Meters, Restrictions Possible for Drivers

By Nick Harder

SIU students who own cars this year and register them with the University might conceivably pay a parking fee of several thousand campus parking meters, or not be allowed to drive on campus during the daytime.

Any one of these possibilities seems harsher, but according to Paul Isbell, responsible for parking at SIU, the problem is unavoidable.

Here are some possibilities:

- parking meters for all campus spaces, student and faculty,
- pay gates for parking lots,
- erection of above and/or below surface garages, also metered or with gates,
- no student cars permitted on campus during daytime hours,
- hikes in parking fees for both students and faculty,
- a gradual increase in fees for both students and faculty depending on the appropriation or lack of it by the legislature.

"I think everyone realizes we have a real problem in parking here," said Isbell. "It's not that we Steh to turn our way we turn for a solution, it's going to end up costing somebody money," Isbell stressed that there is no single, definite proposal at present. Any alternative which might proceeds largely upon what the Board of Higher Education recommends to the legislature about the parking problems of SIU and other state universities.

The Board could recommend to the legislature that the state split the cost of building additional parking areas with the universities. The proportion might be 50-50 or any combination of percentages, according to Isbell.

"You must keep in mind," he said, "that SIU has the lowest parking fees of any Illinois state university. We've been putting off for a long time this sort of change. Now we've just got to face it."

Depending on what the Board of Higher Education reports, Isbell will confer with Robert W. MacVicar, SIU Carbondale campus chancellor, and submit proposals to President Delyte Morris and the Board of Trustees on their approval.

There are already plans past the tentative stage for a garage under the proposed parking lot.

Draft Law Confusion Spirals

By Brian Trensch

Second of a Series

Conversations with hundreds of SIU males have revealed that virtually any eligible student feels that the draft is the most prevailing influence in his life.

Despite this, almost none of the students interviewed are able to say anything about the intangible and operations related controlling factor in his life.

According to Eggert, the draft laws are now tighter than they have ever been in history. He noted that it is no longer possible to establish consecutive deferments and that students who have requested a full-time student (II-S) deferment after August 1, 1967, will no longer be able to obtain a hardship deferment (III-A), even if they are now married and have several children.

Eggert said that if any person has a deferment other than physical disability (I-Y) or (IV-F), he is now theoretically eligible for military service until age 35.

"Any person registering for the draft right now has all but completely lost the right to avoid it. If the war continues, they will all be in the army," he said.

Eggert also pointed out that the current draft laws are much more complex than they Vigil Held for Spock

Students, faculty members, and area clergy held a sympathetic vigil outside the University Center Tuesday evening to show support for Dr. Benjamin Spock and three other men recently convicted of conspiracy to counsel men to avoid the draft.

The famous 65-year-old pediatrician's co-defendants were Yale Chaplin William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43, novelist Mitchell Goodman, 44, from Cambridge, Maine; and Michael Perber, 23, a Harvard graduate student.

Yesterday, all four were sentenced to two years in prison and ordered to pay various fines. U.S. District Judge Francis Ford cited laws of escape for all the sentences, pending their appeals.

Many of the persons in the vigil held signs reading "I am a Dr. Spock baby," and "We support the baby doctor," In addition, several members of the Southern Illinois Peace Committee handed out leaflets to passersby about that group's goals and methods.

Yesterday's vigil was jointly sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, members of the Carbondale Chapter of Laymen and Peace Concerned About Vietnam, and the Southern Illinois Peace Committee.

Second Solar Flare May Renew Storms

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The second of two solar flares within barely 25 hours was detected Tuesday by scientists at the U.S. Space Surveillance Forecast Center here. Some shortwave radio communications were disrupted, but the extent of the disturbance was not determined immediately.

The latest flare, which occurred at 2:07 p.m. EDT, appeared to be a little weaker than one Monday that fouled up some longwave transmissions around the world, according to Robert Dooler, chief of forecast at the Environmental Science Services Administration agency.

Meanwhile, the scientists were watching for the effect of a cloud of electrons, spawned by Monday's flare, the biggest and brightest since 1964.

The electron cloud was believed headed toward earth Tuesday evening, promising more disruptions of shortwave radio and perhaps an unrushed view of the Northern Lights.

Chief Forecaster Dale Beuckman said there were high probability of renewed magnetic storms about the result of a large number of solar fields. If so, the resulting Smiths, a "big" solar flare could begin as early as late evening, or by early Wednesday, he said.

The second flare will not affect the area, he said, adding that radio emissions from this class of flares are not usually strong enough to be picked up by Earth receptors.

Self-Instruction Center Has 36,000th User

The urge of some students to "do more on their own" has led to the 36,000th user of the Self-Instruction Center at SIU. Located in Morris Library, the center houses tape recorders, slide and film projectors, programmed learning books, and movies to aid the student in learning a variety of courses and self-improvement skills.

Director of the center is Harry Denzel, who also teaches a course in the Department of Guidance. He and his staff supervise the center and help instructors develop materials for student use there.

New programs for the center include the proposed installation of a dial-access system for lecture tapes, the showing of background films for some classes, and shared facilities with the Center for the Study of English as a Second Language to handle overflow student load.

A study of the use of the center, completed through the winter quarter, showed that greater numbers of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors used the center, and, says Denzel, "Judging by what they will admit on their registration cards (which contain questions asking the approximate grade average) we're getting more of the above average students. We need to attract more of the probationary students."

A large number of probationary students did use the center during the spring quarter of 1968 than during the previous three quarters.

The center is decentralizing some of its operations, with mini-centers being set up at the Southern Illinois Airport and in the President's Scholars House. The airport has programmed courses to help students prepare for government pilot examinations, while the other center will house materials for the intercultural courses.

Activities

Band Concert, Workshop Planned

A farmers' cooperative workshop is scheduled at 9:30 a.m. today in the University Center Ballrooms. The School of Home Economics Family Living Laboratory. Guest speakers are: Melvin Kahn and John Baker, both from the Department of Government. A general studies luncheon will be held at 11:30 p.m. in the University Center, Ohio and Illinois Rooms. Facultyfraternal advisers will hold a luncheon at noon in the University Center, Mississipi Room.

Library, located on the second floor of the center, houses 36,000th user. The readings from learners' tapes, including "Ten Nights In A Barroom" and "In His Steps," will be told on "What's New" at 7:30 p.m. on WSIU-TV.

Other programs:
6:30 p.m. Industry on Parade.
4:45 p.m. The Friendly Giant.
5 p.m. What's New: Okfeneokee Swamp.
5:30 p.m. Mastercrafters' Neighborhood.

Decision Making Subject of 'Chats'

C. Addison Hickman, professor of economics, will present the third in a series of six "Pireside Chats" at 7 p.m., July 14, at the Student Christian Foundation, 913 S. Illinois.

Hickman's talk will be "Student-Faculty Sharing of Decision Making at SIU."

Other programs:
8:37 a.m. Doctor Tell Me: Why do doctors give procrastonic examinations?
10 a.m. Pop Concert.

Keep the Faith in America

We have faith in America. We take pride in our Founding Fathers and the Constitution they gave us—an instrument that has been copied (but not necessarily followed) by many other countries.

We like our 200 million fellow citizens who have joined us in this sample melting pot that now produces a brew known as Brotherhood.

We glory in our traditions of free choice, friendliness and tolerance; for the Supreme Court that protects the lowest individual from the vast machinery of government.

Our spirit soars at the thought of traveling and trading freely in the largest open nation of the world—3,613,000 square miles.

We hold up our heads as Old Glory flutters on Flag Day, symbolizing our association of free men and women, dedicated to privacy and equality for all.

We analyze the "broken home" statistics and discover that 83 pct. of the men and women who exchange vows at the altar actually maintain their bonds of holy matrimony "til death" do them part.

We observe Americans at their work and understand why 8 pct. of humanity produces 50 pct. of the world's wealth.

We look to the future with confidence, knowing that 7 million earnest college students are preparing for leadership—to join hands with the brilliant men and women who flock to our shores because of the good life to be found here.

We take comfort in the fact that America has a smaller percentage of Communists than any other modern power—with the FBI boast—

The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion concerning the news of the day and of other matters of concern to the student body and community. Editorialists are selected by members of the student body, staff and by students recommended to journalism courses and represent opinions of the writers only. Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters, which be as short as 50 words and telegraph number, preferably typewritten, be as long as 300 words. Letters up to 300 words are acceptable and are urged to be directed to the Daily Egyptian.

Acceptance for publication does not necessitate the issuance of space and the appearance and relevance of the material. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to determine the content of the opinions pages. The opinions editor, who is a member of the college atudenta are preparing for leadership to join hands with the brilliant men and women who flock to our shores because of the good life to be found here.

We take comfort in the fact that America has a smaller percentage of Communists than any other modern power—with the FBI boast—

Two of the four West Side bloc Republican ward committee men purged by the county central committee were replaced by Negro leaders. This squar es with the predominantly black population of the wards, and leaves the Republicans in the uncomfortable position of being the only champions of plantation politics in the affected areas.

Realistically, local Republicans have a long way to go before they can even hope to regain the overwhelming support of the black community that they enjoyed before 1955. But many Negroes are becoming disillusioned with the Democratic organization, because it does not sympathize with their legitimate political aspirations. The number of independent-minded blacks making gains in old-line Democratic strongholds is growing. If the Democrats cannot accommodate them, they might eventually shift to the GOP column as they once switched the other way.

Mack will depend on what help the Republicans can or will give the Negroes now sitting on the central committee. If they are there just for show, the black voter will not be deceived. But if they are accepted as partners and given the patronage and other tools they need to build a solid political base, they might serve as magnets to attract others who have been alienated by Clay Hall indifference and lack of understanding of what read black power is all about.
Tokyo’s Night Clubs: Pay in Strong Doses

Photos, Text
By John Durbin

TOKYO—Night club hopping in Tokyo is a tricky business as many foreigners find out—some the hard way.

One man, formerly from the United States and now a resident of Tokyo, said that when he first moved to Japan "I'll bet that I spent enough money in night clubs, cabarets and bars to have bought several of them. It was only later, after I learned the Japanese language and knew where to go, that I began to spend less for the same amount of enjoyment."

The first problem confronting a foreigner is the misconception that everywhere in Japan is cheaper than in the United States or other foreign countries. This is an outright falsehood.

Some things, it is true, do cost less in Japan than they would in the U.S. But the Tokyo night club circuit is no less expensive than that of any large city in the U.S. And, in fact, many foreigners claim that it costs more to go out on the town in Tokyo than anywhere else in the world.

Nearly all night spots post their prices in Japanese, Therefore, unless you read Japanese or are accompanied by someone who understands the language, you are forced at the end of the evening to pay the bill without any questions asked. It would do little good to question the waiter anyway, since most of them cannot speak or understand much English.

The best way—and often the only way—to learn the ropes of the Tokyo night club circuit is by trial and error.

One thing which is essential for any foreigner to learn is the Japanese character symbols for beer. Since most persons from the U.S. are familiar with the price of beer in the states, the price accompanying the symbol gives some indication of what the evening may cost, or does it?

Not always. In many cases where there are cover charges or charges for hostesses who sit and entertain you, the cost of your drinks becomes consequential. At many places, excepting the high class Ginza clubs and cabarets, beer may only cost between 200 and 300 yen (55-80 American cents). But it is the additional charges that drain your pocketbook. And these charges in almost all cases are unknown until the time you pay your bill.

A hostess or hostesses may cost 400 yen ($1.10) or more just to sit with you. Then, if you buy the hostesses a drink, which is almost an unwritten law in most establishments, the bill may soar from 500 to 1000 yen ($1.40 to $2.72) apiece. Some cabarets charge 200 yen or more for every dance with a hostess. All of these charges are often unknown to the customer until he is given the bill.

Cover charges at scattered night spots in and around Tokyo are between 5,000 and 10,000 yen ($14-$30) at the door. Then you are assigned a hostess and allotted a certain number of drinks to start.

The problem is not so much the prices, but rather the fact that it is difficult for a foreign customer to check the prices and see whether or not he has been overcharged.

But, like everything else, after you have been burned once by a place or thoroughly pleased with a night spot, the next time out you will have a pretty good idea of where to go and what to expect.

Although the cost of a hostess in a cabaret may be expensive, it is an experience almost any American male welcomes. Generally, a hostess' duties include keeping your drink fresh, conversing, and dancing with you if you wish. In simple terms—they give the man all the attention he desires.

The experience can be pretty frustrating when the drinks keep coming, you begin feeling better and the tab is climbing steeper and steeper.

The role of the female customer in night-club activities is rather limited because of the hostesses in many of the cabarets, bars and clubs. The male, in most cases, goes to the night spots without his wife or girlfriend. There are, however, specific clubs and restaurants where couples may attend.

Top Convos Series

The 1968-69 freshman convocations series will range from the law court to the basketball court with a little Dogpatch on the side when such personalities as comedian Mort Sahl, defense lawyer Melvin Belli, cartoonist Al Capp and Bonton College basketball manager and former coach Red Auerbach visit Sill.

According to Paul Hilde, coordinator of special programs, the convocations have been scheduled at 1 p.m. on Thursday at the SIU Arena, instead of the usual 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. sessions in Shryock Auditorium. The sessions have been made with the knowledge that Shryock undergoes renovation.

According to Sill, a special New Student Week assembly on Sept. 22, featuring an address by SIU President Delyte Morris, will be his English school. These sessions will appear the following week and the new chancellor of instruction, Robert MacVicar, will speak at the Oct. 3 convocation.

The SIU Celebrity Series attractions have not been announced. Hilde said, but all but two of those events will be staged at the Communications Building theater.

Music department concerts for the year have been re-scheduled from Shryock Auditorium to several other locations, including the Home Economics Building auditorium, the University Center ballrooms, Pulliam Hall gymnasium, the old Baptist Tabernacle chapel and Davis Auditorium in Wamm Education Building.

Civil Defense Supplies
Moved From Center

By Kevin Cole

SIU Civil Defense is extending extra supplies for the work from the University Center to the basement of several areas in the face of impending construction.

SIU Civil Defense coordinator A. Frank Bridges said some 2,800 packs and tons of supplies will be distributed by Sept. 1, among the Technology Building, the Education Building, the Small Group Housing.

Supplies are being forced out of their original space in the Center basement by progress in construction there, Bridges said.

Supplies to accommodate 2,800 packs and two underground stay have been transferred to the Technology Building, 1,400 persons each to Schneider and Mac Smith Towers in Brakeling buildings, and 800 persons divided among the living units of Small Group Housing.

"We have to put the supplies in buildings not needed for something else—classroom or offices," Bridges said. "The process of construction or partitioning in a basement where our supplies are stored is announced, we must move out. The job is slow and tedious.

In moving from the basement of the Center to the basement of the Technology Building, each piece of material must be loaded, unloaded and put in storage. It is a difficult task.

Dinner Scheduled

The Jewish Student Association will hold a lakeside dinner between 6 and 8 p.m. on July 14 at the Jewish Student Center on URB R. There will be unlimited beverages and refreshments.

The lake is the traditional Jewish fund raising panceake which was discovered at the fall of Hitchcock in 1843. Admission is $1 and free transportation will be made available between 4593-7279. Events from 7:30 p.m. to Saturday night, anyone after 9 p.m.

Free School Group

Program to Study Violence

Steve Mitrovitz, summer coordinator of the SIU Free School, has announced a special summer program for that group. Mitrovitz said part of his plans still require University approval, but several "high ranking administrators" have given him tentative permission.

According to his charter, the Free School is an organization funded by the Student Government to utilize the creative energies of the academic community in maintaining a supplementary learning environment best suited to the needs of its students.

The Free School is open to all students, both undergraduates and graduates, and faculty members and non-students as well. According to Mitrovitz, the Free School's tries to "offer an experimental approach to traditional educational patterns."

The Free School at SIU began in the Fall of 1966 through the efforts of students alone. The organization sought to "create close groups of students and teachers who would discuss ideas relevant to their lives in an organized form."

Actually, the group had wanted to draw up his own course outline, work on his own level, and create his own initiative. In the past two years, Free School courses have included Wildlife Seminar Set.

"Some Observations on the Key Deer" will be a graduate seminar sponsored by the Center for Coastal Studies.

Wildlife Seminar Set.

To the Technology Building alone go 560 water drums, each with about 16 gallons of water and each weighing about 130 to 140 pounds; 72 cartons of hard candy weighing 72 pounds; 260 cartons of Graham crackers; 60 sanitary kits and four medical kit.

The water drums, with about an ounce of chlorine added to each to insure purity, are protected by the metal can and a double polyethylene liner. Checked periodically, drums with no moisture between the plastic and the metal will not rust and will hold drinkable water for two years, according to Bridges.

The candy provides needed carbohydrates, and 30-40 crackers a day provide one person one nutritional needs. SIU maintains shelter provisions and space in the following buildings: "Communications Building,' 2,000 space; 'Home Economics Building,' 800; 'Safety Center,' 800; 120 spaces each in Thompson Point's Bailey, Brown, Feltis, Pierce and Seagall Halls; University Park, 1,000; University Park Triad, 3,950; and University School, 800.

'Real' Lincoln Explored

Southern Players Get Raves For 'High Pockets' Opening

By Dean Rebuffoni

The world premiere of a play, when presented on New York’s Broadway, is something attended by dignitaries and stars clothed in finery. The “entire city”—if one were to believe the morning-after newspaper reviews—is excited and in a rave about the new play there on the “Great White Way.”

The whole affair often seems of tinsel, and it often is.

The world premiere of a play, when presented in Carbondale’s Southern Playhouses, is, indeed, a different thing.

And so it was at the opening night performance of "Mr. High Pockets," the prize-winning drama by George Herman: a very different thing. But, if the city of Carbondale and the students of SIU— are not exactly excited or raving about the production, perhaps they should be, for "Mr. High Pockets" is a very exciting and interesting play.

The play, directed by Christian Moe, associate professor of theater, is about Abraham Lincoln—the youth, the man, the president. The production’s three acts go from New Salem to Springfield to Washington; from Lincoln “The Big Buck of this Lick” to Lincoln “The Great Emancipator—and the pending night at Ford’s Theater.

Among the Southern Players’ cast of 22, three individuals have roles far more extensive than the others: David Selby as Lincoln, Richard Bergman as “Dr. Stygian Sticks,” and Paul Bahan as “The Friend.”

All three roles are well-performed, and involve a variety of action ranging from a realistic wrestling match between Abe and Doc Sticks to a moving confrontation between Lincoln and a Negro soldier—a role also performed by Bahan.

Of special note was Bahan’s change into the role of a proud black Union soldier: Bahan, white, asks the audience to think of him as a black man, a simple transition, he says, “if your heart is right.”

The play is one quite meaningful for natives of Illinois. The mention of such places as the Sangamon, Peterburg, Vandalia, and Jacksonville brings the play very “close to home,” and the humor—of which there is a great deal—is somehow typically Illinois: “Mary yet witty.

"Mr. High Pockets" also brings current events and currently-discussed topics into sharper focus: the mention of the Nat Turner Rebellion, the black-white question, the role of the President—they’re all there, and the play never lapses into “just another” historical drama about times past and lost. Perhaps most important of all, the play shows Abraham Lincoln as a man, not a demi-god or saint. He is seen as a man who “lived each day like he might die on the morrow,” a man given to deep gloom. This, as Carl Sandburg has told us, was the real Lincoln—and “Mr. High Pockets” reveals it quite well.

The play will also run tonight and Friday, with curtain call at 8 p.m. It will also be presented in repertory during the Summer Theatre Stock Company’s month-long stay at the Keiso Hollow Theater Under the Stars at New Salem State Park.

Tickets for tonight’s and Friday’s performances are still available at the University Center Information Desk and the Box Office in the Communications Building.

Foreign Students to Be Picnic Guests

Carbondale residents will be host to foreign students at a picnic, 4-7 p.m., July 20.

The seventh annual international picnic will be held at Lake of the Ozarks, where food, brought in by each family, will be served buffet style. Activities planned on the premises are games, sports, and special entertainment, according to Mrs. Paul Morrill, chairman of the hospitality committee at SIU’s International Student Services.

All area residents who want to get acquainted with international students should contact Mrs. Morrill at the International Student Services, 508 S. Wall, or call 453-4317.

BOSTON (AP) - Dr. Benjamin Spock, psychiatrist, was sentenced Wednesday for 2 years in prison and fined $1,000 for anti-draft activities, but showed afterward promised to continue his objections to the Vietnam War.

The 70-year-old pediatrician was convicted with three other men June 14 on charges of counseling and aiding young men to evade the draft.

Two-year prison sentences also were imposed on Yale University law professor Louis J. Slowo, Chicago, Ill., and S. Coffin Jr., 48; author Mitchell Goodwin, 44, of Temple University, and student Michael Ferber, 23, of Brown University. Each was fined $1,000.

U.S. Dist. Judge Francis J. W. Ford said the sentences and conditions and the defense of the appeals to the U.S. Circuit Court.

Addressing a news conference after the sentencing, Spock repeated his contention that the Vietnam War is illegal, an argument that Judge Ford rejected as a defense at the trial.

"I'm still not convinced that I broke any law. There's not a shred of legality in the Vietnam War," the pediatrician said.

"I certainly intend to go on with my activities in the war to try to save appearances across the country," he said.

"Get out there and do something before it's too late. This war could be stopped if millions of Americans stood up and shouted: "Let's stop this war.""

The maximum sentence allowed was five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Before passing sentence, Judge Ford told the courtroom: "Where law and order stop, obviously anarchy begins."

"Almost every week in this court," the 45-year-old judge said in angry tones, "young men are sentenced to three years in prison for evading the draft. It is reasonable to conclude that these defendants were instrumental in inciting some of these men to take this step."

BOSTON (AP) - President John F. Kennedy said Wednesday for ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty. There were signs the Senate will give it final approval.

While Spock was getting a friendly response from Foreign Relations Committee when he declared speedy ratification is needed to deal with "the peril of proliferation," Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., added some men on the Senate will probably take up the treaty before going home this year.

Mansfield thus joined Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, in predicting President Johnson will get his wish - Senate action before adjournment, expected early in August, on the landmark treaty to outlaw the spread of atomic arms.

Swift Senate Approval Seen For Nonproliferation Treaty

Greenhouse Next Best Thing to Florida

By Mary Lou Manning

The rain tape gently on the roof. A cool breeze walks through the open door, spreading an exotic aroma throughout the room. Subdued hues of pink and yellow, orchid and blue, coupled with vibrant oranges and red, green and brown, fill the scene.

Emerging from a small office behind the building, William Marberry is about to begin his duties as Supervisor of the SIU Physical Plant Greenhouses on a rainy Monday morning.

Marberry, also an assistant professor in the Department of Botany, explained that this greenhouse—south of the Life Science Building—is one of many on campus. It is used as a service for the entire University.

"We furnish plans for University functions such as graduation, homecoming and University teas as well as for large functions such as the thompson Point luau," he said.

Plants, such as petunias and geraniums, for the flower beds around campus are grown here. Although the greenhouse doesn't sell plants, it does offer surplus cuttings to the public upon request and even supplies growing instructions.

Three glass rooms and a working area house the plant facilities. Directly behind the front double doors is the "tropical passage room."

Plants grown here require high temperature and humidity. In the summer, cut flowers are hosed here. Many of the 3,000 plants are brought inside during the winter and taken outside during the spring.

Over 300 orchids used for display can be found in the "orchid and palm house," the second room to the right of the tropical room. Temperatures in this area are kept at 80 to 85 degrees. SIU Artist Exhibits 'Three-D Paintings'

An SIU art instructor, Bruce Kurtz, who calls his work "three-dimensional painting" was among a group of seven present and past students of the University of Iowa whose work was exhibited at the Feigen Gallery in Chicago, May 28 through June 29.

The group studied under Hans Breder, University of Iowa sculptor.

Works exhibited by Kurtz are not just as sculpture, but as paintings also because of the importance he places on colors—panels, provocative tones, shiny acrylic surfaces, and pearlescent pigments.

SIU Students to Give Recital

Two SIU music students will give a recital at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 18, in room 148, Home Economics Building.

Brian Barber will play the tuba. He will be assisted by Sharon Marlow as pianist. Barber will play selections from Gioachino Rosetti, Ernest Williams, and R. Vaughn Williams.

Kerry Stimson, assisted by pianist Andrea Shields, will play the trombone. His selections will be from Galliard, Stoepinski, and Harley.

The recital, sponsored by SIU's Department of Music in the School of Fine Arts, is given in partial fulfillment of the requirements of the Bachelor of Music Education degree.

Former English Instructor Spends Vacation in Library

A former SIU English teacher, now administrative assistant to a U.S. senator, is spending part of her vacation in the rare book room doing literary research on her favorite subject.

Mary Pitlick, who taught here in 1957-59, is acting as a research assistant to R.W.B. Lewis, scholar engaged in writing an authorized biography of the American novelist, Edith Wharton.

Dennis E. Glenn, automation librarian in the Morris Library, is attending a summer training institute in automation for libraries being held July 1-Aug. 2 at the University of Missouri's new School of Library and Information Science at Columbia.

The session includes lectures by commanding computer directors, observation of the UMC Medical Center computer which is engaged in pioneer medical projects, and visits to a number of St. Louis libraries as well as the Illinois State Library at Springfield.

The institute is supported by a grant from the U.S. Division of Library Services and Educational Facilities.

Holdings fruitful sources of information for her work, particularly the Walter Berry papers and notebooks. "Many of the letters are still sealed at Yale University," she said.

"SIU has one volume of Berry letters published by the Black Sun Press of Paris which is not even available in the the Library of Congress."

Miss Pitlick, who says she was an Iowa "farm girl," born near Oxford, Iowa, did her undergraduate studies at Marycrest College, Davenport, Iowa. She spent a year doing advertising and copywriting for a Cedar Rapids department store, then completed her master of art degree at Marquette University.

After teaching at SIU for two years, she earned the Ph.D. degree at the University of Wisconsin, writing her dissertation on Edith Wharton. It was while doing dissertation research in the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., that she became fascinated with the capital scene, "the heart beat of the country," she said.

Instead of returning to teaching on completion of her doctorate, she joined the staff of Howard W. Cannon of Nevada as his administrative assistant, a post she has held for the past two and a half years.

Tension Mounts in NFL Camps

(AG) - General Manager Vince Lombardi had to order quarter back Bart Starr and other veterans held out by the champion Green Bay Packers out of the Colts, in one-case tenacious in the threatened strike of National Football League players.

In Dallas, it was reported that members of the Dallas Cowboys have up their own training quarters at Thousand Oaks, Calif., despite an NFL players' policy that camps would be closed to all veterans until the current negotiations are settled.

Art Modell, president of both the Cleveland Browns and the NFL World Series, said that his owners were standing by for possible further negotiations that are being played.

"There are no further negotiations contemplated at the moment," Modell said.

The Players Association is demanding that each of the three majors, $750,000 for the players' pension fund.

The owners have offered a 25-cent increase in the pension paymens this year, 50 per cent in 1969 with the proviso that the financial bill was set in 1970 to be played who end their careers 1968 and 1969.

No Pennant Race in Either League

By Paul Corpores

A look at the major league baseball standings at the all-star break is always painful a those pundits weak enough to have forecast pennant winners in April.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, leading the American League and St. Louis is in front in the National League, are about as surprising, what is a shocker is the absence of anything resemable to a pennant race in the first half of the season.

Chicago is never left the launch pad to the Japanese, Eddie Stanky who has been in in orbit most of the time since the St. Louis, favored to win and has been, is showing that the hardship and championship once again, got subpar performances in six games in St. Louis, Cepeda, Tim McCarver and Don Humphries, who way margin was a commanding 10 games over Cincinnati and 12 over San Francisco.

The only embarrassing to the league and painful to National League owners who have any good box office moral in the post-of-the-Test-World II years because of the pennant fights.

San Francisco, which, still seems to have the best chance to challenge the Cardinals, once again has failed to put all its many talents together.

However, the Giants are not yet dead and are in far better shape than they were from 13 games off the P. I. in August to win the pennant.

If the Tigers and Cardinals stay healthy, there seems no logical reason to not to begin making plans for an all-Midwest pennant, and St. Louis.

The Tigers have hitting stas-

Kail, who had been injured, back in action, and out-

f of the lineup, Harry Hinton and catcher Bill Freehan are doing all that was expected of them. The Tigers are right up there for the best for most valuable player this year -- if the bengals win.

The Cardinals got tremendous pitching in June and July, with Cy Young Award winner Gibson (4-1), after a slow start. Cepeda also began swinging the bat again and the weather warmed.

Mike Shannon is much improved at third base and has provided clutch hits that have enabled the Cardinals to keep up close games. Also important, the Cardinals are playing fielding the road -- including seven straight from the Dodgers and Giants in the first week of July.

The trouble with other NL contemnders is a lack of asence. The Los Angeles Dodgers, who made a bid in June to challenge the Cardinals, have their own poor defense. But they have the World Series pitching staff that brings in the pre-1967 form, despite predictions that they would.

Despite the fact that Pittsburgh and Cincinnati both buzzer longer minutes specials in June and July, St. Louis appears likely to stay in first place.

The Dodgers, the Reds and Pirates are 1-2-3 in the heat, but still lack pitching balance.

Tough, slowing pitching, combining with hit-and-run and single-base hits, makes the playing field baseball before the all-star
Baseball Pitcher's Game?
Long-Ball Sluggers Sacrifice Average

By Barb Leebens

Only two players in the American League are batting over .300, and if these two go for the long mark in the National League.

Is baseball turning into a pitcher's game, or are hitters just getting worse?

"Neither is true," St. Louis Cardinal bat coach Dick Sisler said after a recent series against the Washington Senators. The style of baseball is changing. Batting is an art in Roberto Maris and the all other players were going for the long ball.

"Today, it is the reverse. Most of the players are team players—hitting the ball for a single, a double, or a triple." In the National League, for example, is the leader Matt Alou, who is hitting a hefty .320. How many home runs does he have? None.

Only Boston's Ken Harrelson and Carl Yastrzemski are hitting over the .300 mark in their respective league. The National League's release is batting .307, followed by .302 by Yastrzemski. The second highest total and the number of .300 hitter was two, established in 1905, was tied in 1966 when Frank Robinson of Baltimore captured the title with a .316 average and Minnesota's Tony Oliva was next with a .307.

"I'm not as familiar with the AL," Sisler said, "but the National League is building bigger stadiums and the pitchers are getting a lot better. Look at both Dydaule and Gibson—or even Marishal."

Does this mean that baseball fans can look for fewer home runs in the future? "That's hard to say," Sisler said. "In the majors, a player who goes for the long ball will have a lower average. Look at Minnesota's first baseman Harmon Killebrew. He's only batting around .210 because he swings for the long ball.

"Because of tight pennant races in recent years, a majority of the players have become team players, thus enabling the teams to win on the combination of a couple of singles and doubles, according to Sisler.

"In our league, in parks like Houston, Cincinnati, it's almost silly to go for the home run ball," Sisler said. "When it's 300 or 410 feet before the ball is gone, it's my philosophy that the ball player should hit for all fields—that's what the Cardinals try to do.

Sisler spent eight years as a professional baseball player himself. He played with St. Louis in 1946 and 1947, part of 1952 and all of 1953. He played for Philadelphia from 1948 through 1951 and was in Cincinnati for part of 1952.

AFL Actions Reach Accord

NEW YORK (AP) — American Football League players and owners reached agreement Wednesday on a two-year contract which Players Association President Jack Kemp labeled historic and "a tremendous step forward."

The agreement came while National League players and owners remained at an impasse in their negotiations which have deteriorated into a strike situation.

The AFL contract calls for, among other things, an increase in the pension plan whereby a five-year player at age 35 would receive $650 instead of $500, a 10-year player would receive $1,325 instead of $775 and a 15-year player would get $1,497 instead of $990.

The pact also increases exhibition-game pay from $100 per game for each player to $125 for a two-year-player, $150 for third and fourth-year men and $250 for a player with five or more years in the league. Rookie will continue to get $100.

"We've had an amicable and very progressive agreement," said Kemp, quarterback of the Buffalo Bills. "It's absolutely a tremendous step forward.

"Some of the other plans are for essentially the same thing. In the league, a career, a two-year-player. That's the plan."

The most memorable game of his career was the final day of the 1950 season when his 10th inning homerun enabled the team to beat the Dodgers and clinch the pennant.

Since the National League has won the last 10 out of 12 All-Star games, do you think that the National League is the stronger of the two?

"Yes, I say that is true," Sisler said. "Of course I'm biased, but if you look to see, you can see which league has all the good pitchers and we have 10 players with averages over .300.

"Also all the colored boys seem to pick our league and do the South Americans. We are well-stocked with good players.

"One of the problems that might be bothering the American league is that a lot of the players are younger and inexperienced," Sisler added. A good hitter will be able to hit for any pitcher, in any ball park. The only problem he has to decipher is whether he is to be a long ball hitter or a clutch hitter, according to Sisler.

Women's Softball Team Plays Men

The Women's Recreation Association softball team will square off against a men's team of the Lincoln Park recreation staff in a game at 6 tonight at Lincoln Park.

The WRA team recently lost its first game of the summer 9-0 at the hands of Hearts of Carbondale.

Peggy Deason, a sophomore from Creal Springs, was the losing pitcher, giving up eight hits.

Softball play is open to all girls who report at the field, Wall and Park Streets, at 4:30 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays.
