Begin buried in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (UPI) - Menachem Begin, the guerrilla leader who became Israel's sixth prime minister and won a Nobel Peace Prize for forging a peace accord with Egypt, was buried Monday hours after his death from heart failure. He was 78.

Thousands of Israelis poured into the streets of Jerusalem to see the former prime minister's body as it was carried to the ancient Mount of Olives cemetery on a hillside overlooking Jerusalem's walled Old City.

Guyon wants library addition

By Jeremy Finley
General Assignment Writer

SIUC President John C. Guyon is proposing a $50-million addition to Morris Library, but officials say plans to fund the project are sketchy.

Guyon has presented his proposal to the Library of the Future Committee, which was formed to help create plans for a new library and to work on new computer functions.

The committee will aid in phasing costs and stages of the actual building of the new library, Guyon said.

Richard Wagner, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said the University has not made a request to the state for funds.

Benjamin A. Shepherd, vice president of academic affairs and research, said despite the cost of the new library, the University cannot ignore the necessity of a library expansion.

"(SIUC) cannot afford to not have anything less than a well equipped modern library facility at SIUC," Shepherd said.

"If SIUC is committed to education and research, we must have an updated facility such as the library," he said.

The first priority of the committee is to finalize the plans of the library, then focus on the cost, Shepherd said.

Carolyn Snyder, dean of library affairs, said the new library would have services

Harkin quits bid for White House after poor start

By Todd Welvaert

and United Press International

Iowa Gov. Tom Harkin conceded his attempt for the Democratic presidential nomination Monday on a live TV broadcast from Gallaudet University, a college for the deaf.

Harkin, who campaigned as the "only true Democrat" pulled out of the race after winning only two caucuses in Idaho and in his native state of Iowa and after poor showings in other primaries.

Harkin finished third in South Carolina with 6 percent of the vote and ended fourth in Arizona and Wyoming caucuses and last in Nevada Sunday.

Harkin refused to endorse a candidate but promised to support whomever the Democratic party nominates.

"I will be there," Harkin, D-Iowa, said. "I will pay any price, bear any burden, learn to speak Greek, develop a southern accent, or learn to wear a turtle neck to ensure that a Democrat is elected president in 1992."

Democrats left in the race are Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas and ex-California Gov. Edmund "Jerry" Brown.

Harkin made the broadcast from the school for the deaf in honor of his deaf brother Frank.

Writing on the pyramid

This message was discovered Monday on the pyramid rocks near the Student Recreation Center. These rocks traditionally are painted by various individuals and groups. The message was painted after the Salukis had a 17-point second half lead in the Missouri Valley semifinal, but Tulsa came back to beat them.

Weather puts plants in peril

By Christy Gutowski
General Assignment Writer

Budding plants are in danger tonight after weeks of unseasonably warm weather with temperatures expected to drop below 25 degrees.

As temperatures fall, many crops become vulnerable to freezing weather, said Paul Roth, SIUC professor of the Department of Forestry.

Most plants are tolerant to slight temperature changes but become weak when the weather falls below 25 to 30 degrees.

When a cold front approaches, surface tissues of plants get colder. The protective tissues of plants ultimately freeze and cell damage occurs.

Plants are protected when slight weather changes occur, because, like all living things, they generate heat, said Walter Sundberg, a plant biology professor.

Calmly 'Go Dawg Wild'

Springfest planners want tamer parties at '92 celebration

By Casey Hampton
General Assignment Writer

Springfest officials are trying to tame the annual spring fling this year in spite of the "Go Dawg Wild" theme.

An estimated crowd of 13,000 to 15,000 people turned chaotic last year after revellers throwing beer cans forced the final mainstage band to cut short its act.

University and Carbondale

Police arrested more than 100 people during Springfest weekend for underage consumption of alcohol, public indecency, reckless conduct and mob action.

University Police spent $3,710 for additional police and Saluki patrolers for the festival.

SIUC administrators voiced concern Springfest was taking on the appearance of Halloween and considered canceling the event altogether or banning alcohol from the premises.

But steps were taken to keep the Springfest tradition alive while minimizing the potential for similar beer-throwing brawls.

The result is the first Springfest Tailgate.

The Student Programming Council will sponsor the tailgate between 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. April 25 in Lot 56 near the Arena

Ex-Soviets reunite

Twelve former republics to compete as unified team in summer games

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — The 12 former Soviet republics agreed Monday to compete as a unified team at the Barcelona Olympics.

This was the price the International Olympic Committee demanded before granting their national Olympic committees provisional recognition.

Ukraine and Georgia wanted to field separate teams, but IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch refused to budge from the terms set at last month's IOC meeting in Courchevel, France.

"The most important principle was that all the athletes must have the possibility of competing in the Games," Samaranch said at a news conference. "All 12 republics were very helpful. If this had been the political arena, it could have lasted weeks or months, this meeting lasted only two hours."

"All the republics want to go alone, but this was impossible for Barcelona. This was a very good agreement for the IOC, the Olympic movement, the Barcelona organizers and most of all, the athletes."

This would be the last time the republics compete as a unified squad. From Jan. 1, 1993, they may field separate teams providing they fulfill the provisions of Monday's agreement.

Samaranch said the republics would be able to use their own flags and national anthems at victory ceremonies for individual events at Barcelona, while the Olympic flag and anthem would serve for team competitions.

Individual athletes would also be identified by their republics in announcements and on scoreboards.

At last month's Albertville Olympics, the Olympic flag and anthem was used for all winners from what was once the Soviet Union.

Former sprint star Valery Borzov, president of Ukraine's NOC, was pleased his athletes, including Olympic and world champion pole vaulter Sergei Bubka, would be able to compete in Barcelona.

"We are happy because we are recognized and this process is over," he said. "We would have liked to have an independent team, but we had to respect the opinion of the IOC."

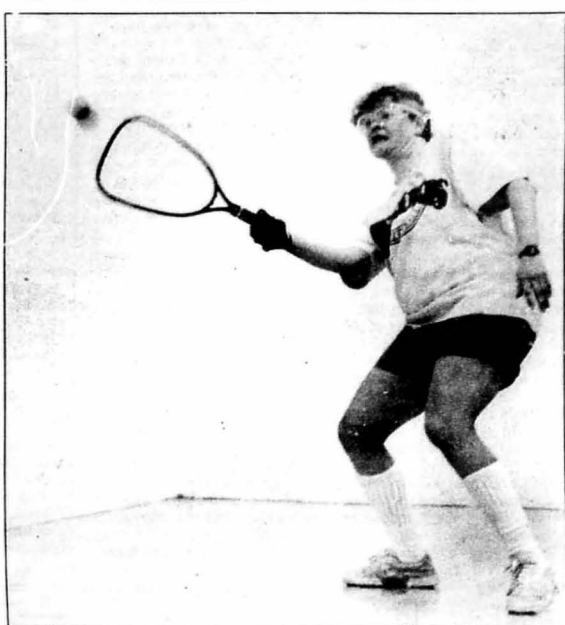

"It was impossible to contemplate not being in Barcelona. We are all agreed that all athletes must participate if they want."

David Kakabadse, a spokesman for the Georgian delegation, said: "We had no choice. Mr. Samaranch said if we were to have an independent team in Barcelona then the other 11 republics would want the same. It was impossible to do. We agreed in principle in respect of our athletes."

Georgia has a special problem because it is not a member of the Commonwealth of Independent States and its athletes have not competed in qualifying events.

Samaranch said the Georgia problem

Men netters beat Tulsa in opener of Valley play

By Thomas Gibson
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's tennis team got out of Tulsa with its second win of the spring after a tough battle with the Hurricane—and some bad weather.

Coach Dick Lefevre's Saluki netters, 2-4, escaped Sunday with a 5-4 win despite heavy winds and close games.

The bad weather affected the team's performance because the Salukis couldn't get their serves up well, Lefevre said.

Before the Tulsa game the netters had previously played all of their matches on indoor courts. Tulsa had already opened its outdoor season.

"(The Hurricane) had the advantage because of the wind," Lefevre said.

Freshman Altair Merchant, who defeated Chris Fanelli 6-1, 6-3 in the second flight, said the wind affected his smashes because the ball was swaying through the air.

"I had to play at a consistent level the whole game," Merchant said.

He said Fanelli, on the other hand, had a problem with consistency.

"I didn't know what the guy was doing; at times he played tremendously and other times he didn't," Merchant said.

Saluki outfielders lost for 1992 season

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The SIUC baseball team lost a major component of its offense Saturday when sophomore outfielders Dan Esplin and Jason Smith were lost for the season in an outfield collision.

The outfielders were injured in the seventh inning of the Salukis' game against Iowa when they collided in an attempt to catch a fly to left center field by Hawkeye catcher Steve Fishman.

Both players left their feet and collided at full speed, lying motionless for several minutes while Fishman circled "e" bases for an inside the park home run.

Smith, who was thrust into the role of starting center fielder last season because of injuries, was hitting .563 for the season, including seven consecutive hits in the Saluki Classic.

Dawgs scramble to find replacements

Smith was the Dawgs' leadoff man before the collision, when he broke his left arm and underwent surgery for a third degree shoulder separation.

Esplin, the left fielder, was one of the Dawgs top returning hitters after compiling a .292 average as a freshman in 1991. He was the Salukis' No. 3 hitter, but in the crash he suffered a lacerated kidney.

SIUC head coach Sam Riggelman said the loss of the players forces the Salukis to rethink their strategy for the season.

"An injury like that is sickening, simply tragic," he said. "The play of our outfield had been something exciting to watch, and to lose two of those kids on one play is tragic."

"This doesn't really change our goals for the season, but now we're going to have to take some time and explore our options to determine what is the best thing to do for the team."

Riggelman said the Salukis plan to move right fielder Leland Macon to center field, with freshman infielder Pete Schlosser and seniors Scott Foster and Ed

Janke splitting time in the other two positions.

"We just have to realize there are certain things that will happen that we can't control," he said. "We still have a solid young club with a strong pitching staff, we just need some people to pick up the slack."

Riggelman said Esplin and Smith remain in the hospital but their long term prognosis is good.

"I don't think there injuries are something that is considered to be career threatening," he said. "At this point it looks like they will be redshirted for the season."

Smith said although he will be unable to play, he hopes to remain close to the team.

Valvano to consider job at Wichita State

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Jim Valvano, the former basketball coach of North Carolina State, is considering becoming the basketball coach at Wichita State.

Valvano, now a basketball commentator for ESPN, told the cable network he had been contacted about the coaching vacancy at the school. He told ESPN Radio Sunday night he plans to have further talks with the university.

Wichita State needs a replacement for Mike Cohen, who said earlier this year he would resign after the season. The season ended with Saturday's 67-63 loss to Southern Illinois in the quarterfinals of the Missouri Valley Conference Tournament.

Valvano, who was forced to resign at N.C. State after the 1990 season, has been unavailable for comment. His wife, Pam, told the Wichita Eagle last week she was sure her husband had never even visited Wichita.

"Is there a college there?" she asked.

When Pam Valvano was reached again Sunday, she said she knew nothing about any interest her husband might have in the Shockers' job, then she hung up.

Rex Cottle, the school's vice president for academic affairs and the chairman of the search committee for a new coach, is the only committee member authorized to talk publicly on this matter. Cottle has said he hoped to name a new coach by late this month.

"I think we're moving along," he told the Eagle.

One problem in trying to land Valvano is money. He reportedly makes as much as $1 million working for ESPN and ABC, where he is also a basketball

Duke unanimous No. 1 after latest NCAA poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — With only a week remaining before the selection of the NCAA field, Duke received a unanimous vote of approval Monday as the top college basketball team in the nation.

The Blue Devils completed their regular season by beating North Carolina 89-77 to wind up with a 25-2 record. Following the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament beginning Thursday, they will attempt to become the first team to complete a successful defense of the NCAA championship since UCLA swept seven successive titles from 1967-73.

Duke received all 20 first-place votes from the UPI Hall of Fame panel for a total of 500 points. The final balloting will take place next week, at which time Duke should be affirmed the UPI champion for the first time since 1986.

Kansas, despite a loss to Iowa State last week, moved up a notch into second place with a 23-4 record and 471 points. Also climbing a spot to No. 3 was Arizona following a pair of victories over California and Stanford. The Wildcats, sporting a 24-4 record, garnered 460 points.

Indiana dropped two spots to fourth following a 68-60 loss to Michigan. The Hoosiers, 22-5, received 435 points. Ohio State, improving to 21-5 following victories over Michigan and Northwestern, remained fifth with 413 points.

Board of Trustees to vote on 5-percent increase

By Brandi Tipps
Administration Writer

The SIUC Board of Trustees will vote Thursday on a 5-percent increase in residence hall rates. The increase will amount to an extra $144 a year for each student. If passed, the increase will take effect this summer.

An increase of about 4.8 percent also has been proposed for apartment rentals in Southern Hills and Evergreen Terrace. This increase would amount to about $12 to $15 a month.

SIUC resident John C. Guyon said he attributes the increase to inflation and a way to pay off bonds bought to pay for the residence halls.

Because of the decrease in traditional freshman enrollment, the vacancies in the residence halls have resulted in decreased revenue.

When compared to housing rates at other universities, SIUC falls below the rates at University of Illinois, ranks even with rates at Northern Illinois University and is slightly above the rates at Illinois State University, said Edward Jones, director of University Housing.

But USG President Jack Sullivan said

Undergraduate Student Government is against the proposal because the students would not get any more services for the extra money they would pay.

"I appreciate the need to have money to back the bonds for the buildings, but it can be done in a better way," Sullivan said.

The University could increase recruiting efforts and get graduate students and non-traditional students to fill the vacancies in the residence halls, he said.

Jones said the shortfall in occupancy is not really a part of the increase in rates.

The University made up for the vacancies by offering more single rooms, which are more expensive, no longer offering Saturday morning breakfast and having only one cafeteria open on each campus on the weekends, he said.

"If we raised the rates only to meet the shortfall in occupancy, the increase would be more than 5 percent," Jones said.

But filling vacant positions, whether helpful or not, is not the only way to increase revenue for University housing, Sullivan said.

SIUC may raise health fees

By Brandi Tipps
Administration Writer

The SIUC Board of Trustees will discuss a $3 increase in the student health fee and the student medical insurance premium fee at its meeting Thursday.

The student health fee and the student medical insurance premium fee are two parts of the student medical benefit fee.

The student health fee funds the on-campus program of health care, and the student medical insurance premium fee funds the contract with an external provider of health insurance.

The proposed $3 increase in the student health fee represents a 4-percent increase and the $3 proposed increase for the student medical benefit fee represents a 3.6-percent increase.

If the increases are approved, the new rates for the student health fee would be $78 for fall and spring semesters and $46.80 for summer semester.

The rate for the student medical benefit fee would be $86 for fall and spring semesters and $51.60 for summer semester.

SIUC President John C. Guyon said a portion of the student health fee increase is needed to fund some retirement costs.

The typical employee will receive several thousand dollars when he retires as a cash payout for crude vacation and sick leave, Guyon said.

He said it is a one-time cost but it has to be

Summer opportunity being axed to bone

Students and faculty may be breathing a sigh of relief with the recent news that summer school will continue at SIUC, but until classes are posted, do not count on it.

The state budget crisis has hit higher education hard, and administrators have had to make tough decisions about where cuts should be made. Luckily summer school has remained intact. However, the usefulness of this semester once it has been cut to the bone must be re-evaluated if summer school is to continue in the future.

Summer school has been an invaluable opportunity for students either to finish or get ahead on academic requirements. But each year the courses offered have been reduced leaving more students hanging in academic limbo until the fall semester.

A senior student with one elective left before graduation must choose from a very limited curriculum. No small classes are offered during the summer. Classes that do not fill up are dropped, leaving those enrolled in a panic.

The money is no longer available to support classes that fulfill only a handful of students' graduation requirements. Borderline courses or unfilled sections are no longer offered, although students may have thousands of dollars and several years working toward graduation hinging on that one class.

This barebones approach to education cannot continue. Summer school suffers minor cuts each year. But during a 10-year period, these nicks have become a gaping wound.

The importance of summer school is appreciated most by seniors needing only a few hours to graduate and graduate students who work year round, along with international students who simply cannot afford to go home. Besides the need for summer school by students, the instructors have come to rely on the extra semester. Many faculty members are hired on nine-month salaries and use summer classes to provide year-round income. Since budget constraints have made pay raises a rare occurrence, summer school can supplement salary shortcomings of the academic year.

The benefits of summer school are obvious: It helps the academic community accomplish goals and requirements and ensures continued employment for student workers and civil service employees. These benefits have dwindled each year. With fewer courses being offered, fewer students will stay in Carbondale, and the University will not need as many employees during the summer.

The problems associated with funding summer school continue to snowball. Deans and department directors must cut into next year's budgets to keep the core courses available for this summer. When the regular academic year arrives, the University already is deeper into the budget crisis. The situation repeats itself every year with no end in sight.

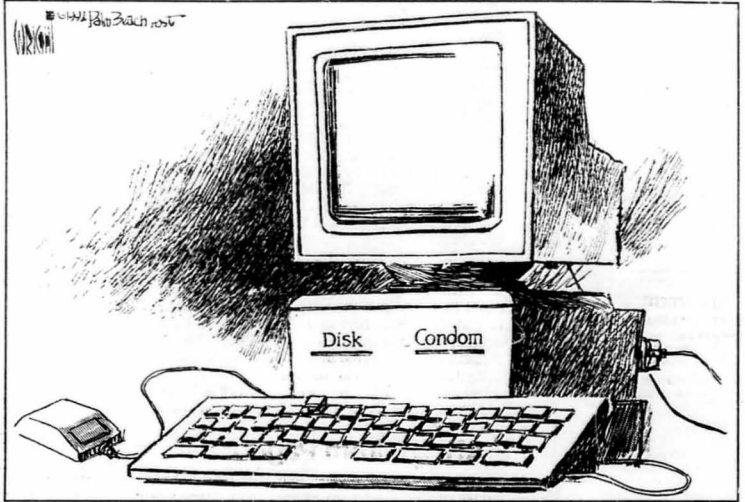

While the opportunity remains, take advantage of summer school. If student enrollment increases more classes will remain open and eventually more may be offered. It is clear no one can rely on Springfield to make the money available, but rising enrollment brings in tuition dollars that may help restore summer session's quality. If the demand for summer school increases, eventually so will the supply.

Bike alternative better solution than busing

It is amazing how easily our debt ridden University, City Council, and Department of Transportation will pay $67,530 to a Chicago firm to see if we need buses polluting in Carbondale. We could hire some local construction workers who actually need jobs and build bike lanes so that the extra smog will not be needed. Buses are rarely more energy efficient and less polluting than their alternatives.

Carbondale law tells us that we can only ride bicycles on the street instead of the sidewalk. This would be alright if it was actually safe to ride on the roads around here, but there are only two streets off-campus in Carbondale with bike lanes. In Holland, every town has bike lanes and virtually everyone rides bikes. Even on rainy days you will see old men and women shopping by bicycle. If we want cleaner air and healthier people, the politicians couldn't ask for any better solution. Why not here in Carbondale?

It is not safe to ride your bike on the street, day or night. If bicyclists do not have our own lanes, cars treat us as a nuisance. I basically feel as if I have no rights on the road. I know that if a car hits me, regardless of whose fault it is, I will win in court but not in the hospital. It is not surprising that the people who know about fossil fuel burning buses are from Chicago, where they have virtually no bike lanes.

We call our cities of America modern, I guess that means disgustingly unhealthy and polluted. —John T. Vigil, sophomore, environmental engineering.

Red parking space problems creating student hunchbacks

Isn't SIUC great?
Beautiful campus.
Breathtaking scenery.
Plenty of parking spaces. Not!

By all means, we do have a beautiful campus and breathtaking scenery, but let's not kid ourselves on our atrocious parking situation.

Could I please have a dollar for every open blue spot that I have seen, while I creep up and down every isle forever searching for a vacant red parking space? And you are recommending taking 1,500 red spaces away for blue?

So faculty, I guess with your blue sticker you'll have to walk about two feet to the door.

And I guess, since I am a young, spry student I can just walk to the arena just because I can see it from my house.

But walking doesn't solve my problem.

What time do I have to be a work at the Health Service? 7:45 a.m.

How far is it? Two miles from door to door.

On a bad day my backpack alone can weigh 15 pounds. And with my bad back you suggest that I walk with this huge growth on my shoulder?

Oh, I have no problems with walking—if I still lived on campus.

Right now my nearest class is 1.5 miles away, even though the official start of campus is one-quarter of a mile away.

Here is my proposal. You say that you want equal access then do away with the blue and make everything red.

Now it's staff.
Faculty, staff, and students can walk hand in hand and step by step from their cars to the classroom. —Jennifer Litchfield, sophomore, elementary education.

Burning money

SIUC needs administrative heat misers

SIUC has money to burn—at least that's what it seems like.

How does the administration justify cutting our education on which we spend large sums of money.

It must be to pay for the wasted heat that blows out of the open doors of many buildings around campus.

How many buildings have, in the last week, had doors open while the furnaces blow ninety degree hot air out of all the vents?

It is so hot in some buildings that studying is difficult. The library is one example, along with the Student Center and many classrooms.

When its warm enough to wear cut-offs and t-shirts, it's warm enough to turn down the thermostats.

When our tuition is raised and benefits are decreased to justify high overhead and this waste continues it really raises the hair on the back of my neck. It is nothing short of ludicrous.

If we have a budget problem at home, who doesn't, we reduce our thermostats to sixty-five degrees, turn off lights, and take every measure possible to cut expenses.

Admittedly I have no official information regarding the cost of operating the heating system throughout campus, but I would imagine it to be a large sum.

The math department cannot afford a paper for quizzes, but the buildings and classrooms are so hot its uncomfortable.

I don't believe that our education should be reduced and costs increased until every other possibility has been explored.

Come on Mr. Chancellor and Mr. President. Wake up and smell the coffee. There are areas of waste right under your noses.

Please explain this too me and the rest of the student body that is barely able to meet the expenses now. We don't have money to burn! —Wayne Gulley, senior, engineering and technology.

National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week

Dear Dr. Buzz:

I smoke marijuana just on weekends when I party with other people. I enjoy it and do not see anything wrong with it. What do you think?— "Complacent"

Dear Complacent,

You seem to feel comfortable about what you are doing, but do you ever party with people and not get stoned? You may be using marijuana to feel more comfortable around people and to "fit in". Continued use of any substance in social situations to help you cope can keep you from learning how to enjoy yourself and others. Why not pass on using pot next weekend and see how the evening goes. You may learn something new about yourself and your friends. Keep in mind that any use of an illegal substance can greatly interfere with your future.

Tap dance group to perform, teach class at SIUC

By Kristi Rominger
Entertainment Editor

Several dance and theater students are in for some fast and fancy footwork tomorrow—a new generation of jazz tap will be introduced to Southern Illinois.

Manhattan Tap, a quartet of dancers, belongs to a new generation of tap that presents itself as a serious musical art form based on fast jazz rhythms and dreamy blues.

This group will teach a masters class to interested dance and theater students Tuesday. The group also will perform at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Donna Wilson, SIUC dance instructor, said a masters class gives students a chance to experience different styles of dance.

"Tap is a very unique form of entertainment," Wilson said. "The rhythm is infectious and people cannot help but get involved. In that sense it is an enjoyable art form."

"These types of classes are taught by masters in the field and are designed to give dancers a taste of what their particular style is about," Wilson said.

Wilson has taught ballet, jazz, modern dance and tap at SIUC since 1986. Tap, which falls under GEE Human Health and Well-Being, is taught every spring, she said.

About 10 participants, including Wilson and Lori Merrill-Fink, an instructor in the theater department, will be in the class.

A common misunderstanding among dance enthusiasts is tap dancing has disappeared into obscurity, but Manhattan Tap shows the way tap has simply taken on a new definition.

Tap was prominent at the time of Vaudeville acts, Wilson said. It became of big interest to Americans with Fred Astaire's contributions. Tap was out of the public eye for a while, but it has begun to gain interest again.

Wilson is not sure how much tap has come back as a dance form, but several movies in the past few years have stimulated interest, Wilson said.

"Students do know about tap, and they are interested in it," Wilson said. "My classes are usually pretty full."

Manhattan Tap has been known to offer a more improvisational style. It is more casual and the dancers represent a new progressive approach to the art.

Whether dancing in solos, duets or as a group, Manhattan Tap has been said to have a refreshing spontaneity by critics all over the United States.

Often the quartet creates its own rhythms.

One dancer will start, then, like a chain reaction, another picks the rhythm up and in a flash they are all rapidly tapping.

The performance at Shryock Auditorium will include some of the group's signature pieces, including "Scrappple" and "Chair-O-Kee," a dance done while sitting in chairs for the piece.

The dance ensemble has been well received on its tours in the United States, Canada, China, France, the Caribbean and the Dominican Republic.

The group also appeared at the Apollo Theater in the acclaimed Rat-A-Tat-Tap Festival early this year and in "Tap Dance in America with Gregory Hines" on Public Broadcast Service.

Because jazz tap is based on jazz music, Manhattan Tap travels with an accomplished jazz band to add to the show.

The Keith Saunders Trio, led by pianist Keith Saunders, includes Bim Strasberg on double bass and Eddie Ormowski on drums.

The trio traveled throughout the United States and Japan before joining Manhattan Tap.

Manhattan Tap will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Shryock Auditorium. Ticket prices are $10 and $13.

HOUSING, from page 3

Another possibility would be an internal reallocation within housing, Sullivan said.

"I know reallocation is a nasty word and very severe, but it is also nasty to ask students to come up with another $144," he said.

Sullivan said the increase equals another 30 to 35 hours of work for most students.

Calling the increases inflationary increases is just a way to justify the increases, he said.

"This is just another stick on the fire that is just burning up the students' money," Sullivan said.

Jones said that according to the Universities five-year plan, every area on campus is scheduled to have work done.

Repairs and replacements are being made in some of the residence halls, but they are just not the "flashy things that people get excited about like cable TV," he said.

Carpet is scheduled to be put in the triads and a heating and pipe replacement project also is scheduled, he said.

Attached to the proposed increase in housing rates is a five-day, 15-meal plan option and one residence hall to be kept open the full academic year to provide a contract option to students for a place to stay during breaks.

Death row inmate scheduled to die in Oklahoma jail

McALESTER, Okla. (UPI) — A 37-year-old man convicted for the 1977 murder of a service station attendant was scheduled to die by lethal injection early Tuesday at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

Robyn Leroy Parks was convicted of killing Abdullah Ibrahim, a Bangladeshi native, during a robbery Aug. 17, 1977, at an Oklahoma City gasoline station where the victim worked part-time as a cashier.

Ibrahim, 24, was found by a customer sprawled on the floor of the tiny cubicle in which he worked, slain by a single gunshot to the chest.

The 10 judges of the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver heard oral arguments in Parks case early Monday. His attorneys argued that prosecutors suppressed evidence but the court denied a stay.

An appeal was expected to the U.S. Supreme Court later Monday.

Dawg defensive back gets Service to Southern Award

By Kristi Rominger
Special Assignment Writer

Derrick Faulkner can tackle the books as well as he tackles on the field.

The Saluki football defensive back has received the Service to Southern Award for outstanding undergraduate senior in recognition of his participation and service contributions to the University.

Saluki Head Football Coach Bob Smith said Faulkner "epitomizes what a student athlete should be—he finds the time to be involved in the classroom and in extracurricular activities."

Faulkner earned the Football Fighting Saluki Award last fall, an overall spirit award for the season.

He served as a role model for spirit on the SIUC team, Smith said.

"He was a critical part of our team this year," Smith said. "And as far as I'm concerned, he is very deserving of this award. He is one of my favorite people in the whole world."

Faulkner, a senior in journalism from Chicago, plans to graduate in May.

He specializes in advertising and has minors in Black American Studies and political science.

"Everyone needs to do service," Faulkner said. "Not just for their self-interest or their own organizations, but to really get involved with the campus and community."

This qualified Faulkner for the Service to Southern Award.

A student is selected by a faculty and staff administrative committee on the basis of participation in residence hall activities, fraternal activities and all-campus and community service projects and activities.

Criteria for the most prestigious involvement award on campus are a 2.5 overall grade point average, high achievement in extracurricular activity that was volunteer in nature with no monetary support received and participation in registered student organizations, campus and community service projects.

"Students should check into the things they can provide help to. If you help someone, you will, in return, help yourself."

—Derrick Faulkner

"Students should check into the things they can provide help to," Faulkner said. "If you help someone, you will, in return, help yourself."

Harriet Wilson Barlow, associate director of Student Development, said "leaving the pile higher" seems to be the general philosophy of the recipient this year.

"Faulkner is well-known across this campus, and, to all, is considered a leader," Barlow said. "He is a leader recognized for outstanding achievements and accomplishments in virtually every activity he has been involved."

Faulkner certainly has a stacked pile.

He has been a member of the Student Programming Council for four years.

He has served as president of his fraternity, Alpha Phi Alpha, for two of the three years he has been a member. He was recently named, for the second consecutive year, "Brother of the Year" by the Illinois State District of his fraternity.

He also has been recognized for outstanding service to the Pan-Hellenic and the Black Affairs Councils, and received the NPHC Man of the Year and the BAC Paul Robeson individual service awards in 1991.

He is a member of the Sphinx Club, and is listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Faulkner was selected to participate in the Student Alumni Council's Extern '92 program. He will work at Burrell Advertising Agency in Chicago during spring break and will work on the Ford account.

Faulkner has lettered four consecutive years without benefit of scholarship, and was named Conference Defensive Player of the Week and received the 1992 Football Fighting Saluki Award.

After graduation, Faulkner plans to look into some advertising agencies or work for the mortgage reduction company he is currently putting together with his sister and a friend who goes to DePaul University in Chicago.

Faulkner is vice president in charge of marketing, and the company will open in downtown Chicago, he said.

Panel to share accomplishments of women in history month event

By Sherri L. Wilcox
General Assignment Writer

Four lone voices will join Thursday to discuss family, work and politics—the contributions women have made to history.

The presentation, "Women in Southern Illinois: One Region, Many Voices," is a Women's History Month event sponsored by the Feminist Action Coalition and will begin at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Kaskaskia Room.

Jane Adams, a native of Southern Illinois, has participated in the Civil Rights Movement, the ban-the-bomb movement and was involved in the desegregation of restaurants in Carbondale in 1960.

In the '80s, Adams helped to publish a bilingual newspaper covering Native American activism.

As an anthropologist, she researches changes in farm life in Southern Illinois.

She was raised on a farm in Jackson County and uses her experiences and social concerns to aid her research.

Adams has worked with Illinois South, a public interest group, and centered her involvement on the farm crisis.

Her work in economic development is focused on indigenous and rural people affected by developmental programs and processes.

Lillian Adams, also a native of Southern Illinois, is chairwoman of the Southern Illinois Carol Moseley Braun for U.S. Senate campaign and co-chairwoman of the Southern Illinois Pro-Choice Alliance.

She has worked for the Socialist Party and was an organizer of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union of Boston.

During the 1930s, she helped raise money and relief supplies for Spanish Loyalists throughout the Spanish Civil War and when the Nazis came to power in Germany, she worked for the Emergency Rescue Committee in New York, which brought artists and scholars from Germany.

Since the early 1960s, she has been active in promoting women's reproductive freedom and was one of the founders of the Carbondale Women's Center in 1972.

Sharon Gibson is a journalist at the Southern Illinoisian, where she became the first African-American reporter on staff in 1989.

She has previously worked for the Milwaukee community Journal, an African-American weekly, and the Wisconsin Jewish Chronicle.

A Milwaukee native and single mother, Gibson will discuss sexism, racism and the culture shock of moving from an urban area to a rural area and focus on the strategies she has employed to combat these problems.

Dar Walks Out is a native of the Pine Ridge Sioux Reservation in Pine Ridge, S.D. She has lived in Southern Illinois for the past four years.

Her Native American name is "Ah Hocki Gli Win".

She will discuss her experiences in living on and off the reservation, her ties to family members still living at Pine Ridge, and her efforts to increase local awareness of her culture and people.

Some major issues include the language barrier, the differing lifestyle and traditions of a Sioux family.

For more information on the panel discussion, contact Lori Davis at the Feminist Action Coalition, 453-5141.

Theater group to perform 'Barefoot in the Park'

By Ronn Byrd
Entertainment Writer

The SIUC performance of "Barefoot in the Park" will be the first in a record-breaking series of performances by the Alpha Omega Players.

"The players have 21 straight performances with Carbondale's being the first," said Sherry Bowman, booking manager for the players. "The current record of straight shows is 20."

"Barefoot in the Park" will be presented at 6:30 tonight in the Student Center ballrooms.

Written by Neil Simon,

"Barefoot in the Park" is the story of newlyweds who move into a less than perfect apartment. Complications arise from a friendly neighbor and the bride's mother.

The play's title comes from the bride's feeling that to walk barefoot in the February snow is the test of whether her stuffy husband deserves her.

Starring as newlyweds Corie and Paul Bratter are Claysey Everett and Phillip Butts. Mike Daughtry and Michele Hurst are the supporting cast.

The four actors are members of the Alpha Omega Players, a nationally acclaimed touring company. The company is composed of three separate touring units, each equipped to do three to four plays and made up of two men and two women.

The rehearsal schedule for the four players is grueling, Bowman said.

"They are selected in July and go into rehearsals in August," Bowman said. "Then they go on the road. But before that they rehearse every day from 7:30 in the morning to 9 at night. They can do each of the three plays well; that's why it's a theater repertory."

The two plays besides "Barefoot in the Park" are "Drunkard" and

"LUV."

Everett is a Dallas, Texas, native and graduated from the Performing Artists Musical Theater Conservatory at Mountain View College. Everett always has wanted to play the role of Corie Bratter, Bowman said.

"One of the reasons Claysey joined the company was she has always wanted to play the role of the wife," Bowman said. "She's really enjoying it a lot."

Daughtry comes from Opelika, Alabama, and studied theater performance at Auburn University. His roles include Oberon in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and

Rufus in "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas." Daughtry also has appeared in TV commercials. Hurst is from Pink Hill, N.C., and recently graduated from Pembroke State University with a bachelor's degree in theater performance. Some of the productions in which Hurst has performed include "Little Shop of Horrors" and "Steel Magnolias."

Butts is a Riverdale, Ga., native and has starred in the motion pictures "The Slugger's Wife," and "Invasion U.S.A." Some of his favorite roles have been Jim in "The Glass Menagerie" and Cliff Bradshaw in "Cabaret."

Professor: Southern Illinois tree possible energy source

By Annette Holder
General Assignment Writer

A type of maple tree found in Southern Illinois may be the primary fuel source of the future.

John Preece, plant and soil science professor, said the trees are one way to capture the sun's energy for reuse.

"The main fuel we use in the world is fossil fuels," Preece said. "Eventually these supplies will be depleted. As we look into the future we will need alternatives."

Preece is working on the research project with William Ashby, plant biology professor; Carl Huettelman, plant and soil science professor; and Paul Roth, forestry professor.

The trees are processed in a manner similar to corn when making ethanol.

The wood is converted to sugar. Yeast is added to make the ethanol used for the energy.

"We now see soybean and corn fields, but in the future we will see energy plantations with trees," Preece said.

The leaves from the trees will be used to provide nutrients to the soil. The leaves will also help retain moisture in the soil.

The tree would take advantage of land that is not agriculturally productive.

It grows on hills and prevents erosion. It also thrives in low land areas.

"We feel prime farm land will be used to grow food," Preece said.

The research is using clones from 60 different trees from 15 different seed sources.

The research group is trying to determine what tree grows fastest in different geographical areas.

The silver maple tree can grow 98 feet tall but is best used for fuel sources when cut at 10 to 25 feet, said Paul Roth, SIUC forestry professor.

"When you harvest the tree, it will try to restore the original growth quickly," Roth said. "Also, young trees grow faster."

A fast growing silver maple will grow about 10 feet tall during the summer growing season.

The underside of the leaves are silver and this is how the tree gets its name.

It is found primarily on the east side of the Mississippi River from Canada to northern Florida.

"In Carbondale, the southern tree sources are outgrowing the trees native to Southern Illinois," Preece said.

The researchers selected the seeds from the fastest growing trees and rooted the cuttings.

They took the tips of the stems, sterilized them, and then multiplied the cuttings.

The shoots are cut off and planted in greenhouses.

The research project will be presented with 46 others from 3 to 5 p.m. March 10 at the Student Center Ballroom B.

Research projects on coal and heredity of right or left-handedness are some of the other projects that will be featured.

The increase is not scheduled to be voted on until April and USG will conduct an extensive study on the increase throughout March, he said.

Pentagon: U.S. should stay in role of world superpower

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top-secret Pentagon strategic planning document that calls for the United States to maintain its new role as the world's only superpower is consistent with Defense Secretary Dick Cheney's public policy statements, a senior military official argued Monday.

"I haven't even seen the document myself yet," admitted the official, who asked not to be named, "but what I read about it is consistent with what Secretary Cheney and Chairman (of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Colin) Powell have been saying both here and on Capitol Hill for the past month."

The official noted that the document — called the Defense Guidance and used as the basis of long-term Pentagon budget planning — is still subject to revision. A copy of the draft was leaked to the New York Times and was the basis of a story published Sunday.

Despite official reassurances, the document's specific and detailed discussion of U.S. defense objectives seems certain to cause controversy among American allies and neutrals around the world.

These details appear to depart in both spirit and substance from the international coalition strategy that has guided America's world leadership since World War II.

"While the United States cannot become the world's 'policeman' by assuming responsibility for righting every wrong," the Defense Guidance reportedly says, "we will retain the pre-eminent responsibility for addressing selectively those wrongs which threaten not only our interests but those of our allies or friends, or which could seriously unsettle international relations."

The draft planning document calls for the United States to:

—Ensure that no rival superpower arises in the former Soviet Union or anywhere else.

—Discourage advanced industrial nations, such as Germany and Japan, from challenging American leadership.

—Use military force if necessary to prevent the proliferation of nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction.

—Threaten retaliation in kind against any country that uses such weapons.

—Encourage extension of the NATO defense commitment to the newly independent nations of Eastern Europe.

"Our first objective," the document reportedly says, "is to prevent the emergence of a new rival, either on the territory of the former Soviet Union or elsewhere, that poses a threat on the order of that posed formerly by the Soviet Union."

That requires the United States to prevent any hostile power from dominating any region with enough resources to generate global power.

"Our nuclear forces," the document says, "... provide an important deterrent hedge against the possibility of a revitalized or unforeseen global threat, while at the same time helping to deter third party use of weapons of mass destruction through the threat of retaliation."

"The actual use of weapons of mass destruction," the planning draft says, "even in conflicts that otherwise do not directly engage U.S. interests, could spur further proliferation."

Air Force refuses to release results of crash investigation

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — The Air Force apparently has determined what caused a military plane to crash at Evansville last month but official findings won't be released pending further review.

Transcripts of radio communications between the doomed plane and the Evansville airport tower were released to the media Monday but shed no light on the fiery crash.

Five crew members and 11 people on the ground were killed when the C-130 transport crashed during training maneuvers Feb. 6 near Dress Regional Airport.

The Air Force Safety Board completed its investigation this past weekend, said Capt. Steve Bullard of the Kentucky Air National Guard.

Bullard said the Air Force Monday briefed crew members of other C-130s stationed at Louisville — home of the ill-fated plane.

Additional briefings are planned elsewhere, he said.

The safety board's report also will be given to the Air Force Accident Investigation Board, which is scheduled to issue its report to the Air Force next Sunday.

Bullard said the final report will be made available to the public after various military officers have time to review it.

The Federal Aviation Administration released recorded conversations between the tower and the plane.

The transcript shed no light on the cause of the crash.

The plane was practicing "touch and go" landings and takeoffs.

After one session, the pilot told the tower the second would "be a low approach," meaning an altitude of about 500 feet.

As the plane approached the airport, the pilot apparently was advised by the Air National Guard to return to Louisville. The craft began climbing, then veered downward, exploding in a parking lot outside a hotel and a restaurant.

The only words of alarm heard from the plane were "... going down."

Judge approves $1.3 billion close on Drexel suits

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack approved a final $1.3 billion agreement Monday aimed at settling the flood of civil suits against Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. and its jailed junk-bond chief Michael R. Milken.

The suits arose out of the 1988 collapse of Drexel, once among the richest and most powerful investment firms on Wall Street.

After more than an hour of closed-door negotiations in the judge's chambers in federal court in Manhattan, Pollack emerged and said all parties agreed to the settlement, including the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which last week balked at signing onto the deal.

The FDIC then had objected that the original deal did not require Milken or other Drexel high rollers to fully disclose information about their assets.

When the details of the deal were initially disclosed last week, there was some criticism that even after the settlement Milken still would have a fortune of at least $125 million in his own name and could have access to several hundred million in other assets technically owned by his wife and children.

Under the revised terms hammered out in the judge's chambers, Milken and other settling participants would make full financial disclosure within 30 days.

That information would be given to Pollack, who would then review it along with a court-appointed monitor, the heads of the FDIC and the Resolution Trust Corp. or their representatives, the attorney for the two government agencies and another attorney representing other major plaintiffs in the case.

Once that last legal roadblock was overcome, the proceedings moved swiftly.

An hour late, Pollack convened a scheduled hearing on the settlement, the revised terms were read aloud, and RTC Director Albert Casey and an FDIC attorney publicly endorsed it.

The various attorneys involved in negotiating the arrangement all took turns elaborately congratulating and praising the judge and one another for their efforts.

Court sets resentencing date in 'The Queen of Mean' trial

NEW YORK (UPI) — A U.S. District Court judge Monday dismissed the final delaying arguments from Leona Helmsley's lawyer, and set March 18 for the resentencing of the 71-year-old hotel queen for tax evasion.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas Griesa Monday set the date for the resentencing of Helmsley, who government officials said had exhausted all her chances of appeal.

Griesa said his ruling would not substantially change Helmsley's sentence.

Helmsley was sentenced to four years in prison and fined $7 million on her 1989 conviction on tax evasion and other charges.

A jury convicted Helmsley of one count of conspiracy to defraud the government, three counts of attempted tax evasion, three counts of signing false personal income tax returns and 10 counts of mail fraud.

In 1990, Helmsley and her husband, Harry, presided over a $5-billion real estate empire, the crowning jewel of which was New York City's Empire State Building and the Helmsley hotel chain of more than 20 hotels.

Griesa Monday told Leona Helmsley to "prepare" her husband, the 82-year-old real estate magnate, for her "probable" incarceration.

"I would urge you to begin to prepare Mr. Helmsley for the probable need to be separated from his wife," Griesa told Helmsley.

He then told her lawyers, "I don't want her misled."

Helmsley's lawyers had claimed that serving time in prison would be too much for her health and for that of her ailing husband.

After hearing arguments in the Foley Square courtroom from her attorney, Alan Dershowitz, and Assistant U.S. Attorney Mark Hellerer, Griesa refused to delay her sentencing any longer and said there would be only a technical adjustment in her sentence.

Griesa, calling the changes that would be made "ministerial," said some of her counts would be joined without substantially changing the amount of time she would have to serve.

The hearing was called because of an appeals court ruling that stated that some counts should have been combined, thereby possibly resulting in a reduction of her sentence.

Prior to making his statements, Griesa said he was aware that Helmsley's husband remained in "very poor health," and that she had suffered "a stroke in September 1990 and has been in quite severe, poor health."

He suggested that a prison in Lexington, Ky., might be able to deal with her health problems.

On Feb. 24, the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal on the case without comment, letting stand the ruling of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that her conviction did not violate her rights.

Dershowitz had claimed that her 1985 immunized testimony before a New York state grand jury investigating sales tax violations was used to convict her in the tax case.

Helmsley, the subject of a book and television movie titled, "The Queen of Mean," has said that many of the bitter attacks against her were due to the success she gained despite her being a woman.

Stewart pitching A-OK, pain-free

PHOENIX (UPI) — It never occurred to Dave Stewart last year that his knee needed repair.

And despite the pain that eventually caused a slight defect in his mechanics and his sudden ineffectiveness, there never was a time the Oakland ace wasn't willing to take the ball every time he was scheduled to start.

That's because Dave Stewart wasn't going to let something as bothersome as an injury stand in the way of allowing him to pitch.

"I've always had success playing with injuries," the right-hander said. "I can't think of any time that I've played with injuries that I haven't come out successful. I couldn't see any reason why I shouldn't have been successful in that situation."

But this injury was different, as Stewart wound up pitching the entire 1991 season with damaged cartilage in his left knee. When the pain wouldn't go away during the winter, he finally confessed to the Athletics' medical staff and underwent arthroscopic surgery Dec. 16 to clean up the knee.

It was obvious something was wrong with Stewart last year, though nobody knew why. After winning at least 20 games in each of the previous four seasons, he dropped to 11-11 in 1991 with a 5.18 ERA.

Perhaps the tip-off should have come in April, when he lost to Seattle in the Kingdome. He had been unbeatable during the month for three seasons before that, winning 20 straight April starts dating back to 1987.

He was forced out of action for two weeks after going on the disabled list May 9 for a strained muscle in his rib cage, but still never bothered to tell anybody about the knee.

His performance, consequently, went downhill. The injury affected the way Stewart would plant his foot just before his delivery, which in turn messed up his pinpoint control.

"It was a subconscious thing," he said. "My mind wouldn't let me plant and hurt myself."

Suddenly, pitches that would be popped up or grounded to an infielder were lined for base hits. Opposing teams hit .278 against him Stewart last year, as compared with .231 in 1990.

NETTERS, from Page 16

The Dawgs won three matches and lost one that went the full three sets.

"All of the games were close," Lefevre said.

In Flight 4, freshman Uwe Classen defeated Russell Burrow 7-5, 6-7, 6-3.

In the second set, Classen was up two match points but failed to finish off Burrow. He had to battle to win in the third, Lefevre said.

"This is indication on how close these games were," he added.

No. 5 Kai Kramer, a sophomore, won 6-7, 6-4, 6-4.

No. 1 singles man Tim Derouin was defeated by Tulsa's Pat Hewe 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

In other singles matches, Junior Jay Merchant beat Leon Mothman in straight sets 7-6, 6-1 in Flight 3, and freshman Rodney Steven fell to Jason Hix, in straight sets 6-4, 6-1 in Flight 6.

The netters went into doubles play holding a 4-2 lead, but they got just one win in three games.

"We need to work on our doubles play," Lefevre said.

Derouin and Jay Merchant lost their match 6-3, 6-4, and Kramer and Steven were defeated 6-4, 6-3.

The only bright spot on the evening in doubles play was the combination of Classen and Alaf Merchant, which won 7-6, 6-4.

"This is the first time we played well together," Merchant said.

"I was happy with the double matches."

The team has not practiced much on its doubles, but it is getting better, he said.

Lefevre said going into the match, he did not know how tough Tulsa would be because it only had played small colleges prior to its match with SIUC.

"They are in the top five teams in the Missouri Valley Conference, but so are we," he said.

"It turned out to be a close match."

The men next play Memphis State at 1 p.m. Sunday in Memphis, Tenn.

DUKE, from Page 16

won a pair of games last week, but reversed positions with the Razorbacks claiming sixth place with 409 points and the Bruins dropped to seventh with 368. UCLA, 23-4, was omitted from the ballot of one voter. Arkansas is 24-6.

Southern California, 21-5, after splitting two games, climbed to eighth place with 336 points, Oklahoma State, 24-6, also advanced two notches to ninth with 328 and Kentucky, 23-6, dropped one spot to 10th with 316 points.

Missouri lost both its games last week to fall from eighth place to 11th, and completing the top 25 were Cincinnati, Alabama, Florida State, Michigan State, North Carolina, Michigan, Seton Hall, Georgetown, DePaul, St. John's, Tulane, Oklahoma, LSU and Massachusetts.

Cincinnati, 23-4, made the biggest climb as it jumped from 17th to 12th. The Bearcats defeated Memphis State in their only outing last week.

Michigan State, North Carolina and Georgetown all dropped three places last week after each went 1-1.

Massachusetts, 25-4, is the only new member of the top 25, while Syracuse dropped out following losses to Connecticut and Villanova. The Orangemen ranked No. 23 a week ago.

Voting is conducted among members of the UPI Hall of Fame panel.

A first-place vote is worth 25 points, second place is 24 points down to one point for 25th place.

UNIFIED, from Page 16

would be handled by IOC Vice President Vitaly Smirnov, who is also president of the Russian NOC.

Smirnov said the republics would examine the question of team selections at a joint meeting March 20.

It was intended the unified team would have 510 competitors and 170 officials. Georgia, which excels in wrestling and judo, would have about 15 places.

Monday's decision raised the number of recognized national Olympic committees to 183.

The 12 republics are: Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova, Russia, Tadzhikistan, Turkmenistan, Ukraine and Uzbekistan.

It is believed Wichita State's top offer would be $400,000, which in addition to base salary would include any radio and television shows, a shoe contract and other perks.

Another problem in trying to lure Valvano would be the lack of national exposure given the Missouri Valley Conference.

Wichita State is looking for a successful Division I coach. It has already been turned down by Purdue's Gene Keady and Oklahoma State's Eddie Sutton.

Candidates believed on the Shockers' list include Scott Thompson of Rice, John Calipari of Massachusetts and Neil McCarthy of New Mexico State.

Whoever is selected will not only face the job of rebuilding a team that went 8-19 this season (6-12 in the conference) but of boosting fan support.

Wichita State had its lowest attendance in 29 seasons this year.

Cohen stepped down under pressure partly because of the poor attendance. He joined the Wichita State staff in 1986 and was promoted to head coach in 1989, going 32-55. Cohen had one year left on a contract reportedly worth a little more than $100,000 a year, including perks.

Wichita State also needs an athletic director.

In the same week Cohen resigned, Tom Shupe announced he was leaving, effective July 31.

SPRING BREAK-92

SUN, FUN &
ACQUAINTANCE RAPE,
IT CAN HAPPEN TO YOU!

How men can lower the risk of date and acquaintance rape:

- * Don't fall for the false stereotype that when a woman says "No" she really means "Yes." If a woman says "No" to sexual contact, believe her and stop.
- * Listen carefully to what your date is saying. If you feel she is being indirect or giving you "mixed messages," ask for clarification.
- * Be careful in group situations. Be prepared to resist pressure from friends to participate in violent or criminal acts. Get involved if you believe someone is at risk.
- * Be especially careful in situations involving the use of alcohol or drugs, which can interfere with your ability to assess situations and to communicate effectively.
- * Be aware that having sex with someone who is mentally or physically incapable of giving consent is rape. If you have sex with a woman who is drugged, intoxicated, passed out, or unaware of what is happening around her, you may be guilty of rape.
- * Remember that date rape is a crime punishable by state law and a violation of the SIUC Student Conduct Code.

LeBlanc awarded start for Blackhawks

Sports Briefs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ray LeBlanc, the career minor-league goaltender who starred for the U.S. Olympic hockey team last month in France, finally will get his shot at the National Hockey League Tuesday night against San Jose.

The Chicago Blackhawks Monday announced they had called up LeBlanc from their Indianapolis Ice farm team.

LeBlanc, 27, will make his NHL debut Tuesday night against the expansion Sharks at Chicago Stadium.

"It feels real good to finally wear this jersey and say, 'Hey, I'm up in Chicago,'" LeBlanc said Monday. "I'm just going to treat it just as another game. I won't be nervous or anything like that. I'll take it one shot at a time and just do my best."

LeBlanc's brilliant play at the Albertville Games carried the United States undefeated into the medal round before the Americans fell to the eventual gold-medal champion Unified Team and Czechoslovakia. The fourth-place finish marked United States's best since 1980.

The Blackhawks said they would give LeBlanc the start so he will be eligible for the upcoming expansion draft.

There are three other goaltenders ahead of him in the Chicago organization: Ed Belfour, Dominic Hasek and the injured Jimmy Waite.

"If things don't work out here, maybe it's the expansion route," LeBlanc said.

"Whatever, all I want to do is play in the NHL. As long as I do my best and make the organization happy, whoever I'm with, maybe it'll come true."

LeBlanc posted two shutouts during the Olympics.

He stopped 50 shots in the loss to the team from the former Soviet Union and posted a 2.9 goals-against average.

He returned to the minors following the Olympics and stopped 32 shots Sunday on "Ray Day" in Indianapolis in a 3-2 victory over Peoria.

He is 4-0 since returning to Indianapolis after the Olympics. He also defeated San Jose while playing for Team USA in an exhibition game.

LeBlanc posted a 6-2 victory over the Sharks, stopping 32 shots, in an exhibition game during the U.S.'s pre-Olympic tour.

San Jose has the worst record in the National Hockey League at 15-47-5.

Peluso sets penalty minutes record

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Blackhawks enforcer Mike Peluso says he wasn't even thinking about a record.

Peluso said he was just doing his job Sunday when he collected 17 penalty minutes to set a new club single-season record.

That put Peluso at 362 minutes thus far this season, breaking the mark of 352 penalty minutes set by Dave Manson in the 1988-89 season.

"If there's a problem, I have to be there," Peluso said after the game. "I know my role."

Peluso's battles Sunday all featured Lyndon Byers of the Boston Bruins. The two first tangled before a faceoff when Peluso had just gotten on the ice.

"It was one of those games where I kind of had a fly on me," Peluso said, "and I had to meet the challenge."

Peluso said he believes he is more disciplined these days, but added he knows Stu Grimson said after his 10-game suspension that he would go to the aid of teammate again. Peluso says he feels the same way.

"Let us do the dirty work so the other guys can play," Peluso said.

Peluso has 12 games remaining and could have a shot at the all-time NHL penalty time record held by Dave Schultz. The former Philadelphia Flyer bad boy had 472 penalty minutes in the 1974-75 season.

OUT, from Page 16

"I was getting to the point where I was starting to feel comfortable," he said. "Right now I'm not sure about what is going to happen, but I'd like to be able to travel with the team when they go to Florida (March 16-21 at the University of Miami.)"

"I think they'll be all right once everyone has a chance to get settled."

The Salukis were to play at Arkansas State today, but the game was called because of rain.
