Lesar to withdraw motion on Leasure from trustee agenda

By Gary Houy Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Acting SIU President Hiram Lesar told the Faculty Senate Tuesday he would withdraw his recommendation for reappointment of Keith Lesaure as vice president for academic affairs and provost from the agenda for Thursday's meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees.

The senate then voted 22-0 to postpone action on a committee report asking action on a committee report asking that Leasure not be reappointed. The motion included instructions to the Faculty Status and Welfare Committee to meet with Lesar "for such con-sultation as is necessary."

The withdrawal stemmed from an ac-cusation by Lesar that the senate comcusation by Desar that the senare com-mittee's statement "contains things which are not fact." When asked by a committee member to "list the falsities" of the report, Lesar said he did not have "all the material with me at this time."

He said he would postpone his recom-mendation until the June board meeting to "see where we are." An amendment to the motion proposing that the committee also meet with Leasure was turned down by the senate. Several members said Leasure has had time to state his case and defend his position to the senate. "Inaccuracies" in the committee report cited by senate members are to be submitted to the committee by Wed-

Trustees face heavy agenda on Thursday

Items ranging from review of ad-ministrative structure to consideration of transferring funds to improve Health Service programs will be discussed at the SIU Board of Trustees meeting Thursday.

The board will meet in open session at 11 a.m. in Student Center Ballroom B, following a closed executive session scheduled to start at 9 a.m. in the Student Center Vermilion Room.

Current administrative structure, established in January, is due to be reviewed by the Board since the 90-day trial period has expired. Discussion of trial period has expired. Discussion of changes in the present system, ranging from separating the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses of SIU to ap-pointing one president for both cam-puses is expected, but no board action is anticipated, according to Ivan Elliott, board chairman. Present administrative structure

Present administrative structure delagates certain powers over both campus presidents to Chief of Board Staff James M. Brown. The board will also consider a proposal calling for transfer of $15 from the $22.50-per-student Student Welfare and Recreation Fund fee to the Student Modical Penefits for an art Medical Benefits fee to pay for an ex-panded health care program. A general student fee proposal based on a per semester-hour charge for un-

The board tuition stance will be presented to the IBHE and at public hearings on tuition June 3 in Chicago, according to Brown. Bonn crisis may cloud East-West detente Sama P

By William L. Ryan Associated Press Special Corresp

Along with throwing West Germany into a political tizzy and handing Western Europe an added shock it har-dly needed, Chancellor Willy Brandt's resignation can have serious impact on the whole picture of developing East-Wort determe West detente.

News Analysis

The Bonn crisis comes at a most awk ward time. President Nixon is scheduled to visit Communist chief Leonid I. Brezhnev in Moscow before long. Shortly thereafter, Brandt himself to have met with the Soviet leader was to have met with the Soviet leader. Some vexing question marks are raised both for the Soviet leadership and Western capitals by the spy scandal that prompted Brandt to step down.

Police arrest two students on drug counts

Williamson County sheriff's police said the warrants are for unlawful delivery of a controlled substance.

Charged in Williamson County were Reggie Feezor, 26, of Herrin; Charles T. Mocaby, 25, of West Frankfort, and Thomas Roy Behnke, 23, of Eldorado.

Feezor and Behnke were arrested Monday night. Behnke was arrested by Eldorado police and transferred to Williamson County jail.

Mocaby was arrested in West Frankfort

All arrests, except Sanders', were bench arrests, Hecke said. The Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) aided by local and county police departments, had been conducting investigations for more than eight months, he said.

Bench arrests are made after a grand jury determines if there is enough evidence to charge a person without the person knowing it.

Williamson and Jackson County grand juries issued the true bills after IBI undercover agents had bought con-trolled substances from each of the eight, Hecke said.

True bills are issued by grand juries They indicate why a person should be charged.

There are still two warrants pending, Hecke said. Police have not been able to locate the persons named in the warrants.

The IBI was aided in the arrests by local, county and the SU police. Four of the six being held in Jackson County jail had been released Tuesday evening. Zarowny was released on $1,000 bond. Sternes was released on $1,000 bond. Blunt was released on $3,500 bond. anders is out on $3,000 bond.

Petrunich and Anastasia were being held in Jackson County jail. Petrunich's bond has been set at $3,000. Anastasia's bond is $5,000.

Feezor was released from Williamson County Jail on $5,000 bond. Mocaby and Behnke are still in Williamson County jail pending $20,000 bond each.

But all the while the policy was being But all the while the poincy was being pursued, the Soviet orbit was kept fully informed of all that went on in the in-nermost councils of Brandt's party. It would be no more than human for Ger-It Germans and Europeans alike to direct strong suspicion now toward Soviet and German motives behind the East detente.

Disclosure that one of his closest long-time aides was an East German army officer made it just about im-possible for Brandt to consider meeting Brezhnev. At the least, that would have been painfully embarrasing.

In fact, one can wonder what Brezhnev might have to say about these developments to Nixon, who could be justly concerned about how the long-term espionage affected the United State

The scandal also meant that Bonn could hardly proceed with plans to establish formal diplomatic relations with East Germany. That was to happen May 15

It is now postponed, at least, and the question arises whether deteriorating relations all over again between East and West Germany might move West Berlin to the fore anew as a dangerous world issue

The "young Socialists" evidently frighten elements of the solid German middle class, whom the Social Democrats long ago had soothed by shedding the dogmatic trappings of Marxism in favor of a middle-of-the-road look.

State elections are scheduled for lower Saxony in mid-June, and the spy scandal, plus the young Socialist noise, can further damage the party and sharpen the atmosphere of uncertainty. For the Soviet leadership, this must be irksome. Already it must wonder about the outcome of Watergate and what that might mean to the Soviet-American relations constructed in the Nixon-Brezhnev summits. In addition, Western Europe has been in more than a little uproar of late, what with the uncertain outlook in France and where else

On top of all that, normally stable West Germany suddenly is plunged into a major crisis that has all Western Europe wondering about the immediate consequences. Surely the Kremlin crystal ball is more clouded than ever.

Primary elections held in four states

By Carl P. Leubsdorf Associated Press Writer As

Gov. George C. Wallace's bid for renomination in Alabama and a hotly contested race in Ohio for the Democratic Senate nomination held top attention Tuesday as four states con-ducted primary elections.

Former astronaut John Glenn challenged appointed Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum in the Ohio Senate race with Mayor Ralph Perk of Cleveland the likely GOP choice.

Candidates for both senator and governor were being picked in Alabama and Ohio.

In North Carolina, both parties staged primary battles for the Senate seat of veteran Democrat Sam J. Ervin Jr., who is retiring.

All three states are also choosing can-didates for the House and other offices, as in Indiana.

Indiana's Senate nominees will be chosen at conventions next month. They are expected to be Democratic in-cumbent Birch E. Bayh and GOP Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis.

Voters were also balloting in the District of Columbia, where the issue was approval of a charter to restore a measure of self-government to the capital for the first time in 100 years.

In Alabama, the only doubt was whether Wallace would get more than 50 per cent of the vote and thus avoid a June 4 runoff against the No. 2 finisher.

His four rivals included state Sen. Eugene McLain, who contended Wallace was more interested in a 1976 presidential race than the governor-ship, and former Gov. James E. Folsom.

The GOP candidate, unopposed Tuesday and expected to offer little more then token opposition in Novem-ber, is Elvin McCary.

In the Senate race, freshman Democrat James B. Allen, a Wallace ally, was heavily favored over John Taylor. The winner will be unopposed in November

In Ohio, Glenn counted heavily on the financial disclosure issue in his effort to numeral disclosure issue in his criterio reverse a 1970 primary loss to Metzen-baum, a wealthy Cleveland lawyer and businessman who disclosed he paid no federal income tax in 1969 because of business losses.

In the governor's races, Gilligan had only taken opposition for the Democratic nomination, while his GOP predecessor, James Rhodes, sought a edecessor, James Rhodes, sought a meback against state Rep. Charles along rapidly by restricting questioning to points needing clarification. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, will participate in the meetings. The initial plans for hearing evidence left several unanswered questions, including:

-Why the first sessions will be closed; -When the staff will begin presenting evidence in such areas as the ITT an-titrust settlement and the Nixon camcontributions from the dairy paign c dustry;

-How soon the committee will be ready to submit written questions to the President; and,

-Whether a new subpoena will be issued soon for material requested by the committee in a letter sent to St. Clair on April 19.

In response to an earlier committee subpoena, Nixon last week gave the panel edited transcripts of 47 White House conversations dealing with Watergate.

The President offered to let Rodino and Hutchinson listen to the tapes to verify that the transcripts contained all relevant Watergate material.

Rodino hasn't accepted that offer and the committee, in a near party-line vote, approved sending a letter to the President informing him he had failed to comply with the subpoena.

Compty with the subpoena. Rep. Accuracy questioned

To the Daily Egyptian:

In the DE story of May 3, Edgar Philpot made mention of the Veterans Association's behavior at last year's senate meeting. As selective attention seems to be your trump card in your dealings with the senate, I will correct your recollection of what transpired at last year's meeting.

- The Veterans Association sent nine representatives to last year's meeting. Each of those individuals was to be responsible to present information to the senate, in the event that a question arose that our funding request failed to explain adequately. At a number of occasions during the meeting our reps to a senate of the senate of the senate of the senate of the senate is the senate of number of occasions during the meeting our reps were called upon to answer various questions. The American way

To the Daily Egyptian:

I have read enough letters cirticizing and com-plaining about the ticket line structure to know what the real problem is. All those too-damned lazy people plaining about the ticket the structure to know what the real problem is. All those too-damned lazy people with the bitches and complaints had to do was to get up a half hour earlier than usual and go to the Student Center and get a low number so that they too, could have good seats. Like it of not, America is a capitalist system where one can get ahead by taking a little initiative, like getting up a little earlier. But according to Mr. Gary Delsohn, only "hard-core freaks" would do this. Perhaps Mr. Delsohn didn't want to stand in line with those dirty, long-haired people who saw fit to get up early to stand in line. Those people didn't make any com-plaints. Only the lazy johnny-come-latelies tho then gripe about the good tickets being ripped tif. A good deal of complaints come from the 'block sales'' system. This only makes sense in the case of a fraternity (which I don't belong to; I'm only a hard-core freak) with 50 members with dates. One-hundred tickets are sold to one man instead of 50. But the block line is the same as the in-dividual's line. Those who got there early got the low numbers and the best seats. This doesn't sound like a rip-off or an SIU screw job. This is the American way. Ms DeMar was in the block line at the end of it and apparently did not make an attempt to get there earlier so she complains that she is ripped off and writes a letter to the DE to air her grievances. She said she got back rows, which is an outright lie as I was the last person to get block tickets and there were many good floor seats still available. Over continual vocal objection from members of BAC our representative concluded his observations with the point that "BAC has consistantly employed the cheapest, and least credible forms of coercion within the university. Adams right

To the Daily Egyptian:

One of the most fundamental rights a candidate for One of the most fundamental rights a candidate tor public office has, is the right to contest election results he feels are or were the results of fraudulent campaigning practices. Surely if this right were denied a challenger, those in power would be in a position to fix any election without fear of legal or constitutional reprisal. It is not "asinine" for a defeated candidate to contest election results. In fact, when election rules are violated, the rights of chiend candidates are secontially violated also, and tact, when election rules are violated, the rights of ethical candidates are essentially violated also, and thus it is now only Ron Adams' right to contest the results of the student trustee election, it is his duty to himself, the other candidates, and future candidates who might suffer if in 1974 a trustee candidate was allowed to penetrate the constraints of election law. Ron was not seeking to "appoint" himself trustee, he Ron was not seeking to "appoint" himself trustee, he was seeking a fair contest, under the prescribed elec-tion rules. To do otherwise would have been to violate his own conscience. In a day when most of the ethical conduct seems to have gone out of politics, candidates like Adams are a refreshing change. If Teri Krukoski can call such a challenge "asinine," then I suggest she re-examine our whole system, for surely one of us has missed a great deal.

Peace, love... where?

To the Daily Egyptian: People keep telling me that our generation believes in peace, love and companionship for our neighbors. Were you at the Leon Russell concert? If so, please show me where the peaceful, loving, and compatable people were. My name is Gwenn Wolf and because of cerebral palsy, I use a wheelchair. I was at the concert sitting in the front row. Those are supposed to be the best seats, right?

seats, right? To put it simply, I was stepped on, people ab-solutely fell on top of me, there were people sitting on the arms of the wheelchair, and in a friend's case, the arms literally bent it; marijuana and cigarettes were landing all over me with my hair almost cathcing on fire once, people were so crowded around me that I couldn't even move an inch, couldn't even see the stage, and would you believe that a few people say on my lap as well as on other disabled people in eelchairs

Not only were we hurt, but one other person passed out. As I was trying to back up, I told a few people to move because they had to carry her out. They were so damn selfish, didn't believe me, and didn't move.

I was absolutely ridiculous! I had already bought tickets for the Beach Boys concert. If I hadn't, I would think twice before

Maybe in the future, artists will refuse to perform unless the people are seated to prevent chaos. Then perhaps, this won't happen again.

Redrawing the line

To the Daily Egyptian: An open letter to the "true" Christians of Carbon-dale. It happened again. SIU has had another of those plays on its main stage-a play about a homosexual written by a homosexual. "Suddenly Last Summer" by Tennessee Williams. Where have all the letters been? Has there been one letter denouncing the play and or homosexuality from a "true" Christian? My play. "Lying in State." said that homosexuals

My play, "Lying in State," said that homosexuals were healthy humans. It was attacked by many who were nearly numars, it was attacked by many who know the Bible backwards. "Suddenly Last Summer" says that the homosexual is a sick man who pursues young naked boys for coins and causes a mother "to nearly die," and a girlfriend to go mad, and directly causes can-ibility of the summer of the sum with the determine and a girlfriend to go mad, and directly causes can-nibalism and maybe a lobotomy with the destruction of a family thrown in for spice. I guess that image of homosexuality is perfectly all right as far as the loyal followers of Jesus are concerned. If not, they have surely been silent. A play that says homosexuals are normal humans is termed "vile." A play that says homosexuals are sick sick sick is okay okay okay. Of Carbondale's "true" Christians, how typical typical.

"No other alternative"

To the Daily Egyptian: After reading your May 2 article concerning the May 1 Student Senate meeting, I feit that a few facts had been left out of the article. From the onset of the meeting, the representatives of BAC were totally un-cooperative. Continuous talking and laughter filled the room, making it almost impossible to hear. Many senators were harrassed and threatened after they had spoken on issues that didn't even concern BAC. Jim Kania frequently tried to restore order but to no avail. All of this took place before the BAC allocations were even discussed. Finally when Ellen Nieman moved that a 1,000 dollars be taken from BAC, the situation was uncontrollable. The Student Senate had no other alternative but to move for BAC, the situation was uncontrollable. The Student Senate had no other alternative but to move for executive session. It was clear to the majority of senators that many of the BAC representatives were there for the sole purpose of harrassing the senate members and that the meeting could not possibly continue under the existing circumstances. Upon voting on the executive session issue, some of BAC representatives even walked up to the table and at-tempted to have their vote counted by raising their hands when the vote was taken. I will be the first to agree that Student Senate meetings should be open to the public. However, when the attending public insists upon inimidating the senators, and disrupting the meeting, then I can see no other alternative than a closed session.

"2 heads better than 1"

I recently had the experience of purchasing tickets for the Beach Boys concert. Monday morning the first ticket lines were formed, but not for tickets, for the privilege of obtaining a number. Each day bet-ween 8-5, after having been assigned a number, you must report to the Student Center to check in-otherwise forget it buddy. Alas, Thursday arrives-up again at 6:30 in the morning, rush to the Center and stand in line for two and a half hours only to reach the window to hear the seats available are section Q row 11 and on. During my long, tiring stand in line I heard numerous ac-counts of someone forgetting to check in and his name was dropped to the bottom of the list. Someone even informed me the committee names were first on the list.

on the list. I have tried to speak to the committee but they become very offended at my interruptions. It would seem that a new system should be set up for fairness to all. Why doesn't the committee and interruption and interruption intersected people to directors set up a meeting for interested people to work something out. Two heads are better than one.

St. Louis executive predicts decline in 'big' radio stations

By Terry Martin Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer Big radio stations will decline as the trend in music programming spreads out to smaller stations, Joseph Costantino, vice president and general manager of WRTH in . Louis, said Tuesday. . Costantion made his comments as a panelist during the Illinois Broadcasters Seminant Tuesday in the Student Center Auditorium. . Other panelists discussing "Programming and Production" were Joseph Bonansinga, vice president and general manager of WGEM radio and television stations in duiney and Robert Henley, vice president and general manager of WG radio in Chicago. . "We feel a great deal of music." Costantino said of the music industry trends. "There aren't going to be any big stations. They keep sporteding out more and more into other stations."

CHICAGO (AP)—A container of low-level radioactive material used for medical purposes was dropped and run over at O'Hare In-ternational Airport Tuesday, a spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said.

"In our market, we do different things with music at different times of the day," Bonansinga said. "Country-western, in its form today, is going very strong."

Bonansinga said the Quincy station blends "top-40 chart" music with standard music and country and western during its air times.

Henley said newcomers in the broadcast field can voice opposition to management stances but "You don't want to antagonize." Since gdaduates must start at the bottom, they should speak with their supervisors instead of going right to the top, he advised.

Capote's 'Breakfast' slated as Calipre Stage production

A chamber theater production of Truman Capote's novel, "Breakfast at Tiffany's' will be presented at 8 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sun-day on the Calipre Stage. Pat Taylor, a doctoral student in oral interpretation, is director of the production. Ms. Taylor said that the adaptation of "Breakfast at Tiffany's' is true to Capote. The author's style, including his use of the first person narrator, is ideal for staging, she added. One of the reagons for her choice of this work was her desire to present it as Capote wrote it. Holly Golightly, the central character in "Breakfast," was an enigmatic girl-about-town who was a neighbor of the author when he

Report says schools guilty of executive housing wrongs

CHICAGO (AP)-Investigators have accused the state universities of Eastern, Western and Illinois State of irregularities in funding bouses for their presidents. A report issued Tuesday by the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission said the president's home being built by Illinois State at Normal was "by far the most controversial and violative of both law and policy" and "a large amount of the blame rests with David K. Berlo, former university "So far. the report said, the home president." So far, the report said, the home has cost $250,000 and still is in-complete and the amount "is $100,000 above the limitation established by the Board of Higher Education and $150,000 above the limitation set by the Board of "The home was financed in part The home was financed in part Regents." The home was financed in part with "interest income" and surplus revenue bond funds, the report said-allegedly violating the. State Finance Act as well as other laws.

The mechanics of the funding, the report continued, also breached regulations of the Board of Regents. The commission said several laws of the state were violated "by the manner in which the president's residence at Eastern Illinois in Charleston was acquired." It said the General Assembly was not told of the acquisition "because the purchase was made though the use of the Eastern Illinois University Foundation" which borrowed funds to buy the residence-an alleged violation.

violation. Western was accused of a violation for using the university's foundation to borrow funds to build a home although no appropriation was made for it by the General Assembly.

The report said Western Illinois Iniversity at Macomb violated laws Unive

'Progress' may drown river's quiet beauty

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. (AP) - Forty years ago when he was first on the Illinois River in northeast Oklahoma Alva Hickerson floated and fished for four days and never saw another human. Last year, on a similar trip, he counted 160 canoes which passed him him. It is that growing popularity of the stream as a place of quiet relaxation that is causing fear the stream will be lost for future generations. Conservationists, lan-downers and developers are getting swept up over the issue.

The Illinois runs only 77 miles, from Lake Francis on the Oklahoma-Arkansas state line south and west into Lake Tenkiller and then to the Arkansas River. ticularly when the colorful dogwood is in bloom, makes it one of the more attractive areas in the southwest. Adjacent landowners have title -often to the middle of the riverbed. There are a number of boat-landing sites for float and fishing trips. Boy Scouts have access to the river for campouts and there have always been available spots for family weekend camping. Now land developers see profitable commercial possibilities in subdividing for home sites. One how he spends that money," the Park Forest Republican told a news conference. The speaker's office said a bill was introduced by Rep. Charles J. Fleck Jr. (R-Chicago) to raise salaries of Circuit Court judges and that other legislators were con-sidering bills to raise the $17.600 annual salary for members of the General Assembly. Blair said he would demonstrate is nicerity by disclosing all campaign contributions he receives in his bid for re-election to the House this year and tor any future public office he seeks. "Ido not believe that because I are voluntarily disclosing all the facts concerning my re-election campaign that campaign legislation will sail through the legislature. May hard and bitter battles will still have to be fought, 'he said. But, Blair said, a special session valed by Gov. Daniel Walker last year for the consideration of campaign ethics legislation still is underway. He said campaign disclosure laws could be passed in the special session witout being subject to the rule limiting the regular session to budget and emergency matters. The speaker said he was not challenging the governor to disclose is campaign contributions and exemptions and the consideration of campaign the governor to disclose the special session witout being subject to the rule limiting the regular segion contributions and emergency matters.

"That is a personal decision, and his advisors may counsel him not to act in the absence of mandatory legislation," Blair said.

Peter Pan eliminates Cougars' hopes of WHA final series in amphitheatre

CHICAGO (AP)⁴—The Chicago Cougars, who had hoped to play their home games in the World Hockey Association finals against Houston in the International Amphitheatre, announced Tuesday they will return to the Twin Ice Arena in suburban Mount Prospect. The Twin Ice Arena in the Randhurst Shopping Center was the site of the Cougar home semifinals against Toronto. The arena has a seating capacity of only 3,00. "We tried to play the final series at the Amphitheatre," said team president Walter Kaiser, "but the details just couldn't be worked out. Not too many people realize what an enormous task it is to completely reinstall the ice surface. "We also did everything in our power to play in Chicago Stadium," said Kaiser, who added he was unable to get in touch with Arthur Wirtz, owner of the Stadium, where the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League play their games play their games entered the semifinals against Toronto. Meanwhile, the ice was taken out of the Amphitheatre along with miles of pipe needed for reinstallation of the ice. Kaiser said cities throughout the United States and Canada wanted the Cougars to play in their arenas but "the important thing is that our Chicago fans will get to see the Cougars play in the Chicago area."

Ironically, the finals would have begun on Houston's home ice but the same Peter Pan production which displaced the Cougars from the Amphitheatre has been scheduled at the Houston arena, forcing the Aeros to open away from home.

The first game of the series will be played Sunday afternoon followed by a Wednesday night game at Randhurst.

The series then shifts to the Sam Houston Coliseum for games Friday, May 17, and Sunday, May 19.

If a fifth game is necessary it will be played Monday, May 20, at Houston. The two teams then would come to Chicago for a sixth game, May 21 or 22, and game No. 7 would be played in Houston May 24

The Cougars reached the final round with a 5-2 victory over Toronto Monday night in the seventh game of the series at night in t Toronto.
