Death penalty limits lessened by high court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in its latest venture into the legal quagmire of capital punishment, made it easier Monday for states to send convicted murderers to their deaths.

The justices ruled, 7-2, that death sentences may be meted out even when state courts do not try to determine whether others convicted of similar crimes were treated more leniently.

In the opinion, Justice Byron R. White wrote the Constitution's bar against cruel and unusual punishment require no "comparative proportionality review" that a lower court demanded for every death penalty case.

The decision reinstated death sentence of California murderer Robert Alton Harris for the 1978 slayings of two teen-agers in San Diego.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals had thrown it out, saying a proportionality review was needed to ensure Harris "was not being punished arbitrarily. The Supreme Court reversed that ruling.

It may be months before the ultimate effect of Monday's decision on the nearly 1,300 men and women on death rows nationwide is assessed.

But aside from reinstating Harris' execution, the ruling could have immediate effect in Texas, where some 170 people are on death row.

Three months ago White spared the life of condemned murderer James David Autry, who was already strapped to a wheeled cot in the Texas death house awaiting a lethal injection. The last-gasp legal argument raised by Autry's lawyers was comparative proportionality review, and White said he should be kept alive until the case was decided.

Texas officials said White's order basically blocked all executions. The state now apparently may reschedule his and others' executions.

Justices William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, who are opposed to capital punishment under all circumstances, dissented. In other matters Monday, the court:

—Struck down a ruling that would have forced Pennsylvania to close down its once-notorious Pennhurst Center for the mentally handicapped. The justices, by a 5-4 vote, ruled that a federal appeals court exceeded its authority in ruling that state law requires Pennhurst to be phased out and its patients be placed in "community living arrangements."

—Agreed to decide whether the Federal Reserve Board acted legally last year when it approved BankAmerica Corp.'s purchase of the Charles Schwab Corp., the nation's largest "discount" securities brokerage.

—Left intact a ruling that stripped 73-year-old Conrad Schellong of Chicago of his U.S. citizenship because he never told immigration officials about his service as a Nazi concentration camp guard before World War II.

—Refused to hear the death row appeal of a Deer Park, Texas, man sentenced to die for murdering his 8-year-old son by giving him Halloween candy laced with cyanide.

—Said it will decide whether the government must reimburse a military officer for mistakenly deducting alimony and child support pay from his Air Force salary under what proved to be an invalid state court order.

Meese nominated for attorney general

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Monday nominated Counsellor Edwin Meese III, the hard-nosed point man for Reagan's conservative philosophy, to succeed William French Smith as attorney general.

Meese, 52, one of the "Big Three" White House aides, said he hadn't sought the post and "was really very happy with the job I had" as a policy-maker and Reagan's closest link with the political right.

But "I'm grateful to the president for giving me the opportunity and I will try to do as outstanding a job as Bill Smith did," said Meese, who was in Santa Barbara, Calif., to deliver a speech.

A White House aide who asked for anonymity said Meese "wanted this for a long time — from the first year."

Like Smith, Meese shares a law-and-order approach to the nation's judicial problems, favoring capital punishment, relaxed rules for evidence in trials and less taxation for the wealthy. He has pronounced the progressive income tax "immoral," for example.

He also reaped scores of headlines when he questioned whether hunger was a genuine problem in America and suggested that many who go to soup lines do so only because they want something for nothing.

Meese was known, too, for his unwavering support for former Interior Secretary James Watt, and as architect of Reagan's bid to retol the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights. He also backed an administration attempt to win tax exemptions for segregated private schools.

The consensus in Congress was that Meese would be confirmed by the GOP-corrolled Senate, but hearings are likely to include a heated review of the administration's civil rights and antitrust policies.

Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee who will preside over the hearings, praised him as "an able man and dedicated person ... He would make an excellent attorney general."

But House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, D-Mass., said Meese's philosophy "is bad, to be perfectly truthful."

The nomination wasn't announced until Monday, but Reagan told Meese his decision Thursday, a day after Smith told Reagan he wanted to resign.

ISSC halts funds to late applicants

By Anne Flasz
Staff Writer

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission has stopped making awards for the 1983-84 school year to students who applied after Dec. 9, 1983, but a University spokesman said few, if any, SIUC students will be affected.

Joe Camille, director of student work and financial assistance, said the number of students who applied for the Monetary Award program after Dec. 9 was small.

"The ISSC normally stops issuing awards at this time," Camille said. "That's why we urge students to apply as early as possible."

The Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance won't know until February how many students will be affected, he said.

Camille said applications filed after Dec. 9 will be processed and held by the ISSC. After schools indicate how many award winners are enrolled, some applicants in the suspended category may receive grants.

Applicants who are found to be ineligible will be advised, he said, and corrections and updates on earlier applications will continue to be processed.

Camille said students who wish to receive MAP awards for the 1984-85 school year should file applications now, and that the present cut-off in funding will not effect the grant situation next year.

Continuing students enrolled during the school year had until June 1, 1983, to submit an application for consideration for the full academic year, while first-time students had until Oct. 15, 1983.

The ISSC announced full-year awards for only the students whose applications were processed by early September.

Anti-abortionist back Reagan, vow to oppose six U.S. senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The anti-abortion movement, rallying to protest the 11th anniversary of legalized abortion, targeted six senators for defeat Monday and backed President Reagan as the "only candidate to support the unborn child."

The National Right to Life Committee cited pro-choice votes of the three Democrats and three Republicans in urging their defeat, but acknowledged that two of the six, Republicans William Cohen of Maine and Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas, probably are unbeatable.

It called for Reagan's re-election, but held off on a formal endorsement until he officially announces whether he is a candidate.

The committee's Senate hit list was released as the anti-abortion movement held its annual "March for Life" to protest the Jan. 22, 1973, Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion. The demonstrators walked from the Ellipse, a park in the shadow of the White House, to the high court about two miles away.

Besides Cohen and Mrs. Kassebaum, the movement said its targets in 1984 included Sens. Max Baucus, D-Mont.; David Pryor, D-Ark.; Charles Percy, R-Ill.; and Carl Levin, D-Mich.

"As this campaign progresses, I would hope that the people of Maine would judge me on my entire record, both on the very difficult issue of abortion as well as on the hundreds of other issues which the Senate must deal with each year," Cohen said.

Philip Shandler, Levin's spokesman, said the senator would not comment until he returned to Washington Tuesday, but added, "It doesn't seem quite fair to me" that the six should be singled out.

Percy spokeswoman Kathy Lydon said targeting him "comes as no surprise to us ... They targeted him in 1978 and we won in spite of it."

"I respect those who disagree with my position, but I have always made my views plainly known," commented Mrs. Kassebaum.

Douglas Johnson, the Right to Life Committee's legislative director, said the targets were not picked because of a single vote. But he cited their failure to support a proposed constitutional amendment to allow Congress and the states to ban or restrict abortions.

Sandra Faucher, head of the group's political action committee, predicted at least $750,000 would be raised for the 1984 elections.

"It would be a substantial setback for us if Ronald Reagan is not re-elected," she said. "He has appointed many people ... who have been solidly pro-life and have done a great deal for the movement."

The anti-abortion movement endorsed Reagan in 1980.

At the Ellipse rally, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who faces a tough re-election fight, said he would oppose abortion even if it costs him his Senate seat.

Meanwhile, members of the National Organization for Women picketed GOP headquarters. NOW President Judy Goldsmith said in a statement, "Since his election, President Reagan has launched a major assault against women's rights to decide when and whether to have children. He seeks to return to a time when even rape or incest victims had to bear unwanted children, when hundreds of women died each year from botched abortions."

City officials favor act to limit boosts in city government cost

By Paula J. Finlay
Staff Writer

Carbondale officials would favor a constitutional amendment limiting the state legislature's ability to pass on the costs of government to municipalities. Mayor Helen Westberg said Monday.

A push for an amendment that would require a three-fifths majority vote for any bill that would increase the cost of local government is under consideration by the Illinois Municipal League. Currently only a simple majority is required.

"We would like to see such legislation passed," Westberg said.

Although the State Mandaments Act requires the state to reimburse municipalities for additional costs brought about by bills the legislature passes, the act was bypassed in 1983 when every bill increasing local government costs in 1983 was exempted by the legislature from the act.

An increase from $3,000 to $3,500 in the property assessment, homestead exemption and an increase in the Illinois Municipal Employee Retirement Fund pensions were among those bills.

Those actions have city officials concerned, Westberg said. The state gave benefits that local governments had to pay for.

"The people in Springfield appeared to be magnanimous and generous and we at the other end are left to pick up the tab," she said.

The possibility of pushing for a constitutional amendment restricting such actions came before the IML Executive Board at a January workshop, but no decision on whether to pursue it has been made. The board may consider the action at its next formal meeting Feb. 2.

No information about the amendment had been received by the Carbondale government. City Manager William Dixon said Monday.

IML consideration of the constitutional amendment is still in its early stages, Dixon said, and it is too soon to know whether Carbondale would aid in rallying support for it. The IML move is probably a "reaction to a very difficult legislative session for municipalities in 1982," he said.

"It's something that's being talked about but I don't know if it will become a reality," he said.

To get the amendment on the November ballot, the league will need 200,000 voter signatures on petition by May.

700 flee chemical company fire

JERSEYVILLE, (AP) — About 700 people fled their homes and businesses Monday as a precaution against fumes from a fire at an oil and fertilizer company storing agricultural chemicals.

Firefighter Jerry Graham said no one was hurt in the fire at Moore's Oil and Fertilizer Co. He said he expected the evacuees to return to their homes and jobs as soon as smoke diminished.

Woelfel said the fire started in a building housing automobiles and spread to an area housing chemicals. "We're not sure what chemicals were in there," he said. "But the IEPA confirmed that it was a good idea to evacuate the nearby homes."

Ice causes release of toxic fumes

SAUGET, (AP) — Monsanto Co. officials say a chunk of ice may have fallen on a nozzle, releasing a corrosive chemical and injuring more than 100 people with its toxic fumes.

"One theory was that an icicle had formed and dropped onto the nozzle mechanism," said spokeswoman Sarah Gaines Collins today. "The plant is currently investigating the incident and should know within a few days the cause for the nozzle to fail and be torn away from the side of the tank."

Canadian wins $11 million in lottery

TORONTO (AP) — A truck driver and his wife from Brantford, Ontario, today collected the largest lottery prize ever in North America, ending a week-long mystery over the winner of the tax-free $11 million prize.

Stuart Kelly, 57, said he and his wife, Lillian, spent last week consulting with a lawyer and making plans for their future as millionaires after learning on Jan. 21 they had won the prize.

Nearly drowned boy progressing

By Sharon Cohen
Of the Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — Jimmy Tontlewicz, the 4-year-old boy who nearly drowned after being submerged in icy Lake Michigan for 20 minutes, awoke Monday for the first time since his accident eight days ago, hospital officials said.

Jimmy pulled out of a coma that doctors had induced with drugs to control pressure inside his skull. The boy had been withdrawing from phenobarbital since Wednesday, when doctors stopped giving him the drug.

"He's out of the coma," said Jane Crowley, spokeswoman at Children's Memorial Hospital. "He's off the respirator."

Crowley said Jimmy's condition had been upgraded from critical to serious. She added that Jimmy, who remained in the intensive care unit, was awake, but had not yet spoken.

Hospital officials said Jimmy, who first opened his eyes Friday, has been making constant progress since the Jan.

15 sledding accident that plunged him into the lake, but it's impossible to determine now whether he has suffered brain damage. However, preliminary results of a brain scan taken a few days ago showed Jimmy's brain function to be normal.

The boy's mother, Kathy, and his father, Terrence, who tried unsuccessfully to rescue Jimmy when he fell into the lake, have maintained an around-the-clock vigil since their son was hospitalized.

USO president says Trojans meeting campaign promises

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

Two-thirds of the way through his tenure as Undergraduate Student Organization president, Bruce Joseph says he's improved USO's relations with the University administration and, with his staff, has strived to meet Trojan party campaign promises.

"It's been a learning experience for all of us," he said. Joseph said one of the achievements he's proudest of was delivering the student directory on time. Distribution of the free directories began Oct. 14, and Joseph said they were more accurate than ever before.

Joseph was elected student body president last April by a landslide vote, amid campaign promises to fight tuition and fee hikes.

"I feel we've done a good job stemming the tide of increases," Joseph said, "but we've had some setbacks."

The athletics fee may rise by $8 per semester the Health Service fee by $10 next year, if the STU Board of Trustees approves administration proposals. Joseph said he wishes the athletics fee increase could have been less, but he said the health fee increase is needed to provide more insurance coverage and services.

The new health fee proposal doubles the dollar amount of major medical coverage, increases coverage of off-campus services, and decreases the $15 fee during summer semester.

The increase in the Student Activity Fund, from $8.55 to $10.30, will benefit many student organizations which rely on Student Senate funding, Joseph said.

"This is the first increase in the fee in 10 years. There are 350 student organizations now, twice as many as 10 years ago," Joseph said, adding that the estimated $60,000 generated from the increase will result in many new programs and events.

Joseph, who lobbied for last year's state tax increases which provided additional funding for state universities, said he doesn't expect an extension of the tax increase because "it's an election year."

He added, however, that "Illinois ought to maintain its historical commitment to higher education."

Joseph said he is willing to accept the 6.5 percent tuition increase recommended for next year by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. The IBHE has promised that an increase in Illinois State Scholarship Commission funds will be commensurate with the tuition hike, "but not everyone receives that aid," he said.

Government informant papers are found in slain man's home

CHICAGO (AP) Documents found in the home of a slain former steelworker have sparked an investigation into how the man obtained "detailed information" on an informant who exposed an alleged plot to kill Mayor Harold Washington, officials say.

The file was found under a carpet during a search of the Calumet City apartment of Walter Mihalich, who was shot twice as he slept in his bedroom Dec. 10, police say.

The documents included "detailed information" on Keith Freeman, a U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration informant who blew his cover last September when he exposed an alleged plot to kill Washington. Investigators said the file would have been useful to anyone trying to stalk and kill Freeman.

"I definitely want to find out why Mihalich was killed and what he was doing in possession of papers identifying a government informant," said Jeffrey Kent, chief of special prosecutions for Cook County State's Attorney Richard Daley. "This is a mystery."

Kent said Freeman "no doubt had many enemies" because of his work for the DEA and assignments on some cases involving organized crime figures.

Freeman, who Kent said is now under federal protection, is expected to be a key witness in the trial this spring of Lawrence Oberman, 38, a real estate broker charged with trying to hire an assassin to kill Washington.

Freeman, Oberman's cousin, told authorities that Oberman approached him last year asking to hire someone to kill the mayor. Freeman was working as an undercover agent when he reported Oberman's overtures, prosecutors say.

Oberman is free on bond, and his attorneys contend that his comments were just "huffing" and "braggadocio."

According to prosecutors, Mihalich had no police record. The husky former steel worker was polite and helpful but preferred to keep to himself, according to neighbors.

Mihalich was shot by someone standing in a gangway outside his bedroom window, and the assailant made no attempt to enter the apartment or steal anything, police said.

More information needed on acid rain

ACID RAIN, an issue promising much debate in the months ahead, was a hot topic last weekend as Sen. John Glenn's son, David, came to Carbondale Friday to campaign on his father's behalf and promoted his father's plan to reduce sulfur emissions by 8 million tons in 12 years.

But the day before the younger Glenn arrived, a less divisive proposal was made to the local chapter of the Sierra Club: Wait for more study. Don't rush into legislation.

That's not a bad idea.

Much of the cloud surrounding acid rain stems from uncertainty over whether or not methods to reduce sulphur emissions, including installing smokestack "scrubbers" or burning low-sulfur coal, would actually reduce acid rain.

EITHER SOLUTION is costly. Central Illinois Public Service Co. estimates that reducing emissions by 10 to 12 million tons within 10 years, through a combination of scrubbers and changing over to low-sulfur coal, would increase electric rates by 24 percent per year, or about $340 for an average family. That's in addition to any other rate hikes.

Coal mining in Southern Illinois has even more to lose through acid rain legislation. About 6,000 mining jobs could be lost in the area; if laws that encouraged the burning of Western low sulfur coal were adopted.

"Wait and see" is a meaty-mouthed sort of stance, but considering the possible costs of taking a wrong move in correcting the problem—either to utility customers or to miners, it is the best available.

HOWEVER, environmentalists' fears that we may wait too long are justified. Further study needs to be done, but the public cannot be expected to wait forever.

Unfortunately, in promoting the "wait and see" position to the Sierra Club, John Meister, director of SIU-C's pollution control division, and CIP's Jonathan Wheeler couldn't help but take a swipe at the media for its reporting on the issue.

The media, they say, have created a crisis mentality about acid rain and have oversimplified the problem.

They fail to note, however, that when lakes die and scientists suspect certain industries, the members of the press can hardly be expected to close their eyes. Reporters didn't create a "crisis" any more than they killed the fish.

Members of the media aren't trying to bulldoze lawmakers, they merely hope to promote an open debate which will provide the information necessary to find the best solutions to the acid rain problem.

Hemphill editorial ignored legalities

I was shocked and disappointed in the Daily Egyptian's editorial comments in its Jan. 20 issue.

I have provided total and complete information about the Mark Hemphill fund to your reporter, Anne Flaszka. To Ms. Flaszka's credit, she did a superb job in reporting the facts accurately.

However, your editorial displays a total ignorance combined with arrogance that blinds you to the legal facts involved. The SIU Foundation is committed to doing the right thing. In this case, that means the legal thing. Since you did not bother to talk with anyone in the Foundation about the legalities involved, but took off in the usual cavalier manner of the Daily Egyptian to exorcise what you presume to be the "bad guy," you ignored the fundamental fact that the Foundation's officers and directors have a fiduciary responsibility for all funds received and held by the Foundation. We do not have the luxury of making decisions in the casual and offhand manner you exercise.

In point of fact, the SIU Foundation has tried to be a good citizen in this entire situation. The Foundation has administered the Mark Hemphill fund without recompense, purchased the specially equipped van for Mr. Hemphill, paid the bills for title and insurance for three years and handled the payment of several medical bills. These actions hardly constitute "clumsiness."

Your Jan. 20 editorial has done a disservice to the SIU Foundation, an organization committed to assisting the University in every way. The Foundation has a moral, ethical and legal responsibility to use contributed funds in the manner and for the purpose stipulated by donors. Despite your editorial and your ignorance of the facts, the Foundation shall not abrogate that responsibility for any gifts received for any purpose from any donor.

A sure-fire cure for Walkman wearers

I'VE BEEN watching you people who wear those little headsets over your ears and that little tape player hidden somewhere on your body.

I've got this plan to rid you of the Walkman Wearer Syndrome (Simplex 2). But before I tell you what we "non-wearers" intend to do, I think I should justify my scheme.

I was walking around campus yesterday, when I saw a Walkman wearer. Before I saw the little headset on him, I figured this guy was having some type of fit. He was shaking for no apparent reason; however, he had nice rhythm to his convulsions.

THEN I SAW the little orange earmuffs, and I knew. He was at one with Michael Jackson or David Bowie. He, and only he, was David's special friend, and David was putting on a private performance for him. He had, essentially, wandered into an acoustical paradise and was fully self-actualized as a human being (all right, maybe it wasn't that great, but afterwards we all smoked a cigarette and talked about the sound quality implications).

Anyway, I figured I should be

Phil Milano
Staff Writer

wearing one too. The beauty of a Police song could only complement a dull walk to class. Isn't it written somewhere that man is a musical animal? Something like that.

But so far I've remained a non-wearer. My publicly-stated reason, for anyone who is naive enough to believe me, is that pre-recorded music, listened to in the presence of others, without letting the others hear it, has growth-stunting effects. Especially pre-recorded music by Quiet Riot.

C'MON, THE great sounds of our environment are more important, I say. The winch cranking on that tow truck repossessing your car. The vibrational disturbance emitting from the gent sitting next to you in class whose stomach reacts negatively to the tacos he had for lunch. Your roommate scratching a record needle across your $20 collector's edition Yardbirds album. Aren't these sounds more important than any symphonic sounds coming from your mini-tape player?

Let's not stagnate, I say, let's develop into intelligent human beings, so we can use that liberal arts degree to clean washrooms.

But let's face it. Those aren't my real reasons. Maybe I'm just a wee bit insecure, but a person wearing one of these things around me makes me feel only slightly more important than this column does you.

Obviously, these people have made a decision to block out live sounds of the outside world. And that sort of irritates me, especially when that sound might be me scaming from a fit of spontaneous combustion.

SO I'LL continue to be a nonwearer, listening to the great variety of sounds in the world instead of blocking them out. We seem to be getting pretty scarce. Pretty soon I'll be the only one left, and this alienation of society will have manifested itself.

Anyway, here's the plan to stop the invasion of the Walkman wearers. It's a two-phase operation, involving students and faculty working together as a functioning unit.

Phase One involves students. Whenever you see a wearer come by, hold an intelligent conversation with a tree or a bike rack. Pretend it's talking back to you. When the wearer takes off his headset to listen in, stop the conversation. This will make the wearer feel he is missing out on important changes going on in the world. He will become paranoid.

Also, walk behind a wearer with a bunch of friends, shouting insults at him and demeaning his lineage. When he turns around because of his sixth sense, act normal. The paranoia increases.

PHASE TWO brings the faculty into the picture. The wearer, now feeling that everyone is out to get him, will naturally come to his idol, his mentor, his only link to the real world anyway, his professor, for advice and consultation.

This will not only reinforce the professor's superiority complex, but will afford him a chance to end the wearer's listening once and for all. To do this, the professor will send the student to the library to check out tapes. The student will listen to these tapes instead of the ones he normally listens to. These new tapes will have titles such as "Typical Sounds Heard During a Walk on a College Campus" and "City Traffic Noise for the Serious Listener."

Pretty soon, the student will realize that he doesn't have to bother going to the library for tapes like these when he can just listen to these sounds naturally. Snapping at a chance to defy authority, he will stop checking out the tapes and will listen to the real thing instead.

The student has been tricked into listening to the real world, the professor's ego has been assuaged after his book was rejected for publishing, and we non-wearers can smile to one another knowingly as we walk on campus.

Documentary photo exhibit opens

Photographer George Tice will speak at a reception at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Davis Auditorium, Wham Building, to kick off an exhibit and lecture series titled "The Documentary Photograph as an Element in Contemporary History."

Works in color and black and white by six documentary photographers will be on display from Tuesday through Feb. 19 in the University Museum in Faner Hall. The exhibit is sponsored by the Cinema and Photography Department.

Tice is credited with reviving platinum printing of photographs, now considered a "folk art," according to Duane Powell, a cinema and photography professor.

The exhibit offers a wide variety of subjects, Powell said. Susan Meiselas' photos document war and political corruption in El Salvador and Nicaragua, while Geoff Wainwright's work examines the rituals of high school football in Texas. A lecture by Meiselas will be scheduled later in the semester, Powell said.

New York City scenes are the subjects of Jill Freedman's and Bruce Davidson's photos. Many of Freedman's photos are of firemen and policemen. Davidson's color photos look at the city's subway system. Davidson is scheduled to give a lecture about his work at 7:30 p.m. April 19 in Davis Auditorium.

vantage point of eyes moving rapidly across a scene, said Powell, and each has 70 to 80 pictures within it.

Howard S. Becker, a sociologist at Northwestern University, will discuss the sociological impact of documentary at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 7.

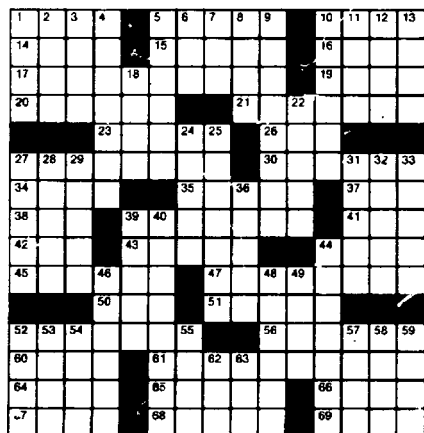

Admission is free for all lectures and the exhibit. Museum hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Architect to talk on gardens

Award-winning architect David Clark will give a lecture on "Gardens of the Flesh: Gardens of the Mind" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the University Museum Auditorium, Faner Hall.

Clark, former director of the Division of Comprehensive Planning and Design at SIUC, has been actively engaged in architecture in his firm and in association with the firm of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill. Currently an associate professor with the Division of Comprehensive Planning and Design at SIUC.

Clark won an award for designing a containerized shipping depot and transit facility for Sea Train Corp. in Weehauken, N.J. His lecture will focus on famous gardens, including those in Italy, which Clark will tour with a group of students this summer.

The lecture is free and open to the public and is sponsored by the Museum Art Galleries Association as part of its Fine Arts Colloquium.

Comic strip art to be presented

"The American Comic Strip," an exhibition of original works by 45 American cartoonists, opens Tuesday at the University Museum's Mitchell Gallery in Quigley Hall.

The display was taken from the personal collection of Jerome K. Muller of Costa Mesa, Calif., and includes the works of such famous cartoonists as Walt Disney, Charles Schulz, Al Capp and Garry Trudeau.

Muller has collected outstanding examples of comic art and cartoons for 20 years and has shown portions of his collections in more than 40 museums. He taught classes on comic art at the University of California in Irvine.

The University Museum is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Admission is free. "The American Comic Strip" will be on display through March 1.

'Greenhouse effect' brings skepticism

By Dave Saelens
Staff Writer

With the increased attention being given to the "greenhouse effect," of increased carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, many Southern Illinois residents are becoming concerned about reports which predict that the local area may be turned into an arid, Western-type land range if global temperatures continue to rise.

But some local agronomists believe that people's concerns about the greenhouse effect may be premature.

According to a report furnished by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, global temperatures are continuing to rise due to a buildup of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere which traps the sun's warming rays and holds in heat like a greenhouse.

George Kapusta, SIUC agronomist, said that the report predicts temperatures may rise as much as nine degrees by the year 2100.

"The report states that if people don't substantially reduce emission of pollutants from fossil fuels, within 10 to 20 years the earth will warm up to a point which will change the climates of many areas," he said.

If this is true, Kapusta said, farmers in the area will no longer be able to grow corn or soybeans because most of the soil in Southern Illinois does not have good moisture holding capacities, and will not be able to sustain those types of crops.

"Certain types of plants would be able to be grown which could be grazed by cattle, but corn and soybeans would not grow," he said. "It would essentially put area farmers out of business."

Kapusta added that the area would also probably never see snow again, "but with the temperatures we've been having lately I'm not sure if that is such a tragedy."

But Kapusta said that although many of the reports predict drastic changes, he is skeptical of them.

"I don't think we have the technology yet to predict what will happen 10 to 20 years from now," he said. "Even the best weatherman can't predict next week's weather."

Kapusta said he doesn't think the substantial improvements being made in clean up pollutants from the environment were taken into consideration by the EPA when it formulated its report.

"I'm not saying that the greenhouse effect can't happen, but the real evidence seems to me to be so remote as to make me believe it won't happen," he said.

Bob Frank, agriculture extension adviser for Jackson County, said he has also read reports about increased global temperatures, which, for this area, would create a drier, longer growing season.

"But until more specific information is given, we can't tell exactly by how many degrees it will warm up," he said. "If temperatures increase to those 100 miles south of here, we have nothing to worry about. But if they increase to those 1,000 miles south, we may have problems."

Kapusta added that there have been substantial changes in climate all through history and that changes are likely to happen again. People should be able to adapt to them, he said.

4-year-old manhunt for prison inmate ends in West Frankfort

By Dave Sarlens
Staff Writer

A nationwide manhunt for an Oklahoma State Penitentiary inmate who escaped more than four years ago ended Saturday when the fugitive was apprehended at a West Frankfort service station.

Glen Dale Colson, 30, of Tulsa, Okla., was arrested at the Freeway Service Station in West Frankfort, according to Bill Wilson, Franklin County chief deputy sheriff. Wilson said Colson was considered one of Oklahoma's 10 most dangerous fugitives, and his capture was the result of the combined efforts of the FBI, the Department of Law Enforcement's Division of Criminal Investigation, Illinois State Police and the West Frankfort Police Department and sheriff's office.

Wilson said Colson was named in federal interstate fugitive warrants which were issued following his escape from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary in September, 1979, where he was serving an eight-year sentence. Colson was charged in the escape with pulling a concealed weapon and overpowering two Oklahoma sheriff's deputies who were transporting him from a court appearance in Claremore, Okla., back to the state penitentiary.

Adelines celebrate 15th anniversary

Wilson said that for the last four years Colson had traveled throughout the United States and Canada, supporting himself as a fruit salesman.

Colson used a variety of aliases, including William Wicker, the name he was using when he was arrested, Wilson said. When Colson was arrested he was accompanied by an Illinois woman he had married within the past year, but the woman had no knowledge Colson was an escapee.

Colson was taken from Franklin County Jail Monday to a federal magistrate in Benton. He will later be transferred to St. Clair County Jail in St. Louis and finally back to the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

6,000 names swallowed by Illini computer

CHAMPAIGN (AP) - The old excuse, "The computer ate it," has given the University of Illinois a $32,000 case of indigestion.

The computer swallowed the names, addresses and telephone numbers of 6,000 U of I employees, leaving some blank spots in the new university directory.

"Only after the books were printed was the error noticed," said John McManus, director of administrative information systems and services.

He does not know what caused the problem, but it meant a $32,000 settlement with the company that prints the annual directory.

U of I is supposed to provide the firm with a tape listing of the names and numbers and receive, free of charge, 24,000 copies of the book. The firm receives revenue from advertising in the directory.

Man apprehended for trying to sell stolen textbook

James William Anderson, 21, of 518 N. Oakland, was arrested Friday for attempting to sell a stolen textbook, according to Carbondale police.

Police responded to a call at 3:20 p.m. from Robert Janson, an employee of 710 Bookstore, 710 S. Illinois Ave., that Anderson was attempting to sell a book belonging to Jerome R. Ince, of Route 3, Carbondale.

Ince had informed Janson of the theft of the book and given a description of marks made in the book.

Janson said he "catches 20 to 30 people a year" in this manner.

Police said the penalty for attempting to sell a stolen book is the same as that for retail theft, a $50 to $500 fine.

The book was valued at $50.

Ailing murderer begs for clemency

JOLIET (AP) — Rosemary Cox is blind in one eye, has a heart condition, degenerative arthritis in her hip, uncontrollable hypertension, and walks with great difficulty. At 67, she is a convicted murderer who may spend the next 20 years in prison.

A Will County jury in 1982 convicted Mrs. Cox of the 1980 love-triangle murder of her former boyfriend, Willie Hatten.

Her first appeal has been denied, and now the Illinois Supreme Court and Gov. James Thompson are all that stand between her and prison, where she fears she would die.

"The eternal triangle, not unlike the ageless ballad of Frankie and Johnny, appears to have claimed yet another victim," the 3rd District Appellate Court said in its recent decision.

Lawyers are preparing an appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court, and a request for clemency was sent to Thompson last summer. Even the man who prosecuted her says he does not object to clemency, saying Mrs. Cox "shouldn't die in prison."

Thompson spokesman Dave Fields said the petition was before the governor, but that no action had been taken.

"I wouldn't live long" after being sent to prison, Mrs. Cox said in a telephone interview. "I hope and pray" that the governor will grant clemency, she said, adding that she worries about the outcome of her appeal every day.

Trial Judge Robert Buchar, forced by law to hand down the minimum sentence, said it was "unfortunate that ... now at the twilight of her lifetime that she must stand convicted as a murderer and must be imprisoned."

53 indicted on narcotics charges

ATLANTA (AP) — Fifty-three people have been indicted in the "largest nationwide narcotics investigation ever," 30 of them accused of smuggling five tons of cocaine worth $3.8 billion into the United States, authorities announced Monday.

The 62 were named in indictments unsealed Monday in Atlanta, Los Angeles, Miami and Little Rock, Ark., with some defendants indicted in more than one city.

"We believe... it is the largest nationwide narcotics investigation ever," FBI agent Jim Nelson said in Los Angeles.

The 30 named in Atlanta were accused of operating what a Justice Department official called "the largest cocaine trafficking ring in the nation's history."

Associate U.S. Attorney General D. Lowell Jensen said the ring smuggled about five tons of cocaine from Colombia into Georgia, Florida, Tennessee and Pennsylvania in 1982 and 1983. Of that, authorities seized 2,700 pounds worth $940 million, he said.

New course to be offered in music school

A new three-hour course in recording engineering will be offered as part of the music business curriculum through the School of Music beginning Wednesday.

Students will receive experience at Audio Creations Recording Studio, a 24-track recording studio in Paducah, Ky.

"Big name recording stars are starting to come to the studio," said Jo Ellen Smith, secretary at the School of Music. "There just isn't anything comparable to it any closer."

The course is aimed at helping students understand and learn to operate the equipment in a recording studio. Students will also spend half of the course hours doing classroom work.

Students will be working with a sound board with 24 tracks. They will learn how to record different voices and use the equipment to mix volume and pitch, as well as learning other skills, Smith said.

Enrollment for the course is limited to 12 students, who will be chosen from applications based on their degree program and previous experience, according to Robert Weiss, faculty member at the School of Music.

Henry Romero, a former professional musician, will teach the course. A $165.50 laboratory fee will be charged to cover studio expenses. Students are expected to provide their own transportation.

To enroll, contact Weiss at 453-2263.

The Atlanta indictment, returned Thursday, identified Harold J. Rosenthal, 53, of Atlanta as the ringleader of the cocaine operation.

He and five others were charged with violating the federal "drug kingpin" statute by engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise.

Rosenthal escaped from a federal prison in Memphis, Tenn., in 1981 and was at large until he was captured in Colombia and deported to the United States in September.

The indictment said he re-entered the United States several times during his two years as a fugitive and tried to arrange the slayings of U.S. and Colombian law enforcement agents after his arrest.

Nelson said in Los Angeles the probe was triggered in 1982 by information from a wiretap in an unrelated case.

Jensen said the probe was begun by the Drug Enforcement Administration and the FBI but was turned over to the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force.

gone all out on the bar for a 9.9 score, but instead Levy said he took it easy and scored a 9.65 for the Saluki win.

According to Levy's teammates, they say that he is the "big brother figure" on the squad and he knows what his "family" is about.

Levy said, "I think we have the tightest team in the country in and out of the gym and that's going to contribute to our possible berth in the NCAA."

There are other factors that may help contribute too. Meade cannot be everywhere on the gymnastic area at one time. Assistant Coach Bob Lombardo and graduate assistant Coach Babcock help during the practices. Babcock also practices to increase his chances for an United States Olympic team berth.

"If I'm in one place, they're in another," Meade said. "They've been a big factor in our success."

But the big word for the Salukis this year is depth. Their lineup is deep with talent that even Meade said he will not know what to expect at the next meet or whom to expect it from.

Brendan Price would have won the most valuable player award — if there was one — for his average of 9.65 in four events. The next meet could produce Kevin Mazeika, David Lutterman, Lawrence Williamson or even freshman Mark Ulmer as the spark needed to boost the squad.

free and Airaksinen is ranked No. 13 in the 100 butterfly. Foyalty has met the NCAA qualifying standard in the event.

The Saluki women's five relay teams ranked in the poll have all qualified for the NCAA championships.

The 400 medley relay and the 800 free relay are ranked third, the 200 free relay is fourth, the 200 medley relay is fifth and the 400 free relay is eighth.

Coach Tim Hill said three swimmers' times were neglected from the rankings in the 1,000 free because the Texas coach forgot to turn them in from the Texas Quad.

Coontz's time of 10:03.13 would rank her ninth in the event, Cariton's time of 10:07.11 would give her a No. 12 ranking and Westfall's time of 10:08.70 would rank her No. 14.

Tar Heels top poll; DePaul, Kentucky retain their places

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the previous week, No. 1-ranked North Carolina collected every first-place vote in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll. But this also was a week of fallout, as five new teams entered the Top 20 thanks to several surprises in conference play.

A nationwide panel of 60 sports writers and broadcaster retained the Tar Heels and DePaul, both 14-0, and Kentucky as the nation's 1-2-3 teams.

In beating Atlantic Coast Conference rivals Duke and Virginia, the Tar Heels received a perfect 1,260 points. DePaul collected 1,130 points and Kentucky, which lost to Florida but beat seventh-ranked Houston, amassed 1,053.

The point system is based on 20 points for each first place vote, 19 for second, etc.

Five familiar names re-emerged in this week's poll as Oregon State, St. John's, Boston College, Fresno State and Purdue all dropped out.

After a rocky start this season, Louisville has begun to pick up steam and emerges at No. 14. On Sunday, the Cardinals, now 11-4, streaked by UCLA, which in turn dropped six notches to No. 15.

Also re-entering is Arkansas, which comes in behind the Bruins at No. 16. The other newcomers are Georgia, Virginia and Syracuse, placing at Nos. 18, 19, 20, respectively.

For the Orangemen, who slipped by Boston College in Big East play on a last second desperation shot 75-77, it's the first time they've been ranked this season.

Back in the Top 10, Georgetown, Maryland and Nevada-Las Vegas all advanced two places to rank at Nos. 4, 5 and 6, respectively. Texas-El Paso, which fell from the unbeaten ranks in losing to Colorado State, slipped to No. 8. After thrashing Big Ten rival Purdue 76-52, Illinois moved up to No. 9, while Louisiana State is No. 10.

The biggest casualty of the week was Oregon State, previously the 11th-ranked team. The Beavers, 9-4, lost in Pac 10 action to Washington State and Washington, and saw their place taken by Oklahoma.

Previously undefeated Tulsa, which lost to Illinois State this week, is No. 12.

better and he is looking forward to the upcoming meet against Indiana and Wisconsin. The Salukis are not in top condition yet due to the weather.

"We have a great bunch of kids," Hartzog said, "but no matter how good you are, you still have to be in shape. December was not good to us. If we get through the indoor season with no injuries, I'll feel pretty good. The only guy that worries me is Stephen Wray. He may have to jump in pain all season."

"Nebraska, with that great facility, should be a contender for the Big Eight Championship. We ran into a very good team."

Saluki swim squads ranked in top 15 by Swimming World

By Scott Rich
Staff Writer

Swimming World ranked the men's and women's Saluki swimming squads in its Jan. 17 top 15 Division I poll.

The women moved up one notch this week to a sixth place tie with Alabama.

The men are No. 11 in the poll and are coming off of an impressive 83-31 victory over Nebraska.

Men's swimming Coach Bob Steele said although his swimmers times have been good, he expects them to be a lot better.

"We've been swimming unshaved and unrested and have been within one or two seconds of the times we swam in the 5-S Meet when we were shaved and rested," Steele said. "I expect us to go a lot faster and pretty soon we'll start swimming a bunch of NCAA standards."

Five Saluki men are ranked in individual events in the poll along with the 400 free and medley relay teams.

Andre Grillhammar and Gary Brinkman are ranked No. 10 and No. 11 in the 1,000 freestyle and No. 7 and No. 9 in the 500 freestyle.

Giovanni Frigo is ranked ninth in the 200 backstroke and Carlos Henao is No. 11 in the 200 individual medley.

In the 50 freestyle Tom Hakanson is ranked No. 12 by the poll.

The 300 freestyle relay team of Hakanson, Barry Hahn, Henao and Joakim Sjöholm rank fifth in the poll and the 400 medley relay team of Frigo, Larry Wooley, Gerhard von der Walt and Sjöholm are ranked seventh.

The Saluki women have eight swimmers in individual events and five relays ranked in the poll.

Wendy Irick is ranked in four individual events by the poll. Irick is fifth in the 400 individual medley, ninth in both the 200 IM and 200 backstroke and No. 15 in the 400 IM.

Janie Coontz and Stacy Westfall are ranked in three events in the poll.

In the 1,650 free Coontz is ranked third and in the 500 free she is ranked sixth. She has already qualified for the NCAAAs in both events. Coontz also ranks No. 11 in the 400 IM.

Westfall is ranked eighth in the 1,650 free and No. 12 in the 500 free. In the 200 butterfly Westfall is ranked No. 12. She has met the NCAA standards in the 1,650 free and 200 fly.

Roxanne Carlton and Pam Ratcliffe are ranked in two individual events by the poll.

Winning, not scoring, concerns Salukis' team player Bufford

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

Nate Bufford is a coach's dream. He is a team player, he can play defense and he can shoot. And he has emerged as a leader on SIU-C's 12-5 men's basketball team.

The 6-2 junior leads the Salukis in scoring, field goal percentage, free throw percentage, steal, and fewest turnovers among the regulars. He is second in assists and has played more minutes than any of his teammates.

In SIU-C's wins over Bradley and Wichita State last week, Bufford led the Salukis in scoring with 20 points in each game, sharing the honor with center Kenny Perry against WSU.

But scoring statistics do not concern Bufford.

"All I want is to win," Bufford said. "Team basketball is the key. The 'W' is what counts. Scoring isn't that important. Five assists are like 10 points."

Bufford's efforts keyed the Salukis' thrilling double-overtime victory over Wichita State. In the second overtime he was the only Saluki starter still in the game — the other four had fouled out. With SIU-C in a four-corner offense, Bufford popped in three long-range, tie-breaking baskets.

"The coach told me to take control, to take the shot," Bufford said.

Saluki Coach Allen Van Winkle said, "We figured Nate's shot was better than anything else we could create in that situation."

At Bradley, Bufford scored 12 points in the second half, then led SIU-C when the Salukis ran sizzling 57 percent from the field. Moreover, almost all of his field goal attempts have come from medium- to long-range.

Van Winkle started Bufford at off-guard in SIU-C's first 15 games, then started him in favor of team captain Roy Birch at point guard against Bradley and Wichita State.

MVC cites Bufford

Nate Bufford's performance in SIU-C's wins over Bradley and Wichita State last week has earned him Missouri Valley Player of the Week honors.

Bufford played every minute of both overtime games, netted 40 points, eight rebounds, six assists and two steals. He made 14 of 25 field goal attempts and 12 of 12 free throws.

away from the Braves in overtime. He canned eight straight free throws.

Bufford proved that he is durable, too. After playing the entire 45 minutes at Bradley, Bufford played all 50 minutes against Wichita State.

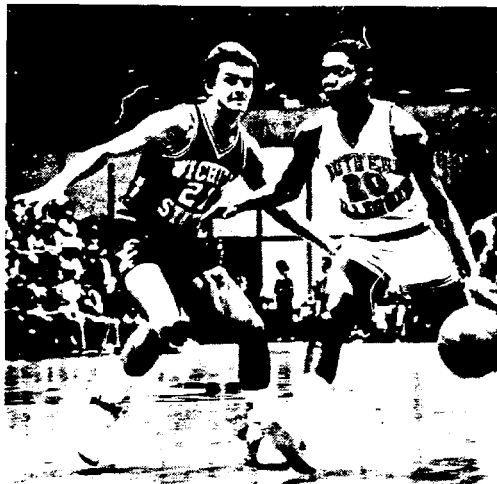

Bufford is a 91 percent free-throw shooter and has hit a

"He deserves it," Saluki Coach Allen Van Winkle said. "He had two excellent games. I'm happy for Nate."

According to men's sports information, Bufford is the first Saluki to claim the award since Wayne Abrams received it Feb. 6, 1979. Coincidentally, Abrams also earned the honor after leading the Salukis to victories over Bradley and Wichita State.

"I'd rather play shooting guard, but point guard is all right," Bufford said. "I'm not the coach. I'll play wherever he says."

Carolina State and Bufford came to SIU-C.

A scholarship at SIU-C represented a dream come true for Bufford.

"I've always wanted to play for a Division I school," he said. SIU-C is Bufford's third college. He played at Columbus College in his hometown of Auburn, Ala., before transferring to Midland. He made the switch from Columbus to Midland without even visiting the campus.

"It was time for me to get out away from home and to see some places," Bufford said.

Gymnasts seeking high scores

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

Even though the NCAA championships are not until April 12, the Saluki men gymnasts know that getting here might be their destiny.

Their win over Iowa Friday was a step in the right direction. More important than the win itself, though, is the point total or the team in each meet.

"The wins may look good," Saluki Coach Bill Meade said, "but the losses don't look too bad as long as we're scoring better than the last meet."

The Salukis have done both. They scored 274.35 in their first meet and lost to Ohio State. They defeated Iowa Friday with a point total of 276.35, or two points better.

Meade said the team's goal is "to score higher at the next meet."

This is the same game plan that led the Salukis to a ninth-place NCAA finish last year. Only this year, the pace has been sped up a little. It took the Salukis 11 meets to reach the 276-point plateau last year. This year, they achieved that point mark in their sixth meet.

Meade's reasoning for the difference is simple. "One thing that will help us this year is our depth in the lineup," Meade said. "We had Brian (Babcock) and Tom (Slomsky) doing it all for our team last year. This year, the 'whole team contributes.'"

This season, when the Salukis have been looking sluggish in an event, a gymnast will come up with a spectacular performance to spark the team.

It happened Friday in the pommel horse event. Three Salukis fell off the horse on their routines and the scores were dipping below 8.5. Herb Voss, though, provided the spark needed with a 9.8 performance. Voss not only won the event, but he put the Salukis back in striking range — otherwise they could have been down by two points after just two events.

"This is the position I seem to be in all the time," said Voss, a senior. "I do the job for the team as much as myself."

Meade was bit more frank. "Herb saved the day for us there," Meade said. "He usually saves the day for us on the horse."

In the first meet, it was senior all-arounder John Levy who carried the Salukis to their 274.35 points by averaging a 9.35 in his six events. In Friday's meet, it was Levy who needed a 9.05 on the horizontal bar to seal the victory over Iowa. Levy said he worries about the team more than himself. He could have

Bad weather bothers track squad's practice

By David Wilhelm
Staff Writer

Men's track Coach Lew Hartzog had been hoping for some better weather this week after struggling with bad weather conditions for the past few weeks.

Instead, after a 67-64 loss to Nebraska Saturday, the freezing rain Monday was not to Hartzog's liking since his Salukis have to practice outdoors because they lack proper indoor practice facilities. The lack of practice has hurt his Salukis.

"The weather caught up with us," Hartzog said after the Nebraska meet.

Hartzog, however, said he was not totally disappointed with his team's effort. Nebraska had about a three-week training edge over SIU-C in one of the nation's better indoor facilities. Yet the Salukis could have won the meet had it not been for the 60-yard dash. That is how close it was.

In the 60-yard dash, Saluki All-American Mike Franks' clock slipped just as he took off, but the judges failed to recall the race, Hartzog said. The result was a third place finish for Franks behind Nebraska runners Anthony Small, 6.36, and Dennis Wallace, 6.37. Franks finished at 6.38.

"A change on his place would have been a victory for us," Hartzog said.

The day was not a total loss for Franks, however. He set a new SIU-C record in the 300-yard dash with a 30.21. The old record was 30.34. He also ran well in the mile relay, Hartzog said. Together with Parry Duncan, Javell Heggs and Elvis Forde, the Salukis combined for a 3:13.86, only a second and a half shy of the NCAA qualifying time.

Edison Wedderburn and Forde also narrowly missed qualifying for the NCAA championships in their events.

In the mile run, Wedderburn's 4:04.98 was just one second off the standard while Forde's time of 1:09.99 in the 600-yard run was just 19 short of qualifying.

John Smith, who qualified for the NCAAAs last week in the shot put, took first place again Saturday with a toss of 61-10.25. Teammate Tom Smith took second while recording a personal best throw of 53-10.5.

The Salukis also took first in the high jump and swept the triple jump. Stephen Wray, jumping on a sore knee, Hartzog said, defeated previous NCAA qualifier Jeff Loescher of Nebraska. Wray jumped 7-1. Loescher 6-11. Saluki freshman Mo Crawford won the triple jump with 48-10.25. Salukis' Gavin Harshbarger, 48-4, and David Greathouse, 44-9.5, took second and third.

In the long jump, Harshbarger and Greathouse also took second and third behind Cornhusker Von Sheppard, 23-11.

The Cornhuskers also won the pole vault event. While taking first, Nebraska's Glenn Lontjeer qualified for the NCAAAs with a vault of 17-1.5. Saluki John Sayre tied teammate Andy Geiger for second, each vaulting 16-6. Sayre had vaulted 18 feet the week before while qualifying for the NCAAAs.

Hartzog said he was pleased with Tony Adams' performance in the 440-yard dash. Adams ran a 49.40 while finishing second to Nebraska's John Hastings, 48.41.

"Adams really did an outstanding job," Hartzog said.

Hartzog said he was pleased with the progress of Javell Heggs. Like Adams, Heggs is just beginning to get in track shape after playing football last fall.

Parry Duncan took third in the 60-yard high hurdles with a 7.57, finishing behind Nebraska's Stephen Fletcher.
