Bisons May Spring Surprises On SIU

9 Forestry Students Get Scholarships

Neil Hosley, chairman of the Forestry Department, announced selection of nine SIU forestry majors to receive Sahara Coal Company scholarships for the 1963-64 school year.

The scholarships are awards from a grant of $9,000 to the University in 1961 by the Sahara Coal Company of Chicago to be distributed over a four-year period.

The scholarships are for $225, one third being distributed to the recipients each quarter to pay tuition and fees.

Under provisions of the grant, selections for awards are made to promising students interested in forestry careers. Applicants from Saline County have first preference, followed by those from southern Illinois. To be eligible for a scholarship, an entering freshman must be in the top half of his high school class. College students in forestry must have and maintain a "C" average to qualify.

Parents' Day, Shrine Game Highlight Weekend Events

Parents' Day and the third annual Shrine benefit game are combined as highlights of weekend activities at SIU.

The colorful Shriners will parade in downtown Carbondale at 4 p.m. and join in halftime ceremonies at the SIU-North Dakota State game at McAndrew Stadium at 8 p.m. today.

A full day of activities is planned for the visiting parents of SIU students; last year's attendance was 3,000. Southern Illinois Shriners of the Ainal Temple are sponsoring their third annual benefit game. Proceeds from ticket sales to the Saluki-Bison football game will go to the SIU scholarship fund.

More than 250 Shriners of the Ainal Temple will lead a parade on South Illinois Avenue starting at 4 p.m. today. It will proceed from Chestnut Street to SIU. Participants will include the color guard, band, Arab patrol, chanters, drum and bugle corps, and clowns.

Other units in the parade will be high school bands from Carbondale Community, Marion and a 130-piece organization from Lincoln High School in Vincennes, Ind. Rainbow Girls from Marion, Carbondale and Murphysboro, and DeMolay floats from Marion and Murphysboro, are also planned.

Parents' Day activities include registration at the University Center from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Campus tours will be offered all day starting at 10 a.m. from the Center. At 2 p.m., a stage show will

Dakotans' Layoff Could Mean New Bag Of Tricks For Salukis

SIU head football coach Carmen Piccone regroups his ambulatory troops tonight, trying to come up with a lineup that will minimize the number of injured men playing and maximize the number still able to wheel and deal at key positions.

Piccone's Salukis will be shooting for their fourth win in their first meeting with North Dakota State's Bisons. Kickoff time in McAndrew Stadium for this final home game is 8 p.m.

The game will be the third annual Shrine game, with the added highlight of capping annual Parents' Day festivities on campus. Parents of SIU students will be seated in a special section in honor of their day.

Piccone faces tonight's battle as "a game in which we don't know what to expect. They could spring anything on us."

Freshman Coach Frank Sovich scouted the Bisons in their last outing, but that was over two weeks ago.

"They might have a whole new offense," Piccone predicted, "and won't use anything that we know about (that Sovich saw two weeks ago)."

Piccone again will send sophomore quarterback Jim Hart to call signals in his air-oriented attack, and he has his top three receivers listed on the starting offensive lineup.

That means that freshman Tom Massey goes in the split end slot, with junior Bonnie Shelton lining up as the tight end. Harry Bobbitt, another junior and the team's leading receiver, gets the call in the highly flexible flanker back role.

Leading the plays up front will be regulars Vic Panteleo (225) and Jack Langi (225) at tackles, Mitch Krawczyk (210) and Earl O'Malley (215) at guards and Ben Hill (200) ready for the center position.

Hart will mix his passing plays with some steady rushing patterns, which will be staffed tonight by veterans Charlie Warren at left half-back and Irv Rhodes at full-back.

On the defensive side, Piccone is feeling the combined pains being suffered by three of his stoutest defenders. Ace linebacker Don Ventetuolo is definitely sitting this one out with a dislocated arm. In addition, defensive guard Jim Minton, who usually sets the Salukis defense, and Larry Wagner are also on the shelf because of neck injuries.

Piccone can't go even one man deep into his reserves at these vital positions without drawing a replacement who is a steady visitor to the tape-and-ionic department.

The Saluki chief still rates the game as a toss-up, as both elevens are aiming to even their identical 3-4 season records. The Bisons will be playing their final game of the year.

'You Can Keep Them In Line, If You Want To:'

Pennington Survey Reveals All... Woody Hall Attitudes About Men

The long-awaited Pennington survey of attitudes of Woody Hall women toward the men of SIU has been released.

This is the work of Jo Ann Pennington, who talked to about two dozen Woody women. The interviews included questions like these:

- Are SIU males gentlemen?
- Are they polite?
- Are they tight with their money?
- Are they forward?
- Are they dull?

Miss Pennington's survey

disclosed these opinions:

On politeness: Most of the girls said the majority of SIU males were very polite and mannerly.

"Two informed me there were extremes on this campus, the very polite and the very rude," Miss Pennington said. "One girl replied with an emphatic 'no' when asked if she thought the men were polite. 'They don't open a door for me; if anything, they try to beat me to it.'"

Tight with money: "Boy, I'll say," one respondent answered. "One guy even wanted me to buy him a Coke. At first I thought he was joking, but the guy was really serious."

This adverse comment was balanced by this judgment: "Well, if they have the money to spend, then they will spend it. If they don't, then you can't expect them to spend much."

On balance, Miss Pennington found that most of those interviewed thought SIU males were not too tight considering the income levels of their families and the fact that many SIU males are working their way through college.

On forwardness: One small-town girl answered in the affirmative when asked about the forwardness of SIU males.

"The boys that I meet at the dances hold me too tight," she reported. "If I let them buy me a Coke they think they've bought me for the whole evening. In return for that 10-cent Coke they expect me to kiss them goodnight."

Another respondent puffed a smoke ring toward the ceiling and provided this observation: "The guys are forward if you let them. You can keep them in line if you want to."

A New Yorker, however, said SIU males were not as forward as their counterparts in the Empire State, but that to small-town girls, SIU males might seem "rather fast." "It really depends on who you date," she declared.

Dull or imaginative: "Yes, they're imaginative. They want to do something unusual like climb trees for no reason. They aren't dull," one girl replied.

The panelists said some SIU men are unimaginative and do not think of original things to do. "They just do the same old things...they're not dull, though...I think they are very imaginative and definitely not dull," others replied.

Male fashion: About 85 per cent, Miss Pennington found, held the opinion that SIU males dressed very well.

"Of course," one said in qualifying her answer, "you do have the exceptions. A few guys look like they just escaped from Fire Island. However, this is in the minority."

One Chicagoan had this to say: "Well, they're clean...I don't know, they dress so casually down here. It is just so different from the way they dress at home."

Male vanity: "A good percentage of the girls agree that the men really think they are sharp. This goes especially for the fraternity men," Miss Pennington found.

One observation was that "just because they're going to college they think that makes them smarter than anyone else."

"Some of them have no moral or religious values. The values that they do have are false," one girl moralized.

TECUMSEH*

Becoming a brigadier general in the British Army isn't easy - especially if you're an American Indian. Tecumseh did it. As a military strategist, he was brilliant, but he made one mistake. He picked the wrong side in the War of 1812.

One of the truly great things he and others like him did do for the new Americans was to give them an appreciation for fine tobaccos.

In the last 150 years the quality and variety of tobacco blends has grown to the point where even the most discriminating smoker can satisfy his taste in tobaccos. We have such a selection of tobaccos and pipes.

Council Airs Annexation, ROTC, More Library Hours, Flag Usage

The Student Council Thursday discussed annexation to Carbondale, library hours, ROTC, NSA and desecration of the American flag.

A bill was introduced which would express the council's approval of a proposal to annex the University to the city of Carbondale. The SIU Board of Trustees is now considering the measure.

The bill was referred to Campus Community and Student Welfare committees, for joint study.

Some student senators would like to see Morris Library remain open additional hours—specifically, on Saturdays from 5 to 7 p.m., on Sundays during the summer term and next Dec. 1, the last day of Thanksgiving vacation.

Micki Goldfeather, School of Liberal Arts and Sciences senator, said the question of library hours has come up in the past and the basic problem remains a lack of money to pay for keeping the library open additional hours.

She said the two-hour closing period on Saturday evenings is to enable student workers to do cleaning and waxing in the library, which would otherwise have to be done late Sunday nights.

The bill was sent to the Campus Development and Services Committee.

A council committee to study student attitudes toward ROTC will be composed of Howard Benson, Ron Centanni and William Carel. The bill authorizing the committee notes that, "A great amount of the student opinion space in the Daily Egyptian has lately been devoted to the question of compulsory ROTC." The committee was directed to "make recommendations to the council, the administration, and other interested parties if deemed advisable."

The council approved a $100 contingency fund for the National Students Association campus coordinator for the year. One use of the money will be to publicize the activities and purposes of the organization. The council is currently studying a proposal to discontinue SIU affiliation with the NSA.

Howard Benson introduced a bill concerning alleged acts of misuse of the national flag by a student organization last week.

The bill states that "signs appeared on this campus that were a representation of the American flag and on which information was printed regarding a meeting of a campus organization."

"According to federal statute," the bill continues, "no advertising or other writing is to be written on the flag of the United States or any representation thereof."

The bill would mandate the student body president to write a letter to the editor of the Daily Egyptian explaining "proper procedures" in respect to use of signs on campus and use of the flag. The bill went to the Campus Development and Services Committee.

The signs in question were used to give notice of a meeting of the Young Democrats Club.

The Finance Committee was given a bill which would appropriate $169.25 to send a delegate of the University to the United World Federalistic Conference on World Law and Inter-nation Action. The conference will be held the last week of this month.

Robin Moore, of the ad hoc Daily Egyptian Committee, reported to the council on progress in plans for the Daily Egyptian insert which has been authorized by the council.

Selection of an editor and adviser for the insert should be made in about a week, committee members said.

BSU Seeks Funds For Mission Work

Money containers will be placed on the table in the BSU cafeteria for contributions. There will also be a wishing well. The proceeds from the activities will go to the Summer Missions Program.

Byrd Group Dashes Hope For Tax Cut

WASHINGTON

The Senate Finance Committee dealt an apparent death blow Friday to all hopes for 1963 passage of a taxcut bill. Holding to the deliberate schedule advocated by Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), the committee set Dec. 13 as the windup date for its hearings on a House-passed measure to slice $11 billion from the nation's federal tax bill for 1964.

A Dec. 13 end to hearings, which already have run four weeks, means only a week would remain before the Christmas - New Year's recess.

Based on all past records of tax-handling in the Senate, a week would not be enough time to complete Senate passage, let alone to compromise any differences with the House.

Byrd opposes any tax cut without a cut in federal spending. A principal objective of the conservative Southerner is to prevent Senate action until January, after President Kennedy submits his budget for fiscal 1965.

Working toward that end, Byrd has called 70 witnesses, another 100 are on the waiting list, and he has said all who apply will be heard by the committee.

After the committee action, Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.), told newsmen he would attempt to speed the hearings later this month to make action possible for this year.

When Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), made a similar move last month, the committee backed Byrd's go-slow program with a 12-4 vote and most observers figure a motion by Hartke would meet a similar fate.

Sir Douglas-Home Wins Commons By 9,328 Margin

PERTH, Scotland

British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home won a seat in the House of Commons by a whopping 9,328-vote margin which he hoped would take some sting out of a bad Conservative party defeat in another special election.

Defeat of the prime minister in the safe Conservative district of Kinross and West Perthshire would have been unprecedented disaster for the Conservatives and would have plunged Britain into a government crisis.

Instead Douglas-Home's big victory was a psychological counter to his party's loss Thursday night, by another big margin, of the Commons seat for the district of Luton.

In a three-sided race in the 1959 general election, the Conservatives won the same district by a 12,000-vote margin. No one had expected them to approach that figure this time.

Rusk Says U.S. Can't Let Russia Bar Berlin Access

WASHINGTON

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday the United States cannot permit the Soviet Union to interrupt Western access to Berlin.

He told a news conference that Soviet Premier Khrushchev already has indicated he understands the seriousness of the issue.

Rusk declared also that the "world is in no shape" to permit any relaxation, and that U.S. foreign aid to other nations is still a critical need.

"There are large and dangerous questions still before us," he said and cited Berlin, Laos, Viet Nam and Cuba.

New Viet Nam Regime Faces Uncertain Future

Compiled From Associated Press

One of the places in the world with the biggest question mark concerning the future is South Viet Nam, where a military coup d'etat overthrew the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem on Nov. 1.

The southeast Asian nation—a recipient of massive military and economic aid from the United States and a battleground against the Communists of north Viet Nam—appeared relieved to be rid of the old government. The Diem administration's stormy recent history included clashes with the Buddhists and charges that it used police state tactics to suppress freedom and dissenting opinion.

RECOGNITION GRANTED

During the week U.S. officials cautiously watched developments in Saigon, the capital city, and on Thursday granted recognition to the provisional government.

The move followed by one day a request from the new military-backed regime for a continuation and strengthening of relations between the two countries.

U.S. officials said that consultations on all U.S. aid programs to South Viet Nam will take place in Saigon with the appropriate officials of the government.

Important aid programs had been slowed down during the last month of Diem's regime.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, in Saigon, was to deliver the formal note replying to the Viet Nam request for recognition.

The U.S. action followed by a few hours Great Britain's recognition of the military regime in Saigon.

Bruce Shanks, Buffalo Evening News
AFTERMATH

The recognition procedure was advanced somewhat over original expectations in Washington, although there never was any doubt that the United States would recognize the new regime which it hopes will press ahead with the war against the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas.

SL, IN LEADERS BURIED

Secret burial of Diem and his brother Nhu was disclosed Thursday in Saigon as revolutionary authorities took steps to seize properties of the fallen dynasty.

The bodies of Diem and Nhu, whom the government has called accidental suicides, were buried in secrecy Wednesday in a small military cemetery outside Saigon, a relative said.

The cemetery was under close guard and the funeral was not announced by any official source. Confirmation that burial took place came from Mrs. Tran Trung Dung, niece of Diem. The bodies had been returned over to her family for burial.

All former deputies in the now dissolved National Assembly were summoned to police headquarters to declare in writing everything they had done during past legislative periods.

FINANCIAL INTERESTS

They also were to declare any financial interest they held in any of the Ngo family's business enterprises here.

It was believed members of the family—Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc,

Among the properties sacked by angry mobs after the revolution last Saturday were the Xuan Thu book store, in which Archbishop Thuc had a major interest, and the Viet Nam handicraft center, in which Madame Nhu is said to have had a controlling interest.

She is now in the United States. Archbishop Thuc is in Rome.

Several noisy student demonstrations Thursday demanded the ouster of pro-Diem professors.

An order published Thursday night lifted curfew throughout South Viet Nam, and censorship was lifted earlier in the day.

Convoys Testing Russian Intent

The vehicular testing conducted recently by U.S., British and French convoys on one hand and Russian convoys at East German checkpoints on the other hand looked this week like a thrill-a-day war of nerves.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Wednesday that at one point the situation was dangerously close to war—a threat that was eased only because the Americans backed off. Privately, U.S. officials denied that the Berlin-bound troops flinched from their mission, but saw no point in disputing Khrushchev's boast of victory.

Western notes to Moscow accused the Russians of unjustified, arbitrary actions. The United States asked the Soviet government "to instruct its military representatives in Germany to bring to an end once and for all these hindrances."

Further harassments were expected, however. Meanwhile, western leaders were evaluating the Soviet actions in an effort to answer the question: Why did the Russians do what they did, first in October and now, less than a month later, again?

"GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT"

The United States insists it can use the German autobahn—the 110-mile highway linking Berlin with the West—as it pleases. The Soviet Union maintains this is not so.

This basic disagreement has spawned one crisis after another.

The right of the Western Allies to free access to Berlin is an essential corollary of the right of occupation, the United States has insisted since World War II ended. This right does not stem from the Soviet Union but exists independently of any unilateral Soviet stand, U.S. legal experts say.

Behind this interpretation is a firm determination, put this way by those who explain the policy:

"The United States will not bargain away its rights in Berlin. It will renounce them only if and when the German problem, which includes Berlin, is solved."

There will be differences in approach, but on this basic tenet the British and the French form a solid front with the United States.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, a key U.S. figure in shaping Berlin's future after the war, said in his memoirs that he did not want "an agreement in writing which established anything less than the right of unrestricted access."

For this reason he chose to work out access and other arrangements

THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD

Congress Working Wall Street Hours? 12-5 Shift Touches Off Wrangle

WASHINGTON—A charge that Senate leaders are maintaining Wall Street hours of 12 to 5 while legislation is dragging and lagging touched off a lively row Thursday.

It began even before the regular 12 o'clock convening time, when Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., accused Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., who voiced the complaint against short hours and cerebral incoherence.

"If you want night sessions, we'll keep you here, and then you will know what's going on!" Dirksen shouted at Dodd when the two met on the Senate floor.

Dodd, who started the verbal battle Wednesday night replied that he was not frightened by Dirksen's "menacing words and implications."

Dodd was a little late reaching the chamber and before he arrived Dirksen noted the absence of "the brave crusader from the Nutmeg State" who, he said, "has such zeal for being here and getting on with the business."

Shortly before the Senate recessed at 7:15 Wednesday night, Dodd lit into both the Democratic and Republican leaders for not holding longer sessions.

"I see no sense in recessing every night at a convenient hour for the benefit of senators who wish to have dinner, go to embassies, or be entertained.

"Our job is not a 12 noon to 5 p.m. job. Let us stop the Wall Street attitude of 9 or 12 to 4 or 6 o'clock."

in the Allied Control Council, the four-power body which governed Berlin until the 1948 blockade. The Soviets had a right of veto.

In recalling Clay's words, U.S. officials do not blame the general. But the fact remains that lack of a firm, written agreement was the source of much trouble, culminating in the Berlin blockade.

U.S. officials always emphasize this fundamental doctrine, but concede they would be happier if the thesis had a firmer basis—a written agreement with the Soviet.

There were "verbal understandings" and "gentlemen's agreements" with the Soviets on Berlin, but little in writing. The reasoning still is obscure.

Kerner Confident

CHICAGO—Gov. Otto Kerner said Thursday he is confident he will win re-election over any candidate the Republicans put up.

The Democratic executive, who returned to Illinois Wednesday from a three-week trade mission to Europe, termed "ridiculous" a poll which reportedly showed he would be defeated next year by either of two front-running GOP candidates. "I am an announced candidate, I'm going to run and I'll defeat any candidate the Republicans put up," Kerner told a news conference.

people's business," referred specifically to Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, and said "the Republican opposition is so soft, so cozy, it doesn't amount to much."

Mansfield played it cool. He said he is not going to turn the Senate into a sideshow to "give the appearance of being busy for the purpose of impressing the boss—the American people."

"It is not the headlines but the results which count," Mansfield said, adding that the results to date "require no apologies."

Last Home Game:

Four Key Men To Spark Bisons' Wing T Offense

The Salukis will have what might be considered a "weight advantage" in the interior line when they take on North Dakota State's Bisons tonight, but one pound per man isn't likely to stimulate fear or hysteria in any of the visitors.

At any rate, the Bisons are still expected to show up at 8 p.m. tonight in McAndrew Stadium.

Southern's five offensive interior linemen collectively tip the scales at 1,075 pounds, while the Bison quintet as an entity carries just five pounds less -- an average difference of one pound per man.

There's one difference, however, that could turn the odds in Southern's favor. Much of the Bison's tonnage is located in one spot, while the Salukis can field a crew that spreads its weight around more evenly.

Anchoring the North Dakota State line is senior right tackle Tom Holmgren, whose 6-foot-3 of sinewy muscle comes to 245 pounds.

Holmgren will provide an inviting avenue through which the Bison ball carriers will attempt to find the Saluki secondary.

According to a scouting report by Southern's Frank Sovich, there are four key men that make the Dakotans' wing-T and pro offenses move, one of them a southpaw passer.

The left-handed slinger, Ed Pflipsen, is a twin threat as a running back. He's the third leading ground gainer in his team's conference. He isn't the best runner that the Bisons have to offer, though.

Bill Sturdevant, a 5-foot-10 inch junior, weighing 190 pounds, paces the Bison running attack. He has the lead in the conference race for individual rushing honors and will be ready to show his skill to a Southern Illinois audience.

At fullback, coach Darrell Mudra, has a choice between two consistent workhorses in Dan Thesing, 5 feet 9 and 185 pounds, a junior, and Rich Mische, 6 feet and 195 pounds, a finely developed sophomore.

Their guiding hand is junior quarterback Frank Hentges, a field general who is also a "better-than-average passer."

North Dakota State closes out its eight-game schedule against the Salukis. Mudra, new at Fargo this season, brought a 77-11 record along with him and an entire coaching staff. Going into tonight's game, his career mark is 80 victories and 15 losses.

The Bombers (6-0) will be looking for their second playoff victory while the Knockers Up (5-0) will be seeking their first win the single-elimination meets.

Knockers Up will hold both a statistical offensive and defensive edge going into the game. They have outscored the Bombers 112 to 102 during the season although playing one less game. They have allowed only 13 points to the Bombers' 37.

The winners of today's games meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the championship game. Last year the Alkies dumped Magnificent Seven, 35-6.
