Dust flies at Law School

Renovation continues in full swing for SIU Law School classrooms and library. Two buildings at Small Group Housing will be remodeled in time for the fall classes starting in September. An entering class of at least 75 students will be enrolled. The cigar-chomping worker is George Lenon.

Dean recounts meeting

Nixon wiretap suggestion revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon said at a meeting last September that he once told FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover he might use wiretapping against political opponents, John W. Dean III has told Senate investigators.

Nixon also is quoted as saying in a summary of Dean's testimony to Senate investigators that Hoover told the President that Nixon had been the subject of electronic eavesdropping in the 1968 presidential campaign.

There were no details on the alleged 1968 bugging incident in the summary of Dean's talk with Senate Watergate committee staff members last Saturday.

The fired White House counsel was describing a meeting he attended with Nixon and presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman last Sept. 15, according to the official summary which gave this account.

"Dean met with the President after the indictments had been handed down," Nixon said Haldeman reported what a good job Dean had done.

"Nixon said that Hoover had told him

Trustee resigns, cites lack of time

Dr. Earl Walker of Harrisburg sent his letter of resignation from the SIU Board of Trustees to Gov. Dan Walker Wednesday.

Dr. Walker cited a lack of time for devotion to his private medical practice as the reason for his resignation.

"I'm in the practice of medicine," Walker said. "When I'm away I have to leave my patients without a physician."

"The pressures of SIU trusteeship take too much time away from my medical practice," Walker said.

Walker said he didn't feel he should continue to serve as a trustee if he could not do it responsibly. "I feel that if I cannot devote as much time as is needed I should resign," he said.

Walker said he must set his priorities and his service as trustee must come after his family and his medical practice.

He said he hopes his replacement on the board will exert his full attention to the SIU Foundation. The Foundation will be forced to provide more money because of the tight tax situation, Walker said.

Walker was appointed to the board Feb. 17, 1971 by then-Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

Walker attended SIU for three years during his pre-med studies.

New hearing set for Canut-Amoros

By Gene Charleston

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) has scheduled a new hearing of a complaint by Marisa Canut-Amoros, charging SIU with sex discrimination.

Announcement of a tentative verbal agreement for settlement of the dispute had been made June 4 by SIU Communications Director Don Hecke. At that time, Hecke said a final written agreement was expected to be drawn up by SIU legal counsel and Ms. Canut-Amoros' attorney within the next few days.

The new hearing was set for Aug. 28 when no settlement was received by FEPC after a request from both parties for a continuance of a scheduled hearing.

Pat Worack, FEPC director of case coordination, said Wednesday that FEPC had not considered any settlement of the dispute at its June 12 meeting.

Ms. Canut-Amoros said Wednesday it was her recollection that the settlement was a final settlement of the FEPC complaint.

"I understood it was a true settlement," she said. "I had been told I could start work on Monday."

The agreement, which was to settle the FEPC complaint against the University, did not apply to a complaint against SIU by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), Ms. Canut-Amoros said. She said the verbal agreement stipulated that she would write to HEW and request that the HEW complaint be dismissed. The final agreement drawn up by the University made the settlement contingent on acceptance of the settlement by HEW, Ms. Canut-Amoros said.

"I was committing myself not to push any more with HEW," she said. But there was a possibility the settlement would not be satisfactory to HEW and would be continued despite her request for dismissal.

Ms. Canut-Amoros said the agreement stated she would have a settlement of her demands from August, 1971, when the Illinois fair employment practices law took effect, to the date of the agreement. HEW has jurisdiction from October, 1968, when an executive order dealing with fair employment by holders of federal contracts was issued.

Campus recreation complex bids $1.5 million too high

About $1.5 million will have to be pared from bids received for the proposed east campus recreational complex to fit under the $8.9 million ceiling budgeted for the project.

Bids opened Tuesday brought total bids on the construction of the complex to about $10.4 million.

Some features under consideration for deletion from construction proposals include indoor handball courts and one of three triple-size gymnasiums. Campus Architect Willard

Hart said. Hart met with a campus planning committee Wednesday to discuss the matter. He was unavailable for comment Wednesday afternoon.

Bids on general construction and mechanical work opened Tuesday totalled $9,951,001. Earlier bids totalling $510,710 were taken for re-routing utility lines and extending steam tunnels to the recreational site.

A $15 per quarter fee has been collected for eight years from students to cover the cost of the complex.

that Nixon had been bugged in the 1968 campaign, and Nixon said that sometime in the future they would have to use it to their advantage."

A source close to the investigation was asked if Dean said the President meant he planned to use bugging or whether he planned to use the fact he was bugged as a political issue.

Another portion of the summary quotes Dean as saying that the White House, on Nixon's orders, successfully torpedoed a congressional investigation of the Watergate affair prior to last year's presidential election.

The official summary says Dean reported:

"Nixon said William E. Timmons should get on the Patman hearings and make sure it didn't get out of hand... White House and CRP Committee for the Re-Election of the President blocked Patman hearings by bringing pressure on people to vote against subpoenaing witnesses."

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, sought to stage a full-scale investigation of the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic Party headquarters. Timmons at the time was a White House lobbyist with Congress.

Touring professor to explain alternative correction system

By David Miller
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Jailed at 14, in and out of institutions and prisons for 12 years,

Walker asks Demo caucus for backing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Daniel Walker appealed to a Democratic House caucus Wednesday in an attempt to weaken Democratic support of a Republican-sponsored tax relief plan.

He argued instead on behalf of a plan he himself proposed.

One legislator, who said he was the only Democrat to verbally oppose Walker in the surprise caucus appearance, said the governor was arguing for "politics instead of people."

Rep. Thomas J. Hanahan, D-McHenry, said Walker would have the Democratic party turn its back "on its traditional platform for tax relief."

Hanahan and other Democrats who attended the caucus said Walker appealed for the defeat of a tax relief plan sponsored by House Speaker W. Robert Blair of Park Forest.

Walker asked instead for party members to support his own plan for tax relief which lessens state income tax payments by allowing increased exemptions.

Larry Dye is now an assistant professor working on a novel method of rehabilitation for young lawbreakers.

The 30-year-old Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts is bringing a team of co-workers to SIU Thursday to explain his state's new youth advocacy and alternative correctional system. The panel discussion is at 2 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

"Massachusetts is out of the (correctional) institutional ball game," Dye said, adding that the university has played a significant role in bringing this about. Instead of sending delinquents to correction homes, Dye said, the state entrusts them to the university program.

Dye explained that the youths, 14 to 17 years old, live with volunteer students from the school. These volunteers, he said, act as friends, confidants and advisers to their new roommates. The students also act as advocates of the school and legal systems.

The success of the program, just over a year old, is "extremely high," Dye said. He said there have been "no problems" with his graduates. Reception of the program has been good even up to the state level, he said.

Dye said 70 student volunteers who want to participate next year. These "typical" students, he explained, are from all majors and ethnic groups, adding that campus approval of the program is virtually unanimous.

The program has gotten a very good response from the delinquent youths in it, Dye said. Most of them, he said, had been exposed to institutions of some sort before.

Dye said the program, initiated by student action at the University of Massachusetts, is an answer to the criticisms of negative institutional structures. The large structures, he said, tend to be repressive and have no relevance to society.

"It can only expand," Dye responded to a query of the new system's future. Although Massachusetts is presently the only state with such a delinquency rehabilitation program, he said he expects other states to emulate their successful format.

The entourage just arrived from a New Orleans convention of the National Institute of Crime and Delinquency. Dye said his group was there to learn of new developments and ideas about correctional systems, and that the response to Dye's own program was good.

Dye has served extensively as consultant to various federal and university programs and committees. He previously worked in Massachusetts with Jerome Miller, present commissioner of the Illinois Child and Family Services.

The panel discussion is open to the community and is sponsored by the SIU Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Correction and the Administration of Justice Association.

Budget cuts limit adult ed programs

Due to budget cuts and limited funds, the adult education program this summer will consist of only three horseback-riding classes, Lovell Hall, coordinator of adult education, said in an interview.

The classes will be offered once a week from 7 to 8:30 p.m. for 10 weeks. Beginning horseback-riding will be offered each Monday, starting June 25. The intermediate class will start Tuesday, June 26 and another beginning class will be offered on Wednesday, starting June 27.

Enrollment total due in 2 weeks

Enrollment figures for SIU's summer quarter will be released after the second week of class, according to Louis Robinson, statistician with the Office of Admissions and Records.

Robinson made no predictions as to the number of students enrolled, preferring to wait for late registration figures. He said the final tally is held up until after the tenth day of classes, after which the figures are computed and released.

The first official count is accompanied by a second, more accurate report later in the quarter. Robinson said the compilation of enrollments would not be slowed by the differing summer session lengths.

Leadership group to hold workshop

Youth World, a leadership program for high school youth which critically examines major issues of the day, will hold its 12th annual workshop at SIU Aug. 18-24.

This year the program will focus attention on two major domestic issues: crime and punishment, and environment and pollution. Two major international issues, the Middle East crisis and terrorism, will also be discussed.

covered in the HEV complaint, but not by FEPC jurisdiction.

SIU Legal Counsel John Huffman was on vacation and unavailable for comment. Richard Higerson, of the Legal Counsel's office, had no comment on the matter.

Ms. Canut-Amoros said she had received notification of the new hearing, to be held at the Carbondale Holiday Inn, Wednesday morning.

Summit leads to signing of nuclear ban guidelines

CAMP DAVID, MD (AP)—President Nixon and Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev have reached agreement on a new declaration designed to spur a permanent ban on nuclear offensive weapons, authoritative sources disclosed late Wednesday.

The signing is tentatively set for Thursday. At the same time, Nixon and Brezhnev may announce an accord for joint cooperation in peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The finishing touches on the guidelines for the now-recessed SALT II talks in Geneva were reached by Nixon and Brezhnev in summit conferences held in a mountain retreat here.

The agreement could rival in importance the accord reached in Moscow last spring when Nixon and Brezhnev held their first summit. Those talks produced permanent limits on some nuclear defensive weapons and a temporary limited ban on some offensive weapons.

It was understood the new guidelines reached here were mostly general in nature. But they are intended to accelerate the suspended technical talks covering such complex systems as multi-targeted missile warheads.

The document would not be a treaty, but is considered essential to get the stalled Geneva talks moving again.

A companion pact would pool U.S. and Soviet research in the field of peaceful uses of nuclear energy, including fast-breeder reactors and controlled explosions.

Nixon and Brezhnev met late into the evening Wednesday and planned to reconvene Thursday.

With Nixon and Brezhnev as they talked until 3:15 p.m. EDT about strategic arms limitations were Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

Then Brezhnev and Nixon left the lodge for a ride in the new Lincoln Continental limousine that Nixon gave the Communist leader as a gift. Brezhnev was at the wheel as they drove around the Camp David grounds for about 10 minutes. An interpreter was with them.

The talks resumed in Nixon's lodge shortly after 5:30 p.m. with Kissinger and Kobrynin attending Rogers and Gromyko met separately to discuss the Middle East.

Spokesman said Nixon and Brezhnev had expanded their discussions to include the forthcoming Helsinki conference on European security and prospects for a mutual reduction in the military forces maintained in Europe by the United States and the Soviet Union.

The two leaders met under tight security. Helmeted Marines in combat green lined the electrified barbed wire double fences that line the 143-acre presidential retreat.

The Soviet leader said of the summit generally: "The results will be good without question. The talks are in the interest of both our governments and our peoples. I am satisfied."

Earlier, before the day's talks began, Brezhnev met in private with Nixon for about 15 minutes and told newsmen who asked about the talks, "They have started well."

"I'm sure the results will be good without question," the Soviet leader said.

After their private meeting, Nixon and Brezhnev walked outside to go to another lodge to join their advisers for an afternoon session.

The setting was Aspen Lodge at Camp David, the heavily guarded presidential compound high in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

Before getting together the two leaders conferred past the noon hour with their own aides.

In the late morning, Brezhnev was seen talking with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

Nixon conferred during the morning with two top advisers, Henry A. Kissinger and Alexander M. Haig Jr.

In Washington, meanwhile, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai S. Patolichev signed an agreement designed to prevent double taxation of Americans working in the Soviet Union and Russians in the United States. This fifth agreement during summit week depends upon Senate ratification. Shultz called it an "important building block in the development of our commercial relations."

In the Middle East, one of the world's hot spots, both the United States and the Soviet Union have supplied arms and general support to contesting Arab states. Washington also is the principal backers of Israel. Knowledgeable officials believe an eventual agreement will depend finally on a direct accommodation between Israel and its neighbors. Still, the United States and the Soviet Union can exert considerable influence.

Staff cleared of negligence in two deaths

An investigation into the deaths of two inmates at Lake County Jail has found no negligence on the part of the prison staff, Charles Rowe, assistant director of the Illinois Department of Corrections in Springfield, said in a telephone interview with the Daily Egyptian.

Edward Moran, 23, and Nathaniel Burse, 23, both of Chicago, were found strangled in a cell block shared by four other defendants charged with a series of slayings in Illinois.

Moran was charged in October, 1972, with murder in connection with the May 3, 1972, slaying of Michael Gerschenson, 19, an SIU sophomore from Highland Park. Gerschenson's body was found about one and a half miles north of West Frankfort along Interstate 57.

Anthony Kuharich, director of the Bureau of Detention Standards and Services, headed the investigation which was ordered by Allyn Sielaff, director of the Illinois Department of Corrections.

Details of the report were not yet available Wednesday. Rowe explained that verbal reports concerning the investigation have indicated that the prison personnel were not at fault.

Damnit! no, dam it

Several top members of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers gathered in Lt. Gen. Frederick J. Cork's office for a top secret meeting.

"What are we gonna do now that the Mississippi is receding?" Capt. Seymour Water nervously asked. "Are we gonna be outa work?"

"No, no, you fool. I'll think of something to do," Lt. Gen. Cork replied with confidence as he played with a toy bulldozer on his desk. "You men all know our slogan 'keep busy, keep busy'."

"Right Corky!" they chanted. "Keep busy." And with that, everyone pinned their "keep busy" pins on their chests and vowed never to take them off again unless they had absolutely nothing else to do.

"I know," said I. C. Water, brother of Seymour Water, (the government likes to keep things in the family). "We could cut off Alaska from Canada, float it down the Pacific Ocean around South America and put it between Florida and Texas. It would fit just perfectly between them. And besides, there wouldn't be any stink from the conservationists about the oil pipelines. When the ice melts, we could haul all the oil out by trucks. Wow, just think of all the new roads we could build."

A cheer broke out from all of the members except Lt. Gen. Cork.

"Silence!" Cork shouted. "That's ridiculous. First of all, it wouldn't cost enough money and, secondly, it won't take enough time. That's out."

"Well damnit," I. C. Water mumbled to himself. "Now that's it," Cork replied, as he excitedly pushed a stack of papers off his desk with his bulldozer.

"Damnit?" Water questioned, failing to see what Cork was getting at.

"No, dam it!" Cork yelled.

"Alaska?" Water asked.

"No, stupid. The Mississippi," Cork said becoming somewhat disgusted with Water. "We shall return to our specialty. Imagine, gentlemen, what one strategically placed dam at the southern tip of Illinois would do! With the Mississippi and Ohio rivers completely shut off, why, we could flood the whole state of Illinois. And, once the dam is built, we could spend the rest of our time rescuing stranded homeowners. What the hell, over a million acres were already flooded. And besides..."

"That's fantastic," Gen. A. Butts interrupted. "It'll even be good for the whole economy, particularly the farmer. Just think what that will do for the price of soybeans."

Long live porno newstands

To the Daily Egyptian:
Dear Kurt Stowers and others of the Christian Community:

Long live the pornographic newstands of Carbon-dale stores!

I may never have bought or read any human-sexual magazines, but then I don't need them to be enticed to the grocery store. After the slothy entertainment of local bars, we need a place to congregate, and if food won't bring everybody together, well then, throw in a little sex.

You'll never guess who I met by the Chesiro last week, and he confessed to me as we passed the Boyardee Pizza Mix that, if it weren't for the box-backs and women's mags, he would probably never stir from Morris Library for an evening.

Really now, let's give God equal time with the Cosmopolitan editorship. A Gideon on every aisle, "The Upper Room" by the cash register! America's Philistines are perishing in their hunger! Well?

The selling of the government

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Sale of the United States Government to the giant International Peanuts & Popcorn conglomerate was announced on July 4, 1973, by President Nixon.

"I have long held," Mr. Nixon declared, "that the private sector can do the job better. Now we will prove it."

Sale of the faltering Government had long been rumored. Debt-ridden, it had gone into the red virtually every year for several decades. Recent scandals at top-management levels, coupled with unrecord fiscal policies, had sent its stock tumbling to record lows on the international financial market.

The new venture was called "The Conglomerated States of America, Inc.," with its products and services marketed under the catchy brand name, "Con America."

As is customary in such cases, Mr. Nixon was retained as President of the Government division of Con America. But otherwise, conglomerate officials moved swiftly to inject modern managerial techniques in an effort to save the shaky enterprise.

As a first step, the J. Walter Thompson men who had been running White House affairs were fired and the account given to a new advertising agency, Buttons, Buttons, Buttons & Osborne.

They recommended replacing the American eagle as a trade mark with the dove of peace, clutching a $100 bill—"to put across the image of Peace with Profit." And their company slogan was an all-around winner: "For Confidence—Con America!"

Top-level efficiency experts were called in to revitalize management techniques. The unwieldy and highly-inefficient Congress was replaced by a 12-man Policy Advisory Council composed of the senior Congressional leaders.

Wasteful poverty programs were cut on the grounds of, "What's poverty ever done for America?" Corporate profits were increased "to help the little man." And the Department of Health, Education & Welfare was replaced by a Sunshine Club of directors' wives who brought comfort and cheer to the sick, the illiterate and the needy.

Presidential press conferences were, of course, cancelled. But the President was required to deliver an annual State of the Conglomerate message to the annual stockholders meeting.

Big unions and big business, being the majority stockholders, naturally controlled these meetings.

But it seemed only fair that those who had the most stock had the most say.

Abroad, Con-America did a vigorous job selling wheat and machinery to the Russians and Chinese and arms to every little starving country that could afford supersonic jet fighters.

Inevitably, however, the deal was challenged on the grounds it was illegal, un-Constitutional and a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

But the distinguished Wall Street law firm of Midge, Mudge & Mitchell, which had replaced the Supreme Court, ruled (1) Presidents had long sold out to conglomerates; (2) no American could claim the loss of his Congressman if he couldn't remember his name, and (3) other countries offered competition and if you didn't like Con America you could take your business elsewhere.

So Con America struggled along with big unions, big business, senile Congressmen and a silent President advised by advertising men running things. And, oddly enough, hardly anyone noticed the difference.

Secret Intelligence Plan

Reprinted from St. Louis Post Dispatch

The following document is among several removed by White House counsel John W. Dean from his safe when he was fired by the President. It outlines various ways to expand legal and illegal intelligence operations in the country. The document was written by Tom Charles Huston, a White House staff member, and its proposals were approved by President Nixon in July, 1970, but suddenly rescinded five days later. Subsequently, a White House security team ("The Plumbers") was organized and used the tactics proposed by Mr. Huston in the Watergate and Ellsberg burglary cases. The documents were obtained by the New York Times.

Recommendations Top Secret

A. Interpretive Restraint on Communication Intelligence RECOMMENDATIONS:

Present interpretation should be broadened to permit and program for coverage by NSA (National Security Agency) of the communications of U.S. citizens using international facilities.

RATIONALE:

The FBI does not have the capability to monitor international communications. NSA is currently doing so on a restricted basis, and the information is particularly useful to the White House and it would be to our disadvantage to allow the FBI to determine what NSA would do in this area without regard to our own requirements. No appreciable risk is involved in this course of action.

B. Electronic Surveillance And Penetrations RECOMMENDATION:

Present procedures should be changed to permit intensification of coverage of individuals and groups in the United States who pose a major threat to the internal security.

Also, present procedures should be changed to permit intensification of coverage of foreign nationals and diplomatic establishments in the United States of interest to the intelligence community.

At the present time, less than (unclear) electronic penetrations are operative. This includes coverage of the CP U.S.A. (Communist Party, U.S.A.) and organized crime targets, with only a few authorized against subjects of pressing internal security interest.

Mr. Hoover's statement that the FBI would not oppose other agencies seeking approval for the operating electronic surveillances is gratuitous since no other agencies have the capability.

Everyone knowledgeable in the field, with exception of Mr. Hoover, concurs that existing coverage is grossly inadequate. CIA and NSA note that this is particularly true of diplomatic establishments, and we have learned at the White House that it is also true of New Left groups.

C. Mail Coverage RECOMMENDATION:

Restrictions on legal coverage should be removed.

Also, present restrictions on covert coverage should be relaxed on selected targets of priority foreign intelligence and internal security interest.

RATIONALE:

There is no valid argument against use of legal mail covers except Mr. Hoover's concern that the civil liberties people may become upset. This risk is surely an acceptable one and hardly serious enough to justify denying ourselves a valuable and legal intelligence tool.

Covert coverage is illegal and there are serious risks involved. However, the advantages to be derived from its use outweigh the risks. This technique is particularly valuable in identifying espionage agents and other contacts of foreign intelligence services.

D. Surreptitious Entry RECOMMENDATION:

Present restrictions should be modified to permit procurement of vitally needed foreign cryptographic material.

Also, present restrictions should be modified to permit selective use of this technique against other urgent security targets.

RATIONALE:

Use of this technique is clearly illegal; it amounts to burglary. It is also highly risky and could result in great embarrassment if exposed. However, it is also the most fruitful tool and can produce the type of intelligence which cannot be obtained in any other fashion.

The FBI, in Mr. Hoover's younger days, used to conduct such operations with great success and with no exposure. The information secured was invaluable.

NSA has a particular interest since it is possible by this technique to secure material with which NSA can break foreign cryptographic codes. We spend millions of dollars attempting to break these codes by machine. One successful surreptitious entry can do the job successfully at no dollar cost.

Surreptitious entry of facilities occupied by subversive elements can turn up information about identities, methods of operation, and other invaluable investigative information which is not otherwise obtainable. This technique would be particularly helpful if used against the Weathermen and Black Panthers.

The deployment of the executive protector force has increased the risk of surreptitious entry of diplomatic establishments. However, it is the belief of all except Mr. Hoover that the technique can still be successfully used on a selective basis.

E. Development Of Campus Sources RECOMMENDATION:

Present restrictions should be relaxed to permit expanded coverage of violence-prone campus and student-related groups.

Also, CIA coverage of American students (and others) traveling or living abroad should be increased.

RATIONALE:

The FBI does not currently recruit any campus sources among individuals below 21 years of age. This dramatically reduces the pool from which sources may be drawn. Mr. Hoover is afraid of a young student surfacing in the press as an FBI source, although the reaction in the past to such events has been minimal. After all, everyone assumes the FBI has such sources.

The campus is the battleground of the revolutionary protest movement. It is impossible to gather effective intelligence about the movement unless we have campus sources. The risk of exposure is minimal, and where exposure occurs the adverse publicity is moderate and short-lived. It is a price we must be willing to pay for effective coverage of the campus scene. The intelligence community, with the exception of Mr. Hoover, feels strongly that it is imperative (the was unclear) increase the number of campus sources this fall in order to forestall widespread violence.

CIA claims there are no existing restraints on its coverage of overseas activities of U.S. nationals. However, this coverage has been grossly inadequate since 1965 and an explicit directive to increase coverage is required.

Budget and Manpower Restrictions RECOMMENDATION:

Each agency should submit a detailed estimate as to projected manpower needs and other costs in the event the various investigative restraints herein are lifted.

RATIONALE:

In the event that the above recommendations are concurred in, it will be necessary to modify existing budgets to provide the money and manpower necessary for their implementation. The intelligence community has been badly hit in the budget squeeze. (I suspect the foreign intelligence operations are in the same shape) and it may well be necessary to make some modifications. The projected figures should be reasonable, but will be subject to individual review if this recommendation is accepted.

Measures To Improve Domestic Intelligence Operations RECOMMENDATION:

A permanent committee consisting of the FBI, CIA, NSA, DIA (Defense Intelligence Agency), and the military counterintelligence agencies should be appointed to provide evaluations of domestic intelligence estimates, and carry out the other objectives in the report.

RATIONALE:

The need for increased coordination, joint estimates, and responsiveness to the White House is obvious to the intelligence community. There are a number of operational problems which need to be worked out since Mr. Hoover is fearful of any mechanism which might jeopardize his autonomy. CIA would prefer an ad hoc committee to see how the system works, but other members believe that this would merely delay the establishment of effective co-ordination and joint operations.

Vouchers put foundation's presidential fund in red

By Diane Mitakos
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Vouchers for entertainment and travel expenses submitted to the SIU Foundation by SIU-C President David R. Derge put the foundation's President's Development Fund $644.44 in the red, according to the foundation's financial report for the fiscal year ending March, 1973.

The President's Development Fund was established by a contribution of $688.24 from Derge, Robert L. Gallegly, foundation treasurer, said. The financial report shows there were no other contributions to the fund during the fiscal year, although expenditures from the fund totaled $1,312.68.

Derge's contribution to the fund came from fees the president earned through speaking engagements, Gallegly noted.

The withdrawals from the President's Development Fund are covered by four vouchers in the foundation treasurer's files. All the vouchers were submitted by Derge, Gallegly said. The first two vouchers are for $12 each. One is for Derge's annual membership fee to the Admiral's Club, headquartered in New York City. Gallegly said he did not know exactly what the Admiral's Club is, but that membership is "good the world over."

The second $12 voucher is for Derge's annual membership in the TWA Ambassadors Club. This is a group of frequent air travellers sponsored by the airline.

A bill for expenses incurred during the staff retreat held last fall in Grafton, Ill. was presented to the foundation as a $199.01 voucher from Derge.

The final, and largest, voucher is, for $1,089.57. The amount was paid to Derge to reimburse him for "several entertainment items at various places" that the president originally paid out of his own pocket, Gallegly said.

Gallegly described the four vouchers drawn on the President's Development Fund as "all in order." The money spent to meet the bills had been drawn from unrestricted funds, he said.

The new $10,000 University Development Fund will also be built with unrestricted funds, Gallegly said.

The University Development Fund, recently made available to SIU-C by the SIU Foundation will replace the President's Development Fund, Gallegly said.

The University Development

Fund will be spent to entertain persons important to the development of SIU. According to a stipulation imposed by the foundation board of directors, none of the money may be spent to purchase alcoholic beverages.

One of his duties as foundation treasurer, Gallegly added, is to closely check the vouchers submitted for payment from the University Development Fund, to be certain that no bills for alcoholic beverages are included.

Appropriations bill for SIU moving easily through Senate

By Diane Mizalho
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's appropriations bill is moving through the Illinois State Senate with little trouble and will probably be passed to the House of Representatives by the end of this week, Robert L. Gallegly, SIU Board of Trustees treasurer, said Wednesday.

The bill, which calls for a total $146.9 million appropriation for SIU, had passed its second Senate reading and was ready for its third when it was recalled Wednesday for the addition of an amendment, Gallegly said.

The amendment was characterized by Gallegly as "minor," and of a technical nature.

Despite the praise in the bill's movement through the Senate, Gallegly said he felt it was "coming along pretty good" and will probably receive its third reading Friday.

After the third reading, the Senate will vote on the bill. Passage is virtually certain, Gallegly said.

However, Gallegly added he could not predict how long the bill will remain in the Illinois House and what action the House will take on it.

The SIU appropriations bill is divided into an operating budget of $101.7 million and a capital budget of $45.2 million. Of the capital budget, $39.2 million is reappropriations.

The appropriation for SIU is part of a package of state university appropriations presently before the Senate. The state university appropriations under legislative consideration total around $646 million for operating costs, and $250 million for capital improvements.

British facing worst drought in century

LONDON (AP)—The British wish it would rain. And rain. And rain. A thunderstorm that burst over London this week brought the capital its first measurable rainfall in 18 days, but the weathermen say a lot more is needed.

If it doesn't pour buckets all through the peak vacation months of the summer, parched Britain will suffer its worst fall drought for a century.

Water authorities, alarmed by the lowest rainfall since 1740 in a country famed for its damp climate, are already rationing supplies in some areas and making dire predictions.

Housewives are complaining about vegetable prices. A pound of good quality tomatoes costs on average 75 cents, and onions retail around 37 cents a pound. These prices are double last year's level for June.

The increases are reflected in the price of most other vegetables and the Ministry of Agriculture said part of the rise was due to the lack of rain.

Ministry spokesmen said the dry spell, if prolonged through the summer, would mean shortages which would push up other prices.

The British Waterworks Association has warned that only "a very wet summer" will prevent serious shortages from September onward.

Weathermen are pinning their hopes on a climatic phenomenon known as the "European monsoon" which has been responsible for the damp British summers of recent years.

This is caused by rapidly rising warm air over western Europe coming into contact with the cool, moist thermals rolling eastward across the Atlantic.

Astronauts' good health called big surprise of Skylab flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The big surprise of Skylab's long mission is how healthy the crew is, proving that man can "operate efficiently, well and happily in space," the astronauts said Wednesday in a news conference from orbit.

"I think I'm in as good shape now almost as when I left," said mission commander Charles Conrad Jr. after 26 days in space.

"Medically and subjectively what's been such a pleasant big surprise to me is how nice we feel," said Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, the first physician in space and Skylab 1's science pilot.

"We're able to get up in the morning, eat breakfast and do a day's work. I'm tremendously encouraged about the future of long duration flight."

Conrad, Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz answered newsmen's questions relayed to them by Mission Control during a morning news conference from space.

The spacemen afterward spent most of the day stowing aboard their command ship the harvest of scientific information gathered during their mission. They were packing the space ferry ship in preparation for leaving the orbiting laboratory and returning to earth on Friday.

During the news conference Kerwin cautioned that although the medical findings looked good, they were not complete.

"Right now the score is man three, space nothing," he said. "But it's a little early in the game. I guess let's wait until we get down and look at the data before we make any rash decisions."

Doctors on the ground agreed that the health of the spacemen appeared good, but also cautioned that the true test of how well man can withstand space travel comes when he returns to earth.

"In general the three crewmen are in good health," said Dr. Reycie Hawkins, the chief physician for the astronauts. He added, however: "The re-entry stress and re-introduction to one gravity is the critical period in question now."

He said that Soviet cosmonauts returning from long-duration space flights have experienced difficulties in walking and standing. The physician doubted the Skylab 1 crew would have similar problems, but said it was possible and recovery operations were being used to guard against it.

Testing just how well men can withstand the de-conditioning effects of living for long periods of time in space weightlessness is one of the main objectives of the Skylab program.

Connally wants to quit post; says some leaks 'accurate'

WASHINGTON (AP)—John B. Connally said Wednesday he is not unhappy or upset about his White House job but wants to quit as soon as possible.

He seemed to deny published reports he is restless and displeased about his White House role, and feels cut off from ready access to President Nixon. But Connally puzzled newsmen at the White House by declaring:

"You have some leakers who are fairly accurate in what they have been leaking to you."

The one-time Texas governor who shifted from the Democratic to Republican party eight days before becoming a parttime, unpaid presidential consultant on May 10, was asked how long he planned to remain on the job.

"As short a time as possible," he responded, adding that he hopes to return to private life by mid-summer.

Asked if he had conveyed his wishes to Nixon, Connally told his news conference he was "trying to send word to him through you all."

The strongman of the Nixon Cabinet when he served 16 months as Secretary of the Treasury, Connally explained his desire to leave by saying: "I believe I've given all the advice that I have to give."

But at another point he said he expects to make a contribution in the planning of Phase 4 inflation restraints which he said should contain specific guidelines and "fairly firm controls" over selected industries, perhaps including oil producers.

Connally had been scheduled to make a two-week trip to the Soviet Union in May and a 60-day world tour with his wife starting this month.

Guard barracks set for repair soon

CAMP ATTERBURY, Ind. (AP)—An Indiana National Guard spokesman said Wednesday immediate steps have been taken to repair Camp Atterbury barracks which some Illinois National Guard troops described as "unfit for human habitation."

Rep John Anderson, R-Ill., said members of the 129th Infantry headquartered in Rockford, told him the central Indiana camp was "crawling with rats and roaches and mess halls are filthy, windows and screens are broken, in short that the place is unfit for human habitation."

The unit is at the camp for two weeks National Guard training. "A number of Illinois guardsmen came down here and a few were assigned to nine barracks or so and they found really bad conditions," said Capt. Sam Graves of the Public Information Office.

"Windows were broken, some had no screens, there were holes in the ceiling and holes in the walls, rainwater was coming in through the roof."

"They used buckets, and in one case a mattress, to catch the rainwater. An Illinois medical officer in some cases refused to let them live in some of the old buildings," Graves said.

"These are old buildings. They were temporary in 1941 and yet they are still being used."

Graves said while he felt some of the complaints may have been exaggerated, "they have some valid, legitimate gripes."

But he said he felt some of the trainees came "expecting a silver platter, and found the silver platter was a paper plate."

"A lot of work had to be done to make the barracks livable. A daily medical check of those barracks is being made to make sure they are acceptable in terms of living standards."

Armed robbers steal $100 from store

Approximately $100 in currency and change was taken in an armed robbery at the Rhodes-Burford House Furnishing Co., 122 N. Illinois in Carbondale, late Wednesday afternoon.

Two black males, described as being in their early twenties, are being sought by police in connection with the crime.

Wanda Furlond and Walter Mann, Rhodes-Burford employees who were present at the time of the robbery, would not comment pending the approval of the store's management.

Carbondale police said no one was injured in the robbery, and that preliminary investigations have rendered no additional leads.

Girl missionaries

How about spending your summer months as a missionary? That's what SIU students Pamela Barnett, left, and Jennifer Stock are doing. Ms. Barnett, presently in Brazil, and Ms. Stock, working in Indochina, are part of the Now-Corps of the Oriental Missionary Society.

Personal visits benefit teachers

First-year teachers have a hard time making the transition from student to teacher and applying the techniques they learned in the university classroom to the actual situation with a real life class of boys and girls.

To help bridge that gap, two language arts educators from SIU-Carbondale have developed a unique follow-up plan—they make personal visits as a team to the young teacher's classroom, help him or her spot any problems, offer suggestions on how to meet them, and suggest adaptations of theory or technique to fit the local situation.

One or the other may even take a turn teaching the class to illustrate a particular technique, while the other sits with the young teacher, interpreting or answering questions. Nancy Quisenberry and Terry R. Shepherd, both assistant professors in the elementary education department, last spring quarter made regular visits to 14 first-year elementary teachers who were among the students in their methods classes last year.

In each school, the visitation program has been implemented with the approval of the individual teacher's principal and superintendent, and in some cases, with the endorsement of the school board.

"So far as we know, this type of follow-up has not been done previously," Ms. Quisenberry said. The two SIU educators found they became involved with the children as well as the teachers. "When we have helped them get started on a project such as writing poems, creating crossword puzzles, and making puppets, we find they are quite eager to see us arrive on our next visit," Shepherd said.

"These creative activities lead them into many aspects of the language arts—reading, spelling use of the dictionary, sentence structure.

"They can learn to work together on the projects, then all can share in what each other produces, and all can learn from the corrections that have to be made."

This pilot program was supported by a $750 grant from University Research and Projects, providing transportation costs for the visits and some secretarial assistance. Ms. Quisenberry and Shepherd were given time from their teaching duties.

The first-year teachers who were involved in the program include: Rosemary Ackerman, Carbondale, teaching in the Williamson County Head Start program at Energy; Brenda Carter, Carbondale, teaching at Carbondale's Winkler School; Mary Margaret Hutchason, Marion, teaching in Crainville Elementary School; Ilana H. Ing, Benton, teaching in the Lincoln Grade School, Benton.

Cheryl Elaine Lampe, Carbondale, teaching in Elkville Grade School; Ms. Frances Lindser, DuQuoin, teaching in Sacred Heart School, DuQuoin; Frances Louise Lokerse, McAnelly, teaching in McKinley Elementary School, Marion; Kenneth McAnelly, Marion, teaching in McKinley Elementary School, Marion.

Barbara Parrish, Carbondale, teaching in the Church Women United Nursery School, Carbondale; Patricia Wagdy, Irvington, teaching in Central City Grade School, Centralia; Areta Jean Woodbridge, Salem, teaching at Keil; Mrs. Sandra Bechtel, Herrin, teaching in Christopher Elementary School; and Denise Parker, Centralia, teaching at Keil.

SIU, City merge ambulance service

By Stan Kusinski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A consolidated community and University ambulance service will be effective July 1.

The contract was unanimously approved by the Carbondale City Council Monday. The Board of Trustees approved the contract June 7.

The University will provide ambulance service for all persons located within the corporate limits of the city. The service to be rendered applies only to emergencies and not transfers between hospitals or care centers within the city or between cities.

Terms of the city-University agreement are for six months, terminating December 31. The agreement, however, may be extended for an additional six months by written agreement of the parties.

The city shall pay the University $40 per ambulance run within the corporate limits of the city. It is not obligated to pay for those runs required by students registered half-time or more for tuition purposes in the University.

The city is also not obligated to make any payments to the University for any runs outside the corporate limits of the city.

SIU has agreed to provide Carbondale with a certificate of insurance which provides for bodily injury and property damage insurance coverage for the use of the ambulance for the amount of one million dollars.

The consolidation will benefit both the University and city. It will cut operating costs for both the city and SIU and also improve local ambulance service, City Manager Carroll Fry said.

In an effort to establish a county-wide ambulance service, Fry has suggested a proposal to that effect to the Jackson County Board of Supervisors.

The suggestion, presented for the first time, was not accepted by the Jackson County Board, George Falch said. However, this only means that further negotiations are necessary, he added.

If the services are comparable or better to that of the current Health Service program, SIU would also take advantage of the county-wide service, Sam McVay, Health Service administrator, said.

The community-University consolidation will send no further staffing or additional equipment, Dean of Students George Moore said.

He said that this undertaking would be a step toward the integration of community and University operations and could improve town-gown relations.

Milk price panel approved by House

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois House Wednesday approved a measure which would set up a commission to regulate the price of milk which processors may charge and eliminate sales of milk to stores at bargain prices.

Sponsored by Rep. Robert Craig, D-Indianapolis, a minority whip and a dairy farmer, the measure was designed to safeguard the presence of small milk producers in the market place.

"You let the big producers keep underselling the little guys with their low prices on milk and one day they'll be able to control the market like the big oil producers are doing with gasoline," Craig said.

"By eliminating the competition, they'll be able to set prices as high as they want and say 'you've got to buy from us,'" Craig said.

The measure which was passed 95-59, and was sent to the Senate, drew criticism from another dairy farmer, Rep. James Holloway, D-Sparta. "What we don't need in the dairy business is more regulation," Holloway said. "If you can't compete, you don't belong in business."

The measure would set up a dairy industry trade practices division in the Public Health Department.

The commission would have a director appointed by the governor and paid $22,500 a year. Milk processors would file their cost of production of milk with the commission and the processor would be barred from selling milk at less than that price.

Craig said large milk processors often can sell at less cost for a certain amount of time while forcing a small processor out of business.

He said the filing requirement would mean a stabilization in milk prices over the long run while Holloway said it may keep prices artificially high and cost the bargain-conscious consumer more.

In the Senate, the ax was applied to Gov. Daniel Walker's appropriation requests to prison staff training and minority hiring.

In a series of party line votes, the Senate accepted Republican amendments to appropriation bills for the corrections department and for the governor's Office of Human Resources.

Republicans said the Walker requests often duplicated efforts already performed by other agencies while Democrats led by Sen. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, the minority leader, said the cuts were "absolutely senseless."

The House which had to stop business twice for a total of 20 minutes when fuses burned out and the lights went out, approved a $12.5 million appropriation to compensate depositors of the now defunct City Savings and Loan Association of Chicago.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Roman Kosinski, D-Chicago, was originally drawn up to furnish $30 million in compensation for the 18,000 City Savings customers. The bank, which was state insured, folded in 1984 and its president was later convicted of embezzling bank funds and was imprisoned.

The appropriation was lowered to $12.5 million Wednesday after the House once nearly rejected the bill.

Rep. John Leon, D-Chicago, sponsor of the amendment, said the new figure was "acceptable to Governor Walker" and that it would provide the same restitution as if the bank were federally insured.

The bill would have allowed teachers to strike, but with its defeat, collective bargaining for teachers is dead for the session.

Sprays may need labels of warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Wednesday proposed that feminine deodorant sprays be required to carry health warning labels.

The agency said it knows of no medicinal or hygienic value of the sprays, and would consider misbranding any product using the words "hygienic" or "medicinal."

Consumers and industry have 60 days to comment on the proposed regulation before the FDA makes a final decision.

During the last four years, the FDA and Federal Trade Commission have received 174 unsolicited complaints from women and physicians of itching, burning, blistering and urinary infections after the sprays were used.

The reports increased from 14 in 1980 to 20 in 1979 and 89 in 1971, then dipped to 51 last year.

Last September the FDA banned the use of hexachlorophene in all nonprescription drugs and cosmetics, including feminine sprays, because of the germ-killing chemical's toxicity.

The FDA proposal would require the following warning on the sprays:

CAUTION—For external use only. Spray at least eight inches from skin. Use sparingly and not more than once daily to avoid irritation. Do not use this product with a sanitary napkin. Do not apply to broken, irritated or itching skin. Persistent or unusual odor may indicate the presence of a condition for which a physician should be consulted. If a rash, irritation, unusual vaginal discharge or discomfort develops, discontinue use immediately and consult physician.

The FDA is said to believe that the adverse reaction complaints represent only a small sample of those experiencing trouble. But the agency said they do not indicate a significant health hazard except possibly for 23 reports of infection.

For that reason, it said that the decision was made not to remove the sprays from the market.

A spokesman for Alberto-Culver Co., maker of FDS, said, "we are prepared to conform" with any regulations they may propose.

The spokesman said the company does not accept, however, the FDA's finding that the sprays are of no medicinal or hygienic value.

"We consider the sprays to be a

Facing cut

The proposed $8.9 million student recreation complex for SIU-Carbondale, shown here in an architect's drawing, may be reduced in size because construction bids came in totaling $10,451,771. The triple size gymnasium at bottom left may be deleted, said William Hart, campus architect. (Story, Page 1)

Prison funding cut in Senate despite protests by Democrats

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Over Democratic protests that Gov. Daniel Walker's programs for prison staff training and minority hiring were being emasculated, majority Republicans cut key appropriations Wednesday in the Illinois Senate.

The Democratic minority leader, Cecil A. Partee, called the cuts "absolutely senseless" in view of increased prison rioting nationally in recent years.

Sen. Edward McBroom, R-Kankakee, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, won Senate adoption of the cuts in key votes ranging from 20-17 to 20-20 on party lines.

McBroom said the budget cuts in the governor's Office of Human Resources and in the Department of Corrections were no loss because the money was duplicated by funds available for similar purposes in the Personnel Department and in grants available to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

McBroom blamed failure to apply for funds on David Fogel, whom the Senate rejected as Walker's nominee for director of corrections.

Walker since has named him his staff advisor on criminal justice.

Specific cuts engineered by Republicans were —$340,000 from the governor's Office of Human Resources to fund the new division of program development and evaluation, and to pay for minority hiring. McBroom said these activities were duplicated in the Bureau of the Budget and in the Department of Business and Economic Development.

—$50,000 from the Department of Corrections for minority hiring. McBroom said there was $300,000 for this in the Department of Personnel Budget.

—$102,000 from the Department of Corrections for staff development and training. McBroom said $4.5 million in funds of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission will be available for Fogel to release by September.

To offset some of these cuts, the Republicans added $103,000 to the governor's Office of Human Resources for student grants, and added $220,000 to the Department of Corrections budget for sewage treatment plant at Pontiac Prison, which is also helped by local funding.

An addition of $300,000 to the Department of Corrections budget was made for state matching of federal funds for omnibus crime fighting plans.

In attacks on the governor's Office for Human Resources, McBroom said it unnecessarily had branch managers for both Springfield and Decatur, and Sen. Edward School, R-Chicago, said it had "turned into a patronage office for the governor."

Sen. Richard Newhouse, D-Chicago, sponsor of the recently enacted code of criminal corrections in Illinois, said, "The problem of the code is that it raises expectations and we have to deliver in some fashion. This leads to tension between inmates and those in charge."

Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, saying a recent riot in Menard Prison in his district was racially motivated in part, also opposed the cuts.

"I wonder if it was due to one of the truly weak links in the Walker administration," McBroom said. "That's Fogel. The governor of Minnesota said everything but bring in marching bands when word came that Fogel was invited to Illinois." Fogel had been director of corrections in Minnesota and had been reputed to favor more open prison administration than retention of the older type of fortress prison.

Braless sunbathing making hit in Paris

PARIS (AP)—At first you could see them at St. Tropez, that French seaside test base for the scantily dressed.

Last week they sprang out in the heart of more conservative Nice, only 60 miles up the coast.

Now they have come to light in downtown Paris—women who sunbathe without a bra in public.

A weekend of clear warm sunlight had them discarding their bras at the Deligny swimming pool, only a stone's throw away from the National Assembly.

It's the same thing at Molitor in the fashionable west end of Paris. One day there was one woman, next day there were 10, reports the manager.

There is a regular "bare breast" corner now at both swimming pools except for days set aside for school children and there has been no public protest.

Officials at the French women's liberation movement said the bare-breast look was meaningless.

"But if all women, young and old, became free to dress or undress as they like, then it would be something else," said one of the liberation women.

Over at the International Nudism Federation they said the cause would triumph when women took off the bottom half of their bikinis as well.

The law so far has not pronounced itself. Statutes provide for jail terms of from three months to two years for actions "outrageous to public morals."

New farm bill provides prices for wheat, corn

WASHINGTON (AP)—A massive new general farm bill packed with controversial provisions was tentatively approved by the House Agriculture Committee Wednesday, 28 to 4.

The action came as Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz vowed to battle against proposals, such as contained in this bill, which would provide guaranteed prices for wheat, corn and cotton that are above levels urged by the Nixon administration.

The committee's final decision is due Thursday. The bill contains concepts similar to those in a Senate-passed measure, although there is a sharp difference in figures.

"We know this isn't a bill that will make anyone entirely happy, and many people object to some of its provisions," said Rep. W.R. Pease, D-Tex., the committee chairman.

"But I think on the whole it is a satisfactory piece of legislation and the most equitable we could draft in the way of a compromise. I hope it will become law," Pease added.

But, in a letter to Pease, Butz said: "Guarantee prices above $1.84 for wheat, $1.26 for corn and 35 cents for cotton with the agreed escalation reflecting higher costs per unit of output are unacceptable to this administration."

"If the bill guarantee prices above these levels, we will work aggressively to defeat the measure on the floor of the House of Representatives. Should the Congress want to remove the escalation features we will be willing to discuss somewhat higher guarantee prices."

Furthermore, Butz said, "with respect to loan levels, please keep in mind that if loans are set too close to guarantee prices, production adjustment efforts if needed in the future will be ineffective."

Under terms of the House committee's bill, basically similar to the Senate-passed measure, the existing 1970 law—due to die Dec. 31—would be changed by setting up a so-called "target price concept" of supports under the major commodities of cotton, wheat and feed grains such as corn and grain sorghums.

This would mean crop subsidies which have been running about $3.5 billion a year would be eliminated as long as there is a continuation of existing relationships between farm prices and crop production costs.

If prices farmers get should drop sharply while the production costs go up remain unchanged, then they would get subsidy payments.

The Senate-passed bill would put a $20,000 annual subsidy payment limit on each farmer. This would replace the present $55,000 limit per crop for each grower. The House committee's bill would set it at $37,500 per crop. The House recently voted for a $20,000 ceiling.

Massive crowd gathers

Killings mar Peron's return

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Juan Domingo Peron returned to Argentina on Wednesday, but was diverted from the international airport after gunfire in the massive crowd gathered to greet him cut down scores of persons.

At least seven were reported killed and 150 wounded near Ezeiza International Airport minutes before his plane was to land there. The chartered jetliner, flying from Madrid, where Peron has lived in exile, landed at a military airfield near Buenos Aires.

One of two earlier shooting incidents in the area where two million persons awaited Peron's arrival left three persons wounded.

Some of the shooting appeared to involve rival Peronist factions. An opposition Marxist guerrilla group active in Argentina, however, has pledged to disrupt the rule of the new Peronist president, Hector J. Campora.

Peron, 77, went with his wife to his suburban home without greeting the waiting millions as planned, according to Campora. The president announced by radio that Peron would make a nationwide television and radio address Thursday night.

Peron was toppled by a military coup in 1955 after nine years of rule with dictatorial powers. He has been living in exile in Spain, and his followers were prohibited by the military from putting up a presidential candidate until this year.

This return to Argentina is his second in the last six months.

The third and most serious gunfight, near a cloverleaf bridge close to the international airport, broke out after left-wing militants of the Peronist youth movement and moderate Peronist labor followers taunted each other.

"They're Communists!" a group of armed unionists shouted as they pursued several persons through the crowd after the shooting.

Some civilian security men, wearing black armbands for identification, seized the cameras of newsmen during the shooting and ripped out the film.

Members of a 400-piece orchestra on a platform near the bridge hit the floor when bullets began whizzing over their heads.

Many of the wounded were taken to the international airport's clinic because it was impossible to get them through the crowd that stretched for eight miles toward the capital. Helicopters were summoned to take them to hospitals.

An official reception group of about 200 persons waited at the airport for Peron while spectators gathered in a nearby meadow to hear his planned speech from a red-and-white stand erected over the bridge.

Thousands camped out overnight around bonfires in the meadows 15 miles southwest of Buenos Aires. With the approach of dawn, access roads were jammed by hundreds of thousands more en route to pay homage to Peron.

Sox' skid ends, whip Angels

CHICAGO (AP) — Pat Kelly's first home run, a three-run shot in an explosive seventh inning, paced the Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory over the California Angels and helped them to break a five-game losing streak Wednesday. The game also saw the first at-bat this season by an American League pitcher.

The Sox erupted for six runs in the seventh, shelling California starter Nolan Ryan. Ed Herrmann led off with a double and went to third on Bill Sharp's perfect bunt down the third base line. A single by Luis Alvarado off first baseman Mike Epstein's glove scored Herrmann before Kelly unloaded over the centerfield fence.

Mike Andrews' double off reliever Steve Barber produced the fifth run and Herrmann, up for the second time in the inning, hit a sacrifice fly to deliver the final tally.

The White Sox had opened a 2-1 lead in the third when Kelly scored on the front end of a double steal and Tony Muser singled another run.

The Angels had started the scoring in the second when Rudy Meoli walked with the bases loaded, forcing in Epstein. Pinch-hitter Winston Llenas' seventh inning single knotted the score at 2-2.

White Sox reliever Cy Acosta struck out to end the eighth inning for Chicago and in so doing became the first AL hurler to go to the plate in regular season play since the league adopted the designated hitter rule.

Babe's HR pitcher angry at 'criminal' comments

SHANNON, Miss. (AP) — The man who served up Babe Ruth's last two home run pitches during the Babe's record-setting 1935 season says the idea that modern-day pitchers would willingly help Henry Aaron break Ruth's homer mark "is not much short of a criminal act."

Guy Bush, a feisty 79-year-old, was irritated with weekend stories in which National League pitchers were quoted as saying they wouldn't mind helping Aaron break Ruth's 714-homer record.

The pitchers spoke of the monetary and publicity value of being the pitcher who threw No. 715 to Aaron, the Atlanta slugger who is closing in on Ruth's hallowed home run mark. They spoke of potential "endorsements" and "speaking engagements."

Bush, off whom Ruth slugged homers 713 and 714 on May 25, 1935, says that's nonsense. "It's been over 35 years since Ruth hit those homers off me," Bush said, "and I don't remember being in demand as a speaker. Nobody has rushed up giving me endorsements and I haven't seen one dime of it."

"I've never heard anything like what these pitchers are saying. It's absolutely criminal. If this happens, I'll be ashamed I ever played the game."

Reminded of speculation over the years that perhaps he floated some fat pitches to Ruth, Bush said that idea also was nonsense. "I threw him my best pitch," Bush snorted.

Ruth's first homer that day came after Bush, playing for Pittsburgh, relieved pitcher Red Lucas in the Tennis anyone?

University courts open until midnight in summer

So you're a little timid to go out in the sweltering heat of the day? But you still want to play some tennis?

Then you don't have to wait for cooler weather. The Office of Recreation and Intramurals is offering night tennis all summer long at the University Tennis Courts just east of the SIU Arena.

The 12 lighted tennis courts will be open every night from 6 p.m. until midnight. In addition, attendants will be on duty for court reservations and supervision during those times.

Several rules and regulations have been formulated in the night tennis activity. These include:

1. Reservations may be made in person during the time that the attendant is on duty or by calling 453-5246. These reservations may be made on a daily basis and will be accepted for one day in advance only.

2. A court reservation will be forfeited if the party making the reservation fails to put the assigned court in use by ten minutes after the scheduled hour.

3. Due to the nature of the resurfaced courts, only regulation tennis shoes will be permitted on the surface.

Other tennis courts available for daytime play are located north of Small Group Housing and south of University Trailer Courts on So. Wall St.

Wheelchair athletes qualify for international competition

Ray Clark and Lynnette Hunter, two members of SIU's Squid Track and Field Team, have been invited to the World Wheelchair Games and Pan-American Games later this year.

The two were selected to represent the United States on the basis of high finishes in last week's annual Bulova Games held in Queens, N.Y.

Clark won two first places — the five-event pentathlon with 4,600 points out of a possible 5,500 and the discus with a toss of 115 feet. He also placed third in archery competition, fourth in the javelin and fifth in freestyle swimming.

Ms. Hunter also won a first place in the women's pentathlon with 3,600 points. She finished second in the discus with a 33-foot throw and third in archery.

* Two other Squids placed in Queens. Janice Bogan and John Bonner placed fourth and fifth, respectively, in the novice archery event.

The World Games for wheelchair athletes will take place from July 14-21 in Stokes-Mandeville, England while the ten-day Pan American Games will start on Nov. 15 in Lima, Peru.

Sympathetic players pull out of Wimbledon tournament

LONDON (AP)—The Wimbledon Tennis Tournament began falling apart Wednesday as a large group of militant men stars pulled out in sympathy with Nikki Pilic, the suspended Yugoslav. And even the girls threatened to join the boycott.

Tournament began falling apart Wednesday as a large group of militant men stars pulled out in sympathy with Nikki Pilic, the suspended Yugoslav. And even the girls threatened to join the boycott.

By evening 33 men had signed forms withdrawing from next week's championships in response to a strike call by the Association of Tennis Professionals. Stan Smith, reigning Wimbledon champion from Pasadena, Calif., was among them. Some 40 more were expected to follow.

Billie Jean King, reigning Wimbledon women's champion, called a meeting of all women players with the idea of uniting and demanding a bigger share of the prize money—because they think they will now be the big attractions of the tournament.

Some women players spoke of a possible walkout if they didn't get their way. But there was not much sign of a women's walkout gaining momentum.

Meanwhile, the ATP boycott forced a 48-hour postponement of the draw, originally scheduled for Wednesday morning.

Capt. Mike Gibson, Wimbledon tournament referee, said, "We shall have a full draw of 128 as always. We shall take losers from the qualifying tournament, and other players if necessary. There are plenty of good players ready to compete."

second inning. Ruth, then playing for the old Boston Braves, hit No. 713 that inning, Bush recalled. "It barely made it over the fence," he recalled. Later, Ruth stomped to the plate again.

"I had really never seen him hit a long ball," Bush said. "I wanted to challenge him. I told my catcher, Tommy Padden, to tell Babe that I was coming through with my best pitch—the hard one—and I didn't think he could hit it."

Padden told Ruth the pitch would be down the middle, Bush said, so that "we could see if I was a better pitcher than he was a hitter."

Bush threw a strike, then a ball. "Then Padden told Ruth that the third one was going to be waist-high," Bush recalled. "Of course, Ruth didn't believe him because catchers were such liars in those days."

Softball umpires to meet today

The first of two softball umpires meetings will be held from 6-7 p.m. Thursday in Room 119 of the SIU Arena.

Larry Schaake, coordinator of the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, stated that attendance at Thursday's and Monday's meetings is imperative.

Both summer softball leagues, 12- and 16-inch slow pitch, will start on Monday, July 2.
