Foundation to decide divestment policy

By Justus Weathersby Jr. Staff Writer

The SIU Foundation's ninemember executive committee will address the issue of in-vestment in U.S. companies conducting business with the South African government. The foundation's decision to address this issue comes when the climate of anti-apartheid sentiment and divestment of U.S. monies from South Africa has gained momentum as an of national concern among legislators and many university administrations. Stanley McAnally, president of the SIU Foundation, said the committee will draw a resolution regarding divestment Thursday during a closed meeting of the Foundation's executive committee

The Foundation's counsel said, "The foundation is not a public body subject to the open meetings law. It's a private not-for-profit cor-poration," the attorney said.

McAnally said the com-mittee's resolution will be sent to the board of directors and the Foundation's position on investment will be made public in August.

The foundation's portfolio is handled by Centerre Trust company in St. Louis and the Foundation is reported to handle about $4 million in endowments for the Univer-

McAnally said that the Sullivan Principles must also be discussed during the meeting because they are a significant concern within the divestment issue and that many companies have adopted the principles as a way of dealing with the South African government.

The principles comprise six guidelines developed by the Rev. Leon Sullivan in 1977 that are focused on equity, advancement and treatment of non-white South African

"You can't talk about this issue without some discussion of the Sullivan Principles."
McAnally said the divestment issue could be settled by requiring companies conducting business with SIU to follow the principles.

Tom Bush, assistant to President Somit, said the Foundation's board of directors has legal autonomy to make its decision concerning the investment issue. However, the SIU Board of Trustees can influence its decisions, he said Bush said the Board of Trustees can act foundation.

Although President Albert Somit sits on both the Foundation's executive committee and on the Board of Trustees, University officials say that the foundation is separate

Scientists learn how AIDS attacks immune systems

BOSTON (UPI) — Government researchers reported Wednesday they have discovered how the AIDS virus prevents the human immune system from fighting infection and cancer. Experiments at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases conducted on eight people with acquired immune deficiency syndrome indicate the AIDS virus prevents specific cells, called helper-inducer T-cells, from responding to evidence of infection and cancer in body fluids.

Possible replacements of Stockman named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and former Cabinet member Drew Lewis are the leading candidates to succeed budget director David Stockman. White House chief of staff Donald Regan said Wednesday. Baldridge and Lewis, who both carry substantial credentials from the business world, have indicated an interest in the post, administration officials said. Officials said that President Reagan is expected to make his choice before Stockman leaves office Aug. 1 to work on Wall Street.

Soviets deny any 'Star Wars' concessions

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The Soviet Union Wednesday rejected as "incorrect" reports that it might be willing to accept research into a space-based defense program as part of a new arms control agreement with the United States. The Soviet delegation to the 17-week-old superpower arms talks said in a rare public statement that the reports "do not reflect the actual state of affairs in the negotiations." state of affairs in the negotiations

China, Soviets sign $14 billion trade pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union and China, in a sign of warming relations between the communist giants, Wednesday signed a $14 billion trade agreement calling for the doubling of bilateral trade by 1990, the official Tass news agency said. Diplomats said the agreements represented a further step in the slow but continuing improvement of relations between the two communist giants despite persisting disputes on foreign policy issues and ideology.

House protests China birth control methods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Wednesday to allow the president to withhold U.S. funds from a U.N. population control program as a means to pressure China into halting itspolicy of forced abortions and infanticide. "These are not isolated incidents," said Rep. Christopher Smith, R.N.J., who cited reports that 53 million forced abortions had taken place in China between 1979 and 1984.

Sri Lanka lifts 8-month curfew to end violence

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — The government lifted an eight-month curfew on northern Sri Lanka Wednesday and said it would free hundreds of members of the Tamil minority in moves to end separatist violence in the Indian Ocean nation. The announcement by the state-run Sri Lanka Broadcasting Corp. of the end to the curfew in four northern districts was followed by a National Security Ministry statement that 643 Tamil suspects would be released from detention.

New, stronger cigarette warnings approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration Wednesday approved tobacco industry plans to place new health safety warnings on packages of cigarettes and in cigarette advertisements and to change the messages every three months. The manufacturers' plan calls for the first in the set of new warnings to be introduced in October to replace the current message, which reads, "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health." The new set of messages provides more specific information.

Court asked to overturn abortion decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seventy-seven members of Congress are asking the Supreme Court to overturn its 1973 decision legalizing abortion because it wrongly stripped the states of their "power and duty to protect prenatal human life." The high court, in its landmark Roe vs. Wade decision 12 years ago, said women have a constitutional right to an abortion, but that states also have the right to regulate abortions beyond the first three months of pregnancy to protect the health of the mother.

Telephone competition allowed in local market

Telephone company competition was one of developments discussed during a Wednesday lun-cheon sponsored by General Telephone Exchange

Bill Frey, vice president and general manager of General Telephone of Illinois, said that com-petition will be allowed in a given area not only in the long distance market, but in the local market as well.

Illinois is now divided into 19 Market Service Areas for long distance calls.

Communities within each service area are serviced by various phone companies such as GTE or Illinois Bell. which are responsible for all local and long-distance calls within that area. Any calls made outside the area are serviced by a separate long-distance phone company.

Before January 1985, local companies could service long distance calls beyond their assigned boundaries, but now can offer only long distance service within that MSA, said Loren Carter, spokesman for GTE.

SIU POLICY ON SEXUAL HARASSMENT

SIU is committed to creating and maintaining a University community free from all forms of sexual harassment.

Sexual Harassment is defined as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal conduct of a sexual nature when

- 1. submission to, or toleration of, such conduct on or off campus is made (either explicitly or implicitly) a term or condition of instruction, employment, or participation in other University activities;
- submission to, or rejection of, such conduct by an individual is used as a basis for evaluation in making employment or academic decisions affecting the individual;
- 3. such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's academic or employment performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive University environment.

In order to deal promptly and fairly with charges of sexual harassment and to protect the rights and dignity of individuals in the campus community, grievance procedures (informal and formal) for sexual harassment complaints have been established and are available from the University affirmative Action Office.

Problems should be reported promptly to the University Ombudsman, Woody Hall-C302 or the University Affirmative Action Office, Anthony Hall 104.

Opinion & Commentary

Defense merits cut not social security

THE BATTLE OF THE BUDGET is raging in Washington, with Democrats on one side of the field and Republicans on the other. Although the smoke in the fray is thick, the two parties have boldly defended their positions. The Democrats have defended Social Security cost of living adjustments (COLAs); the Republicans have held off attacks on the defense budget.

President Ronald Reagan is pushing for an end to the budget dispute, and taking an active part in its resolution. The Democrats in the House have continued to hold fast to keeping the COLAs and the Senate Republicans have finally admitted the COLAS are the Senate Republicans have finally admitted that the COLAS are untouchable.

But the House has made one slight compromise. House Speaker Tip O'Niell says that an increase in the tax on Social Security benefits received by upper-income recipients—from 50 percent to 85 percent for singles with an income over $25,000 a year and couples earning over $32,000 a year — could be considered, but he is not willing to propose it. Members of the Republican-controlled Senate have also called the increase an interesting idea, but no one is willing to be blamed in the 1986 elections for increasing taxes, so it goes unproposed, for the

While the Democrats have made a slight compromise in their
While the Democrats have made a slight compromise in their while the Democrats have made a signit componines in their stand and have agreed to let Social Security be touched ever so slightly, the Republicans are saying that in response they are giving in slightly to reductions in the defense budget. They have agreed to no real growth for fiscal 1986 in return for the Democrats' relaxing their stance on Social Security.

THE PROBLEM WITH THIS "compromise" is that the defense establishment has enjoyed tremendous increases since 1981. In fact, the real growth of the defense budget in 1981 was 1981. In fact, the real growth of the defense budget in 1981 was 12.7 percent, in 1982 it was 12.2 percent, in 1982 and growth was 7.6 percent. As Americans became less enchanted with high defense budgets, the rate of real growth continued to decline. In 1984 there was a 4 percent growth rate and this year it was increased to 5.9 percent. Now the proposed budget for 1986 is to be increased from $292.6 billion to $302.5 billion — no real growth, that is, only enough to cover inflation.

The problem with the so-called compromise is that since 1981, the defense establishment has received 42.8 percent in real growth while the Social Security system is only asking for enough to cover increases in the cost of living. The defense budget has had continuous increases and now Social Security recipients are being asked to suffer a heavier tax burden to keep the defense budget at its inflated level.

While the Defense Department continues to spend thousands on toilet seats and ash trays, billions on bombers that the Pentagon admits will be obsolete shortly after completion, and more billions on the dream of a space based protective dome over the United States, Social Security recipients are getting a tax in-

If Congress wants to make some true concessions in the budget, it will cut back on defense spending, not just its growth, and will leave Social Security alone.

Cleansing flag in public was not a violation of U.S. Code

The accusations of Mr. Sohn and others (Daily Egyptian, July 3) regarding the public washing of the U.S. flag are in error. The act of washing the flag is not an act of contempt, in fact the flag may be men-ded, dry-cleaned, or washed. A check with legal authorities prior to the flag washing event on June 14 confirmed that the actions to be taken were not in violation of the U.S. Code.

Had Mr. Sohn and company attended the public rally on June 14 they would have witnessed for themselves that the mannner in which the flag was washed was respectful and in no way defaced, injured, or cast contempt upon the flag. Unfortunately, there are people in the world, par-ticularly in Latin America, who do have contempt for our flag and perceive it as a symbol of oppression and domination. It is a sad fact that our present foreign policies our present foreign policies toward Central America are only reinforcing these perceptions.

The symbolic act on June 14 The symbolic act on June 14 was a reminder that our flag should be a symbol to the people of all countries that the United States of America stands for liberty and justice for all.—William Y. Davis and Sallie Schramm, Carbondale.

Lax U.S. policy incites terrorism

CONSIDERED AS a painting, the hostage episode, if hung in the gallery of contemporary politics, would be a miniature. But it is not less a masterpiece for its scale, considering the exquisite delicacy of draftsmanship by the terrorists.

This episode — surely not a "crisis," considering the good feeling all around, once the murder was forgotten — passed smoothly from the cake-and-Pepsi leave takingcake-and-Pepsi leave taking-party in Beirut, on to the Damascus Sheraton. There, tributes to just about everybody (including the terrorists, but not including President Reagan) floated out over flowers that were a genteel touch at the last press conference. This was, we are conference. This was, we are assured, a genteel terrorist episode except, of course, for the matter of the Navy diver. At the press conference, several hostages said it had been a heck of a "learning experience" in which they had learned about our common humanity etc. humanity, etc.

A "senior official" of the U.S. government explained, at U.S. government explained, at the quiet end, that "vengeance" is not our style. Our style had been displayed when a "senior official" said: "We figure that (Israel's Prime Minister) Peres can read our minds...Certainly there are enough people over here of the Jewish faith...who must be telling people over there (in Israel). "For God's sake, look what you're doing to (American) public opinion."

THE U.S. GOVERNMENT'S mind was indeed an open book. Its policy was an evenhan-dedness too scrupulous to notice distinctions (as between America's enemies and allies; America's enemies and allies; between kidnapping and military detentions): Everyone would release everyone held 'illegally.' U.S. policy proclaimed the sym-metry, the proportionality, the equivalence of terrorists kidnapping Americans and Israel's withdrawal from Lebanon into Israel's northern settlements.

The terrorists were dealing from a stacked deck the Reagan administration had helped stack. A crucial card in their hand was dealt many weeks before the episode began. It was dealt by the State Department declaration State Department declaration that Israel's detention of those people violates the Geneva Convention. Assume for a moment that the State Department's opinion — gratuitous, mean-spirited and probably wrong — is right. All it involves is a technical offense: Israel's detention of the Shiites would have been Shiites would have been "legal" if Israel had detained them a few miles north of, rather than south of, the Lebanese border.

THE TERRORISTS' goals almost certainly included more than the already promised release of the detainees. The goals, now achieved, probably included demonstrating the emptiness of U.S. rhetoric about terrorism (retaliation, and all that), and driving a wedge between the United States and its only ally in the Middle East. The terrorists also achieved The terrorists also achieved this bonus: The President praised the anti-terrorism of the Syrian regime that was responsible, with one truck bomb, for the bloodiest day the Marine Corps has suffered brutalized and mur dered Navy man was not buried before the hostages' captors had found among the hostages an energetic collaborator, Allyn Conwell An oil man who makes his energetic An oil man who makes his living selling things in the Middle East, he was not content with serving as a megaphone for the terrorists and a tutor to the world on the fire prints of Jersell's failing. ine points of Israel's failing under international law. When the President demanded the release of the seven Americans who were taken as hostages long before Conwell was, Conwell criticized showing inconvenient concern for too many Americans.

Things came out Conwell's way: The other seven are still hostages. The U.S. government had used the word "insist" in demanding the release of the seven but, then, it had said it would not ask Israel to cave in to terrorists and then -- see paragraph two, above --incited American Jews to do just that.

The administration denies that it pledged not to retaliate. It says it will now build on the heightened public concern about terrorism. But the President, sitting in the Oval Office, sanitized the Syrian regime, which his administration says practices state-sponsored terrorism of the sort that blew U.S. forces into retreat from Lebanon.

There is no reason to think

There is no reason to think that that regime will abandon that that regime will abandon such a successful and risk-free tactic. There is every reason to think that the President's praise for Syria, a Soviet client, has immunized it against any retaliation for the terrorism sequels it probably will help sponsor.

This time, as every time, U.S. policy regarding retaliation is: "Next time..." This policy is diplomatic Tupperware, cheap and durable and reusable. It has to be, because it is used in all terrorism episodes it incites.

Protests over new Coke spur 'old formula' rebirth

ATLANTA (UP1) — Staggered by a grass-roots protest to its move to change the taste of Coke, Coca-Cola Co. announced Wednesday it will bring back the "old Coke" within the next few weeks — renamed "Coca-Cola Classic." The old flavor of Coke will complement the new-formula Coke introduced in April, said company spokesman Thomas Gray.

Company officials said Coca-Cola Classic will be available in some markets within several weeks.

A news conference was scheduled for Thursday in Atlanta to reveal further details, Gray said.

"Everyone wins." Gray said. "Thousands of dedicated Coca-Cola consumers have told us they still want the original taste as an option. We have listened and we are taking action to satisfy their taking action to satisfy their request."

Company officials have said in recent weeks they have been inundated with compliments and complaints about the taste

"The reaction has been mixed," said Ron Coleman, a company spokesman.

Although taste tests by the Although taste tests by the company indicated a majority of people prefer the new taste of Coke, a vocal legion of longtime Coke drinkers have created a national stir about the formula change, the first in the 99-year history of the soft drink drink.

In Seattle, one man filed suit to make Coca-Cola provide the old Coke to consumers. The case was thrown out of court.

In other parts of the nation, people have stockpiled the old Coke from various sources to prepare for when the supply

Jesse Meyers, an industry expert and publisher of the said the decision to reintroduce "old Coke" was "absolutely" the result of the reaction.

"I think it's two things," Meyers said. "One, the market is getting incredibly diver-sified. Coke sees this an an opportunity to add another segment.

"Secondly, the diehard, very vocal Coca-Cola drinker wants

Coke continues to be the top soft drink in the United States but has seen its market share chipped away by its chief rival, Pepsi, in the $23-billiona-year industry. According to latest figures in Beverage Digest, Coke holds a 21.7 market share to 18.8 for Pepsi.

Coca-Cola officials said the company researchers stum-bled on the new taste of Coke while they worked on a for-mula for Diet Coke in 1980.

SIU-C the place to study, West African student says

Akrima Kogoe could have

Akrima Kogoe could have gone anywhere in the United States on his Fullbright Scholarship, but he chose to complete his research on secondary education at SIU-C. Kogoe, the deputy director for secondary education in the West African nation of Togo, chose to do his research in Carbondale because he has many friends here from his declarate in education studies. doctorate in education studies from 1980 to 1982.

Kogoe refutes the image of SIU-C as a party school, saying that "If you want to study, go to Carbondale."

HE BELIEVES that because Carbondale is a small town, a student isn't faced with the distractions of a big city, such as Chicago or New York City, which Kogoe says are too "hectic and confusing."

Kogoe cites the facilities and the faculty as being "outstanding," but finds that the cost of education in the United States is prohibitive for many foreign students.

"I like the fact that the human element is stressed more here than it is elsewhere, especially in the treatment of the workers," he said. In some countries, such as France or other western European nations, the emphasis is placed more on the system of em-ployment than on the employees, he said.

KOGOE HOPES to in-corporate some of the elements of this country's educational administrative system into Togo's education system when he returns to West Africa in August.

While insisting that he came to the United States "to do a job," Kogoe has had time to enjoy a few facets of American life here in Carbondale.

"I enjoy meeting the many different kinds of people here. Carbondale has a good mix-ture of American and foreign students, giving it a nice feel as an international universpectrum of music offered by WSIU radio, especially the WSIU radio, especially the chamber music, but he listens to "American blues and country when I can."

I LIKE the weather in this part of the country. It is not too hot or too cold." It should be noted that Kogoe has not spent a winter in Carbondale since 1982, and has not had to endure a few winters that he heard were "rather severe." "I do find tornados disturbing. There are no tornados in Togo." he said. He does have a few gripes about some aspects of American life.

American life.
"I find many of the meals in this country disturbing, like putting marmalade on steak. People in this country are always covering their meat with some kind of sauce."
Kogoe finds fault with American television, but in a way already familiar with this country's viewers, preferring country's viewers, preferring public television to the major networks.

"The TV networks play too much soap, shows such as 'Dallas' and 'Dynasty," he KOGEO SAID he would like States more than he has been able to, as his stay in this country is business oriented and hasn't allowed him a and nash t allowed nim a chance to see much of the country. Kogoe hopes to visit the United States again "in a couple of years, and do some traveling out West."

Togo, one of Africa's smallest countries, is located on the continent's western coast east of Ghana. Its apcoast east of Ghana. Its approximately 2.5 million residents are largely engaged in farming, but the country does have a large phosphate industry, exporting the product mainly to Europe and Japan.

Farmer says store-bought tomatoes a gas

By Martin Folan

Fresh vegetables, hand-made crafts, flowers, honey and fresh bakery goods await those who visit the Farmer's Market at the West Town Mall

Market at the West Town Mall every Saturday morning from May to November.

Area farmers pick their finest produce just hours before selling it to preserve purity of taste and to assure that it's the freshest buy in

Tomatoes, squash, beans, cabbage are among the wide variety of vegetables sold at the 30 stands at the market. "What we offer is better than what's at the stores. So if you pay the same price here as you do at the stores, you're getting a better deal," says Patrick Sweeney, Farmer's Market representative

A major difference between store-bought and farm-fresh produce is how it's cared for, Sweeney says.

"We don't use sprays, chemicals or fertilizers on any of our produce," he says. Ted Buila, president of the Farmer's Market, says the tomatoes sold at supermarkets lose their freshness during the shipping and handling process. "We've strengthened the quality of our produce. I'm from California, and I wouldn't eat the tomatoes we sell out Farmer's Market customer Jeff Dale says of store-bought vegetables, "You just don't know what's been sprayed on those vegetables, what's touched 'em, or how they've been shipped.

"Here, at least you have a chance to talk to the farmers chance to talk to the farmers who grew 'em, what they did to 'em, and you can learn for yourself how to grow vegetables."

Of the market's social at-mosphere, Sweeney says."People see friends here they don't get to see during the week." he said. Bob Morrison, another market customer, says, "I came out here to buy and socialize. I live in town and I have hardly anything to grow, so I buy it all here."

The market will be hit by an onslaught of tomatoes Saturday when Farmer's Market holds its tomato

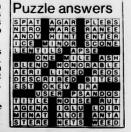

"We try to do a few events every year," Sweeney said.
"We held a tomato-peach festival last year. But we don't have any peaches this year, they froze out."

Entertainment and festive events will help promote the sale of hundreds of tomatoes and ears of sweet corn, Sweeney said.

Highlights of the festival will include cake walks, tomato trivia and tomato recipes. The tomato festival will be held from 8 a.m. to noon.

that arrive two or more hours before game time. Many families enjoy coming out to watch batting practice, and this would be an excellent incentive to encourage families to attend games.

IT IS awfully difficult for the head of a family to pay $5 to sit in a wooden seat and watch a bunch of millionaires play ball, ounce of minionaires piay sail, especially when that person has several mouths to feed. Baseball has to do something to stop this or it will lose support from its most loyal Until then, they should scrap the "Baseball — A Family Tradition" slogan. It's an insult to the common fan.

Du Quoin race set

Over 100 of the top professional motorcyclists will be competing in the Stroh Du Quoin Mile National on July 27 at the Du Quoin State

Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.
The race will be broadcast live by ABC's Wide World of Sports at 3:00 p.m.
It is the first time ever that an American Motorcyclists
Association Camel Pro Series race will be shown in its entirety.

The main contenders competing for an event-record purse of over $50,000 are Bubba Shobert, who is undefeated in three-mile track events on the Camel

Pro Series this year; four-Pro Series this year; four-time Du Quoin winner Hank Scott; Doug Chandler, the points leader in the Camel Pro Series; and Ricky Graham, last year's Grand National Champion.

Scott has won the last two Du Quoin races and four of the last seven dating back to 1978

Tickets are $15 reserved main grandstand seats and $12.50 for general seats and $12.50 for general admission tickets. The ticket office at the fairgrounds is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday

"We're trying to make Southern Illinois aware of our services and we're asking for their help." Isberner said of the golf benefit which has drawn support from local businesses for prizes and refreshments.

For a $50 tax deductible donation to SNAPP, golfers may select their own six-person team or may register individually to complete teams of less than six. The donation includes a greens fee, two carts per team, food, beer and soda on the course. There will be awards for the top four teams, longest drive prizes for teams, longest drive prizes for men and women, and closest-to-the-pin prizes for men and women. And there will be two chances to win a new car for any golfer who can perform the most highly desired but rarest shot in golf — a hole-in-

We're altempting to reduce the stress of being a young parent that could result in child abuse and neglect," Isberner said.
Since the SIU-C Health Service does not provide prenatal care, the adolescent health center can provide this as a source of help for students who are faced with a pregnancy. If money is also a problem, there is a fee, but it's on a sliding scale, Isberner

"We feel people need to take responsibility for their health care, but at the same time, no one would go without health care because they can't pay,

Located in the Schwartz Located in the Schwartz Building at 231 West Main St. in Carbondale, the adolescent health center is like a doctor's office in that it provides physicals, pregnancy tests and other medical functions. But Isberner said the center tries to be even more.

Anyone could call and talk to a nurse anonymously and have their concerns responded to if they have questions. Kids call about pimples, venereal disease or ask, 'Can I get pregnant if I do this?'. That's the availability we offer to the teenager and young adult. Isberner said.

Baseball slogan insen

Major League Baseball, in its infinite wisdom, has changed the game's official slogan to "Baseball — A slogan to "Bas Family Tradition.

Baseball's old slogan,
"Baseball Fever — Catch It," was apparently viewed as being dangerous because it being dangerous because it prompted some fans to commit unruly acts at major league games, thus spoiling the enjoyment for other fans attending the game.

The word "fever" was too closely associated with "hysteria" and Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth reportedly asked that it be changed. Baseball was gaining a bad image from incidents such as the mass riots that took place in the streets of Detroit last October when the Tigers won their first when the Tigers won their first world championship in 16 years and Ueberroth believes the game needs to rid itself of such an image.

WHETHER "BASEBALL Fever — Catch It," poses a danger to the game is debatable. But what is certain is that the slogan "Baseball — A Family Tradition" is misleading and insensitive to many of the game's fans. The slogan is unjustified because baseball uses it in television commercials which encourage the average the average.

television commercials which encourage the average American family to attend major league games. However, if one becomes familiar with the cost of bringing a family of six or so to a game, it becomes evident that this is unfeasible, if not impossible, for the head of a household to do.

Ticket prices at major league parks have risen consistently along with the sky-high salaries players now earn. For example, at Wrigley Field in Chicago, the cost for a reserved seat ticket is $5 for adults and $3.50 for children 13 and under. The price has doubled in the past 10 years and the cost at Wrigley Field is similar to those at the other 25 major league parks.

OF COURSE, you must fork out at least $3 for parking before you even enter the stadium. Once inside, the fan is confronted with outrageous prices on concessions and souvenirs. A hot dog costs $1.50 and a soft drink costs $1.25. A and a soft drink costs $1.25. A 12-ounce beer costs $2. A pennant carries a $5 price tag and a souvenir helmet costs $8.

Because of this, the total cost for attending a game builds up in a hurry if a person is buying for several people. The head of a household could pay $50 or more to attend a game, and this is often one-quarter of the family's weekly income.

WITH PRICES like these, only parents with six-figure incomes could bring their family to a game very often without sustaining a serious financial loss. This leaves many of the game's grassroot fans — the blue-collar workers who are the backbone of the who are the backbone of the country—out in the dark. If another strike takes place, many of these so-called fans with lucrative incomes, people who often attend games because it is the trendy thing to do, will turn their backs on the game because they betrayed.

That will leave only the grassroots fans, the people who stick with their clubs through good and bad times. However, if these fans can't attend a game because it's too expensive, baseball may be looking at some pretty sparse crowds when it resumes play after a strike.

A SENSIBLE thing to do would be to adopt a policy similar to the $5-a-car-load deal offered by many drive-in
