The Daily Egyptian, July 13, 1994

Daily Egyptian Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://opensiuc.lib.siu.edu/de_July1994
Volume 79, Issue 170
Proposed user fees for Health Service on hold

By Dean Weaver
Special Assignment Reporter

Proposed student user fees for on-campus student health care have been put on hold at the recommendation of the director of the Student Health Programs.

Terence D. Buck, director of Student Health Programs, said after listening to input from students he no longer feels the student user fees are the best approach to increasing the health programs revenue.

"After talking with the Student Health Advisory Board and student leaders it is clear to me they were more in support of a general fee increase instead of the user fees," Buck said.

The proposed fees were outlined in a June 1 memorandum submitted to Harvey Welch, Jr., vice president of student affairs, from M. Jacob Baggot, administrator of student health programs.

The proposed fee increases included a $5 front-door fee for sports medicine assessment in the Recreation Center and Student Health Assessment Center located in the Student Center.

Student Health Program fees included charging students for lab work, filling prescriptions, orthopedic devices and processing medical records. Buck said he has told student leaders he has cut all he can cut without affecting the health care students currently receive.

"For fiscal year 1995, we have substantially cut back on our program's costs," he said.

There have been 13 positions eliminated and other cuts totaling a savings of $576,000.

Students during the 1993-94 school year paid $78 per semester for on-campus medical fees.

Buck said he would like to see this fee raised since the user fees are not being implemented, and student leaders agree.

"After talking with the Student Health Advisory Board and student leaders it was clear to me they were in support of a general fee increase instead of the user fees," Buck said.

Patrick Smith, president of Graduate and Professional Student Council, said that he did not want to support the user fees unless students would be provided with a wider range of health services.

Buck said he will work with the student advisory board and student leaders in January to decide the amount of the increase.

"The amount of the increase will depend on enrollment figures along with the percentages of salary increases," Buck said.

SIUC Affirmative Action criticized; officials defend University program

By Tre' Roberts
Minorities Writer

SIUC student Teceon Williams said when he asked University administrators why the grade point averages of a certain group of African American students were low, he was told the averages were not unusual.

Williams, president of the Black Affairs Council, said the University's retention rates for first-time African American students are too low and a result of lack of attention by the administration.

"I was the assistant coordinator for the Big Brother-Big Sister program when it was solely for black students," Williams said.

"After the first semester, upwards of 85 percent of the people who were in the program were on academic probation. I asked administrators what was going on and see ACTION, page 5

Paperwork left in budget process

By Angela Hyland
Politics Reporter

A budget agreement worked out earlier this week by legislative leaders is on its way to becoming law.

Dale Gordon, press secretary for state Senate President James "Pete" Philip, R-Wood Dale, said at 8 p.m. Tuesday the proposed budget had been passed by the Illinois House of Representatives and was expected to be passed by the state Senate.

"We're now in a workable situation," Gordon said. "I don't know how else to describe it," he said.

Legislators still were waiting for the public health committee to approve the Medicaid proposal, which was the last remaining financial consideration before the Senate could approve the budget, Gordon said.

"You can't hurry democracy," Gordon said.

Once the Senate approves the Medicaid and budget proposals, all that remains is for Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar to sign the plan.

Gus says one way or the other it's time to take affirmative action.

Gus Bode

Gus says one way or the other it's time to take affirmative action.

Ridin' high

Philipp Holden, a sixth grader at Thomas School, rides atop the handlebars of his brother Keith's, a fifth grader. Both Philip and Keith had spent the day fishing at Campus Lake and were returning home Tuesday evening with their catch of nine fish.

Movie fails to reflect "freedom summer"

By Heathar Burrow
Special Assignment Reporter

Michael Starr remembers walking up to Mt. Zion Methodist Church in Philadelphia, Miss. and seeing no remains of wood - only metal and ashes. Starr was one of thousands of people who were part of "freedom summer" that helped African Americans register to vote in 1964.

The movie "Mississippi Burning" brings to mind the 300th anniversary of "freedom summer," best remembered for the murders of Michael Schwerner, James Chaney and Andrew Goodman, who were trying to get African Americans registered to vote.

Starr, now an SIUC professor in radio and television, was a volunteer that summer and said the movie's portrayal of how the FBI behaved in this situation was largely inaccurate.

The movie can be seen on WSIL at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Starr and volunteer Jane Adams, then an SIUC student and now an SIUC professor were among staff, volunteers and community people who came together in Mississippi from June 23 to June 26 to show their support for a movement that continues today.

Adams said this meeting occurred because a new organization, the Mississippi Community Foundation, wants to keep alive the civil rights movement and transfer the need for this movement onto young people.

"I am a very strong supporter of this because racism is still the great divide," Adams said.

"We still have a long way to go before there is full equality," Starr said.

Starr who was a student at Georgetown University Law Center during this time, came to Mississippi in June 1964. Starr was see MOVIE, page 6

Proposed user fees for Health Service on hold

Students support general increase, director says

By Angela Hyland
Politics Reporter

Proposed student user fees for on-campus student health care have been put on hold at the recommendation of the director of the Student Health Programs.

Terence D. Buck, director of Student Health Programs, said after listening to input from students he no longer feels the student user fees are the best approach to increasing the health programs revenue.

"After talking with the Student Health Advisory Board and student leaders it is clear to me they were more in support of a general fee increase instead of the user fees," Buck said.

The proposed fees were outlined in a June 1 memorandum submitted to Harvey Welch, Jr., vice president of student affairs, from M. Jacob Baggot, administrator of student health programs.

The proposed fee increases included a $5 front-door fee for sports medicine assessment in the Recreation Center and Student Health Assessment Center located in the Student Center.

Student Health Program fees included charging students for lab work, filling prescriptions, orthopedic devices and processing medical records. Buck said he has told student leaders he has cut all he can cut without affecting the health care students currently receive.

"For fiscal year 1995, we have substantially cut back on our program's costs," he said.

There have been 13 positions eliminated and other cuts totaling a savings of $576,000.

Students during the 1993-94 school year paid $78 per semester for on-campus medical fees.

Buck said he would like to see this fee raised since the user fees are not being implemented, and student leaders agree.

"After talking with the Student Health Advisory Board and student leaders it was clear to me they were in support of a general fee increase instead of the user fees," Buck said.

Patrick Smith, president of Graduate and Professional Student Council, said that he did not want to support the user fees unless students would be provided with a wider range of health services.

Buck said he will work with the student advisory board and student leaders in January to decide the amount of the increase.

"The amount of the increase will depend on enrollment figures along with the percentages of salary increases," Buck said.

SIUC Affirmative Action criticized; officials defend University program

By Tre' Roberts
Minorities Writer

SIUC student Teceon Williams said when he asked University administrators why the grade point averages of a certain group of African American students were low, he was told the averages were not unusual.

Williams, president of the Black Affairs Council, said the University's retention rates for first-time African American students are too low and a result of lack of attention by the administration.

"I was the assistant coordinator for the Big Brother-Big Sister program when it was solely for black students," Williams said.

"After the first semester, upwards of 85 percent of the people who were in the program were on academic probation. I asked administrators what was going on and see ACTION, page 5

Paperwork left in budget process

By Angela Hyland
Politics Reporter

A budget agreement worked out earlier this week by legislative leaders is on its way to becoming law.

Dale Gordon, press secretary for state Senate President James "Pete" Philip, R-Wood Dale, said at 8 p.m. Tuesday the proposed budget had been passed by the Illinois House of Representatives and was expected to be passed by the state Senate.

"We're now in a workable situation," Gordon said. "I don't know how else to describe it," he said.

Legislators still were waiting for the public health committee to approve the Medicaid proposal, which was the last remaining financial consideration before the Senate could approve the budget, Gordon said.

"You can't hurry democracy," Gordon said.

Once the Senate approves the Medicaid and budget proposals, all that remains is for Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar to sign the plan.

Gus says one way or the other it's time to take affirmative action.

Gus Bode

Gus says one way or the other it's time to take affirmative action.

Ridin' high

Philipp Holden, a sixth grader at Thomas School, rides atop the handlebars of his brother Keith's, a fifth grader. Both Philip and Keith had spent the day fishing at Campus Lake and were returning home Tuesday evening with their catch of nine fish.

Movie fails to reflect "freedom summer"

By Heathar Burrow
Special Assignment Reporter

Michael Starr remembers walking up to Mt. Zion Methodist Church in Philadelphia, Miss. and seeing no remains of wood - only metal and ashes. Starr was one of thousands of people who were part of "freedom summer" that helped African Americans register to vote in 1964.

The movie "Mississippi Burning" brings to mind the 300th anniversary of "freedom summer," best remembered for the murders of Michael Schwerner, James Chaney and Andrew Goodman, who were trying to get African Americans registered to vote.

Starr, now an SIUC professor in radio and television, was a volunteer that summer and said the movie's portrayal of how the FBI behaved in this situation was largely inaccurate.

The movie can be seen on WSIL at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Starr and volunteer Jane Adams, then an SIUC student and now an SIUC professor were among staff, volunteers and community people who came together in Mississippi from June 23 to June 26 to show their support for a movement that continues today.

Adams said this meeting occurred because a new organization, the Mississippi Community Foundation, wants to keep alive the civil rights movement and transfer the need for this movement onto young people.

"I am a very strong supporter of this because racism is still the great divide," Adams said.

"We still have a long way to go before there is full equality," Starr said.

Starr who was a student at Georgetown University Law Center during this time, came to Mississippi in June 1964. Starr was see MOVIE, page 6
ARNO LD'S MARKET

All 12-pk. Pepsi, Dr Pepper, 7-Up Products $1.19
All 2-ltr Pepsi, Dr. Pepper, 7-Up Products $1.39
Prairie Farms Lemonade 1/2 Gallon $75
Field Deli Ham $3.39/bulk
Iron Grund beef...

3 1/2 Miles South of Campus on Rr 51
OPEN 7 DAYS a WEEK, 7AM - 9PM

CALL 1 - 800-824 - WILD

Newswrap

DRUG RING LINKS SELF TO PRESIDENT-ELECT

BOGOTA, Colombia—In a taped conversation that is by turns cautious and coy, a shady journalist and the leaders of the world's most powerful drug cartel imply that their labors are about to yield the ultimate prize: direct access to the office of Colombia's president-elect. Dismissed by those who are being identified as a co-conspirator and a spokesman for the mafia, the "narcos-cast" has nevertheless cast a pall on the recent election of Ernesto Samper and forced the United States to consider publicly what some high-ranking U.S. officials imply is a private: A country critical to the war on drugs may soon be led by a man they suspect of having links to drug cartels. Officials in both governments say the stakes are high. On one level is the relationship between two alliances committed to fighting an increasingly complex drug war.

MUSEUM DELVES INTO DALI'S EARLY YEARS

NEW YORK—Before the melting watches, before the pencil-sharpener, question-mark mustache, and long, long before the sad squandering of his reputation through dubious commercial ventures, Salvador Dali (1904-1989) was a precocious Spanish schoolboy of already remarkable artistic ability. How this shoonin schoolboy turned surrealist master—who fancied himself a demiurg of bizarre, phantasmagoric creatures and lurid sexual symbols—is the story told by Dali: The Early Years. The exhaustive, occasionally frustrating, but always visually riveting show is one of the key summer draws at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art. The exhibit runs through Sept. 18. Beginning with a charming little watercolor painted in 1916, when Dali was only 12, the show traces his development through 1931, when he created that icon of surrealist art, The Persistence of Memory.

nation

COMPUTER HACKER SOUGHT BY POLICE

Los Angeles—Off-duty Los Angeles police officer Salvatore Gallante, 45, has been accused of illegally accessing the computer network at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., which conducts research and has highly sophisticated security procedures, said the Department of Energy. The Los Angeles Times reported that Gallante, a computer hacker, was using its computers to store and distribute hard-core pornography.

INTERNET USED TO DISTRIBUTE ILLEGAL PORN

Los Angeles Times—Dramatically illustrating the security problems posed by the rapid growth of the Internet computer network, one of the nation's three nuclear weapons labs confirmed Monday that computer hackers were using its computers to store and distribute hard-core pornography. Embarrassed officials at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., which conducts a great deal of classified research and has highly sophisticated security procedures, said the incident was among the most serious breach of computer security ever at the lab east of San Francisco. The offending computer, which was shut down after a Los Angeles Times reporter investigating Internet hacking called law officials, contained more than 1,000 pornographic images. It was believed to be the largest cache of illegal hard-core pornography ever found on a computer network.

from Daily Egyptian wire services

Corrections/Clarifications

Elaine M. Carracci was spelled incorrectly in the article, "Horror sense: Program offers varied experiences" in the June 16, 1994 issue. The Daily Egyptian regrets the error made.

Accuracy Desk

If readers spot an error in a news article, they can contact the Daily Egyptian Accuracy Desk at 536-3311, extension 233 or 228.
Haitian regime expels human rights monitors

By Kyle J. Chapman

With the political crisis worsening in Haiti, President Bill Clinton’s administration has decided to take a more aggressive stance in curbing the influx of refugees from Haiti, and the Illinois Board of Higher Education approved all international human rights monitors as of July 11.

Thomas Toussaint, a United Nations official, said the expelling of human rights monitors was a reaction to the increased sanctions by the United Nations.

State Department Spokeswoman Cheryl Brown, however, said they were forced out because the regime does not want any venture of its human rights monitors.

"The expulsions could be a serious escalation in the conflict between the government and the international community," she added.

Flaying Haitians have increased to take U.S. States due to the political crisis and, for the fourth time Clinton has changed his Haitian policy, this time by removing them from the country.

Stephan Toussaint, an unclassified graduate student from Haiti, said the U.S. policy is unrealistic, inconsistent and detrimental to the fight for the Haitian people, richer poor.

"It is not the economic problems that the Haitian people have in Haiti because it's been that way for decades," Toussaint said.

Anybody who has attachment to the country, he said, should just take your life and there is nothing you can do.

"There is no recourse under the law, you're just dead -- it's total lawlessness and ruthlessness," Toussaint said.

"I would like to see the Haitian military stop getting money or intelligence from outside so the people can take care of themselves," he added.

"We would not become like another Rwanda if Haiti is allowed to continue this way."

Temporary safe havens have been established by the U.N. in Grenada and the Haitian Capitol.

William Garnett, associate professor of political science, said President Clinton’s new policy is in error.

"The policy is a terribly flawed one," Garnett said. see POLICY, page 6

---

Decreasing funds increase tuition

By Marc Chase

An institution that conducts research on trends in higher education released a report earlier this month that shows a decrease in funding for universities from state taxes and an increase in tuition.

A study by the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges in its July 1994 update, state legislatures are also cutting back on funding for universities because they are receiving less federal monies.

"There has been a decrease from past years to the present in the percentage of state funds that are given to universities for higher education funding. This decrease is not due to increased tuition, but due to decreased funding from state legislatures," the report stated.

"State legislatures are also cutting back on funding for universities because they are receiving less federal monies.

"There has been a decrease from past years to the present in the percentage of state funds that are given to universities for higher education funding. This decrease is not due to increased tuition, but due to decreased funding from state legislatures," the report stated.

"There has been a decrease from past years to the present in the percentage of state funds that are given to universities for higher education funding. This decrease is not due to increased tuition, but due to decreased funding from state legislatures," the report stated.

Robert Swemy, research analyst for the Association of State Colleges and Universities, said the past few years the burden of funding for higher education has fallen on students and their families because state governments are cutting back on funding.

"There has been a decrease from past years to the present in the percentage of state funds that are given to universities for higher education funding. This decrease is not due to increased tuition, but due to decreased funding from state legislatures," the report stated.

"There has been a decrease from past years to the present in the percentage of state funds that are given to universities for higher education funding. This decrease is not due to increased tuition, but due to decreased funding from state legislatures," the report stated.

Swemy, who is based at the University of Illinois, said the average tuition cost for state universities in Illinois is $2,600 and the national average is $2,300.

Many officials in SIUC, such as William Eaton, chairperson for the committee of education administration and higher education department, said state funding has been falling over several years and is expected to keep falling.

"Personally, I would rather see funding for higher education generated through taxes," Eaton said. "Unfortunately, we have President Clinton’s new policy in error.

"The policy is a terribly flawed one," Garnett said. see POLICY, page 6

---

Minorities, junior colleges targeted by IBHE, SAC

By Diane Dove

The Illinois Board of Higher Education agreed Tuesday to consider recommendations made by the Student Advisory Committee to review problems for minorities in higher education and affordability and transferability of junior "education and affordability in paying expenses. •

Committee to review problems continues to increase us the consideration of recommendations,Rubini said the cost of higher education agreed Tuesday to issues have on students.

"These increases in tuition are not out of line," Dunn said. "It is only a small increase of 3 percent (at SIUC)."
Students' input vital in user fee decision

THURSDAY THE SIU BOARD OF TRUSTEES will probably pass an athletic fee increase effective beginning fall of 1995, which has many students feeling the administrators at SIUC have little regard for them or their money.

The athletic fee increase is contained in the fiscal year 1994-95 Productivity Report for SIU. It will raise athletic fees $8 per semester for academic year 1995-96 with another $7 increase the following year. Students have a right to be angry, since they voted in February against the increase.

However, students will be happy to learn that not all administrators at SIUC set their own agenda and leave students to fend for themselves. The Student Health Program on campus is a prime example of this.

THE PROGRAM THAT PROVIDES STUDENTS with health care on campus is in need of increased funding to cover rising expenses. Terence D. Buck, director of student health programs, saw a potential solution to the problem. By expanding student user fees, the program could continue to provide their current level of health care to students without making any further cuts.

The user fees would include charging extra for laboratory tests, prescriptions, medical records processing and orthopedic devices. The result would be that some students would have to pay anywhere from $5 to $30 for a visit to the on-campus health clinic. This money is in addition to the Student Medical Benefit Fee that every student pays each semester for on-campus medical fees and off-campus insurance fees. Last year this amount totaled $184 per semester.

Over the past three years the program has eliminated 13 administrative and non-service positions in an attempt to cut expenses without affecting the quality of health care provided to students. Despite these efforts to contain costs, the program still runs a deficit and will have trouble making further cuts. Therefore, something needs to be done to increase revenue or students quality of health care will decrease.

Buck could have done things the easy way and recommended that the student user fees be implemented. He probably would have received the support of the students and administration both can agree on.

How to submit a letter to the editor:

A: You
B: Letter
C: Editor

How to submit a letter to the editor:
Guyon recovering from surgery, will return to campus next week

By Marc Chase
Admission Reporter

SIUC President John C. Guyon is expected to return to work next Monday after recovering from triple bypass surgery he underwent June 11 in St. John’s Hospital of Springfield, a University Relations official said.

Jack Dyr, executive director of University Relations, said he spoke with Guyon Tuesday, and the president reported he would return to work next week, only working for short periods each day.

Dyr said Guyon went to the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale earlier in the week for a routine check-up and to verify his medication.

Doctors discovered the artery blockage in Guyon’s heart that prompted the surgery after a routine physical on June 10.

ACTION, from page 1

and they told me the low grade point averages were normal.”

Williams said the response he received was a product of the attitude of the University’s administration.

Benjamin Shepherd, vice president of academic affairs and provost, said he is unfamiliar with Williams’ accusation.

“Frankly, I’m surprised, nor do I believe what Williams said,” Shepherd said. “Our numbers are among the best in the nation in terms of total enrollment and graduation of African American students. They speak for themselves.”

Seymour Bryson, director of SIUC’s Affirmative Action office, admitted there are disparities in retention rates for African American and Caucasian students.

“Although retention rates for African American students have been increasing, we are still working for the day when retention rates for black students are close to those of whites,” said Bryson.

Student leaders are not the only people critical of SIUC’s Affirmative Action policies.

On June 20, Illinois State Representatives Coy Pugh, D-Chicago, and Wynette Young, D-East St. Louis, members of the House Subcommittees on Minority Concerns, held public hearings at SIUC and SIUE’s minority policies.

Pugh and Young inquired about the status of minority faculty representation, plans to increase minority representation and programs for minority students at both institutions.

Bryson said legislative hearings such as the ones held in late June are unusual.

“These hearings have been held for the last five or six years, and I have often participated in them—they are nothing new,” Bryant said.

“I do not see last month’s hearings as a sign that the state legislature any more than any other institution is interested in the welfare of minority students. They were held at SIUC under fire by the state legislature any more than any other institution.”

Pugh and Young were not available for comment.

Bryson said the state legislative hearings and student criticisms are a positive step for the campus.

“When outsiders ask questions, the questions act as a catalyst for positive change,” he said.

Bryson said there is always room for improvement in Affirmative Action programs.

“We are continually trying to develop strategies and policies that increase the effectiveness of the Affirmative Action office,” Bryant said.

Dyr said, “The goal is to make SIUC an inclusive institution, one where the numbers of minorities in the campus population are representative of the national population.”

“Creating a perfectly represented campus population may not be a realistic expectation,” Bryson said.

“That is an ideal, no higher education institution has reached perfection yet,” he said. “I don’t think we will reach it either, but the hope is to make progress toward that goal each year.”

Guyon said 15 new minority faculty members will come to SIUC beginning this fall.

“These new faculty should help increase the overall representation of minority students in the University’s faculty,” he said. “But, we won’t know until we find out how many minority faculty members leave at the end of the summer.”

To determine the success of Affirmative Action programs, one must look at the effect that has been made, not just the statistical results each year, Bryson said.

“You must ask yourself whether you are supporting your efforts with the resources that are available,” he said.

“If you are not, it is going to be a long, hard journey.”

Dale Owens, a Black American Studies lecturer, said Affirmative Action programs are working too slowly.

“Although the programs are not working fast enough, they are working as fast as they are meant to,” he said. “There is no way to stamp out discrimination overnight, it would be a dream to think that you could.”

Bryson said those who think Affirmative Action is about quotas are “ignorant of the issue.”

“Affirmative Action was created to help those who are equally qualified to obtain a position they otherwise could not due to discrimination,” he said.

“People do not understand the fundamentals of affirmative action,” Bryson said.

“Many people see affirmative action as quotas, numbers and leading to the hiring of less qualified people. In other words, the government dictating results,” Bryant said.

“All of these hearings have been held to think Affirmative Action is pushing people out and to ensure that when a job is open, there is as diverse an applicant pool as possible. We are trying to choose the best fitting person for that job.”

Lollapalooza tour rocks Las Vegas, nation

Daily Egyptian
July 13, 1994

LAS VEGAS—Producer Marc Geiger was given a front row seat and backstage during the first date of this summer’s Lollapalooza tour.

Calling the Las Vegas football stadium “the perfect venue,” Geiger said the band’s performance was flawless. “It was an incredible night, and I was very impressed with the show,” he said.

The three-day concert, which is part of the Lollapalooza tour, was held from July 13 to 15.

The lineup included artistes such as Smashing Pumpkins, Nirvana, Pearl Jam, Soundgarden and Alice in Chains.

Geiger said the festival was a success and that he would consider returning to Las Vegas for future events.

“We had an incredible turnout and the audience was very enthusiastic,” he said.

The festival attracted more than 20,000 fans each night, with an estimated total of 60,000 attendees over the three days.

Geiger added that he was pleased with the overall experience and would consider bringing the festival to other locations in the future.”

The Lollapalooza tour is a music festival that is known for its innovative and diverse lineup of bands and artists. The festival originated in 1991 and has since become a popular event among music fans across the United States. The festival typically features a mix of alternative rock, hip-hop, metal, and indie bands along with other genres.

Lollapalooza has been a significant event for many artists who have used the platform to gain exposure and build their careers. The festival has also played a role in shaping the alternative rock music scene and has been credited with introducing fans to new and emerging artists.

In addition to the music lineup, the Lollapalooza festival has also become known for its creative and immersive atmosphere, offering fans a unique and engaging experience. From food stalls and craft vendors to interactive art installations and creative marketing, the festival has always been more than just a music event, providing a holistic experience for attendees.

With its combination of music, art, and culture, Lollapalooza has become one of the most anticipated festivals of the summer season, and its presence in Las Vegas in 1994 was no exception. The successful event in Las Vegas not only showcased the talents of the performing artists but also contributed to the cultural landscape of the city, offering a unique experience for music enthusiasts and festival-goers alike.
July 13, 1994

MOVIE, from page 1

plays a major role in helping to solve the crimes. However, Starr said they were more of a hindrance than a help.

"People were beaten on a street corner and the FBI took pictures and I watched the FBI watch the beatings," Starr said. "No attempt was made to intervene and no one was prosecuted."

Starr said she also saw evidence of inaccuracies in "Mississippi Burning."

"The FBI was no friend of the movement," Starr said. "They betrayed people to local law enforcement officials by giving evidence thus to identify the suspects."

"It was like wartime with normal life going on around this, and that was my introduction to Mississippi" —Jane Adams

"We knew because Mississippi was a terroristic state with black activists who were shot in broad daylight."

Starr said he had a vivid recollection of the church when he arrived the day the three men disappeared.

"I have never seen an incineration quite as complete," Starr said. "There were no people in the church the night the fire started, but they were interred in one box and braided, then allowed to go."

In "Mississippi Burning" the FBI painted in a week a compact orange television, a cordless machine, a VCR, a bicycle, portable tools. The suspect firsted entry through the front door and removed a 27 inch TV.

"Mississippi Burning" was prosecuted. "Nobody was ever brought to justice for this," Starr said. "To have the FBI as heroes is like having the Nazis turned into friends of the Jews."

"The FBI also said the picture taken in "Mississippi Burning" of the African Americans is inaccurate. Black people are always portrayed as dumb and it seems to be saved by the whites and this is not that of Mississippi," she said. "This movie is a betrayal of the passion of black people in Mississippi when they are the ones who saved themselves."

Adams gave a moving example of black people defending themselves.

"I was out with one of the daughters of the family I lived with, and we were trying to get people to sign petitions to get them to register to vote," Adams said. "We went to a shack on a white man's property and found a woman with three or four children. She looked at the floor and said 'yes'mother, I think I'm going to register and didn't want to sign the petition."

POLICY, from page 3

Policing

A country's power of economic potential and heritage ought to help Haiti, he said. "There is no reason why they should be drowning."

Carmer said the action of taking "boat people" back to Haiti is like assigning them to be persecuted by the military government pre-eminent in power in Haiti.

"If we are going to stand by in the Haitian capital, they will be marked by that military government," he said.

David Derge, professor of American public opinion, said the burning of Haitian churches is just basic religious policy.

"We have rules about immigration that applies to all countries," he said. "We just can't have open borders because the country would be flooded."

Just because people are dying all over the world doesn't mean that we should just let them die, he said, "It's not "option to that."

David Wolf, of the United Nations, is a critic of the internal affairs of other nations.

"I don't think we have any evidence with the internal problems of Haiti. We can't be policeman for the world and try to cause them to be like us," he said.

President Bill Clinton's Administration said if the economic sanctions do not work, they want inter-national support for a United Nations-led peace-keeping force in Haiti which would place former Haitian President Jean-Bertrand Aristide back to power.

Information from L.A. Times newswire was used in this story.

Movie Blotter

items reported July 11 from Carbondale Police Department

- Tiffany Mabrey, 25, of 503 S. Logan reported between the 5 p.m. July 8 and 10 a.m. July 10 an incident of grand theft occurred. Her apartment: by breaking a plexiglass window in the rear east door. The suspect removed a 27 inch color television, a cordless telephone, a VCR, a bicycle, a portable radio, camera, 20 compact discs, a disc oven and a red tool box.

- Beverly Whaltes, 24, of 608 W. still reported between 6:15 and 9:30 p.m. July 10 her 1992 white Ford Tempo was stolen while parked in the 300 block of South Illinois Ave.

The Illinois registration number is WH638. The car has two red STU windows and a white windshield wide on the side of the rear bumper. The vehicle was paid off and the local towing companies were not able to recover it.

- Maria Edwards, 20, of 603 S. Washington reported that an unknown suspect broke into her apartment around 2:30 a.m. July 10, on July 9 and 9:30 a.m. July 10.

The suspect forced entry through the front door and removed a television and a cordless phone.

Adams said this woman knew if she did sign and was found out, she would lose her home and her livelihood.

"This year of a sudden she straightened up with a glint in her eye, looked at us and said 'I'm going to sign,'" Adams said. "This was an enormous risk to put her name on that petition and she knew she had found the strength.

That was what the movement was about - black people affirming their humanity."

Lillian Adams, Jane Adam's sister's mother, helped raise the money to send Jane and her brother to Mississippi.

"I thought things had to be done and I really cared in favor of this," Lillian Adams said. "Looking back, we sometimes forget how bad it was down there."

However, Starr said there were good results from this time period.

"Today, Mississippi has the largest percentage of elected black officials in the union and that is the legacy of '64," Starr said.
Certified Angus Beef

骨无骨圆牛排

1.49 lb.

售作牛排只。限买3件，加购$10.00。

Farmland Season's Best Jumbo deli franks

免费

买一磅，获一磅。

Tropicana orange juice

3/5.00

买三件，获一件。

President's Choice salted butter

.88

买一，获一。

Post Raisin bran

免费

买一，获一。

We Welcome

$25 Minimum Purchase
Gift shop puts items on clearance

By Aleksandra Macys
Campus Life Reporter

In the blistering heat of the summer, mirages of Santa Claus and other holiday figures may appear, but no need to fear—they are just because of Christmas in July sale at the University Museum Gift Shop.

Lorilee Huffman, gift shop curator and manager, said people can save from 20 to 75 percent on the items.

Items on sale include holiday items for Christmas and Valentine's Day and glass, ceramic and jewelry items, among other things.

"The majority of the items are geared toward holiday gifts, but there are other items as well," Courvoisier said.

"It seems like toward midsummer we have an excess of things and we have to make room for new stock," Huffman said.

Huffman said the shop keeps merchandise moderately priced so everyone can afford it.

"Our goal is to have good quality items at an affordable price," she said.

All proceeds from the gift shop sales go to programs held at the museum. The sale continues through July 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. It is sponsored by the University Museum Associates.
...continue reading...
Daily Egyptian

July 13, 1994

HELP WANTED

FITNESS SUPERVISOR Full time assistant available; must be able to work with school-aged children. Bachelors Degree required. EOE.

RECEPTIONIST Full time Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday. Must be able to work with walk-in patients. High School Diploma or equivalent required. EOE.

LEGAL STAFF Full time, Monday through Friday. Must have a law degree and be a member of the Illinois bar. Must have previous experience in the legal field. EOE.

PHOTOGRAPHER Part Time, evenings and weekends. Must have a 2 year degree in photography or equivalent experience. Must be able to work independently and with a team. EOE.

MARKETING DIRECTOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in marketing or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in marketing or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ACCOUNT MANAGER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

SALES REPS Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

GRAPHIC DESIGNER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in graphic design or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ADMINISTRATIVE COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

CLERICAL SUPPORT Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING ASSISTANT Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING MANAGER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ACCOUNT MANAGER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

SALES REPS Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

GRAPHIC DESIGNER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in graphic design or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ADMINISTRATIVE COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

CLERICAL SUPPORT Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING ASSISTANT Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING MANAGER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ACCOUNT MANAGER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

SALES REPS Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

GRAPHIC DESIGNER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in graphic design or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ADMINISTRATIVE COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

CLERICAL SUPPORT Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING ASSISTANT Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING MANAGER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

MARKETING COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ACCOUNT MANAGER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

SALES REPS Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

GRAPHIC DESIGNER Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in graphic design or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

ADMINISTRATIVE COORDINATOR Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.

CLERICAL SUPPORT Full Time, Monday through Friday. Must have a degree in business or equivalent experience. Must have strong writing skills and be able to work independently. EOE.
CoACH, from page 12

next World Cup in 1998.

It took the kind of ending the Swedes provided late in the afternoon to relegate Bulgaria’s stunning 2-1 upset of defending champion Germany earlier to hump-act status.

Bulgaria had not beaten
Argentina, Mexico and Germany consistently, so it’s not like an Indiana State making it all the way to the final of the NCAA basketball tournament.

But Germany failing to make the semifinals seems somehow saccrilegious.

The Huns had been there every tourney since 1978. And since being allowed back in FIFA after World War II, Germany had made eight of 10 Final Fours.

This game was far superior to the one that followed all the way through, Bulgaria overcoming a 1-0 deficit resulting from a penalty kick by scoring goals in the 76th and 79th minute of the 90-minute match.

The diving header goal
by Leonan
Letchkov, the winner, was as exciting as they come and, undoubtedly, he’s already been signed to serve
host of Bulgaria
TV’s equivalent of the •·Today.
show.

You can’t relate to competition like this, pal, you’re not trying.

RELATE, from page 12

...call from the Saluki coaching legend when word hit Champaign me. Callahan said. "He’s a good person and he realized how much I wanted the this job."

Staff Photos by Sanjay Seth

(Top) The Cubby Bear Lounge, owned by former Saluki fullback George Loukas, was the venue for the Annual SIU Dav at Wrigley Field Saturday.
This was the 17 year the event was celebrated and a large number of alumni present said it was not their first time at the occasion.

(Left) SIUC alumni gather Inside a function room at the Cubby Bear, exchanging old memories. The event, which is presented yearly by the SIUC Alumni Association, was well attended by approximately 300 alumni.

Alumni
members began the festivities at 11 a.m. and proceeded on to the baseball game between the Chicago Cubs and the Houston
Astros. SIUC alum Steve

Trolly who graduated
In 1987 played centerfield for the Astros
In
the game. SIUC alumni will gather again for a similar event at the Busch Stadium July 30 at 5:00 p.m.

Wednesday

Pasticchio

Dinner

and

Medium Drink

$4.75

EL GRECO

457-0303 or 0304

516 S. Illinois Ave. Carbondale

Pinch Penny Pub

Wednesday Reggae Night

Tony Bell & Kutchie

two Time

Grammy

Nominee

1607

Bud/Bud Light

Old Style/Icehouse Draft

Hula Balls

Swamp Water

Jamaican Red Stripe Beer $2.00

Bud/Bud Light

Old Style/Icehouse Draft

Hula Balls

Swamp Water

Jamaican Red Stripe Beer

Limbo Contest

CONCERT

RIDDIMS

Thursday 7:00 p.m.

100 E Grand

Must Be 19 To Enter

 BEST PRICE IN TOWN!

CUBS VS. Cardinals

Sunday July 31, 1994
Ticket Price: Only $18.00
Covers the game ticket & transportation
Deadline to register - July 22
Sign up - SPC Office, 3rd floor Student Center
536-3393

LA ROMA'S
Hump Day Special

Large one item
Thin crust only
6 & 7-12 oz. Pizzas
$6.95

only

the valid with any other specials includes fritta of Pepsi or beer (with proof of id) with Entree order

$2.50 pitchers of Beer or $1.50 Quarts
Open for Lunch Delivery Mon-Sun. 11 a.m.
515 S. Illinois 529-1344

Page 11
Henderson still with Saluki baseball

By Grant Deedy
Sports Editor

New Saluki baseball head coach Dan Callahan cleared his first obstacle since taking over the program last fall by retaining his interim head coach Ken Henderson agreed to stay with the club as an assistant.

Henderson manned the Saluki program after Sam Riggelman resigned as coach at mid-season and was one of four finalists for the head coaching job.

The usual protocol for a new coach is to bring in his own people as assistants, but Callahan expressed from the beginning a desire for Henderson to remain with the team. Callahan said he met with Henderson shortly after being hired and the two were able to come to terms despite being finalists for the same job.

"I thought it (the meeting) went well," he said. "I don't see any reason why we can't get along. All that's behind us now and it's time to get down to business."

Henderson said it's no mystery he would rather bring in an assistant to the coaching staff, but he is confident in Henderson and pleased that he will be staying with the team.

"I told Kenny right up front, "If I had my preference, you wouldn't be the guy I brought in," he said. "I have to have a preference to my own people, but that is by no means a reflection on Ken's personality, make-up or abilities."

The third coaching spot under Callahan is still vacant, but the coach said he does have some candidates for both the head coaching position or a graduate assistant may be the only personnel options.

"It is something we're working on," Callahan said. "Because of the budget, we may have to bring someone in under restrictive earnings. If we just don't have the funding, we'll look for a graduate assistant or a volunteer coach."

Callahan, who was an assistant coach and athletic academic advisor at SIUC from 1985-'87, said the return to Carbondale has been nothing but positive so far since many of the people still remain that used to be his co-workers.

"This has been somewhat of a renewal of acquaintance," he said. It's definitely nice to see some familiar faces."

Henderson was one of four candidates for the head coaching job. Callahan back to SIUC is the man he used to work for, ex-Saluki skipper llych Jones. Jones ran Saluki baseball for 20-21 seasons

Henderson will remain the man the program at the University of Illinois in 1990. However, Callahan did receive a

Stars of today go Maris' distance

By Mark Herman

PITTSBURGH—Baseball history has had its way for 33 years, what with nobody being able to go the distance toward Roger Maris' record of 61 home runs in a season. We saw more evidence Monday, though, that nothing is out of reach this time around.

Ken Griffey Jr. and Frank Thomas went for Monday in highlighting 1994 as the only a strike didn't seem inevitable. He acknowledged Griffey has a lot better," Thomas said.

"If we have a work stoppage, I'll get to pursue my other career, which is vacationing," said Griffey, expressing a

Notre Dame joins Big East conference

Herbert Courant

The Big East Conference has added the biggest, most recognizable team name in college sports to its lineup.

Notre Dame -

The Big East announced Monday Notre Dame will join the conference in all sports except football starting July 1, 1995, after the conference's 12 members voted unanimously Friday to include the Fighting Irish.

Big East Commissioner Mike Tranghese said the addition of Notre Dame win "a major step forward for our league.

Tranghese said the major benefits the Big East, which will field 13 men's basketball teams in 1995-96, will enjoy are the opening of the Midwest market, the nationwide reputation of Notre Dame and its ability to fill arenas away from South Bowl.

"When Syracuse, Villanova, St. John's and UConn roll in here and there's a conference game at stake, this place (Joyce Center) is going to be rocking," Notre Dame men's basketball coach John MacLeod said.

"We are stepping up big time."

MacLeod said being in a conference will help him recruit. Notre Dame, an independent, has suffered without a conference tournament and an automatic qualifying berth for the NCAA Tournament.

Notre Dame, which will remain an independent in football and a member of the Colonial Collegiate Hockey Association, has been in the Midwest Collegiate Conference in its other sports.

Sports
July 13, 1994
Southern Illinois University at Carbondale