USG president will veto resolution

Statement criticizes Carbondale over lawsuit against Marion

By Theresa Livingston

Staff Writers

The Undergraduate Student Government president said he will veto a resolution passed Wednesday that criticizes the city of Carbondale for its lawsuit against the city of Marion.

"It was a resolution which slipped by at the end of the meeting and no one really had a chance to speak on it," USG President Tim Hildebrand said.

Carbondale's lawsuit, recently filed in the Williamson County

Circuit Court, contends that Marion is illegally using tax increment financing subsidies to establish the Illinois Center Mall in an area that is not blighted and to lure businesses away from Carbondale.

The Sears Department Store already has announced its intention to move from the University Mall to the new mall when it opens.

Don Prosser, legal counsel for Carbondale, said the use of TIF subsidies to establish a mall in an area that is not blighted is against the Illinois TIF law.

"The TIF exists to permit cities to redevelop blighted areas which are deteriorating and will not come back economically without tax incentives," Prosser said.

The Broeking Property, on which Marion proposes to build the mall, is a prime development area near Interstate 57 that has experienced a significant growth over the last 15 year, Prosser said.

The resolution, that was a last minute addition to the regular agenda, was written by USG Governmental Relations Commissioner Jon Musgrave and passed unanimously.

The resolution criticizes the city of Carbondale for not working to promote regional development and attract industries which would benefit from University research and programs.

"I felt Carbondale was hurting University students' opportunities for employment in Southern Illinois by suing Marion and we needed to do something about it," Musgrave said.

The $165 million Illinois Center Mall will bring about 1,000 construction jobs to the area and 2,300 permanent jobs. However, the mall will take about $300,000 from Carbondale a year in sales tax revenues.

Hildebrand said after he vetoed the resolution, representatives of Power restored to all except Schneider

By Chris Walka
Staff Writer

Residents of Schneider Hall had to deal with an electrical outage, fire in a trash chute, and a water shortage all in one night, when a power outage darkened the entire East Campus.

The electrical outage, which was caused by a break in the power feed line between Mac Smith and Schneider Halls, caused all power to cease to the buildings, Herrel Lerch, building maintenance supervisor, said.

Lerch and University electricians started working on the problem about 4 p.m. Wednesday afternoon. Three fuses from the sub-station were removed and one of the fuses was blown, Lerch said.

Further investigation uncovered a circuit box in a manhole that was damaged. Lerch said the box was repaired, the power could be restored to all of the buildings except Schneider.

Lerch said the main switch was turned on at 4:10 a.m. Each affected building then had to be turned on individually.

Mac Smith, Neely, Schneider, Allen, the Interim classrooms and the Recreation Center were all without power until that time.

James Gullledge, supervisor for custodial services, said the cable has been in place since the halls were first opened in 1968.

The fire, which broke out in Schneider Hall, caused the evacuation of its residents for about two hours.

John Manis, assistant fire chief for the Carbondale Fire Department, said the cause of the fire is still unknown.

Manis said two pumper trucks and an officer's car were dispatched to the scene at 7:37 p.m. The vehicles arrived at the scene at 7:40 p.m., Manis said.

Manis said the blaze was out when the vehicles arrived, but that they remained on the scene for two hours, checking the building and removing smoke.

Because of the power outage, exhaust fans were not able to vent the smoke. The department had to use smoke ejectors to rid the building of the smoke.

Susan Davis, public information coordinator for University News Service, said the 12th through the 17th floors were the most affected by the smoke. Davis said some smoke did enter the rooms of the residents and that some cleanup work may be required.

Manis said the ruptured water main on the north side of the building did not affect Schneider Hall's sprinkler system.

Lerch said the water main that broke was on the North side of Schneider Hall.

Lerch said water service was restored to the building at about 4 a.m. Thursday morning.

Navy jet hits apartments, four injured

SMYRNA, Ga. (UPI) — A Navy training jet whose pilot had ejected moments earlier crashed like "a black shadow" Thursday night into a wood-frame apartment complex, starting a massive fire and injuring the pilot and three civilians.

The A-7E Corsair II jet attached to a Navy Reserve squadron at Dobbins Air Force Base slammed into the Pine Village Apartments about 6:30 p.m., about a mile south from the sprawling military base in suburban Atlanta.

The jet was carrying up to 1,000 pounds of fuel, and authorities said that caused the fire to spread rapidly through the wood-frame apartment complex on Windy Hill Road.

"I heard a loud pop and ran to the window," apartment resident John Finch said, "and within seconds our entire building was engulfed in flames. We barely had time to get out.

Berlin Wall 'cracks' with travel laws

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German government Thursday dropped all restrictions on travel to the West, and thousands of citizens of the communist state flocked to the Berlin Wall, the symbol of the Iron Curtain, to taste their new freedom.

In announcing the easing of travel restrictions, East Berlin Communist Party chief Guenter Schabowski, a new member of the ruling Politburo, said the check-points would remain in force until Parliament enacts a new emigration and travel law that is expected to lift many restrictions.

He said police had been told to issue visas immediately to those who want to move to the West.

Blood drive goal: 639 pints needed

By Diana Mivell
Staff Writer

Thursday's blood drive collected 570 pints, leaving the University 639 pints short of its goal of 2,850 to beat University of Missouri at Columbia, Rick Mitchell, president of MOVE, said.

The five-day total is 2,211 pints. "It's going to take a major effort. We need anyone who can donate, but hasn't, to donate today," Mitchell said.

Today is the last day to donate. Donors may give blood from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Student Center and from 1 to 7 p.m. at the Student Recreation Center.

People who donated at the blood drive on Sept. 5 through 8 have been eligible to donate all week, Vivian Ugent, coordinator of blood drives in Southern Illinois, said.

In addition, those who given blood at Lewis Park Apartments on Sept. 15 become eligible to give blood today, Ugent said.

About 90 percent of donors are University students, Ugent said.

"We need 639 pints to win and maintain our national stature to show we weren't just best in 1988 but also in 1989," Ugent said.

Ugent said Missouri challenged SIU-C because they wanted to beat the University and be the best.

"Meeting this record will keep SIU's leadership stature. We need support from the students, faculty, staff and community," Ugent said.

Special parking spots will be available in the Student Center visitor lots for people in the community and high school students wishing to donate. They will not have to worry about having to find a parking spot, Ugent said.

"There also will be special parking arrangements at the Recreation Center today," Ugent said. "People will be able to give blood during

East Germany to allow legal passage to emigrants west

BERLIN (UPI) — An East German government spokesman announced Thursday that East Germans who want to leave the country now can go directly to West Berlin and West Germany, the official ADN news agency reported. The government spokesman said the new ruling allowing free travel through the Berlin Wall would remain in force until Parliament passes a law regulating emigration and visits abroad. "Permanent trips out of the country can be made through all border crossing points of the German Democratic Republic to the Federal Republic of Germany or to West Berlin," the announcement said.

Xiaoping resigns as senior leader in military

BEIJING (UPI) — Senior leader Deng Xiaoping resigned Thursday as chairman of the powerful Central Military Commission, relinquishing his last official position in the Communist Party and exhorting his colleagues to tackle the "arduous tasks ahead." Analysts said Deng, 85, will continue to exercise decision-making power to protect his decade-long economic reform program but said his retirement means young people will be given greater opportunity to exercise leadership. Deng will be replaced as head of the military, China's No. 1 job, by General Secretary Jiang Zemin, 62.

Nicaraguans says war proposal negotiable

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The head of the Nicaraguan delegation to peace talks at the United Nations said Thursday his government's proposal to end the war with the Contras is "negotiable, and it is not an ultimatum." The talks between the Nicaraguan government and the Contra rebels at U.N. headquarters in New York originally scheduled to begin at 11:45 a.m., were postponed until 3:30 p.m. EST to allow more time for preparations. Hours before the session was to convene, Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto of Nicaragua said a cease-fire will be reinstated if the Contra rebels can agree on a proposal unveiled Wednesday.

House to vote on Congress pay level reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House will vote soon, possibly next week, on a pay-raise and ethics reform package that could result in different pay levels for the House and Senate, Speaker Thomas Foley said Thursday. Foley, D-Wash., said he is hopeful the package will clear Congress and reach President Bush's desk before the lawmakers adjourn for the year. Congressional leaders are aiming to complete business before Thanksgiving. The speaker insisted any hike would be a "cost-of-living" increase and not a pay raise. Congress was criticized early this year when a 51 percent pay raise was proposed, but then vetoed.

Bush pledges Aquino recovery assistance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush assured Philippine President Corason Aquino on Thursday that as she struggles to move her country toward greater economic recovery and political stability, "you deserve our help and you will get it. I pledge our continuing assistance to your government." Bush told Aquino as she opened her first state visit in three years. "And that means security assistance as well as aid to economic development. And it means cooperating in your important debt-reduction program." Trying to not allow a dispute over U.S. military bases to dampen the occasion, Bush welcomed Aquino to the White House.

Hartigan voices opposition to grants given to legislators

CHICAGO (UPI) — A spokeswoman for Attorney General Neil Hartigan Thursday vehemently denied Hartigan is doing an about face on a bill that granted $6,000 stipends to some legislators. Hartigan spokeswoman Jeanne Marie Schultz said there was no reason until now for Hartigan to voice opposition to the measure, which grants the bonuses to 142 of the state's 177 legislators. Hartigan Wednesday called the payments illegal pay raises but Gov. James R. Thompson has said he intends to sign the measure into law and encouraged Hartigan to file a court challenge.

POW/MIA mystery needs investigation

THE BITTER and deep-seeded controversy surrounding the POW/MIA issue remains at the forefront of veterans concerns as the day in their honor approaches.

The debate about prisoners of war being held in Vietnam, Laos and even the Soviet Union has been fierce and emotional, touching off marches in Washington, D.C., by veterans groups, special congressional hearings and an eight-year investigation by the Reagan administration into the Vietnam question.

VETERANS GROUPS and independent investigators offer government documents and eyewitness accounts as proof that the POWs exist.

They claim the government covered up their existence and not followed-up sightings and reports of prisoners.

Thomas Ashworth, a retired U.S. Marine captain who is writing a book supporting the living POW theory, spoke on his research into the subject Wednesday evening at SIU-C.

Ashworth produced 50 government documents as well as photographs of POW camps in Laos, which he said proved the existence of POWs there. He said his research proved positively that as many as 5,000 prisoners from World War II are still being held.

WHETHER OR not that is true would be nearly impossible to confirm because many of the documents on that war and the Korean war are still classified.

William S. Turley, a political science professor at SIU-C who has studied the Vietnam war, rejects the arguments of Ashworth and others who claim the POWs exist. He said the evidence pointed to by these groups is that which can be interpreted to support their case. Turley believes the issue was settled by the eight year investigation done during the Reagan administration, which concluded there were no living POWs at least in Vietnam.

Turley contends that it is nearly impossible to prove a negative: That there are no POWs in Vietnam.

THE FACT that so many groups are still investigating and arguing the issue proves that the Reagan investigation is not the final word. The government may have convinced some people, as well as itself, that there are no POWs in Vietnam, but apparently it has not convinced many others. Questions remain: What about an investigation into the MIAs from World War II and Korea? Are veterans and the families of missing service personnel supposed to forget about them? How can those serving in the military today devote themselves to defending the country while it is not known whether the government abandoned a great number of their predecessors?

This is an issue of extreme significance and the government should treat it as such.

Opinions from elsewhere

Chicago Tribune

For a brief moment, Bob Dole forgot how to read lips (when the Senate Republican leader actually said he would support an increase in the federal gasoline tax if revenues were used to rebuild the nation's crumbling highways and bridges. Before anyone could get the idea he was signaling a shift in President Bush's pledge of "no new taxes," the White House issued a firm snub. For now ... the politicians in Washington are content to let the highways continue to deteriorate. Their cavalier attitude is double distancing because they've got ($15 billion) ... in the Highway Trust Fund right now. Congress and the White House heard it to make their budget deficit look better.

The (Baltimore) Sun

When George Orwell introduced us to the idea of "Newspeak" in the classic novel "1984," he wanted to make the point that broad, nonspecific and euphemistic words and phrases can not only distort meaning but can impoverish ... thought. In his book "Doublepeak: From Revenue Enhancement to Terminal Living," English professor William Lutz of Rutgers warns a real-life deterioration of language is already under way ... A company getting ready to lay off thousands is initiating "a career alternative enhancement program" ... (and) a used car becomes one that is "pre-owned" ... Lutz suggests we can battle the use of doublespeak by simply refusing to accept it. One of the reasons most politicians now shy away from using the term "revenue enhancement" is because the press ... called it what it was — taxes.

Kansas City Times

If the events of former President Richard Nixon's visit to Beijing are any guide, China's lurch toward xenophobia and repression may be more serious and long-lasting than previously believed. The initial thinking was that any crack-down will be temporary; China still seeks modernization and must have Western technology to do it. ... At Nixon's final banquet in Beijing ... Nixon stood up and — addressing an official who was directly involved in ordering the Tiananmen Square attack — said many of China's friends in the world see the massacre as excessive, unjustified and damaging to China's worldwide credibility. The Chinese response was equally blunt. The leadership made no apology.

YOU BURNED OUR FLAG. NOW WE'RE BURNIN' YOUR CONSTITUTION...

Letters

Freedom of speech, expression threatened by flag amendment

Before proceeding with the gist of my argument, let me restate some of the ideas that generally are agreed upon by both sides.

1. Our veterans and founding fathers fought for the ideals of liberty and democracy.

2. The flag is the symbolic representation of these ideas.

Assuming that you accept the preceding ideas, let me try and make things plain for those of you who obviously have trouble dealing with logic.

1. Burning a flag can be politically relevant speech. The fact that the flag is the representation of the aforementioned ideals, coupled with the fact that it angers you, proves this.

2. Protection of politically relevant speech is, and always has been, one of our most important freedoms.

3. The only cause that ever has been found acceptable for the censorship of politically relevant speech is when that speech creates a clear and present danger to others in society.

4. Burning a flag does not create a danger to anyone or anything. Therefore the restriction of the burning of a flag would be a repression of one of our most important freedoms without a just cause.

5. The repression of a freedom without a just cause is a method of fascism. By supporting restrictions on the burning of a flag, you are supporting methods of fascism in the name of the flag, thereby disgracing it more than any flag burner could ever hope to.

In Wednesday's article, T.L. Link gave us three examples of when it is deemed just to censor certain speech. The first was the example of shouting fire in a crowded theater. This is a case where speech creates a clear and present danger to others. Burning a flag does not do this.

The second was the case of U.S. vs O'Brian, in which O'Brian was arrested and convicted for burning his draft card. If one had actually read the Supreme Court opinions on the case, one would surely notice that O'Brian was not convicted for the speech or action of burning a draft card, but rather the failure to possess a draft card, which at that time was a violation of the selective service act.

His last example pertained to the use of "fighting words."

Fighting words have never been considered politically relevant speech and therefore are irrelevant to this argument.

In my conclusion, let me state that I do not condone flag burning. I agree that it is foolish and stupid. But I do not believe that our rights need be sacrificed in order to deal with other people's stupidity. If you really want to stop flag burning, there is a more effective way to go about it. Ignore these people. If the people who burn flags find that their activities are not reaching anyone, then they will stop. Flag burning is not a major problem; repression of liberty is. It is much more important to practice freedom than to worship it. - Rob Sablotny, sophomore, liberal arts.

an atmosphere of further close-mindedness and censorship.

The fervent cries of outraged patriots in response to those who would burn the flag are not unlike those of the Islamic's indignation to Salmon Rushdie's alleged blasphemous in his now notorious novel "The Satanic Verses." Here, the patriots are more concerned with the symbol than with the ideals it represents. Actually, they do a greater disservice to the flag, and to the country, than do those who choose to burn it, for in seeking to protect the flag, they imply that it is weak and fragile, and not strong enough to withstand the slings and arrows of the discontented. One is forced to question the strength of an institution which cannot withstand being questioned itself. Before resorting to personal attacks on Supreme Court justices, or ramorous diatribes filled with emotion-laden rhetoric and little else, we must remember that outrage and anger are not reason enough to dictate what others may and may not do, or how they may do it. The fact that we do not like an individual's tactics or means of expression does not, of itself, invalidate his or her point. As free citizens, we must strive to evaluate the views of others on an individual basis.

Looking at the issue on a positive note, sometimes it takes a controversy such as this to make people think about how much they really do value the flag and the country. If we silence this protest, we may silence the swell of pride and patriotism it has inspired as well, along with the beneficial changes which may come about from the call for introspection.

We should welcome the flag burners then, those with harsh voices of dissent, for it is they who make us realize that although this country may indeed be the finest thing the human mind has yet created, we are still not immune to the faults and vices which are also part of the human mind. Without these voices to shake us out of our democratic lethargy, we may well take our freedom for granted until it is taken from us. So if it takes a flaming vision to rekindle our love for ourselves, our country, and the freedom and beliefs it was founded upon, then let it burn. Let it burn. - Mark Henry, freshman.

The absurdity of the furor over the issue of flag desecration was epitomized recently in a short television commercial. It seems that Mr. Buzz Aldrin, first man to plant Old Glory on the moon, is incensed that the symbol of liberty as we know as the American flag should be subject to desecration at the hands of a growing number of dangerously misguided dissidents. Frankly Buzz, to paraphrase, you cares about what makes you sick?

The freedom of speech includes freedom to express dissatisfaction - indeed, it was the desire for this freedom to protest which prompted its inclusion in the Bill of Rights in the first place. The men who designed that document rightly believed that the open expression of ideas, now matter how unpopular, was vital to the country's well being and continued existence. They knew from experience, as do many in the world today, that consequences go far beyond the immediately apparent, that silencing unpopular protest does far more than merely silencing the offender. It serves to deviate

Shelter misses out on funds from Public Aid department

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Many homeless shelters in the state will receive an additional $3.3 million to help with emergencies this winter, but Carbondale's homeless shelter will be left out in the cold.

Dave Pittman, spokesman for the Department of Public Aid, said the Good Samaritan House, 701 S. Marion, was not on the state's list of shelters targeted to receive the extra money.

The DPA publicized they had the extra money and Illinois shelters were invited to apply for the money, Pittman said.

This money, coupled with the original $3.78 million appropriated to help the homeless, totaled about $7.1 million, a 100 percent increase from last year. The funds were allocated in an amendment to House Bill 859, the DPA appropriation bill.

Pittman said about 60 percent of the funds will go to homeless agencies serving the Chicago area.

Shelters in Chicago currently provide about 2,800 city-funded beds for homeless people, DPA Director Susan Suter said. The new grant will provide an additional 400 to 500 beds. The other 40 percent was sent to downstate shelters.

Elsie Speck, director of the Good Samaritan House, said she was not aware of the extra money for winter emergencies was available.

Speck said, however, the House recently received an extra $24,000 from the DPA to help with maintaining the new women's shelter.

The new shelter, located at 306 N. University, is a transitional home that will provide a stable living environment for at least five women and one full-time staff member.

Speck said she currently has 17 people living in the emergency shelter of the House. These people are allowed to stay for three to four weeks, but exceptions can be made if necessary, Speck said.

The upper level of the shelter houses residents in a stable home for 18 months in exchange for 30 percent of their income. Eight people live there now.

Speck said surprisingly, there are fewer people who seek shelter at the House in the winter.

"The warmer weather tends to bring more people," Speck said.

Speck said she thinks more people move during the warmer months because that's when most people in search of jobs will move their families.

She said the people who seek shelter in the winter are the ones who have trouble paying their electric bills.

Coroner: SIU-C student died from self-inflicted gunshot

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

A coroner's inquest into the death of William E. Levelsmier, a University student who died Oct. 31, ruled that Levelsmier died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound, Don Ragsdale, Jackson County Coroner, said.

At the Jackson County Courthouse Thursday, six jurors listened to testimony from a Carbondale Police officer who investigated Levelsmier's death, Ragsdale said.

"The investigating officer explained the situation to the jurors and they (jurors) ruled Levelsmier's death as a suicide," Ragsdale said.

Levelsmier, who was a 25-year-old second-year graduate student in business, was found dead at his residence, 318 1/2 W. Walnut St., in the early morning hours of Oct. 31.

A gun was found near Levelsmier's body, which had a single bullet wound, Ragsdale said. Notes also were found.

Levelsmier's sister, Terry Lynn Kevlin, said one of the notes Levelsmier left said he felt things just weren't right in his life and he didn't have the energy to make things better.

An autopsy was not performed. Levelsmier was buried in Carbondale Nov. 1.

Police Blotter

University Police reported a 1988 Ford 12-passenger van was stolen from Parking Lot 87, next to the Coal Research Center, between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday.

The van belonged to the Coal Research Center and an estimated loss was not made.

the cities of Carbondale and Marion would be asked to speak to the USG.

"He (Musgrave) didn't even call the cities involved. The resolution was passed because it had been a long meeting and everybody wanted to get out of there," Hildebrand said. "It's partially my fault because I didn't study it more carefully, but he really should have done more research into it because I don't feel the USG members knew enough about it to make a decision on it."

Musgrave, a Southern Illinois native, said the lawsuit was delaying the construction of the proposed Illinois Center, which would provide the type of employment college students needed.

"Part-time, minimum wage mall jobs are desperately needed by SIU students. SIU has the highest percentage of students on financial aid of any state university. We have a lot of students who need to work. These jobs allow them to support themselves and still attend classes," Musgrave said.

Carbondale Councilman Keith Tuxhorn said many students do not have the transportation to travel 15 miles every day and the whole resolution was not well thought out.

Musgrave called for Carbondale to promote business and industrial expansion as well as drop the TIF lawsuit.

"The city of Carbondale is the largest city in the area, which means it should be a cultural leader. It has not been aggressive about this (the lawsuit and economic expansion) in a positive way at all. They've gotten negative press nationally over this. What the students couldn't do with Halloween, the city's done with this lawsuit," Musgrave said.

Tuxhorn disagreed and said it was Marion that was getting the negative press, not Carbondale.

"Carbondale is not the one being sued, Marion is," Tuxhorn said.

Kai Nebel, a Chicago attorney who created the TIF law, called the Marion TIF district an "illegitimate progeny of the statute."

Donny Lockart, MOVE promotions chair, urged non-Greek members to donate because their population is so high that their donations would make a considerable difference.

Ugent said of the blood drive, "It's the best kind of party going on at SIU and we are very proud of it."

came out of the next apartment and they were engulfed in flames," Finch said. "I ain't never seen nobody burned like that before."

Three buildings with about a dozen units in the complex were gutted, and authorities evacuated the remaining units, fearing at the time that the plane might be carrying weapons. But Navy officials said the plane, a low-altitude, low-speed attack fighter that can carry a variety of missiles, had no live munitions aboard.

Smyrna Fire Chief Larry Williams, who initially reported 12 injuries, said shortly before 10 p.m. that only four people, including the pilot, had been injured and there were no reports of fatalities.

Flames from the fire shot 200 feet into the night sky and were visible for several miles. A massive traffic jam soon developed around the crash site.

By 9 p.m., the fire had been doused and authorities began a door-to-door search in the complex. "We don't know yet what's underneath all that debris," Mayor Max Bacon said. "That's what scares us all."

or to West Berlin," said the government announcement issued after the second day of a crucial Central Committee meeting.

As soon as the announcement was issued, East Berliners began arriving at the checkpoints, including the 28-year old Berlin Wall, in small groups, and crowds later gathered along the western side. Easterners and Westerners embraced, opened bottles of champagne and called for the wall to come down.

On the eastern side, cars were backed up for a mile at checkpoints as people waited to drive through, some wanting to visit relatives and others just hoping to get a drink in the West, customs officials said.

But elsewhere the barriers were lifted.

Illinois agency to begin aid for recovering drug abusers

By Diana Mivelli
Staff Writer

The Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse has announced a new program to help recovering substance abusers settle back into society, Tom Green, chief of office of communications for DASA, said.

DASA is accepting applications for loans for recovering substance abusers to open group homes to provide a place for recovering substance abusers to go when treatment is done, Green said. The loans may be used as a down payment for the house, first and last month's rent, furnishings, or any other start-up costs, Green said.

"It is really hard when you are out of treatment to start over," Julie Refine, intern with DASA's office of communications, said.

The loans will be available to recovering substance abusers to provide a home for other substance abusers to share, she said.

"It offers an environment for recovering substance abusers. It isn't for treatment," she said.

As a result of the federal government's 1988 Anti-Drug Abuse Bill, states are required to set aside

Loans may be used for home down-payments, rent, furnishings and other start-up costs.

$100,000 for the Group Home Revolving Fund, Green said.

"Once completing treatment, they may not have the money to get settled. They need to get affordable living arrangements while settling other parts of their life," he said.

Green said this could prevent more people from having a relapse. He said the relapse rate is higher than they would like it to be. He estimated 40 percent of substance abusers who go through treatment do not relapse.

The program is a final step in the continuum of recovery, he said.

He said the Non-profit Financial Assistance Center in Chicago will distribute the funds and receive payments on a monthly basis.

Green said since the program was initiated only one week ago, he did not have names of any interested places in Southern Illinois.

Additional information and loan applications are available by contacting the Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse, the Division of Management and Budget, Office of the Administrator at 312-814-3840.

Lions Telethon will feature celebrities, musical groups

Cratch, Bob Sobo, Gary Weaver and his Band, Don Cross, Stan Gunn and Scotty Henson.

A telethon, co-hosted by actor Clifton Davis of the television show "Amen" and St. Louis sports announcer Mike Shannon, will air on WPSD-Channel 6 from 10 p.m. Saturday until 1 p.m. Sunday.

The 33rd annual Lions Telethon of Stars will benefit Easter Seal Societies in southern Illinois, western Kentucky, southeast Missouri and Tennessee.

Celebrities scheduled to appear on the telethon include St. Louis Cardinal Todd Worrell, Kelly Rutherford of the daytime drama "Generation," and Charlene Brown of TV's "A Different World."

Musical performances will be provided by Jamie Fricke, Gary Jones, The Ramblers, Stephanie Southern Illinois Easter Seals director Tommye Robb said money raised by the telethon is used to fund medical therapy and purchase equipment for disabled children and adults. She said employees at WPSD and members of the Lions Club donate their time to the telethon, maximizing its fundraising potential.

Robb said last year's telethon raised $540,448 in its four-state viewing area and $97,615 for the eleven Southern Illinois counties. She said the telethon has had a steady increase in donations every year.

The Lions Club takes care of the legwork of collecting pledges in its area, she said.

"The money really is returned in the area," she said.

Dance troupe to 'flood' into Shryock

By Carrie Pomeroy
Entertainment Editor

Shimon Braun's jazz dance troupe Waves will flood Shryock Auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday. The group's vibrant combination of dance styles, ranging from break-dancing to ballet, has won it acclaim and sold-out audiences across the globe.

Braun, the founder and main choreographer of Waves, said the 16-member troupe's primary goal is "to uniquely work with the idea of putting jazz dance on the concert stage."

Braun said the troupe, founded in 1981 as an extension of Braun's jazz dance center in Philadelphia, is about "the freedom of creating different kinds of dance without giving any particular names to the work."

The troupe's choreography incorporates dance styles more commonly seen on city streets than on concert stages, such as break-dancing. Braun said he feels "all dance evolves from the street in one form or another." He described dance as a social form of self-expression.

Braun keeps up on new developments in dance in several ways.

"I see concerts, I go to clubs, I see videos, I have a big school with many different teachers, and I pay attention to them," he said.

Braun, a former Israeli gymnastic champion and military veteran and a former student of modern dance teacher Martha Graham, said his varied experiences have contributed to the eclectic nature of "Waves."

"My particular point of view would include my travels, my experiences and everything else," he said.

"Waves," which regularly attracts large audiences, including a recent weeklong, sold-out engagement at the Shubert Theater in Philadelphia, has been accused by critics of pandering to low-brow tastes with its flashy choreography. But Braun said he doesn't consider the term "popular" an insult.

"Just because a lot of people come doesn't mean something's good or bad," he said.

Of all the performing arts, Braun said dance has the most difficulty in attracting large audiences. He said he hoped to see the unusually large audiences Waves draws keep increasing.

Angus cow donated to SIU-C to support beef cattle program

Professor thinks 1,800 pound cow is worth $25,000

By Diana Mivelli
Staff Writer

A 1,800-pound Angus cow was donated to the University about three weeks ago to support SIU-C's beef cattle program, a SIU-C faculty member said.

The cow was donated by Northcote Farms in Forrest, Va., said H.D. Woody, a faculty member in animal science, food and nutrition. She stands at about 60 inches and is very large-framed.

The average weight of an Angus cow is about 1,100 lbs.

An Angus cow is a breed of a beef cow, Woody said. The average weight of a normal Angus cow is about 1,100 lbs., he said. An official appraisal price has not been received yet, but Woody estimates the cow's worth in the area of $25,000.

Woody said he has known the donors of the cow for a very long time and they donated the cow because they liked the program at the University.

He said the cow was bred before the University received it. It will calf in the spring, and her offspring will be used to teach selection and for research, he said.

The cow is at the SIU Farms, located on Union Hills Road, Woody said.

Outdoor sculpture exhibits show student expertise to all

By Katherine Lydon
Staff Writer

A reception for three student-coordinated exhibits, including the first outdoor exhibit at SIU-C, will be held from 6 to 8 tonight at the University Museum.

"Sculpture: In Your Space/Sketches From Their Space," is an outdoor sculpture exhibit in the Faner Hall breezeway between B and C wings. An indoor exhibit consisting of sketches, journals, photos and drafts of the artists, explains their work.

"This is a fantastic sculpture school with so many sculptures, but none that anybody can see," Benjamin Meeker, co-coordinator of the exhibit and graduate student in art and design, said. "The outdoor exhibit is a way to expose people to art."

Meeker said the indoor exhibit demonstrates that "these people also draw and paint."

"The artists are very articulate and fine draftsmen," he said.

The coordinators, Meeker and Teresa Sherekis, "came up with the idea and went through the huge bureaucratic mess" of executing the exhibit, Meeker said.

He said they confronted problems with the outdoor exhibit because it is the first at SIU-C and there were understandable insurance questions.

"Tracking Down Cur Nation: The Development of America's First Transcontinental Railroad" consists of a series of maps of railroad history, photos of people involved in its construction and tools that were used.

Brett Alexander, Peggy Roche, Frances Meeder and Joel Fried

organized the exhibit.

"Human Evolution: Find Your Time" uses six cast skulls in accordance with text and photos, to explain to third through ninth graders, evolution and how our ancestors lived.

The exhibit includes hunting techniques, tools, homes and art,

Shalo Wingo, junior in anthropology, said.

"The exhibit uses interaction to help them understand evolution," Wingo said.

"Anybody who is interested in the unknown and where you come from would want to come see the exhibit," Wingo said.

Wolf Sanctuary T-Shirt

15% of the proceeds from our Wolf Sanctuary T-shirt will be donated to a variety of wolf sanctuaries functioning nationwide.

Selected as "Best winter wolfprint" our sanctuary scene focuses on an Alpha male and female living safe and free in the Colorado Rockies. It is here that our illustration was exclusively designed and hand silk-screened in five separate colors. White, gray and black combine in detailed variation to establish the full silver pelage. Gold couples the sparkle of stars with magnetic clarity in the eyes of the wolves. Mystery howls to the moon - the mountains, and settles on the Colorado signature in teal.

HELP SAVE THE WOLVES

Wearing your wolf shirt represents freedom from endangerment (within the sanctuary) which you, personally, are helping to provide for the original, limited edition of man's best friend, the wolf.

Dukakis asks public to give Kitty privacy

BOSTON (UPI) — Gov. Michael Dukakis asked the public Thursday to respect his wife's plea for "privacy and space so that she can continue with her recovery" from chemical dependency and depression that led to her hospitalization this week.

In his first public statement since his wife, Kitty, 52, was hospitalized Monday night with a severe reaction to drinking a "very small amount of rubbing alcohol," Dukakis reaffirmed his love for his wife after "a very difficult week for Kitty and me and for our family. And it's been a difficult year."

"I love Kitty. I'm going to stand by her, just as she's always stood by me. We're in this thing together."

"She continues to feel better and better," the governor said after visiting with her at Brigham & Women's Hospital.

Dukakis, who friends have said is "devastated" by his wife's latest medical problems, urged the news media and the public to respect her privacy.

"Our thanks go out to all of you whose love and concern and prayers have helped to make a real difference. I want to make a very special plea: please respect Kitty's wishes for privacy and space so she can continue with her recovery.

Kitty Dukakis, a recovering alcoholic and drug abuser, was taken to the hospital by ambulance Monday night suffering from a combination of flu-like symptoms, exhaustion, depression and the ingestion of "a very small amount of rubbing alcohol," said her doctor, Gerald Plotkin.

Plotkin said Kitty Dukakis "is completely out of danger" while she, her family and physicians weigh the proper treatment.

Plotkin did not say whether the rubbing alcohol was taken intentionally, nor was he precise about the amount taken.

"Kitty has suffered from chemical dependency and struggled with depression for many years. These two problems are often related," Plotkin said, noting that she has taken anti-depressants prescribed by a psychiatrist during the period "immediately prior to her hospitalization Monday."

Her hospitalization occurred after a grueling three-week speaking tour through Indiana.

Alzheimer's could affect four million

BOSTON (UPI) — Alzheimer's disease, an incurable brain disorder that destroys mental powers, appears to be much more common than previously thought and may afflict up to 4 million Americans, experts said Thursday.

A "disturbing" new study involving 3,623 elderly Boston residents indicates previous estimates that about 2.5 million Americans suffer from Alzheimer's are far too low.

"I think it means that we've got to do something to deal with the disease," said Dr. Denis Evans, of Brigham and Women's Hospital, who reported his findings in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Alzheimer's disease — the nation's fourth leading killer — is a degenerative brain condition that slowly but inexorably destroys thinking skills and eventually leaves victims unable to care for themselves.

The elderly: Staying young on the inside

Elderly spend joyful days at care center

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

The patter of feet still echo through the halls of the old Springmore Elementary School in Carbondale. Art work hangs on the walls. The lunchroom smells of cafeteria food.

But at the old Springmore Elementary School, it is the students who do the teaching, for the students of Springmore have more than 60 years of life, experience and emotion to share with anyone who walks through the brown, steel doors.

For many Jackson County senior citizens, the old Springmore school is a home away from home, a place to meet with other senior citizens or a noon meal.

"IF WE DIDN'T come here, we wouldn't have no where else to go," said Edna Rosemand, adult day care senior.

Rosemand and a hundred other senior citizens come daily to the Jackson County Senior Services Center, which makes its home in the old Springmore school building at 409 N. Springer in Carbondale.

"I come here about every day to meet with friends and eat lunch," Mary Hogue said. "It's a nice gathering and the food is mostly good."

The Senior Center operates with less than $500,000 a year from state and federal funding through the Department of Aging, the Egyptian Area Agency on Aging and the Federal Older Americans Act.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
Vernel Hannan Huckelberry oversees the Carbondale center and five satellite sites in Southern Illinois.

seniors," Huckelberry said.

For the senior citizens who make it to the center in Carbondale, they find a variety of social programs and activities.

The center has a crafts room, a workshop and a meeting room for seniors to participate in a variety of activities including woodcarving, pinocle, bridge, quilting and ceramics.

"It's very important for older people to remain active," Huckelberry said. "They stay young because they are doing things."

THE GOLDEN GOOSE lunch program provides seniors with a hot lunch at noon, Monday through Friday. The meals range from lasagna, fried chicken, sirloin tips and ham and beans to beef and noodles, meat loaf and veal cutlet. Part of the meals are paid for through donations by the senior citizens, Huckelberry said.

Homebound seniors are provided with meals through the Meals on Wheels home delivery program. Volunteers take meals to senior citizens who are unable to come to the center or prepare their own meals.

"The seniors apply for the meals and a social worker assesses the situation," Huckelberry said.

EXPANDING THE home-delivered meal program to include more seniors in rural Jackson County is something Huckelberry said she would like to see done through the senior center.

"Although there is a tendency in smaller towns for people to look out for each other," Huckelberry said, "what services are provided are clustered around bigger populations."

The center also provides transportation for seniors age 60 or older, who cannot or do not want to drive. Huckelberry said transportation is one of the biggest problems many senior citizens

Groups stand by for Alzheimer's

Like families who lose a photograph album in a fire, more than 2.5 million American Alzheimer's disease victims daily lose a part of themselves that can never be replaced.

Alzheimer's attacks the nerve endings of the outer layer of the brain, causing loss of communication and body functions.

The disease, which is not a normal phase of aging, progresses from three to 20 years and usually results in death.

And Alzheimer's not only makes victims of the people it attacks, but also of the family members left to watch an elderly person revert to childhood, both physically and mentally.

Herbert Portz, emeritus professor in plant and soil science, leads the Southern Illinois chapter of the Alzheimer's Disease Association to help caregivers of Alzheimer's disease victims, including himself. Portz's wife, Elizabeth is victim of Alzheimer's disease.

The goals of the chapter are to work with support groups and raise money for Alzheimer's disease research, Portz said.

"Our motto is 'Someone to Stand By You,' and our mission is to work with local caregivers, exchanging ideas and educating," he said.

Southern Illinois has four support groups for Alzheimer's patients and their families. Portz said that number is too small.

"We don't ask for help. We think we can handle it. We can't," he said.

As the disease progresses and the caregiver, such as the victim's spouse, son or daughter, can no longer care for the person, Portz said the family often is faced with placing the victim in adult day care, as he does with his wife, or in a nursing home.

Portz and his wife also participate in a state research program at the SIU School of Medicine in Springfield.

The Regional Alzheimer's Disease Assistance Center is one of two state centers that researches the disease, operates a clinic for Alzheimer's patients, educates the public about the disease and offers counseling for family members.

Mary Barringer, clinical coordinator at the SIU Alzheimer's clinic, said the clinic diagnoses Alzheimer's patients through an extensive evaluation that includes a physical and neurological examination, a neuro-psychological assessment, a complete psychiatric evaluation and/or laboratory tests.

"We obviously can't look inside the brain and see what is going on, so we follow them over a period of time because Alzheimer's is a progressive disease," she said.

Barringer said 66 percent of the patients at the clinic are diagnosed as having Alzheimer's, 20 percent as having had strokes or vascular dementia and the others as having related disorders.

Along with the clinic, the Alzheimer's Center operates a program that researches theories for the cause of the disease and possible treatment.

Mark Raber, public information specialist at the School of Medicine, said the center and 14 laboratories throughout the school are researching drugs that have shown some effect in slowing deterioration of the brain.

"But no drug right now will reverse the effects of the disease, only slow it down," Raber said.

The SIU clinic, which opened in February 1985, is responsible for 92 counties outside of Chicago.

Barringer said that because the Springfield clinic cannot see everybody in Illinois, it sets up provider sites throughout Illinois, including the one at Memorial Hospital in Carbondale.—Jackie Spinner

Elderly abuse: Showing no

When an angry fist or a greedy, uncaring hand turns on an elderly adult, that adult joins a growing number of victims of elderly abuse in Illinois.

The Illinois Department on Aging began a statewide program last month to fight elderly abuse in Illinois by calling on citizens to voluntarily report cases of abuse against older Americans.

The Elder Abuse and Neglect Program targets Southern Illinois including Jackson, Perry, Franklin, Williamson, Saline, Gallatin, Pope, Hardin, Johnson, Union, Alexander, Pulaski and Massac counties to offer services to victims of elderly abuse through the Egyptian Area Agency on Aging.

Through a pilot program conducted in the 13 counties and three other targeted areas of Illinois, the Department on Aging determined that the most frequent types of abuse to the elderly are physical abuse, confinement, sexual abuse, deprivation, financial exploitation and psychological and verbal abuse.

Patsy Jensen, Shawnee Alliance for Seniors director, said in Southern Illinois, financial exploitation occurs in 72 percent of the abuse cases the organization investigates.

Financial exploitation occurs when the caregiver of the elderly person takes the older person's money, wipes out money from a joint account or misuses the money.

If contacted, Jensen said Shawnee Alliance can take steps to eliminate the financial exploitation.

"First, we can get the social security check set up for direct deposit. If the caregiver is on a joint checking account, we have (him) removed and we can set up a payment plan for paying the bills," Jensen said.

According to a study done by the Department of Aging, 72 percent of the 90 percent were white victims were widowed.

The study also showed alleged victims, the abused homes either living others (44 percent).

"Caring for an older person is a job," Jensen explained. "When it happens."

Margery Kemp, Cass Shawnee Alliance for Seniors in dealing with elderly abuse, said intervening agency has abused to correct the situation.

When the Shawnee Alliance about an alleged case of cases for them, but still actions, even bad ones.

"As soon as you put it protect the elderly, you decisions," she added.

Jensen said the elderly abuse because of the person in a nursing home.

According to the Department representatives such as paraprofessionals receive elderly abuse 50 percent reported the alleged abuse.

Other relatives reported 1 of the cases and children. Reports of abuse are to Seniors at 1-800-642-

HELP SENIORS with transportation needs, the center vans between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., and transports seniors to appointments, lunch at the center and shopping malls. A dispatcher at the center arranges the transportation and takes care of driving rides.

For more dependent seniors, the center manages an adult day care program called "Elder-Wise." The program, which has been running since 1979, assists the participants with activities of daily living, gives them something to do so they can then be helped with medical problems or whatever just be with someone," coordinator Liz Schill said.

CKELBERRY SAID the program averages between 15 and 20 participants. The people who come to the program, she said, are part-time care because they had strokes or simply are unable to drive.

The day care facilities contain a television, fireplace, recliners, a multi-purpose room with a television and game room, dining rooms. It also has an open, licensed beauty shop, restrooms and handicapped accessible bathrooms.

Usually they are safer here alone," Schill said. "They don't feel well, they are safer here than at home," she said.

Etta Kirby came to the program almost a month ago and he likes it enough to stick with it. Kirby said he loves coming to the program because he has a lot and had the chance to play with everyone how to play pool.

"A nurse told me this morning, 'You got to stop going to work so much,' and I just told her to go," he said.

For Nellie Kaslo, above, Chicago 1942 was the best time of her life because she felt better. "Growing old. It's when you have strokes and can't get well. There is no cure."

Ethel Jordan, left, wakes up her roommate, Letitia Taucher, above left, with her radio every morning. But together, the two enjoy reminiscing about the past along with other residents of Carbondale Manor. Jordan helps pass the time with some crocheting, while Taucher has fun with whoever happens to be there for her, which in this case was with a Daily Egyptian photographer.

Seniors find solace in remembering the past

In the backyard of the University, tucked away from dreams of the future and shadowed by youthful successes, six Carbondale Manor residents are living day to day, dreaming of tomorrow and realizing it doesn't always come.

"I never did think I was going to get old until I was put in here," nursing home resident Letitia Taucher said.

Since she can no longer take care of herself, Taucher calls on the care of the nursing home staff at Carbondale Manor, 500 S. Lewis Lane and her roommate, 81-year-old Ethel Mae Jordan.

"I know her better than I know myself," Taucher said. "Sometimes when we are going to bed and we are both in bed, we just talk for an hour."

And like many roommates Jordan and Taucher don't always agree on everything.

"Every morning she wakes me up turning on that little, old radio, every morning," Taucher said.

Together Jordan and Taucher enjoy reminiscing about the past along with the other residents of Carbondale Manor.

Marty McLaughlin, Carbondale Manor's psychosocial programming coordinator, holds reminiscent groups for the residents, which allow residents to talk about their pasts.

"Unfortunately their future doesn't have very much to offer," McLaughlin said. "The past is the best times of their lives."

Resident Nellie Kaslo said Chicago 1942 was the best time of her life because she felt better.

For many of the residents, feeling bad, illness and immobility make growing old difficult.

"Growing old. It's when you have strokes and can't get well. There is no cure," Kaslo said.

Jordan said being crippled means she can't be as active as she was in the past.

"I feel if I wasn't crippled right now, I would be as active as ever," she explained.

Staff Photos by Hung Vu

For Chester Johnson, getting older doesn't necessarily mean growing old. "I don't get younger," he said. "I don't feel my age and everyone thinks I'm young."

For Chester Johnson, getting older doesn't necessarily mean growing old. "I don't get younger," he said. "I don't feel my age and everyone thinks I'm young."

"I love playing bingo and helping the older people," Johnson said.

Irene Townley, Carbondale Manor resident, said part of the secret to staying young is keeping busy.

Carbondale Manor offers the residents opportunities to participate in such activities as singing, group therapy and arts and crafts.

"If you keep active, time flies," Jordan said.

Most of the Manor residents appeared cheerful and happy as they watched television, sang songs and sat quietly by themselves.

"Seventy percent of the residents understand their need to be here and the other 30 percent are too confused to even understand," McLaughlin said.

Ruby Ahner said she doesn't like living in the nursing home because she always has to be around people.

"I'm trying to find another place to stay. I don't like it," she said.

But Jordan, Taucher, Johnson and Townley couldn't find anything bad to say about the nursing home.

"If you are going to be in one, this is it," Taucher said.

McLaughlin said when a family has exhausted all other resources for caring for an elderly person, nursing home placement is often the route to take.

While the nursing staff cares for the physical well-being of the residents, McLaughlin helps the residents deal with their emotional health.

"They have to learn to cope with that reality that they are going to die," McLaughlin said. "They've seen death with a loss of a loved one, loss of peers and when they are hurting bad enough, they are ready to move on."

She said many of the residents dwell on faith and belief in a supreme being to help them realize their own mortality.

Man charged with attempting to exchange LSD for tickets

HOUSTON (UPI) — A man who hoped to trade drugs for tickets to the Rolling Stones concert made a poor choice when he tried to do business with an undercover policeman.

"You know that song by Kris Kristofferson, 'Blame it on the Stones'? Well, this guy can really blame it on the Stones," said Pasadena police spokeswoman Betty Parks.

Thomas M. Fagan, 27, was arrested on narcotics and assault charges and was jailed during the Wednesday night concert he had hoped to attend.

Fagan answered a newspaper ad Tuesday for a pair of tickets to the Stones concert. The ad was placed by police Sgt. James Zink, who said Fagan offered to exchange drugs for one ticket because he had no money.

Zink agreed to meet Fagan at a restaurant for an exchange of 25 doses of LSD for the $32 ticket.

"He was real surprised," Zink said of Fagan's reaction to being arrested. "He said, 'I can't believe you're doing this.' He thought I was a dope fiend, but I wasn't. He thought he'd be sitting next to me at the concert."

Fagan was charged with aggravated assault after he kicked an officer in the head and chest. He was jailed in lieu of $30,000.

Zink described Fagan as a transient who carries his belongings in a backpack.

Illinois Bell customers to face increase

Proposal marks beginning for new phase of regulation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois Commerce Commission Thursday ordered Illinois Bell Telephone Co. to decrease rates by $46 million around the state, but both the phone company and a watchdog group said downstate residential customers actually will pay 21 percent more over the next three years.

The order, which passed on a 6-1 vote, will force most Bell customers around the state to pay bills on a per-call basis. It will also raise the monthly access fee for most downstate customers by $3 a month in the next three years and implement a plan for Bell to share profits with ratepayers.

Even though downstate residential ratepayers will see bills substantially increase, businesses all over Illinois that use Bell are expected to see about an 8 percent decrease in their bills.

This is the first major rate decision for three newly-appointed ICC commissioners. Terry Barnich, Lynn Shishido-Topel and Ellen Craig were appointed to the commission last month but have yet to be approved by the state Senate.

The draft order would reduce service for Bell customers in the "Greater Illinois Area" by 1992, including Rockford, Rock Island, Peoria, Champaign-Danville, Springfield-Decatur, and East St. Louis-Centralia. Other parts of the plan would also affect the Chicago area, according to the order.

With measured service, ratepayers in the Chicago area would see bills go up slightly the first year.

Most Illinois Bell customers around the state will be forced to pay bills on a per-call basis, and downstate customers will pay an extra $3 a month in the next three years.

Bell rates by $45.8 million, and would also require the utility to share with customers any profit earned over 12.5 percent. When it first filed the rate case in December 1988, Bell had asked for a rate increase of up to $50 million, said ICC spokeswoman Beth Bosch.

The order also would allow Bell to impose measured, or per-call, downstate customers could see increases as high as 21 percent three years into the plan, according to CUB estimates.

Both Bell and the CUB said they opposed the proposal. James Smith, Bell's division manager for regulatory rates, said the cap was too restrictive.

"It is too low considering the competitive nature of the industry we're in," Smith said.

Monte Tarbox, CUB's legislative director, said the proposal would come at the expense of the consumer and might open the floodgates for other companies seeking increased profits through sharing plans.

"This will mark the beginning of a new phase of regulation where we'll see a lot of excess earnings," Tarbox said.

Tarbox said CUB is particularly concerned about the measured service proposal, which would eliminate flat-rate monthly charges for local calls in many communities.

"It's kind of like having a pay phone in your house," Tarbox said. "You feel like the meter's running every time you make a phone call."

In early 1988, Bell agreed to reduce rates by $85 million to repay customers from 1986 tax reform benefits. But the company changed its mind in December and asked the ICC to raise rates by $50 million.

Equestrian club keeps riding

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

Some students complain that having an 8 a.m. class is too early in the morning for them, but not the members of the SIU-C equestrian team. Their day begins with practice promptly at 5 a.m.

On any given day, team members can be found receiving instruction in hunt seat and stock seat riding at the LaCheval de Boskydell or Nance's Ranch stables.

Equestrian Team coach Myke Ramsey explained the equestrians are judged on how they handle their horse while performing different tasks.

The hunt seat (or English) on the flat involves maneuvering the horses through different patterns in a walk, jog or lope. In hunt seat over fences, the riders perform a series of jumps.

In the stock seat (or Western) the riders maneuver the horses in a walk, trot or canter.

The difference between the two styles of riding is the type of saddle used. Ramsey said the hunt seat is designed more for fox hunting and jumping activities whereas the stock seat is more of a "working" saddle associated with cowboys.

Ramsey said that each rider was "leveled" into his or her riding category — novice, intermediate or open.

"The riders are leveled by a combination of their riding ability and past show experience," said Ramsey. "Each level is progressively harder than the one before it," Ramsey said.

"Novice is designed for the beginning rider that has had a limited amount of instruction," said Ramsey. "An open rider is expected to handle a green horse or a spooky horse."

Ramsey said the more experienced riders are expected to do more when being judged. "The riders are asked to do difficult moves, show greater proficiency in how they handle the horses," Ramsey said.

Kelly Waldo, freshman in animal science and equestrian team member, said she is gaining valuable experience by being on the team.

"I have learned more in the last semester than I have in two years at home," Waldo said. "We have highly qualified instructors—Jill and Mark O'Donahue, who are hunt seat instructors, and Sandy Nance, stock seat."

"It is a very grueling schedule. We leave between 5 and 6 o'clock in the mornings and travel anywhere from six to eight hours."

—Myke Ramsey

"They are interested in (students') personal achievements. They don't teach towards competition, they teach towards instruction, to become better," Waldo said. "They tell you what you are doing wrong and how to do it right and give you an explanation of why it is the right way to do it."

Ramsey said each person is required to take private lessons along with the regular practice schedule.

Ramsey said the equestrians will be busy competing this weekend. They travel to Morehead State University and Lexington, Ky. They also will travel to Midway College in Chicago.

"We will be at Morehead State University showing stock seat Friday night, Saturday in Lexington we will have hunt seat in the morning and stock seat in the afternoon, and Sunday we will be at Midway College for hunt seat," said Ramsey.

Ramsey said the weekends usually consist of four separate shows rolled into one.

"It is a very grueling schedule.

We leave between 5 and 6 o'clock in the mornings and travel anywhere from six to eight hours," Ramsey said. "We go into a four to five-hour show that same night."

"After being on their feet all day, helping teammates and other schools, being on a horse for two or three classes, really takes a toll on everyone," Ramsey said.

Ramsey said the team doesn't bring their own horses to the meets, the host school provides all the mounts. When the team arrives, each contestant draws for the horse they will ride in the competition.

"The kids live with the pressure of the draw," said Ramsey. "They start getting nervous about what horse's name is going to come out of the envelope."

Deanna Gegenheimer, freshman in psychology and stock seat rider, said the only way to know what kind of a horse you have drawn is to speak with a trainer.

"Each horse has a horse handler from that school," Gegenheimer said. "They give you hints on the horse. That's the only thing you have to go on."

"We don't get any practice time with the horses," Gegenheimer said. "You can get disqualified if you ride the horse before the competition."

NBC pays NBA $600 million for four-year television pact

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC, which last year lost a bidding war with CBS for major league baseball, will pay $600 million for television rights to NBA games starting next season.

The network and the league Thursday said the 4-year pact is worth more than triple the $176 million CBS is paying the league. CBS, which bid more than $1 billion last year to win the baseball rights, has been televising NBA games since 1973.

"CBS regrets the loss of the NBA broadcast rights after a 17-year relationship." CBS Sports President Neal Pilson said in a statement. "However, the increase in the total cost of the package, from $176 million to approximately $650 million for the next four years, was substantially more than we were prepared to pay."

NBC, which last televised pro basketball in 1960, scheduled a 2:30 p.m. EST news conference to announce more details of the deal. Initial plans have NBC televising 20 regular-season games and up to 30 playoff games.

Cross country squads to compete in districts for berth at nationals

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The Saluki men and women's cross country teams will run against some of the country's top competition at Terre Haute, Ind. Saturday in the NCAA District Five Championships.

Both teams are coming off second-place finishes in their respective conference meets two weeks ago.

Saluki men's Coach Bill Cornell said his team is going into the meet with an optimistic attitude.

"We're going into the meet thinking we have a shot at qualifying for nationals," Cornell said. "It's an outside shot, but the kids are feeling good."

The top three teams in the district meet qualify for Nationals. Iowa State, ranked No. 1 in the nation, and No. 6 Nebraska appear to be favorites going into the meet.

Cornell said the third at-large berth could be up for grabs between Kansas, Kansas State, Illinois State and SIU-C.

In addition to the three qualifying teams, three additional runners will qualify for nationals. These runners will be from teams not finishing in the top three.

District five includes the Missouri Valley and Big 8 Conferences (except Colorado). In addition to these teams, Oral Roberts, Northern Iowa and Southwest Missouri complete the 18-team field.

Last season the Salukis finished 11th in district competition. Former Saluki Jon Dennis finished seventh and advanced to the NCAA championships where he finished 55th overall.

Coach Don DeNoon's women's team also will see top-notch competition Saturday.

Included in the women's field are Nebraska, ranked No. 5 in the nation, No. 6 Oklahoma and No. 10 Kansas State.

"I would like to have our athletes to do the best they can," DeNoon said. "The experience they gain in this meet could help them be competitive for future years. I'd love to see one of our kids qualify for nationals, but it's not important."

The Salukis didn't compete in the district meet last season.

"I figured after finishing sixth in the conference meet, we really didn't need to send anyone to district," DeNoon said.

Both Saluki teams competed at Terre Haute in the Indiana State Invitational Oct. 7.

"The kids know the course and had decent performances," DeNoon said. "That could be a confidence booster."

Smith is second with 196.

Gabbert did not play last week and will not play against Northern Iowa this Saturday because of a shoulder injury sustained against in the Salukis' 54-12 victory over Kentucky State Oct. 28.

Gabbert finished the season with 1,338 yards in the air. He completed 125 of 222 attempts for 10 touchdowns, nine interceptions and a .563 completion percentage.

Gibson will start the Salukis' final game of the year against Northern Iowa Saturday and will be backed up by freshman Brandon Prenger and junior Scott Planz.

Head coach Bob Smith said a definite second-stringer has not been named but both are able to give the Salukis a chance to win a game.

"I don't think anyone would throw in the towel if either of them came running out on the field," Smith said.

"We will kind of feel how the game is going," Smith said. "Prenger is a little ahead on throwing the deep ball and Planz is ahead on being level-headed and executing the whole offense."

If Prenger does play he will not be able to redshirt this season.

Orange Bowl to host Series

MIAMI (UPI) — The Caribbean Baseball Series, the championship event for winter leagues in three countries and Puerto Rico, will move to Miami's Orange Bowl in February, organizers announced Thursday.

The series, which began in 1949 and lapsed from 1960-1970 after the Communist takeover in Cuba, will be played on a round-robin basis by championship teams from leagues in the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Venezuela. Several teams in each league have major league players on their rosters.

The seven-day series has been rotated in past years among the four locations, and except for the years it has been played in Mexico has experienced occasional financial and attendance problems.

"One of the problems has been that if the home team has a bad start, the fans don't come," said Carlos Isava of Venezuela, co-chairman of the series, who has been working for four years to bring it to Miami.

He also said in the years when interest is high, the stadiums are not big enough to handle the crowds.

Rick Horrow, president of Horrow Sports Ventures, one of the organizers, said the configuration of the Orange Bowl for baseball was still under consideration.

The football stadium is laid out in such a way that no matter where the baseball field is placed, one of the outfield fences will be closer to home plate than is acceptable by most baseball standards.

"The dimensions of the field are being worked on," Horrow said.

Blyleven wins award

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — California's Bert Blyleven, who led the American League in shutouts and nine times won following an Angels' loss, Thursday was named United Press International's American League Comeback Player of the Year.

Blyleven received 11 of 25 votes from a panel of UPI baseball correspondents. Bret Saberhagen of Kansas City was second with 6 votes and Boston's Nick Esasky was third with 2.

Acquired by the Angels in a trade with Minnesota last November, Blyleven rebounded from a 10-17 record in 1988 to go 17-5. The right-hander, who turned 38 in July, lowered his ERA from a career-high 5.43 to 2.73 — fourth best in the league.

"The biggest thing was the health factor," Blyleven said. "My thumb (strained ligaments) didn't give me any problems."

Blyleven, who had five shutouts, admitted the Angels gambled "Probably yes," he said. "But given my track record and the type of person I am, they knew they were getting a fierce competitor."

Blyleven pitched into the seventh inning 27 times and registered career strikeout No. 3,500 against Baltimore July 13.

White Sox make trade

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox acquired infielder Tracy Woodson from the Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday in exchange for pitcher Jeff Bitiger.

Woodson, 27, has a .235 career major league average. He appeared in four games with the Dodgers last year and went 0-6.

In 89 games with Los Angeles' Triple-A club at Albuquerque last season, he hit .292 with 14 home runs and 99 RBI in 325 at bats. He hit .228 for the Dodgers in 53 games in 1987, and .249 in 64 games in 1988.

The White Sox said the first baseman/third baseman will be put on their major league roster.

Bitiger was 2-5 in his career with Chicago, going 0-1 in 1989 in two appearances. He spent most of the season at Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League, where he was 9-5 with a 2.12 ERA, with four shutouts and six complete games.

Bitiger has also spent time in the majors with Philadelphia and Minnesota, compiling a 4-6 career record. He has been added to the Albuquerque roster.

Smith expects big offensive finale

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Playing indoors at the UNI-Dome against Northern Iowa Saturday, the Saluki offense and kicking game gets a chance to flourish in the season finale.

"There is no wind factor," Saluki head coach Bob Smith said. "The kicking game and the passing game should be at its best."

Smith said the Salukis will be at a disadvantage playing inside for the first time this season.

"The crowd noise will be a factor," Smith said. "That is something our kids will not be accustomed to, being indoors. Practicing in the University of Iowa facility will help us in getting used to passing, kickoffs and punts."

The Salukis will visit the Big 10 school to workout Friday afternoon to practice before continuing to Northern Iowa that night.

Smith said the Panthers have a speedy secondary which will present the Saluki offense with problems.

"What we are going to have to do is throw the ball downfield deep and hit on a few of them," Smith said. "We have to launch a few to loosen them up so we can do the things we have done best all year — throw the high-percentage screens and passes over the middie."

The Panther air attack is led by quarterback Ken Macklin who has thrown for 1,576 yards this season, completing 119 of 211 passes. He has thrown for 11 touchdowns with 13 interceptions.

Smith said Macklin has the best ball release the Salukis have seen this season.

"He is one of those guys that just heats up and away he goes," Smith said. "We've got to bring a big pass rush and our secondary will have to have another big game."

Terry Allen, Panther head coach, said he is expecting an aerial show from both teams.

"It's going to be a great ball game," Allen said. "Both teams will be anxious to throw and this (UNI-Dome) is a great place to do it. The game could be a real circus."

Allen said the winner of game will be determined by the number of turnovers involved in the game.

"The team that eliminates the turnovers will be the team that wins the game," Allen said.

Last week the Salukis turned the ball over five times in a 35-24 loss to Indiana State. Quarterback Fred Gibson threw three interceptions and the Salukis fumbled four times, losing two.

The Panthers, 6-3, need a victory to keep their playoff chances alive.

Last week Illinois State upset the Panthers 32-13. With a victory over the Salukis and another over Eastern Washington next week there still is a chance for postseason play.

"If we play hard for four quarters and keep it close, the thing that will win the game will be special teams," Smith said.

"The kicking game emphasis will be monstrous," Smith said. "We have got to shake loose some people on the kickoff and punt return. Our protection and coverage has to be superb."

Third Saluki QB could see action

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

The Salukis lead the Gateway Conference in passing offense on the performance of two quarterbacks. This week a third may be added to the list.

Scott Gabbert and Fred Gibson have combined for 2,410 yards on 224 completions in 396 attempts to lead the league. Eastern Illinois ranks second with 1,931 yards on 164 of 281.

The Saluki arms also lead in touchdown passes (16) and yards passing per game (24)

Despite playing in only six games, Gabbert leads the league in individual total offense with 216 yards per game. Southwest Missouri State's quarterback DeAndre

Women basketballers ink Kentucky prep star

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

Saluki women's basketball coach Cindy Scott received the No. 1 gift on her wish list Thursday.

On the second day of the early signing period, the Salukis signed 5-9 guard Karen Powell from Lancaster, Ky. Powell becomes the Salukis' first signee during the NCAA early signing period, which began Wednesday and ends Nov. 15.

Powell, the No. 4 all-time scorer (1,044 points) and school record holder in three-point shooting for Garrard County High School, was coveted by the Saluki coaching staff since this summer.

"Karen is a quality person and a good student from a wonderful family," Scott said. "She is goal-oriented with an idea of what she wants to do in life. Karen wants a college degree and wants to have an impact in a quality program that could be successful."

A 1989 Honorable Mention All-State pick, Powell averaged 19.4 points per game this past

Spikers squeak by Eastern, hoping 'winds' blow friendly

Brackins plays final home game, drives home 34 kills

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

The Saluki spikers edged Eastern Illinois by the skin of their teeth 15-9, 15-5, 8-15, 14-16 and 15-12 Thursday night to close out their home schedule.

With the win, the Salukis are virtually guaranteed a fourth seed in the Gateway conference, depending on the Western Illinois Westwinds.

If the Westwinds win both of their games this weekend, they will have a playoff game against the Salukis to determine the fourth seed.

Southern came out strong and won the first two games 15-9 and 15-5.

In third game the Salukis seemed to lose the wind in their sails as Eastern jumped out to a 8-3 lead. The Panthers went on to win 15-8.

Saluki coach Patu Hagemeyer said a combination of Eastern's "unorthodox style of play" and Southern's lack of concentration added to their downfall.

"There were times Eastern didn't jump at the net to hit the ball," Hagemeyer said. "It caught us off guard. We weren't ready for it."

Hagemeyer said despite Southern's heavy hitters, the Panther's unusual defense won out.

"(Eastern) has a good defense, but no technique," Hagemeyer said. "They would just stick an arm out and hit the ball."

The Panthers also took the fourth game, 16-14, from the Salukis.

Senior Nina Brackins soars for a spike in the first game against Eastern Illinois in Davies Gymnasium Thursday night. The Salukis won the match in five games.

Hagemeyer said she didn't know what else to tell her team to get them going.

"I had run out of things to say," she said. "All I could do was to tell them to play."

And play they did. The Salukis came alive and began to play in the fifth game.

The Salukis jumped out to a 12-6 lead. The Panthers came back to within three at 13-10. The Salukis had three game and match point opportunities before freshman middle blocker Dana Olden served the match-clinching point to give the Salukis a 15-12 victory.

Amy Johnson, junior middle blocker for the Salukis, had a career-high 29 kills.

Senior Nina Brackins, who received a standing ovation from the crowd of 363 people before the match, nearly moved into third place as the No.3 all-time Saluki kill leader.

Brackins came up two kills short of the 36 kills needed to take away the No.3 kill spot from Mary Maxwell, who has 1125.

The Salukis took off directly after the match to the two day non-conference Memphis State Invitational.

Herrin speculates on signing early recruits

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

Although there is only a limited time during the early signing period the Salukis can sign a recruit, men's basketball head coach Rich Herrin remains optimistic.

Herrin is looking toward the possibility of signing one or two unnamed recruits during the early period, which lasts Nov. 8-15.

The Salukis are looking to replace seniors Jerry Jones (center) and Freddie McSwain (shooting guard) while adding to the overall depth of the ballclub.

"We have five scholarships available," Herrin said. "I think we can take one for each position. Sometimes you don't get that. We need a strong block player (center). We need a good athlete who could play the three or four (small or power forward). We need a good shooting guard and a point guard."

"We could use all of those," Herrin said. "You just have to recruit and hope you bring in better players each time."

Herrin possibly will tap into the junior college network while looking for high school seniors talented enough to make an impact as freshmen.

The early signing period flew past without any signings for the Salukis last year.
