Council leaves bars open for Halloween

Vote displeases mayor who fears the worst, but others see success

GOVERNMENT EDITOR

The City Council voted to st go on with Halloween," "just go on with Halloween," dropping all the proposed rec-ommendations for this year, which will keep all the bars on the Strip open for the Halloween 2000 weekend.

With a 3-2 vote Tuesday night, Councilman Larry Briggs led the motion, which was seconded by Councilman Brad Cole and supported by Councilwoman Maggie hopefully to stay.

Briggs said the past three years are proof that the city should be able to remain open and that students should be trusted.

"The last three years there has been years there has been no violence — so let it stay open," he said. It is a living lesson. We've done our job as far as the weekend goes."

Obvious disappointment was streaked across Mayor Neil Dillard's face at the final vote, as his face at the final vote, as his fears of the past years re peared with the opening of the bars. Councilman Mike Neill was also against letting the bars stay open. This vote actually coincides with the original plan that was established in 1994 by Presidential-Mayoral Task Force, that was to close the University as well as close the bars and ban the sale of alcohol at restaurants in the South Illinois Avenue area, along with banning the sale of possession of kegs in the entire city.

This year, with no place to unleash their creativity, the friends decided to become an organization. So far, it is working better than expected.

"We've had good feedback," Uswajesdakul said. "We're having a lot of fun with it. Mostly, it's just to get the people to dance."

And people are dancing, sweat and smiles are abundant every Thursday night in the gymnasium. The swing music echoes with the laughter in the bad acoustics of the gym, but the dancers are having too much fun to notice.

The group is open to anyone who wants to dance, regardless of previous experience. Newcomers begin with the

SIU students travel to Springfield, lobbying budget

Dedicated students garner support from Illinois legislators

> BRYNN SCOTT DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

SIU students lobbied in Springfield Wednesday in apport of Gov. George Ryan's recommended Higher ucation budget increase for all state universities,

About 15 SIUC students and four SIU- Edwardsville students met with Illinois representatives and senators, communicating SIU's general support of the $320.6 million recommended budget for fiscal year 2001. SIUC students spent eight hours traveling and lobbying.

Garret Deakin, executive assistant for Government

Relations at SIU, said a high percentage of the budget is likely to pass through the General Assembly. "We are out this year supporting very hard for the governor's budget," Deakin said. "To the credit of the leg-

ators, they do not like to cut education budgets."

Reactions from legislators proved the SIU Lobby Day

The students met with legislators from their hon districts and Southern Illinois, presenting them with information about SIU.

Kenneth Mantel, a sophomore in political science from Skokie, spoke with several legislators who voiced support for SIU. Rep. Louis Lang, D-Skokie, and Rep. Carol Ronen, D-Chicago, said SIU will probably receive

Science Department and Public Relations Student Society of America members met with Sen. Steven Society of America members net with Sen. Steven Rauschenberger, R-Elgin, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, to promote the recommend-ed budget. Rauschenberger agreed with the budget and said major problems occur with internal allocation procedures

"We will not have large residential universities 10 to 15 years from now," Rauschenburger said. "We have a problem with allocation processes at these universities." Rauschenberger said one possible problem solution is the elimination of two of 12 Illinois universities with the

The SIU Board of Trustees will discuss the appointment of a leading executive search firm hired to aid in the search for a permanent University president at its meeting today in Alton.

Korn/Ferry, an internationally recog-nized search firm, was appointed Tuesday by the board.

The board also will consider recommendations made by the Moody Commission regarding the University's business practices, including, among other things, hiring one director of purchasing for all campuses in the SIU system.

In addition, University officials will update the board on the Administrative Information System, formerly known as the Oracle project. AIS originally was implemented to combat the Y2K bug, which threatened to disrupt the existing antiquated computer systems at the University. AIS, which was started in 1996, was not completed by January 1, 2000, raising concerns about increased funding.

The Board Finance Committee will meet at 9 a.m., followed immediately by the Board Architecture and Design Committee.
The regular board meeting will be at 10:30 a.m. All meetings will take place in the Hoag Lecture Hall at the SIU School of Dental Medicine.

Halloween's back, hopefully to stay

Tuesday night, the City Council handed students the opportunity to prove themselves to be responsi-ble with open bars for Halloween 2000. With a 3-2 vote by the city not to close bars, ban the sale of kegs or create a task force, the ball is now in the students court. But as we well know, it's all in the timing, and bringing Halloween back before the University takes fall break off the calendar puts SIUC students at a foreboding disadvantage recommended the city continue on with the closures for this year because fall break had already been placed on the calendar for 2000. We warned that combining an open Strip with a school holiday would leave students bored and restless and more likely wreak havoc in the city. Instead, the council listened to the students and community members that were at the Tuesday night meeting and took action on their words. We commend the council for taking the speakers seriously and considering every perspective, but, in the end, allowing fall break and a full-blown Halloween to coincide may prove to be a grave disservice to both SIUC and the community.
The Daily Egyptian Editorial Board previously

Old traditions die hard, and the Halloween riots were not just a one-time occurrence. The first year the bans are lifted, it is crucial to provide a scenario with the best possible conditions for success. It is in everybody's interest to have Halloween return to normal: bars and liquor stores have lost revenue, students are confined or sent home, and the city and University have both continued to grapple with a tarnished image. Everyone is on the same team, but the stakes are high. If Halloween 2000 doesn't go as planned, the city may decide five years isn't long enough to wait for the next chance.

pensate for the questionable odds left before us. The bars, for their own good, must be all-the-more vigilant in serving alcohol only to those of legal age. The police must withhold force unless it becomes absolutely necessary to maintain peace on the Strip. Undergraduate Student Government and Graduate and Professional Student Council members now have more responsibility than in years past of working with officials to ensure safety and peace. The most successful and positive atmosphere was created with USG and GPSC members on the Strip, breaking up fights and keeping the environment light-hearted. The "party school" image is dead to some, but not all. Parents in other parts of the state will be watching closely, deciding if they, in good con-science, can send their children here. Legislators are watching too, evaluating whether SIUC is a reputable institution worthy of the state funding we so: desperately need. The success of this Halloween may be one of the last steps to proving we are not a party school anymore, or the first in repetition of a ourney to redemption we all hoped was almost over.

Students, the city is telling you they think students can be responsible. The trust can be taken away with one single mistake. Halloween can easily return to being a short break in a dry city. Don't let the city down, giving credence to all the doubts that have followed our school and our students. Halloween can be a fun weekend, just like any other eekend in Carbondale.

We know the vast majority of SIUC students could probably handle this responsibility years ago. Now, we must trust that every single student cares enough about our school, our city, and themselves to let us all have a happy Halloween.

Wake up and take precautions to stop crime

DEAR EDITOR:

I am writing in response to the police blotters

My extensive studies revealed that not only to these foods around the least mercy. extensive studies revealed that not only are these foods among the least messy and easiest to eat, but (and this is that part that makes this experiment sort of scientific) they also pack lots of carbs, which is important when you had to study through lunch. Just make sure you get your hands on some real food by the d of the week, or you might fall down a hill for other reasons.

3. Blowing bubbles. This one is best when you've spent all day being told you are not living up to your potential. Head to the toy section at Wal-Mart and pick up a bottle of Wonder Bubbles. For less than two bucks, you can get double duty out of your break — relax your body by the property of the property o sitting down while you expand your mind and remembering all those sum mers you did this as a kid.

I'm not saying any of these activities are guaranteed to work for everybody, but they're definitely a lot more fun than any remedy in those stress-buster brochures you find in doctor's office

So go mad and try one — you've got nothing to lose except 3.5 minutes.

Who knows? This thing could catch on like gangbusters and the SIU adminis; you've got tration will have to post signs outside.

State gas tax may be eliminated

Rising cost of gas has caused concern among lawmakers

JASON COKER DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Influenced by soaring gas prices Illinois lawmakers have proposed a bill that will eliminate state gas tax. Senate Bill 1310 would cut the cost of gas by 5 percent, said Sen. Dave Luechtefeld, R-Okawville. The bill is ready for a Senate vote, and Lucchtefeld expects it to pass as early as this week.

While it would remove about $230 million from the state's coffers, Luechtefeld is confident the loss can be recovered in other sales taxes. The senator said more people may buy products when they go into the gas

Gas prices have gone down slight-ly in the last week. At one local gas staregular and unleaded gas are $1.44, unleaded plus is $1.47 and premium gas is $1.53.

Luechtefeld said that if the state receives less taxes for highways, the federal government automatically would increase subsidies to Illinois highways, which would help offset the ss of gas tax revenue.

Josh Hyde, a junior in cinema and photography, lives in Makanda and nutes to campus. The burden of cost has driven him to not drive as often as he used to.

"I try to stay in town sometimes to save gas," Hyde said, "I have to drive 10 minutes to get home daily." Yet Hyde is not fully behind cut-

CHRISTINE BOLIN DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

With Spring Break just around the corner, senior Brad Bowers cannot wait to Lave Carbondale and head to Tallahassee, Fla., for a week of training and competing with the SIU track and field team.

"Spring break is always a good time because we get time away from school to fully focus on track and field." Bowers said. "Even though it really isn't that cold [in Carbondale], everybody is looking forward to

Monday, the Salukis will travel to Florida State University for the Florida State Relays, which take place March 15-18. This is the third time in four years SIU has competed in this meet, which is unscored.

SIU head coach Bill Cornell said the meet will be taken seriously, Making the trip to Tallahassee include high jumpers Aaron Shunk and Joe Hill, decathalon Allen Lakomiak, distance runner Matt McClelland, Bowers and throwers Brock Lovelace and Erik Olsen.

Since Olsen did not compete last outdoor season because of a shoul-der surgery, he is especially anticipating the season, which he says is going

"I am very anxious. I cannot express how anxious I have been," Olsen said. "Brock and I have improved a lot in the off-season. There is going to be a lot of competition between the two of us. We hope either one of s the conference."

Olsen is not the only Saluki who has set high goals for himself. Bowers, an All-American, was recovering from a back injury most of the indoor season. He thinks his time will come in the outdoor season.

"I have high goals and dreams for this season," Bowers said. "I want to

ANDY EGENES DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

They have not won the Super Bowl, yet the SIU women's tennis team will make it to Disney

The Salukis (3-0) will face Rollins College, Stetson University, the University of IllinoisChicago and Syracuse University during their week-long stay in Florida.

For Pamela Floro, a sophomore from the Philippines, the trip is a chance to mix business with pleasure.

"We are all looking forward to the spring break tournament. Actually, we can't wait," Floro said. "We plan to go to Disney World probably, and then, I don't know if we can go to Head coach Judy Auld hopes the team will keep its focus on tennis, as it faces stiff compe-tition the entire trip. She said SIU will not take any of the teams lightly and thinks the team can

'We could come back and be 7-0 and that's great," Auld said. "But you only get better by playing better competition. And when you play better competition, you run that risk of losing."

Four of the seven Salukis are not from the United States, and the entire team has earned the opportunity to give those teammates the chance to visit "the happiest place on earth." The team collected the money to defray the trip's expenses through a variety of fund raisers.

"I'm not sure if some of the international kids have been to Disney World," Auld said. "I think it will be a nice experience for them."

Auld said she did have concerns about burning her team out, so scheduled only four matches, less matches than past spring break trips.

"They will have a chance to chill and relax and play again ... and let them go to Disney on Friday," Auld said.

Last spring break the team enjoyed mild spring weather in Arizona, but Auld said the competition was "lousy" and wants her club to e advantage of playing quality programs.
"I come from the old school where you should get the best competition for your dollar, so I'm happy about the trip," Auld said.

Baseball drops a 7-5 game to Indiana State in California

ANDY EGENES DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

The SIU baseball team was defeated 7-5 by MVC combatant Indiana State at the Pepsi/Johnny Quik Classic in Fresno, Calif., Wednesday.

The Sycamores proved to have too much offensive power in the game for SIU to match. Saluki starting hurler Brendon Fort (1-2) was rudely greeted as the Sycamores tagged him for seven runs on 10 hits in four-plus innings. The game was called after six innings because it surpassed the two-hour time limit placed on the game because of a rainout SIÚ baseball head coach Dan Callahan was livid after the game because his team did not capitalize on crucial scoring opportunities.

"There is no excuse for not swinging the bat with runners in scoring position," Callahan said.
"Today, two of our best hitters (Scott Boyd and Jeff Stanek) struck out looking in this situation."
Boyd, though, was a bright spot for the Saluki offense. He went 2-for-4, including a double and a run scored.

The Salukis (7-4) were seeded for the remainder of the tournament after all of Wednesday's action was completed, and will continue tournament play today.
