GRADUATION

guide

OUR WORD

Take pride in and remember your time at SIUC

We want every moment at SIUC to be memorable, but sometimes we forget.

Occasionally, it's because of an over-indulgence in weekend activities. Regardless, time here just goes by too fast.

In a few days, as the first class of this century, we will swipe our diplomas and leave the leisurely college life behind for arduous tasks that will put food on our tables and money in our pockets.

As we stroll up to the stage and grasp that fancy, empty envelope (we'll get the real one in the mail when all our bills are paid), our college life will flash before our collective, tear-laden eyes. At least the parts we can remember will.

We'll never forget the time we fell in love at (place the name of your favorite bar here). Our would-be sweetheart wooed us with a sip and a smooth smile. Or were they beckoning a more attractive, charming person we couldn't see? Our hearts have been broken, mended and broken again. Here, there was always someone who would understand.

We'll everlastingly remember our friends. Friends in college are people who have acquired the same drinking habits, taste in movies or video games. Our lives wouldn't have been complete without weekend excursions through town with them. When times got rough, they would lend a hand, and if need be carry us home. We spent nights awake together cramming for exams and writing papers. Our friends sauntered through campus with us when we couldn't find the ever-elusive Morris Library. To this day, they remain by our side, guiding us through the labyrinth called Faneer Hall. As we take our final steps on campus as undergraduates, we think of them.

We shouldn't forget the teachers who helped us get our degree. Our favorites were the ones who gave us "the best grades." But we also learned from those who would have given Einstein an A in science. They all taught us to grow as individuals and helped us learn more about ourselves, and that we really didn't know everything — yet. Life is about learning. These people have dedicated theirs to better ours. Our family provided us with income when we needed it most. A hesitant, downhearted call home usually did the trick. "No Mom, I'm not going to spend it on beer." The money, of course, would often go directly to the coffers of a beer company. No matter how many desperate calls we made home or comforting moments we spent with friends, SIUC and the people here will have a special place in our hearts.

When we move on and become the peerless professionals, teachers, writers and leaders of the new millennium, we'll do our best to help out a fellow SIUC graduate. Specifically, we'll give them jobs.

We now realize we will have to move on to a "professional" environment, abandoning some things that are vital to college existence and should be left there. We carry a vast array of knowledge that will help guide us through the unpredictable times ahead. Wherever our degrees take us, we'll look back on each poignant, palpable and intangible moment at SIUC with a fond eye. We will hold our degrees high and take pride in calling ourselves SIUC alumni.

Jeanne Hurley Simon among honorees

DAVID FERRARA
 DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

As more than 4,000 students receive their diplomas this weekend, Jeanne Hurley Simon's legacy at SIUC continues.

She was a prominent adjunct faculty member here from 1997 until her death Feb. 20.

Hundreds paid respect at her funeral Feb. 23. And on Saturday, the long-time literacy advocate and wife of former U.S. Sen. Paul Simon will be honored with a posthumous Doctorate of Humane Letters degree at the graduate school commencement ceremony.

Jeanne Simon, who will be among 11 other people honored during the 10 ceremonies Friday and Saturday, was a two-term Clinton appointee as chair of the National Commissions of Libraries and Information.

SIUC is awarding its first posthumous honorary degree for the first time in at least 50 years. Simon was approved for degree about a week before she passed. Dean of Library Affairs Carolyn Snyder nominated Simon.

"[Simon] helped bring a lot of recognition to the SIUC library and worked to secure new funding," Snyder said. "She's made significant contributions locally and nationally." Respected alumni and SIUC allies from a Welsh knight to a Major League Baseball executive will be among those addressing the ceremonies and receiving honorary awards.

Sir David Nicholas, who will be given a Distinguished Service Award, has been involved in SIUC's London media program since 1995.

The New York Yankees Vice President of Baseball Operations, Mark R. Newman, will give the address and receive the Alumni Achievement Award for the School of Law at 4 p.m. Saturday in Shryock Auditorium.

When does a date become a crime?

It happens when a man forces a woman to have sex against her will.
And even when it involves college students, it's still considered a criminal offense. A felony. Punishable by prison.
So if you want to keep a good time from turning into a bad one,
try to keep this in mind.

When does a date become a crime?

When she says, "NO." And he refuses to listen.

Against her will is against the law.
