Former senator and Nobel Peace Prize winner to be honored during graduation ceremonies

JENNIFER WIG
 DAILY EGYPTIAN

A former U.S. senator and a Nobel Peace Laureate will be honored at graduation ceremonies this weekend.

Paul Simon, director of the Public Policy Institute and a Democratic political figure, will receive the Distinguished Service Award during the College of Mass Communications and Media Arts commencement ceremony. Oscar Arias, former president of Costa Rica, will receive an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree during the College of Education graduation ceremony.

Simon entered the political arena in 1954 after winning a seat in the Illinois

House of Representatives. He served 15 years before leaving to serve a term as lieutenant governor.

In 1972, Simon started a public affairs reporting program at Sangamon State University in Springfield. After being elected to the U.S. House of Representatives, he spent 22 years legislating topics including education, literacy, college loans, job training and television violence.

Simon ended his political career in 1997 and came to SIUC to set up the Public Policy Institute, which sponsors workshops. The author of 19 books and the recipient of 52 honorary degrees, Simon also teaches classes in history, journalism and political science.

Arias, a trained political scientist, served as president of Costa Rica for four years. Arias won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1987 for working on the Esquipulas II Accords, which is a Central American peace plan. He used the prize money to set up his Foundation for Peace and Human Progress, which funds programs aimed at promoting gender equality, citizen action and demilitarization in the developing world.

He left the office in 1990 and has since worked to curtail the global arms trade. Arias developed an International Code of Conduct on Arms Transfers and is trying to get Latin American leaders to not purchase high-tech weapons for two years. He serves on boards of directors for several world peace organizations.

Arias earned a master's degree in law and economics from the University of Costa Rica and a doctorate in political science from the University of Essex in England. Arias has received honorary degrees from many other universities. His other previous honors include the Albert Schweitzer Humanitarian award, the Martin Luther King Jr. Peace Award and the Liberty Medal of Philadelphia.

Both awards were approved at the Dec. 14 Board of Trustees meeting.

More than 3,800 students are expected to receive degrees from SIUC in 10 commencement exercises this weekend.

I went to a party the other night with a couple of friends. Everyone was there. We met some guys we knew and we were all dancing. I put my drink down to go to the bathroom. When I came back, I finished it off. I don't know, it was weird... one drink and it felt like six. I mean, after a few minutes, I wasn't totally out of it. My friends were outside really just talking and this guy offered to drive me home. I said, "No, I can't." He said, "Well, you can't drive home on top of me."

couldn't move

help

and I woke up eight hours later

I know I was raped. I just can't remember how or why.

Watch what you're drinking. Because rapists have a new weapon. Dosing drinks with drugs like Ruffies or GHB. Which can take away your ability to fight back. And your memory of what was done to you.
