last year, only about 150 youths and few blacks participated, she said. The participants consisted mostly of SIU-C students. Patton said she also hopes to get other clubs and also hopes to get other clubs and organizations, such as the Jaycees, Lions and church organizations, to participate. The second major change, Patton said, is that the committee will send letters to various eom munity organizations asking them where they feel a letter with organizations asking them where they feel a clean-up is necessary.

"In this way, places which have usually been by-passed in previous clean-ups can be covered." Patton said.

covered. Patton said Individual participation will be the third change this year. "Individuals can participate in the clean-up without at-tachment to any groups or organizations," she said. "Volunteers are most welcome to ioin."

As in previous clean-ups, the SPC will organize a concert to entertain the participants after the day's work. Jim Post, a nationally-known folk singer, will be the guest entertainer in this year's concert. Patton said.

The theme for this year's clean-up day is "Only in Car-bondale Clean-up Day 82." Patton said the theme is appropriate because she says Carbondale is the only town in Caroondate is the only town in the nation where students and community members work together closely. Another new addition will be a clean-up fest, featuring picnics, recreational games and arts exhibits. Patton said. High school bands will also be invited to entertain the crowd

A contest will be organized as part of the day's event to judge which group collects the most

The contest will be divided into several categories for organizations, children. organizations, children, community groups and other student clubs. Local businesses will donate prizes for the winners, Patton said.

And for the first time and for the first time, she said, a traveling trophy will be presented. The winner of the overall contest each year will have its organization's name inscribed on the trophy.

Popular herpes drug found ineffective

CHICAGO (AP) - One of the most popular drugs used to treat genital terpes infections has been found to be ineffective.

has been found to be ineffective, anys a newly published study. The drug, idoxuridine, does little more than shorten the time when someone suffering from genital herpes simplex virus is most contagious, ac-cording to a study make at the University of Washington Horrose Clinics in Scattle University of Washington Herpes Clinics in Scattle. The drug fails to speed

However, a similar drug is being tested which may offer hope to those who suffer from the disease, a spokesman for the Centers for Disease Control's Division of Viral Diseases said Thursday.

Genital herpes simplex virus, often simply called herpes, is marked by blisters which form or, the genitals and often is accompanied by a fever.

"It has a different action against viruses and seems to be against viruses and seems to be more effective in lesions that are deep below the surface layer of cells in such viral diseases as genital herpes," said the aid the spokesman, eclined to be indentified.

He noted that idoxuridine has been used successfully for some years in treating eye infections. He said that lesions in eye infections are comparatively superficial, and therefore idoxuridine can penetrate under the layer of cells in those diseases, which are shallower than those in genital herpes

In the University of Washington study, 96 patients age 18 and older were divided into three groups. A group of 38 was treated with 30 percent idoxuridine in dimethyl sulfoxide, popularly called DSMO, a potent organic solvent which helps chemicals penetrate the skin. The second group, numbering 33, was given only DSMO, and a third group, of 35, was given formal saline solution, an inert liquid.

Anti-abuse clinic aids teens

By Linds Stockman Staff Writer

Southern Illinois high school students in 22 counties have the opportunity to help their peers troubled by alcohol or drug abuse through becoming involved with "Operation Snowball."

Operation Snowball, a series of workshops and activities, was founded in the fall of 1977 by five teenagers who attended a similiar "snowball" weekend in connection with the Illinois Teenage Institute on Substance

Southern Illinois' ITIs will have its fourth Operation Snowball from Sept. 9 to Sept. 12 at the Touch of Nature at Little Grassy Lake campgrounds. People can join Snowball anytime of the the year ac-cording to Elleen Herzog, Southern Illinois operation committee member.

The Snowball program is designed for teenagers to examine their attitudes and values and increase their feelings of self-worth and for them to make responsible decisions about alcohol and ITI is an alcohol and drug revention program begun in Marion in 1979, governed by the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Dependence Association Springfield. IADDA is statewide, not-for-profit organization of volunteers of interested citizens and professionals concerned about the problems of alcoholism and drig dependence.

Lynda Chott, IADDA project coordinator in Springfield, said, "adolescence is a critical time of personal decision-making. The most important influence on the teenager is the peer group and the strong need for peer approval and acceptance.

"Teenagers often begin using alcohol and drugs as a way of cementing relationships with their peers," Chott said. "They drink because everyone else drink because everyone else does and begin experimentation for similar reasons.

"We believe that the kind of interaction between tears and their peers which occurs at the Institute produces a positive peer influence, along with a degree of personal awareness and growth which one seldom seen develop in such a short and growth which one season develop in such a short period of time," Chott said. Hersog said the program is designed for prevention not treatment. "Our workshops give information, attitude checking and alternatives to form constructive types of behavior."

She also said that alcohol and drug abuse weren't the only problems dealt with. "We also provide help for social provide help for social problems and self-defeating behaviors."

Herrog said some par-ticipants are older than high school age. "We have some who are out of high school, dropouts and students in alternative Herzog said some school settings."

She said students who participate receive information about the program from the media, their friends or are recruited through staff, student councils, school officials, church groups and other community organizations.

"We receive excellent cooperation from the communities in Franklin and Williamson counties," Herzog said, "and excellent interest in the program from surrounding

'ITI doesn't receive any grants, so money from the community is important." She said real prevention occurs when the community gets inwoived.

Herzog said that each ITI designs its own program to achieve the goals set by IADDA. "Our underlying theme is sharing and caring," she said.

The goals of Operation Snowball include providing accurate information regarding alcohol, drug abuse and other life problems and stresses of area high school students; providing opportunities for personal growth through helping and caring for others, to encourage people to spread the information to their peers, and motivate them to contribute to the reduction of the impact of alcohol and drug abuse in the community

"The workshop is the main thing," Herzog said. "We hope the students continue in the follow-up programs, but if they've at least gained self-growth from workshop par-ticipation then that's okay."

She said follow-up programs consisted of more intense training to bring out each in-dividual's potential.

Activist fair set for Tuesday

By Juli Anastasoff Staff Writer

The Illinois Public Interest Research Group is sponsoring an activities fair from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Ballroom D.

'The idea of the fair is to hold a drive to get people involved in issues that threaten them, such as Reaganomics and nuclear proliferation," said Frank Trompeter, assistant director of

IPIRG is a student group based on a model originally proposed by Ralph Nader. Members state that their purpose is to research, advocate and provide education on issues of public interest. Their scope of interest includes consumer protection, utility and energy policy, racial and sexual discrimination, landlord-tenant relations, health care delivery and other areas of community rights and interest, Trompeter said.

Fifteen activist groups will participate in Activism '82, presenting information on their organization in the form of slide shows, literature and films. "I called the rescue squad.

She was literally dying in my hands," said Mrs. Lages.

When the rescue squad arrived, Sommer was again alert. Nothing could be found wrong with her, but both she and Adam were taken to the haspital. Tests found nothing, so Mrs. Lages went to Mre Lages pediatrician.

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, also known as crib death, kills two of every 1,000 infants nationwide Little is known about the syndrome, but many researchers theorize the disease is actually a variety of disorders triggered by different factors.

Through the pediatrician, the vins received machines that monitor their breathing and beartbeat while they are asleep. When the child's heart beats too

Mrs. Lages also learned in-fant CPR, which differs from the procedure used on an adult.

At home, when the twins nap. the monitors are in place.

After the alarm, touching, rubbing or pounding the baby's back usually makes breathing resume. If not, CPR must be administered.

Some dementia patients treatable

CHICAGO (AP) - Almost twothirds of patients diagnosed with senile dementia, an untreatable condition, might actually be suffering from treatable illnesses, a researcher has found

Dr. Robert S. Hoffman, chief of the medical-psychiatric unit at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco, said 63 percent of a group of 215 patients diagnosed with dementia were the victims of hormonal imbalances, toxic drug reactions or other mental

Hoffman examined 215 patients with a variety of psychiatric ailments, and found that 41 percent were wrongfully

Hoffman, an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California at San Francisco, suggested

Dr. Barry Lebowitz, an ex-pert on psychiatric problems of the aged at the Netional In-stitute of Mental Fealth, sai some American doctors jump much to quickly to a diagnoses of dementia, a condition characterized by memory loss, failure of reasoning powers and abrupt mood changes.

"The insensitive clinician will say 'You're old, you're senile and there's nothing we can do.' The sensitive clinician will look for other kinds of things." Lebowitz said.

Lebowitz said Hoffman's study is an important one because i is one of the first in which patients were psychiatric problems. The 215 patients were admitted consecutively to St. mitted consecutively to St. Mary's Hospital between May 1980 and July 1981, said Hoff-nan, who reported his findings in the Aug. 27 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association

"In our assessments, we went deeply into both the psychiatric as well as medical aspects of ch patient's condition, Hoffman in a telephone in-terview. "Some of the patients whose illnesses originally were diagnosed as being caused by psychiatric conditions were found to be medically caused and vice versa

"This meant that we could suggest a new course of treatment which was suited to the patient's illness

NOW marches on

WASHINGTON (AP) National Organization for Women kicks off a nationwide series of "PAC-Woman" campaign money for candidates who support women's visited walkathons this week to raise who support women's rights and says it will concentrate its efforts on unseating Republican Gov. James Thompson of

NOW hopes that the walkathons will raise 31 million for contributions to congressional, state and local candidates in this fall's eleccendidates in this fall's elec-tions, according to NOW President Eleanor Smeal. "Women, upset by the defeat (of the Equal Rights Amend-ment) and angered by the Reagan administration's assault on woman's sinkle Reagan administration assault on women's rights, are turning to the political arena—as a voting bloc and as candidates," Ms. Smeal said in a

Specifically. Ms Smeal said at a news conference today that NOW would make a major effort in Illinois to support Adlai Stevenson III for governor against Thompson and to elect state legislators who support women's rights

"We hope that the citizens of The nope that the citizens of the Ilinois — and especially women disappointed with the defeat of the ERA — will remember where the Republican leadership was in June 1982," said Ms. Smeal, "And that (Illinois House Speaker George) Ryan, who is running with Gov. Thompson, he've start the ERA in that state."

Thompson was an ERA supporter, but came under from ERA advocates from the start that the st supporter, but came under fire from ERA advocates for choosing Ryan, a staunch ERA opponent, as his running mate, and for what some of the amendment's backers viewed as the governor's halfhearted efforts on behalf of passing the measure.

Illinois was one of the key states whose failure to ratify the ERA by the June 30 deadline killed the proposed amendment. In addition, Ms. Smeal said NOW will be making major efforts to elect state senators in Florida, another state that did Florida, another state that did not ratify the ERA.

The kickoff events are keyed to the observance Thursday of "Women's Equality Day," the 52nd anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amend-ment, which extended the right. to vote to women.

NOW and its political action committee — or PAC — are sponsoring 65 PAC-Woman sponsoring 65 PAC-Woman walkathons around the country, which they hope will draw thousands of participants. Campaign funds will be raised by the participants' finding sponsors who pledge a certain contribution for each mile walked walked.

The walkathons are part of NOW's campaign effort this year, for which the organization would like to raise $2 million to $3 million.

At least 30 of the walkathons will be held this weekend, a NOW statement said. The largest events, with more than 1,000 walkers each, are planned
