Drivers exiting right from American Gas and Wash would have their vision impaired on the left because of this stone pillar, city officials claim.

Move them or lose them

Council says pillars block drivers' views

Four brick pillars that city officials say block traffic views at the soon-to-open American Gas and Wash can stay—if they move.

The pillars' creator was told by city officials that the pillars would have to be torn down, if they were not moved, because they obstruct the view of Walnut Street for drivers exiting the business.

If the pillars are moved off city property and away from the street—three feet onto private property—the obstruction problem will not prevent the business at 315 E. Walnut St. from opening Feb. 9, said Don Monty, community development director.

The line of sight for exiting traffic, required to be 310 feet, is not possible at that location now, but would be if the pillars were moved back three feet, Monty said.

The firm's developer, Kim L. Rasnick, was told by the city council Monday night that he needs to do something about the problem, whether it meant

Senate to discuss $3 day care fee

By William Brady
Staff Writer

A resolution opposing a $3 per year increase of the student activity fee for the Rainbow's End Day Care Center is among legislation scheduled for discussion during a meeting of the Undergraduate Student Organization student senate tonight.

The increase—which would raise the per-semester activity fee by $1 to $9.55—was proposed by Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs.

faculty, staff and students who pay for services on a sliding scale based on family income, but it is not enough to support the center, according to a memorandum from Swinburne.

The resolution, written by East Side Senator Corey Luhtala, opposes the increase because Swinburne has not provided information about how the additional funds would be spent.

Swinburne said a budget based on the increased funding has not been developed because the day care center's

Reagan admits failure of Iran arms initiative

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan told Congress and the nation Tuesday he accepts "full responsibility" for the failure of his arms-to-Iran initiative—the "one major regret" of his presidency—but insisted the secret gamble was worth the risk.

Delivering his sixth State of the Union address in the packed House chamber, Reagan confronted the Iran arms scandal at the outset, telling assembled lawmakers and a nationwide television audience the country must not become obsessed with "debating the past" and allow partisanship to keep the nation from moving ahead, both at home and abroad.

Many of the policy goals for the 100th Congress Reagan presented echoed the agenda he has pursued since taking office in 1981, with an added emphasis this year on making the nation more competitive in the global marketplace. But his comments on the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal, which has undercut his popularity and public confidence in his leadership, drew the closest scrutiny.

Reagan, who has stayed out of the public eye for more than a month and seen the controversy fester for two months, laid out a concise defense of the clandestine overture to Iran and repeated his vow that "we will get to the bottom of this and I will take whatever action is called for."

After a brief recitation of the domestic economic achievements and progress in reasserting the nation's position of "leadership in the world" during his six years in office, Reagan said:

"Though we have made much progress, I have one major regret. I took a risk with regard to our action in Iran. It did not work and for that I assume full responsibility."

"We did not achieve what we wished," Reagan said, "and serious mistakes were made in trying to do so."

Reagan did not directly mention efforts to divert money from the secret arms sales to support the Nicaraguan Contra rebels—the disclosure that pushed the foreign policy controversy into the realm of political scandal.

Nor did the president specify what the "mistakes" were in the execution of the Iran ploy, or who made them—two issues now being explored by a pair of Watergate-style committees created by Congress and a federal special prosecutor. Administration officials have blamed the cash-for-the-Contras scheme on National Security Council staffer Lt. Col. Oliver North, who Reagan fired Nov. 25, but also described later as "an American hero."

State warns local banks to cut card rates

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

Southern Illinois banks that issue credit cards with high interest rates should take heed: If you have state funds the state treasurer is looking for you, and if you don't take his advice there could be trouble.

State Treasurer Jerome Cosentino said Tuesday that he intends to find all of Illinois' financial institutions that issue high-interest-rate credit cards "within a month" and ask them to consider lowering their rate.

If they refuse, the institutions are subject to losing the state funds they hold in their coffers.

"We're not trying to hurt these banks," Cosentino insisted. "We just want to maintain a good relationship between the banks, the state and the card-holding consumers."

The statewide search is part of Cosentino's campaign promise to pare Illinois' credit card interest rates. He first made good on this promise last week when he pulled $226 million in state funds out of First National Bank of Chicago.

He said the withdrawal was made because FNB rejected his plea to lower the bank's card lending below 19.8 percent, a rate Cosentino claimed was one of the nation's highest.

Cosentino said he is neither sure exactly how many banks in Southern Illinois issue credit cards nor how many banks receive state funds because there aren't any lists of either of which he is aware.

"We're going to do a survey of the whole state to find banks that have state deposits and see if they deal in credit cards," he said. "If they knew in advance that we were

Iraq balks at Iran's offer to end 'war of the cities'

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran offered Tuesday to end its "war of the cities" with Iraq, which Tehran says has killed 1,800 Iranian civilians and wounded 6,200 in bombing raids and missile attacks. But Iraq rejected the offer, demanding an agreement sponsored by parties not involved in the fighting, and the Iraqi News Agency monitored in Athens said Iraqi planes hit four more Iranian cities. "Because Iraq has ceased its air attacks on Iranian residential areas over the past 24 hours, the Islamic Republic stopped its retaliatory shelling," the Iranian government said.

Church: S. Africa sanctions not working

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — International economic sanctions imposed to force South Africa to reform its racial policies are having the opposite effect, according to a Roman Catholic Church report released Tuesday. "The whole sanctions issue has consolidated the government in its retreat from meaningful and, indeed, any reform," the report said. The report was commissioned last May by the Southern African Catholic Bishops' Conference.

Salvadoran rebels accused of 7 murders

SAN VICENTE, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas last week killed seven civilians, including a pregnant woman, who were harvesting coffee on the farm of a rightist politician, the victims' families said Tuesday. Roman Catholic Auxiliary Bishop Gregorio Rosa Chavez of San Salvador gave the first report of the killings in his Sunday sermon, saying it was the "apparent work" of the rebels battling President Jose Napoleon Duarte's government.

Japan to continue limits on auto exports

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan announced Tuesday it will limit automobile exports to the United States for a seventh year to ease protectionist pressure in Washington and maintain its share of the competitive U.S. car market. Minister of International Trade and Industry Hajime Tamura announced at a news conference that Japanese automakers would hold passenger car shipments to 2.3 million units in fiscal 1987.

U.S. strengthens naval force near Lebanon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration extended Tuesday the deployment of the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy in the Mediterranean, keeping two carrier task forces there indefinitely in response to the hostage crisis in Beirut, the Pentagon and sources said. The second battle group led by the nuclear-powered carrier Nimitz canceled scheduled port visits in the Mediterranean in response to the seizure of hostages and reports that Anglican emissary Terry Waite is missing in Lebanon, said the sources, speaking on condition they not be identified.

W. German said to harm U.S. security

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A West German businessman who allegedly made several million dollars by selling the latest in U.S. high technology to the Soviet Union did "tremendous harm" to U.S. security, a prosecutor said Tuesday. The defendant, Werner Bruchhausen, 47, bought about $2 million in advanced electronics and communications equipment from U.S. manufacturers and sold it to the Soviet Union for $6 million between 1974 and 1980, Assistant U.S. Attorney William Fahey said.

Nuclear waste dump opening to be delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Energy Department will announce a five-year delay in a program that will push the opening of the nation's first high-level nuclear waste dump into the 21st century, Sen. Brock Adams, D-Wash., said Tuesday. The department is to announce Wednesday the postponement of the scheduled 1998 opening which will buy time, but is "not the end of the threat," Adams said. The three sites being considered for underground high-level radioactive waste storage are Hanford, Wash., Yucca Mountain, Nev., and Deaf Smith County, Texas.

Crystal extension opposed but council OKs new date

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council has agreed to keep Crystal Development Corp. of Boulder, Colo. as its downtown hotel-convention center developer for at least three more months.

Council members voted Monday, despite some protest, to extend its development agreement with Crystal until March 31. The agreement gives Crystal exclusive rights to construction of the proposed center.

The vote marked the second time the city has granted Crystal an extension since an agreement first was signed in July 1986. That agreement expired in October 1986, and was extended until Jan. 31, 1987.

Councilman Keith Tuxhorn was the only councilmember to vote against the extension.

"I have counted the number of delays, which are of particular interest to this organization," Tuxhorn said, "My vote will reflect my feelings on these delays."

Carbondale resident Tim Larson also spoke against the extension. He said it would cost the city money, and he was discouraged with the time the city has put into the project without results.

"No one can begin to count how many times some facet of the project has been delayed. For more than ten years the city has been burdened with delay after delay, and wasted money after more wasted money. The closest we've every come to a convention center, was when the Lions Club set up their tent on the area where the convention center is going to be built," Larson said.

Mayor Helen Westberg said the project "is not really costing the city money at this point."

making this survey, we'd like them to come right out and tell us."

Cosentino said he'd like to give the banks in question "every opportunity to call us voluntarily."

He said yanking state funds from banks collecting high interest on credit cards effectively cuts off that bank from being able to do business with the Illinois treasurer's office, and that could severely limit its business elsewhere in the state.

"There's no estimate as to how much state money is involved" in Southern Illinois

"or how much we could be taking out. We're just going to have to see."

Burnell Heinecke, Cosentino's press secretary, said most smaller banks in Illinois are handing out credit cards through TeleCredit, a secondary issuer of credit cards based in Florida.

"These smaller banks are issuing IBAA cards at about a 14 percent rate, which is pretty good," he said. "We'd like to see the rates at about that level or 13.8 percent, which is what we would prefer."

Shuttle crash, 1 year later: Pioneering spirit recalled

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Challenger astronauts, killed one year ago Wednesday in NASA's greatest failure, were pioneers who died carrying America to the ultimate frontier, family members said Tuesday in an open letter to the nation's people.

In a somber irony, Tuesday was the 20th anniversary of a 1967 launch pad fire that killed three Apollo 1 astronauts, an anniversary that formed a bridge to a painful past at a time when NASA is struggling to focus on the future.

For Challenger, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration deliberately planned a low-key remembrance of a day forever etched in the agency's collective consciousness.

Killed aboard the shuttle Jan. 28, 1986, were commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, co-pilot Michael Smith, Judith Resnik, Ellison Onizuka, Ronald McNair, Gregory Jarvis and New Hampshire school teacher Christa McAuliffe.

The fliers' families said the Challenger Seven risked their lives, "not for the sake of aimless adventure but for the nation that gave them opportunity, and for the space frontier which was an extension of its spirit."

"If they were alive and could speak to all Americans, we believe the Challenger crew would say this: Do not fear risk. All exploration, all growth is a calculated risk. Without challenge, people cannot reach their highest selves," the letter said.

At 11:38 a.m. Wednesday, the time Challenger blasted off on its final flight, flags at NASA field centers will be lowered to half staff and agency employees and contractors planned to observe 73 seconds of silence, the length of Challenger's mission.

No public ceremonies were planned, but Wednesday afternoon, NASA Administrator James Fletcher and other top agency officials planned to attend a brief service at Fort Myer Chapel near Arlington National Cemetery outside Washington.

GPSC to discuss activity fee increases

By Dave Wrona
Staff Writer

The Graduate and Professional Student Council plans to recommend outside funding be obtained to build an addition to the Student Recreation Center.

GPSC will discuss the matter at its first meeting of the semester, slated for 7 tonight in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

The council already has discussed a $15 Rec Center fee increase that would pay for the expansion. A GPSC resolution on the matter recommends alternative funding because only a small proportion of SIUC students actually use the Rec Center.

Other subjects on the GPSC agenda:

—A vote on the proposed $1 student fee increase for the Rainbow's End Daycare Center — a daycare facility for children of faculty, staff and students.

—The election of the executive board, which is responsible for setting the agenda for the GPSC meetings. All GPSC representatives are eligible to run for one of the three available officer positions.

—Funding requests for the Big Muddy Film Festival and the Black Graduate Student Association. The Fee Allocation Board, which is appointed by the GPSC, would normally handle the funding requests, but Big Muddy's $500 request exceeds the $200 maximum approval limit the allocation board is allowed to grant. The BGSA's $125 request has been sent to the council because the requested amount exceeds 25 percent of the estimated cost of screening the film "Say Amen Somebody."

Fee hike can save Rainbow's End

ONCE UPON A TIME, a typical college student was a pimply-faced white male with a raccoon coat, a full beer budget and a four-year schedule for his degree.

These days, universities must serve married students, returning students, senior citizen students and students with children. These so-called non-traditional students make up 23 percent of the SIU student body and is expected to make up more than 50 percent by the year 2000.

One of the biggest concerns of non-traditional students is finding day care for their children. Short of spiriting their offspring bound and muzzled into biology labs, students must seek rare and costly day care facilities.

ONE OF THE BEST DAY CARE OPTIONS for students is at Rainbow's End, a day care facility located at the old Lakeland School on Giant City Road. Rainbow's End cares for 85 children of SIU faculty and students. Tuition for low-income (generally student) families is subsidized by University funds.

Though considered a fine day care facility, Rainbow's End has serious limitations. One problem is that the center is located far from campus. Another problem is that the Lakeland school, owned by the Carbondale elementary school district, is up for sale and SIU-C may lose its lease if another organization buys the building.

Perhaps the biggest problem is that the facility is too small. The center reports a waiting list for 184 children for the fall semester of 1985 and must constantly turn applicants away.

It also is uncertain whether rent for the Lakeland building will increase this year. The current budget for the school is $189,018, and further increases must be covered by an increase in day care tuition. Over the years, rises in tuition have resulted in an increased number of nonstudents (faculty and staff) being served—an ironic fate for a facility intended to serve students.

In February of last year, vice president of student affairs Bruce Swinburne proposed building a $412,500 new day care facility on the vacant land near the Recreation Center, with the capacity to serve 150 children. He proposed that 70 percent of the preschool facility be funded through a $3.25 per year student fee collected for at least three years.

Also last year, proposals were submitted to add an addition to the Rec Center. This is a tremendously expensive project that would include a $5 increase in fees for next semester and $15 for each semester following for about 20 years.

HOW ABOUT POSTPONING these costly basketball courts and giving a few dollars to day care? As the number of non-traditional students increases, the waiting list for Rainbow's End (assuming it even stays open) may stretch to the end of the Earth.

A resolution on the agenda for tonight's student senate meeting is for a $1 per semester fee increase for Rainbow's End. The increase is only to help keep tuition costs the same and makes no mention of building a new facility or buying the old one.

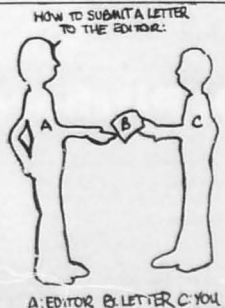

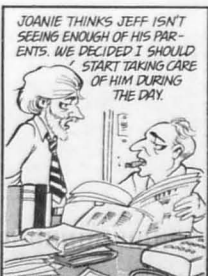

USO president 'hil Lyons and East Side senator Corey Luhtala plan to propose the increase because it does not consider possible changes in the availability of Lakeland School. Their objection is reasonable. What should be proposed is a nice, healthy $2 or $3 increase that instead of tossing a few coins into the kitty would solve the center's problems by building a new facility near campus.

If you want a proper Rainbow's End, you've got to put some gold under it.

Split screens ruin movie enjoyment

I am an independent filmmaker living in Southern Illinois, and through a reliable source I have discovered some potentially sad news. Apparently in order to compete with AMC Theaters, the Carbondale Varsity Theater is considering splitting their last remaining large screen into two smaller ones. If there is any truth to this heresy, it only makes sense: more screens, more movies are shown, and hence, more money. Nothing wrong with making a buck, provided that it doesn't compromise the quality of the product. Unfortunately, that is exactly what happens.

Virtually gone are the days of visual and aural excitement in theaters. When King Kong was released in 1933 at Grauman's Chinese Theater, there were pink flamingos, jungle settings and a full-size moving bust of Kong himself. All this inside the foyer for cryin' out loud! The atmosphere was charged with mystery, spectacle and anticipation. What type of mystery, spectacle and anticipation are we getting now? Abbreviated title plates over the entranceways of second- and third-rate theaters with the "you'll laugh, you'll cry, you'll kiss four bucks goodbye" syndrome that leaves most people crying about their four bucks.

If I sound overly-concerned about the rumored Varsity decision, it's because I am, and the movie-going public should be too. The owners of American cinemas are cutting their own financial throats. Filmmakers design their movies by putting in all kinds of visual and aural high-tech T.L.C. into a great film experience so that the public will get its money's worth. Sadly, by the time their films get to these divided theaters, 40-50 percent of all that T.L.C. is lost due to small screen size and poor sound. And the irony of it all is that Kerasotes (the owners of the Varsity) will be sacrificing the film experience in order to compete with AMC, when they actually may not need to. Kerasotes owns 13 theaters in Murphysboro, Carbondale and Marion collectively. Will one more make that much difference?

Douglas Trumbull, inventor of a wide-screen theatrical film experience called "Showcan 70" and special visual effects supervisor for such films as "2001," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," and "Star Trek I," summed it up best when he said: "Theater owners have lost the sense of exhibition, excitement and showmanship that used to exist in the heyday of movies. We used to have movie palaces. Now we've just got square boxes with some curtained walls and an acoustical tiled ceiling...The walls are paper thin and the screens are very small. So the experience of watching a film has diminished seriously over the last few years."

This is happening now. If the large screen at the Varsity split, there won't be a decent theater left in this area. Nowadays, the closes "experience" movie theater is the marvelous 70 mm one at Belleville.

I encourage any movie consumer and respecter of the fine arts to write Kerasotes Theaters and voice your opinion of the rumored Varsity split. If however, you prefer to do nothing, don't gripe about the quality of film exhibition when it gets worse and worse. Demand a quality product, and don't buy any movie tickets until that quality is given.—Tom Brierton, senior, music composition.

Viewers of 'Amerika' should be informed

This February ABC is going to air the miniseries "Amerika." "Amerika" depicts life in the United States 10 years after a Soviet takeover, a takeover that was made possible by liberal, progressive ideas in our society. The organization Equal Time is requesting that ABC recognize its social responsibility by also offering alternative viewing.

This program has the potential to raise anti-Soviet emotion and to heat up the Cold War at a critical time in U.S.-Soviet relations. It also gives the impression that the only choice for the U.S. is to dominate or be dominated by the Soviet Union.

ABC has every right to air this program, and in no way does Equal Time wish to censor it. We simply request that those who take the time to watch "Amerika" also take the time to further inform themselves on the issues presented in "Amerika."—Jim Frost, Southern Illinois Equal Time.

Supreme Court agrees to review New Jersey school prayer case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed Tuesday to review a New Jersey moment-of-silence law in a case that could decide the fate of similar statutes that opponents charge are thinly disguised efforts to return prayer to public schools.

The court will hear arguments next term in the case brought by members of the New Jersey legislature asking for review of a ruling by the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that struck down the law, which provides for a moment of silence in public schools.

The court's decision in the case could clarify whether any such laws meet constitutional muster. In June 1985, the court struck down an Alabama law for moment of silence for meditation or prayer in schools. However, the court did not rule that all such laws adopted across the country are unconstitutional and suggested some forms could be acceptable.

The New Jersey law differs from the Alabama law in that the statute does not mention prayer, but merely calls for a moment of silence. About half the states have enacted similar laws.

However, the court could sidestep the issue entirely. Both legislators who brought the suit have been removed from leadership positions and the court could decide they do not have the legal standing to proceed with the case and thus not reach the constitutional question of whether the laws violate the First Amendment's prohibition against state sponsored religion.

The New Jersey case began in December 1981 when the legislature enacted the statute over Republican Gov. Thomas

Move to cut family clinic funds draws fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government disciplined a Reagan administration health official for trying to drop Planned Parenthood birth control clinics from a $142.5 million family planning program, officials said Tuesday.

Robert Windom, an assistant secretary at the Health and Human Services Department, issued a written reprimand to Jo Ann Gasper, identified as an abortion foe who has been at the agency since 1981.

Gasper directed the 10 regional health administrators last week to drop the Planned Parenthood clinics from the federal program on grounds the organization favors abortion.

"She has been instructed to get advance clearance from her supervisor" before taking any other action, a department official said.

Gasper, a deputy assistant secretary for two years, was not available for comment.

The reprimand appears to have given fuel to Reagan administration critics.

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., the chairman of the House subcommittee with jurisdiction over family planning funding, said in a statement:

"Ms. Gasper seems to be unable to separate her personal beliefs from the law she was entrusted to administer. We will investigate her action in this matter."

A department spokesman, James Brown, confirmed Gasper's order was issued Jan. 21—a day before the 14th anniversary of the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade ruling that legalized abortion.

Windom rescinded the order the next day, after "a significant number of phone calls."

State to take bite of saving provided by federal tax law

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

For every dollar Illinoisans save on federal income tax, they will pay a dime back to the state, courtesy of the 1986 Tax Reform Law.

"That's because the new law eliminates many federal tax deductions that were once available to Illinois taxpayers," explained Robert Mandeville, Illinois Bureau of the Budget director.

But while Illinoisans collectively will pay roughly $1 billion less in federal income taxes, Mandeville said, elimination of the deductions will actually boost Illinoisans into a higher income bracket.

"This means nearly everyone will take home slightly more money annually, thus forcing them to pay more in state income taxes, he said.

The adjusted gross income figures Illinoisans write down on their federal tax forms, or the total individual income once all deductions and exemptions are considered, are used to figure out how much state tax they will have to pay, he continued.

"The state's people will pay about $1 billion less on federal income taxes each year for about five years," Mandeville said. "The increase in state income tax yield will actually be coming from you and I."

About $500 million in federal tax savings will come back to the state through this new arrangement, $100 million at a time for five years, starting in 1988.

Mandeville said the $500 million windfall will find a home in an account the state uses to pay its daily bills, known as the state general revenue fund.

Mandeville discounted handing the state's tax savings over to its citizens because it wouldn't add up to $10 per person. He said the savings would constitute less than 1 percent of the state's cumulative revenue.

"It's better that the money go into the GRF to compensate for shortages in the fund balance," he said.

Last week, Gov. James Thompson sought consultation from New York bond analysts on the prospect of borrowing $100 million in short-term loans using state bonds as collateral.

The loans, approved Friday, would go toward bolstering Illinois GRF, considered by some state financial agents, such as State Comptroller Roland Burris, as at its lowest level this decade.

Mandeville drew no comparisons between the state's current financial woes and the expected tax windfall, but he said the windfall could help out the GRF in periods of high state spending.

resents a danger to customers entering and exiting the business.

Although city officials wanted Rasnick to remove the pillars, he wanted to see them stay where they were because construction costs for the pillars have amounted to about $12,000. Discussions with city officials resulted in Rasnick's application for an encroachment permit, which would allow him to keep the pillars on the city property.

But favorable comments regarding the permit, and two others filed by Rasnick, were few and far between at the Monday meeting.

Mayor Helen Westberg said she did not see how a measure favoring such a traffic hazard could be approved by the city council. In addition to any city liability for resulting accidents, she said, there is a question of how such an error could have initially occurred.

That opinion was shared by City Manager Bill Dixon, who recommended that if Rasnick intended to open the car-wash, mini-mart and gas station on the scheduled date, he should submit a new encroachment permit application.

A spokesman for Rasnick said each day the business opening was delayed amounted to about $500 in interest.

At the heart of the controversy are four 7-foot pillars constructed three feet over Rasnick's property line and on the city's right-of-way.

When he designed the pillars, Rasnick said, he thought his property line stopped short of the sidewalk by one foot. After construction began he was informed that the line stopped 4 feet from the sidewalk, creating the 3-foot discrepancy.

Moving the pillars will cost several thousand dollars, Rasnick said, for a problem he is not yet convinced exists.

"I see no visibility problem. I've had other people come by to take a look and they didn't see any problem either, but the city is God," Rasnick said Tuesday.

He predicted the Tuesday meeting with city officials at the business location would probably be the deciding factor on which course of action he would take.

The option he favored was the one approved by Monty, without the time restrictions. Construction is hampered in the winter months when the ground is frozen, making it difficult to pour concrete.

Rasnick had asked at the council meeting that it allow him to move the two pillars to the left of the driveways 20 feet to the west, to eliminate the obstruction problem, he said.

Two other encroachment permits were also filed by Rasnick asking for a business sign extending over the city property line and a sidewalk on the Logan Street side of the property.

While the sidewalk received favorable comment, the extended sign did not. Council members were concerned about the precedent they would be setting for other Carbondale businesses to follow. The applications for encroachment permits will be voted on by the council at its next meeting Feb. 2.

lease of Lakeland School is being negotiated. A $3.25 increase was sought last year to construct an on-campus center when Rainbow's End was told it would have to move once its lease expired.

Student senators also will discuss proposals to seat two senators and fund seven registered student organizations.

Senators are expected to vote on proposals to seat Daniel Spillane as an East Campus senator and Troyce Polk as an East Side senator.

The senate will receive the first funding requests of the semester from the finance committee. Requests were filed by the Indonesian Students Association, Financial Investment Society, Science Fiction Society, Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity, Malaysian Student Association, Cinema and Photography Student Organization and the Obelisk II Yearbook. Funding requests expected to pass tonight total $2,853.54.

Democrats: Reagan lacks substance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the Democrat-led Congress criticized President Reagan's State of the Union address Tuesday night as an "applause meter" for failed policies but Republicans said "Ronald Reagan is back" from the worst crisis in his administration.

Lawmakers of both parties dwelled on the one problem that has overshadowed the final two years of the Reagan presidency and made this State of the Union address Reagan's most important yet — the Iran arms-Contragate scandal.

"They seem to think if they come up with the right one-liner, it will go away," Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said after the speech to a joint session in the House chamber.

"He turned it into a partisan applause meter," said Rep. Vic Fazio, D-Calif.

But Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., expected to seek the GOP presidential nomination in 1988, declared: "Ronald Reagan is back. I welcome his commitment to family values, economic opportunity, peace through strength, realism and freedom."

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, also a possible presidential hopeful, said the speech showed Reagan was "still the dominant force in Washington."

"The president didn't duck the tough issues, including the (Iran) controversy. He was right to publicly accept responsibility for what happened. Now it's time for Congress to move on and begin focusing on the many critical problems facing the nation."

In the official Democratic response, Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd pointed out those problems are many and Reagan still has to put the foreign policy scandal to rest.

Key among the questions raised by the affair, said Byrd, are the competence by America's leadership and Americans' trust in that leadership.

Near miss at O'Hare investigated

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration is investigating an incident in the skies near O'Hare International Airport last Sunday in which the pilot of a Midway Airlines plane descended to avoid an approaching jet.

No injuries were reported, but officials said the two aircraft were about one mile apart horizontally and 700 feet vertically at the time evasive action was taken.

The incident took place at 12:50 p.m. Sunday about 10 miles southwest of O'Hare, just after Midway Flight 550 had taken off from Chicago Midway Airport en route to Minneapolis, authorities said.

The Midway jet was cleared for an altitude of 6,000 as an approaching American Airlines 727, coming in for a landing at O'Hare, began descending from 7,000 feet, said Marjorie Kriz, FAA spokeswoman. A flight controller had ordered the American jet, which was eastbound from Wichita, to descend to 6,000 feet.

Thompson urging gas tax boost

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The Thompson administration is trying to rally support for a boost in Illinois' gasoline tax and license plate fees, although Gov. James R. Thompson has not yet signed off on the proposal, Transportation Department officials said Tuesday.

But Thompson, who is in Japan for a week-long trade mission, has authorized Transportation Department officials to meet with various groups to gain support for the package.

The proposal being considered would increase the state's gasoline tax by 9.5 cents during the next five years and raise license plate fees by $17 beginning in 1988, said Richard Adorjan, a Transportation Department spokesman.

The plan calls for increasing the current 13-cent gasoline tax by 5 cents beginning July 1, by another 1.5 cents next year and by 1 cent during each of the following three years. License plate fees, currently $48 for cars, would rise to $65 beginning Jan. 1, 1988.

Legislative approval is needed for the package to become law.

The $3.25 billion package also would include boosts in certain truck fees and about $400 million in bonding. Without the tax and fee hikes, officials said the road program during the next five years would be limited to $3 billion.

Adorjan said the hikes are necessary because Illinois is nearing the end of its current five-year road program which began in 1983.

"The governor and the transportation secretary have always believed in the need to invest in the state's road program. It's an important part of our economic development," Adorjan said. "(Without the hikes) what we will be seeing is a declining level in the road program."

U.S., Mongolia to establish diplomatic ties for 1st time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amid signs the Soviet Union may be loosening its hold a bit over Mongolia, the U.S. and Mongolian governments announced Tuesday they are establishing diplomatic relations for the first time.

The signing of a memorandum of agreement setting up relations at the level of ambassador follows by six months a speech made by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Vladivostok, in which he announced that the number of Soviet troops in Mongolia would be reduced.

The joint announcement said relations will be conducted on the basis of "equality, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, mutual respect and mutual benefit."

At the ceremony signing the memorandum of understanding, Secretary of State George Shultz described it as "an important first step in relations between two nations which wish to learn more about each other."

He said, "It is within our power to create a normal dialogue between our peoples. We will be better able to explore, expand our trade and engage in educational exchanges."

Mongolia maintains diplomatic relations with 120 countries, but an earlier attempt to establish relations with the United States failed in the early 1970s because of the tight Soviet controls over every action by the Mongolian government.

The United States will be represented by a small embassy staff in Ulan Bator, and the two nations will have a consular access agreement. There is practically no trade between the United States and Mongolia, which is a Soviet province in terms of its economy. About two-thirds of Mongolia's external trade is with the Soviet Union.

The Soviets have announced a motorized infantry division will be pulled out of Mongolia by March, leaving about 25,000

Soviet troops in four other divisions and other smaller units.

According to U.S. estimates, the Soviets still maintain 53 divisions in East Asia, on or near the Chinese border.

"It seems Gorbachev has been making moves to improve relations with the Chinese and the Chinese have reacted cautiously," said a U.S. official. "We look with favor on any concrete steps the Soviets take to decrease tensions in Asia."

According to a Soviet commentary broadcast last week in the Mandarin language to China, "The Soviet Union and Mongolia are discussing the issue of withdrawing a large portion of the Soviet army from that country."

The head of the Mongolian Communist Party, Hural Batmoh, said the Soviet troop withdrawal "would serve to strengthen the trust and mutual understanding among Far Eastern states."

Syria criticizes Egypt at Islamic summit

KUWAIT (UPI) — Syrian President Hafez Assad entered the Islamic Conference Organization summit Tuesday hand-in-hand with his Arab world arch-rival, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, but moments later Assad assailed Egypt's seven-year-old peace treaty with Israel.

"No one should blame us if we do not agree with the person who cooperates with the enemy," Assad said in a blistering speech reiterating his deep-rooted opposition to "anyone who makes peace with Israel."

"An Arab cannot be with Arabs and Israel at the same time," Assad said.

Observers were baffled by the address, which came shortly after the leaders of two of the Middle East's most influential nations met outside the summit of the 46-nation Islamic organization and, in a traditional gesture of good will, joined hands and walked inside.

"Mubarak approached and took Assad's hand and began talking to the Syrian leader," a security official said.

Egypt and Syria have been fiercely at odds since 1977, when Egyptian President Anwar Sadat visited Jerusalem, Egypt, a founding member of the Islamic Conference, was expelled after it concluded a peace treaty with Israel on March 26, 1979 but was readmitted in April 1984.

Shultz predicts crisis due to foreign aid cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz said Tuesday the United States faces a "severe crisis" because of congressionally ordered cuts in U.S. foreign aid.

Speaking to "Citizens Network Conference" Shultz said that the budget cuts ordered by Congress are magnified by the sharp drop in the value of the dollar which has cost the U.S. government about $50 million in its foreign operations budget.

Shultz said, "So we have severe crisis, very severe crisis, and we have to persuade the senators and the congressmen of the importance of this."

The administration has sent to Capitol Hill a request for $1.3 billion in supplemental funds for this year's foreign aid program. Shultz said he has been told by some members of Congress that the request "is dead on arrival."

Shultz's appearance before the citizens group is part of a coordinated campaign by the administration to bring pressure on the 100th Congress to restore some of the funds cut last year. The 20 percent cut in the overall foreign aid budget is magnified for some aid recipients because Congress also ordered that some programs for selected countries, such as Israel and Egypt, be left intact.

The man in charge of the campaign to persuade Congress, Jay Morris, deputy administrator of the Agency for International Development, pointed to the Caribbean as one of the areas hit hardest by the cuts.

Liberace ill with anemia, emphysema, heart disease

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Liberace, the flamboyant pianist who parlayed a glittering wardrobe into a spectacular career, was in grave condition Tuesday with what a spokeswoman called anemia, emphysema and heart disease.

Denise Collier, press agent for the 67-year-old Liberace, said the entertainer was at home receiving visits from close friends and relatives, including a sister.

"It is my great regret to inform you that Liberace is gravely ill with pernicious anemia, complicated by advanced emphysema and heart disease," Collier said in a statement read from New York.

"His physicians are vigorously treating him for this condition and are hopeful that he will respond to treatment," she said.

"Liberace is resting comfortably at his home in Palm Springs and is sincerely appreciative of the hundreds of good well wishes and prayers he has received from his fans."

Shultz admits to arranging meeting to end arms deals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz said Tuesday he approved a meeting six weeks ago between U.S. and Iranian officials to relay the emphatic message that no more arms would be sold to Tehran.

Shultz, testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he approved the Dec. 13 meeting in Frankfurt, West Germany, to end discussions of arms sales and secret dealings with the Iranians — cutting off the policy that has precipitated President Reagan's worst crisis since he took office.

"Our purpose was to get across the point that the Iranians should understand that there will be no more arms sales. We wanted to get that clear in their minds," Shultz said.

The amount of weapons sold to Iran during the administration's 18-month overture of moderate elements in the radical Islamic government was "negligible," he said, and he did not believe the deals would affect the outcome of the brutal six-year-old war between Iran and Iraq.

"What we want to do is see a standoff," Shultz said. "That's what we're working for and hoping that any other result can be avoided."

He said the United States has been trying to persuade other nations not to sell arms to Iran and he said it was a "gross exaggeration to say U.S. arms would be responsible for whatever happens in the Iran-Iraq war."

"That's just nutty," he said. Shultz said it was clear from Iran's "ability to conduct a war of this scale and savagery (that) this government must be a strong one."

The administration has been under fire for engaging in an extended and convoluted operation to sell arms to Iran to purchase the freedom of Americans held hostage in Lebanon by pro-Iran fanatics. From Reagan down through the administration, officials have denied the dealings were strictly to free the hostages but part of a policy to open up channels to government moderates.

Swiss mum on Contra accounts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Justice Department officials said Tuesday they are not surprised that eight holders of secret Swiss bank accounts believed to be the cash conduits in the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal are fighting U.S. requests to disclose details of the accounts.

One department official, reacting to Tuesday's announcement by Switzerland's Justice Ministry, said U.S. officials would proceed with efforts to gain access to the 12 accounts in question, including one in the name of Lake Resources, operated exclusively by former White House national security aide Lt. Col. Oliver North, the mastermind of the arms scheme and diversion of up to $31 million to Nicaraguan rebels.

Justice Department attorneys are proceeding on behalf of Lawrence Walsh, the independent counsel probing the entire affair, who has requested department assistance in the matter, officials said.

In two requests for legal assistance, the Justice Department cited a total of 12 secret accounts.

70 arrested in protest at A-bomb test site

MERCURY, Nev. (UPI) — Armed guards arrested more than 70 anti-nuclear activists, including actor Martin Sheen, in a protest Tuesday marking the 36th anniversary of the first atomic blast at the Nevada Test Site.

Some of the several hundred protesters knelt in small groups on the road trying to block vehicles loaded with workers from entering the classified government facility in the Nevada desert.

Guards on motorcycles chased at least a half-dozen demonstrators trying to scale a test site fence. Valerie Schloresky of California poured a vial of what she said was her own blood on the asphalt road and shouted,

"This is the blood of our future."

A Department of Energy spokesman said 71 people were handcuffed and taken into custody. There were no injuries.

Another anti-nuclear rally was planned at the state Capitol Building rotunda in Salt Lake City later in the day. Almost three dozen Utah protesters drove to the Nevada Test Site to join activists.

In the nation's capital, about 50 protesters, including Daniel Ellsberg of Pentagon Papers fame, braved freezing temperatures to march in nearly two-foot-deep snow outside the Department of Energy building.

Anti-nuke activists attempt to disrupt arms conference

EL TORO, Calif. (UPI) — Three dozen anti-nuclear weapons activists were arrested Tuesday at a Marine base where Pentagon officials and arms experts were arriving for an annual defense technology convention.

Six demonstrators were arrested for trespassing after walking onto the base where more than 400 delegates to the 28th annual Winter Convention on Aerospace and Electronics Systems began the first of three days of classified sessions.

At least 34 others were arrested for blocking the entrances to the Marine Corps Air Station, Orange County sheriff's Lt. Dick Olson said.

Olson said the 34 arrests were for misdemeanors. They were to be taken to the county jail, cited and released. The six who crossed onto the base were arrested for federal trespassing violations, a Marine Corps spokesman said.

The first man to be arrested, at about 7:30 a.m., said he watched from the sidelines last year as others were arrested.

Pre-dawn blaze sparks inmate riot

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — An accidental pre-dawn fire at Western Penitentiary Tuesday triggered a rampage by inmates who clashed with guards, fought one another and set other fires. Officials said at least 28 men were injured.

The disturbance lasted more than eight hours before authorities declared the 105-year-old prison secure.

Two guards and a prisoner were hospitalized for head and facial injuries and 23 inmates, a guard and a firefighter were treated at the prison for cuts and bruises or smoke inhalation, officials said.

The rampage began at 3:30 a.m. while inmates were being moved from a cell block to escape smoke coming from an apparently accidental fire in a basement utility tunnel.

Northeast snarled by snow from 2nd blizzard in week

By Robert J. Murphy
United Press International

Residents in the Northeast began to dig out Tuesday from the second blizzard in less than a week that left schools, offices and airports closed, traffic snarled and snowdrifts 6 feet high.

Clear skies and bitterly cold air covered much of the East in the wake of the latest barrage of winter. Temperatures plunged well below zero over the central Appalachians and upstate New York and below freezing as far south as northern Florida.

Meanwhile, a new "potent" storm system off the central Pacific Coast threatened to dump heavy snow in the mountains of Oregon and northern California, the National Weather Service said. Snowfall up to 3 feet was forecast for the northern Sierra Nevada.

THE EAST'S second blizzard in less than a week moved out to sea early Tuesday, but parts of the Northeast remained paralyzed with snow-packed roads and high drifts. At least 26 deaths have been blamed on the latest batch of storms to cut through the region.

Schools remained closed or opened late Tuesday in parts of Massachusetts, Virginia, Maryland and New Jersey, while crews worked to clear runways at several airports shut down by the storm, which dumped 24 inches of snow on Kinsale, Va., and 18 inches on Atlantic City — the most there since 1902.

"THEY HAVEN'T even started clearing the runway," said Jim Harris of Butler Aviation at Bader Field Airport in Atlantic City. "There was too much wind (Monday) and it was just drifting the snow back. The main taxiway ramps... are drifted 2 to 3 feet. The equipment here is not capable of removing this much snow."

The Atlantic City International Airport remained shuttered Tuesday morning after 50-mph winds whipped up drifts 6 feet high. In Massachusetts, Nantucket Airport on Cape Cod reopened early Tuesday after being closed for 22 hours.

A STATE of emergency declared Sunday evening continued Tuesday in Atlantic County and Atlantic City, N.J., to allow road crews to work unimpeded by traffic.

In southern New Jersey, emergency personnel and the National Guard took nurses and doctors along snow-packed routes to hospitals, along with pregnant women about to deliver and kidney patients in need of dialysis. They also helped deliver meals to elderly shut-ins.

In Washington, D.C., many commuters using the city's rapid transit system experienced more than hour-long delays Tuesday morning as rail authorities were forced to shut down part of the system because of icy conditions.

"IT'S WALL-TO-WALL people," a woman said at the Rosslyn station in nearby Arlington, Va. "Somebody said they waited two hours and the only train to come through had four cars on it."

Government offices in the nation's capital were lightly staffed because many federal workers were granted "liberal leave."

Hyper boys show poor learning abilities

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hyperactive boys with low levels of chemicals that transmit nerve impulses performed poorly in reading, spelling and math, suggesting a link between biochemistry and achievement, scientists said Tuesday.

Twenty-eight boys, whose disorder was characterized by short attention span, excitability, impulsive behavior and restlessness, were found to have lower levels of two biochemicals than a control group of 23 "normal boys."

All 51 boys tested in the three-year UCLA study, the first to link biochemistry to achievement in the elementary education, confirmed earlier research that showed hyperactive boys have lower levels of norepinephrine and dopamine byproducts.

But the latest study found that not only do hyperactive boys fail to retain information as well as non-hyperactive children, but these with the lowest levels of the dopamine byproduct homovanilic acid had the lowest achievement scores of all.

"There may very well be a relationship between dopamine metabolism and learning abilities," said Dr. Walid Shekim, a psychiatry professor at the UCLA School of Medicine.

Shekim, who reported results of his study in the current issue of the Journal of Child Neurology, hopes the findings may lead to development of a medical test for learning disabilities.

"This is probably also true of hyperactive girls," Shekim said of the relationship between achievement and low levels of certain biochemicals. "We now have to extend these studies to children who have learning disabilities and who are not hyperactive and who do not have attention deficit disorders."

Neurotransmitters are the biochemical substances that transmit nerve impulses.

Super Bowl barely puts CBS in the lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — The estimated 123 million viewers who tuned in to watch all or part of Super Bowl XXI were enough to barely give CBS the win in the weekly ratings, even though NBC's situation comedies scored phenomenal numbers, figures showed Tuesday.

Despite projections that Super Bowl XXI would be the most watched program in television history, Sunday's contest between the New York Giants and the Denver Broncos was the lowest rated Super Bowl since 1981's game, broadcast by NBC, between the Oakland Raiders and the Philadelphia Eagles.

The 45.8 rating and 66 share for Sunday's game is still eclipsed by the 1982 Super Bowl between San Francisco and Cincinnati, also televised by CBS, that drew a 49.1 rating.

Yet the Super Bowl was super enough for CBS.

Michael Eisenberg, director of national TV research for CBS, estimated the Super Bowl audience at 123 million. Advertisers paid a record $1.2 million for a 60 second spot during the telecast.

"We expected it to reach about 130 million viewers, but to classify it as a disappointment, I don't know," Eisenberg said. "123 million is nothing to be disappointed about."

"Let's not lose the overall picture. This is a tremendous audience. It was still the No. 1 show of the week and we still won the week."

For its part, NBC was off to a big week, leading by 5.1 rating points, before Sunday's game put CBS over the top. NBC's Thursday night situation comedies, "The Cosby Show," "Family Ties," and "Cheers," plus the show "Matlock" each scored record ratings.

For the week ending Jan. 25, CBS won with an 18.5 rating and 28 share. NBC had a 17.9 rating and 27 share and ABC had a 14.6 rating and 22 share, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co.

In news, "NBC Nightly News" with Tom Brokaw won its third straight week with a 13.4 rating and 22 share, "CBS Evening News" with Dan Rather was next with a 13.3 rating and 22 share and "ABC World News Tonight" with Peter Jennings had an 11.6 rating and 19 share.

NBC still leads the season-to-date ratings with a 17.9 rating and 28 share. CBS has a 16.1 rating and 26 share and ABC has a 14.1 rating and 22 share.

So far this season, NBC has won 15 of the 18 weeks and CBS has won the other three.

Each ratings point represents about 874,000 households and a share is the percentage of operating sets tuned to a particular show.

Winner of the week: CBS and the New York Giants.

Pryor atop sagging box office

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Maybe it was the Super Bowl or stormy East Coast weather, but fans stayed away from the nation's movie houses last week.

Studios announced a near 30 percent drop in business, with Richard Pryor's "Critical Condition" leading all films in release with an anemic $3.3 million gross.

Despite the wintry box-office report, all was still sunny at Paramount Pictures with four of the top five films in release.

In addition to "Critical Condition" in the No. 1 spot, the studio registered with "Star Trek IV," "Crocodile Dundee" and "The Golden Child."

"Top Gun," last year's blockbuster, was No. 19 with a week's gross of $394,932.

The four Paramount bell-ringers accounted for a total weekly gross of slightly more than $11 million. All drew significantly smaller audiences than they did the previous week.

"Critical Condition," starring Pryor as a bogus doctor in a hospital emergency blackout, has picked up $10.6 million in two weeks in release despite so-so reviews. It dropped 42 percent from the previous week's tally in 1,343 theaters.

Breaking the Paramount lock in the top five film rankings was "Platoon," the controversial Vietnam drama of death and brutality in combat, depicting American GIs in a dubious light.

"Platoon" was No. 2, grossing $3.2 million in 214 theaters. It dropped 12 percent despite an increase of 30 screens. In six weeks it has earned $16.2 million.

"Star Trek IV," generally conceded to be the best of the Enterprise space adventures, continued to set new box-office marks for the sci-fi series. It was No. 3, scooping up $2.5 million for a nine-week total of $96.4 million. It will become the first Trekkie film to pass the $100 million domestic mark.

"Crocodile Dundee" moved up from fifth spot the previous week to No. 4 with a gross of $2.5 million.

The Australian produced and financed movie is second only to "Top Gun" among pictures currently in release. "Top Gun's" 37-week total is $173.7 million.

Ad income for newspapers expected to rise 7 percent

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Newspaper advertising revenue is expected to grow 7 percent again this year with all segments, except classified, posting gains from last year, the Newspaper Advertising Bureau said Tuesday.

Craig Standen, president of the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, said newspapers will continue to face competition, although advertising should remain strong.

Advertisers spent $27 billion on newspaper advertisements last year, a 7 percent increase from 1985.

Standen said national advertising should grow 5 percent, compared with 3 percent last year; retail will gain 7 percent, compared with 6 percent in 1985; while classified ads will improve 8 percent, compared with 10 percent last year.

The forecast was delivered in remarks prepared for delivery during the International Newspaper Advertising and Marketing Executives' annual sales meeting at the Fontainebleau Hotel.

Although lower than 1986, classified growth will be led by employment ads, with a mixed outlook in auto and real estate listings, said Eric Anderson, senior vice president for classified.

Leo Bogart, executive vice president, said the federal trade and budget deficits will continue to play a role in the advertising market as companies assess the outcome of new tax policies.

"A lot of advertisers will be tightening their belts as they wait for the business cycle to turn upwards," Bogart said.

Direct sales approaches using the telephone and cable television, such as the Home Shopping Network, will continue to challenge newspapers along with improved color printing and changing regional economies, he said.

Large advertisers such as General Motors Corp.'s Chevrolet division and Campbell's Soup, which target ads to special markets, will help newspapers "capitalize on our unparalleled strength at the local level," said James Wilson, senior vice president for national advertising.

Intramurals kick off with Hot Shots

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

More than 70 people turned out to participate in the intramural department's successful, season-opening Hot Shot contest held Jan. 24, according to coordinator Buddy Goldammer. Bill Cadagin scored 27 points to grab first place in the men's division of the sport. Gary Maricle and Bill McAfee tied for second place with 21 points each.

A four-way tie resulted when Roy Birch, Tim Donohue, Rich Edwards and Antonio Fuller all scored 20 points to share third place.

Angela Anello scored 15 points for sole ownership of first place in the women's division and Amy Peters and Lori Swanson both scored 10 points for another second place tie.

Third place went to Kim Underwood, who scored eight points in the contest.

Voting for the best new logo for intramural t-shirts is going "very well," said Goldammer. Voting was held last week in the Student Center and additional voting will take place this week in the Rec Center.

Table tennis singles sign-up closed Tuesday and competition is slated to begin Monday. Team basketball entries close tomorrow with the season scheduled to start Feb. 4.

Table tennis and basketball are two of the sports which will be adding a wheelchair league, Goldammer said. He said participants need not be physically impaired. The intramural department will provide wheelchairs as needed.

Confusion rings case of indicted Cowboy

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — The mother of a 10-year-old child allegedly fondled by Dallas Cowboys kicker Raphael Septien said she has doubts about whether her daughter should undergo the ordeal of a trial, a newspaper reported Tuesday.

The woman from the Denton County community of The Colony told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram she and her husband had not decided whether to drop their complaint against the athlete.

"I'm concerned for my daughter. We haven't decided what to do," she said.

The woman said her daughter, who considers Septien a friend, occasionally has contradicted herself since the alleged incident.

"Sometimes she says yes, sometimes she says no," the mother said. "She's only 10."

"I'm confused, myself," the mother said.

Denton County District Attorney Jerry Cobb said the girl's parents have given him no indication they do not want to press charges. Cobb said a member of his staff had talked with the girl's mother Monday. "She indicated one more time that they did intend to go through with it," he said.

Septien, 33, is free on $5,000 bond following his indictment Thursday on a state charge of aggravated sexual assault on a child. The first-degree felony is punishable by up to life in prison.

The parents have no authority to withdraw from the case at this point, Cobb said, and, if necessary, the girl can be subpoenaed as a witness.

The mother told a Star-Telegram reporter her daughter appears to have suffered no permanent harm thus far, but she is concerned about the effect of the girl's identity becoming known during a trial.

She said her daughter was fondled during a visit to a home in which Septien was living in late December.

"If she had been raped, I wouldn't have gone to the police," she said. "I would have taken care of it myself."

Septien has maintained his innocence since his indictment. He said Friday he had visited with the girl's parents and they agreed to drop the charges.

The girl's mother confirmed Septien visited the family several days before the case went to the grand jury, and told them he was moving out of the neighborhood.

"He said, 'I'll do anything I can to help,'" the woman said. "He didn't say money. If it was money, there's some things money can't buy."

Crimson Tide, Wimp try to keep secret, one-behind Gators may have the answer

By David Moffitt
UPI Sports Writer

Alabama coach Wimp Sanderson wishes he could keep the success of his basketball team a secret.

It's not that Sanderson isn't happy about the Crimson Tide being 15-2 and ranked No. 10. It's just that he's one of those coaches who would prefer his team keep a low profile to avoid being a constant target.

Before this season began, the general consensus was that Alabama, 24-9 last season while making it to the NCAA final 16 before losing for the fourth time in two months to Southeastern Conference champion Kentucky, would be the class of the SEC this time around.

So far, especially with the decline of Kentucky, nothing has happened to change that prognosis.

After early December losses by one point at Florida State and by 9 to 11th-ranked Duke at the Meadowlands in New Jersey, the Crimson Tide has won 12 games in a row, including all eight played against SEC opponents.

The most recent victory was by 11 points at Tennessee and when that one was over, Vols Coach Don DeVoe said, "Obviously, we were playing against a very talented and very experienced Alabama team."

Alabama came into the 1986-87 season missing only one starter from the previous season — power forward Buck Johnson. But Johnson had been both their scoring and rebounding leader and Sanderson insisted his loss would put a definite crimp in the Crimson Tide's inside game.

"I don't think you can win in this league unless you can take the ball inside and that's going to be much more difficult for us with Buck gone," said Sanderson. "We've got one strong inside player in (6-foot-9 junior center) Derrick McKey, but we've got to find him some help. He can't do it alone."

Johnson's replacement, sophomore Michael Ansley, hasn't been as prolific a scorer as Johnson was. But the 6-7, 215-pounder has been just as strong on the boards and with McKey and 6-3 senior Jim Farmer both adding five points to last season's scoring averages, Alabama, with all five of its starters in double figures, is ahead of last year's pace.

"Against us, Alabama is very aggressive and very poised offensively," said DeVoe. "When the No. 1 team in the league plays like that, you normally don't beat them. They have the ability to run and build a lead and when they get ahead, it's hard to play catchup against Alabama."

"We've still got to improve, and in a hurry, to maintain our current pace," said Sanderson. "Getting (6-3 senior point guard) Terry Coner (who missed the first six games because of a preseason injury) back has helped a lot. But we're still not playing with consistency. We have a tendency to slack off after getting a lead and we need to maintain our intensity."

"You've got to understand Wimp," said Auburn coach Sonny Smith. "He's the kind of coach who can't relax even when he's sitting on a 10-point lead with a minute to play."

What appears to be Alabama's biggest SEC test comes up Wednesday night when the Crimson Tide will be in Gainesville, Fla., to play 16th-ranked Florida, which is 15-4 overall and 7-1 in the conference — one game behind the Crimson Tide.

As the second half of Gateway Conference round-robin basketball gets underway, the Salukis hold a comfortable three-game lead and rank No. 16 in the national polls.

The race for the Gateway crown has turned more into a battle for the third and fourth playoff spots in the league's postseason tourney.

This week, four Salukis rate in GCAC individual statistics.

Briggitt Bonds rose to seventh in scoring with 14.9 points per game and third in rebounding with 8.9 per game. Mary Berghuis leads field goal shooting with 63.2 percent and climbed into the eighth rebounding spot with 8.1 per game. Bonds remains tied for second behind Berghuis in shooting percentages with 58.3.

Marialice Jenkins fell from the three-point shooting lead, but rose in the assist category. Jenkins rates second at the long bomb with 41.9 percent and ninth in assists with 2.8 per game.

Dana Fitzpatrick remains tied for sixth in assists with 3.1 per game.

SIU-C continues to dominate six of 10 GCAC statistical categories: scoring defense; scoring margin; rebound margin; field goal percentage offense; three-point field goal percentage offense; and three-point percentage defense.

The Salukis climbed to sixth in scoring offense, held third in rebounding and second in field goal percentage defense. However, they remain rock bottom with only 58 percent free throw shooting.

Drake's Caroline Orr received Gateway player of the week. Orr tallied 52 total points against Southwest Missouri and Wichita State to help key two more wins for the Bulldogs. Throughout the week, Orr fired 64.3 percent from the field while gathering 17 rebounds, four assists and three steals.

Blab scratches Illini, places bet with Aces

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — Olaf Blab, a 7-0 reserve center for the University of Illinois, has left the Illini and enrolled for the second semester at the University of Evansville.

Evansville officials said Blab, brother of former Indiana University star Uwe Blab, must set out the remainder of the 1986-87 season and the first semester of the 1987-88 campaign before becoming eligible to play for the Aces in January 1988.

Uwe Blab now plays for the Dallas Mavericks in the NBA. Evansville coach Jim Crews was an assistant coach under Bob Knight when Uwe Blab played at Indiana.

Olaf Blab, a junior, played high school basketball at Charleston, Ill., where he attended classes on an exchange program. He originally is from Munich, West Germany.

He has 1 1/2 years of college eligibility remaining.

Reds find enough cash for infielder

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds first baseman Nick Esasky, who had filed for salary arbitration in case he couldn't reach financial terms this season, signed a one-year contract with the club Tuesday.

Crews test sails as wind takes vacation

FREMANTLE, Australia (UPI) — Dennis Conner's Stars & Stripes and Iain Murray's Kookaburra III, both relishing heavy weather conditions, frantically tested sails Tuesday for a possible light air America's Cup final.

Weather bureau officials said a high pressure system off the coast of Western Australia could continue for several days, keeping light winds and calm seas over the Indian Ocean course.

Both yachts smashed their rivals in the challenger and defender finals in heavy winds and roaring seas now turned placid.

"Weather will have a great bearing in the outcome of the series," Conner said after practicing with trial horse Stars & Stripes '85 in breezes of 10-15 knots that compared with 28-knot blasts earlier in the month.

Conner again was armed with a stacked spinnaker nicknamed "Dolly" and a new mainsail made of a low-stretch, lightweight fabric. The San Diego, Calif., skipper said he thought "Dolly"—with 36 expandable pockets—"will give us an edge in slight winds."

Kevin Parry's Kookaburra III, named the official defender Monday by the Royal Perth Yacht Club, was pulled out of the water Tuesday for official measurements.

Stars & Stripes was scrutinized by measurement officials Monday and now both Cup finalists are prohibited from making any structural changes to their boats such as keel switches. That left the teams with only the options of changing the sails and rigging aboard the sleek, multimillion-dollar ocean racers.

While Kookaburra III was out of the water, its older stablemate Kookaburra went practicing with a variety of sails, some from Alan Bond's defeated Australia IV campaign.

"We're basically refining the sails we have," said Kookaburra spokesman Grant Donovan. "But we also are testing genakers provided to us by Bond and we will certainly use them in the Cup."

Genakers, huge balloon jibs that are half-spinnaker, half-genoa, were unveiled for the first time in the regatta by Australia IV in earlier defender trials.

The Kookaburra syndicate sought to have the sail banned, resulting in new guidelines making them smaller. Conner also is experimenting with the sails to add speed on downwind runs.

The crew of Kookaburra III enjoyed a day off, which will be its last until the end of the best-of-seven series kicking off Saturday.

"Skipper Iain Murray and the rest of the crew are lying on the beach and playing tennis," Donovan said.

no place I enjoy going," Kattreh said. "The real road trip I'm planning is to Florida after the season. I'm in no hurry to go back to Wichita or Springfield (Mo.)."

Non-conference games in California and New Mexico highlighted Kattreh's collegiate travels. Kattreh said she'll never forget the fun and hilarity when the team rode a tram onto Sandia Peak near Albuquerque, N.M., last season. Once there, the Salukis had a snowball fight and team manager Jackie Chatman rolled down the ski slope.

Kattreh, a Kohler, Wis., high school graduate who loves cross country skiing, said, "I missed the snow. It was beautiful up there."

When she visited the SIU-C campus as a recruit, Kattreh got a dose of what a Southern Illinois "snowstorm" is like.

"Coach (Julie) Beck picked me up at the airport and it was a really bad snowstorm for here. She was afraid to drive back from St. Louis and I thought it was hilarious because it was only two inches," the northerner laughed.

Traveling helped Kattreh mature because it forced her to play catch-up in classes and budget time more wisely. She also grew in confidence on the court.

She prefers not to think about her first three years partially hampered by injury and illness. A preseason knee operation put her on the road to health and she's not looking back.

"I don't like to dwell on the past. I'd just like to have a healthy season," Kattreh said. "This year it would take quite a bit to keep me off the court. I want to go out on a good note."

To come back, the sharpshooter devoted extra hours in rehabilitation training with special exercises designed to build the muscles around the knee.

Saluki coach Cindy Scott said, "She didn't start at full strength until a week before the season and she worked very hard to get ready. She's a quiet leader and takes a great deal of pride in that leadership."

Kattreh credits all her accomplishments to support from her family, "enough to keep me going but not pushing me."

A commercial recreation major, Kattreh will graduate after a summer internship with a GPA over 3.0. After that, she would like to get a job for a short time in the North and then preferably on to Florida, where her parents moved recently.

While she wants to manage a health club or fitness center, Kattreh would also enjoy coaching basketball or other sports at the high school level. If her employer has a pay-for-school program, Kattreh will continue to a master's degree.

Kattreh loves all sports except golf for personal recreation. In high school, she captured the state 400-meter track title all four years, a record that still stands. She also swims, plays softball and "you name it."

However, she doesn't like to cook, sew or "anything like that."

NCAA tourney.

"When you look at the SEC as an example, everyone falls short," Viverito said.

Then there's the "east of the Rockies" syndrome for volleyball, same as the "you're not on the coast" syndrome in basketball. This syndrome adds up to the worst seeds possible for Gateway champions, no matter how strong the winner and the league happens to be.

"It's true the west coast is very deep in volleyball, but they discount everyone else," Viverito said. "(In basketball,) anybody from the Midwest that goes into Austin, Texas — good luck getting out of there with your head. The Midwest gets the short end of the stick."

Last year, for example, the Salukis were thrown to the basketball wolves in the second round against Auburn. At the time it didn't seem that bad, but looking back knowing Auburn's No. 3 national ranking this year makes it seem worse.

The whole farce remains that the Gateway is not that bad a conference. It only works to the advantage of the SEC and others to keep the Gateway in a bad light. In truth, for the past two years the Gateway has held its own in matchups against other conferences. And this year, the schedule is 100 percent Div. I.

In comparison, Texas Tech hasn't seen daylight from underneath Texas' shadow for six years. But nobody knocks the SWC or knocks Texas Tech.

"Just because one or two schools fall off, others pick up the slack. I won't apologize for any team going through a transition," Viverito said. "Nobody makes apologies for the Southwestern conference's other teams. Texas, the crown jewel, is used to promote the conference, not to denigrate it."

"In the Gateway it's a different standard. One team excels and the media chooses to denigrate it."

Perhaps only a few hindsight folks and the Salukis remember just how tough the Gateway really is.

played at the highest seed on March 2, will pit the winners of No. 3-6 versus the winners of No. 2-7. The other semi-final game will be between the No. 1 seed and the winner of the No. 4 and 5 challenge.

The tournament concludes with the championship game on March 4.

Since all the Valley teams will participate, the battle is not between who will go but who will host first-round games.

Through one-half of the MVC slate, Tulsa, Wichita State, Drake and Illinois State rate as top contenders for the one first-round bye and the three on-site first-round games.

At the other end of the Valley, Creighton, Indiana State and SIU-C are fighting it out for the No. 5 seed and the last chance for a homecourt advantage in the first round of the tourney.

Going into this week's action, Indiana State will play Creighton and SIU-C twice and one game with all other Valley opponents. Creighton must face Tulsa twice while SIU-C faces five of eight remaining Valley games on the road. The Sycamores and Bluejays play four of nine remaining Valley games on the road.

Sharpshooter Cager made Illini eat words

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Opposing teams beware: Ann Kattreh answers name calling with points.

When the SIU-C and Illinois women's basketball teams were announced in pregame ceremonies Dec. 20 at Davies Gym, Illini forward Angie McClellan and Saluki forward Kattreh met at midcourt. McClellan mouthed off — even though they didn't guard each other.

"She said something like, 'I'm gonna get you.' I was shocked because she was so rude and bold," Kattreh said.

McClellan isn't the only Illini who didn't put her money where her mouth was, as coach Laura Golden has a history of slurring the Salukis, calling them a "nice little team" in front of recruits and reporters.

The Salukis responded by trouncing the Illini, 60-49. Kattreh led all scorers with 18 points on 9-15 shooting.

"After the game, I wanted to say something, but I didn't want to stoop to her level," Kattreh said. "We showed 'em on the court — not bad for a nice little team."

Having problems not only with smart remarks but also with teams playing dirty, the senior leader attributes the bad vibes to opponents' jealousy of the Salukis' winning reputation.

"Everybody in the conference looks at us as the biggest enemy," she said.

But she wouldn't have it any other way.

"Our freshman year, we lost a game we never should've lost at Wichita State, and it knocked us out of postseason play," Kattreh recalled. "We older ones know what it's like to be in the big game when it comes down to it, but some of the younger ones don't understand. Maybe it's just been drilled in my head not to take any conference game lightly."

One of three Saluki seniors, Kattreh and teammates Marialice Jenkins and Cozette Wallace have a standing joke going this year: Each road trip they talk as if they're planning to return when they're actually saying goodbye to Gateway towns they hope to never see again.

"In the conference, there's

Senior forward Ann Kattreh could do nothing but watch as the women's basketball team got practice underway for the season. But the Saluki sharpshooter recovered in time to notch plenty of double-digit totals despite knee surgery.

Three vie for MVC tie, Salukis wage struggle

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

With a 92-83 victory over Tulsa Monday night, the Bradley Braves have thrown the Missouri Valley Conference into a three-way tie for first place.

The Golden Hurricane, the preseason league favorite, led the league before the loss, but now shares with Bradley and Wichita State a 4-1 conference record.

Bradley, picked second in the preseason poll of Valley coaches, and Wichita State, picked fourth, are both enjoying the midseason toppling under the leadership of first-year head coaches.

Third-place preseason pick Illinois State has slipped into fifth place with a three-game league losing streak.

Drake, a fifth-place preseason pick, utilized the three-game Redbird skid to move into fourth place.

Creighton and Indiana State are both 1-4 and tied for seventh place with both suffering recent losing streaks. While the Bluejays have dropped 10 of their last 11 games, the Sycamores have dropped four in a row.

The Salukis close out the pack with a 1-5 league standing.

Since Bradley has been ruled ineligible for post-season play because of NCAA and MVC sanctions, all other Valley teams will compete in the tournament.

The Valley post-season tournament format gives the No. 1 seed a first-round bye while the No. 2, 3 and 4 teams will host first-round games on Feb. 28. Semi-final games,

LPGA's Bradley turns 'bridesmaid' to wins

NEW YORK (UPI) — Instead of feeling added pressure to duplicate her sensational season of 1986, Pat Bradley expects her recent rampage will provide the stimulus for further success.

After building a reputation as a talented bridesmaid, one who had been runnerup 36 times and compiled 132 top five finishes while winning 16 tournaments, Bradley emerged as the leading light of the LPGA last year, winning three of the four major championships and five titles in all.

She became the first LPGA player to surpass $2 million in career earnings, standing now at $2,286,218, and at year's end she was recognized as Player of the Year and winner of the Vare Trophy for lowest score average.

A new campaign begins Thursday with the Mazda Classic at Boca Raton, Fla., and although she turns 36 in March, Bradley sees no reason she can't continue as a big winner.

"Coming off the year I've had, it's kind of rejuvenated me," Bradley said by telephone. "I'm thrilled to death to be starting 1987, and I'd like to maintain my level of play from last year."

"My desire is as strong as ever. The great year I had last year has opened up my blood veins and made things a lot brighter for me. I'm as ready as I have been every year. I've worked into my game, and I've put in the time to get myself into condition."

Rodney, 'what conference?' share same fate

Sports Analysis

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

No matter where they go or what they do, teams in the Gateway can empathize with Rodney Dangerfield.

At last, long last, SIU-C women's basketball gains rankings higher in the national polls than ever before, but its conference, the Gateway, gets no respect.

"The what conference?" people seem wont to ask. But depending on who you ask, so goes the reply.

which No.1-ranked, defending national champion Texas hails. Nobody knocks the Southwestern Conference just because Texas has won 122 consecutive conference games.

GCAC commissioner Patty Viverito and SIU-C associate athletics director Charlotte West want the record set straight.

The Gateway Conference rates 11th of the 33 conferences in the country, according to Mel Greenberg, who compiles the AP women's basketball poll. A less obvious indicator of strength, three of the 10 GCAC teams have schedules that rank in the top 100 of the 280 Div. I schools.

Illinois State rated 42nd,

"Nobody makes apologies for the Southwestern conference's other teams. Texas, the crown jewel, is used to promote the conference, not to denigrate it."

SIU-C 73rd and Drake 83rd. The lowest GCAC team still scheduled near to the top half of the nation at 155.

For many years Drake pounced Iowa. SIU-C has dominated its series with the University of Illinois. These are rich traditions.

Among highlights this year, Wichita State upset Kansas and SIU-C dumped three ranked teams, including Illinois again. But despite such "upsets," part of the problem for GCAC recognition means teams play in the shadow of the state's pride-and-joy team.

"We're the mid-majors, not the flag universities of the states," Viverito said. "This often means we take a back seat for media coverage and respect regardless of what our programs do."

Along that line, schools like Illinois State, Drake and Wichita State lose out to the carry-over factor from Illinois, Iowa and Kansas.

"What the respective men's teams do and their visibility spills over into the entire program," Viverito said. "None of our universities have the advantage of a flagship university, an image problem we'll probably always have. We're not Illinois, we're Illinois State. We're not Indiana, we're Indiana State."

Some of the disrespect is also credited to the relative youth of the league. Some disrespect is in part because the nearby Southeastern Conference (SEC) already achieved infamy for fielding seven of its 10 teams into the
