Attorney files dismissal for Argersinger lawsuit

DANIEL FERRARA
ACADEMIC AFFAIRS EDITOR

A Marion attorney has filed to dismiss former SIU Chancellor Jo Ann Argersinger's two lawsuits against the SIU Board of Trustees and President Ted Sanders because the complaints were not filed in the correct court.

James Bleyer, an attorney for the University, said the Illinois Court of Claims should have exclusive jurisdiction of the suit. In the motion filed Monday, he argues the board is an agency of the state, and the complaints against the board should not be filed in the Williamson County Circuit Court.

Bleyer, who said he has been representing the University on different matters for nearly 40 years, would not comment on the litigation and deflected questions to Jack Dyer, executive assistant to Sanders. Dyer, speaking on behalf of the University, said he believes the motion to dismiss would be followed through efficiently.

"It would be inappropriate for us to comment on this while it is in litigation," Dyer said. "But we believe that our position will be upheld in the courts."

Randall E. Osman, Argersinger's attorney, has said he filed the complaints against the board and Sanders in Williamson County because his office is in Williamson County. In the suit, Osman stated the board maintains an office in Caterville, Osman, who will be out of his Marion office until July 19, his secretary said, also said he files all his lawsuits in Williamson County.

Osman has pointed to Glenn Poshard as a reason for Argersinger's termination but did not mention Poshard in the suit because he said it was not part of her contract action.

Parents of slain alumnus express grief, appreciation at press conference

The parents of SIUC graduate Won-Joon Yoon, gunned down two weeks ago in a series of racist attacks, expressed their heartfelt appreciation to the SIUC community at a somber press conference Tuesday.

Members of SIUC faculty gathered along with family and friends of Yoon to remember the man who loved everything about this University, the surrounding beautiful campus and friendly atmosphere.

Yoon was shot in the back two weekends ago outside the Korean United Methodist Church in Bloomington, Ind., where he was a doctoral student at Indiana University.

Yoon graduated from SIUC in May with a bachelor's in aviation management. He had just enrolled in Indiana University as a doctoral student.

Before making his transition to Indiana University, Yoon was an active member of the SIUC Korean Students Association and the Korean congregation of the Walnut Street Baptist Church, 218 W. Walnut St.

The congregation joined voices to sing "Jesus Is All The World To Me," a theme that was apparent in Yoon's everyday walk.

Jimm Bingham, a close friend of Yoon, quoted Galatians 2:20 to express her feelings of the situation surrounding Yoon.

"There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free man, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus," quoted Bingham.

The verse that was the theme of the service was also the theme of Yoon's life. "Won-Joon Yoon truly believed that all people are one in Christ," Bingham said. "He was a Christian who believed that love was stronger than hate."

Through sorrow, Bingham expressed true regret about the boy she said was like a son to her.

"It was an American who destroyed your son," Bingham admonished. "But there are many others that loved your son."

Mourners celebrate life of victim

As the voices of innocent children echoed through the church, more than 150 mourners of all races, ages and nationalities gathered to celebrate the life of Won-Joon Yoon and grieve at the rate committed against the late SIUC graduate.

A memorial service for Yoon took place at 6 p.m. Tuesday at the Walnut Street Baptist Church, 218 W. Walnut St., Yoon's parents, in addition to friends and community members, attended the service.

Yoon's parents had just returned from a memorial service Monday in Bloomington, Ind., where more than 2,000 people including U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno and Benjamin Johnson, a representative of President Clinton, gathered in Yoon's honor.

Yoon, 26, was gunned down July 4 outside the Korean United Methodist Church in Bloomington, Ind., by white supremacist Benjamin Smith.

Smith, 21, was a former member of the World Church of the Creator, a hate group based in East Peoria and led by SIU faculty member Benjamin Smith.

Smith allegedly killed two men and wounded seven others in a shooting spree Fourth of July weekend, law taking his own life after fleeing police in a stolen vehicle the same night Yoon was murdered.

No confidence withdrawn by Faculty Senate

TIM CHAMBLISS

The Faculty Senate defeated a proposal submitted by the Faculty Senate, which called for the removal of all confidence in the SIU Board of Trustees. The move was defeated, 15 to 14, at the Tuesday's senate meeting, with two members abstaining. Max Yen, Faculty Senate president, brought the motion against the resolution, saying, "It's time for us to take a stand together with the board. We feel like, perhaps now on, we'll be listening more, and they'll be listening to us more.

Professors are present in place of another senator, said Yen, who noted not only the need for change but also the need for an opportunity to do so. At last Thursday's meeting, the board asked for questions from not only the attendees, but also from the general floor as well. Yen said this act by the board, coupled with the immediate resumption of all searches, indicates to him that the board is trying to please everyone.

"We will look for additional signs of adjustment," Yen said. "But, on the other hand, if one side is moving closer to you, you have to get away from that." Joen Friedenborg, a faculty member and member of the executive board, voted in favor of the resolution, saying, "I don't understand why the measure was defeated." It seems like everyone (in the senate) is against the Board of Trustees, but there was... a disagreement about the strategy," Friedenborg said. "This vote today sends a message to the Board of Trustees that they can do whatever they want with no consequence." Friedenborg said the professors not only the no confidence resolution, but also believe the senate should use any means possible to send a message to the board. She advocates everything "I've always thought you try as many strategies as you can to accomplish your goals.

AAUP investigation postponed

A Faculty Senate resolution passed last month asking for an investigation into alleged University violations of shared governance guidelines is on hold. The governance committee of the senate is charged with collecting the information requested by the AAUP. The day the laughter died, or at least slipped into a coma

I miss the real comedians, the old school, the ones... who make us laugh (or not) by perusing everything, life and picking out the big things and the little things, all the things, really, that drive us crazy or make us laugh.

Today’s acceptable stand-up is sometimes clumsy, sometimes fast, sometimes whiny, sometimes angry. Today’s stand-up comedians is a sitcom waiting to happen.

Lenny Bruce, Richard Pryor, Sam Kinison, Denis Leary, George Carlin, Gallagher. Andrew “Dice” Clay.

These are the pioneers of real comedy, comedians that isn’t necessarily about laughs, but about understanding life and The Way Things Are.

For us, some of these men died. Each had a task. Each had a purpose. As much as we may not like close up, we can see the echoes of their influence in the younger comedians of today.

If you don’t recognize Lenny Bruce’s name, you should. He died for our sins. Lenny was the first to use profanity in his act. What is sometimes forgotten is the fact that

NATIONWIDE MANHUNT ENDS IN SURRENDER

TOM CHAMBERAIN
Chicago, Ill.

Rafael Resendez-Ramirez, the rail-hopping fugitive suspected of killing at least eight people, surrendered Wednesday to authorities in Texas-Mexico border Tuesday following a month-long nationwide manhunt. The Jackson County sheriff's department and state's attorney have been working with officials in Texas and Kentucky to coordinate efforts in apprehending Resendez-Ramirez.

"It is expected that Texas prosecutors will have the initial opportunity to try Resendez-Ramirez," Jackson County Sheriff's Attorney Michael Newsome said in a prepared news release Tuesday.

"We have no knowledge of any Texas suspect or Texas authority working with Mexican authorities to ensure that Resendez-Ramirez is brought to justice," Newsome said in the news release. "However, we are working with Mexican authorities to ensure that Resendez-Ramirez will be handed over to Mexican authorities." Resendez-Ramirez is also wanted by U.S. authorities for the murder of two others in Texas and one murder in Kentucky, and is wanted for questioning in as many as 14 other killings.

Officials expect Texas authorities to initially prosecute him, but they have filed their warrant in Jackson County.

FBI officials credit a $125,000 bounty for creating "intense pressure" that led to Resendez-Ramirez's capture. "He was as widely known and wanted in Mexico as he was in the U.S.," said Don Clark, the FBI agent in charge of the manhunt.

"We have been looking for him for a number of years and we have had a number of tips," Clark said in a news conference. "But until now, we have not been able to make an arrest."

Clark said the investigation into the slayings of Morber and his family will continue.

Memorial to be unveiled Veterans Day

VATICAN ORDERS AMERICAN PRIEST, NUN TO END MINISTRY

A new war memorial honoring veterans from Jacksonville and Williamson counties will be built in Carbondale's Town Square and is scheduled to be dedicated on Veterans Day in recognition of those who gave the ultimate price for freedom.

Brady Schaeffer, a weekly winner since 1982 to 1993, helps organize the memorial.

The 16 ft. diameter circular monument will be installed in a plaza that says "They Gave Their Today For Our Tomorrow" divided by a star on the circle, Schaeffer said.

Inside the circle, there will be a large star with bricks inscribed with names of soldiers killed in action, said Schaeffer.

Leonard Wood, retired Lt. Col. United States Air Force and Commander of VFW Post 2605, has helped with the project.

The city planning committee helped determine how the memorial would look, Wood said. "It's going to be placed on site, and they have to be careful in showing compassion to gays, lesbians and people in the church, according to city staff, the city requires any plaque, monument, or sign to have a "direct relationship to the history of the area, the early history of Carbondale, or to a specific project or event in the square." That sign itself would be in a "light distance through the square."

City mandates require the memorial to be horizontal and mounted low to the ground at all times.

Because the monument represents the history of Southern Illinois and its design does not obstruct the sight line of the Town Square, the new monument meets the requirements stipulated by city officials, said Redmond.

VFW Post 2605 in cooperation with other posts has compiled about 90 Jackson and Williamson county names for the memorial, said Wood.

"It's an ongoing process," said Wood.

Those who have not previously sent names of lost loved ones or friends from World War II can send a note to Leonard Wood, 1237 E. Gary Dr., by September.

The cost per brick begins at $40.

Vatican orders American priest, nun to end ministry to gays, lesbians

HANNA ROSS
THE WASHINGTON POST

WASHINGTON — The Vatican Tuesday ordered an American priest and nun to end their 30-year ministry to gays and lesbians, after an investigation concluded they failed to comply with the Catholic Church's teaching on the "intrinsically evil of homosexual acts."

In a rare direct intervention, the Vatican placed a gay order on Sister Jeanne Gramick and the Rev. Robert Nugent, who have toured the country from their base in Prince George's County, Md., teaching Catholic parishes ways to reconcile church doctrine with the realities of gay life.

The decision effectively ends the tenure of two of the most prominent gay rights advocates within the Catholic Church.

By issuing a public "notification" calling the pair's teachings "erroneous and dangerous," the Vatican reacted to a level of punishment it has used against American clergy only twice in the last 60 years, both times in the late 1970s.

Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, the Vatican's chief theologian, has long argued that the church must not consider homosexuality a natural orientation or, even if so, as something to be taught.

For church reformers — who considered Sister Gramick and the Rev. Nugent models of moderation — the decision was surely the latest in an escalating series of crackdowns within the Catholic Church.

"It's an on-going process," said Wood.

And the pair's views are "permanently prohibited from teaching and writing," according to the Vatican.

According to the notification, Gramick and Nugent are "permanently prohibited from any pastoral work involving homosexual persons and are ineligible, for an indeterminate period, for any office in their respective religious institutions." While failing short of excommunication, a still rarer measure, this notification is considered an extreme punishment, in part because of its public nature.

The church more frequently chastises errant clergy with a private letter, or through a bishop. This time, though, it chose a kind of public shaming, broadcast to churches across the nation that Gramick and Nugent's views are "heterodoxy at the church.

The ruling also sends a message to the growing number of gay outreach and AIDS ministries in Catholic churches across the country to be careful: In showing compassion to gays, lesbians and people in the church, according to city staff, the city requires any plaque, monument, or sign to have a "direct relationship to the history of the area, the early history of Carbondale, or to a specific project or event in the square." That sign itself would be in a "light distance through the square."

City mandates require the memorial to be horizontal and mounted low to the ground at all times.

1981 and found their teachings "vague, mischievous, and even contrary to Catholic teaching," he recalled in a statement Tuesday.

The pair's letters to editors of local newspapers to protests and rallies to lobbyist defeated officials.

"I've always thought that you as members of the clergy can accomplish your goals," she said.

Donna Post, senior and executive board member, supported the resolution because she does not think the Board of Trustees has listened to the board petitioned by their decisions.

Post also was angered by the board's cancellation of their scheduled-1993 meeting on the Carbondale campus. The Faculty Senate had planned a reception for the Trustees at the time, but the meeting was canceled with too little notice to cancel the senate's resolutions for the reception.

"I felt that, had the board been more responsive, they would not have directed the meeting on the Carbondale campus," Post said. "I don't think this board is interested in what we want; they just think we're just whining."

Post said she feels the faculty's concerns are legitimate, and that she would like to see the board communicate better with their constituents.

While President Yen seems to be "very concerned" about the recent board actions, Friedenberg was still dismayed that no real action was taken because of what she sees as fear of the SIU Board of Trustees.

"It was disregarded to the extent that these big, busy, tanned men are afraid of the board," Friedenberg said. "But we've got nothing to lose, because we have got nothing to lose."

A member of the Korean Students Association encouraged the community to keep striving for racial harmony by not giving up hope.

Arnold reminded members that they want the community to arrive at prevent events like these through love and by recognizing diversity as a driving force so much like this matter happens in the future.

But the members also stressed that above all things, life is the most important.

John Jackson, interim chancellor of SIUC, spoke on the tragedy.

"It is an illustration that we are living in a fragile community," Jackson said.

He urged people to reject hatred and embrace diversity.

Arnold said that Mike Boat said he would do his best to uphold the hate laws.

"We'd like to believe our son, and especially he has left this world, his spirit and love is still here," Jackson said.

Concern has arisen among Greek leaders whoArcie that Select 2000 was implemented at SIUC. Unlike other schools, students were not consulted by administrators before the program went into effect.

Gehella said the creation and progress of the task force has made a positive step in a reaching a decision regarding Select 2000.

A plan that will best suit the students and that both students and the administration will agree on," she said.

Kosovo family torn over whether to stay in United States or return home

William Branigin
The Washington Post

ELGIN, Ill. — In the months since war engulfed their native Kosovo, the Behluli family has faced a series of wrenching choices.

Torn between attachment to their homeland and the imperatives of survival, they hunkered in their houses for more than a month before making their way to neighboring Macedonia at the end of April. Then they had to choose between waiting out the war in a refugee camp and flying off to more distant exile abroad.

Ultimately, they accepted an offer of resettlement in the United States, flying into New York’s Kennedy Airport last month and surprising a U.S. relief agency that had expected to resettle five Behluulis but found 14 on the flight.

The ethnic Albanian refugees then flew to the suburbs of Chicago, where they have relatives and American family had agreed to sponsor them.

Now, the Behlulis may be head- ed home. Informed of a new U.S. government repatriation program that was announced Monday, the family of Naser Behluli, a 40-year-old businessman, screamed and wept for joy in the crowded, one- bedroom dormitory apartment they share. They cannot wait to get back to Kosovo, he said.

But the U.S. offer to pay the refugees’ way home — after weeks of insisting it was not yet safe for them to return — also presents the family with a dilemma. Enver Behluli, 84, their father, is a former, they face the Jeracinating, the State Department Monday changed course, announcing it would send the refugees home at U.S. expense through the International Organization for Migration, an agency that facilitates refugee movements worldwide. The first charter flight from the United States is tentatively scheduled for July 26, the IOM said.

For the Behluli family, the policy shift means an opportunity to return home. But as they begin their second month in the United States, the 14 Behluulis — brothers Naser and Enver; their wives and seven children; their mother, Hava; and their sister Mendulrijc and her infant son — are being pulled in different directions by relatives and resettlement officials.

Naser’s wife, Ferida, has a brother in a nearby suburb who wants the two of them and their three children to return to a new life here. Enver and Ferida are wobbling. The brother-in-law has offered Enver a permanent job with him in the apartment complex he operates. But the hardware business Enver operated with his brother, Naser, in Kosovo also beckons.

Hava and the family matriarch, 84-year-old Hava, is there is no such ambiguity.

“We prefer to stay here,” Hava Behluli said Monday, sitting on a sofa in the dormitory apartment at Judson College, where the family found temporary housing. She wiped tears from her face. “I just want to go home,” she said. “I just want to go back and die over there.”

Kosovo refugee Naser Behluli rests with his son Voldrin other middle-class lifestyle in Kosovo — their own two-story homes, two cars and a truck in the town of Prizor, which the Serbs call Umorove. The brothers’ hardware business included a workshop, two shops and eight employees. Naser still has the cell phone he used to conduct business, a reminder of the relative prosperity his family enjoyed.

All that came to an end when NATO warplanes began attacking in late March and Serb forces started attacking Macedonians out of Kosovo en masse. Serb forces threatened to kill the Behlulis in retaliation for NATO attacks on nearby Yugoslav army barracks, but took our their wrath on other neighbors instead.

“We were afraid to leave and we were afraid to stay,” said Naser’s sister, and left for Macedonia by bus. Mendulrijc’s husband, a soldier in the Kosovo Liberation Army, was left behind in the hills somewhere in the province. Just days ago, the family heard that he survived, increasing Mendulrijc’s desire to return home.

After six weeks in the Macedonian camps, the Behluulis were evacuated to the United States, family landing in Elgin on June 8. For five weeks, they have adjust­ed to American life with help from their sponsors, Vincent and MaryAnn Barlow and their four children. The family runs the Jourist Restoration Ministry, a Christian group that performs musical shows at church gatherings around the country. Vincent Barlow has arranged odd jobs, such as house-painting and window-washing, for the two Behluli brothers. He has taken Enver to a chiropractor for a back ailment and is writing songs to help the children learn English.

MaryAnn Barlow is teaching the Behluulis to shop in American super­markets with the food stamps they receive. The Barlow children, including three teen-­age girls, come over daily to play with the Behluli children, who range in age from 11 months to 13 years.

The Barlows have known that the longer they stay in America, the more difficult it will be for them to return home. The family has resisted the steps that World Relief, and by extension the U.S. government, have wanted them to take — steps that signify more of a commitment to remaining in the United States. Among these are moving into apartments and signing leases, taking regular jobs, enrolling the children in school and to English classes themselves.

“There seems to be some pressure for these guys settled, for them to get jobs and take permanent residence,” Vincent Barlow said. But having heard the family repeatedly expressed a longing for Kosovo, he wonders whether settling here is in the family’s best interests. To survive in the U.S. economy, he notes, both parents would probably have to work and put the children in day care.

“I think the longer they stay, the chances are they won’t want to go back,” Hava Behluli said of the children, a tone of worry in her voice.

“So far they haven’t been bored. It’s possible they might even like it here.”

Lack of felony charges in UW angers frat parents

"I've always given my opinion. And my opinion on this is, I think he is totally out of line in refusing to come to All-Star Game, refusing to be recognized as one of the greatest players playing today."

-Frank Fisk

"That's incredible," Gonzalez said of the fan voting, "it's a popularity game. You don't see real justice in the All-Star voting. But fans in Cleveland, they vote for their players. That's all right. Three days off will be good for me and my team and the game and my numbers."

Gonzalez also was unhappy that Joe Torre, this year's AL manager, picked "bad guys out." Williams and Paul O'Neill as reserves over him for the 97 game. "I had better numbers than both of them," Gonzalez said.

Bunga WITHERS

Seattle电压 University of Washington football players will not be charged with felonies in connection with altercations at a UW frat house, but they could still face misdemeanor charges.

The King County prosecutor's office said yesterday it would not press charges because of conflicting testimony and unclear identifications. It sent files to the Seattle city attorney's office, which handles misdemeanor cases. As a result, it will conduct a separate but related incident Aug 22 and 23 at Tun Kopilolies fraternity. However, the Department of Police had recommended that the case be forwarded to the office by a NATIONAL WARRIORS

With combination of talented recruits and experienced returnees, SIUC swimming and diving team aims to capture its sixth MVC title in a row

The challenge has to come from within; that's the tough part. We'd be disappointed to be just fighting.

The Carbondale Civic Center has quickly become the place in Southern Illinois to hold community and social gatherings. The 8,000 square feet quickly become the place in Southern Illinois Civic Center shows off its versatility by hosting regular public meetings, school dances, church services, business meetings, video conferences and music recitals.

The Carbondale City Council, Carbondale Planning Commission and the Carbondale Park District hold their regular meetings in the Civic Center. The center's design allows for the live television broadcast of these meetings on CityVision 16.

Located adjacent to City Hall at 200 South Illinois Avenue, the Civic Center will celebrate its third anniversary in November. It has contributed to downtown redevelopment by attracting hundreds of people into the downtown area for events. From the beginning, it has been the choice of newswomen to celebrate their weddings and wedding receptions that dominate weekend usage. The Civic Center has accommodated elaborate decorations for the receptions, but it is also flexible with simple decoration designs.

One of the most surprising uses of the facility has been area schools. The Civic Center has hosted the high school proms for Carbondale, Murphysboro, Cobden, Elverado, Carbondale Homecoming Dance, and the graduation ceremonies for Elenora High School and Lincoln Middle School.

The idea was born at Carbondale for decades Dorey Norris had SIU by local for years. People thought it was just as much of an idea community leaders talked about but never happened, and for many years, they were right. The idea, to extend Mill Street east of Illinois Avenue and under the Illinois Central Railroad tracks, would give the community relief from railroad blockages in the downtown area and close to SIU.

The Mill Street Underpass began its final phase of moving towards reality in June when E.T. Simmons Construction Company of Carbondale began construction of the project. Even before the ceremonial groundbreaking on June 22, evidence of construction was visible to the Mill Street-Illinois Avenue-Washington Street area.

The two-year construction schedule will involve work stretching from Thompson Street to Washington Street.

HONORING SENIORS

In recognition of their vol­unteer efforts with Senior Adult Services programs, five senior citizens were honored as honorary City officials on Wednesday, June 21. The announcement was made at 4 p.m. at City Hall.

City Clerk Janet Vaughs, Mayor Alice Jett, Chief Helen Nolling, Police Chief R.T. Finn, who are the City Manager, fire Chief Jeff Jones, Mayor Neil Dillard, and Mayor Neil Dillard.

This year, Carbondale Community Education Inc.'s Senior Citizen Appreciation Program, was celebrated in conjunction with Senior Adult Services' "Annual Volunteer Recognition Day." The event was held at the Senior Adult Services facility, 900 North Springfield Street, Carbondale.

City officials were announced by Mayor Neil Dillard at the dinner. Although the City officials agreed that they would not volunteer for the award, they enjoyed their experience at City Hall.

NATIONAL NIGHT OUT
Join The Fight Against Crime

Once again this August, Carbondale citizens will "give neighborhoods a going away party" at this year's National Night Out celebration. Our celebration will be held on August 3, 1999 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Turkey Park.

The night will be filled with music from a professional D.J. show providing music early in the evening, and the John A. Logan College band will provide music for the end of the night. Once again this year we will be raising funds for the Carbondale R.A.R.E. Inc. We have solicited donations of soda from Marlon Pepsi-Coa, and hot dogs and buns from Carbondale Wild-Mutt, Schnucks, and Kroger's. We will sell the hot dogs and snacks for five cents with all proceeds going to R.A.R.E. The local Kmart Club will be giving away ice cream, so don't miss out. Members of the Carbondale Rotary will assist in serving the food and drinks. Other volunteers will be used to judge a poster contest, help with kids' games and set up and take down the event.

We will have a variety of activities for children.

This includes an on-site poster contest. There will be four different age categories for the contest, with the winner of each category receiving a U.S. Savings Bond. Other games for the kids include a three-legged race, water balloon toss and egg relay.

Posters promoting National Night Out will be placed at various high visibility locations throughout the city. We ask all our Neighborhood Watch Captains to distribute door hangers to homes in their neighborhoods announcing National Night Out and then recognize our Watch Captains with a small gift at the National Night Out celebration.

McGoff the Crime Dog, Sparky the Fire Dog and Boo Boo the Ambulance Bear will all make appearances. Safety Sam, our remote-controlled police car, is always in attendance and is a favorite of the younger kids. The police department, fire department and ambulance service will all have vehicles on display including the smoke inner, D.A.R.E. vehicles and department vehicles. The police captains will be on hand for demonstrations and meet the members of the community. In addition to the city displays we will have displays from businesses and organizations from the community including the Women's Center, Attorney General's Office, the Bank of Carbondale and Radio Shack. Numerous door prizes will be given away during the party.

Preservation News...
Submitted by the Carbondale Preservation Commission
The Carbondale Preservation Commission commemorated Preservation Week 1999 with a guided tour through Carbondale's Northeast Neighborhood on Monday, May 17, 1999. The Preservation Commission would like to thank the residents who participated and Mr. Harding Davis for providing an informative tour of the historic churches and the homes of prominent community leaders within the neighborhood.

The Preservation Commission is currently in the process of establishing an inventory of brick sidewalks within the City of Carbondale. Some of the first brick sidewalks in Carbondale were installed around the Town Square in 1858. In the late 1800s, brick sidewalks replaced earlier oak-plank walks on many residential and commercial streets. Several of these brick sidewalks still remain in the City's older neighborhoods, however, they may not be noticeable due to being overgrown with grass. If you are aware of brick sidewalks within your neighborhood, the Preservation Commission encourages you to call the Carbondale Planning Services Division at 457-3235 to help identify their location. When you call, please provide the street name and approximate street address to better identify the location of the brick sidewalks.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING FINANCING AVAILABLE FOR FIRST TIME HOME BUYERS

To qualify, your income must meet certain limits set by the Federal Government. Your debt-to-income pre-approval percent can exceed certain limits. If you are interested in pursuing one of these two programs to make purchasing a home in the City more affordable, contact a local lending institution and ask about the KEC or MRB programs. You can also ask local realtors about these programs.

REVOLVING LOAN FUND FOR BUSINESS

The purpose of the loan program is to create jobs for low and moderate income persons. At least one job must be created for each $100,000 of RLF funds invested in a project. Also at least 51% of all jobs created or retained as a result of a RLF loan must go to low or moderate income persons.

The City has prepared a standard application form. This form is to be completed and the required attachments prepared. Persons interested in applying for a RLF loan are encouraged to contact Community Services, Mr. Donald Money at City Hall (600 S. Illinois Ave., 459-5302) to receive additional information and a loan application. Once the application is submitted, it will be reviewed by City staff and the Loan and Grant Review Board, and a decision will be made as to whether or not the loan can be approved.

SUBSIDIZED CHILD CARE AVAILABLE FOR WORKING PARENTS

The City of Carbondale Department of Human Services is administering a program to provide child care support for working families. There are scholarships providing subsidies for child care, for working parents. Under certain circumstances, persons in training programs may also qualify for subsidized child care. If the child is eligible, the parent(s) must meet the eligibility test based upon the family size of the family. Based on family size and income, the State requires the parent(s) to pay a co-payment for the child care. An example would be a family of four persons with two children, who would pay $3 per week in co-payment for child care support. If the family had $9,000 per year in income, the co-payment would total $33 per week for child care.

There are now spaces available for enrolling new children at the Eleanora C. Hayes Child Care Center operated by the City of Carbondale for this subsidized child care program. Parents interested in enrolling their children must contact the Eleanora C. Hayes Child Care Center at 441 East Willow Street or by calling 427-3302.

If you have paid your Carbondale water bill on time every month for a period of two years at one location, all you have to do is ask and your deposit will be refunded.

City Job Announcements are advertised on City Vision-16 and on website www.ci.carbondale.il.us. Check it out!
CityVision 16 - Carbondale's Local Government Cable Channel

If you live inside the Carbondale city limits and subscribe to TCI Cablevision, you might have happened upon CityVision 16, Carbondale’s local government cable channel. Channel viewers have learned to stay on Channel 16 for their update on governmental meetings, news briefs, announcements and general information on local happenings, city services and upcoming elections.

Glenda Davis, the Deputy City Clerk, is the face behind the governmental information on local happenings, city services and upcoming elections. Glenda works part-time with TCI Cablevision, adding local events sponsored by the Park District and Public Library, announcing new or expanded programs and services offered by the various city departments and divisions and reminding residents of local ordinance requirements. A challenge generates, two television and three VCRs are located in the City Clerk’s Office, the “hub” of CityVision activities.

A new feature of CityVision 16 has been the addition of WSIU-FM as background to the bulletin board. National Public Radio (NPR) newscasts, local news and a wide variety of musical programming has offered a new dimension to CityVision and has been a welcome reprieve from the “dead air” of earlier broadcasts. Special thanks are extended to Broadcasting Service at Southern Illinois University for its permission to rebroadcast WSIU-FM.

CityVision also offers live rebroadcasts of City Council meetings on the first and third Tuesdays of each month although the schedule will vary somewhat during the summer. City Planning Commission meetings and Carbondale Park District meetings. These audiovisual shows (who know how camera operators are required for the broadcasts, and these persons are selected upon application from city employees.)

Due to the tremendous interest in City Council meetings, these meetings are rebroadcast on Thursdays at noon and Saturdays at 1:00 p.m. Park District meetings are also rebroadcast on the Thursday following the meetings at 7:00 p.m. Again, Glenda Davis utilizes the character generator and VCRs in the City Clerk’s Office to facilitate the rebroadcast of the meetings.

Copies of videotaped City Council meetings are also available through the City Clerk’s Office at $5 each.

Other special events have been broadcast live or recorded rebroadcast on CityVision 16, including City Council candidate forums, Lincoln Middle School graduation ceremonies, and various of news conferences. Recently, we City of Carbondale newsroom when City Vision was televised live and rebroadcast later for wider viewing. Anyone interested in attending an event held in the Civic Center would contact the City Clerk’s Office for further details.

Because of staffing limitations and financial requirements, CityVision cannot be used as a local organizational channel. Use of CityVision is limited to the government.

COUNCIL COMMENTS

Councilwoman Braddole

As the newest member of the city council, I have been spending the past several weeks getting more acquainted with the daily operations of the city. To say the least, I have been impressed by the number and quality of services the staff of our city government provides on an on going basis to the residents, visitors and the entire community. My tours of city properties have taken me from the wastewater treatment plants to the city’s cemeteries, from the fire station to the maintenance facility, from the police department to city hall, and from the school district to the park districts. After visiting with many of the employees in those different areas, I noticed one commonality: the positive and customer-oriented attitude of the staff.

Hearing from the physical components of the community, I have been truly educational experience to receive the weekly staff reports and informational updates regarding the numerous projects and happenings around Carbondale. I suppose that reading the missives reports is not required, but I have found them to be a valuable asset when attempting to understand the subtle and nonobvious nuances of city codes, development issues, legal matters and citizen concerns. However, even with the stacks of reports and data, I am amazed at the amount of information that is "out on the streets," yet unknown to the council. That’s where good old-fashioned on-one-on contact with people helps clear the air and gives important insight to everyday issues and perceptions.

The most exciting part of being on the council thus far has been actually sitting at the council table during meetings and listening to individual concerns about issues that affect neighborhoods, businesses and lifestyles. Even though the issues may seem trivial at an outsider, each concern has validity and is part of the overall conglomerate of the community. Deciding which side of an issue to agree with is not always easy; in fact, it is more often quite difficult. As I try to judge the pros and cons of any particular agenda item, I keep fairness and consistency in mind, and try to put myself in the position of those persons or organizations directly affected. So far, those determining factors have kept me at peace with my decisions; when such decisions are part of the winning majority or part of the losing minority on a council.

The most exciting part of being on the council thus far has been the opportunity to participate in civic activities and interact with people at area events. Some that stand out in my mind are: the groundbreaking ceremony for the Mill Street underpass, the weekend of events for the Shawnee Hills Wine festival sponsored by Carbondale Convention and Tourism Bureau, D.A.R.E. graduation ceremonies at local grade schools, Youth Appreciation Day, and judging the Great Carbondale Boat Regatta. I look forward to more of these wonderful events and to the chance to meet and know more people from around southern Illinois who live, work and learn in Carbondale.

As for the council itself, I have a great deal of respect for each of my fellow councilmembers. The cooperative spirit and camaraderie among all of us is friendly and constructive. I am very certain that this council will be seen as credible, cooperative and progressive for the benefit of the entire Carbondale community, as we begin the new academic year and move ahead toward progress and prosperity.

CRITT CORNER

If You Must Leave Your Pet Behind

Leaving your pet at home alone will place your animal at greater risk for injury or loss, so make every effort to take your pet with you. If you have no alternative but to leave your pet behind, there are some precautions you must take.

1. Give your pet access to a safe, secure room without windows but with adequate ventilation, such as a bathroom. Leave enough food for at least three days (ask your veterinarian ahead of time what’s best for your pet). A sufficient supply of water is critical. One animal can easily drink several gallons of water a day when under stress. Place water in containers that aren’t easily knocked over, and leave a faucet dripping into a bath tub or sink with an open drain. If you expect flooding, provide access to elevated spaces or counters. Leave familiar bedding and safe toys.

2. Don’t confine dogs and cats in the same space. Keep small animals and birds safely caged.

3. Make sure your pets are wearing proper identification (a collar and a tag). Keep a picture and number where you or a contact can be reached as well as the name and number of your vet.

4. Place a notice on your front door advising what pets are in the house and where they are located. Provide a telephone number where you or a contact can be reached as well as the name and number of your vet.

5. If you have a bird, leave food in dispensers that regulate the amount of food and supply extra water. Birds must eat daily to survive. Secure cages to prevent birds from escaping.
