New housing may relieve crunch

By Deed, a Lawhead
Staff Writer

Relief for the housing crunch may be in sight if a new off-campus apartment building is approved for sophomores, housing officials say.

Off-campus housing has received an application for sophomore approval from University Hall, formerly the International Hall, owned by Don Cook, Letha Rauback, supervisor of off-campus housing, said. The building located at 1101 S. Wall could be ready for occupancy as early as Tuesday, she added.

The building, which can house 400 people, "would virtually take care of the housing problem," Rauback said. Juniors and seniors could live there, too.

To be University approved, a building has to be inspected and certified by Rauback, the Carbondale Fire Department, the Carbondale Code Enforcement and the Jackson County Health Department, Rauback explained.

The building also must be covered by at least a $100,000 insurance policy, she said.

"That's (the policy) just a small umbrella in a big rain," Rauback.

The housing shortage developed because of an estimated record enrollment of 24,000 students this fall.

On-campus housing for regular two-person rooms has been filled since April, and approximately 170 students live in overassigned rooms, Edward Jones, director of housing operations, said. Overassigned spaces include residence halls' basements and lounges converted into dorm rooms.

Catherine Hunter said as of Tuesday, the latest available figures, 15 intensive study spaces for men in Wright III, three over-assigned spaces for men and 25 over-assigned spaces for women were available.

"We fix up places that are as close to a room as possible in the best places available," Jones said.

Jones said they can't predict when students will be moved out of overassigned spaces.

"We will find spaces for them — some sooner, some

Halloween funds jeopardized by lack of sponsors

By Jacke Hampton
Staff Writer

The Halloween Core Committee is facing the monstrous task of funding this year's celebration without the help of key past sponsors.

"The committee is still struggling with financial aspects of the celebration, as they always do this time of year," Ed Buerger, associate director of University Relations and committee member, said Wednesday night.

Last year, SPC and the Miller Brewing Company spent $6,000 on entertainment and another $1,200 was donated by the Chamber of Commerce. This year, SPC has lost $28,000 in student government funding and the Miller sponsorship, which is phasing out its Miller Music Series.

Also gone is the $3,200 safety campaign solicited by Diggle from the town's liquor dealers. The liquor dealers were upset over the lack of recognition for their safety effort and the fact that other businesses that benefitted from the event were not contributing.

Chances appear slim for funding from the University. A memo to Moore from John W. Corker, director of the Student Center, called for passive participation from the University in the wake of its current philosophy of discouraging programs where high alcohol consumption takes place.

Weich leaves committee

By Jacke Hampton

When the Halloween Core Committee has its next meeting Sept. 16, it will be looking for a new chairman.

Harvey Weich, acting vice president for student affairs and committee chairman, announced Wednesday he will resign from the committee.

"Think about replacing me," Weich told the other

At a Wednesday morning core meeting, members suggested asking students to help pick up the entertainment tab.

"There was a suggestion from the floor that students may want to contribute," Buerger said. "But it was not a strong suggestion."

He said retailers, liquor dealers and other businesses will "search for funding before we panic and go to the students."

Still, some members expressed interest in asking student groups to help out.

Reagan says missile pact likely

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Reagan predicted Wednesday the superpowers "can wrap up an agreement... promptly" to eliminate medium-range missiles if the Kremlin erects no new artificial barriers.

Reagan's 23-minute speech — part denunciation of Kremlin violations of post-World War II agreements and part recognition of "interesting changes in the Soviet Union — came as talks on a treaty to eliminate the missiles around the world apparently were reaching a successful conclusion.

Earlier Wednesday, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl announced that his country would give up 72 aging Pershing 1-A missiles under its control as soon as a superpower pact takes effect.

Tuesday, the United States pulled back on its demand for permanent on-site inspections of each side's missile sites.

The latest developments mean "the way has been smoothed considerably" toward a treaty, said a senior administration official.

Reagan told the Town Hall of California, in a speech broadcast to a U.S.-Soviet conference in Chautauqua, N.Y., and around the world by the U.S. Information Agency:

"We can wrap up an agreement on intermediate-range missiles promptly ... Earlier today, Chancellor Kohl removed even this artificial obstacle from consideration.

We are therefore hopeful that the Soviet Union will demonstrate that there is substance behind the rhetoric they have repeated so often of late — that they genuinely want a stabilizing INF agreement. If so, they will

Students partake in Du Quoin Fair

By Jacke Hampton
Staff Writer

University students are taking an active part in the 64th Du Quoin State Fair — from the twilight parade kickoff to the SIU Day festivities on the next-to-the-last day of the fair's 10-day run.

The Marching Salukis will lead the 6 p.m. parade down main street to the fairgrounds on opening day Friday, Fred Huff, a spokesman for the fair, said. By the time the fair winds down on Labor Day, 64 University organizations and schools will have contributed to the event — doing everything from refereeing a mud-volleyball tournament to plugging its various educational opportunities, he said.

SIU Day will be on Sept. 6 with a carnival promotions offering a $1-dollar discount on carnival rides. Most of the activities held in conjunction with SIU Day will be at the geodesic dome north of the carnival midway.

Student race fans can choose from the Automobile Racing Club of America stock car race on SIU day or the United States Auto Club Silver Crown dirt car series on Labor Day.

WSIU-FM, one of two campus-based radio stations, will broadcast its "All Things Considered" show from the fair. WSIU-TV, the campus Public Broadcasting Service affiliate, will work with State Police to produce 3-minute videotapes of children to aid police in emergencies such as kidnappings. Parents must

S. Korean shipyard strike resolved with higher pay

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Striking shipyard workers who held the body of a slain co-worker hostage to their labor demands accepted a company salary offer Wednesday and agreed to release the body for burial, state-run media reported. Workers at the Daewoo Shipbuilding and Heavy Machinery Ltd. yard on Koje Island, 210 miles southeast of Seoul, accepted a company offer of $56 more per month. They currently earn between $142 and $337 per month.

S. African workers reject strike settlement

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Black miners Wednesday rejected a settlement offer by white mine owners and decided to continue a 17-day-old strike that has partially crippled South Africa's most crucial industry. Members of the National Union of Mineworkers held meetings at up to 56 gold and coal mines and voted by a show of hands to reject offers not including a pay rise, NUM officials said.

Trade deficit hits record high of $39.5 billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The trade deficit hit a record $39.5 billion on a balance of payments basis in the second quarter, causing more headaches for President Reagan's economic strategists, the Commerce Department and private analysts said Wednesday. Imports grew a seasonally adjusted $3.3 billion from the first quarter to total $99.5 billion for April through June, while exports rose $3 billion to total $60 billion. The resulting $39.5 billion deficit breaks the old mark of $38.8 billion, set in the first quarter.

Lawsuit filed to break Mafia, Teamsters tie

NEW YORK (UPI) — An unprecedented civil racketeering suit was announced Wednesday aimed at ending any relationship between the Mafia and the Teamsters union and at thwarting the influence of one of New York's five crime families. The suit, filed Tuesday in federal court, seeks to bar proven members of the Bonanno family and members of Teamsters Local 814 from engaging in business together.

Activists arrested outside Vatican Embassy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dozen activists denouncing Roman Catholic teaching on women's issues and gay rights were arrested Wednesday outside the Vatican Embassy while they protested Pope John Paul II's trip to the United States next month. Among those arrested were Eleanor Smeal, former president of the National Organization for Women, and Frances Kissling, the head of Catholics for a Free Choice. The arrests followed a two-hour rally near the embassy by about 200 protesters, most of them women.

Redesigned shuttle booster to be tested today

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (UPI) — The first redesigned space shuttle booster rocket was set to be test fired today in a crucial milestone that will go a long way in determining whether NASA will be able to resume shuttle flights next year. The shuttle fleet has been grounded since the January 1986 Challenger explosion triggered by the failure of a joint between two segments of one of the ship's twin solid propellant boosters.

Postal workers' unions ratify new contracts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the three major unions representing U.S. Postal Service employees overwhelmingly ratified new contracts, officials said Wednesday, providing 40 months of post office labor stability. Although the cost of a first-class stamp may eventually rise from 22 to 25 cents, a Postal Service spokeswoman said, the proposal was made months before the negotiations and labor costs make up only a portion of overall rising operating costs.

Horse racing proposed at county fairs next spring

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The state Agriculture Department is looking into the possibility of having parimutuel betting at county fairs. Tom Doubet, head of the agency's bureau of county fairs, said Wednesday the agency is studying the idea to determine if it would be worthwhile. Currently 42 county fairs have horse racing. Doubet says if the idea is feasible it is likely a measure will be introduced in the Legislature next spring.

Honors director seeks recognition for group

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

Greater recognition and more classes are among the improvements sought by new University Honors Program Director Frederick L. Williams.

"Although the Honors Program has been in existence for many years," Williams said, "many students don't know what it is, what it means or where it is located."

Williams is a 10-year faculty member in the classics section of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures. He won a 1984 Amoco Foundation Outstanding Teacher award. This experience has helped him more as a teacher than as a director of the program, he said.

AS A FORMER associate professor at Cornell University, Williams taught honor students. This experience, Williams said, gave him a perspective on other honors programs that has helped him form his goals as director.

"You get to know that honor students are varied and interesting, as are all students, but you get to know the honor students better," Williams said.

"You usually teach a class as a routine, while in a honor student seminar it's difficult to be routine and you tend not to be," he said.

Honors students are eligible for many benefits and services including early registration privileges, tuition waiver awards and special recognition on transcripts, diplomas and at graduation. To qualify, a student must earn a 3.25 grade point average or enter the University with an ACT score of 26 or higher.

THE PROGRAM offers special seminars taught by faculty and are limited to 15 students per class. These seminars are not offered anywhere else and are available only to honors students.

Williams teaches "The Classical Roots of Humanities," one of the many special courses available. He said these classes are more inventive, original and offer a deeper vs. a wider understanding of the subject.

Making available a greater number of these seminars is not an easy task, Williams said. He said this is because the courses require a lot of work of both teacher and student.

Creating more classes would involve "beating the bush to find faculty who are interested in developing such a course especially for honor students and teaching it," Williams said.

IN ADDITION to serving the needs of its students, the program also serves the needs of the public by sponsoring events that otherwise would not take place on campus.

One such event is a film series scheduled to begin in September. This series will include six films from around the world about the cultural heritage of the United States.

The Honors Program schedules four or five lectures each year, all of which are open to the public. Williams said the first speaker is a theologian from the University of Chicago.

Williams said he finds his energies divided between teaching an honors class and a GE-D class, leaving him limited free time.

Aid wait worsens student miseries

IT'S AN ALL-TOO-FAMILIAR scene. Jane and Joe College are waiting for the University to release their financial aid. Meanwhile, they wheel and deal with their landlords and other creditors to survive the long wait before their financial aid is processed.

They soon learn that Carbondale landlords can be short on patience when there are plenty of others looking for housing.

Move-in costs in Carbondale normally include two months of rent and a damage deposit. That's maybe $500 to $600, a pretty penny for just stepping in the door -- even if you have money.

STUDENTS WHO ARE eligible for financial aid often won't get their aid for a month, or even two. The good ol' American financial aid system has told them they're just going to have to wait.

And getting through the long lines to the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance during the first week of school helps only by letting you know you most likely still will have to wait another month.

Why the delay? The University generally waits until the three-week drop period is over before it processes financial aid packages. That way it doesn't give money to students who drop out of school and run. Fine for the University, but that means the first packages generally are not available for pickup until four weeks after the semester begins.

TRUE, THE UNIVERSITY helps ease the crunch. Students waiting for financial aid are allowed tuition waivers and bookstore charges so they can attend school and purchase necessary supplies. But that doesn't address the hard facts; a textbook does not make a very warm (or even dry) shelter for long, and rent bills do not provide required daily nourishment.

Financial aid officials need to address these problems, beginning with looking at students as something other than academic machines, living off tuition waivers and charged textbooks.

Second, they need to establish a system of financial relief for students who are waiting for their aid packages to be processed -- a loan on a loan so to speak.

THE UNIVERSITY'S SHORT-TERM loan program is inadequate in this respect. The maximum an undergraduate senior can receive is $175, which doesn't come close to meeting a student's financial burdens at the beginning of the fall semester, and only serves as a Band-Aid for the problem.

It is counter-productive to create a financial aid system that works only if you have enough money to subsist while waiting for your aid. Those at Student Work and Financial Assistance need to realize that and answer to students who are expecting financial aid to help them out when they need it the most: right now.

Quotable Quotes

"Perhaps I should thank in advance the creators of all those events that will make the next four years easy going -- inflation which always stays put, a stock market which is always a bull, a dollar which is always stable, interest rates which stay low and employment which stays high." -- Alan Greenspan, on being sworn in as the new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Doonesbury

Presidential race could benefit romantically from Hart's re-entry

GARY HART'S FORMER campaign director insists that Hart will soon leap back into the presidential race.

The former aide, William Dixon, says that while Hart knows he can't win, he will run to bring forth significant issues that other candidates shy away from.

I think that's a fine idea. There are many significant matters that candidates hesitate to discuss frankly for fear of losing a few votes. But as a noncandidate-candidate, Hart could speak his mind.

And I can imagine what the stimulating dialogue will be like when he makes his first appearance on one of the Sunday morning news shows such as "Face the Universe."

"OUR GUEST today is former Sen. Gary Hart, who withdrew from the Democratic race earlier this year, but has recently returned as a candidate. Our first question will be asked by Jack Keyhole from the Washington Post. Jack?"

"Senator Hart, you are in your early 50s. I believe that millions of American males who are in the same age bracket would like to know if you take vitamin pills. And, if so, what kind and in what quantities?"

"Jack, it has been my policy to take only a standard multivitamin pill in the morning. I have never been a believer in megavitamin doses, although I do not rule that out as a possible option should the need arise."

"Senator, throughout history, candlelight and wine have been a recommended prelude to significant events, but there are experts who argue that wine, or any alcoholic beverage, can have debilitating effects, especially on men in their middle years, causing drowsiness at crucial moments in these events. Would you comment on that?"

Mike Royko

"YES, I AM an advocate of both candlelight and wine, but with certain limitations. One or two glasses at the most, although you might allow, or even encourage, the person with whom you are engaged in what we might call sensitive negotiations to indulge in a bit more, so long as this person is not rendered incapable of bringing the matter under consideration to a satisfactory conclusion."

"We now move on to Ronald Lewd, of the New York Post. Ronald?"

"Senator, it's been said that there are basically two kinds of male Americans -- those who wear the traditional jockey shorts and those who wear the more contemporary tight briefs. What is your choice and why?"

"I believe it is a matter of personal choice and one's anatomy. I prefer briefs. But I don't believe that they are appropriate for everyone. For example, Sen. Paul Simon would probably feel more comfortable in jockey shorts."

"ARE YOU talking about bikini briefs, and if so, what color?"

"Modified bikini, the Jim Palmer brand, and in muted colors. Nothing iridescent. That wouldn't be presidential."

"The next question is from commentator George Won't. George?"

"Senator, I would like to know if you believe, as Rogers and Hammerstein wrote in their immortal 'South Pacific,' that there is potential for a meaningful relationship in seeing a stranger across a crowded room and becoming aware that you will see this individual again and again? In other words, sir, is there such a thing as one enchanted evening?"

"Yes, I believe that with resolve and a clear approach to one's goals, that from a crowded room and a stranger there can evolve an enchanted evening. Or even several enchanted evenings, if you are prudent."

"A FOLLOW-UP question. Under the circumstances I mentioned, in a crowded room, do you advocate a direct gaze or a side/long glance across the crowded room?"

"As a general rule, a sidelong glance serves well as an introductory approach, followed by a direct gaze. However, there are variables, such as one's height. I am fortunate in that I am tall enough to negotiate a direct gaze in the most crowded of rooms."

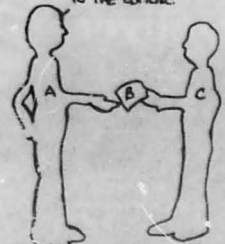

"Our final question is from Velma Prude, of the Christian Science Monitor. Velma?"

"Senator, other than bringing these issues before the voters, did you have any other motive for re-entering this campaign?"

"Yes, Velma. It was the only way I could get out of the house."

Re-election bid by Dunn expected at roast-tribute

By Deedra Lawhead
Staff Writer

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, may announce his 1988 re-election bid tonight.

Dunn is expected to announce his candidacy at 5:30 p.m. in the Old Main Room at the Student Center. Following the announcement, Dunn will be honored at a roast-tribute sponsored by his campaign committee in the International Lounge.

Several state and University officials will participate in the roast-tribute, including Keith Sanders, dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts; Virginia Marmaduke, volunteer ambassador and media consultant for SIU and Dunn's administrative aide; Celeste Stiehl and Joe Hale, former state representatives; state Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis, R-Zion, David Barkhausen, R-Lake Bluff, and Frank Watson, R-Greenville.

Dick Hunter, a Carbondale businessman, will emcee the event.

Dunn spent 12 years as a state representative, and for the last two years, he has served in the state Senate.

Former U.S. attorney represents utility in attempt to escalate rates

CHICAGO (UPI) — Commonwealth Edison Co. has hired former U.S. Attorney Dan Webb to represent the utility in its case for a 27 percent rate increase.

Webb headed the Operation Greyford investigation of corruption in the Cook County Court system as U.S. Attorney Dan Webb to represent the Loop law firm of Winston & Strawn.

Commonwealth Edison last Friday asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for a record 27-percent, $1.4 billion rate increase. Edison at the same time sought a rehearing on its defeated proposal for a 9.6 percent rate increase to be followed by a five-year rate freeze.

Webb admitted his experience in regulatory law is limited, but he said it is very similar to his specialty, trial work.

Webb will act as co-counsel in the new case with attorneys from Isham, Lincoln & Beale.

Edison officials said they did not hire Webb for his reputation, but for his ability as an attorney.

Opponents of the utility, however, say the hiring of Webb is an attempt to bolster Edison's public image.

Deadly snakes, lizards robbery keeps Michigan police on alert

MOUNT MORRIS, Mich. (UPI) — Police Wednesday began following up leads on the whereabouts of 17 "poisonous and very deadly" snakes and 350 reptiles, including a lizard said by its owner to have devoured a pit bull terrier.

The reptiles were stolen from a rental truck parked outside a supper club.

"We've received a few phone calls and our detectives are following them up," Township Police Chief Dick O'Dell said. "We are taking every tip seriously."

O'Dell said the caged reptiles and snakes were stolen from a rented U-Haul truck that also carried guns and $16,000 worth of solar cells and furniture.

The truck was recovered about 2 a.m. Wednesday, with the doors open and the cages containing the snakes and lizards missing, O'Dell said.

Herpetologist Warren Carter of Flint was returning the reptiles, his private collection, to Michigan Technical University in Houghton.

Carter said the collection of snakes and lizards included a 6-foot-long monitor lizard, although the Encyclopedia of Reptiles and Amphibians says the largest monitor lizards reach only about 5 feet in length.

Carter also said the lizard consumed a small pitbull terrier.

"My friend came over with his pit bull," Carter said. "We began talking about which was the meanest. I told him to put his pit bull in the fish tank with the lizard. After that, it was chow time. In ten or five bites, the pit bull was gone."

Steve Conners, curator of the reptile house at the Detroit Zoo, said Carter's story is possible, but the lizard would probably not attack humans.

"A monitor that size could consume a puppy, but an 11-month old pit bull — no way," Conners said. "If the animal fought back, it would kill the lizard."

Rabid bat found in Murphysboro area

By Greg Huber Staff Writer

The first case of rabies in Jackson County this year was reported in Murphysboro by Jackson County animal control officer Lloyd Nelson.

Nelson said a bat, captured Tuesday at the 7th Street high-rise in Murphysboro, tested positive for rabies by the Department of Public Health laboratory in Carbondale.

Radio officer Paul McRoy of the Murphysboro Police Department said he relayed the message to Nelson after getting notification of the positive test results at 4:48 p.m.

Nelson said there is no known human exposure, but advised people to be on the alert for animals, such as bats, which appear debilitated and exhibit unusual behavior such as flopping on the ground. Dead animals also could prove a risk and human contact with them should be avoided.

In cases where a rabid animal is suspected, the Jackson County animal control office should be notified immediately at 684-2157.

Rend Lake cleanup slated as part of 'Pride' campaign

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Rend Lake is organizing a lake cleanup day Saturday, Sept. 12 as part of the national "Take Pride In America" campaign.

"Take Pride In America" is a national public awareness program established to encourage everyone to take pride in the country's natural and cultural resources.

President Reagan introduced the program in his 1986 State of the Union address by stating, "All Americans should take pride in their outstanding public lands and historic sites that belong to everyone."

In an effort to make Rend Lake safer and more enjoyable, the Corps of Engineers is asking any group or individuals interested in helping with the cleanup to contact the Rend Lake Management Office at (618) 724-2493. Preregistration is urged to make necessary arrangements.

School board vote bars AIDS victim from classes

BELLEVILLE (UPI) — The president of a school board that voted to bar a child with AIDS from attending regular classes said Wednesday board members had been concerned about the health of the student and other pupils.

"Our concern was the well-being of the child from a medical standpoint," said David Philip, president of the board of the Belleville Elementary School District, 118.

The board voted unanimously Tuesday night to bar the student, whose identity has not been disclosed, from attending Jefferson School in Belleville.

"It is in the best interest of all the children in the school and the best interest of the child in question," Philip said after the vote was taken. "Our hearts go out to the innocence by which children contract this disease."

Philip said the case was different from a similar controversy that arose this week in Arcadia, Fla. The three young brothers in that case tested positive for exposure to the AIDS virus but had not actually developed the disease, he said.

The child in question in the Belleville case already has full-blown AIDS, Philip said. He said the child was a hemophiliac.

AIDS, acquired immune deficiency syndrome, is a fatal disease that mainly is spread through sexual contact, sharing contaminated needles and exposure to contaminated blood products.

Most children who develop the disease are hemophiliacs exposed to the virus through blood products used to treat their conditions.

The board concluded the child's medical condition would make it easier for the district to provide the child with a quality education at home, Philip said.

Board members also considered the ages of the pupil and potential classmates, he said.

"Our concern was the well-being of that peer group," Philip said. "The child's peer group is not as developed as older children. Children at that age are very active and impulsive."

The board also considered the wishes of the child's parents, he said.

"The board really spent a lot of time considering all the factors," Philip said. "We were very sympathetic to the needs and feelings of the parents and the child."

The decision was reached in a 3 1/2-hour closed session Tuesday night, but the board reconvened and voted in a public session. Classes in the district are scheduled to begin today.

Groups ask Dixon to refute Contra aid

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., should "move to the mainstream" of the Democratic Party and oppose further U.S. funding of the Nicaraguan "Contra" rebels and the nomination of Robert Bork to the Supreme Court, officials with three progressive citizen groups said Wednesday.

Officials with the groups, Illinois Public Action Council, Illinois Impact and Neighbor to Neighbor, said a "no" vote by Dixon would be a key to blocking the aid if President Reagan seeks additional funding this fall. They said they plan to mount a full-scale lobbying campaign, including broadcast advertisements, to convince Dixon to alter his position.

"We simply believe that it's not the correct policy and most Democrats agree with us in the United States Congress and we would like to ask Senator Dixon to move to the mainstream of the Democratic Party and to vote as his fellows have against any further militarization of the region," said Robert Creamer, IPAC's executive director.

Creamer said 48 senators oppose United States support for the Contras and so three votes are needed to block future aid. He said Dixon and Sen. Bill Bradley, D-New Jersey, are the only northern Democrats who have supported Contra funding.

A spokeswoman for Dixon said the senator has not yet decided whether he would vote for more Contra aid. In the past Dixon has supported the funding, but spokeswoman Maureen McMaster said he wants to wait to see if the latest Central American peace initiative work before supporting more aid.

Wife faces jail term in abuse case

MARKHAM (UPI) — The wife of convicted rapist Gary Dotson, who made national news when he was freed from prison two years ago after the alleged victim recanted the charge, faces the prospect of joining her husband at Cook County Jail, prosecutors said Wednesday.

Dotson, 30, who spent six years in prison before Gov. James R. Thompson commuted his sentence to time served based on the recantation testimony of born-again Christian Cathleen Crowell Webb of New Hampshire, has been jailed since Aug. 2 when his wife swore out a battery complaint against him.

Camille Dotson, 26, who charged her husband with beating her and abducting the couple's 6-month-old daughter during a domestic dispute, could be jailed on a contempt of court charge if she persists in her refusal to testify against her husband, prosecutors said.

Participants of all ages may join in a variety of events, ranging from a "Back Seat Driving Contest" to a "Mud Volleyball Tournament," being offered at the 65th Annual Du Quoin State Fair Aug. 29 through Sept. 7.

The "Back Seat Driving Contest" will feature couples traveling a course in golf carts. The driver will be blindfolded while the passenger verbally directs the driver through the course. Rolling pins, clubs, stones, bricks, knives or guns are not allowed. The contest will take place on Aug. 31.

THE 4-H judging contest on Aug. 29 is open to all active members of the 4-H club.

Representatives from SIU-C will be judging steers, heifers, swine and sheep in the livestock show tent in front of the Exhibition Hall.

"4-H Fun Day" on Aug. 30 is open to everyone between the ages of eight and 19. Activities will include a water balloon toss, hula hoop contest, cow chip throw, bubble gum chewing contest and a tug of war contest.

Girls and boys ages one to 20 may enter a baton contest on Aug. 29. The contest will feature three classes; solo baton twirling, basic strut and dance-twirl team. A rosette will be awarded for first-second- and third-place winners in each age group

A "BABY Picture Contest" will be held on the same day. Babies must be one to three years old. Judging will be based on personality and appeal, not on the perfection of the photograph. Ribbons will be awarded for first, second and third place in each age group.

The "Ponytail and Pigtail Contest" on Sept. 6 is open to all children under 17. Length of hair will be the chief factor in judging. In case of a tie, the hair will be judged for neatness and beauty. Ribbons will be awarded to the first five places in each division. An overall champion in both the ponytail and pigtail division will be awarded a trophy. Contestants who fail to comply with the rules will be allowed to recomb their hair.

THE "POM Pon Competition" on Aug. 30 is open to any high school students graduating in 1988 or later. High schools may enter official pond pon squads and each squad must have at least eight contestants. Poms must be used for 75 percent of the routine and the use of props, kicks and dance routines is prohibited. First place teams will receive $150, second place $100 and third place $50.

The "High School Marching Band Contest" will take place during the Twilight Parade on Aug. 28. The bands will be judged on music, showmanship, and marching and maneuvering abilities. The first place band will be awarded $500, second place $250, third place $150 and fourth place $100.

FLOATS WILL also be featured in the Twilight Parade. A Mayor's Award will be given to the float that displays the best originality. A Judges Special Award will be given to the float that displays the best humor and a Manager's Award will be given to the float that displays excellence in craftsmanship.

The "Mud Volleyball Tournament" on Sept. 5 is open to everyone 16 years and older. Each team will have no more than 12 players, with only nine players on the court consisting of five males and four females.

The Twilight Parade will begin at 6 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 28. Admission to the fair is free.

SIU organizations gearing up for fair

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

More than 30 SIU-C organizations will participate in the 65th annual Du Quoin State Fair as the University increases its participation in the fair by approximately 85 percent over last year.

Terry Mathias, associate director for University Relations, said about five organizations participated last year.

The fair will hold an "SIU Day" on Sept. 6.

WSIU-FM and WSIU-TV will be the prominent organizations. WSIU-FM will broadcast "All Things Considered" Monday through Friday from the fair. The station also will broadcast such programs as "Contact," "Take A Music Break" and "A Taste of Jazz."

WSIU-TV, in conjunction with the Illinois State Police, will prepare three-minute videotapes of children for identification purposes. The station will promote the service on air and also will broadcast related safety tips.

Parents may bring their own tape or purchase one at the fair for $3. The tapes are kept by the parents and can be used to help find a missing child.

Staff members from the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections will demonstrate and explain how a lie detector test operates from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

The Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory will display six species of fish that hold promise for fish farming, also known as aquaculture. The exhibit will also display equipment including water quality testing kits, automatic fish feeders and pond aerators.

The Marching Salukis and SIU's Army and Air Force ROTC drill teams will appear in the Twilight Parade beginning at 6 p.m. Aug. 28.

JoJo, of the "JoJo and Friends" children's show, also will appear in the parade and attend a luncheon for foster children at Gov. James R. Thompson's house. WSIU-TV will later produce a show on foster children.

The Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory will present an exhibit on reclamation of surface-mined lands and Illinois wildlife, and the School of Agriculture will show farmers how they can use microcomputers to improve bookkeeping.

Computerized job system at fair matches employers, unemployed

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

A computerized job search, job match system that will link prospective employees with nearly 20,000 jobs available statewide will be exhibited at the Du Quoin State Fair Aug. 29 through Sept. 7.

The Illinois Department of Employment Security's computerized system will identify job openings and applicants looking for work. The computers will display the geographic areas, experience required, hours and salaries of the jobs available.

Visitors will be given a job order number and referred to a jurisdictional employment office to complete an application. The applications will then be screened and job seekers will be referred to specific openings or other suitable opportunities.

Department representatives will also demonstrate to employers how the system accesses nearly 250,000 applications. The applications will reveal the skills and qualifications of people looking for work.

A Job Service Resume System, new to this year's exhibit, will match the qualifications of professionals, managers, technicians and sales persons for employers seeking to fill positions at those levels. Five other states in the Midwest will be cooperating with this new system.

Last year's exhibit drew

17,000 visitors at the Illinois State Fair. The system generated 93,000 job listings and 80 percent of these applicants were directed to an employment office for screening and referral.

This year the agency will code and track applications filed as a result of the agency's marketing effort at both the Illinois and Du Quoin State Fairs, agency director Sally Ward said. The theme of both projects is Employ Illinois.

"One of the agency's most important functions is to match the unemployed or underemployed with job opportunities all over the state," Ward said.

Fair's Agriland offers farming tips

A new exhibit being added to the Du Quoin State Fair, Du Quoin Agriland, will feature new methods of vegetable production including aquaculture, commonly known as fish farming, and forestry.

Demonstrations on harvesting corn, soybeans, hay, mixed plots of corn and soybeans, and large-scale chemical comparison plots are expected to take up the majority of the 250 acres being used for Agriland.

Although about 800 acres of farmland are available, only about 250 acres will be used. More of the land is expected to be used in future Agriland demonstrations.

The exhibit area of Agriland, located on the fairgrounds, will be open during the entire fair, but the field demonstrations of Agriland are scheduled during the five weekdays of the fair, Aug. 31 through Sept. 4.

Fair's winners Disney bound

The best from Southern Illinois will be on display at Disneyland this fall.

Disneyland has invited Du Quoin State Fair winners to participate in "State Fair at Disneyland," a tribute to state fairs beginning in September and running eight weeks.

Varsity to display grad's films

By Curtis Winston
Entertainment Editor

Four short films by cinema and photography graduate Mark Tang will be shown at noon Saturday at the Varsity Theater, 418 S. Illinois.

Tang has invested over $4,000 in the making of one of the films, an eight-minute music and visual clip titled "Slip Away," which will be the third film shown at the midday screening. Admission is free.

The first film shown will be "No. 17," a 12-minute color essay from 1984 about a father and son who own and operate a steam locomotive on the Crab Orchard and Egyptian Railroad in Marion.

Two of the films, "Immigrant Story" and "Remembrance," are documentaries dealing with Tang's Chinese heritage.

"Immigrant Story" was shot in New York during 1986 and '87 and will be the second film shown. It is a 14-minute black and white documentary featuring still images of the Chinese-American immigrant experience.

The last film to be shown is "Remembrance," which is also a documentary but features live action and narration by Tang. The black and white and color film was shot over a 10-year span from 1977 to '87 in Philadelphia.

Tang's personal feelings as an immigrant are explored in "Remembrance," while documenting the life of another immigrant, an elderly Chinese-American man who lived in Philadelphia's Chinatown.

"Slip Away," filmed earlier this year in April and May was shot at night in Carbondale. The 35mm color film is a musical narrative.

The music features electronic sounds played by Henderson and tenor sax John Phillips

David T. Henderson, a theory and composition graduate in the School of Music, composed the jazzy music the film is based on. The music features electronic sounds played by Henderson and tenor saxophone by former Love Rhino reed man John Phillips.

The four films are for the completion of Tang's Master of Fine Arts Degree. Tang also is exhibiting some of his photography Aug. 24 to Aug. 28 at the Vergette Gallery in SIU-C's Allyn Building.

Fraternity garners merit award

By Michele Eskine
Staff Writer

The Alpha Tau Omega fraternity has received its ninth True Merit Award in 14 years from a national convention of fraternity officers.

The award is given in recognition for scholastic achievement, community service and campus involvement.

"Out of 160 ATO chapters in the country, only SIU-C and 13 other schools got awards," Corey Gustin, ATO president, said. "That means less than 10 percent got the award."

Last year, the ATO fraternity's "Saluki in Wonderland" float won the homecoming competition. The ATO's also won the car competition and an ATO member was named homecoming king for the fourth year in a row.

Members of the ATO house are involved with community services such as the Special Olympics and the Red Cross blood drive. The fraternity won an award from the Red Cross for the most hours donated to the campus blood drive in 1987.

"We don't worry as much about partying as being involved," Gustin said.

Sources of calcium in a tie

Milk, supplements equally as effective, researchers claim

BOSTON (UPI) — Calcium pills are apparently as effective as milk and other dairy products at providing the body with the mineral believed helpful for preventing the bone-thinning disease osteoporosis, researchers said Wednesday.

The Baylor University Medical Center scientists compared five types of calcium supplements with milk and found the digestive system absorbed them all about equally.

"The observation of similar calcium absorption from various calcium salts and milk in healthy young subjects suggests that there is little reason to choose one source of calcium over another on the basis of efficiency of calcium absorption," the researchers wrote in The New England Journal of Medicine.

"Other variables, such as cost, the number of tablets to be ingested, and intolerance to milk products, are more pertinent in the choice of a source of supplemental calcium," they said.

As many as 20 million Americans, primarily women, suffer from osteoporosis, a thinning of the bones that is believed responsible for about 1 million bone fractures each year.

Health officials recommend women consume between 1,000

'It is possible that some unidentified characteristic of elderly persons may affect calcium absorption from different sources differently.'

— Baylor University scientists and 1,500 milligrams of calcium a day to reduce their chances of developing osteoporosis. But the researchers noted that about 50 percent of American women between the ages of 18 and 70 are estimated to ingest less than 500 milligrams of calcium a day.

"The extra recommended calcium must come from calcium-rich foods (mainly dairy products) or calcium supplements, they said. The makers of calcium supplements and the National Dairy Board have made various claims that their products are absorbed more easily.

To test this, the researchers measured the amount of calcium absorbed by eight healthy men ages 25 to 30 after they took 500 milligrams of calcium through each supplement and drank milk containing the same amount of calcium.

Although the study involved men, the researchers said previous studies have shown that calcium absorption does not differ significantly between men and women.

The scientists did note, however, that the findings may not be applicable to older people.

"It is possible that some unidentified characteristic of elderly persons may affect calcium absorption from different sources differently, and only further studies in elderly subjects can address this question," they said.

Ron Hamel of the National Dairy Board maintained that dairy products are the best source of calcium because they contain other minerals that help the body absorb calcium.

"We're positive about calcium and feel that dairy product calcium is more bioavailable than other forms of calcium," he said in a telephone interview.

And Dr. Bess Dawson Hughes of the USDA Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University questioned the method the researchers used for measuring the amount of calcium absorbed.

Pentagon OKs combat pay for gulf personnel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday it will give what used to be called combat pay to about 10,000 military personnel serving in the Persian Gulf region, but officials denied the move would bolster arguments that the War Powers Act should be invoked.

The extra money, now technically known as "imminent danger" pay, is $110 a month and will be given to those who spend at least six days in a designated region that includes the entire Persian Gulf, the northern part of the Gulf of Oman, the Strait of Hormuz and the countries of Bahrain and Kuwait.

The pay began Tuesday, officials said, meaning that someone who served the remainder of August in the region would receive the pay for the month.

The move comes only weeks after Pentagon officials told members of Congress that the special pay was not being considered.

However, David Armor, a deputy assistant defense secretary, said Wednesday the decision to provide the increased pay was made in the past week, after a request from the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the commander in chief of the U.S. Central Command. He said the White House approved of the move.

"We rely upon an assessment of the local conditions and this ... has been a very dynamic situation," Armor said. "Many changes and new events happen each week."

Weinberger says allies to help in gulf

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the United States and other nations plan to send additional warships to the Persian Gulf, the Los Angeles Times reported Wednesday.

Weinberger suggested in an interview that other European nations — in addition to Britain and France, which already have dispatched six modern mine sweepers and an aircraft carrier to the region — will soon be sending military vessels to the gulf, the Times reported. The countries were not named.

"I think that what we have now is sufficient to do what is required today, but that is by no means static or final," Weinberger said. "The important thing is to have increased capabilities ... in that area."

In Washington, a Navy spokesman said Weinberger's comments did not mean the United States was planning any increased military presence in the Persian Gulf. The spokesman said Weinberger's remarks about "increased capabilities" referred to the British and French mine sweepers.

Officials in the Netherlands are close to a decision on whether to send several mine sweepers to the region and Italy is debating whether to join the gulf force, Pentagon sources told the Times.

Weinberger hinted that other European nations might join the effort and that Japan might help finance it. Japan gets almost two-thirds of its oil from the gulf, but is prohibited by its post-World War II constitution from operating a seagoing navy.

Pentagon sources and independent estimates indicate the United States has 47 Navy ships, including an aircraft carrier and a battleship, and 25,000 men in and around the gulf or steaming toward the region, the paper said. The force also includes several amphibious assault ships carrying an estimated 1,800 Marines.

A second battle group based around the aircraft carrier Ranger is reportedly preparing to enter the region, and military sources said Tuesday the battleship Iowa has been alerted to prepare for possible gulf duty.

The Navy is preparing to send five high-speed hydrofoil missile patrol boats, which could be used to intercept the machine gun-equipped Iranian speedboats that have been shadowing U.S. warships, sources told the newspaper.

Weinberger said the massive Western naval buildup is designed to keep "international waters open and available for non-belligerent legal commerce," particularly Kuwait and other gulf states whose public position is one of neutrality.

Lengthy quest yields sword

Japanese soldier recovers family heirloom after searching 42 years

CLINTON, Conn. (UPI) — A Japanese soldier who lost his family's 350-year-old samurai sword during World War II traveled to America to recover the cherished weapon 42 years later, saying he had been "lonesome and embarrassed" without it.

Usaburo Ishijima, 72, of Kyoto, Japan, arrived Tuesday night to accept the sword from Jesse Brazee Jr. of Clinton, a concrete truck driver who bought it five years ago.

It was the first time Ishijima had touched the family heirloom since it was taken away from him in 1945 when he was captured by U.S. soldiers in the closing days of World War II.

"The sword is a family treasure. I felt lonesome and embarrassed without it," Ishijima said through an interpreter.

ISHIJIMA EMBRACED Brazee, 35, who he never had met and who was not even born when the soldier was captured. Also on hand to exchange embraces were Ishijima's wife, Sueko, his sister-in-law Teruko Ichieig and Brazee's wife Audrey.

"He was overjoyed to say the least," but tired, Brazee said of the former army lieutenant, with whom he exchanged letters for four years.

"I don't know if I could feel any better than I could feel right now," Brazee said Wednesday. "This is one of the greatest things I think I've done in a long time."

He said he was "astonished" when he received the first letter from Brazee in 1982 telling him he bought the 3-foot-sword a year earlier for $450 from a karate instructor.

BRAZEE SAID he became curious when he discovered a tattered "rag" scribbled with Japanese characters attached to the handle of the sword that an expert said was made about 1650.

He said he had the characters translated and learned the sword belonged to a young lieutenant in the Japanese Army. With the help of Japanese officials, Brazee found Ishijima still lived in Kyoto, a retired accountant with two children.

Ishijima said he would have come sooner but is on a pension and had to accumulate his savings. He said he plans to tour the country by bus before returning to Japan.

During their correspondence, Ishijima began to learn English and finally to write in English.

"I feel like he and I are really good friends," said Brazee. "I feel like I've known him for a long time."

In his letters, Ishijima gave instructions to Brazee on how to care for the blade, expressing his appreciation for the concern and care shown by Brazee.

In one letter Ishijima said, "Deep in my heart you have found a place."

Brazee, a burly truck driver, said he was happy with gifts Ishijima brought him from Japan, including a vase, fans and kimonos. He said he was surprised they found a kimono to fit him.

"They got the largest one they could find," Brazee said.

Coleman leads Cardinals to win over Astros

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Vince Coleman had three hits, three steals and his first over-the-fence home run Wednesday afternoon, leading the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-4 victory over the Houston Astros.

Coleman also scored three runs, including the game-winner when he scored on Tommy Herr's grounder to drawn-in shortstop Dale Berry with one out in the seventh inning.

Ken Dayley, 8-4, was the winner despite giving up two runs in the seventh. He pitched the last three innings in relief of starter John Tudor.

Coleman led off the seventh against reliever Juan Agosto, 1-1, with a double to right-center. Ozzie Smith bunted him to third before Herr hit his sharp grounder to Berra. Berra gave Coleman, already 25 feet down the line, a snap look and saw that he wasn't moving before throwing to first to get Herr.

As soon as Berra turned his head, however, Coleman took off to the plate and slid under the tag of catcher Robbie Wine, who had taken first baseman Glenn Davis' hurried and high throw.

It was the second straight night Coleman contributed with three hits. The speedster now has 301 career steals in less than three full seasons at the major league level.

Dayley started the seventh in relief of Tudor and gave up a one-out single to Wine and a two-out single to Gerald Young before Hatcher's hit.

Tudor retired the first two batters he faced in the game but gave up a bouncing infield single to second to Bill Doran and a home run to Glenn Davis, his 21st, on a 1-2 pitch, as Houston got off to a 2-0 start.

Jack Clark matched Davis' two-run home run in the Cardinals' half of the inning. Herr singled to short after starter Jim Deshaies got the first two out and Clark lined a 2-2 pitch into the left field seats for his 34th home run, most by a Cardinal since Dick Allen hit that many 1970.

Coleman singled to lead off the third, stole second for his 83th stolen base of the season and 300th of his three-year career, then stole third and scored on a sacrifice fly by Smith to give St. Louis a 3-2 lead.

Coleman came up with one out in the fifth and lined a 2-1 pitch over the right field fence. The left fielder had an inside-the-park home run in 1985 but this was his first over the fence. It came in his 1,914th plate appearance in the major leagues.

her serving and her blocking, which is immensely valuable to us."

There's no doubt in Hunter's mind that Winsett will follow through on improving the techniques learned on the trip. Not only is she intelligent, a chemistry major with a perfect 4.0 grade point average, she is "a heads-up player with a tremendous work ethic."

With credentials like that, it's only a matter of time before Winsett establishes herself as a major contributor to the 1987 season.

NCAA drug-testing plans dealt blow via court order

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — A judge issued on Wednesday a temporary restraining order preventing the NCAA from requiring Stanford to obtain written consents to drug testing from its athletes.

The order, by Santa Clara County Superior Court Judge Conrad Rushing, prevents the NCAA from requiring the forms until a decision can be made on the constitutionality of the drug-testing program itself.

A hearing was set for Sept. 29 to determine whether there would be a permanent injunction.

Stanford is the first university to challenge the NCAA over the drug-testing issue.

"I'm excited that we don't have to sign the waiver and that I will at least get to play until the 29th," Jennifer Hill, co-captain of the women's soccer team and one of three Stanford athletes who sued the NCAA over the drug-testing issue, said of Rushing's decision.

"There's an important right here, and, if I don't stick up for it, maybe no one will."

Rushing, in making the order, said he would like to find a common ground between the extreme positions taken by the NCAA and Stanford.

"I don't believe there is a foolproof drug test," he said. "There may be, and, if so, I would like you to show it to me. I'm also interested to know whether there is a distinction between sports."

"It strikes me that some drugs enhance performance (in some sports)."

Stanford Athletic Director Andy Geiger said, "We're kind of limbo. This issue needs to be decided. We're concerned about the same things our students are concerned with — invasion of privacy, an overly broad program that covers more than 3,000 substances and inadequate due process."

In March, the court found that the drug-testing program probably was unconstitutional and enjoined the NCAA from enforcing the program against S. Monte LeVant, a diver who graduated in June. The case is being continued by Hill and J. Barry McKeever, a linebacker on the football team.

Under the NCAA's drug-testing program, athletes are required to take drug tests before they participate in such post-season competition as bowl games and national championships, but all athletes are required to sign the consent forms before they participate in any intercollegiate competition.

On July 23, a Seattle judge declared the University of Washington's drug-testing program unconstitutional and prevented the school from enforcing it.

SIU softball squad inks recruit;

Saluki softball coach Kay Brechtelsbauer has announced the signing of Angie LeMonnier, a hard-hitting southpaw first baseman from Tinley Park.

LeMonnier attended Victor J. Andrew High School, where she hit for a .324 average and won both all-conference and all-state honors. She also has played for the Orland Park Sparks, an Amateur Softball Association team which finished 17th at the ASA nationals this spring.

"Angie has a good stretch at first base and she digs the ball out of the dirt well," Brechtelsbauer said. "Since she has trained specifically for first base, I expect she'll be able to make a big contribution to the team."

LeMonnier's ASA experience will be a big bonus, Brechtelsbauer said. "Quality ASA experience is important to collegiate success, because you're competing on a regular basis with and against the same caliber of athletes who play collegiately," Brechtelsbauer said.

The signing of LeMonnier completes the largest recruiting list ever inked by Brechtelsbauer in 21 years of coaching softball at SIU-C. Eight incoming recruits could see action this semester.

Cubs not giving up on '87 but will look toward future

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs were deeply involved in the NL Eastern Division race at one time this season, and still believe a hot two weeks could put them back into it.

That early pennant fever kept anyone from proclaiming 1987 a season of development for the Cubs, even though that is exactly what it has turned out to be.

From Opening Day, the Cubs' pitching staff has had at least three, and as many as five, youngsters on the active roster at any one time. Among the regulars, outfielders Dave Martinez and Rafael Palmeiro have been getting constant work along with infielders Paul Noce, Mike Brumley and Luis Quinones.

None of those players had as much as a half season of experience when this season started, a fact that was overlooked as the Cubs slid out of the race in July and August.

"That real good start put the expectations a little higher than they might have been otherwise," Cubs Manager Gene Michael said.

Youthful pitchers Jamie Moyer, Les Lancaster and Greg Maddux are three of five Cubs' pitchers with more than 10 starts for the Cubs this season. Moyer, 24, who ranks second behind Rick Sutcliffe in starts this season, had 16 appearances going into the season. Through Aug. 25 of this season, Moyer was 10-10 with a 5.07 ERA and twice flirted with no-hitters.

Lancaster, 25, a Double A pitcher last year, was put into the starting rotation at mid-season. Called up twice by the Cubs this season, he was 3-1 with a 5.40 ERA in 10 starts entering the last week of August.

Maddux, 21, who had a record of 6-11 and an ERA of 5.40 when he was sent down to Triple A in late August, pitched in six games for the Cubs last season.

Michael said he could imagine all three in Chicago's rotation next year, although he said there was no guarantee. All three carried a heavy burden this season, Michael said, and Maddux, the youngest player in the NL, suffered the most.

"Maddux slipped a little bit because he lost concentration," Michael said. "Jamie is further ahead right now but Maddux will catch up. Lancaster makes mistakes, like balks, but he has good makeup and tries hard. I like him a lot."

Despite their inexperience, Michael said it would have been a mistake to keep any of them at the Triple A level and being up one each season.

Martinez, 22, has been an outstanding success story, one which Michael loves to tell. After hitting impressively in the minor leagues, he played in 53 games with the Cubs in 1986 but batted just .159 with an 0-for-11 start.

He was supposed to platoon in center field with Bob Dernier this season, but Martinez had a miserable start. He started to make excuses and Michael became upset with the youngster.

"I didn't want to hear excuses," Michael said. "I'm not saying that it had an effect, but right after that he started hitting."

Now he is batting .307, almost exclusively against right-handers, with only four errors in center field.

Palmeiro, a 22-year-old power-hitting outfielder, has been on the Cubs' cusp for a couple of years and now Michael has him working out at first base, trying to find a place for him. Used almost exclusively as a pinch-hitter, he is batting .274 with eight home runs, eight doubles and a triple.

Because of injuries to second baseman Ryne Sandberg and shortstop Shawn Dunston, Michael has had to use Noce, Brumley and Quinones as starters. Noce, 26, is the oldest of the three but like the others has no major league experience before this year.

Sandberg and Dunston were both injured in June, splitting up the double-play combination that was together all of last season. None of the youngsters hit the way Sandberg and Dunston do, and Michael thinks that hurt the Cubs as much as having a young pitching staff.

Atkinson gridders left out for '87; team vote cancels entire season

ATKINSON, Ill. (UPI) — The 18 players who turned out to play for Atkinson High School's football team, which finished 9-0 two years ago, have voted to cancel the 1987 season at the state's third-smallest football playing school.

Bob Graves, Atkinson's first-year football and boys' basketball coach, said it was frustrating putting in the preparation work for a season that won't take place, but he said he respected the decision.

Larry Wilcoxon of Tampico, president of the Indian Valley Conference, said other conference schools knew there was a possibility Atkinson would not play this fall.

Because Atkinson waited until the first week of school to drop the program, other Indian Valley schools will be able to collect a forfeit and the 12-team, two-division league will retain two automatic berths for the Illinois High School Association playoffs.

Students wanted for SPORT-FEST

By Greg Huber
Staff Writer

Billed as SIU-C's all-sports event of the year, SPORT-FEST '87 should help ease the trauma associated with the first week back at school.

Activities begin at 11 a.m. and run till 7 p.m. Sunday at the Grand Avenue Playfield; across from the Recreation Center.

A shuttle bus will provide transportation for students living at Thompson Point, and will leave from Lentz Hall. The bus will start service at 10:30 and continue until 7 p.m. There are as yet no set times, and the bus will probably run as necessary.

Team events include 16-inch softball, Ultimate Frisbee, volleyball, mud volleyball, flag football and tug-of-war.

Intramurals coordinator Buddy Goldammer said the mud volleyball setup will feature a pit about a foot deep which will be hosed down by the fire department, which will allow folks to wallow around in the mud a bit.

For students interested in the tug-of-war, sign up is from 11 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., and competition will start at 1 p.m.

Individual events include disc golf, a home run derby from noon to 2:45, a softball throw from 3 to 5:45 p.m., a wheelchair obstacle course, hacky sack singles and badminton singles.

Entries for all individual and dual events, aside from the home run derby and the softball throw, will be taken until 5:30 p.m.

Music will be provided by WIDB.

A first aid station and information booth will be located on Park Street across from Brush Towers to aid participants.

There will be awards, prizes and giveaways for participants, and free soft drinks will be provided.

However, Goldammer emphasized this will be an alcohol-free event and the ban includes those who would try to smuggle it in coolers and the like. Goldammer says just don't bring it to avoid any problems.

SPORT-FEST, the first-ever to be held at SIU, is co-sponsored by Intramural Recreational Sports and University Housing.

Far East action should improve Winsett's skills

Saluki volleyball middle blocker Beth Winsett got the chance to act on two important facets of her life this summer, even if she had to do it thousands of miles from home.

As a member of Athletes in Action, Winsett demonstrated both her Christian faith and volleyball ability on a tour of the Far East with a squad of Division I players.

"The Athletes in Action is a branch of the Campus Crusade for Christ. Once we got over there, we practiced and played their national and university level," she says. "I was though was the witness program (which involved Bible study and fellowship)," Winsett says.

The squad made nine-day stops at Manila in the Philippines, at Seoul, South Korea and at Tokyo, Japan, all between June 15 and July 18.

Winsett is the third Salukis volleyball player to be involved with the program. Lisa Cummins went on two tours: to China in 1984 and South America in '85. Jill Broker went to South America in '84.

After being accepted, Winsett was sent to San Francisco, where the team trained and studied for the trip for a week. She says one highlight of the stay was practicing at a country club.

Saluki coach Debbie Hunter says the exposure of playing against some of the best competition in the world will help Winsett.

"Beth gained valuable experience facing that high level of play. She will bring more poise, more composure to our team," Hunter said.

Winsett found that just being on the court every day makes a difference in her skill level.

"Just playing all summer helps, more so than just training. Volleyball is so technical with so many skills it's difficult to master unless you practice," she says.

A 5-11 junior, Winsett is in contention for a middle blocker's starting slot. Last year, she had a 25 percent success rate in 25 matches. She hopes she gleaned some playing tips from her Eastern counterparts.

"I really watched their defensive movements and saw how they developed court sense," Winsett said.

Hunter said Winsett also developed a better understanding of the game.

"Beth learned a few more shots and something about strategy. She now understands the value of consistent play. We're determined to develop

Saluki gridders ranked 15th in preseason poll

The 1987 Saluki football team will begin the season with a No. 15 national ranking, up two notches from the No. 17 ranking tagged on SIU-C at the end of the 1986 season.

Saluki coach itay Dorr said he was pleased with the preseason ranking released by the NCAA, but was even happier that his team managed to move up during the off season.

"It's good to see that we moved up after that final loss to Western Illinois," Dorr said. "It shows people think a lot of your program."

"I don't think the football program or athletics department is any different than any other department on campus," he added. "We all reach for excellence and recognition."

Dorr added that the national ranking didn't come without disadvantages, though.

"Now it's important for us to realize that people will have their eyes on us," Dorr said. "It'll be the responsibility of the coaches and the players to live up to the expectations set by the preseason polls."

He added that the national ranking, combined with the way things look on paper, pressure will be a constant factor at the Saluki camp this season.

With three of the first four games at home, two of which are crucial Gateway Conference games, Dorr said his team has a good chance to get off to a fast start — a good indication that the pressure to win early has already begun.

"The first four weeks is a great element in our schedule," Dorr, who divides the schedule into "quarters," said.

The second phase of the schedule, Dorr said, would be a test against the I-A school's on the lineup, Kansas and Fresno State.

Dorr classifies the third part of the schedule as a battle against teams he's never beaten since assuming the head coaching position four years ago. Both Arkansas State, ranked No. 2 in the NCAA preseason poll, and Western Illinois, have never lost to a Dorr-coached squad.

The final quarter of the season puts the Salukis on the road for three consecutive Gateway Conference games.

Despite closing the season with league favorite Northern Iowa, the Salukis, picked to finish second behind UNI, can't look forward to the matchup as the game of the season, Dorr said.

"Hey, the championship game as far as I'm concerned is Sept. 12 (when the Salukis face their first C-1 way opponent of the season)," Dorr said. "We have to take them one at a time and prove we deserve the national ranking."

"If it comes own to a championship game situation between us and Northern Iowa, it'll be because we made it the championship game."
