Dear Sir: I would like to register a complaint against your treatment (Egyptian, Jan. 26) of Dr. John C. Frye.

Dr. Frye happens to be chief of the largest and most active state geological survey in the nation.

In my opinion we are being honored by this visit and should rate more than 2 inches on the second page!

Jules R. DuBar, Instructor, Geology. A closer perusal of Tuesday's Egyptian would have shown Mr. DuBar two more mentions of Dr. Frye on the front page.

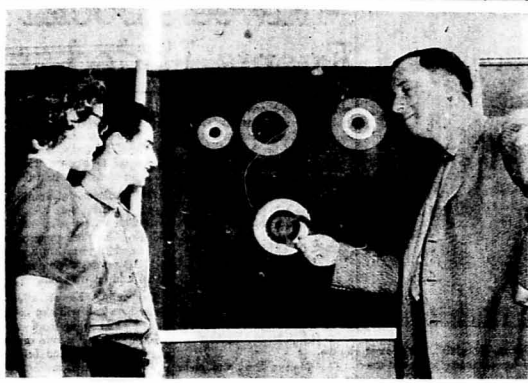

In all, a total of four and three quarters column inches were devoted to Dr. Frye. In addition, Dr. Frye and Anne West, Carterville writer, were the only two persons to receive separate stories in connection with the Career Conference.

Other business of the organization at their bi-weekly meeting Tuesday included final arrangements for an informal meeting with Fred S. Heywood, public relations director of KMOX-CBS, St. Louis, who spoke at Career Conference yesterday.

Ralph Becker, president, says that the organization is primarily for the Southern Broadcasters' Guild has been selected as the name of the newly-formed radio-television club at Southern.

'Cinderella' Charms All Kids

From 6-60 They Liked It, Says Egyptian Reviewer. By BRESA WHITE, Egyptian Staff Writer

The Southern Players under the direction of Dr. Archibald McLure effectively took children of ALL AGES into the land of enchantment and fantasy with their production of Cinderella this week.

Ann Hart handled the role of Cinderella with the sweetness and daintiness one would expect from a petite fairy-tale heroine.

However, the major success of the play could be attributed to the excellent performances of Nancy Yost, Dorothy Womack, Dixie Bayan in the roles of Cinderella's mother and two sisters.

Nation Needs Brave, Scrappy Editors-Waring

All communications media—newspapers, magazines, radio, television—share a responsibility in keeping the nation sane and tolerant.

Waring, editor of the Linton, Colorado, Independent, told a SIU student convocation yesterday morning.

Waring is spending three days (Jan. 26-28) on the SIU campus as an Elijah P. Lovejoy lecturer in journalism. He is speaking in journalism classes and participated in a student Careers Conference. He also addressed a dinner session of the southern Illinois chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, yesterday evening.

What the community and the nation need are courageous editors to battle the forces of evil and safeguard the democratic rights of citizens, he told students.

The same tradition of sound leadership must be built in such communications media as radio and television which are particularly good tools for persons and groups concerned with rabble-rousing.

Waring prefaced his discussion by recounting the story of how Elijah Parish Lovejoy, courageous editor of the Alton Observer who spoke out against slavery, became a martyr to the cause of freedom of the press and human rights at the hands of a mob seeking to destroy his presses in 1837.

"You in Southern Illinois may rightly claim Elijah Lovejoy as your heritage. You should be proud that the border area, roughly called the Mason and Dixon line, has presented America with its finest journalism. To this day the working news-writers of our nation recognize the newspapers of St. Louis, Louisville, Washington (D. C.), and Raleigh, N. C., as our best crusaders for pressing social needs in our time," he said.

Waring pointed to historic instances when vigorous newspaper editorial stands may have spared the nation from periods of hysteria during which tolerance was forgotten and the rights of citizens trampled.

The "hate Germany" fashion of World War I, the succeeding "Red scare," and the rise of the Ku Klux Klan were pointed out. Relocation of Japanese residents of the Pacific seacoast areas to interior regions during World War II was another. Far too many newspapers failed to speak out courageously during those times, he said.

Leading Colorado newspapers, he pointed out, more recently were able to prevent hysterical action when some Colorado legislators started a "subversives" investigation of University of Colorado faculty members and school teachers. Some semblance of academic freedom has been restored at the university and the situation is returning to normal by now, he said, "but it may be many years before we again find that complete freedom of discussion which is necessary if America is to move forward."

"It is the newspaper's job to show the need for free expression—not only in its own case but for schools, ministers, labor leaders, scientists, and minority groups," Waring declared.

It is a newspaper's duty to knock down organized gambling whenever it threatens, and to commendably praise public officials who keep it out. Public officials, he said, enforce the laws the public wants enforced, and the newspaperman's job is to comment on every gambling incident to let officials know the sentiment of the thinking people of the community.

Day by day journalism, however, does not offer a continuous diet of fighting crusades and freeing slaves, he told the students. Many newspaper crusades do not involve personalities and hatreds. Nevertheless, there is not an issue going to press which does not present the editor with an opportunity to do something for society. Generally such crusades are based on some principal or theory; they suggest a new way of doing things.

Waring said that his newspaper resorts to a psychological approach to accomplish results in long-term crusades. The seed of an idea is planted in an editorial that is designed not to arouse anger. A few weeks later the newspaper returns to the suggestion and finds that many readers proudly proclaim, "I'm all for that; I have been thinking along those lines myself." By then the battle is half won, he said.

The essential goal of a community newspaper should be the building of a community spirit, Waring pointed out. His Independent is published in a suburb of Denver (Linton is 12 miles south of the city) which brings special problems in molding such a community interest and spirit. This is done by promoting community projects, high school class reunions, community homecoming and mass meetings to debate local issues.

For students preparing for careers in journalism he advised a broad educational preparation with emphasis on economics, political science, sociology and journalism.

The good newspaperman needs an authoritative knowledge of many fields in order to understand, interpret, and lead his community in the light of local, national, and world events. He must have a working association with authorities in many fields to whom he may go in seeking truth and understanding.

Above all he must have courage to stand for the rights of men and a free press against the pressures of selfish groups and the attempted dictates of advertisers, Waring said.

115 Students Help In Career Conference

Southern's third Career Conference, which brought speakers in 40 different job fields to campus yesterday, was directed by a steering committee of 15 students with the help of more than 100 student committee members.

Jo Ann McIntire and Donovan Merry were general co-chairmen, with Dr. Alice Recker, faculty adviser.

Helena Collins and Don Morgan headed the program committee, with Dr. Royce E. Bryant, faculty adviser.

Program committee members were: Gary Livingston, Terry Hill, Marilyn Hussey, Ardy Marcell, Dr. Joseph Johnston and Dr. Roswell Merrick.

Holdermen To Defend Lead Against Huskies

Coach Holder's Salukis, who jumped into a league-leading tie with Western Illinois Jan. 22 with a 76-71 triumph over the Leathernecks, tackle tough Northern Illinois tomorrow night here.

A Southern win is imperative if the Salukis hope to remain in the running for the lead. Western plays two conference games this weekend and could have a 6-1 record if they win both encounters. A Saluki victory would give Coach Lynn Holder a 5-1 mark, and coupled with one Western loss, would put SIU in the top spot.

The Huskies, sparked by the playing of Bobby Jackson, member of Du Sable's high school team last year, bring a 6-5 record into the contest. Northern's conference mark stands at two wins and three losses.

The Northern attack, beside Jackson, features the work of Center Norm Goldman who is a senior for this year and a member of last season's All-IAC team. Norm, who is 6-3 and weighs 200 pounds, set a school record last year at Northern by dumping in a season's total of 385 points for a 20.3 pt. average per game.

The Huskies so far have averaged 83.1 points per game. Before meeting the Salukis for the first time, Coach Bill Healey's team will meet the Eastern Panthers tonight in the Panther hall.

Southern owns a 5-8 mark for the season and a 4-1 league slate. Big Gus Doss, freshman center, has taken over the scoring lead from Freshman Larry Whitlock. Doss has dunked 189 points in the 12 games he has played. Whitlock is runnerup with 178 points.

Rounding out the top five for the Salukis are sophomore Forward Jack Morgan, junior, has 150 points; Guard Dick Blythe, junior, 148; and Capt. Gert Kurtz, senior guard, 106 points.

The Salukis travel to Illinois Normal Feb. 3 for a league contest with the Redbirds. Southern dropped Normal in an earlier game, 86-71.

Chick Evans Believes TV Won't Hurt

A more liberal attitude by the NCAA toward television coverage of athletics is inevitable," stated George "Chick" Evans, athletic director at Northern Illinois State Teachers College upon his return from the NCAA winter meeting in New York. "Although the NCAA may exert strict controls for the time being, they cannot limit a wide coverage of athletic events for many years because television is a medium that belongs to the people."

Evans agrees with those who fear that uncontrolled television will hurt gate attendance. He feels, however, that "many small colleges set athletics is an integral part of the educational program and are willing to support them with out big gains."

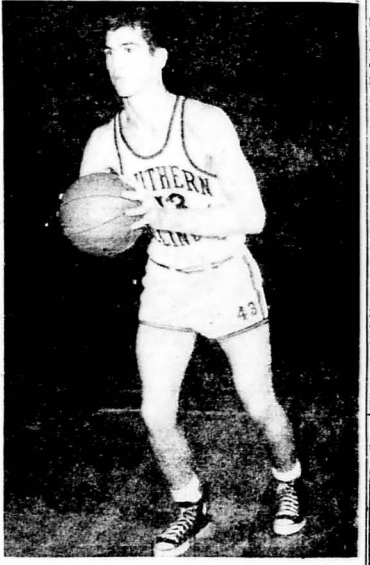

He uses Northern Illinois State Teachers College as an example. "Approximately 80% of our athletic funds come from student and college appropriations. Add to this the receipts taken from those regular fans who will nearly always attend the home games, and our loss is comparatively small. Those colleges and universities who depend on gate receipts for most of their athletic budget would suffer much more, however."

"Regional TV," Evans feels "would be a happy medium for the time being. There is a heavy financial voting interest that would prefer stricter controls, however." He judges that approximately 90% of those voting at the NCAA meeting favored controls stricter than regional television would afford.

"I look for a compromise between the advocates of regional TV and those of stricter controls," Evans stated. "But eventually, the Association will have to loosen these controls."

Two SIU wrestlers engage in their own version of "Down You Go" as they prepare for tonight's meet with Western Illinois.

Marion Rulhing, 6-2 freshman forward, has been used sparingly so far this season but he has proved himself to be a capable fill-in player in what action he has

Vic Carr, freshman, (right) gives teammate Bill Burton, freshman, tough competition as they prepared for SIU's second meeting with Missouri School of Mines last night. Rolla won the first meeting of the two clubs, 53-31.

INTRAMURALS

The biggest game which will be played next week will be the game between the Red Wings and Macoupin County in the I-N-V-L. Barring upsets in this weeks games, these two teams will meet each other undefeated and tied for first place. They had both played four games up to last Monday and most of the games ended in easy victories. The Red Wings had trouble in their first game with the Booleggers. They won by only three points, but since then they have won easily.

Macoupin County had trouble against the Bengals but have also won three other games easily. Macoupin County has the current top scorer and the Red Wings have the third top scorer.

Bill Belvir, working under the backboard, has a 22.5 average in four games with a single game high of 29 points.

The Red Wings' top scorer is Kent Joseph, who specializes in long set shots. He has a 20.7 average and has a high of 29 points in one game.

The game will be played in the armory at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday.

SIU Grapplers Meet Western Here Tonight

Having a 14-4 tie with defending IAC champion Illinois Normal and a 29-6 conquest of Eastern Illinois safely tucked away, SIU wrestlers face Western Illinois tonight in a 7:30 p. m. match.

With plenty of experienced men on hand plus top-notch freshmen as replacements or front-line starters, Coach Jim Wilkinson's crew claim a slight edge over the tough Leathernecks.

Capt. Bob Wheelan, senior and two-time IAC 132-pound champion, and Paul Steingrub, junior and third place winner in the league tourney last season, are heading the win column with 2-0 records. Roy Fowler, sophomore just returned from service, and Bill Wiegand, freshman, have shared 137-pound duties and have 1-0 marks. Freshman Buzz Bergfeld has a 1-0 record in the 130-pound class.

The middleweights stand 1-0 for the season with Tom Lovet, freshman, 1-1 in the 147-pound division; John Orlando, freshman, 1-1 at 157-pounds; and Bob Dunkel, sophomore, 1-1 at 167 pounds.

Coach Wilkinson's biggest worries are in the 191-pound and the heavyweight classes where Bill Spratt, sophomore, and Ed Fisher, freshman, are working their rookie season in wrestling.

Spratt has won one match at heavyweight and lost one in the 191-pound category. Hayes dropped his initial match to Eastern's heavyweight champion, Ed Fisher. Both men are being off rough spots in their technique and are expected to improve during coming matches.
