Carbondale Police have begun ticketing houses for having trash in their front yards, like this one on to doorsteps::::

By Jennifer Camden Daily Egyptian Reporter

The blue-gray dawn broke over Carbondale Sunday morning, dis-playing innumerable bottles, cans plastic cups from Saturday night's parties to early morning housing inspectors.

Inspectors from Carbondale's Building and Neighborhood Services division began ticketing residents for litter violations at 8 a.m. Inspectors issued about 20 tick-ets Saturday and Sunday mornings, Tom Redmond, division director,

Redmond said the amount of litter in student housing areas this week-end was normal because it was the first weekend of the semester, and there were a lot of parties.

John Archambeault, a junio English from Joliet living at 401 W. College St., said he and his roommates received littering tickets on Friday and Sunday because of their weekend parties. "I don't see what the problem is as long as we clean up the trash at a reasonable hour the next day," Archambeault, whose Sunday morning ticket was written at 9:45 a.m., said, "I wouldn't call that a reasonable hour."

Of this weekend's 20 tickets. Redmond said about half will be processed, meaning those cited will either appear in Carbondale's cirrt, where the fines range from $10 to $500, or those cited will opt to send a pay-by-mail fine of $50.

Redmond said people having parties should pick up trash the same night, before the litter is blown onto the street or onto neighbors' yards.

Shannon Waggoner, an undecided sophomore from Park Ridge who is living at 510 Beveridge St., received a warning ticket Saturday morning for litter from Friday night's party.
"He (the inspector) gave us time to clean it up," Waggoner said.
Redmond said inspectors usually give residents an unprocessed ticket for their first offense, which serves as a warn-"I sometimes wonder if people would do the same thing in their hometowns if they lived next to their parents' house.

While some residence hall students living in basements await a phone call to inform them that they can move from a temporary to a pe manent room, Corine Polly says she wanted to continue living in a basement room with five other females.

Warren Hall gave her the option of moving to Kellogg Hall in Thompson Point or waiting for er room while continuing to live in the basement.

Polly said she would have rather stayed in the basement. But she said she decided to take the room in Kellogg Hall because she was afraid of being moved to Brush Towers on the other side of campus if she wait-

Dear Professed Christian,

Is the disparity between God's Holy Word and that which is taught of no concern to you?

From The Catholic Life Edition Bible: Matthew 1:18, "Now the origin (birth) of Christ was in this wise. When Mary his mother had been betrothed to Joseph, before they came together" (married and consummated it), she was found to be with child by the Holy Spirit." Matthew 1:25, "and he did not know her" (as a wife) "till she brought forth her first born son." (note first born), "and he called his name Jesus." Matthew 13:55, "is this not the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary, and his brethren." (brothers) "James and Joseph and Simon and Jude." 56, "and his sisters, are they not all with us?" (sister is one, sisters is two, all is three

Paul in Galatians 1:19, "But I saw none of the other Apostles, except James, the brother of the Lord."

According to Jesus Christ who is the work of God, John 1:14, Mary had at least seven more children after christ.

Is Mary "Ever Virgin" as is taught? Impossible, except that Jesus lied to us. And being God, it is impossible for him to lie.

My question is this, is not Mary, Ever Virgin, another gospel which is not, that Paul Speaks of in Galatians, Ch.1, the teachers of which are accursed?

Drills aimed at student retention

Mock survival scenarios help freshmen get acquainted

By Julie Rendleman Daily Egyptian Reporter

Having freshmen swing across a "gorge" so they will not "die" from a "terminal illness" is just new way the College of Applied Sciences and Arts is encouraging students to not with-draw from SIUC before they complete their degrees.

The College of Applied Sciences and Arts — formerly the College of Technical Careers — is dealing with retention by having freshmen participate in mock survival scenarios to get to know each Mike Behrmann, General Motors Automotive Service Education Program coordinator, said the college's Automotive Technology Department helped freshmen get better acquainted with each other by taking them to the SIUC Touch of Nature camp near Giant City State Park earlier this month.

We were out there for the GM ASEP program, which is a program to train tomorrow's GM automotive service technicians," Behrmann said this is the first year for the program, and students in automotive technology are required to participate.

This was a pilot test to help give students an identity to help with retention," he said. This program helps them get to know each Behrmann said the Touch of Nature employees teach the students togetherness by teaching them survival skills.

"In one exercise, the students are all dying of an illness, and they have to swing across a rope," he Behrmann said the Automotive Technology, Department has always tried to help students build their identities and adjust to col-

Area lawmakers did a fine job with new harassment policy

IT IS HARD TO BELIEVE THAT A PERSON found guilty of phone harassment in the past, no matter how many times, was only fined $75. But all of that is now a thing of the past thanks to a recent law that makes phone harassment a felony in Illinois.

-The legislation to put tougher restrictions on phone harass ment was sponsored by Sen. Dave Lucthtefeld! R Okawville, and State Rep. Mike Bost, R - Murphysboro. Both of these men deserve to be commended for their actions to help deter these types of offenses.

Although phone harassment may not seem as serious to some, to those involved it can be a very traumatic experience. Not only does it cause them distress, but such offenses also waste valuable police time that could be used for more serious actions.

PHONE HARASSMENT HAS BEEN USED AS A way for people to get revenge on some, as well as using it as a way to sexually harass others. Victims are often left with a feeling of helplessness, as well as a sense of fear, even in their own homes.

Gov. Jim Edgar signed the bill into law on July 25. This law now makes multiple offenders of phone harassment subject to felony charges under the Illinois Obscene Phone Call Until recently, all forms of phone harassment were considered misdemeanors. This meant that the harassment charge only carried $75 fine. The only way it went beyond a misdemeanor charge was if there was any type of verbal threat made to the receiver. But even if it went that far, a person would only be sentenced to six months in prison, which means they could be out in three months with good behavior. Basically, if an offender knew which rules to follow and didn't mind paying $75, the offender could commit such an offense with little consequence.

THE NEW LAW STATES THAT A PERSON charged a second or third time with phone harassment in subject to a $1,000 or up to one year in prison. A fourth offense would be classified as a Class 4 felony, punishable by a $10,000 fine or three years in prison.

Not only is phone harassment a serious offense because of the fear it initiates in the victim, it also consumes valuable police time. The manpower it takes to investigate these claims only wastes valuable time and money. This new law is a good way to deter would-be felons, forcing them to reconsider their actions.

There is nothing good that can come from harassing another person over the phone. A person's security is taken away, and the feeling of power one can get is certainly criminal. This type of action borders on sexual assault to a point; and this law can prevent that from happening in the future. Criminals found guilty of this action will be prosecuted, and maybe then other people will realize just how serious it is.

"The door to the past is a strange door. It swings open and things pass through it, but they pass in one direction only. No man can return across that threshold, though he can look down still and see the green light waver in the water weeds.

Letter is an insult to believers

In their letter (Daily Egyptian, Aug. 22), Mr. Hild and Mr. Nicholson insulted the beliefs of those of us who would like to believe in unexplained phenome-na and paranormal activity. As an amateur researcher in these fields,

I feel as though I must respond:
Many people have devoted their lives to finding out the truth and educating the often mocking pub-lic about paranormal activities. "The 1957 UFO war" was actual-"The 1957 UFO war" was actual-ly a single spaceship shot down over Nevada by the government. It was immediately taken to area I and has not been seen again. ewitnesses to the event said the ship was flying much to low for a UFO and was wobbling on its axis. From this, researchers have concluded the ship was most likein distress before the encounter. More to the point, in the thousands of reported alien encounters, most involved obtrusive curiosity on the part of the aliens; but there are no known accounts of unwarranted aggression.
'Most credible researchers dismissed theories concerning the existence of sea monsters over a century ago. They believe that reports of seamonsters were most likely sea animals such as giant quids and manatees.

The search for sasquatch, how ever, is still very much alive, espe-cially in the Northwestern U.S. and select areas of Ohio. Scientists are constantly finding new evidence to prove that sasquatch exist, including some exciting DNA testing on the fur found in quatch nests.

Of all the unexplained happen-ings in the Hild/Nicholson letter, the one they seem to mock the most is the werewolf. They may be interested to know that since the fall of the Soviet Union hitherto secret research has been revealed concerning the werewolf erning the werewolf population of Western Russia. One of the more interesting observa-tions is that werewolves seem impervious to bullets including silver ones. The only werewolf reported terminated to date was killed with a high-powered. Russian army explosive projectile. This left minimal remains of scientific value. Mr. Hild and Mr. Nicholson should find other, less construed reasons to keep their arsenals, such as the threatening resurgence of communism across the world in the form of the upcoming New World Government. Please, keep gun control out of the paranormal debate.

Editorial wrong about grading

The editorial in the Aug. 22 Daily Egyptian is to be commended for its thought and intent, but it obviously was written without making an effort to seriously learn why the request for the re-estab-lishment of the absent (ABS) grade was initiated.

At the end of each semester when final grades are assigned; in many classes there are always a number of students for whom there are no grades beyond the first subsequent exams and any other graded work that has been assigned. The basis for no grades is the student simply has stopped coming to class and participating in the learning process for what ever reason he/she may have. The student also may never ever attended one class and yet has not officially dropped the class either for some known or unknown rea son. The instructor who is teaching that course may therefore have little or no basis upon which to assign a grade, yet the University requires the instructor to assign a grade. Thus, with little or no evidence of student performance, the only assignable grade is an F. That grade is certainly not an "earned" grade and the student cannot be judged on anything but

The ABS grade (recognizing an unauthorized" withdrawal from class) can then be distinguished from an F grade that is earned by student's performance on all items of assessment required in the class: The earned F grade, in many cases, may well be the conse-quence of the student's poor performance as a result of poor attendance in a "boring" class. There is a very high correlation between grades earned and attenhave been vilified for their high failure rate, when in fact a reason ably large proportion of the F es assigned are due to the former situation (unauthorized withdrawal) rather than the latter.

Your comments about a student being graded on performance rather than attendance may hold true for some courses, yet there are many others where attendance is an important component of the performance. like laboratories, peech classes, etc. Regardless of how boring a class may be, students who do not go to class are wasting either their money, their parent's money, the axpayer's money, or a combination of all three.

Not exactly 'headed for the future'

Ever since high school, when I spent prom night with my cappucci-no maker and a Faulkner novel, I have felt a little out of step with my peers. Somehow I just haven't been able to fit in with my generation.

I stopped wearing my Mondale-Ferraro campaign button.

I finally acknowledged the fact that categories probably are not going to make the kind of comeback for which I had hoped.

I even broke down and bought a Discman — which I promptly con-nected to my 8-track player so I could enjoy its state-of-the-art quadrophonic sound while listening to my Manilow CDs.
However, I think I've found my niche in this hip, technologically advanced, politically cornect world. I may not understand the "grunge look," but I have finally joined the

I stumbled across my link to the modern world quite by accident.

After hearing about the Internet for the past three years, I decided to test its capacities by using a search engine to see if I could find an outlet for Remington manual typewriter rib-

I typed in the keyword "Reming-on" and waited, Within seconds, a list of websites involving that word appeared on my screen — among them, the "Remington Steele" home age. What?

Certain it must be a mistake, I clicked on the link and watched as a full-color image of Stephanie Zimbalist, circa 1984, appeared on

It must be too good to be true. Surely people as out of the loop as I am could not be allowed to create sites on the Internet. When I found myself in the front row of a Neil Diamond concert last summer, screaming like a banshee while my mother sat quietly, looking rather embarrassed, I thought I must Surely I did not belong in the '90s my presence here must have been the result of some cosmic clerical error. I belonged in the '70s and was simply stuck in this decade by mistake, forever doomed to wander the world in search of a discotheque. Maybe not.

In 1986, Neil Diamond released an album called "Headed for the Future." Hm .....

Inspired by my discovery of the tribute to Pierce Brosnan: The Weenie Years, I typed in another keyword and waited anxiously.

spent the next hour in my own personal heaven, scrolling through page after page of photos and reviews and mail-order offers in "Diamond-" the official Neil Diamond home page.

A great weight was lifted from my shoulders as I skimmed the articles and drooled over the souvenirs advertised on my screen.

To someone who has never known the alienation of being an easy listen-ing fan, the discovery of a single website may seem trivial. But words cannot describe the camaraderie I felt as I read letters from people who actually own more Neil Diamond LPs than I do.

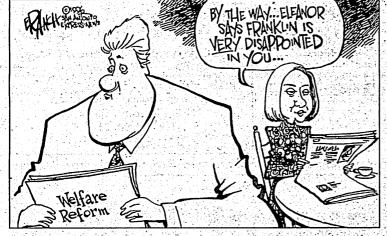

There is a place in this decade for cople like me, and it's a beautiful thing. Hey, it may not be hip, but it's

The Chicago Tribune topic: Kevorkian

Sometimes, a person who wants to die needs help living, not dying.

That would seem to have been true in the sad case of Judith Curren, a 42-year-old nurse and mother of two who committed suicide last week with the assistance of Dr. Jack Kevorkian. She became the 35th known person whom the controversial "suicide doctor" has helped

Keyorkian, who has been prosecuted in five of those deaths but has never been convicted, maintains that his mission is to relieve suffering and that an "unfortunate, unavoidable" consequence of that is death

But Curren was suffering from chronic fatigue syn drome, a weight problem and depression. In fact, her death was hardly 'unavoidable," and it was far more tragic than 'unfortunate."

None of Curren's conditions was life-threatening—the coroner has since questioned whether she actually had chronic fatigue syndrome - and all were treat-

.There are those who say that ... assisted suicide is a crime, that the power to administer death belongs in the hands of no man. One of their most potent arguments is that if we allow it in some cases, we must allow it in others, and soon we will have crossed over the line that divides relieving suffering from peddling caseful death to the vulnerable...Because regardless of whether he is charged in her death — and there is reason enough to think he should be — Jack Kevorkian edge to help people kill themselves, then society has an obligation to determine the legal parameters of that power and to vigorously enforce them.

Judith Curren was an overweight, depressed woman whose husband was charged last month with physical-ly abusing her. She needed medical help and probably psychological counseling as well.

Sadly, in seeking out Dr. Kevorkian, she became not a patient but a victim.

> The Los Angeles Times topic: San Fernando secession

After a torturous voyage through the Assembly, a bill that would make it easier for the San Fernando Valley to secede from Los Angeles is headed for the Senate floor, where, in all good sense, it should be defeated.

Partisan politics figures heavily here. The bill is the brainchild of Assemblywoman Paula Boland (R-Granada Hills) and moved this year only because Republicans lost power of the house. As currently written, it has dim prospects in the Democrat-controlled Senate. Meanwhile, Boland's Assembly career is ending because of term limits, and perhaps she needed an issue to improve her name recognition in a tough state legislation and is preparing a response. Schoot said some of the specifics of the bill, such as moving recipients into the workforce, already take place in the state.

Her bill would not authorize secession, just forbid the Los Angeles City Council to veto a Yalley-only vote on the matter.

Schoot said the reorganization of welfare will not result in job loss for state public aid workers

While Schoot and other state officials prepare for the new changes, Meligan walks around Carbondale, looking for a job.

Meligan, her children and her 60-year-old mother/babysitter, live in low-income housing. Meligan came to Carbondale more than a year ago for a better place to live, "I don't want to be on welfare," Meligan said. "I want to work. I want a job."

students wishes, but keeping students in basement rooms is not a possibility.

Tony Earls, Thompson Point coordinator, said he has moved 30 peop from overassigned housing, Earls rom overassined nousing. Earls said he had six women left to move as of 3 p.m. Monday. "I've had a few requests by people to centinue living in the basement rooms, but unfortunately, we can't honor such requests," he said. "It all comes down to the safety of the students, their comfort and being a part of the community found on the floors of the residence halls."

Lisa Schemonia, University Housing supervisor of contracts, said she was surprised by the number of students wanting to live on campus

"If anyone would have told me in January (that 150 students would be waiting for rooms), I wouldn't have believed it," she said.

Schemonia said the contract office had students signing up late for rooms from July 1 through last week; which led to housing some of the latecorners in spare rooms.

She said about 35 students who and already signed housing contracts for standard dorm rooms did not show up for their rooms. She said these rooms are already being given to the over-assigned students.

Schemonia said the contracts office is working on moving over-assigned students into vacant rooms in Thompson Point, Brush Towers and University Park.

She said the contracts office is still waiting for the figures of students leaving to return home after the first week of classes.

Outfielder Christine Knotts and second baseman Jami Koss were the only players Brechtelsbauer lost to graduation last spring.

"Somewhere within the recruits and the returning players, we believe we have filled those two positions," Brechtelsbauer said. Brechtelsbauer said she is content with the roster her team already has. She said, however, that she is always willing to explore any extra talent that comes her way.

"We believe that we've got a very good roster already, but we could pick up some people," she said. "It's not like we have a hole anyplace where we really need to fill a gap."

However, Brechtelsbauer has beefed up her pitching staff.

Last season, Herrin native Jamie Schuttek carried the load for SIUC on the mound.

on the mound.

"One area that we are not as strong as we need to be is pitching," she said. "Jamie (Schuttek) did a great job last year, but we didn't really have any help behind her."

Brechtelsbauer already has inked incoming freshmen Tracy Remspecher, a right-hander from Florissant, Mo., and Carisa Winters, a lefty from Herrin, to help Schuttek on the mound.

Mental illness has warning signs, too.

Withdrawal from social activities. Excessive anger. These could be the first warning signs of a mental illness. Unfortunately, most of us don't recognize the signs. Which is tragic. Because mental illness can be treated. In fact, 2 out of 3 people who get help, get better. For a free booklet about the fourth grade and recalled that, in her freshman year of high school, she "wasn't very good".

Revoir modestly revealed that in her senior year, she was "a little bit better" and was recruited by top Division I colleges including Connecticut and Kansas State

In her quest to find a higherlearning institution where she could comfortably be a student as well as an athlete, Revoir visited a lot of colleges. SIUC was the last school Revoir visited, but she said she chose the University because of its remarkably friendly atmosphere

"I remember when I got off the plane and my parents were waiting at the airport," she said. "The first thing I said to them was 'That's thing I said to them was 'Inat's' where I'm going."

Minnesota and, without an 'incredibly supportive family' by her side, relocated 11 hours away in a "friendly" Carbondale community. She comes from a Lutheran Christian family of two older brothers and a mother and father. Revoir said she owes everything to her supportive family.

"My parents, either mom, dad or both, never missed a single one of my games in high school," she said. Revoir added proudly that since college, her parents have made the 11-hour trip at least once every three weeks to make her games. God, family, school, volleyball, friends and everything else are, in order, the most valued things in Revoir's life, she said.

She said that her family includes her coach and teammates Revoir said Locke has become her mom away from home.

"I - remember once Becky (Chappell) and I were sick in bed, and Sonya rushed over some soup and orange juice," Revoir said. Revoir said she has not always been the focused student athlete she is now and that it took a minor tragedy in her life to realize the need for change.

Before the spring of her soph more year of college, Revoir under-went knee surgery while at nearly the same time at home, her mother, was diagnosed, albeit falsely, with

NFL teams begin trimming for season

Teams around the NFI have made some final roster cuts for the rapidly approaching season. Among those released were kickers Eddie Murray of the Washington Redskins and Jeff Jaeger of the Oakland Raiders. In the quarterback category, the Indianapolis Colts let Craig Erickson go, while the Atlanta Falcons bid Browning Nagle farewell. Rocket shot off to Carolina Panthers Wide receiver/kick returner Raghib "Rocket" Ismail is heading to the Carolina Panthers. The Panthers acquired the versatile Ismail from the Raiders for an undisclosed draft choice. Ismail caught 28 passes for 491 yards and three touchdowns last season with the Raiders.

Joe Robbie Stadium to be renamed

Joe Robbie Stadium, home of the football Miami Dolphins and the baseball Florida Marlins, has me the latest facility to be renamed for a corporate sponsor. Pro Player, a sports apparel division of Fruit of the Loom, has agreed to a 10-year deal worth 52 million annually to rename the stadium Pro Player Park. The stadium was named for the late Joe Robbie, the former Dolphins owner who brought professional football to Miami.

St. Louis Cardinals lefty Donovan Osborne was arrested early Monday morning in Houston and charged with public intoxication and criminal tres-pass for allegedly refusing to leave The Roxy, a pop-ular nightclub in Houston. Both are misdemeanor charges and each carries a fine of up to $500.

Mets dismiss Green after losing streak

The New York Mets fired manager Dallas Green Monday, replacing him with Bobby Valentine, who had been at the helm of the Mets' triple-A team. The move comes with the Mets on a four-game losing streak, and a dismal 2-7 road trip that has left them in fourth place in the National League East.

By Michael DeFord DE Sports Editor

If you are fast, athletically inclined and academically sound, you're just what Saluki softball coach Kay Brechtelsbauer is looking for.

Brechtelsbauer was looking for those qualities Monday during SIUC's softball tryouts at IAW Fields next to Grand Brechtelsbauer said she is not looking to fill any one position at this point. But she said she is always interested in adding new talent to the Saluki's roster. "If we could find some people who have some good speed, we are very interested," she said. "We're looking for anyone that can fit into our program and get the job done — athletically and academically demically.

Brechtelsbauer said each year, several players sying for a spot on the roster meet with success.

"It kind of depends on our needs, but we normally take one or two," she said.

Erin O'Brien, an undecided freshman from Springfeld, said she is giving it from Springfeld, said she is giving it her all to earn a spot on the 1996 roster. "I want to work hard and hustle to get on this team," O'Brien said. "I'm always a hard worker, no matter what I do."

O'Brien said Easiern Illinois University looked at her athletic abili-ties, while she was playing for Springfield High School, but she said she chose to come to SIUC for its aca-

Volleyball star strives to be best

Daily Egyptian Reporter

Being the best student athlete she can be is by far the most important priority for Saluki women's volleyball star Jodi Revoir

Revoir, a senior in literary arts from Bloomington, Minn., and a four-year member of SIUCs volleyball team, will make up half of SIUC's anchoring duo this season with Becky Chappell, a senior in special education from Huntley.

It's a task coach Sonya Locke cannot "Jodi and Becky will have to realize that they are not only seniors but role models for our younger players," Locke said.

have a lot of poten-Jodi Revoir tial to go well this sea son," she said. "I am extremely excited about playing Revoir will play the net as middle blocker again this season, which is exact-ly where Locke said they need help.

Containing the net is what we've lacked in the past, and Jodi has to understand this Revoir is a full athletic scholarship stu dent and plans to teach English at the high school level.

Like many of her teammates, she considers herself a sharing and consider person whose life revolves around the sport of volleybail.

Revoir, who dreams of one day competing in the Olympic Games, said if there were a professional women's league, she would seek to play in it in a heartbeat.

"I always want volleyball to be a part of my life in some way." she said. "I may become a coach one day after I decide my playing career is over
