Classroom and Housing Crowding Will Be Eased

By Mike Schwebel

Three major campus projects will be completed this fall, helping ease the overcrowded classroom and campus housing situation. University officials said the University Park Residence Halls, General Classroom Building B and the Communications Building will be ready for use this fall, if all goes exactly as expected.

“Three major projects are being completed this fall, and we just hope it all comes together,” said University President Roy W. Robinson.

Robinson said that the Office of Communications, which is in charge of Southern's public relations, has scheduled the building of three new dormitories, three new classroom buildings and a new library. He said that the projects are expected to be completed by early September.

The new dormitories will be three-story men's dormitories and will be located in the area of the Center Building and the new women's dormitories will be located in the area of the Student Union.

The new classroom buildings will be located in the area of the Science Building and the new library will be located in the area of the Administration Building.

Robinson said that the projects are expected to be completed by early September.

Look Ma, No Eyebrows!

Fashion World's Czar's Decree
'Razing' the Feminine Eyebrow

Eyebrows are out! That eyebrow-raising statement is the latest decree from the fashion world, ladies. Come fall, the emphasis will be on "the big eye" and "the big eye" the big eyebrow is a drag.

Instead of serving as a frame for the eye, or punctuation for the face, as the beauty experts used to claim, the official word now is that eyebrows detract from the eyes.

So get rid of them! The object this year is "open up" the eyes—give your self that look of wide-eyed innocence and get rid of that mean, brooding look caused by dark brows.

To accomplish this, there are two choices. One: You can have your hairdresser give you a no-eyebrow cut. That's something of a modified Ringo Starr style, with your hair combed forward over your forehead until it touches your top eyelashes, hiding the brows from view.

Two (and this seems to be the most highly recommended because it was dreamed up by the people who sell makeup). You can do away with the eyebrow completely. Now don't be as gauche as the ladies in Jean Harlow's time when they shaved them off.

What you want to do, instead, is to go out and buy all those nice makeup stuff that will help you soften, flatten and blur the line of the brow. It bears such intriguing names as Frothy White Blush-On, White Eye Shadow Glow, Evening Eye Lites, and White Shades.

You start by bleaching your eyebrows with peroxide and then covering them up with the aforementioned products, enhanced by a variety of shadows, stickers, and pencils and set off by quadruple false eyelashes—both top and bottom—cut thick and brushy like the back of a caterpillar.

Makeup men insist that the upper eyelid is the focal point of fashion today.

A preview of fall fashions would indicate that they may be right because the fashion designers—if they have their way—are going to make it mighty tough for the average girl-watcher to tell the girls from the boys—even up close like in a crowded elevator.

Nath to Present Paper in Madison

Joginder Nath, a researcher in the Department of Physiology at SIU, will present a paper on the "Effect of Freezing Rate on the Nucleation of Plant Cells" at the annual meeting of the Society for Cryobiology in Madison, June 21, the first week in August.

The paper describes the first steps in an investigation to discover the fundamental causes of damage to "living" cells during freezing, storage and thawing from low temperatures. Its main topic is the role of cell vacuoles and intercellular fluids during freezing.

The paper also deals with basic information about a preservation of plant tissues by freeze-drying.

One practical application of the study is an attempt to relate it to the phenomenon of winter hardiness in plants.

Extremism Is Ill-Grounded

Since the murder of Presi­dent John F. Kennedy, the American press has come under close scrutiny. The press has done its job of providing coverage to the major events, but the question of what the public "right to know" means has been hotly debated. The recent controversy over the assassination of President Kennedy has shed light on the issue.

Most evident, perhaps, is the direction and intentions suggested by the public's reaction to the assassination. The desire for information, whether from the press or other sources, is understandable. When faced with tragedy, people want to know what happened and why.

In previous cases where information was withheld, the public's reaction was often one of anger and frustration. The assassination of President Kennedy, however, has sparked a different reaction. The public wants to know the truth, and they are willing to demand it.

The press has a responsibility to inform the public, but it also has a responsibility to be accurate. In the case of the assassination, the press had access to a wealth of information, but it was cautious in its reporting. This is a good thing, as the public needs to be assured that the information being reported is accurate.

The assassination of President Kennedy was a traumatic event, and the public's reaction to it was understandable. However, the press has a responsibility to provide accurate and timely information. By doing so, the press can help the public come to terms with the tragedy and move forward.

Scarcrous Make Universities

New York City—Visiting the campuses of the country's great universities is like entering a hall of learning. The halls are filled with the sound of learning, the buzz of activity, and the scent of incense. It is a place where minds are shaped and ideas are forged.

The students are a diverse group, from all walks of life. They come from different backgrounds, with different interests, and different goals. But they all have one thing in common: a love of learning.

The professors are equally diverse, each with their own unique perspective on the world. They are experts in their fields, and they are responsible for teaching the students.

The libraries are a treasure trove of knowledge, filled with books, journals, and other resources. They are a place where students can go to find the answers they need.

The campus life is vibrant, with a variety of activities and events. From lectures and seminars to sports events and musical performances, there is always something happening.

New York City is a city of culture, and the universities are a reflection of that. They are a place where art and science, tradition and innovation, come together.

The students, professors, and campus life are all part of what makes New York City's great universities so special. They are a testament to the power of education and the importance of learning.
Good Acting 'Shakes Up' Williams' Light Comedy

By Anita Povich

An excellent cast of veteran performers brought Tennessee Williams' "Period of Adjustment" to life Wednesday night at the air-conditioned Southern Playhouse. The slow pace eventually speeded up and left the two young couples happily ever after in the bedroom of course.

"Period of Adjustment" a light comedy—the only one Williams has written—exploits the age-old tale of marital problems beginning and ending in the bedroom. The story of two young couples and their marital difficulties is helped by good performances but there is little to say for the usual "comic-strip" approach to marriage and sex along with the worn-out phrases which Williams employs.

Charlie Harris is excellent as George Haverstick, the eager bridegroom who is afflicted with the "shakes," for which no medical explanation can be found. His acting is so convincing that his Southern drawl (the setting is in the Cape Girardeau, Mo., area) and his portrayal of a man with the shakes seem as natural on him as he does on the stage.

Mr. and Mrs. Gil Lazier comprise a good acting team. Saundra Lazier is cast as the pretty young bride of Haverstick. Her off-stage husband, Gil, is Ralph Bates, an old buddy of Haverstick from the Korean War. Bates' wife has left him after six years of marriage and as the play opens the Haversticks are dropping in on Bates this Christmas Eve.

The Bates' home is in a suburb, High Point, which is built over an underground cavern that is gradually sinking at the rate of an inch or two each year. Consequently, everyone in the play has the shakes.

The three-level set designed by Darwin Payne, allows the audience to view the actors in the bedroom, living room or outside of the home simultaneously. A Christmas tree and a wreath on the door emphasize the season, along with occasional refrains of "White Christmas."

The audience responded enthusiastically to the capers of the newlyweds and the third act of the play brought a bit of liveliness to the stage as a family argument breaks out. Bates' wife is played by Bobbi Montross, who is not quite as homely as the play describes her and quite effective in portraying the wife coming home to her husband on Christmas Eve. The minor characters over-acted a bit but the fine acting of the Laziers and Harris do much to make the play good entertainment.

Sherwin F. Abrams, associate theater director, did a find job in directing the production as witnessed by the smooth flow of conversation and action. The play will run through Sunday night. Curtain is at 8 p.m. The Box Office will be open before the play from 7 to 8 p.m.
Casualties Heavy

300 Vietnamese, 4 Americans Ambushed by Viet Cong 'Unit

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Viet Cong ambushers hit a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of this city Thursday as if to draw attention from battle reverses suffered by the Red g. trillias at two other points in the Saigon region.

A U.S. spokesman said most of the battalion, a force of perhaps 300 soldiers accompanied by four American advisers, apparently was wiped out. A survivor reported casualties were heavy. The fate of the four Americans was not determined.

It was a different story in concurrent operations in the D-Zone jungle to the east and the Mekong River delta to the south.

A 2,500-man task force of U.S. paratroopers, Australian infantrymen and Vietnamese soldiers pushed through sporadic opposition on the third day to destroy the Viet Cong, their defenses and settlements in a jungle sector 25 to 30 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was estimated the American paratroopers alone, fighting their biggest engagements of the war, killed, wounded or captured more than 100 of the Red enemy Wednesday. The bodies of 25 were counted.

A U.S. spokesman declined on security grounds to specify how many Americans were hit, but said their losses were substantially less than estimated Vietnam casualties.

In a section of the Mekong delta 70 miles southwest of Saigon, government troops pressed an offensive through its fourth day.

The U.S. spokesman said they had killed 78 Viet Cong and captured seven. Government losses were listed as 11 killed and 43 wounded. One of the wounded in an American U.S. Marines were in action too, four companies engaging a Viet Cong band near the Chu Lai beachhead, 330 miles northwest of Saigon.

A spokesman said they killed six Viet Cong and captured 14 while losing one Marine dead and two wounded.

Firefighting at Da Nang and Quy Nhon, which flank Chu Lai on the south China Sea coast, brought to 3,500 the announced number of Marines moved to Viet Nam in the 8,000-man buildup launched Wednesday.

The spokesman said the re-inforcements include one battalion of 105mm artillery and a squadron of 24 F-104 Crusader jets.

Grand Jury Probe Ordered
On Taped Hints of Bribery

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—State's Attorney Raymond Terrell Thursday ordered a Sangamon County grand jury investigation of tape recordings allegedly hinting at bribery of legislators.

Terrell said subpoenas have been issued to compel attendance of persons whose voices purportedly are recorded.

The grand jury will convene July 15.

Terrell was informed Wednesday by attorneys for three Chicago men they would not meet with him to discuss the tapes.

The three were Dave Maslowky, Irving Gottlieb and Sam J. Kaplan, all connected with the Chicago Currency Exchange Association.

Terrell said he decided on the grand jury probe because "the only persons who can authenticate the tapes are unwilling to admit or deny that the conversations actually took place."

The state's attorney said six subpoenas have been issued and all were served except one for Gottlieb.

Terrell declined to name the other five, but said legislators were not among them. He said the subpoenas were issued for persons whose voices purportedly are on the tapes, and others.
WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk-provoking amendments forestalled Senate leaders' efforts to pass a Medicare bill Thursday night but a debate-limiting agreement set up a final vote on the history-making measure late Friday.

The majority leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., obtained consent to limit debate to one hour on each amendment, two hours on a motion to return the bill to committee and two hours on final passage.

Opponents and proponents alike agreed that the Senate will join the House in approving an unprecedented program of hospital and medical care for the elderly untouched in any major way by a series of amendments.

Most of the amendments came from the outnumbered Republicans and were easily disposed of by the administration forces but procedural routine, and accompanying debate, are up-time.

Some of the futile efforts to alter the bill centered not on the health-care aspects but on the portion of the dual measure, the provision for a 7 per cent increase in old-age retirement benefits under the Social Security program.

One two-hour period of debate preceded the voice-vote defeat of an amendment by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to accept the tax treatment of tips as set up in the House-passed bill.

The House bill would require an employer to report his tips to his employer if they exceed $20 a month. The employer then would withhold Social Security taxes from the tip money and match the employee's payment, as is done on regular wages and salaries.

The Senate Finance Committee voted instead to have tips regarded as self-employment income with only the employee paying Social Security taxes on them.

SIU to Try Again
To Beat the Illini

The Salukis will get a second chance to beat the University of Illinois when the two teams open a four-game series this weekend at the SIU baseball field.

The first game of the series will start at 6 p.m. tonight. The series will conclude with a doubleheader at 1 p.m. Saturday and a single game at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The Illini defeated Southern four straight times last weekend in Champaign, but a little more hitting on the Salukis' part could have reversed the outcome. The Salukis scored only eight runs in the four-game series.

After the first eight games, the statistics show that pitching has been Southern's strong point. The pitching staff has a combined 2.44 earned run average.

Mike Stafford, who leads the starting pitchers with a 2.72 earned run average, is scheduled to start the series for Coach Rich (Ricky) Jones.

Mike Lyle and Bob Ash are expected to start in the doubleheader Saturday and George Poe will start the final game of the series Sunday.

Jones is hoping that the special batting drills that he has been sending his team through this week, plus the fact that the games will be played in the home ball park might awaken the silent Saluki bats.

The need for the team to get some more hits is evidenced by the team's .198 batting average.

Only four regulars are hitting .200 or better, and six players aren't even hitting their weight.

Jones has been rather pleased so far with the Salukis' improving play in the field, still committed 11 errors in four games with the Illini, but that was still eight less than it made against St. Louis University the week before.

Jones is expected to use about the same lineup that played the Illini last week.

Lee McKinley or Tony Poppe will be at third base, Rick Hacker at short, Mike Lyons at second and Frank Limbaugh at first.

The outfield will consist of Bobby Joe Koerz, Mario Solis, Tyler Young or Jack Brown.

The catching duties will be assigned to either Mike Henze or Dan Jonzen.

Limbaugh Hitting
SIU's Top Mark

First baseman Frank Limbaugh has replaced shortstop Rick Hacker as Southern's top hitter in the Midwest Summer Collegiate Baseball League.

Hacker, who had only two hits in 13 tries in last week's series with the University of Illinois, saw his .400 average dipped to .260.

Limbaugh had five hits in 12 at bats against the Illini, which raised his average to .304, 18th in the league.

Parsons College still has the league's two top hitters in Larry Skinner and Skip Falasca, both of whom are batting .441.

Two SIU students were fined $30 and $55 in costs in Jackson County Circuit Court after they pleaded guilty to charges of exploding firecrackers.

The two were Robert B. LeRoy, 22, a junior from Bellwood, and Gerald Godlewski, 20, a sophomore from Glenview. They were arrested and fined July 6 in connection with two separate incidents of firecracker exploding.
