Presidents' fiscal '87 raises approved; equal to faculty

By Catherine Edman
Staff Writer

The SIU-C and SIU-E presidents will receive a fiscal year 1987 salary increase equal to the raises that will be given to faculty and staff, says Chancellor Lawrence Pettit.

Salary raises for the presidents were approved at the Board of Trustees meeting Thursday at the School of Dental Medicine in Alton.

The presidents' salary increases, which will be a percentage of their last year's salary, were not specified at the meeting because state appropriations to the University have not been approved.

In fiscal 1986 President Albert Somit received a salary of $83,928 and SIU-E President Earl Lazerson received $78,012.

Gov. Thompson's suggested budget would provide for a 6.5-percent salary increase for faculty and staff. However, the final state appropriations will decide what increases the presidents, faculty and staff will receive, Pettit said.

There will probably be more cuts in the budget than expected, said Carol Kimmel, board secretary, but the trustees still expect to maintain the 6.5 percent increase.

Pettit said another 1 percent could be cut from the budget before the salary increases also suffer a cut.

The board also approved a measure to replace roofing and add attic insulation to the 39 buildings at Evergreen Terrace.

Student housing fees from the repair and replacement reserve will fund the estimated $150,000 project, which will be phased over several years.

In other business, the board approved guidelines for the development of fiscal 1988 budget requests, or Resource Allocation and Management Program.

The RAMP documents will be submitted for approval at the September board meeting before they are submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education Oct. 1.

Included in the RAMP information supplied at Thursday's meeting was the anticipated operation and capital projects budgets.

According to the board information, SIU will seek to receive an operation budget of $230.1 million systemwide for fiscal 1988. Of the total, SIU-C is slated for $162.7 million, SIU-E would receive $64.9 million and the system office would get $2.4 million.

The preliminary capital budget request for the system is $76.3 million. The SIU-C total, which includes the School of Medicine budget, is $66.9 million. Capital budget requests for SIU-E are listed as $9.4 million.

U.S. offers weapon details; asks Moscow to do same

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States made public Thursday previously classified details on its arsenal of chemical weapons and challenged Moscow to be equally "open and candid."

Washington said its aim in giving the information to the 40-nation disarmament conference in Geneva was to accelerate negotiation of a global ban on chemical arms.

U.S. delegate Thomas Barthelmy, releasing a 53-page Army document on chemical weapon stockpiles, said the United States would rather have such a treaty than go ahead with its modernization program, which calls for the destruction of existing weapons and their replacement by a smaller stockpile of safer modern arms.

In considerable detail, the Army document described specific chemical agents and their storage sites, as well as how and where they will be destroyed.

"It is the hope of my delegation that this disclosure will encourage others, who have thus far manifested reluctance to accept prompt disclosure of stockpile locations, to show flexibility on this issue," Barthelmy said.

"Agreement on a chemical weapons ban would be facilitated by confidence that the parties will comply with its provisions, and it would help build that confidence if the nation with the world's largest stockpile of chemical weapons, the Soviet Union, would be open and candid about possessing chemical weapons stockpiles," he said.

Unlike other countries, he said, the United States has not produced chemical arms for the past 17 years and must destroy its obsolete stockpiles and "move to a smaller, safer CW (chemical weapons) deterrent."

"We would prefer, of course, to use this (disposal) plan as the basis for the complete elimination of all U.S. chemical weapons, in conformance with a comprehensive ban negotiated at this conference," Barthelmy said.

A chemical weapons ban has been under discussion for eight years. Agreement on a treaty has been blocked by the problem of verifying the destruction of existing stockpiles and production facilities, and preventing any future manufacture.

Moscow concedes it has chemical weapons but has never given specific details on type or location.

At the same time, it charges that a treaty would be almost impossible because the U.S. modernization plan involves so-called "binary" weapons — two chemicals which are safe alone but lethal when combined.

It described the stockpiled weapons as falling into three basic categories — nerve agent VX, nerve agent Sarin (GB) and mustard agents H, HD and HT.

The exact number of weapons was not disclosed.

Edgar Barans, graduate student in cinematography, waited under a canopy of the Communications Building for the rainfall to stop that took Carbondale by surprise Thursday about 3 p.m. Showers are likely again Friday as the hot weather continues.

Moisture coming from Gulf cause of recent downpours

It's that time of year, says WPSD TV meteorologist Cal Sisto, when moisture comes up from the Gulf of Mexico. When that happens, the slightest atmospheric disturbance can cause storms.

Storms are what hit Carbondale Thursday afternoon, with 0.87 inches of rain falling in about an hour.

A spokesman for the Southeast Sewage Plant said 2.78 inches of rain, which includes Thursday's downpour, has fallen on the city since July 1.

Sisto said a cold front, which sagged over the Southern Illinois area to cause the storm, has moved north.

"The chance for rain is going down, but a low-pressure trough from the west may cause series of upper air disturbances over the next two or three days," he said.

During the heat wave this week, most Southern Illinois areas had temperatures in the middle-to-upper 90s and overnight lows in the 70s.

Sisto said the area can expect a drying-out period next week, "but it's a little early to say for sure."

Dixon, Simon announce low-tech campaign

CHICAGO (UPI) — Illinois' senators Thursday announced they will sponsor a campaign to generate what they called "low-tech" jobs in the state in the next two years.

Democrats Alan Dixon and Paul Simon said they want to compliment Illinois' existing economic development efforts by focusing on small to mid-sized companies that make products used in everyday life. The campaign will be called "Low Tech-High Return — Betting on the Basics." The aim is to preserve, expand and generate low-tech manufacturing companies with 25 to 500 employees and sales of $500,000 to $20 million.

"Rumors of the demise of basic manufacturing in the United States are greatly exaggerated," Dixon said. "There will always be a demand for the basic products that make America go and Illinois is probably in a better position than any other state to take advantage of that demand."

The starting point of the campaign will be a Sept. 22 conference in Chicago that will bring together basic manufacturing entrepreneurs, lenders, labor leaders, government officials and others. A primary goal will be to develop an immediate low-tech strategy for Illinois and other heavily industrialized states, the senators said.

"This country has suffered a tremendous loss of industrial jobs in recent years, but that doesn't mean we should throw up our hands and abandon the basic manufacturing sector that is the backbone of our economy," Dixon said. "High-tech is crucial to our economic future, but we shouldn't get so carried away with its razzle-dazzle that we forget our manufacturing roots."

Reagan defends tax bill, puts challenge to Congress

DOTHAN, Ala. (UPI) — President Reagan went to Main Street America Thursday to defend "the people's interest against the special interests" and challenged Congress to "stick to the Senate tax reform bill or be ready to 'do a lot of explaining.'" Ending a campaign-style speech to the Dothan Chamber of Commerce, Reagan held an ax aloft, calling it "our original tax ax" to a chorus of cheers. "I've been sharpening this thing. Now let's get right back to Washington and put it to use," he said.

Federal Reserve Board lowers discount rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board lowered its discount rate from 6.5 percent to 6 percent Thursday, slashing the rate the nation's central bank charges commercial banks for funds to the lowest level in more than eight years. The move, which becomes effective with the start of business Friday, was timed to follow the close of stock market trading in New York to minimize disruption to the market. The last time the rate was lower than 6 percent was October 1977 when it was 5.75 percent.

Manion opponents say 'judges are not pork'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A liberal watchdog group called Thursday for a second Senate vote on the judicial nomination of Daniel Manion and said it should be free of the tradeoffs usually made for pork barrel projects because "judges are not pork." John Buchanan, chairman of People for the American Way, said Americans deserve a "clean vote" on Manion, a conservative South Bend, Ind., lawyer who President Reagan has nominated to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Democrats have challenged Manion as unqualified for the seat. "Judges are not pork," said John Buchanan.

U.S.-Cuban talks to revive treaty break off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. and Cuban talks to reinstate an immigration treaty broke off without agreement in Mexico City, a State Department spokesman said Thursday. According to a U.S. spokesman, the talks broke down over the Cuban government's insistence on linking the immigration issue to a proposal for new broadcasting arrangements between the two countries. The State Department said, "The Cubans insisted on proposals that would have required major and disruptive changes in the organization of radio broadcasting in the United States."

'National day of action' set as bomb explodes

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa's largest labor coalition Thursday scheduled strikes and work slowdown to protest the government's refusal to release jailed union leaders as a bomb exploded outside the Johannesburg Stock Exchange. No one was injured. The Congress of South African Trade Unions, an umbrella group comprising 33 mostly black unions with a total of 650,000 members, set Monday as a "national day of action" after the government ignored its Thursday deadline to release union leaders and organizers detained under the June 12 state of emergency.

Summit is 'clearly' wanted, Mitterand says

MOSCOW (UPI) — French President Francois Mitterand left the Soviet Union Thursday after three days of talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev that convinced him both superpowers want a summit this year. "The summit is something both sides clearly want," Mitterand told a jammed news conference in Moscow before returning to France, where he was met at Roissy airport near Paris by Prime Minister Jacques Chirac.

Lawyer says Providence Diocese erred

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The Providence Diocese erred when it excommunicated the state director of Planned Parenthood for supporting abortion, a leading Roman Catholic lawyer said Thursday. The Rev. James Coriden, dean of the Washington Theological Union in Baltimore and a member of the board of governors of the Canon Law Society of America, said his legal opinion is supported by a majority of canon law experts in the country.

One siamese twin dies shortly after operation

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A siamese twin separated from her sister in a lengthy operation died Thursday of extensive bleeding. Kellie Lynne Peterman died at 6:06 a.m. at Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital with her parents at her side. Doctors were unable to stop Kellie's hemorrhaging that resulted from the operation. Her sister, Kimberly, now 3 months old, remained in critical but stable condition.

Engineering camps set

By Tim Hall
Student Writer

Forty-five high school students will be getting a look at engineering at an SIU-C summer camp.

The College of Engineering and Technology is sponsoring the program, which is tailored for females and minorities.

This is the second year of the program for minorities and the sixth year for the women's workshop, said Teresa Trusell, director of minority recruitment in engineering at SIU. The programs have become so popular, an extra week-long session has been added for minority students, she said.

The camp exposes the students to engineering prep as well as engineering courses, she said.

Women's Introduction to Engineering will run from Sunday through July 19 and introductory session for minority students are scheduled from July 20-26 and July 27 through Aug. 1.

The students are sophomores or juniors in high school.

One day is set aside for a field trip to Alton and St. Louis. The students visit Lock and Dam No. 26 in Alton, which has been under construction.

2 researchers get $10,000 grant to study life of bluehead shiners

By Nancy A. Garner
Student Writer

Roy Heidinger, director of the Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratories, and Brooks Burr, associate professor of zoology, have received a $10,000 grant from the Illinois Department of Conservation for their research project with an endangered fish species.

The project entitled "Endangered Species Recovery Plan for the Bluehead Shiner in Illinois" was started in May. The grant money will last one year is expected to be replenished if the study is not yet completed, said Heidinger.

The project concentrates on gathering biological information for the management of endangered species and includes techniques for continued survival of some of Illinois' most unusual fishes.

The project includes securing bluehead shiners, which are near extinction, spawning them and studying their breeding behavior as an option for restocking the fish in Illinois, Heidinger said.

If the study is successful, a new grant will be applied for to switch studies to another species, he said.

Other projects Heidinger is working on include the introduction of sport species of fish into power-cooling reservoirs and spawning walleye and large-mouth bass.

Music Festival participants to stage final camp concert

The Southern Illinois Music Festival will present a concert Saturday, which will include a "Great Pianists" program.

The event will close the annual festival, which has been in progress for three weeks. During the festival, junior and senior high school students from Southern Illinois were instructed by music faculty and other music professionals. The campers took part in orchestra ensembles, jazz orientation, solo instruction on their instruments and choir singing.

At 10 a.m. in Shryock

Auditorium, a "Great Pianists" program, under the direction of Donald Beatty, associate professor of music, will be presented. Four pianos and a harpsichord will be played at the event.

At 1 p.m. also in Shryock, a concert featuring all camp participants will be presented. An all-women-ensemble and the all-camp choir will be under the direction of John Mochnick, associate professor of music. Michael D. Hanes, associate professor of music, will conduct the band.

The concerts are free and open to the public.

High Court steps into the bedroom

ALMOST 100 YEARS AGO, TWO Boston lawyers, Louis Brandeis and Samuel Warren, were the first to urge recognition of the legal right to privacy. They wrote that "...now the right to life has come to mean the right to enjoy life — the right to be let alone."

Since 1890, privacy has become a fundamental right in this country. Until last week.

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld a Georgia sodomy law in a sharply disputed 5-4 vote, ruling that consenting adults have no constitutional right to private homosexual conduct.

THE GEORGIA LAW IS SIMILAR to those existing in about half the states. It defines sodomy as "any sexual act involving the sex organs of one person and the mouth or anus of another." The law makes it a felony to engage in sodomy, punishable by a maximum of 20 years in prison.

The law also makes heterosexual sodomy a crime, even when performed by a married couple. Illinois has no such law.

The decision has infuriated gay-rights groups, who fear the Supreme Court's ruling will encourage states to take action against homosexual activity by passing similar laws. Gays fear an all-out witch hunt against them, including the denial of such rights as employment, housing or custody.

THE SODOMY RULING SEEMS to go against the court's trend on privacy laws, considering the court's previous rulings that decisions to marry, have children, practice birth control or have an abortion are fundamental privacy rights. The difference may be because the previous rulings have pertained to family situations.

But more importantly, the court's decision was about power and who should wield it. The court majority in the case did not condemn sodomy, it just ruled that it was a subject best left to state legislatures. While this may seem insignificant, the distinction is important because it reflects the continuing debate over judicial restraint.

THE PRACTICAL RESULT OF THE ruling is that homosexuals, a minority group, will now have to fight their battles in the legislature where majorities rule.

Burt Neuborne, the legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union, argues that it is the duty of the courts to protect minorities from the majority's will.

As a practical matter, sodomy laws are almost completely unenforceable. But privacy is an important part of an individual's life. The courts and the legislatures have no business dictating what goes on behind closed doors between consenting adults, and to think that the Supreme Court of the United States would say that this kind of intrusion by the government is constitutional is alarming.

SIU administration responsible for rise of collective bargaining

Perhaps some DE readers saw the article on new Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit in the Sunday, July 6 St. Louis Post-Dispatch. As one who doubts that we need a chancellor, but who has no personal animosity toward Dr. Pettit, I hope that he can be more effective than his predecessor in "raising the profile" of SIU. He might start by looking into the SIU charter, which I have been told does not authorize SIU to be a research institution at all, so that we face an uphill battle to achieve research recognition alongside U of I.

I think Pettit is way off the mark when he expresses fear that collective bargaining may "destroy the notion of collegiality and shared governance" and "remove faculty from management authority and management responsibility." Perhaps he does not yet know the extent to which faculty have been separated from these desirable attributes already.

At the departmental level, at least in my experience, faculty meet periodically with their chair, who is also one of them, and tackle issues and problems in a democratic way. But beyond the department level, it is very different. In my college (Liberal Arts), chair meetings with the dean are essentially for the purpose of transmission of orders from on high to the ranks. In six years that I have witnessed the process, I cannot recall more than two or three votes or even meaningful consultations which chairs shared in.

Deans can and do routinely overturn departmental programmatic and personnel recommendations, even unanimous ones. This happened to the Anthropology Department on at least three occasions in the past year. Chairs have no say in their pay raises other than to submit their own accounts of their accomplishments. In case of a disagreement, the only recourse is to go to a grievance as I am now forced to do in order to try to get out in the open how raises are determined, how much is available, and how one ranks among peers. Of course the grievance process does not inspire confidence. Except for the Judicial Review Board, the process is run through the higher administration, against whom the grievance is usually directed.

The same autocratic behavior applies at higher level. In recent years, we have seen a vice president (John Guyon) arbitrarily gut the Learning Resource Services budget, with a very negative effect on audiovisual use on campus, especially of films, and a dropping of film charges on departments, which already are finding their operating budgets insufficient for their needs. (By the way, chairs also have no say in assigning department budgets — this is another closed process in the hands of the deans.) The same vice president arbitrarily changed the status of the University Museum from that of a multi-purpose one to a fine arts museum by having it report to the Dean of Communications and Fine Arts and at the same time taking away one of their main exhibit halls. Some years ago, a decision was made at some level to stuff our schedule books with advertising, another "money-saving move," which was after-the-fact approved by the Faculty Senate only when I went to them to protest the action. I lost that one, but the fact that was decided first without consultation is the point at issue here.

The administration from the chancellor on down is opposed to collective bargaining. But they are also the main reason why it will probably arrive at SIU. Faculty will see collective bargaining as the only way they can regain some control of their collegial and decision-making powers. — M. Lionel Bender, professor, Anthropology.

Quality satire hard to find

Hooray! I am grateful to Ms. Robinson for her timely letter that expressed what was for me, the obvious hilarity of Mr. Hartley's letter and the knee jerk reactionary nature of a good many lost-in-space SIU students.

(and seemingly never ending — yawn!) abortion debate is readily apparent, i.e., infinite regression and infantile emotionalism.

Keep up the good work Mr. Hartley. Quality satire is hard to come by these days. — Paul L. Logeman, alumnus, Murphysboro.

Applause for Bill Hartley

Hello? Hello? Is anybody out there? Bill Hartley, on behalf of everybody that has a real sense of humor on this campus, we thought your letter was very funny and clever. Just because there are some half-brain, dried-up p-o-liflers around, don't get discouraged. Those of us who are not from Betelgeuse 5, and do understand sarcasm will take your letter in the vein it was intended. Take heart, Bill! Sexual morality laws waste of time

I am appalled by the new laws prohibiting various sex acts. I can see no reason for these laws, since I thought everyone knew that the missionary position is the only moral way to engage in sex. If these laws are intended to save souls from an eternity in hell, I suppose I can understand why they were created, but not entirely.

immoral sex acts would have any bearing on whether someone's soul goes to heaven, since we are all predestined to rot in hell because of the sickening, wicked circumstances of birth. Males have, in effect, engaged in sex with their mothers during birth because the male's whole body passes through the mother's vagina. I realize this is a hideous fact, but it is even worse for females. Not only do females pass through the mother's vagina, and thus, like males, engage in a form of incest, but they also engage in a lesbian act.

I think laws governing sexual morality are a waste of time, because everyone has sinned so much during birth that other acts are petty in comparison. — Steve Davis, senior, English.

The Rev. Davis saluted for 40 years of public service

On the third Sunday in July, July 20, 1986, the Reverend Raymond Albert Davis will be celebrating his 40th year as pastor of the Paul's Chapel Baptist Church in Marion, Ill. For 38 of those years Davis was also pastoring the Mt. Olive Baptist Church in Colp.

He has been married to the former Arnita Helen Parran since June 1, 1940. Davis has one son, Raymond Eugene Davis of Colp.

In the 40 years Davis has been in our community, he has overseen the building of three churches. Two in Colp after being destroyed by fires, and the facility located at 900 S. Monroe St. in Marion which was built with the combined efforts of churches and spirit-filled people from Colp, Marion, Carterville, Herrin, Carbondale, the Bank of Herrin and the Rev. Soder of the Methodist Church in Herrin.

Davis has shared his love for mankind and concern for man's well being with everyone he has met. He is a true follower of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

In his 40 years of pastoring, he has baptized over 1,000 people, married over 400 couples and dedicated approximately 200 babies.

The children and children's children of some of his first converts attend Paul's Chapel. He was president of the State Sunday School Convention, president of the Mt. Olive District S.S. Convention, president of the Mt. Olive District BYPU Convention, chairman of District Mission Board, chairman of District Education Board, administrative secretary of Association. For 12 very progressive and productive years, Davis served as moderator for the Mt. Olive District Association, which is composed of 27 churches in 13 counties. He served as the moderator for East Mt. Olive District Association for three years. The Holy Spirit has certainly touched this man.

During the 1950s and 1960s, Davis was chairman of the Colp Development Committee, which broke down the barriers of job discrimination, and the On Committee, which was responsible for integrating schools in Herrin and Carterville. His cool head stopped possible racial bloodshed in the 1950s and 1960s. When pockets of black people all over our state and country were physically fighting for equal rights and representation, Davis persuaded his community leaders to do what was morally and spiritually right with patience and wisdom.

Davis preached his first sermon the third Sunday in July, 1946, was ordained, October 8, 1946 and has preached over 4,500 sermons since.

He has received recognition awards from the NAACP, the Mt. Olive District and the Illinois House of Representatives under House Resolution 834, plus others.

He has spent his life loving and helping others. He has a kind word for everyone, even his enemies. He is a man Southern Illinois can and should be proud of. A good soldier, the Rev. Davis, pastor of Paul's Chapel Baptist Church, Marion, Illinois. Amen! — The Rev. Adrian C. Hendricks, Carbondale.

'Crack' has been here for a while, despite what local officials have said

You recently informed your readers that "crack," a synthetic form of cocaine, had not yet reached Carbondale. I am afraid that you, and the drug enforcement officers you quoted as your source, are wrong on both counts.

"Crack" is an East Coast slang name that is not widely used here in Carbondale. The same is true of the West Coast slang name of "rock." Both terms, however, refer to cocaine freebase, which has been available to some degree in Carbondale for several years now. If the drug enforcement people are unaware of this, it is merely typical of how little they really know about the drugs they are supposed to police.

"Crack" also is not a synthetic form of cocaine. It is a refined form of a naturally-occurring substance. Cocaine exists naturally in the leaves of the coca plant in the form of cocaine hydrochloride. This substance is extracted from the plant material and then "bleached" to produce the crystalline powder that is the usual form for cocaine to take. This cocaine hydrochloride is highly soluble in water, which means that it can be mixed in beverages (such as the original Coca Cola formula) and can be injected directly into a vein. It can also be smoked, but due to its fairly high melting point, much of the drug is destroyed by heat instead of being carried by the smoke — making smoking an inefficient and wasteful way to use the drug.

Cocaine freebase (commonly called "crack," "rock," "base" or simply "freebase") is made by chemically removing the hydrochloride from the cocaine hydrochloride. In this form cocaine has a lower melting point and therefore is suitable for use by smoking. On the other hand, it is very poorly soluble in water and, therefore, cannot readily be dissolved in a drink or used for injection.

Both users and law enforcement officers often make the mistake of assuming that ordinary cocaine hydrochloride always takes the form of a powder and that "crack" always takes the form of chunks of larger crystals. Although these are their usual forms, each can appear in the other form. Perhaps this explains the local drug enforcers' ignorance of the presence of cocaine freebase, or "crack," in Southern Illinois. — David F. Duncan, professor, Health Education.

Mine officials begin probe

WALTONVILLE (UPI) — More than a dozen federal and state officials arrived at a Freeman United Coal Co. mine in Southern Illinois Thursday investigating a bell-shaped roof collapse that crushed to death three miners.

Ten federal Mine Safety and Health Administration officials and at least three representatives of the state Department of Mines and Minerals were at the scene. The underground part of the investigation would be finished Thursday and officials would begin questioning witnesses Friday, said MSHA spokesman John McGrath.

State officials have said Wednesday's collapse definitely began with a slip in the rock strata deep in the Orient No. 6 mine, considered one of the largest mines in the nation. Federal and company spokesmen said they have not reached any other conclusions.

"It was definitely a slip," said Brad Evilsizer, director of the state mining department. Slips have a slick upper side and are camouflaged on the underside by coal, rock, clay and shale.

The slip apparently was loosened by vibration from a continuous mining machine being used to cut an air passage in a new section of the mine, Evilsizer said.

The bell-shaped collapse, which was 15 feet long and 6 feet thick at its center, crushed Kenneth Hartfor, 36, a mine manager from Stonefort; Bobby Ray Perry Sr., 52, a section foreman from Lake of Egypt; and his son, Bobby Ray Jr., 23, also a section foreman from Lake of Egypt. Freeman Vice President James Ryan said they apparently were killed instantly.

Five other workers were in the area when the roof collapsed at about 11 a.m. CDT Wednesday, about 750 feet below and 1,500 feet back from the mine entrance, Ryan said.

The fatal accident was the second at the mine in three weeks. On June 20 a miner working underground was electrocuted, apparently when he came in contact with a fuse box.

Proposal to build raceway stalled

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — A proposal to build a $30 million auto raceway in the Metro East area has been put on hold for at least a year, state officials said Thursday.

William France Jr. of the International Speedway Corp., whose family founded NASCAR, told state officials the project currently is not feasible.

"After much deliberation, we have reached the conclusion that a motorsports facility would not be feasible at this time," France wrote in a letter to Jay Hedges, head of the state's Commerce and Community Affairs Department.

France said high construction costs of $25 million to $30 million, uncertainties about tax reforms being considered by Congress and federal legislation restricting sponsorship of motorsports events by tobacco companies led to the decision.

But France said if the environment for the project improves, he will resume talks with the state.

Superpowers to talk on nuclear verification

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Soviet Union have agreed in principle to a meeting on verification of limits on nuclear test explosions, a major sticking point in arms control discussions, administration officials said Thursday.

The meeting, approved at the highest levels of both governments, has not been scheduled but is expected to occur sometime this summer, the officials said. No place was disclosed.

It would be the first such session since negotiations that led to the unratified 1974 Threshold Test Ban Treaty and comes at a time of stepped-up superpower arms control activity.

Officials said the purpose of the talks is not to negotiate, but to exchange information on the complicated and sensitive topic.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Wednesday that President Reagan would respond to recent Soviet arms control proposals in a letter to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

The meeting of experts would be the first meeting for the Reagan administration on the question of verification, a major stumbling block in arms control discussions.

The New York Times, which first reported the development, said Reagan suggested the new talks to departing Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin when the envoy made a farewell call at the White House April 8 before returning to Moscow to take a top-level foreign affairs post.

The same day, an underground test in Nevada was postponed, with weather and technical problems blamed for the delay.

Scientists associated with the private Natural Resources Defense Council of New York arrived in the Soviet Union Sunday to monitor Soviet underground nuclear explosions. The officials said that visit had nothing to do with the agreement to hold talks.

Achille Lauro trial convicts 11

GENOA, Italy (UPI) — A court Thursday convicted 11 of 15 men for the hijacking of the cruise ship Achille Lauro but failed to find any defendant individually responsible for the murder of American passenger Leon Klinghoffer.

Of the 15 defendants in trial in the case, only five were in custody with the rest being tried in their absence. Complicity charges against three defendants were dropped on grounds they were inadequately identified in the indictment and a Greek citizen was acquitted.

Sentenced to life in prison for masterminding the October hijacking were Palestine Liberation Front leader Mohammed Abu Abbas, 37, PLF military chief Jzzudin Badratkan, 38, and PLF treasurer Omar El Ziad, 35.

The court ordered the three Palestine officials, who are all at large, and three of the hijackers, who are in custody, to pay $20,000 each.

Government intensifies anti-cocaine message

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government escalated its war on cocaine Thursday by telling Americans in horrific detail how the drug can kill them, and releasing a study showing a rise in hospital emergencies related to smoking it.

The U.S. Public Health Service said a study of hospitals in 26 U.S. cities disclosed 471 such episodes during the first quarter of 1986, a 14.5 percent increase over the same period last year. It also underscored warnings to first-time users that snorting or injecting cocaine can kill.

Dr. Donald Ian MacDonald, administrator of the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration spelled out in horrific detail the ways in which cocaine kills.

He said cocaine toxicity can kill by stroke, heart attack, cardiac arrest or stimulation of the central nervous system followed by respiratory collapse.

Although recent data does not disclose an increase in cocaine use, he said, "We're picking up a lot of people who are falling off the cliff because they are more years into their habit."

"The myth of cocaine's non-addicting nature has been demonstrated conclusively in the laboratory and now, unfortunately, in humans who are showing up in increasing numbers for treatment," MacDonald said.

Citing the recent deaths of star athletes Len Bias and Don Rogers attributed to cocaine use, MacDonald said even people with no history of health problems can be killed by cocaine.

He said his press briefing was staged because many Americans are unaware of the various ways in which cocaine kills.

Typhoon Peggy heads for China

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Typhoon Peggy spun out to sea toward China Thursday after a devastating sweep across the northern Philippines that killed at least 53 people and forced more than 340,000 people from their homes.

Another 19 people were reported missing in the first major typhoon — the Pacific version of a hurricane — to hit the Philippines this year.

Peggy slammed ashore from the Pacific on Wednesday, raking rice and corn farmlands on the main Luzon island with peak winds of 109 mph and carrying a bank of rain clouds 373 miles in diameter.

Arab targets Israeli planes strike

NAHARIYA, Israel (UPI) — Israeli warplanes pounded Palestinian targets near the Lebanese port of Sidon Thursday in apparent retaliation for an attempt by four Arab guerrillas to sneak into Israel earlier in the day.

All four guerrillas and two Israeli soldiers were killed in a pre-dawn gunbattle that broke out as the gunmen landed in a rubber dinghy on the Lebanese coast just north of the Israeli border. About 12 hours later, Israeli warplanes streaked in from the Mediterranean Sea and attacked targets in a Palestinian refugee camp overlooking Sidon, the Israel Defense Forces said.

The Israeli jets dropped bombs and fired rockets into suspected guerrilla training bases run by four Palestinian groups in the Ain el Hilweh refugee camp, the IDF said.

It identified them as suspected bases of the Fatah wing of the Palestine Liberation Organization and the Abu Mousa, Popular Struggle Front and Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine groups — the latter three backed by Syria.

There was no immediate word on casualties in the camp.

'Rock and Pop' course a big hit with students, School of Music

By Paula Kurtzweil
Student Writer

"Rock and Pop," a course that covers the history of rock and other popular American music, is becoming one of the School of Music's biggest hits.

For the past two years, the course has drawn large numbers of students from all areas of study.

Harold Miller, assistant professor and course instructor, said 203 students enrolled in the course last spring and he expects approximately 300 in the fall.

Miller said one reason for "Rock and Pop's" success is that it starts mid-semester. Students who drop a course earlier in the semester can pick up the course to maintain a sufficient number of credit hours, he added.

The subject matter also helps draw students, Miller said.

The course traces the development of rock from its beginnings to its most recent styles, punk and new wave, styles, punk and new wave.

In addition to studying the various facets of rock music, Miller focuses on innovators such as Jerry Lee Lewis, Buddy Holly, Elvis, the Beatles, heavy metal bands and others.

Miller uses videotapes and films to emphasize classroom lectures. The students sing and clap to the beat.

"We try to do it as we hear it," Miller said.

Why study rock 'n' roll?

Robert Weiss, associate professor and director of the School of Music, believes in addition to offering a subject appealing to students, the course serves as a popular medium in which to study music.

Miller agrees. He teaches the basics — form, rhythm, harmony — so that non-music majors can also understand.

From a non-musical perspective, Miller believes the study of rock is important because it tells a story of the recent past and its appeal to the masses.

The idea of studying rock is fairly new, said Miller, but he expects it will grow in popularity.

"People are now more accepting of this type of music," he said.

The three-credit "Rock and Pop" course (Music 373) will be offered next fall semester from Oct. 20 to Dec. 12. The class will meet from 4 to 5:40 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

A-P Council offers ideas on grievances

The Administrative and Professional Staff Council Wednesday suggested ways to ensure that grievances filed receive some settlement.

The president's office returned the council's proposed grievance procedures stating that if a grievance is not resolved or given an extension, the matter is considered resolved in favor of the person making the grievance.

The deletion of this factor leaves the procedures without any formal method for settling grievances that have not been resolved or extended, the council said.

The council also suggested that the chair of the AP Staff Review Board should not be on the panel hearing grievances because the chair of the board hears the grievant's challenges to panel members.

If chairs also were on the panel they would need to hear their own challenge if it came about, the council said.

Another suggestion by the council is to leave in a passage in the grievance procedures stating that if new evidence arises the grievant may petition, with no time limit, to reconsider the matter.

The council will present its suggestions to the president's office for consideration.

Sports enthusiast plans book about Saluki sports

By Steve Merritt
Assistant Sports Editor

SIU-C isn't the University of Illinois, or the Crimson Tide of Alabama, or the Wolverines of Michigan, but the University does have a rich and prestigious sports history — a history that goes largely unnoticed and unappreciated by many SIU-C students.

That history will be the subject of a book that is being sponsored and funded by the SIU-C Alumni Association. The book is being written by Mike Chamness, a Southern Illinois native and graduate of SIU-C, and is due to be out in the fall of 1987.

Tom Busch, director of Alumni Services, said he got the idea from a friend who was the director of alumni services at Stanford University in California.

"Everyone will be able to see that we have more sports history and tradition than a school like Stanford," Chamness said. "You'll be able to see that we have a better tradition here at Southern — it'll show exactly how rich our tradition is."

Chamness said the book would key on stories and photos that people would enjoy.

"We're not doing an exact chronology type of thing," Chamness said. "That would be too much like a history book. Instead, we're looking for the really great stories — the dramatic moments, the funny anecdotes, the key and interesting people — things people will want to read about."

Chamness said the book would take the readers back "to a time of walk-ons, before scholarships, when SIU-C was a teachers school that had sports teams just for the people that wanted to participate."

So far, Chamness has talked to several key figures for historical perspectives on the book, which he is still researching. Those interviews include talks with Abe Martin, a former Saluki baseball coach, as well as Dorothy Davies, who is given credit for founding the SIU-C women's intercollegiate sports program. He said he plans on talking to "a lot more people who have been around and know about SIU-C athletics."

Chamness said the book would be good for modern-day Saluki athletics, as it could be used for a promotional tool and even as a recruiting tool for prospective student-athletes.

He added that SIU-C Athletics Director Jim Livengood and Director of University Relations Jack Dyer were both enthusiastic and supportive of the project.

"It could turn out to be a great thing for public relations," Chamness said.

Chamness said the book will be a 250- to 300-page hardcover book, packed full of color photos. Jack Griggs, formerly a Southern Illinoisian staff photographer and later a member of the SIU-C photo department, will be in charge of choosing and coordinating all the photos.

Included in the book will be stories about Walt Frazier, a former NBA star with the New York Knicks and Cleveland Cavaliers who led the SIU-C basketball team to the 1967 National Invitational Title at New York City; intramural sports and club sports like the Flying Salukis and the 1983 Division I-AA football crown.

Chamness said the book will also spend time on such aspects in Saluki athletics as when the color-barrier was broken in the early to mid-1950s.

Chamness, who now resides in Murphysboro with his wife and two daughters, had been employed at the Southern Illinoisian newspaper. He first

Carbondale Post 514 hosts Sikeston in doubleheader

The Carbondale American Legion Post 514 baseball team plays a non-district doubleheader against Sikeston Saturday night at Williams Field. Game time is 5:30 p.m.

Carbondale, which sports a 10-4 record overall, is coming off an 8-5 victory over Du Quoin Tuesday. Against Du Quoin, Carbondale's Jeff Kuntze, Brent Reno, Chris Grenfell, and Paul Meiling each hit solo home runs. Chad Vogt was the winning pitcher and went the distance for the victory.

Carbondale and Zeigler will play one game on Sunday and will also try to finish the suspended game if they have enough time.

Locker room facility approved

A new training and locker room facility for the SIU-C baseball team was approved Thursday by the SIU Board of Trustees.

The proposed building, being designed by the Physical Plant Engineering Services, will provide a locker and training room for players, two staff offices and a storage section. A new third-base dugout will be part of the building, located under a 6-to-8-foot roof overhang facing the playing field.

The 3,000-square-foot building will cost an estimated $140,000, about $65,000 of which will come from private contributions and another $40,000 in the form of free labor provided through the Egyptian Building and Construction Trades Council. The remaining $35,000 will come from student fees paid into a fund set aside for the repair and replacement of athletic facilities.

Plans are to hire a contractor to put up the structure's walls and roof. Then area labor trades people will donate their work to finish the interior. Some of them are SIU-C employees and the rest work around the area.

The project is expected to get under way in the fall and be completed in time for the 1987 season.

AL, NL players chosen for next week's All-Star Game

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Clemens of the Boston Red Sox, who electrified the baseball world by winning his first 14 decisions this year and setting a strikeout record for a nine-inning game, was one of eight pitchers selected Thursday to the American League All-Star team.

Seven of the eight pitchers chosen by Manager Dick Howser and league president Robert Brown will be making their first All-Star appearances. Joining Clemens as first time All-Stars are Lon Aase of the Baltimore Orioles, Ted Higuera of the Milwaukee Brewers, Charlie Hough of the Texas Rangers, Dave Righetti of the New York Yankees, Ken Schrom of the Cleveland Indians and Mike Witt of the California Angels.

Willie Hernandez of the Detroit Tigers, an All-Star the previous two years, completes the AL pitching staff.

The National League will have six newcomers on its 10-member pitching staff. Sid Fernandez of the New York Mets, Mike Scott and Dave Smith of the Houston Astros, Shane Rawley of the Philadelphia Phillies, Mike Krukow of the San Francisco Giants and John Franco of the Cincinnati Reds are the first-timers.

Dwight Gooden of the Mets, Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Rick Rhoden of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Jeff Reardon of the Montreal Expos complete the staff as selected by Manager Whitey Herzog and league president Charles "Chub" Feeney.

Valenzuela will be participating in his fifth All-Star Game. Gooden was selected for the third consecutive year and Rhoden and Reardon were chosen for the second time.

Gooden, the 1985 NL Cy Young Award winner, already has been tabbed by Herzog as his starter for next Tuesday night's game in Houston's Astrodome while Howser said he probably will start Clemens, whose 14-2 record is the best in the major leagues. Clemens grew up in Houston and makes his home in Katy, Texas, which is 20 miles from downtown Houston.

"It'll be nice to start, but I'll have fun just pitching in it," said Clemens, whose next scheduled start is Saturday. "If nothing else, I'll enjoy just being with all the other All-Stars."

"I'm going to be all eyes and ears. It will be my first one and I'm going to enjoy watching the guys that I grew up watching."

Clemens, a fireballing right-hander, set the nine-inning major-league record for strikeouts with 20 against the Seattle Mariners April 29.

Howser said he most likely will pitch Higuera, a left-hander with a 10-7 record, after Clemens and then go to Hough, a 38-year-old knuckleballer, before turning to his bullpen. In Aase, Righetti and Hernandez, Howser boasts the three leaders in saves in the AL.

Aase leads the majors with 22 saves.

Clemens (2.58) leads the AL in ERA with Higuera (2.76), Witt (3.06) and Hough (3.08) also ranked among the top five.

The NL staff features the top five winners in the league, led by Fernandez, Rawley and Valenzuela, all with 11 victories. Gooden and Krukow each have 10.

Scott leads the major leagues in strikeouts with 158 while Reardon (19 saves), Smith (16) and Franco (13) rank one, two and four respectively in the NL for most saves.

The starting team for the AL, which was selected by the fans, consists of rookie Wally Joyner of California at first base, Lou Whitaker of Detroit at second, Cal Ripken of Baltimore at shortstop, George Brett of Kansas City at third, Lance Parrish of Detroit at catcher and Rickey Henderson and Dave Winfield of the Yankees and Kirby Puckett of Minnesota in the outfield.

NL starters are Keith Hernandez of the Mets at first, Ryne Sandberg of Chicago at second, Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia at third, Ozzie Smith of St. Louis at shortstop, Gary Carter of the Mets at catcher and Darryl Strawberry of New York, Dale Murphy of Atlanta and Tony Gwynn of San Diego in the outfield.

Reserves for each league will be announced on Friday.

served as a part-time sportswriter while still working on his journalist's degree at SIU-C. He then moved up to a full-time position in sports, then to sports editor and finally to regional editor. All told, the 33-year old sports enthusiast was at the SI for 15 years. He gave up his job as regional editor to write the book.

"I'm just very excited about the project," Chamness said. "Otherwise, I wouldn't have given up a very good job that paid a lot more money."

Chamness said he felt lucky that he was getting paid for doing the writing and research.

"It was an opportunity I just couldn't pass up," Chamness said. "It's like getting the best of two worlds — it doesn't seem like work because it's fun and it's something I enjoy."

Chamness said he felt confident that he could step back into the field of journalism once the project was complete, but could not rule out similar projects in the future.

Chamness also writes and edits the Saluki Boosters Club Newsletter, which is published on a monthly basis and distributed to members of the club. As a fan of SIU-C athletics all his life and now an insider to the workings of the SIU-C athletics departments, Chamness said he can sense a feeling of apathy about SIU-C in general, and especially at Saluki sporting events.

"Athletics is certainly a big part of the social life at any major university," Chamness said. "A sound athletics program can be used as a major tool in recruiting top students, both academically and athletically. I know I would not have attended SIU-C if the university did not have the broad-based athletics program that it did."

Chamness said there're tough times for all intercollegiate athletics programs, and the picture at SIU-C is no different.

"There have been no lies told about the financial problems," Chamness said. "You can see major universities all over the nation dropping non-revenue sports. People just have less money to spend on entertainment these days."

He said he hoped the book would instill a good feeling about Saluki athletics and help get people involved with all aspects, be it football, basketball, golf or tennis.

Chamness said he would like to utilize talents available on campus to help spread the word about Saluki athletics. Groups like student marketing and advertising could be used, Chamness said.

"I'd personally like to see this University get its sports programs back to the place they once were," Chamness said. "If we had it once, then we can have it again — and I only hope that the book can contribute."

Baseball drug testing plan will include all players

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth, after receiving inquiries into the status of his drug program, stated Thursday his office has expanded testing to include major-league players.

Ueberroth instituted random testing among minor-league players and major-league front-office personnel in July 1985. At that time, he was unable to include major-league players because of a collective bargaining agreement with the Players Association.

There are two categories of major-league players currently being tested for drugs, the commissioner's office said in a statement. The first group are players who have guaranteed contracts containing drug-testing clauses. A spokesman for the commissioner's office would not say how many players have such contracts, but that the number was "significant."

The other category is the 21 players who were implicated in the drug trial in Pittsburgh last summer.

Architecture makes use of computers

By Stephen Kennedy
Student Writer

For many architectural technology students, the drafting table is being replaced by the computer.

Jon Davey, visiting lecturer in the Architectural Technology Department, teaches three courses which involve computer-aided design.

Computer-aided design is not limited to architecture, Davey said. It has applications for most types of design work being done today.

The computers that the architectural technology students use also are used for the two or three-dimensional design of products, landscape, fashion and interiors. The system also can be used as an imaging tool in graphics, Davey said.

"The only limitation to CAD is your own mind," Davey said. "It has unlimited possibilities."

According to Davey, computer graphics has existed for over 34 years, beginning in the 1950s with some types of aviation radar. But with the computer boom of the past few years, CAD is growing by leaps and bounds, he said.

One of the main reasons that CAD is growing so rapidly is that it is becoming more affordable. Davey said that it is possible to set up a CAD system for under $8,000.

He also said that more than 50 percent of architectural engineers are using microcomputers with CAD programs. "This is a tool that is transforming the industry," Davey said.

The newest CAD software offers programs that help the architect or designer make decisions in the design process. The systems are a branch of computerized artificial intelligence.

The Architectural Technology Department has had CAD systems for more than three years. The present system is called Autocad, made by Autodesk, Inc., of California. Autocad is used on Texas Instruments computers. Apple IIe and Apple Macintosh computers also use specialized CAD software.

Davey said that the major advantage of a CAD system is saving time in repetitive work.

"The whole thing about this system is knowing when to use it," Davey said. "It won't make someone a better architect, but it will provide a means of being more efficient."

'Chapter Two' a funny look at relationships

By Mary Wisniewski
Staff Writer

Between scene changes at Thursday's dress rehearsal of the McLeod Theater production of Neil Simon's "Chapter Two," phrases of '40s torch songs could be heard from the wings.

These "It Had to Be You" can sound overly orchestrated, trite and sentimental. But at times when they seem so right and wonderful, one could believe Frank Sinatra knew everything.

It's that way with "Chapter Two," a warm, splendidly human comedy about a widower who suddenly finds himself in love again. Looking past the inevitable Simon wisecracks and tidy situations, this play proves that a love story can be sweet without stretching reality too far.

"CHAPTER TWO" will play at 8 p.m. through Sunday at McLeod. Wynn Alexander, graduate student in theater, is directing the production on.

Tickets for "Chapter Two" are $6 for Sunday's show and $7 for Friday's and Saturday's performances. Student rush tickets are $3 with a valid ID and may be purchased 30 minutes before curtain time.

"Chapter Two," which first opened in New York in 1977 and later became a movie, is somewhat autobiographical.

Like George Schneider in "Chapter Two," Neil Simon suffered the loss of his first wife only to meet and marry New York actress, Marsha Mason.

THE PLAY opens with George, played by Gary Graves, and his brother Leo, played by Eric Scholz, returning from a trip to

In a messy apartment filled with pictures of his dead wife, George is distracted and unhappy. While his younger and more wordy brother tries to get him to meet other women, George wants to sit home and read condolence letters.

The scene then shifts stage left to the neat, modern apartment of Jennie Malone, played by Sandra Cohlmeier. Malone is an actress and recently divorced.

HER FLAMBOYANT friend, Faye Medwick, played by Mary Runtz-Alexander, tries to convince Jennie to date other men.

Jennie swears, "If I ever see another man with perfectly combed chest hair and more jewelry than I have, I will remain celibate for life."

George contacts Jennie accidentally and, during possibly the most charming telephone conversation in theater history, they arrange a five-minute "pre-date."

TWO WEEKS later, Leo learns George and Jennie plan to marry. Leo runs to Jennie's apartment and tells her what she will soon learn herself: George is still mourning his wife and is not yet "ready to be happy."

The two great strengths of this production are the precise reality of Simon's script and four great performances.

The performers are the real heroes of this production since, for the most part, they manage the weaker aspects of Simon's script with as much strength and consistency as they do the stronger.

ONE PROBLEM with the script is its tediously tidy symmetry. George and Jennie's marriage situations, the contrasting affair of Leo and Faye and the alternating scenes between Jennie's and George's apartments are so balanced they seem like a theatrical exercise in geometry.

One thing that breaks the tidiness is the often superfluous and unfunny one-liners that permeate the dialogue. Simon is certainly a great gag-writer, but we have heard enough jokes about New York cab drivers.

The performers manage to transform the often artificial banter into a sense of real love and pain.

GRAVES IS most successful at this project. With his changes from gruff sternness to excited charm and the awkward movements of his long body, Graves communicates a man struggling with some uncertain emotions.

As the quiet, witty Malone, Cohlmeier presents the most accessibly human character of the play. When Jennie finally confronts George with his own emotional cowardice, the preview night audience burst into applause.

Runtz-Alexander played Jennie's feather-headed foil with the timing of a comic genius. This is a real accomplishment, because the character seemed merely a vehicle for gags and her gags are the weakest in the script.

EVEN MORE problematic a character than Faye is George's foil Leo. Not only is Leo's character burdened with all the New York traffic jokes, he has to be a concerned brother and a callous womanizer at the same time.

Scholz chooses to play a human being instead of a vehicle for one-liners, and does so by suppressing the comic lines almost to the point of omitting them altogether. Although playing the human over the clown is a good choice, Scholz's skewing of comic timing transforms some of his remarks into awkward, continuous remarks.

"CHAPTER TWO" can be overly tidy and burdened with Simon one-liners. But it can also be a real, sensitive portrayal of what George Schneider calls the strange rites of human mating.

And while you may have seen some of these courting rituals before, remember that when you're in love, it's the same old song.

Officials fear uprising after Le Duan's death

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnamese Communist Party leader Le Duan, who helped guide the communists to victory over the U.S.-backed government of South Vietnam, died Thursday after a long illness, official Radio Hanoi reported.

The radio broadcast, monitored in Bangkok, Thailand, said Duan, 79, died at 3:30 a.m. Thursday. He had been reported in poor health for more than three years with kidney and lung ailments.

Diplomatic observers said Duan's death could accelerate a power struggle within the Communist Party that already had begun in anticipation of the retirement of Vietnam's aging top level leaders. The outcome, however, is not likely to change Vietnam's pro-Soviet foreign policy, they said.

One of the founders of the Communist Party in Vietnam, Duan took over its leadership after the death of Ho Chi Minh in 1969. He guided the party for 17 years — through the war against the United States, the conquest of the south, the invasion of Cambodia in 1978 and the 1979 war with China. After Ho's death, Duan shared governmental power with President Truong Chinh, 79, Prime Minister Pham Van Dong, 80, and Le Duc Tho, the No. 2 man in the party secretariat.

Radio Hanoi waited more than 14 hours to announce Duan's death.

It said the leadership was "deeply grieved to announce that Comrade Le Duan, general secretary of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee, passed away at 3:30 hours on July 10, 1986, after a period of serious illness at the age of 79."

The radio said Duan had received treatment by "excellent physicians with modern medical equipment," but his advanced age and the seriousness of his illness made it impossible to save him. No cause of death was given.

Duan will receive a state funeral and the country will observe five days of mourning, the radio said.

"In nearly 60 years of revolutionary activity, absolute loyalty to Marxism-Leninism, the interests of the country and people, Comrade Le Duan has contributed his whole life to the cause of national liberation and reunification in bringing the entire country to socialism," the radio said.

While still a teenager, Duan joined Ho to found the Communist Party of Indochina. He spent more than 10 years in the infamous French prison for political activists on Con Son island and was freed at the end of World War II.

After the defeat of France at Dienbienphu in 1954, North and South Vietnam emerged as separate countries, the communist north under Ho.

U.S. involvement on the side of South Vietnam began in the early 1950s.

Duan became party general secretary in 1956, replacing Chinh, who was dismissed to take the blame for a popular uprising against collectivization.

He became party leader upon Ho's death in 1969 but declined to take the title of party chairman.

Duan worked ruthlessly to maintain party supremacy over the government and armed forces. Some sources say he ordered the assassination of one of his own generals who launched a major attack without party authorization.

Goetz defends subway shootings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Subway gunman Bernhard Goetz, speaking a day after he was ordered to stand trial for shooting four teenagers, says he believes if he decides to kill someone it does not matter whether "society approves or condones it."

Goetz, who shot and seriously wounded four alleged teenage muggers in December 1984, was defiant in an interview with United Press International Wednesday night and said he would shoot again if he had to.

"The Court of Appeals said state law cannot allow citizens to set their own standards for the use of deadly force. My reply is, if the standards of New York mean that the public is going to be subjected to violence, then some of the public, you know, will not accept those standards and will make their own standards whether the authorities like it or not," he declared.

"I'm not going to be intimidated by the system. There comes a point if you think you're right, if I'm going to make a decision to kill someone, you don't make the decision because society approves or condones it. You make the decision because you think you're right," he said.

Armed with an unlicensed silver pistol, the gangly, bespectacled 38-year-old electronics specialist shot four youths on a crowded subway train on Dec. 22, 1984, after at least one of the teenagers asked him for $5.

Goetz said he did not regret what he did and was not afraid of going to jail for his actions.

"When people are in a situation like I was in, they are not concerned about the law or their mortgage payments or anything else ... Innocence or guilt, right or wrong are concepts that really don't exist in a violent confrontation.

"The subway shooting was a simple statement. No, I will not be subjected to violence. And when people say no, I will not take this, it has to be a strong statement."

Goetz, who had been mugged about four years earlier, claimed he gunned them down in self-defense because he was afraid they would harm him.

Although Darrell Cabey, 21, the most seriously injured of the youths who was brain damaged from the shooting, acknowledged in an interview that the teenagers wanted to hold up Goetz, lawyers for the youths denied the claim.

British official to consult with Botha, black leader

HARARE, Zimbabwe (UPI) — British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe said Thursday he will meet this month with South Africa's president and would try to arrange talks with jailed black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela and other dissidents.

Howe told a news conference after talks with government leaders in Zimbabwe, the second stop on his three-nation mission to promote peace in the region, that he would meet with President Pieter W. Botha in South Africa on July 23 and 29.

Howe said he also hoped to meet as many South African black leaders as possible, including jailed African National Congress President Nelson Mandela and other detainees. Despite a two-year wave of racial violence in South Africa that has left some 2,000 people dead, Howe said there were peaceful options to solving the country's crisis but it was vital to begin negotiations between opposing parties soon.

"The path to peace cannot stay open forever and that underlines the crucial importance of getting the South African government and black South African leaders into discussion with one another," he said before leaving for Mozambique, the last stop on his mission.

Group has idea for family trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nuclear power industry's chief trade group is promoting "a great vacation idea" for Americans in search of a new hot spot: visit a nuclear plant.

A pamphlet published by the Atomic Industrial Forum says visitors to 90 "energy information centers" at nuclear plants and other energy facilities in the United States and Canada "may have the opportunity to ... ride on an electricity-generating bicycle, detect natural radiation with a Geiger counter, play computer games and engage in many other exciting and informative activities."

It also suggests tours of power plants, which are available at some of the centers.

"With millions of Americans foregoing foreign vacations this year and traveling in the United States, the Atomic Industrial Forum has a suggestion: take an energy break during your trip and visit a nuclear power plant," the association said.

All in all, the pamphlet labels the visit "a great vacation idea."
