Some secretaries say they want out of CSBO

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

Some SIU-C transcribing and stenographic secretaries want to leave the Civil Service Bargaining Organization because they feel the organization has not been effective for them, Joann Marks, stenographic secretary IV, said Monday.

Marks and about eight others from the transcribing and stenographic secretarial promotional lines are organizing a petition drive to call an election to determine if a majority wishes to leave the CSBO.

In order to hold the election, more than 50 percent of the approximately 400 secretaries must sign the petition to request an election between Jan. 1 and March 31.

The main reason the secretaries are dissatisfied with the CSBO, Marks said, is because of "salary increases and the way they've been distributed—not everyone has been treated fairly and the increases discriminate against new employees."

Dues-paying CSBO member, ratified an agreement in September giving 7.5 percent increases to employees with up to three years seniority. Employees with three to six years seniority received 8 percent raises; with six to nine years seniority, 8.5 percent hikes; with nine to 12 years seniority, 9 percent increases; and for more than 12 years seniority, 9.5 percent raises.

"I'm a firm believer in merit raises, and CSBO doesn't recognize merit at all," Marks said, "and the increases we have now we would have gotten without CSBO."

However, Lee Hester, chief negotiator for the CSBO, said that the organization has been able to negotiate larger salary increases in the last four years than the raises the secretarial employees received in the previous 14 years.

Last year, Marks and other secretarial employees organized a similar drive and collected signatures from 55 percent of their lines, but the Illinois Labor Board determined that the petition was invalid.

Each signature must be made on a separate card that specifies what the card is for, and must be dated in order for the petition to be valid. The signed cards must be submitted to the Illinois Labor Board within 90 days.

Hester said that he doesn't believe the secretarial employees will be able to amass the more than 50 percent of signatures needed.

Swinburne to suggest $5 center fee increase

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne will recommend a $5 increase in the Student Center fee for next year.

However, based on the projections made by the Student Center Board, Student Center Director John Corker said another $2 to $3 Student Center fee increase would probably be requested next year.

The Student Senate last week reached a compromise with Corker and Swinburne—a $5 fee increase proposal for this year. The Student Center Board and Corker had recommended an $8 increase and an Undergraduate Student Organization ad hoc committee had recommended a $3 increase.

Corker said the Board of Trustees, which must approve all fee increases, would probably approve the $5 increase at its December meeting.

According to Corker, the $5 increase is needed to offset an expected budget deficit of $206,827 in fiscal year 1983, which will occur if the fee is kept at its present level of $24.

The $5 increase will give the Center a balanced budget in fiscal year 1983, Corker said.

Corker said the fee increase proposal was lowered by $3 because the Center will receive about $25,000 more in student fees this year than originally projected. The Center's initial budget projections were based on a 1.6 percent decrease in enrollment this year and a 1.5 percent decrease next year, but enrollment increased by 1.3 percent this year.

The $5 increase also eliminates a $113,173 surplus in fiscal year 1983 that the $8 increase would have provided, Corker said.

Swinburne said he will recommend the $5 increase because of Student Senate support for it and his dislike of the "buffer" that the $8 fee would have provided. If another fee increase is needed next year, Swinburne said he would rather the Center make the request later, instead of asking for a larger increase this year to avoid the additional request next year.

Gus Bode

Gus says the USO may never know what kind of poker players Swinburne and Corker are—maybe they could have won that Student Center fee game with a $4 bet.

Israeli warplanes invaded Saudi airspace, Arabia says

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Saudi Arabia claimed Monday that Israeli warplanes invaded Saudi airspace over the kingdom's northwest regions and were driven back by Saudi jet fighters.

Israel refused comment. The location of the purported violation, about 105 miles from the kingdom's Red Sea coast, is in the vicinity of the Tabuk military air base.

In Washington, President Reagan was informed about 9:30 a.m. EST that Israeli jets had entered Saudi airspace and left "on their own accord," Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said.

Speakes would not comment further.

The incident comes at a time of increased tension in the Mideast over Saudi defense. On Oct. 28, the U.S. Congress, over Israeli protests, approved an $8.5 billion arms package to the oil-rich kingdom, which provides 20 percent of U.S. imported oil.

Another point of contention by the Israelis is a Mideast peace plan put forward by Saudi Prince Fahd, calling for establishment of a Palestinian state on land now occupied by Israel, with East Jerusalem as the capital. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government is concerned over Washington's expression of interest in the Fahd plan.

There was no Saudi description of the number or type of planes involved. Both Israel and Saudi Arabia use American-built aircraft. The Saudis fly F-5Es and the Israelis have the more advanced F-15s and F-16s — aircraft which Saudi Arabia is due to receive.

The first headline broadcast by state radio called the incident an attack, but the later report said only that the jets had violated Saudi air space.

Athletics merger to be discussed before naming of men's director

By David Murphy
Staff Writer

Before a new men's athletics director can be chosen, University officials must decide whether or not to combine both the men's and women's athletics programs under one administrator, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, said Monday.

"Our first decision to make now is whether we want to combine the programs under one director or to continue with our present system," Swinburne said. "Some people I have talked with ask why we should change something that has worked so well, but others say the wave of the future seems to be toward one athletics director."

Swinburne has asked SIU-C's seven constituency groups for opinions on combining the men's and women's athletics programs under one director. The two programs have been administered by separate directors.

The groups are the Undergraduate Student Organization, the Graduate Student Council, the Civil Service Council, the Faculty Senate, the Graduate Council, the Council of Deans and the Administrative and Professional Staff Council.

When the constituency groups respond, a decision to continue with two athletics directors or switch to one will be made, according to Swinburne.

"At the point I get everything back, I'll make my decision, but I can't say when that would be," Swinburne said. "At that time, a search committee will be appointed."

The director's position in the men's athletics department opened when Gale Sayers, men's athletics director for five years, resigned in July. He was replaced by Lew Hartog, SIU-C's track and cross country coach, as acting director.

High court says ruling is needed to close sexually explicit displays

WASHINGTON (AP)—States and local communities cannot shut down stores or theaters displaying sexually explicit materials before getting a court ruling that the materials are obscene, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

By a 6-3 vote, the justices upheld rulings that a Washington state law that in some cases would allow such closings without a court hearing was unconstitutional "prior restraint" on free speech.

Mississippi.

The court's affirmation in the Washington case was issued without a written opinion and without oral arguments being held.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, joined by Justices Lewis F. Powell and William H. Rehnquist, said the lower federal courts and the Supreme Court should stay out of the case until the law was used and until state courts could rule on it.

Laws allowing similar closings were struck down in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana and North Carolina, court papers said.

The Washington law declares business establishments to be "moral nuisances" if they exhibit "lewd films or exhibitions." It provides for confiscation of all money from sales or admissions, and permits court orders to close the business for as long as one year.

In separate actions, the court refused to protect parents of public school students from having to pay for school property vandalized by their children and agreed to decide whether the NAACP must pay for a 1960s boycott of white-owned businesses in Similarly broad public nuisance laws apparently are rare. According to court papers filed in the Washington case, only Idaho has a similar law on its books. It has been upheld by that state's courts but now may come under new legal challenges.

In striking down the law, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said, "The ability of a court to close a place temporarily because obscene materials may have been sold, distributed or exhibited on the premises is an impermissible prior restraint."

Solidarity foe dismissed from post

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The government dismissed Prosecutor-General Lucjan Czubinski on Monday, the official news agency reported. The move was seen as a victory for the independent union Solidarity, which had accused Czubinski of harassment.

Czubinski, a former army general, was replaced by Franciszek Rusek, the PAP news agency said. Rusek has specialized in labor relations as president of the Supreme Court's labor and social welfare chamber.

At Solidarity's national headquarters in Gdansk, union leaders drafted a six-point agenda for talks with the government about Poland's economic and social ills.

A union spokesman said Solidarity would like the talks to begin Friday. He said Solidarity wants mass media access, free local elections, judicial independence, creation of a social-economic council, economic reforms, and compensation to low-paid workers to offset price increases.

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, who did not attend the meeting, urged workers to be flexible in their demands because "nobody can eat slogans or ideology," PAP reported.

"For the well-being of the people, for the prosperity of our country, we have to seek compromises around the table," it quoted Walesa as saying.

News Roundup

Brady returns to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Press secretary James S. Brady return to the White House in a wheelchair Monday, but his inconquerable wit was intact as he helped President Reagan open the refurbished White House press room.

"You know, of course, this press room is still built over a swimming pool," Reagan said. "Now, it isn't true, however, that the floor has been hinged."

"Yes it is," quipped Brady.

The president and a roomful of reporters erupted in laughter — perhaps not a little relieved to hear Brady sounding so much like his old self in his first official appearance since being shot March 30.

First lady starts anti-drug crusade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Reagan all but blamed drug addiction on the nation's parents Monday and advised them to get tough, even if it means "losing your child for a while."

The first lady, embarking on a new anti-drug crusade, labeled addiction "the most democratic illness there is," because it cuts across racial and economic lines.

"I believe parents are the answer to it all," Mrs. Reagan declared during a meeting in the state dining room with about 40 members of the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth.

Rantoul woman faces murder charges

URBANA (AP)—A Rantoul woman accused of killing her husband and cutting his body into pieces was arraigned Monday on murder charges in Champaign County Circuit Court.

Charges filed by the state's attorney accuse Jeanette Minnis, 26, of murdering Movina "Mo" Minnis sometime between Oct. 13 and Oct. 19.

Another hat is tossed in ring for Simon's House seat--maybe

By Liz Griffin
Staff Writer

Robert Gray, a former SIU-C student, may seek the Republican nomination for Rep. Paul Simon's seat, depending on the amount of campaign funds Gray is able to raise.

Gray, Saline County Circuit Clerk Ronald Ledford, and Carbondale engineer Peter Prineas spoke Sunday about their candidacies at a meeting of the 24th District Republican State Central Committee.

Samuel Chapman, of Tamaroa, had announced his candidacy for the seat last week but dropped out of the race, citing a lack of public interest in his campaign.

Gray, 41, is currently a manager of reimbursements with the Illinois Department of Mental Health in Springfield. He earned a bachelor's degree in industrial science and a master's degree in technology from SIU-C.

Gray estimated he needs $350,000 to unseat Simon, but he said so far he has raised a significantly smaller amount.

Gray said John T. Anderson raised about $45,000 in a 1980 campaign against Simon and lost by only a narrow margin—so Simon was warned by voters in the last election and is running harder for the 1982 election.

Simon raised about $50,300 between January and June 1981, according to Bill Tapella, Simon's campaign manager. Tapella said Simon is a "constant candidate" as the incumbent.

Anderson is out of the congressional race, having been appointed regional director to the Chicago-based Federal Emergency Management Agency.

All of the candidates Sunday said the Republican effort to unseat Simon should begin early, but they disagreed on the method.

Ledford and Gray asked that the Republicans endorse a candidate.

But Ledford said that if he had sufficient campaign funds and public support, he wouldn't necessarily drop out of the race if he wasn't endorsed.

Prineas disagreed entirely with the suggestion of a party endorsement.

A party endorsement could result in "lallygagging," less public recognition of the candidates' names, and, especially, poorer campaign treasuries, Prineas said.

However, Joe Hale, 24th District Republican State Central Committeeman, said it is unlikely that the party would offer an endorsement to any of the current candidates for Simon's seat.

Police investigate shooting

By Douglas Hamm
Staff Writer

Carbondale police are investigating a fatal shooting—described as an apparent homicide—that occurred early Monday morning in a mobile home on the city's northeast side.

Police were called to 422 N. Marion St. at 3:07 a.m. and found Helen Pugh, 38, dead of gunshot wounds. Police were called to the mobile home by a witness whose identity is not being released.

Jackson County Coroner Don Ragsdale said Mrs. Pugh had been shot three times in the body and once in the head and neck area with a small caliber gun. Ragsdale said he was waiting for a pathologist's report.

Sherry A. Garrett, 39, who lives in the mobile home, was being held Monday in Jackson County Jail pending filing of formal charges. Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons declined to comment on the case.

COBA co-op decision is petty and political

The decision by the College of Business and Administration Council to run a book co-op separate from the Undergraduate Student Organization's smacks of selfishness and politics.

The USO asked COBA and some other organizations to help run the student government organization's planned book co-op. COBA officers refused, stating that the co-op would probably not be successful because students wouldn't participate in it.

But COBA does think a book co-op of some sorts will work, for the group has turned around and has announced it will start a co-op of its own.

The COBA decision to start its own co-op is more despicable than that. Its move will do little to quell the suspicions that campus politics is the real reason COBA does not want to participate in the USO co-op.

The Cobra Party, made up mostly of COBA members, ran against the Mavericks in the last USO election and lost. Now the COBA people won't help the Maverick-headed USO with the co-op—even though their group is a natural to run such a business-oriented enterprise—because it might help the Maverick interests. As Chip Anderson, COBA president and one of the candidates that USO President Todd Rogers defeated in the last election, put it, COBA would "do all the work and let the USO get all the credit."

What the COBA leadership really seems to be saying is, "Who cares that the USO co-op may benefit the whole student population, and who cares if it is a great chance for practical business experience for our members. We have our self-interests to serve."

This is analogous to the child who doesn't like the way the game is going, scoops up his ball and announces that he is going home to play by himself.

It is hoped that COBA members can see how selfish and petty the decision is and can be open-minded enough to realize how a big co-op can benefit all students, not just those in business. Who knows, if COBA does join the USO co-op, maybe the business group can use the move to its advantage in the next student election, saying the Mavericks couldn't have done it without them.

Tubby has definite problems

I'm Tubby Too.

I'm the wonderful Automatic Teller Machine (A.T.M., for short) at a bank from Carbondale installed in the Student Center many weeks ago.

I have this problem, however. I don't work. You see, the people who installed me are having definite problems in getting me to work. I mean I was installed over 10 weeks ago and I have yet to give out a single dollar to a customer or accept a real deposit. Sometimes my screen says, "Welcome to the world of automated banking." But most of the time I just have test patterns running over my screen or a piece of handwritten paper saying "Do not use me."

I am so depressed. A brother of mine is working for a bank in Arizona. He was working three days after he was installed. But, here I am in Carbondale, waiting for a customer.

You think it is fun being this way. Let me tell you; have you ever had a technician stick a screwdriver up your deposit slot? The people at the bank—huh—they push and push for those unknowing students to open checking accounts with them and issue them cards that they have to walk 2 miles or more to use at midnight on a Saturday night. Huh, it's not my fault mind you. But what can I do?—George D. Lodesky, Sophomore, E.D.P.

Schneider residents getting swindled

I write this letter in defense of the student, the sometimes seemingly forgotten, but most important, element of this university.

I want to express a fact that has me, as well as hundreds of other Schneider residents angry—a feeling that we are being swindled financially.

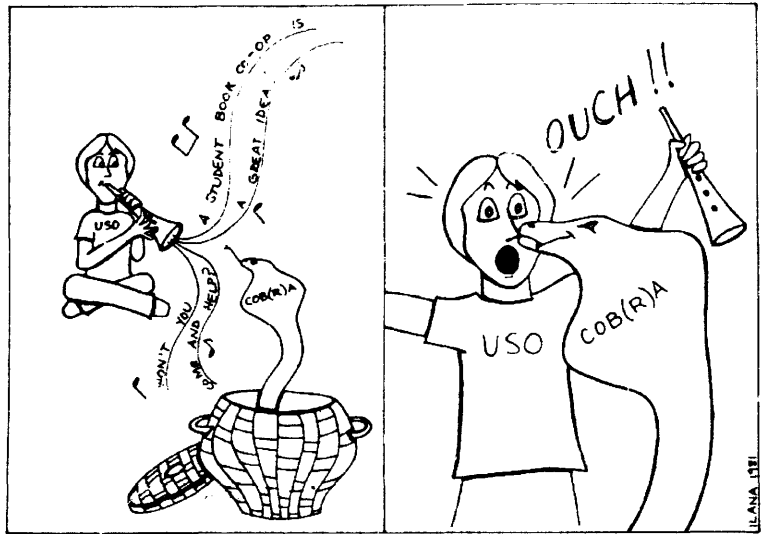

The topic of this issue is that since the residence halls were opened in August, damages of more than $1,100 have been assessed to students living in Schneider because of so-called "vandalism" to the four elevators in the building.

How could anyone or a group of people possibly have caused $1,100 in damage to any elevator(s) by hand? Surely no one has taken out his frustrations by beating them with a tool or other such device.

Elevators are constantly being "fixed" one week and then are broken the next $1,100 divided among 850 students comes to about $1.30 apiece and will not break anyone, but at this rate, elevator damages will be closing in on $9,000 in April, or about $10.50 per student.

I can think of many better ways to spend my $10.50.—Joseph Ingrasia, Freshman, Business

More commentary on reviews

Torpy should get his facts straight

I would like to respond to Mr. Bill Torpy's letter in the Nov. 3 Daily Egyptian entitled "Who's in charge?"

Mr. Torpy claims that the SIU Arena is bringing in wimpy, middle-aged acts and overcharging for ticket prices. Mr. Torpy claims that his major is journalism. It is logical to assume that a "good" journalist would investigate the facts before making such charges. I gather, Mr. Torpy, that you are not a good journalist because here are the facts.

First, while acts like Barry Manilow and Kenny Rogers may not appeal to you, they do appeal to many other students and the people of Southern Illinois. Bringing in acts like Manilow, Rogers, Foreigner, or Jefferson Starship provide a more marketable commodity for students and the community alike. Had you attended the Manilow concert as I did, you would have seen the large student and community turnout. You would have been shocked! The Rogers concert is sold-out.

Secondly, most artists on tour do not make much of a profit. In fact, many lose money. They go on tour to promote album sales where they make their profit. Just being able to get an act of the magnitude of a Manilow, Rogers, Foreigner, or Starship is a significant accomplishment. You should feel proud and fortunate that you attend a university that can book these acts.

Finally, Mr. Torpy, the Arena, while not making a profit, has to at least break even to cover their costs. A well-attended Manilow, Rogers, Foreigner, or Starship concert brings the Arena closer to breaking even then does a sparsely-attended Jeff Beck concert.—Matt McCann, Carbondale.

Time to praise oft-maligned Arena scheduling

It's time for a word of praise for those in charge of the entertainment that has been and is being brought to the SIU Arena. I'm getting tired of reading about what a "wimp" Barry Manilow is and how poor the entertainment has been. Manilow's show was great. I haven't talked to anyone who didn't enjoy it. I would certainly go see him again. He is truly an entertainer and definitely a great talent.

The ticket sales for the Manilow concert and the Kenny Rogers show should certainly speak for what is selling in the area. The people in Southern Illinois do appreciate talent. If you're just wanting to hear a lot of noise, those "entertainers" come to campus too. Considering the size of the Arena, there's just so much that can be done as far as bringing top name-entertainment to Carbondale. If you don't want to go hear Barry or Kenny keep your money. There are, too many others who appreciate what the Arena has been offering. If Engelbert Humperdinck is next in the offering, I'm sure he will draw a crowd too. Personally, I would prefer Chuck Mangione.—Diane Hickman, University Graphics.

DE should use guest critics

In the interest of clearing the letters column to make room for other topics, I suggest that the Daily Egyptian occasionally invite guest reviews from would-be critics not connected with the staff. Such reviews could be submitted in contest-fashion and judged by an impartial panel, on the basis of style and content. Only the best would be printed, but perhaps the readership would feel that its broad variety of opinions was better represented.—Lee Hartman, Assistant Professor, Foreign Languages & Literatures.

Why all the fuss?

Inspired by the recent flood of letters concerning the Barry Manilow concert, I decided to write this letter in an attempt to end the dissension about future reviews.

Why does everyone get so incensed when a review is contrary to their own opinions. Isn't a review, after all, merely the expressed opinion of the reviewer? Who cares what he thinks?

Everyone is entitled to their own opinion and it is ludicrous to expect everyone's opinions on any particular concert to coincide.

Dave Peck, Senior, Business Economics.

Air locks suggested for Rec Center

By David Murphy
Staff Writer

In an effort to reduce energy consumption, William Bleyer, director of intramural recreation, has made a recommendation to install air locks at the main entrances to the Recreation Center.

The air locks, which would cost approximately $20,000, would consist of another set of doors inside the building's main north and south entrances, according to Bleyer.

Air locks would definitely reduce the flow of air leaving and coming into the building," Bleyer said.

Bleyer said the cost of utilities is one of the largest expenses of the Recreation Center. Monthly costs now run between $30,000 and $40,000.

Money for the air locks is available from the building maintenance fund, derived from student fees, Bleyer said.

The air locks, if constructed, would be approximately 12 feet wide and 8 feet deep, according to Bleyer.

In addition to reducing energy costs, Bleyer said the air locks would help prevent rust on the center's air ducts caused by humidity.

"In summer, when there is a great deal of heat and humidity, water condenses on the outside of the air ducts and could cause rust over time," Bleyer said.

"That also presents a safety hazard when the water drips onto the tile floors and causes slippery areas. Air locks would help prevent this."

The recommendation has been submitted to Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, who will make the final decision, according to Bleyer.

F-Senate may request more funds for summer

Faculty Senate members Tuesday will consider a resolution asking for more commitment and funds from the SIU-C administration for the summer session.

Also on the agenda for the senate's 1:30 p.m. session in the Illinois Room are a resolution on proposed changes in rules for sabbatical leave and consideration of senate recommendations on the Task Force

Report on Rewards.

Some Faculty Senate members believe the summer session needs more attention from administration, according to senate president Marvin Kleinau. The resolution asks that the summer session be made more "viable" in terms of money spent on it, priorities set in terms of program needs, and improved means for faculty comment on the program.

'Smokeout' goal will be 5 million quitters

By Darla Watkins
Student Writer

Telephones will ring at 8 a.m. on Nov. 19. Persons answering may hear, "Good morning, I am calling to remind you today is the Great American Smokeout and you pledged not to smoke for 24 hours."

The calls will serve as a reminder to participants in a yearly event sponsored by the American Cancer Society. The purpose of the fifth consecutive Great American Smokeout is to get people who smoke to quit for one day in hopes they will quit permanently.

Locally, Alpha Tau Omega fraternity will set up a booth in the Student Center where people can sign up and pledge not to smoke, Mike Meschler, ATO house manager, said.

For the past three or four years, ATO has sponsored the event on campus, Meschler said.

About 900 people have participated in the last two years, according to John Burns, ATO social service coordinator. Burns said information from the American Cancer Society indicates that approximately 10 per cent of those who quit smoking for one day quit permanently.

The Cancer Society's goal for 1981 is to get 5 million people to quit smoking on Nov. 19, said

Approach to peace called 'backwards'

SEATTLE (AP) — "History will hold the United States responsible" for a nuclear holocaust if the weapons buildup proposed by President Reagan is achieved, says the former commanding general of Marine forces in Vietnam.

Retired Maj. Gen. William T. Fairbourn told several hundred people gathered for "Peace Sunday" that Reagan's approach to peace is backwards.

Ann Nunning, executive director of the organization's sixth district in Herrin.

The Herrin office's field representative, Jan Robertson, has been contacting schools in hopes they will participate, Nunning said. The office provides sign-up sheets and pledge cards to schools

Companies or service organizations also are being asked to participate and can obtain materials from the sixth district, Nunning said.

VDTs make editors of reporters

By Jennifer Pelt
Staff Writer

Computers have been in the field of communications for a while, but one of the most recent changes in communications has been the introduction of video display terminals into newspaper production.

And while these computers allow newspapers to set type more cheaply, quietly and cleanly, they can be the source of some difficulty for reporters and editors.

Harry W. Stonecipher, associate professor in journalism and co-author of "Electronic Age News Editing," said the major differences between today's newsroom and the pre-computer newsroom are that computers eliminate costly steps in newspaper production and that reporters become more important than before.

"The major concept behind the VDT is that it captures the keystrokes of the reporter," said Stonecipher. "Electronic newsrooms eliminated the need to have copy rekeyed by linotype operators."

In non-automated newsrooms, newspaper stories are typed on typewriters. Editors correct the copy, making changes on the paper. After the stories are set into type, proofreaders make necessary corrections.

In automated newsrooms, reporters type stories that appear on the terminal screen. The VDTs have keys that direct the system to perform editing functions, file stories in computer storage and set the story into type. No paper is required. It's all electronic.

Automation also means that reporters must be more efficient in language and typing skills and in ability to think and compose at the typewriter. Stonecipher said, since fully automated newsrooms rarely utilize proofreaders.

"The automation of the newsroom has made the reporter more important," said Stonecipher. "Now a reporter is his or her own editor in a sense. They are required to do a lot more editing as they write their stories."

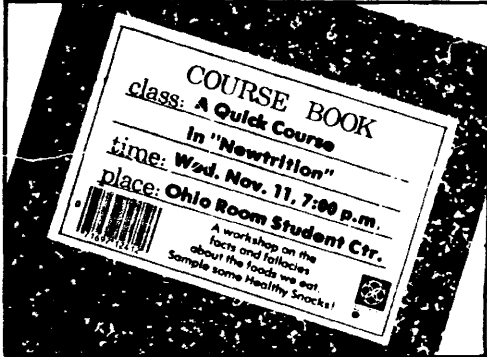

"It can be scary in a way, too," he said. "For many journalists, the proofreader was the last opportunity to catch serious mistakes."

Automation can provide a lot more opportunity for screw-ups. The machine prints things exactly as they are sent to it."

Stonecipher doesn't think automation will reduce journalism to a computerized social science, as opposed to a humanity where artistry is involved.

"I think that despite all the technology and standardization, the traditional skills of writing and editing give each newspaper a personality that makes it different and meaningful to its readers," he said.

The book, published this summer, was co-authored by Edward Nicholls, the Associated Press bureau chief for Utah and Idaho, and Douglas A. Anderson, associate professor of journalism at Arizona State University.

Vocal, instrumental recitals scheduled

Randall Black, a faculty member in the School of Music, will be spotlighted in a vocal recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the O.D. Baptist Foundation Chapel.

Other musical happenings this week include an instrumental performance by a group consisting of alto saxophone, piano, drums and bass guitar, set for 8 p.m. Thursday, and a vocal recital by Julie Greene, a graduate student in music, at 8 p.m. Saturday. Both events will be in the chapel.

A recital at 8 p.m. Sunday in Shryock Auditorium will feature Melody Storey, a senior in piano performance.

All of the events are free and open to the public. Black, a veteran of SIU-C's Summer Playhouse and the Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater, recently appeared professionally at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York in the Indiana University premiere of Martinu's "The Greek Passion."

He will be assisted by Margaret Simmons, vocal coach and accompanist of the School of Music, in a program of works by Schumann, Mozart, Britten and Rossini.

An instrumental ensemble will blend classical and jazz music in its musical presentation Thursday evening. Selections include Handel's "Sonata No. 3" and works by Jeanine Rueff and W. Ferling, as well as "Yardbird Suite" and

"Misty" by Charlie Parker.

The group's members are Larry Jones on alto saxophone, Rick McCoy and Jean Cahoy on piano, Stephen Hawk on drums and Vic Fink on bass guitar.

Greene, a mezzo soprano pursuing her master's degree in opera-music theater, has chosen works by Handel, Rossini, Jean Berger and Gustav Mahler for her recital Saturday.

She is past district winner of the Gulf Coast Regional Metropolitan Opera Auditions and will compete in Chicago

Nov. 16 in the Midwest Regional Metropolitan Opera Auditions.

Storey, a student of Kent Werner at SIU-C, will play Mozart's "Concerto in G Major," Brahms' "Three Intermezzi," and "Bagatelles" by Bela Bartok.

$1,200 raised in 107-mile run by frat for charity

Members of SIU-C's Theta Zeta Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega raised more than $1,200 in pledges for the American Heart Association during a run Saturday.

Forty-two of the fraternity members and little sisters ran from the St. Louis Arch to McAndrew Stadium, a distance of 107 miles.

The group rode in an SIU Transit bus to St. Louis, where they started the run at 11 p.m. Friday. The runners ran one at a time and followed Highway 13. Each runner ran along the shoulder of the road, with the bus idling beside him, according to Jeff Haight, ATO member in charge of the run.

"Each of the runners ran for as long as he could. When he got tired, the bus would stop and another runner would get out and run," Haight said. "Most of the runners average about 1-2 miles."

The group arrived back in Carbondale about 10:30 a.m. Saturday earlier than expected, Haight said. They were recognized at the pre-game ceremonies preceding the SIU-Drake game.

Space shuttle counting down to Thursday launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space officials gave the go-ahead Monday for a second, abbreviated countdown to start Tuesday morning and lead to the shuttle Columbia's curtain-call flight.

The clock is to start at 7 a.m. CST, aiming for a 6:30 a.m. Thursday launch of the first spaceship ever to take a repeat trip in orbit.

The first count got to within 31 seconds of liftoff last Wednesday, only to be blocked by clogged filters in two of Columbia's three auxiliary power units.

The units have been cleaned, the spacecraft checked and astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly are ready to try again.

Although NASA officials are optimistic about the launch, it appears the weather may again be touch and go, with a storm front heading toward Cape Canaveral.

Either as a drama or musical, 'Chorus Line' is labor of love

By Christopher Kade
Staff Writer

The New York Shakespeare Festival production of "A Chorus Line" shows what performers can do for love—love of dancing, love of singing, love of the musical theater. Sunday night at Shryock Auditorium was one of those occasions that a playgoer lives for.

"A Chorus Line" was one of the biggest musical hits to grace Broadway, winning nine Tony awards, the Pulitzer Prize for Drama and the New York Drama Critics Award for Best Musical.

It is indeed a rare achievement when a musical is equally successful as drama and musical entertainment. "A Chorus Line" succeeds because it is obvious that the performers are talking about their own life stories—stories about unhappy childhoods, sexual identity crises and the blossoming obsession with dancing and performing in front of an audience. It is the story of a profession which—despite endless frustrations, interminable auditions and low pay—they love, because in it they find meaning in their lives, and friends with common problems and desires.

It was during a night "rap" session among dancing colleagues that director-choreographer Michael Bennett—who also directed the original Broadway production—recorded the memories which became the basis for "A Chorus Line." From those tapes, writers James Kirkwood and Nicholas Dante produced a script and Marvin Hamlisch added a musical score.

What they came up with is a story that is elegant in its simplicity and authentic in its development of identifiable human beings—people whom we can't help but care for after an unbelievably quick two hours and 15 minutes on stage.

There is but a single setting for the play: a theater stage where an audition is taking place. The director stands out in the seating area, watching the performers as they practice and questioning them about the influences that led them into dancing. The auditioning performers are nervous at first, but start to open up at the urging of their more experienced colleagues.

Review

Along the way we meet, among others: Bobby (Sam Piperato), an admittedly "real, real strange" young man who once contemplated suicide but discovered that "to commit suicide in Buffalo is redundant." Sheila (Jan Leigh Herndon), a beautiful redhead fast approaching 30; strong, skeptical, a woman who once dreamed of being a prima ballerina but is beginning to realize that even her lowered expectations are fading. Val (Lois Englund), a petite blond who came to Broadway, was told that her dancing was a 10 but that her looks were a three, and, undaunted, proceeded to have plastic surgery.

"Tits and ass can change your life," she says, "they sure changed mine."

Cassie (Leslie Woodie), an actress with a once-promising career who is attempting to pick up the pieces by returning to the dance profession. In a plaintive moment, she cries out that she needs a job: "I don't want to be teaching others what I should be doing myself." Paul (Wayne Meledrandi), a Puerto Rican with an Italian stage name, who found out early in life that he was homosexual and who provided one of the most moving moments of the night by recounting the evening he was to leave on his first tour—a gay revue in which he performed in drag—when his father referred to him for the first time as "my son."

The thoroughness of the illusion of an audition is amazing—from the performers' nervousness to the offstage coffee and cigarette breaks to the initially slipshod choreography. The line between reality and illusion eventually blurred to where I found myself sitting on the edge of my seat as the final eliminations were made—depressed for those who failed once again and elated for those who had made it.

But the illusion was not so complete as to obscure the consummate professionalism of the Shakespeare company. The choreography was captivating and, in its finest moments, perfectly synchronized. The singing was clear and forceful, and the performance of "What I Did For Love" provided the crowning moment of the evening, as the entire company joined in the chorus: "Kiss today goodbye, point me toward tomorrow. We did what we had to do, won't forget, can't regret what I did for love." As an expression of their devotion to a craft that is both wearying and fortifying, it sent a shiver down the spine because it was so obviously sung from the depths.

It was that sincerity and deeply felt love for the musical theatre that made the evening such an enjoyable, transcendent experience. There was not a false moment or a slow spot in the entire production, and there was only one regret: that the show had to end.

Review

After a somber entrance, the Westminster Choir, conducted by Joseph Flummerfelt, sang beautifully a number of selections from Handel to Bartok to folk last Sunday.

Handel's "Let Thy Hand Be Strengthened" and "Let Justice and Judgment" were done movingly in fine style as were two motets, "Tu Solus, Qui Facis Mirabilia" by Josquin des Pres and "Nos Vos Relinquam" by William Byrd. The motets were delivered in very solemn character—one could almost picture medieval monks chanting in Latin on their way to vespers.

Of the four madrigals the choir sang, the most interesting was probably Pierre Passereau's "Il Est Bel Et Bon," which featured interesting vocal manipulations. "Toast Pour Le Nouvel An"

by Gioacchino Rossini also made use of some unusual effects, including interesting staccato vocalizing.

After a beautiful rendering of Brahms' "Zigeunerlieder" and two selections, "Finding a Husband" and "Love Song," by Hungarian composer Bela Bartok, the choir then sang selected folk songs and spirituals such as "Black Is The Color Of My True Love's Hair," and "Flow Gently Sweet Afton."

When the choir performed an especially stirring "Battie Hymn of the Republic," one man jumped to his feet and shouted "Bravo!" He was not the only one to respond—the audience replied with thunderous applause.

THE SPINAL EXAM

If you have a back problem or some other problem caused by a misalignment of your spine, a thorough exam can disclose where the problem is located.

The usual position for a spinal examination is lying on the examination table. But this is only one phase of a thorough spinal exam. For one thing, it won't give a full picture of your spinal condition when you're in a relaxed position.

The examination should include a study of how your spine aligns itself when you are carrying heavy objects, when you're standing, and also while walking or running in place. The doctor will also want to know how your spine reacts to stress... He will test various muscles to look for any weakness.

The spine is closely integrated with many parts of your body and the nervous system through which it flows. Areas out of alignment may not only affect the spine but other parts of your body as well. Only a thorough exam will tell if it's in good working order.

Do you have a question? Write or call...

SIU-C basketball player Charles Nance, hospitalized since Wednesday with a bruised kidney, was released from the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale Monday.

Nance, a 6-6 forward, was elbowed in the abdomen at Tuesday's practice and had been passing blood.

Dr. Courtland Munroe, the Saluki team physician, was unavailable for comment, but a spokesperson in his office at the Carbondale Clinic confirmed Nance's release from the hospital.

It is unknown when Nance will return to practice with the Salukis student trainer Steve Levelmier said.

"All I know is that he's been released from the hospital and he's feeling a whole lot better than he had been," Levelmier said. "He's still pretty weak, and he's still under observation."

A junior from Hopkinsville, Ky., Nance was the Salukis' leading rebounder last season. He was a probable starter at forward prior to the injury.

The Salukis open their season Nov. 28 at the Arena against Southeast Missouri State.

Johnson gets award despite error

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

Saluki quarterback Rick Johnson was hanging his head Saturday, but the Saluki coaches have given him reason to raise it Monday.

Thinking it was third down, Johnson threw the ball out of bounds on fourth down to stop the Salukis' last drive Saturday. Saluki coaches thought Johnson's 19-for-32 passing day was enough to overshadow the mistake and named him as the Salukis' outstanding offensive back of the 22-17 loss to Drake.

Senior tackle Chris Lockwood was one of the outstanding offensive linemen named by the coaches. Lockwood's efficiency was rated at 80 percent, and coaches determined from the game film that he missed no assignments.

Sophomore split end Tony Adams was the other outstanding offensive lineman, catching four passes for 90 yards. Adams' efficiency was rated at 80 percent.

The outstanding defensive lineman was senior linebacker Tony Bleyer, who had eight tackles, nine assists, two tipped passes, a caused fumble, and a fumble recovery. His rating was 70 percent.

Sophomore safety Bill Thomas was the outstanding Saluki defensive back with an 80 percent rating, six solo tackles, five assists, a caused fumble, and a tackle for a loss of yardage.

The loss dropped the Salukis to 4-2 in the Missouri Valley Conference and raised Drake to 4-1. Tulsa shut out New Mexico State to move to 4-1.

The Salukis play their last game of the season at New Mexico State Saturday. Tulsa plays a conference game at West Texas State and Drake plays an MVC game at Illinois State.

The Salukis still have an outside chance at the MVC title—if they win and Tulsa and Drake lose, they would edge both teams by one-half game.

Plymire-Houseworth and Donley both enjoyed fine seasons.

Plymire-Houseworth led SIUC in each of its nine meets. She ran her way into second place in the all-time Saluki record book by winning a dual meet with Eastern Illinois with a 17:51, just 10 seconds short of Lindy Nelson's all-time SIUC mark. Donley proved to be very consistent, finishing under the 21-minute mark in eight of the nine meets.

The freshmen harriers improved through the course of the season, said Blackman.

"This season was a learning experience for the freshmen,"

the seventh-year coach said. "They learned how to perform under pressure which should help in meets next year."

The rookie harriers got used to running on different courses, from "mountainous" Midland Hills to "relatively flat" Ohio State and Eastern Illinois. They also were able to run in all types of weather conditions—from 90-degree heat in the home opener to marsh-like conditions at Kenosha, Wis. plus frigid cold at the Missouri Valley meet in Wichita.

Blackman said she felt the freshmen runners let the "prestige" of the final three meets get to them, but added that the experience of running against such top quality competition should give them the confidence they will need next fall.

In addition to confidence, the team will also need several new bodies. Plymire-Houseworth, Putman, and Bukauskas will all be graduating this spring.

"I plan to go to the high school state championships next week in Peoria and the junior college state meet later this month," she said. "We got Rosa Mitchell from a junior college. To get another experienced runner like Rosa would help our team."

This year's team will not be taking it easy during the off season. Blackman plans to have her runners putting in a lot of mileage so they will be in shape for the indoor track and field season which opens in February. Putman, whose eligibility is up, will be the only harrier absent from the track team, according to Blackman.

Such behavior seems to be the rule, rather than the exception, at sporting events. Spent shotgun shells have been found in the outfield grass of Detroit's Tiger Stadium and hockey players in the NHL have had to dodge bricks and bottles, thrown onto the ice by unruly fans. Milwaukee, long famous for its beer, at one game sold suds for a nickel a cup a few years ago and a veritable riot ensued.

Alcohol is fine when consumed in moderation, but something must be done when fans start lugging kegs and cases into the stands.

Obtaining a liquor license for McAndrew Stadium and dispensing beer by the cup is another consideration if the fans cannot part with beer altogether.

MANY WILL WHINE AND COMPLAIN that it was all in fun and that no one was hurt. But it wouldn't have taken much more to turn the "fun" into a violent mass brawl. Such ludicrous behavior should cease before someone does get hurt.

The Saluki football team can expect to sustain a couple of injuries in hard-fought competition. It is a completely different thing to fill a hospital emergency room with grid fans suffering from can abrasions and ice contusions.

Men gymnasts beat Oklahoma, still take 4th at Big Eight meet

By Bob Morand
Staff Writer

Although the men's gymnastic team finished fourth in the five-team Big Eight Invitational over the weekend, it did finish a notch ahead of Oklahoma, a long-standing powerhouse in collegiate gymnastics.

Nebraska, another perennial gymnastics power, took first in the invitational with a score of 281.05. The Cornhuskers took five of the six team events, coming in second behind Iowa State in the vaulting with a 46.90. Iowa State won that event with a 47.60, and placed second overall with a team effort of 285.60.

Northern Illinois placed third in the meet with second-place finishes behind Nebraska in the pommel horse and the rings. The Huskies team total came to 262.45, edging the Salukis by 4.75 points.

SIU-C Coach Bill Meade, however, was pleased the Salukis' performances, despite the fourth-place finish. The Saluki gymnasts improved in four of the six performances from last year, and improved last year's total of 254.60 to 257.70.

"You're never happy to get fourth place, but I'm really pleased with the guys because we competed without Brian and still did well," Meade said.

Brian Babcock, a member of the U.S. National team and 1984 Olympic hopeful, was red-shirted this season, but still competed as an "unattached" competitor in the meet.

And even with the loss of Babcock as a team member, Meade was happy with the team's performance, especially with the all-around performers. Although Babcock's fourth-place 109.6 in the all-around did not affect SIU-C's total, sophomore John Levy's total of 100.75 was good enough to place him seventh in the six events.

"I'm really pleased with John, as well as with the other all-arounders," Meade said. "They all scored in the 50s, which is a big improvement over last year's scores."

Joining Levy in the all-around were fellow sophomores, Murph Melton, Scott Schuler and Kevin Mazeika.

The all-around winner was Nebraska's Jim Hartung, with a six-event total of 114.8. The second, third and fifth places also went to the Cornhuskers, with Scott Johnson scoring a 113.65; Jim Mikus a 109.8; and Mike Bowers total of 105.5.

Hartung, incidentally, is the No. 1 gymnast in the country and of the U.S. National team, and Cornhusker teammates Johnson and Phil Cahoy are the fourth and fifth seeded gymnasts on the Nationals team, Meade said.

Bart Connor, the No. 2 man on the national team, no longer is eligible to compete for Oklahoma, which could be one reason for the downfall in the Sooners' perennial status, Meade added.

"It's hard to believe that one man is that valuable to a team, but that happens sometimes. You have a few good boys and then you lose them. It kind of brings you back to the world of reality," he said.

Young harriers 'learn' from season

By Steve Metsch
Staff Writer

The roller coaster-like season the women's cross country team rode this fall has finally screeched to a halt.

"This was the kind of a season you expect with a young team," said Coach Claudia Blackman.

"You're bound to have bright spots and down times with a team like this."

The team began the season well, defeating Illinois State 26-32 at Midland Hills. From there it was up and down, with the latter part of the season leaning toward the down side. The "young" Salukis finished fourth of five in the state meet and last

Grid fans' bad behavior should bring alcohol ban

A DISTRESSING STRING OF EVENTS marred Saturday's football game between SIU-C and Drake.

The Salukis lost a 22-17 heartbreaker to Drake and in the process, probably relinquished any hopes of winning their first Missouri Valley Conference title.

The Salukis slugged it out on the artificial turf, while the fans slugged it out on the aluminum bleachers. In the end the Salukis trudged off the field, objects of verbal abuse ranging from unprintable—and probably impossible—sex acts to just plain "losers."

Well folks, the real losers were in the stands. The glut of fans on the student side sandwiched between the 40-yard lines displayed despicable behavior throughout the game.

Fans hauled in kegs, cases, twelve packs and coolers full of beer and booze. Some passed out from intoxication, while some being passed through the stands were dropped by inebriated fans.

GRANTED, THINGS LOOKED bleak toward the end of the first half, but that didn't warrant an impromptu battle in the stands fought with chunks of ice, full cans of Busch beer and swinging fists. The entire episode resembled the food fight scene in the movie "Animal House"; but this wasn't funny.

Perhaps the few who started the brouhaha didn't get all their jollies or frustrations alleviated during last weekend's Halloween festivities. However, that's probably not the case, because this insipid behavior seems to characterize Saluki football games.

The usual pastime of passing women through the stands was more than popular Saturday and a couple of fights broke out. Security police were nowhere to be seen during the ruckus, but it is doubtful that their presence could have helped the situation, either.

Hurling cans and chunks of ice can cause serious injury. One way to prevent spur-of-the-moment bleacher wars is to take away the ammunition. Banning all cans, bottles and ice—except for that sold at concession stands—may be the answer. It is doubtful that a plastic cup or a hot dog could maim someone.

BANNING ALCOHOL IS ANOTHER solution that should be considered. What? Remove the brew from one of America's favorite national pastimes? Yes, if fans aren't responsible enough to curb their over aggressive behavior, induced by the influence of alcohol.

in both the Missouri Valley Conference and Midwest Regional meets.

"Young" is the perfect word to describe this season's team. Six of the 10 team members were freshmen, while two were juniors and three were seniors.

Prior to the start of the season, Blackman said she was counting on seniors Cindy Bukauskas, Nola Putman, Patty Plymire-Houseworth and junior Dyanne Donley to lead the team in the fall campaign.

Injuries, however, forced two of Blackman's leaders to spend most of the year on the bench. Both Putman and Bukauskas were sidelined—Putman with leg and foot problems and Bukauskas with stress fractures. Freshman Lori Ann Bertram later joined the walking wounded with stress fractures.

Putman had been finishing in the top three for the Salukis before her exit. Although she wasn't placing among the top runners, Bukauskas' absence hurt the team in a different manner, according to Blackman.

"Losing C.B. didn't hurt us regarding our finish," Blackman said. "What did was her absence at our meets. The team morale was hurt by not hearing C.B. cheer them on."
