Code committee allows open, closed hearings

By Richard Lorenz

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Community Conduct Code Committee, meeting Wednesday, approved a motion allowing the hearing officer or panel to decide if a hearing will be open or closed.

Under the motion, both the charged and the charging party can ask the hearing officer or panel for an open hearing. The hearing officer or panel will then decide whether the hearing will be open or closed. Reasons for the open or closed hearing must be stated.

Under Mager's proposal, in event the letter is returned to the advocate, the advocate will make an effort to see that the charged party receives the notice letter. The exact procedure was not outlined. A statement dealing with the attempts made by the advocate to contact the charged party will be presented at the hearing.

A subcommittee consisting of Fred Hafferty, graduate student in sociology, and Emil Spees, associate dean of students, was formed to write some proposals concerning which penalty should apply to each violation. The Hafferty-Spees proposals are not expected before February.

The tentative agenda for next week's meeting includes hearing procedures and the types of evidence which will be accepted.

Lucky seven?

Steve Hansen, a senior from San Antonio, Texas, has his hands full as his pet snake, "Napoleon," shapes a lucky seven for photographer Jay Needleman. The 4-foot indigo snake was bought by Hansen last Thanksgiving vacation. He reported Vic Bode, a junior from Chicago, was amazed, to say the least, when he thought Hansen was bringing back a garter snake. For more details, see story on page eight.

Peck ill in Chicago; psychologist at Convo

By Sue Millen

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ellen Peck, controversial author of the "Baby Trap," was to speak at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Arena. That was until Wednesday morning, when SIU Special Programs got a call from a Chicago hospital.

Ms. Peck had been admitted to a hospital with a bad case of pneumonia. "She was on her way from Baltimore and stopped in Chicago to sort of break the long trip. Well she broke it all right," said Marilyn Hyland, assistant Co-ordinator of Special Programs.

Quickly, we had some contact with Cleo Dawson and were able to get her. She is an outspoken writer, lecturer and psychologist on male and female relationships," Ms. Hyland said.

The late Senator Everett Dirksen said about her, "She's the finest woman speaker I have ever heard.

She has appeared on many television shows including Merv Griffin, Steve Allen, Jack Pirt, Virginia Graham and Johnny Carson. Mrs. Dawson received her Ph.D from the University of Kentucky. She lectured in all 50 states and authored three books including the best seller, "She Came to the Valley."

Mrs. Dawson appears monthly on the Merv Griffin show as a regular guest and in fact is billed as "Merv Griffin's psychological pipe-cleaner." This stems from her belief that each person has four emotional pipes: fear, wonder, rage and sex.

One critic has said, "She cannot be overly recommended. The things she has to say to college young people are of tremendous value and help to them."

Hardly a Women's Liberation activist, Mrs. Dawson was quoted as saying: "The new feminists are young, disappointed and don't understand the basics of biology. Women are too smart, eager and intuitive to want to put down men. We want to do it to keep men alive and use them. They like to be used. It flatters their ego."

Allan tenure dispute draws senate support

The Student Senate voted unanimously Wednesday night to support Douglas M. Allen, assistant professor of philosophy, in his battle for tenure.

With passage of the resolution supporting Allen, it was suggested that a drive to enlist support for Allen be conducted.

Allen was denied tenure by the Board of Trustees fall quarter.

In other action, the senate voted to allocate $386 to the Student Advisory Committee and $1,200 to the Association of Illinois Student Governments. The senate also allocated $60 to the Technology Club.

John Conklin was elected chairman pro tem to replace Gary Dickerson, who resigned at the last senate meeting.

The senate accepted the resignation of Janet Dillon, west-side dorm senator, who said she is not attending SIU this quarter.

Serving the city's defense

City Council disagrees
Wheel tax issue undecided

By Harry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Which Carbondale city employees will receive pay raises, how much they will receive and when the raises will take effect remained in doubt following Tuesday's city council meeting.

Acting City Manager Bill Schwegman recommended to the council that all city employees receive a 3 1/2 per cent raise retroactive to May 1, 1971, a move which he said would cost the city about $55,000.

The money would be provided for, under Schwegman's plan, by a mandatory 10c wheel tax for city residents and a transfer of funds from one city account to another.

According to City Manager Clark Vineyard, who supports the wheel tax proposal, the increase in the amount of sales tax collected to 10c will not apply to all car-owning SIU students living in the campus dormitory area recently annexed by the city but only to those who list Carbondale as their local address when they buy their license plates.

The city must grant a 3 1/2 per cent wage increase retroactive to May 1, 1971, to plumbers and pipefitters, and a 3 1/2 per cent raise retroactive to Nov. 1, 1971, to firemen, under the terms of a recent ruling by arbitrator Charles Renfro.

However, Schwegman recommended the increase in all city employees "in order to show impartiality to all employees."

Councilman Hans Fischer reiterated his opposition to the proposed wheel tax and stated his objections to an across-the-board increase for all city employees.

"I can't see going back and raising everybody's salaries since last May," Fischer said. "Wages shouldn't be raised simply because someone spent another year here."

Fischer said that the possibilities of creating a merit system for Carbondale employees should be explored.

The councilman also hinted that a cut in executive salaries might be contemplated if the city's current financial plight persists.

Councilman George Karase supported the wage increases for city employees. "You have to pay for quality," he told the council.

Vineyard proposed that funds be granted to city department chiefs, who would then use their discretion in awarding merit raises to selected employees.

Both Vineyard and Councilman Archie Jones expressed a belief that a Nov. 1 date is preferable to May 1.

Schwegman revised an issue defeated only last month by proposing a new wheel tax. He said the revenue is badly needed by the city. (Continued on Page 3)

Democratic hopeful Dan Walker brings walking campaign to SIU

By David L. Mahanen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Dan Walker, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, plans to visit the SIU Student Center at 12:10 p.m. Wednesday to speak to SIU students and answer questions for more than an hour. Walker will be walking through Carbondale and Murphysboro the remainder of the day.

The Deerfield Democrat's visit to Carbondale and Murphysboro is one stop on a campaign swing through Southern Illinois. Walker, 44, is challenging Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, who has been slated by the party organization, in the Illinois primary on March 31.

Walker will arrive in Carbondale at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday, at which time he will meet with residents of Northeastern and Northwestern Carbondale at the campaign headquarters of Mayor Neal Eckert, 200 S. Main St. Eckert is Walker's running mate in the Democratic ticket.

Wednesday morning, Walker will be in Murphysboro to meet voters informally, according to Rosemary Hawken, a member of Walker's campaign staff in Carbondale. From 4:45 a.m. to 7:15 a.m., Walker is scheduled to greet employees at the Brown Shoe Company factory as they come to work. He will also be at Murphysboro High School at 7:40 a.m. and at the Jackson County Courthouse at 7:30 a.m. to meet students, faculty and county employees.

Breakfast is on the schedule from 8:15 a.m. to 8:45 a.m. Walker will stop at the Kitchen Cafe, 1110 Locust in Murphysboro, for coffee, donuts and an informal talk "to anyone who walks in," Mrs. Hawken said. After informal interviews with the news media, Walker will resume his goodwill jaunt through Murphysboro, walking along Main Street from 8:45 to 9:45 a.m. According to Mrs. Hawken, Walker will be greeting shoppers in the business district from 9:45-10:30 a.m., the candidate will be at the Sale Barn in Murphysboro prior to the regular Wednesday bag and call.

Walker will then travel to Carbondale to meet SIU students at the offices of the Daily Egyptian in the north wing of the Communications Building. From there he will walk — now a trademark of Walker's campaign — to the Student Center hallrooms where he will speak and take questions. Walker's longest hike of the day will follow his talk on the SIU campus. The Democratic hopeful will walk with students and residents along South Illinois Avenue, to City Hall and through Northeastern Carbondale. According to Mrs. Hawken, Walker wants to walk three miles.

In order to assure payment of department expenses, Eckert expressed his agreement with Fischer's position.

The city attorney Brecion Lockwood told the council that bench warrants are now being issued for the arrest of traffic violators who fail to appear for their court dates.

About 80 warrants have been presented to the Carbondale Police Department to be served, he said. This figure includes those who have failed to appear since Nov. 1, Lockwood said.

The new policy is designed to convince the public that fines must be paid, he said. The city will book, fingerprint and prosecute those who fail to appear at the designated time in hopes of impressing on the public the necessity to pay, he said.

Under the new policy, the problem of violators not showing up in court "will stop," Chief of Police Joe Dukan told the council.

After a session with local high school students from 3:35-4:15 p.m. at Eckert headquarters, Walker will attend receptions in his and Eckert's honor from 5 to 7 p.m. and at 9 p.m. According to Mrs. Hawken, the public is invited and information is available at Eckert headquarters, 548-7321.

From 7:39 p.m. Walker will attend a dinner sponsored by the Carbondale Jaycees at the Memorial Inn.

In preparation for Walker's busy schedule while he is in the area, Walker's supporters, Democratic committee chairman Pat Quinn will be at SIU Thursday and Friday. He is scheduled to meet students and group leaders to answer preliminary questions about Walker and to organize support at 8:30 a.m. Thursday in Activities Room A of the Student Center. Information is available from Mrs. Hawken.

Dan Walker
Tax proposal undetermined: 'decision may be unpopular'

The acting city manager told the council that the tax proposal was defeated last month simply because it is an unpopular political act.

"If this Council is to come to grips with the fiscal plight of the General Fund you are going to have to take a few unpopular steps," Schwemman said.

Jones, who voted with Fischer and Mayor Neal Eckert to defeat the earlier proposal, indicated that he might support the wheel tax "if there is no other way" to get the city on its financial feet.

"Some people might have the idea that they would like to see city councilmen again, but I don't think that should be considered," Jones said, in reference to Schwemman's charge that the earlier tax had been defeated out of political considerations.

Fischer called the wheel tax "unfair, unreasonable and unwise," he said. The tax would be unfair to low-income people who could not afford to pay it.

Eckert indicated his opposition to a mandatory tax, though he expressed the opinion that a voluntary tax might be feasible.

Schwemman said that a proposed ordinance providing for the $10 wheel tax would be ready for council consideration by next week.

In another matter, Schwemman told the council that collection of bills for fire department service is running far behind.

Fischer proposed that the possibilities of setting up a fire protection district be investigated.

The President visits Washington

By Arthur Hoppe

Chronicle Features

President Nixon stopped off in Washington the other weekend on the way from his White House in Key Biscayne to his Summer White House in San Clemente.

Like the residents of any American city, Washingtonians were tremendously excited by the Presidential visit.

"I think I saw him with my own eyes while I was walking down Pennsylvania Avenue," a flattery matron told her friends over tea at the Bon Ton Shoppe. "Does he have sort of black, curly hair?"

Aides said the President made the decision himself to make the stopover in Washington. "He feels he is President of all the people," explained the assistant, "and therefore he likes to visit different areas of the country whenever possible."

First hint the President might be thinking of a trip to Washington was the arrival there a week earlier of a team of advance men. It was their job, as always, to make plans for security, communications, transpor-tation and temporary housing for the hundreds of officials, staff and newsmen who accompany the President on his travels.

But Washingtonians remained dubious until the moment the President actually arrived. "Who," as one agnostic put it, "would want to visit this place in January?"

The President’s dedication in going to the nation’s capital in mid-winter was admired by all. Apparen-tly, he hoped to set a good example to other government leaders. If so, it went unheeded.

Congress, which meets sporadically in Washington from February to Monday mornings in the spring, parts of the summer and the early fall, had long since achieved its primary goal of adjourning and getting Washington with the by now summer heat.

Senate Democrats were busy campaigning in New Hampshire or, if they were smart, Florida. One Assistant Secretary of State in town, having been grounded by inclement weather while on an inspection flight from Acapulco to Paris, and a few dozen colonels held the fort at the Pentagon, which is, of course, in Virginia.

But the President’s visit did, at least, stir up public interest in The R. Wallace Lawlon Plan.

Many noted political scientists have suggested that Mr. Nixon might move the nation’s capital to Key Biscayne or San Clemente to the nation’s capital. But Professor Lawson, with far greater logic, argues for moving the nation’s capital to Key Biscayne, San Clemente or some other pleasant clime.

First of all, we would save millions in not having to fly Mr. Nixon’s advisors and aides all the way across country from San Clemente whenever the President makes a working visit to Washington.

Secondly, if the new site for the nation’s capital were Key Biscayne or San Clemente, the Senate and House of Representatives could be persuaded to spend nine—maybe even ten—months a year working there, and then spend the five—days a week.

Then there would be our Legislative and Executive branches harmoniously making and executing laws day after day after day. It would mean thousands more dollars, and of course the budget would be vigorously enforced, each telling us what we must or cannot do under penalty of...

Maybe, come to think of it, when they picked Washington as the site for the nation’s capital, our founding fathers knew what they were doing.

Pro-dog writer rebuts critic

To the Daily Egyptian:

In answer to Larry Starks’ comments on my letter which appeared in Jan. 4’s Daily Egyptian, I would like to rebut a few items he brought up in his letter.

Item 1—Larry states that he realizes that dogs are not human, perhaps inferring that I don’t. I congratulate him on his perception. However, I never said dogs are human, I merely stated that people are animals just as much as dogs are.

Items 2 and 3—Larry says that the personal hygiene of an animal cannot be equated with that of a human because animals have no concept of cleanliness and are thus more susceptible to diseases. Is that why many animals, including dogs, spend significant time grooming themselves? I restate the fact that fewer diseases are carried and transmitted by the mouths of canines than humans.

Interestingly enough, a major St. Louis newspaper, in its Sunday supplement a few weeks ago, said that the site of a new experiment that compared the bite of the bumble bee with the bite of a dog.

I disagree that dogs are more susceptible to diseases. I won’t comment on the innumerable diseases that can be transmitted by kissing another person or by having sex with another person. However, I do not believe an animal cannot be compared with a dog.

Item 4—Mr. Starks informs us that besides having a host of parasites, dogs are known to carry lice, ticks and fleas. Here he strongly infers that the three above mentioned external parasites are not parasites. However, more than a rhetorical correction is warranted here. It should be noted that humans and countless other animals are hosts to hundreds of parasites, both symbiotic and pathological.

Many noted political scientists have suggested that Mr. Nixon might move the nation’s capital to Key Biscayne or San Clemente to the nation’s capital. But Professor Lawson, with far greater logic, argues for moving the nation’s capital to Key Biscayne, San Clemente or some other pleasant clime.

First of all, we would save millions in not having to fly Mr. Nixon’s advisors and aides all the way across country from San Clemente whenever the President makes a working visit to Washington.

Oldies but goodies

In 1968, the public heard of Kennedy, Humphrey, McCarthy, McGovern and Nixon fighting for this nation’s No. 1 job. In 1970, the public heard of Kennedy, Humphrey, McCarthy, McGovern and Nixon fighting for this nation’s No. 1 job. In 1974, in this country, you’d think, isn’t there anybody new around?
Space program must continue

To the Daily Egyptian:
In the four years I’ve been here at SIU I’ve seen issues come and go. But there is one issue that has come, has been coming for a long time and will continue for an even longer time. That issue is, of course, our space program. Should we spend the money necessary for a full space program with the billions on earth that are starving?

The space program is not a recent event. Since man first looked to the sky and saw the moon he questioned it and wanted to go to it. For all these thousands of years since mankind was born, man has searched and longed for means to conquer the space that separated him from the moon. It has been his “impossible dream.” Think of all the great minds that have pondered and thought about the moon. Men like Galileo, Copernicus and Bacon would gladly have died to know, not just the significance, and the Americans have a pact to share knowledge all the great minds that have pondered and thought about the moon. Men like Galileo, Copernicus and Bacon would gladly have died to know, not just the significance, but rather the act itself.

With the present small returns from our space program to the greater gain of all the world working together on the problems of mankind. Even small people know that the world’s problems will be solved only by world cooperation. Money and gifts alone will not feed people for very long.

But for those who see things in dollars and cents let me make a comparison. As students, most of us do not have much money that is not tied up in education, but suppose that you had a couple of hundred dollars and your desires included a stereo and a new car. With $300 you could get a decent stereo but not a new car. So you may as well buy the stereo and have the pleasure it can bring you. The same applies to the space program. With the few billions spent on the space program you can get to the moon and beyond but you could never feed the millions that are starving, so you may as well go to the moon and beyond. Who really knows what wealth, even the greatest wealth of world cooperation, lies buried there?

The space program started long before the Soviet’s Sputnik and will continue very possibly as long as mankind exists. One man—not even a nation of men—can stop the march of mankind. Searching for knowledge is indeed the march of all mankind.

Knowledge gained is never money wasted. You may say that the comparison of Columbus’ voyage to our voyage into space is not a valid comparison, but do you really know?

Short term job

To the Daily Egyptian:
According to the Southern Illinoisan of Dec. 24, 1971, "Viet center chief asks for new job." I would like to congratulate Vietnamese Center Director H.B. Jacobson for the first intelligent decision he has made in recent years. It’s unfortunate that Jacobson bring much dishonor to the University and to himself, but I believe that he should now be praised for his resignation.

According to the same Southern Illinoisan article, a select committee has been named within the center. I would like to congratulate the Southern Illinois Peace Committee (SIPC), I would suggest that all candidates for the position of director (with approximately enough and foolish and insensitive enough to consider the position) be informed that this will be a very short term appointment. Although the director will make a tremendous salary, have the opportunity to rub shoulders with dictators. Defense Department and CIA people, he should be told that his position may be terminated within a year. Perhaps we could hire a visiting director, who could then return to his university when the Vietnamese center is abolished.

Fight for freedom

To the Daily Egyptian:
In their attempt to stifle antivarrient sentiment, the institutions of the establishment have chosen to attack those individuals who have spoken out against the American war in Vietnam. The Student Mobilization Committee, SIU chapter, believes the denial of tenure to Douglas Allen by the SIU Board of Trustees is an attack on all Americans.

Similar attacks on professors against the war elsewhere, for instance, that against Morse Starskey, formerly of the University of Arizona, lead us to resolve to fight against this denial of political freedom and to continue our fight against war and the complicity of this University with it. We encourage the formation of a defense committee in which all those committed to political freedom might contribute their efforts.

Powenski predicts delay in pay hike

By Sue Bell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Louis Powenski, Internal Revenue Service agent for Southern Illinois, said Wednesday it will be several weeks before a decision regarding the legality of pay increases at SIU can be made.

Powenski met with James Brown, chief of board staff, Tuesday to discuss the raises. He said the University was being very cooperative and he now is studying documents and minutes of meetings to determine whether the raises violate federal wage-price guidelines.

The question of the raises' legality hinges on whether the pay raises, which include raises of 18 percent for some administrators, should be considered as a whole or by individual units for faculty, staff and administrators.

When the increases are considered as a whole, they average 4.14 percent despite the 18 percent increases for some individuals.

Advisement set for Tech school

Spring quarter group advisement for students in the School of Engineering and Technology will begin Monday in the student lounge of the Technology Building. The following is the schedule:

Advisement will be held from 9 to 11:30 and from 1 to 4 each day. Individual appointments will be available Jan. 21 in Tech A Room 409H.

C&T profiency exam announced

Students in the Clothing and Textile Department doing field experience (C&T 371) in the Chicago area and out of state (except in St. Louis) should see Dr. Thelma H. Berry in Room 311F, Home Economics Building, at the following times: 9 a.m. Jan. 18 and 9 a.m. Jan. 20.

The department also announced that the C&T 127A proficiency exam will be given Thursday Jan. 20 at 9 a.m. in Room 1400 of the Home Economics Building.

No Playboy for sailors

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The commander of the 5th Coast Guard District, charging that recent issues of Playboy magazine have "gone beyond the bounds of what many consider proper," has cancelled all government-purchased subscriptions to the magazine at district units.

"It is a publication that is available for any individual who wants to buy it at the newsstand," the paper quoted Rear Adm. Ross F. Shellenberger as saying.

"The question is not whether the Coast Guard is a suitable material of its men. The only question is whether the government funds should be used to purchase Playboy. I don't think they should be used for that purpose," Bullard said.

Ninety-five subscriptions to the magazine, including those going to ships and boats in the 5th District, will be halted by Bullard's decision. Each subscription cost $10 a year.

Magazines to be discontinued were paid for through entertainment and recreation funds.

A district spokesman told the paper Bullard's action was taken because of what he called moral considerations.

Study skills topic of dorm presentation

Neely Hall will soon start a program of basic studying skills, according to dorm resident counselor Ginnie Benning.

The first topic to be discussed will be a look at the general studies policies and requirements. Mrs. Mary Goss from the general studies advising center will speak.

The first session will take place in the sixth floor lounge of Neely Hall at 9 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 19.

Later talks will feature guest speakers from areas pertaining to the concept of studying skills such as Counseling and Testing and Developmental Skills.

Commitment

Many of us are concerned enough about the world's problems to want to do something about them. What kind of commitment is really needed?

Carbondale mice beware: ‘Napoleon’ alive and hungry

By Glenda Kelly
Student Writer

The snake’s dark, glistening body curled up in the corner, his eyes gleaming with a hungry glare. He was not a pet, but a wild creature, one that had made its way into the Carbondale house. His name was Napoleon, and he was not content with just being a pet—it was his mission to consume anything in his path.

As the family gathered around the cage where Napoleon resided, they could see the way his tail flicked back and forth, the sound of his breathing filling the room. They knew he was hungry, and they could see from his eyes that he was not going to stop until he had fed his next meal.

One day, as they were eating dinner, Napoleon made his move. He came out of his cage and climbed onto the table, where he devoured the delicious food spread before them. The family watched in amazement as he devoured everything in sight, leaving only crumbs behind.

But Napoleon was not satisfied with just the food on the table. He made his way to the kitchen, where he found a bag of chips. He climbed onto the counter and started eating the chips, gulping them down one by one.

The family tried to stop him, but he was too fast. They could hear the crunching of the chips as he ate them, and they could see the满足ment on his face. It was as if he was possessed by a hunger that could not be satisfied.

The family tried to keep him away from the food, but he was too smart. He would find his way back to the table, even after they had cleaned it off. They knew they had to do something to control him, but they didn’t know what.

They considered taking him to a professional, but they knew it would be expensive. They couldn’t afford to keep him as a pet, but they didn’t want to give him away either. They were stuck in a situation where they didn’t know what to do.

As the days passed, Napoleon became more and more aggressive. He became bolder,更大胆, and more daring. The family was beginning to fear for their safety, but they knew they couldn’t get rid of him.

They decided to take him to a specialist, hoping that they could find a solution to the problem. They were relieved when they found a vet who was willing to help them.

The vet examined Napoleon and found that he was not just hungry, but also suffering from a condition that made him more aggressive. The vet prescribed medicine to help him control his hunger and aggression.

The family was grateful to the vet, but they knew they still had to deal with Napoleon. They decided to find a way to keep him contained, so that he wouldn’t hurt anyone.

They set up a cage in the garage, hoping that he would stay inside. But Napoleon was not daunted. He found a way to break out of his cage and make his way back into the house.

The family was at their wit’s end. They didn’t know what to do, but they knew they had to get rid of Napoleon. They decided to take him to the vet, hoping that they could find a solution to the problem.

The vet gave them a few options, but the family decided to take him to a local pet store. They were hoping that they could find a new home for Napoleon, one where he wouldn’t be a danger to anyone.

As they drove away from the store, they felt a sense of relief. They knew that Napoleon was in good hands, and they hoped that he would find a new home where he could be happy and safe.

They drove back to their home, hoping that they could finally put the issue behind them. They knew that they had made the right decision, and they were grateful to the vet for helping them.

The family settled in for the night, hoping that Napoleon would be happy in his new home. They knew that they had done the right thing, and they were grateful for the opportunity to help him.

As they drifted off to sleep, they could hear the sound of Napoleon’s breathing, a peaceful sound that comforted them. They knew that they had done the right thing, and they were grateful for the opportunity to help him.

The end.
Pipe smokers termed honest, stable

By Don Frost Student Writer

If you are a pipe smoker, you’re probably a basically honest and stable person, according to Earl Denham, Carbondale pipe shop owner.

“Our percentage of bum checks runs about one-in-one hundred of one per cent compared to other stores in town,” Denham said. “At first you say this is coincidence, but when you continue over a period of years, it’s no longer coincidence.”

Denham is a slim man who sounds remarkably like Howard Cosell, the sports commentator. He refers to his age as simply past middle-age.

Denham has been involved with pipes since his college days when he worked in a pipe shop in South Hampton, Long Island. He was a chef for two years before going into the gourmet equipment business and as part of semi-retirement, has opened a local pipe shop.

Making a pipe is comparable to cutting a diamond, he said.

“It’s the same as cutting a diamond only you don’t have the certainty that an expert diamond cutter has, because you can’t see what’s inside the pipe,” Denham said. “If you happen to hit a pebble, the pipe is ruined.”

Denham said that a good pipe would last for a lifetime. His oldest pipe is more than 30 years old.

The largest percentage of pipes are made from briar which is derived from the white heather bush found around the Mediterranean, according to Denham, who said he’s “Seen gimmicks come and go, but briar has lasted for more than 300 years.”

“You now see these pipes which are made of the same material as the cone of a space ship,” Denham said. “This simply is not going to last. Nobody comes back and buys two of them.”

But he said the corn cob pipe makes for a pretty good smoke.

“But of course, you have to realize that the corn cob is soft and absorbs moisture, so you have to dry it out before smoking,” Denham said.

Denham added, “You could always follow the example of the old farmers,” he said. “The farmer had 300 corn cob pipes. He put them around the rafters of the barn and every day he would smoke one a day and then let it back up there and rest it for a year. Well, he had a pretty fair smoke.”

Denham said that around Christmas there are usually 15 to 20 women who come in to buy a pipe for their grandparents.

“If course grandma doesn’t want any of this sweet new fashioned tobacco,” he said. “She just smokes some plain burley mixture and sets in her rocking chair and enjoys it.”

There are a number of women pipe smokers said occasionally a man will even come in and buy a pipe for his wife, Denham said.

Apparently, not only do women smoke pipes, but they can sell them too, as Denham’s wife Margaret helps run the pipe shop.

SIPC hails Jacobini resignation

By Pat Nußman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A Southern Illinois Peace Committee (SIPC) statement released today hailed the resignation of H.B. Jacobini as director of the Center for Vietnamese Studies as indicating the failure of the center and the success of its critics.

The statement, dated Monday, said that the SIPC viewed the resignation as a “victory” for many of the same reasons that the Vietnamese studies center has failed to accomplish its goals in the past and is unlikely to do so in the future.”

The SIPC, said the statement, and the 1970-71 AID Institutional Development annual report indicate that the efforts of center critics have made it impossible for the center to carry out the objectives of AID.

The statement cited first the case of controversial Douglas M. Allen, assistant professor of philosophy, who has been denied tenure by the Board of Trustees “for being ‘divisive,’ for his exposure of the facts about the Vietnamese studies center and his outspoken criticism of it.”

Also cited were cases involving other faculty members such as C. Harvey Gardiner, who has been denied a pay raise, and Aristotle Katrides, who, the SIPC, has been denied tenure by his department for his criticism of a member of the center staff.

The statement also commented that many students have been intimidated by “the hundreds of arrests and the Interim Policy on Demonstrations arising out of the protests of January and May of 1970, when students voted to have the Viet-Center removed from campus.”

The statement emphasized that Jacobini’s resignation indicated the “clear failure of the center director” because of academic qualifications.

“The failure of the center was not selected to be center director because of academic qualifications,” the statement continued.

“Despite the original purposes of the grant,” the statement continued, “it is clear why Jacobini was selected to be director of the center.”

Asian weeds threaten groves

LESSEPS, Fla. (AP)—An evil Asian weed that formerly ate only coffee beans, nuts and stored seeds, now is developed a taste for Florida oranges and is threatening citrus groves, scientists say.

Harold Brewbaker, chief entomologist at the University of Florida’s division of plant industry, says the insects act on oranges and other defoliants bombards act on trees in Vietnam, cause the fruit to drop to the ground before it is ripe, like chemical defoliants cause leaves to fall before their time.

It’s victory paid by individuals

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A man demanding up to a million dollars, two parachutes and a flight to South America seized a plane with 94 passengers and eight crewmen Wednesday but allowed the passengers to deplane at Dallas.

Radio conversations between the plane crew and airport authorities indicated that the hijacker intended to parachute when over South America.

The man took over the plane shortly after takeoff from Kansas City, Mo., on a flight to Dallas, Kansas City and Minneapolis.

After the red and gold Braniff International Boeing 727 landed in Dallas Thursday, the FBI was refusing to confirm that anything had been taken.

The hijacker was driven to the crew, but he permitted restricted radio communication with the Love Field control tower.

The hijacker boasted that he had studied parachutes and that he believed he could make his way through the jungle from wherever point he landed to Bogota, authorities said.

The man claimed to have sticks of dynamite and was demanding up to a million dollars, he could make his friends in Bogota, Colombia.

The Baha'i Club, a branch of the Baha'i religion, is sponsoring a "World Religion Day" Sunday, according to Deborah Laza, club representative. Miss Laza said that the Baha'i faith, originally founded in Persia in 1844, has three main goals. She said they are to revitalize mankind spiritually, break down the barriers between people, and establish a new world society with principles based on the oneness of mankind, God and religion.

"We believe that all religions come from the same God and, therefore, we should work to establish religious unity and world peace," she said.

"No prophets like Jesus and Mohammad were men for their time. But as times and things change we have to look to new prophets. Our present prophet is Baha'u'llah, our founder."

The Baha'i club will have a meeting in observance of their "World Religion Day" at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Undergraduate Conference Room at Morris Library.

Jim Sheppard, assistant director of the Student Center, said Wednesday that the Student Center Bookstore is now offering a 10 per cent discount on all paperback books. The discount can be applied if the total purchase is at least $20, excluding lab manuals. Hard cover books are also subject to the discount, Sheppard said. The bookstore is open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.
Dental students provide service

Public can utilize free dental care

By Chuck Hutchcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

There I sat, in what loosely resembled a dentist office. There was the faint presence of the odor of a dentist office. And--there were pretty young women in white uniforms bustling about. One, dressed in a pants uniform and her hair cut in a shag fashion walked up to me.

"Are you Chuck?" she asked.

"Yes," I replied.

Her name was Marilyn Myers. I was to be her laboratory subject for the next six weeks. At the end of that time she would receive a grade and I would have cleaner teeth. It seemed to be a fair deal, after all, what pain is there in having your teeth cleaned?

Miss Myers' laboratory work is actually a little known "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" public service offered by SIU's dental hygiene department. She and her 28 classmates are dependent on members of the surrounding community to volunteer to their services.

In return, their services receive for the price of nothing a small bit of dental education, clean teeth and a fluoride treatment.

There are few services that this University to its surrounding communities can offer.

Drugs taxes hit $17 million

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The government said today it has assessed more than $17 million in drug penalties and identified 28 narcotic traffickers in the first six months of a program to put the tax squeeze on those who distribute drugs.

Not all of the taxes and penalties assessed will be collected, the Treasury officials said at a news conference, but they said the program represents a substantial start in attacking the drug trafficking problem.

GSC ponders separate government

Graduate students may come a step closer to controlling their own activity funds following the Graduate Student Council (GSC) meeting at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the Kaskaskia Room of the Student Center.

The council will consider a resolution favoring an amendment of Board of Trustees by-laws to provide for separate governments for graduate and undergraduate students.

The by-laws now provide for only one student governing body for both graduates and undergraduates and the GSC has not been recognized as an official body by the board. President Robert G. Lauer, however, has recognized the GSC.

Under the change, each government would have the power to act as its constituency's representative, the power to formulate policy and the power to control their constituency's student activity funds. Each government also would be responsible for formulating its own structure.

If the amendments are approved by the board, the GSC would be able to control its activity fees with only the board having a veto.

Currently, the undergraduate government makes the fee designation. There are no provisions which require the GSC to be contacted before graduate fees are distributed. Graduate students pay a $10.96 activity fee unless they are on an assistantship.

The amendments were written by Larry Cox, coordinator of student governance, and Tom Vaught, Cox's graduate assistant.

Cox said the amendments are an effort to get board recognition for the GSC. He said a letter has been sent to the President's office asking Lauer to submit the amendments to the Jan. 31 board meeting.

In addition, the GSC is scheduled to consider a resolution asking the GSC to oppose the renovation of McAndrew Stadium. The resolution was brought to the council's attention at the Dec. 10 meeting and was tabled until Friday's meeting.

Chris Jensen, secretary of the GSC, said there was a possibility that the GSC might be asked to approve a letter asking that Doug Allen be given tenure. Jensen said he was not sure if this would be brought to the council's attention.

A campus-wide salary scale for graduate assistants might be discussed.

Figures show more

Health Service costs

By Sue Miller Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Robert Walldron, Health Service administrator, attempting to show the reason behind the recent increase in fees at the Health Service, released figures showing the increased cost of operation.

Walldron said the total cost of operation has gone up 19 percent in the past fiscal year. In order to try and break even we had to raise and add fees for some of our services,” he said.

Some of the higher increased costs were laboratory supplies up 255 percent from the 1969-70 fiscal year, student wages up 18 percent, medical supplies 36 percent, outside laboratory tests 12 percent, postal 13 percent and laundry 30 percent.

Some of the fees already were in place in the Board of Trustees officially approved those and other fees at their Dec. 11 meeting.

Fees approved at that meeting were:

- A $2.50 ambulance charge which is limited to a 25 mile radius.
- An $85 fee for use of the Health Service lab by contractors.

Walldron said the reason the Health Service had made transfers to other hospitals over the past year in central Illinois that practice had to be discontinued.

- In-laboratory charges after the ninth test. Those without a paid activity fee statement will pay from the first test.
- A $15 fee for after hours use of the emergency room or X-ray and laboratory technician.

- Emergency room charges of $3 at all times.

- X-ray charges of $6 at all times.

Papachainsm smear will cost $3.

All funds acquired through additional fees collected will be deposited in the “Student Medical Benefit Fund” and will be reused to help defray the cost of services for which the charge was assessed.

Walldron said that the use of additional fees for individual services will take the burden of the Health Service deficit off all students and place it on the users only.

"The fees were necessary in order to break even or cut the deficit that is presently being incurred," Walldron said.

FEET MAY IDENTIFY ADDICTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heroin addicts running from the law may have their footprints photographed much like babies in a hospital nursery under an experiment unveiled Tuesday by President Nixon's top advisor on drug abuse.

The idea, said Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, is to prevent addicts from selling the heroin substitute on the streets by registering for methadone control programs in different cities.

"When operational nationwide, the system will be able to ensure that no patient is receiving methadone from more than one clinic," Jaffe told a news conference.

Here's how it would work: A heroin addict registering at one of the 30 methadone clinics around the country would have a picture of his right foot taken on a machine much like those used to keep track of newborn babies in a hospital nursery.

Through use of a regional or national computer system, which ultimately would include a footprint photo of each of the nation's 50,000 methadone users, duplicate registration would be prevented.

Jaffe emphasized that a key consideration is keeping any methadone file separate from any FBI or police identification system.

"That's why, Jaffe said, fingerprints could never be used. If addicts signing up for methadone to shake their drug habit thought they were being watched by the police, they would be frightened off, Jaffe said.

The foot photo idea is now being tried out on about 2,500 methadone users in Washington, and with those in Baltimore, Jaffe said.

Jaffe, director of the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse, said his office will make available federal funds for any drug clinic which wants to try out the idea.
Council discusses value of forming more committees

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Administrative and Professional Staff Council voted unanimously Thursday to establish a membership subcommittee. At the council's monthly meeting, 11 members discussed for over an hour the feasibility of establishing subcommittees.

Don Ward, chairman of the council, said that he believed that the general opinion is that "we should have subcommittees."

Other members, however, raised questions.

"How does establishment of subcommittees affect our relationship with the senate?" Richard Dahl asked.

Ward explained that the subcommittees would do the necessary legwork and research and bring it back to the council. The council then voted on it, he added, and from there it would go to the senate.

"Everything, however, does not have to go to the Senate route," Ward said.

Another member of the council, Fran Abrams, asked, "What do you feel we need or terms of committees?"

Ward said the council needs a membership committee immediately to identify and work with informing our constituency. Also, committees would do thelegwork and research and bring it immediately to the membership committee.

All of the members agreed that the council needed a membership committee, but some felt that standing committees were useless if there was nothing for them to do.

Dahl suggested that a membership committee be established immediately and that other subcommittees be established as the need arises.

Bill Price made the motion that a membership committee be established, that the secretary be the chairman and that the secretary pick one representative from each sector to serve on the committee.

Other issues covered by the council were fringe benefits for the administrative professional staff, the Community Conduct Code, and the retirement fund.

The council voted that Joyce Nash, resident assistant of group housing, be appointed the council representative on the Community Conduct Code committee.

They also decided that the common benefits committee should be invited to the next meeting to review and report on the retirement committee.

The council acts as an agent to establish recognition by the University for the administrative and professional staff.

It began meeting regularly as a body in the spring of 1971.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 8, in the second floor conference room of Park Place South.

Visiting lecturer to contrast poets

"The Feminine Ideal from Ariosto to Tasso," will be the topic of an 8 p.m. Thursday speech by Mrs. Marilla Battilana, visiting lecturer of foreign languages at SIU.

The lecture at Morris Library Auditorium will outline the contrast between the Italian poet Ariosto, who Ms. Battilana describes as "an out and out feminist" of the 16th century and typically counter-revolution Italian poet Tasso.

A poetess as well as instructor, Ms. Battilana holds a doctorate from Italy and has served as a lecturer at the University of Ca'Foscari, Venice, Italy.

The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Foreign Languages and is open to the public.

Wrestling duo's come long way in learning wrestling

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Gerdens eventually won the battle and has been at 138 ever since, but the only thing Burreg got out of the bargain was an injured ankle.

"I was a little worried," Burreg, who eventually dropped to the 138-pound division— and Gerdens gave SIU as formidable a one-two lightweight punch as there is anywhere in the nation.

Burreg has taken his success with a matter of fact attitude and there is no reason why he shouldn't. During high school he was a two-time Florida state champion.

But it's just a little since last year.

"Of course the training went well this fall and I've gained more wrestling knowledge."

Undefeated frost visit Evansville Aces tonight

By Ken Stewart
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

It may be a lucky omen that the 13th of this month falls one day short of Friday, So the freshman basketball team travels to Evansville for a Thursday 13th with the Purple Aces junior varsity.

"Maybe it's also just luck that Evansville is having one of its few (.22 current record) recent seasons and the young Salukis have so far made it through the early season minus any injuries.

But the schedule does look good for the high-scoring (97.3 average) freshmen may encounter record-to-44 in the first test of a tough road schedule.

The game precedes a nasty clash between the Salukis and Evansville in Roberta Stadium.

So far the road to Evansville has gone smoothly. "The last day or so of practice looked much sharper than it was the first day we got back from break," said coach Paul Henry.

The freshmen didn't show any signs of slippage from a 3-0 December campaign when they defeated the SIU alumni and wallpped Breakinridge Jol Corps (140-55) in pickup games.

Henry said the pickup games were helpful but he added that he didn't think the liquidated win over Breckinridge made him team overconfident.

"Four Breckinridge starters didn't return after Christmas," said Henry. "So they had only one starter (Leroy Wilson) on the floor with us.

There will not be any changes in the starting lineup at Evansville. Joe Meriweather (laveraging 22 points a game, Tim Rucci (17) and Rickey Boynton (22) at guards.

Burdette has an edge in scoring with Meriweather against Mike Meyerson (8 point average) and in rebound potential. Meyerson again (18.8 average) and Willius (11.2) against top Ace on the boards, Roarke Dunick (11). A strong outside shooting Evansville club last year defeated Southern twice, 85-60 and 100-62.

The Women's Recreational Association (WRA) will sponsor a state volleyball tournament Friday and Saturday involving eight schools from around Illinois.

Aside from the SIU team, other schools competing in the twoday affair will be DePaul, Eastern Illinois, Western Illinois, Illinois State, Northeastern Illinois State, University of Illinois Champaign and Chicago Circle campuses.

Thus far in the season, the coed volleyball team has a 15-1 record. A first place in the state tournament will advance it to the regionals Jan. 29-30 in Wooster, Ohio.

Testone's case is a different story. The native of Aurora is a senior now and after three years of learning appears ready to be the consistent winner the Salukis need at 142.

Testone's also managed to overcome a series of lingering injuries that have plagued him since his freshman year. At a fresh, he managed to wrestle at a 3-0 record, but in his second year, he hurt his back and later his ribs.

Last year might be classified as a learning one for him, the results are being seen in 1971-72.

"I guess I was just able to put it all together this year," he said after racking up his ninth win Saturday against Moorhead State.

"Everything is falling in just right for me now."

Looking at last season, Testone said, "I think my attitude has changed from the last year. I was just in there wrestling. I had those injuries plus a case of early senioritis."

Coach Lynn Long said Testone's success has been surprising but, "Vince is a real hardnosed guy and you never count someone like that out."

SIU-Aces rivalry to continue tonight

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Southern Illinois' oldest continuing basketball rivalry will write its 51st chapter Thursday night when the Salukis visit to Roberts Stadium, home of the Evansville Purple Aces.

SIU and its eastern neighbor first met in 1936, the Salukis losing, 21-18. However, SIU holds an eight victory edge in the series and will seek its 30th victory over the Indiana school in Thursday's game.

While Southern Illinois has stumbled of late (from 4-6 to 5-6), Arad McMurchan's Aces are mercily on their way to defending last year's college division championship. The Aces are 8-3 and fifth ranked nationally by the Associated Press.

Their only common opponent with the Salukis is Weber State which defeated both Midwestern teams. Weber annihilated Evansville, 97-19, by hitting 35
of 56 (.63)

Don Buse, 18.2 scoring average last year, is their biggest name despite slipning to 13.9 this year.

Their most improved player has to be Steve "The Whale" Wolmer. "Whale" has led the Aces in scoring with 17.3 points per game, sixth in the nation.

Weighing 250 last year, he averaged 8.8 points and 5.6 rebounds. But through October, he's averaging 17.3 and 8.8 points-rebounds averages.

Six-foot-three Rick Coffey (19.1) and 6-5 Greg Martin (7.8) are the forwards.

At about 6'6" last Saturday in the winner with a front line of 6'4" forwards, Don
Portugal and Nate Hawthorne, with 6'11
Bill Perkins in front, the Salukis win.

Despite the relative equal size, Lambert pointed out any great change in Southern's atrocious rebounding.

"We haven't shown any favorites whether they come in 6'10" or 5'10."

Southern's frosh, now 3'9, will play the preliminary game at Evansville.
