Volunteering time, support

EDUCATING:
Members discuss importance for sexual assault survivors.

ANNETTE BARR
THE DAILY EGYPTIAN

A few weeks ago Jennifer Shenmonic woke up knowing her day would be unlike any other. What she didn't know is that there would be three more victims of sexual assault who needed her help.

Shenmonic, a graduate student in educational psychology from Chester, is one of 70 students and community members who volunteer their time and support to the Women's Center's Rape Action Committee.

Last week members of the RAC began training a new group of 38 volunteers who will help educate the community, answer the 24-hour RAC hotline and eventually go on call-outs (in which the volunteers go to the emergency room or the police station to help sexual assault victims one-on-one). RAC volunteers are required to complete 40 hours of intensive training and fulfill a one-year commitment, during which a volunteer is on call for one 24-hour period a month.

About 90 percent of the RAC is comprised of volunteers who primarily are Wheaton students, said Carolyn Prinz, RAC program coordinator. Prinz said volunteers can gain hands-on experience and a sense of accomplishment when working at the Women's Center, 406 W. Mill St.

Anyone who wants to be a volunteer goes through a screening process of interviews to determine if the prospective volunteer is a good match for the program. Of those victims who are helped by the RAC, 25 percent are college students, Prinz said.

Shenmonic said she had some scary experiences as a RAC volunteer. Her first call-out by her-self was in her hometown of Chester.

"When they paged me and said, 'Chester has a rape,' I thought my God, that's very unusual for a small town," Shenmonic said. "I was scared it was someone I knew or a family member."

This is one reason why Jennifer Cerulli, a senior in social work from Warrenville, decided to take action and become a volunteer this semester.

"It's (sexual assault) one of the largest epidemics in this country," Cerulli said. "It's you and me. It's our friends, our roommates, our mothers, our sisters and our grandmothers."

Cerulli said she wants to do what she can to not only educate people about sexual assault, but also help the sexual assault survivors.

"Rapists don't have some big tattoo on their head that says 'I don't know.'"

"Because rapists do not come with a warning label, community education is part of prevention."

When Cerulli finishes her 10 hours of training, he said he will help inform the community about sexual assault by speaking to campus and community groups.

"As a man I think it's important to say, 'This can be. It has to stop,'" he said.

"It's not a woman's issue," he said. "It's a human issue."

As a part of being there for sexual assault victims, volunteers give information enabling victims to make medical and legal choices, as well as give emotional support. The 40 hours of training prepares volunteers to fulfill the roles of information and supporter.

When Cerulli finishes her 40 hours of training, she said she will be on her way to fulfilling these roles.

"It's real. This is in your face. This is you sitting in an emergency room at 3 in the morning," she said. "It's a commitment that I'm willing to make."

Nichol H. Kelley, 95, the first professor of psychology at SIUC, died Jan. 26 in Louisville, Ky.

Kelley was the first instructor and chairman of the SIUC Psychology Department, from its inception in 1941 until 1960. He then became a research professor at SIUC until his retirement in 1989.

"He was the one who basically put the Department of Psychology together," said Thomas Schmitt, a SIUC psychology professor since 1981.

Schmitt said students would have positive comments about Kelley and his class.

Max Walker, the first embodiment at SIUC, was Kelley's administrative assistant. He said Kelley enjoyed his work and was dedicated to his teaching.

Walker said Kelley brought black cocker spaniel, Cindy, to work every day. When he walked into campus to get his mail, it took Cindy with him. At the post office, Kelley would hand Cindy a small amount of mail.

and she would carry it back to his office by her mouth. Walker said.

From 1951 until his retirement from SIUC, Kelley was executive officer of the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology.

Before he became executive officer, the board was based in Boston. Minnesota, when Kelley took office, the board's office was relocated to SIUC for the duration of Kelley's term.

Kelley was born in Thornville, Ontario, on Aug. 10, 1905. He graduated from the University of Iowa with a doctorate in clinical psychology in 1936.

Before he came to SIUC, Kelley was head of the psychology department at Indiana University.

Kelley was a member of the American Psychological Association; the Midwest Psychological Association; the Illinois Psychological Association; the American Association of University Professors and the Sigma Xi fraternity.

He also was a member of the Psychiatric and Research Authority of the Illinois Department of Mental Health when it was formed in 1977.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, updating Serbia will not become a "grooving ground for terrorism," again deployed riot police Monday to stop and credo anti-government demonstrators who returned to the streets despite bloody skirmishes the night before.

Thousands of students and others were allowed to march briefly, then were blocked by police who chased and beat small groups of people hurling rocks and insults.

Arrests and injuries were reported, but most in the crowds fled before the violence escalated.

POLICE AND DEMONSTRATORS APPEARED RESTAINED, MONDAY IN COMPARISON WITH THE NIGHT BEFORE, WHEN OPPOSITION LEADERS AND A U.S. MARINE WAVING HIS DIPLOMAT IDENTIFICATION WERE AMONG VICTIMS OF PEACEFUL PROTESTERS.

Leaders of thedemoopposition coalition — which initiated the demonstrations after Milosevic announced Nov. 17 municipal elections that his Socialist Party lost — pleaded for order and ordered federal officers to use force not to provoke police.

Richard Miles, U.S. charge d' affaires in Belgrade, met with break-the-monday "to express our support for the opposition's track record of peaceful protest." In addition to the being stimuliates in Belgrade Monday, pro-opposition radio reported similar violence in two other Serbian cities, Jagodina and Smederevo, where both people were arrested.

"I don't know why the cost went up, although I suppose it had gone up up until after I actually had signed the contract. It's like a sucker punch." Ed Jones, director of University Housing, said the increase will cover the estimated inflation of housing costs and money used for special projects, such as the ongoing renovation of the five alarm system or replacement of furniture in dorms.

"We are trying to keep pace with inflation," Jones said. "At the same time, we are trying to keep our maintenance down, by repairing things right away."

Rick Szychowski, assistant director of Housing, said the inflationary costs include expenses like salaries, food prices, utilities, cable television and phone rates.

"The inflation is based on our estimates, as well as the estimates we receive from our suppliers," Szychowski said. "On any rate increases, the dollars all go back into the facilities, the food and the programs. You get what you pay for."

One supplier of off-campus housing said his rates have not gone up, but said students living in campus are kept unaware of off-campus housing opportunities.

Stevenson Arms, 600 V. Mill St., said that students are not being forced to pay high rates for housing because they have not been made aware of all the housing options.

"My overall impression is that SIUC is sicking it to the students and not letting them know about alternatives to on-campus housing," he said. "I think that somebody is deciding that since they have a monopoly on housing, they're going to make students pay through the nose."

"I think many students would rather save the money SIUC is asking for and use it to buy books or go somewhere on spring break."

Lieber said Stevenson Arms charges $1,550 per semester for a double room, as opposed to the $1,416 rate for a double room at SIUC next fall. The Stevenson Arms rate will not increase next semester, amounting to a $14 difference per year.

Lieber said he plans to look for off-campus housing sometime next year.

"It is putting strain on my budget to stay in the arms," Wilcox said. "I think it is better for students to stay here, though."

"I know there were places that offered off-campus services, but I didn't understand their setup." Out looking at them a lot more next year, though."

Music from black South-African mine workers passed down through the generations and a lock of hair passed down the generations of an African American family are two of the cultural traditions showcased on campus as part of Black History Month.

SIUC is celebrating Black History Month by sponsoring a number of programs on campus through Multicultural Programs and Services, several African-American Registered Student Organizations and other groups. Informative and entertaining films, lectures, performances and other programs showcasing some of the history of Africans as well as African Americans will be featured throughout February.

Ladysmith Black Mambazo, a South African group, brought their harmony to Shryock Auditorium Sunday night. The group has performed at the inauguration of South African President Nelson Mandela and President Clinton. Kelly Ward, SIU's concert director, said Ladysmith Black Mambazo brought an important tradition from South Africa to the SIUC campus.

Their songs were born in the mines of South Africa, she said. "What they're singing about represents culture, and they bring it here, so it's like they brought a tradition. It's a real beautiful thing."

Ladysmith Black Mambazo sings a traditional a capella music called "isicathamiya." The music was created by poor, South African black miners who were taken by rail to mines far away from their homes and families.

The workers would entertain themselves after six-day work weeks by singing songs and dancing on tiptoe so they would not disturb the mining camp security guards. When the poorly housed and fed workers returned to their homes, the singing tradition went with them.

Nancy Dowson, an assistant professor in Black American Studies, also is celebrating tradition by giving an encore lecture of "Our Hair-itage" at 7 p.m. Feb. 18 in the University Museum Auditorium.

Dawson's exhibits, "Our Hair-itage: A Historic Artifact Exhibit" in the University Museum, features a lock of her great-grandmother's hair that was passed down to her. The exhibit also has examples of styling tools historically used by African Americans. Dowson gave the lecture in November to a standing-room only audience in the Student Center.

She said the tradition of inheriting locks of hair from ancestors is part of many African-American families. She said her presentations on African-American hair recognize an important aspect of African American history.

The time to celebrate African-American history is one in which people can look at African American history in many different ways," she said. "Although personal, African American hair is public because it has so much social, political and economic significance."

Also during February, the achievements of an SIUC alumnus who broke some negative traditions for African Americans are also aired by WSUI-TV.

One on One: William Norwood," showing at 9:30 p.m. Feb. 18, highlights the accomplishments of Norwood, who was SIUC's first African-American quarterback who later became the first African-American pilot of United Airlines. Norwood, an SIUC Trustee, spoke to "One on One" producer and interviewer Jack Tichenor at the time of his retirement from United Airlines last year.

Tichenor said the interview with Norwood is one that deserves recognition during Black History Month.

It's a good program to show any time of the year, but certainly when we're celebrating the accomplishments of African Americans," he said. "He's a trailblazer and a role model. He's opened so many doors for so many people in so many ways. He's a great story, and he's a fascinating man."

But stories such as Norwood's, Dowson's and Ladysmith Black Mambazo were not always celebrated on a monthly basis. Dowson said the celebration of African-American history and achievements began as Black History Week and was created by African-American Caster B. Woodson in 1926.

She said the formal recognition of African Americans, as well as their traditions and history, originally was celebrated in February because the birthdays of many significant African Americans, like Frederick Douglass, were in that month.

But Dowson said celebrating African Americans' history and contributions to the world should not be limited to just one month. "It should be much more," she said. "America should celebrate the accomplishments and achievements of African Americans every month of the year."

NFL prepared to move Superbowl to L.A.

ON THE MOVE: Future home of Chargers and Superbowl shaky.

Los Angeles Times

SAN DIEGO—If San Diego fails to win its drive to expand its stadium, the National Football League will be ready to move the 1998 Super Bowl to the Rose Bowl, NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue told civic boosters here Monday.

"We are talking to the Rose Bowl on a contingency basis as we speak," Tagliabue said in a hallway meeting of business and political leaders. "I hope this stays a contingency plus. We want to play the game here. But we do not want to play the game in a construction site, which is what it would be if construction stops."

Tagliabue said the NFL could have a signed contingency agreement by week's end with Rose Bowl officials.

The venerable stadium has been host to five Super Bowls, and officials from Pasadena and the Los Angeles Sports Council say they are ready and eager to make it six in what is expected by many as the NFL's new site for the 1998 game.

Rick Welch, chairman of the Los Angeles Sports and Entertainment Commission, said a Super Bowl at the Rose Bowl would be "a good way to showcase the unique assets of Los Angeles" and would include involvement by the entertainment industry and the Convention Center.

Los Angeles also offers "great cites for parties and events," he said.

Tagliabue's comments are a sharp indication that what might have been dismissed as an unrealistic civic nightmare only a few weeks ago is now a distinct possibility: loss of the Super Bowl and the Chargers football team.

SUPRISE INJURY: Shaq's sprained knee could keep him out of Bulls game Wednesday.

INGLEWOOD, Calif.—The knee injury that Shaquille O'Neal missed off Sunday night in nothing more than a minor annoyance will instead keep him out of Tuesday night's game against the Los Angeles Clippers at the Pond of Anaheim and has already scheduled, O'Neal passed off Sunday night as nothing more than a minor problem—"I'll take a Tylenol, I'll be all right"—and when asked if he would be ready Tuesday for the Clipper game, responded, "Of course.

But Monday, with a visit to team physician Steve Lombardo already scheduled, O'Neal woke with pain, and the strain was later diagnosed.

"We've just got to wait and hope for the best," Coach Del Harris said after the Lakers went 45-40 into the locker room.

"It's one of those things—"I'll take a Tylenol, I'll be all right"—and when asked if he would be ready Tuesday for the Clipper game, responded, "Of course.

Carroll tops list of coaches shuffled around league

The New England Patriots named San Francisco 49ers defense coordinator Pete Carroll Monday as their new head coach. The 45-year-old Carroll replaces Bill Parcells, who stepped down Friday after leading the Patriots in their first Super Bowl appearance in 11 years, which resulted in a 35-21 loss to the Green Bay Packers.

Carroll agreed to a five-year contract at undisclosed terms. “To have the opportunity to become head coach of a team which just competed in the Super Bowl is exciting, and I couldn’t be more pleased than I am about joining the Patriots,” Carroll said.

Elsewhere in the NFL, former Los Angeles Rams coach Art Shell has joined the Atlanta Falcons, as offensive line coach.

Former Cleveland Browns head coach Mike White, fired after this past season, has become the assistant head coach and tight end coach of the St. Louis Rams.
