Bush reneges on worldwide treaty

U.S. will continue production of chemical weapons after ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States intends to continue producing chemical weapons even after a new global treaty authorizing their destruction takes effect. The Washington Post reported Monday.

The newspaper said President Bush decided to continue chemical weapons production following an unusually secretive policy review.

Bush announced in a speech before the U.N. General Assembly Sept. 25 that he favored immediate steps to halt and reverse the worldwide threat of chemical weapons.

In that speech, Bush said the United States is ready to eliminate 98 percent of its chemical weapons immediately if the Soviet Union joins in cutting poison gas to an equal and verifiable level. Bush also said the United States will "destroy all of its chemical weapons — 100 percent," within 10 years if all other nations capable of building chemical weapons agree to do the same.

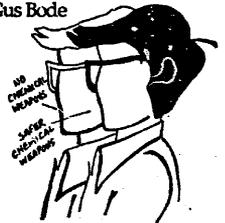

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze told the United Nations the day following Bush's speech that he favored an immediate halt to poison gas production. The Post reported that several officials said Shevardnadze was not informed of Bush's position during his extensive consultations on chemical arms with Secretary of State James Baker in Wyoming.

White House officials Monday basically confirmed the thrust of the report but insisted that the United States has always said it would continue to improve chemical weapons as long as there is a residual stockpile so the United States will be safe.

Officials insisted this was made clear in background sessions with reporters at the time of Bush's U.N. speech. They also said that Shevardnadze was informed of the U.S. intention to modernize weapons during the eight years until there is total destruction.

NORML not affected by arrests

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

Two arrests made at Friday's rally of the Southern Illinois chapter of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws should not affect the group's goal to become a registered student organization, NORML's president said.

Two arrests were made at 611 Pizza, 611 S. Illinois Ave., Lieutenant Jerry Reno of the Carbondale Police Department, said.

The rally was moved from its original location at the Free Forum area because of rain.

David Paul Vick, 33, of Ossian, Ind., was arrested for unlawful use of a weapon, Reno said. Police alleged he was carrying a knife so it was visible to officers, he said.

Charles Darren Richardson, 25, of Carbondale, was arrested for obstructing a peace officer, Reno said. He said Richardson interfered with police officers attempting to question a subject at 611 Pizza. Richardson is the sports editor at the Daily Egyptian.

Richardson said he was driving on South Illinois Avenue and observed Vick being arrested. He stopped to

Carnival site permit OK'd by Council

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Plans for the Halloween Carnival moved forward last week when the Carbondale City Council gave its approval to the Chamber of Commerce to locate the carnival on New Era Road.

The council gave unanimous approval to the chamber's request for the permit, but a formal (favorable) vote will be taken during the next council on Oct. 17, Steve Hoffner, city manager said.

Hoffner said James Prowell, executive director of the chamber, requested the council indicate its feelings toward the project so the chamber would know how to proceed.

The property, owned by Dan Parrish and located behind Aldi, Dairy Queen and Bonanza on Route 13, is owned by Dan Parrish and is located outside the city limits, Prowell said in a letter to city officials.

"Although this property is outside the city limits, a permit is required because it falls within a mile-and-a-half area jurisdiction of the city's zoning ordinance," Hoffner said.

The carnival permit will be issued for 10 days, and the carni-

Homecoming elections OK following earlier nullification

After nullification of preliminary homecoming elections Wednesday, the Student Programming Council held a smooth election for homecoming king and queen Friday, Christina Vartosis, SPC homecoming advisor, said.

"There were no problems," Vartosis said. "It went real smooth."

SPC and the Inter Greek Council nullified preliminary homecoming king and queen elections last week after complaints were lodged alleging illegal campaign practices and vote tally complications.

SPC's election last Wednesday was nullified by SPC because "both the Undergraduate Student Government and SPC were receiving complaints from voters of cam-

East Germans flock streets in protest

Thousands return to demonstrate for democracy despite weekend police violence

BERLIN (UPI) — Tens of thousands of East Germans returned to the streets throughout the nation Monday to demonstrate for democratic reform, even though police brutally crushed similar protests during the weekend, witnesses said.

Hundreds of East German police and soldiers used rubber truncheons Monday to disperse anti-government protests in East Berlin, leaving several demonstrators injured, witnesses said.

In Leipzig, 80 miles south of Berlin, more than 40,000 people defied a massive police presence and marched for democratic reform. Western diplomats and church sources in the city told a West German radio station.

Witnesses said the demonstration began in the center of the city after religious services, where passengers in several churches offered special prayers for political prisoners.

Thousands of opponents of East Germany's hard-line communist government took to the streets Sunday night and early Monday in Dresden, Karl Marx Stadt and Plauen and also faced a massive police deployment, witnesses reported.

Protestant church officials in East Berlin said at least 1,000 demonstrators have been arrested in the past 48 hours.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl denounced as "brutal" the East German police action in crushing the protests, but he offered to start immediate talks to give East Germany comprehensive aid if it adopts democratic reforms.

"Overflowing prisons, numerous injured and a continuous refugee flow are today symbols of an ossified authoritarian system," Kohl said after a meeting of his Christian Democratic Party.

The demonstrations began Saturday during East German celebrations, attended by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, marking its 40th anniversary of communist rule.

Sunday's demonstrations were considered the country's largest since June 17, 1953, when 300,000 workers demanded "bread and freedom" in 270 cities and towns. That revolt was crushed by Soviet tanks and troops.

In contrast, the most recent demonstrations appeared to have been provoked by East German leader Erich Honecker's rejection of Gorbachev's suggestion that East Germany adopt political reforms.

The official East German Communist Party newspaper Neues Deutschland warned the demonstrators they would not be allowed to "shake the foundations of the state."

In an editorial, the newspaper said the government rejected their demands for democratic reforms, saying that any problems would be solved by socialist means.

In Berlin, security forces surrounded Berlin's Gethsemane Church Sunday evening, where about 4,000 people were holding a vigil for political prisoners, including several hundred arrested in weekend demonstrations.

Police blocked off all roads leading to the church and for several hours prevented the protesters from leaving. A group of about

East German refugees brave cold rivers, outwit guards

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — East German refugees are forced to swim cold border rivers and outwit armed guards in their desperate attempt to reach the West German embassy and freedom, sources said Monday. Many are shocked that the Solidarity-led government is not welcoming them as border guards have captured and returned 407 refugees in recent weeks, sources said. Bronislaw Geremek, chairman of the Solidarity parliamentary caucus, said his group will demand that the coalition government order an end to the border manhunt and permit the refugees free passage.

American professors awarded Nobel prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — American professors J. Michael Bishop and Harold E. Varmus were jointly awarded the Nobel prize for medicine Monday for their research indicating that the "seeds of cancer" lie in common genes. In announcing the award, Sweden's Karolinska Institute, said Bishop and Varmus identified certain genes that control normal cell growth and division, but that can cause cancerous tumors after external damage.

Moderate chosen as Hungarian candidate

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) — Delegates at the newly formed Hungarian Socialist Party picked a moderate as their candidate for president Monday, dealing a severe blow to radical reformists who wanted a new party with fresh leaders. Earlier Monday, reformists had won an adoption of a radical new program that promotes a democratic political system — including free elections and a market-based economy, but delegates later chose moderate Rezzo Nyers, who had been president of the old communist party, as their presidential candidate.

Report shows Bush's removed cyst benign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A pathology report showed that a cyst removed from the middle finger of President Bush's right hand last Friday is benign, a spokesman said Monday. Bush underwent the 25-minute surgery under local anesthesia Friday at Walter Reed Hospital. Bush, 65, was spending the three day Columbus Day weekend at the presidential retreat in Camp David in Maryland when he was informed of the biopsy report by Dr. Lawrence Mohr, the deputy White House physician.

Residents fed up with town's racist image

PULASKI, Tenn. (UPI) — Pulaski residents, buoyant after a successful weekend boycott of a march by white supremacists, said Monday it was time for brotherhood to "take offensive" and clean up the racist image of the town that is the birthplace of the Ku Klux Klan. Saturday, about 200 members of the neo-Nazi Aryan Nations marched through the city to honor a Confederate soldier hanged as a spy by Union troops in Pulaski. Members of Giles Countians United and Brotherhood United of Giles County said they plan to hold a three-day "celebration of brotherhood" over the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday weekend, Jan. 13-15.

State representative plans bill aimed at ticket scalpers

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Ticket brokers who demand high prices for premium seats to sporting events, concerts and other shows could be sent to jail for up to a year under legislation proposed by Rep. John Cullerton, D-Chicago. Cullerton plans to introduce a bill next week to limit the amount brokers can charge over the face value of a ticket and the measure also would increase penalties for organized ticket scalping. The proposed bill would crack down on so-called "ticket brokers", firms that buy large blocks of tickets and resell them at huge markups.

Student efforts increase awareness of disabled

By Chris Walka
Staff Writer

The resident assistants of Thompson Point hoped their efforts Sunday will pay off in dividends of increased awareness of the problems physically disabled people face everyday.

Amid an array of wheelchairs, both electric and manually operated, people who could walk were brought to the disabled person's perspective on an obstacle course covered with pylons.

Many of the disabled residents participating said they thought the event would help those who don't understand the problems of the disabled, and erase the ignorance and apathy surrounding those views.

Gregory Thagard, who has been a quadriplegic for three years following a diving accident, said the problem was rooted in the belief it could never happen to a person.

"I don't think it's so much the attitudes of people as people's ignorance. People don't realize that they could have an accident and wind up the same," Thagard said.

According to Patti Ruiz, concern for the problem is one that increases with age.

"Most of the upperclassmen seem to be more open-minded to the disabled," Ruiz, a senior in administrative justice and Spanish, said.

"People just don't care. They feel that they shouldn't care about us because we are not physically capable," Lynn

Parents Weekend activities offer a taste of campus life

By Carrie Pomeroy
Entertainment Editor

Parents Weekend has been scheduled for Fri. through Sun., and activities planned should keep parents and their offspring busy all weekend with both traditional and unusual events.

Anita Santiago, special events chair for the Student Programming Council, said events were chosen with the aim of giving parents "what they want out of visiting campus."

Events retained from past Parents Weekends include a pre-football game tailgate, the football game, campus tours, a buffet dinner and discounted boating on Campus Lake and bowling and billiards in the Student Center.

More unusual events include a comedy performance by Henry Cho and the enactment of a murder mystery by the St. Louis-based Dessert Murder Mystery Theater company.

Santiago said Cho's stand-up show at 8 p.m. Friday in the Student Center ballrooms should prove to be "a really good show."

"He's very natural and very, very funny," she said.

The Dessert Murder Mystery Theater will present "Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson in the Case of the Orchestrated Murder" at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center Renaissance Room. Audience members can participate in the mystery or watch while enjoying a dessert bar.

A concert at Shryock Auditorium by Queen Ida and the Bon Temps Zydeco Band on Saturday night originally was scheduled as part of the Parents Weekend festivities, but was cancelled because of Queen Ida's throat surgery.

Scheduled highlights of the weekend are:

- Fri., Movie: "Who Framed Roger Rabbit" at 7, 9 and 11 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium. $1 admission.

- Comedian Henry Cho, 8 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms. $4 public, $3 students.

- Sat., Tailgate in the Free Forum area at 10:30 a.m.

- Salukis vs. Illinois State Redbirds at 1:30 p.m. at McAndrew Stadium.

- Buffet Dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms. $8.75 in advance, $9.75 at the door.

- Dessert Murder Mystery Theater at 8 p.m. in the Renaissance Room of the Student Center. $6 in advance, $7 at the door.

Services held for Baptist Foundation leader

By Dale Walker
Staff Writer

The Rev. Harral A. Hall, 84, a former professor of religious education at the Baptist Foundation at SIU-C, died at 4:51 p.m. Sept. 27, in Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

Services were held Sept. 30 at Odd Fellows Cemetery in McLeansboro.

The Rev. Hall, a Baptist minister for 63 years, served at the Baptist Foundation from 1948 to 1966. He served as professor, dean, student director and managed a cafeteria during that 18-year period.

Hall retired in 1966 but worked in the SIU-C registrar's office until 1973.

Hall and his wife Josephine were actively involved in ministry to international students at SIU-C. They were married in 1930.

"Harral A. and Josephine E. Hall Day," was declared on April 2, 1985 by the city of Carbondale in recognition of their contribution to the city and the university.

In 1988 he was honored by the International Friends Club "for outstanding volunteer services to the International Community. The Chinese Bible Study Group at SIU-C honored Hall on his 80th birthday for "over a quarter century of love and kindness."

Hall was a member of the Walnut Street Baptist church.

He was born Feb. 9, 1905, in St. Louis to Dr. Emory and Minnie Spencer Hall.

Hall is survived by his wife and three sons, Richard Hall of Carbondale; Emory Hall of Oakdale; and Harral Hall of Pinckneyville; one brother and two grandchildren.

The family requests memorial gifts be made to the Baptist Student Center Booster Club.

Cubs, game always winners in baseball

AS THE sun began to set over the West near San Francisco Monday, so set the hearts of Cubs fans.

The San Francisco Giants took the National League pennant in five games, allowing a single victory out of the five to the Cubs.

The Cubs lost the pennant, that much is true. There is likely to be a certain degree of resentment from Cub fans even if it is unsaid. "Why can't the Cubs win the National League pennant? Why couldn't they have at least taken it to seven games?"

Fingers could be pointed and failures by Cub players and Don Zimmer could be noted.

There was the two-run home run given up by Cub Les Lancaster to Robbie Thompson in game 3, Steve Wilson's giving up of a two-run homer to Matt Williams in game 4 and Andre Dawson's ninth-inning strike out with bases loaded in game 4.

HEROES LIVE and die in the eyes of millions on the playing fields. Pitches could have been strikes instead of home runs and Andre Dawson's strike out could have been a grand slam.

A very fine line separates the difference between success and failure, especially in sports like baseball. What could have been, wasn't. And any resentment for the Cub loss will soon disappear.

Fans and foes can say the Cubs lost Monday in San Francisco, but it is just a moment, a glimpse, for a fan of the Cubs and the Cubs. The Cubs have been without a pennant since 1945 and without a World Series win since 1908.

IT IS not the nature of Cubs to be winners. It is not what they are. And it is not what has attracted their fans. The Cubs have made a tradition out of losing as strange as it seems. By losing, the Cubs only lose that one glimpse at winning. They don't lose the game. They play the game no matter the outcome.

It could even be ventured to say that by losing the National League pennant the Cubs didn't lose any of its fans. If anything, the Cubs gained fans and will gain fans.

It is not the winning and the losing that counts, it is the game. The game brings it all: the adrenaline, the hope, the feeling that there is no other substitute for baseball — no other substitute for Cub baseball.

WINNING DOESN'T breed Cub fans. The oldest stadium full of old haunts and echoes of past greats creates them. Harry Carey swaying out of his booth singing his seventh-inning ode to baseball lures fans to the Cubs. The ivy of the wall, cups foaming over and Clark and Addison makes Cub fans.

The myth and the mystery of hexes and superstition adds to the excitement that makes up the Cubs.

And nothing earns a Cub fan faster than having the honor of throwing back a baseball from a home run off the bat of a player from the opposing team.

Yes, the Cubs have a tradition of losing, a tradition that is the purest form of baseball and winning. Winning in losing.

IF ANYONE doesn't know what winning is, take a day out of life and go to Wrigley Field. Find a place in the bleachers, feel the sun beating down and bellow "beer man!" if you want to and you're old enough. And you'll know what winning is, regardless of the scoreboard.

As for this year, yes, the Cubs "lost" again, but the Cubs fans didn't and baseball didn't.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

REBIRTH (Chicago Tribune)

Rebirth.

Letters

Letter makes hasty generalizations; can't please all with Arena bands

I am writing this letter in response to John Faidutti's letter in the Oct. 4 edition of the Daily Egyptian, and for starters, I would like to know where Mr. Faidutti's ideas originate.

I would like to clarify my standpoint at the outset. Yes, I am what he terms a "headbanger." However, in the past, Mr. Faidutti (or people like him) could have referred to me as a "Hee Haw groupie," a "dead head" or a "hippie." I am frankly insulted by the implications of his letter and wish that people would stop labeling things that they do not understand.

First not all "metalheads" listen to Poison. In fact, within the headbanging community, the group is a joke. While Poison's lyrics may not be any more complex than a Hallmark greeting card, the lyrics from other metal groups such as Metallica and Iron Maiden are thought-provoking and, at times, very socially conscience.

I suggest, Mr. Faidutti, you know that of which you speak before you criticize it. Or do you base your opinions on one look at the album covers? But more to the point, does music have to be socially conscience to be enjoyable?

Second, people who listen to metal are often categorized because they look different. If you would bother to talk to some "headbangers" you might find that in addition to metal they like some of the same groups as you do. I have friends that enjoy nothing so much as listening to Frank Sinatra and Queensryche back-to-back. Two of my favorite singers are James Taylor and James Hetfield (of Metallica). Who is being narrow-minded here?

Finally, the music presented by Michelle Suarez and Arena Promotions is a direct result of what she sees as "popular" by radio and music television standards. The people that listen to your "college-oriented bands" are just another group, that compared to the total student population, is just another minority. Granted it may be larger than the "metalheads" or the "deadheads" or the "punks" or the "Hee Haw groupies," but it is still, Mr. Faidutti, a minority.

How then do we solve this problem? My esteemed professor and mentor, David Derge, former president of SIU-C and avowed conservative, told me "the only solution to the dilem... is to boycott all music written after 1800. That way we could argue over Handel and Bach, and not worry about today's garbage."

Well, although I do not agree that today's music is garbage, I think that Handel and Bach might be easier to book at the Arena than the variety of music that is obviously desired by our very diverse student and local population. — Michelle Weiler, graduate student, political science.

Excuse me, but I thought NORML had rights

I must really be naive. I could have sworn I'd seen something once in the Constitution of the United States that guaranteed my right to peaceably assemble with my friends.

I must have been mistaken, because our beloved police force of Carbondale, kicked the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Law's supporters out of 611 Pizza.

They accomplished this by threatening to confiscate 611's property along with NORML's equipment if any of us were busted.

I am sick of being declared a criminal because some martini-sipping legislators remain uneducated about the many uses of the hemp plant. Pot is not just smoke, but a source of oil, methanol, fiber, pulp, protein and medical relief from glaucoma, chemotherapy and some cases of multiple sclerosis. For centuries, the governments of nations ordered its cultivation so the fiber could equip their navies.

The USDA even found that one acre of hemp could replace four acres of forest pulp for making paper. Add to this the fact that trees will grow back in 60 to 100 years as opposed to six or 10 months for pot, and the savings is obvious to anyone.

Quite simply, cannabis has many suppressed uses as well as new uses that cannot be adequately researched while 300,000 people are arrested for it each year. That's $8,000 per inmate, folks, just for the arrest!

The police department doesn't want you to know these facts, so they disrupted our meeting at 611 and sent us out to Evergreen Park, where they didn't bother us one bit. They had already removed us from the public's view, so they were happy with that. Funny thing is, I could have sworn the Bill of Rights started with something designed to prevent that sort of censorship. — Drew Hendricks, freshman, electrical engineering.

Flag burning is an abuse of right to freedom

The mutilation, desecration or burning of the American Flag is an abuse of the right to freedom of speech under the First Amendment. How somebody could destroy or deface the symbol of the freedoms and rights set forth by the Constitution is beyond me.

It should be a crime. However, this would be making an exception to the right of free speech. In the past, people have tried to decide what the rest of us can and cannot listen to, read or view on television and video tapes.

Until now, Congress has done a great job of keeping these people at bay and letting the American citizens make their own decision. That is what American is all about, making your own decisions.

Now along comes this legislation that will outlaw an action. Though unpatriotic and unpopular, this action is legal under the First Amendment according to a Supreme Court decision made June 21. The Senate passes its flag burning bill Thursday. The House has already passed one, but will rule on the Senate's this week.

Before allowing exceptions to the Constitution and the Bill of Rights to be made, we, the citizens of America, should think very hard on the possible future effects of such actions. — David H. Penny, freshman, theater.

Police Blotter

Carbondale Police said a residential burglary occurred at 504 S. James St. between 9 p.m. Friday and 12:09 a.m. Saturday.

The victims were Lori A. Nacius, 21, and Theresa A. Tohlmann, 23, both of 504 S. James St., according to police.

Police said the victims claim unknown person(s) entered their residences by force and took stereo equipment. The loss and damage was estimated at $415.

A University student was arrested and charged with driving under the influence and driving too fast for conditions Sunday at 2:37 a.m., according to University Police.

Jason M. Novok, 19, 207 Abbott Hall, was stopped by University Police on Lincoln Drive near Thompson Point, police said. He failed a field sobriety test and was released after posting $100 bond.

University Police arrested and charged a University student with public consumption of alcohol shortly after midnight Saturday in Parking Lot 13, next to McAndrew Stadium, police said.

Gregory J. Davis, 21, 1031 Mac Smith, was released on his own recognizance to appear in court on Oct. 25., police said.

see if any reporters were covering the story and was arrested when he allegedly interfered with the interrogation of a juvenile, Richardson said.

Both were released on cash bond, Reno said.

"We were blatantly harassed by the cops," Kirsten Bonde, Southern Illinois NORML president, said. "We were denied free speech and free assembly."

The Southern Illinois chapter of NORML's Harvest Fest was scheduled to be an event featuring speakers and music about the legalization of marijuana.

According to Sgt. Johnnie Knapp of the Carbondale Police Department, officers were answering two calls for assistance.

Friday, Lin Chang, owner of 611 Pizza, denied being one of the people who called the police.

"We did not call," Chang said. She said the owners of Guzzall's Apparel also use the address 611 S. Illinois Ave. Chang said Guzzall's called the police.

Chang also said the owners of Guzzall's accused members of the NORML organization of stealing merchandise from their store.

Monday, Alexia M. Irani, owner of Guzzall's and the entire 611 building, said this was not the case.

"We called the police because we saw people smoking in front of our store," he said. "I didn't want anything illegal going on on my property. I am responsible for that."

"I didn't accuse anyone of stealing. We are not trying to hurt 611 Pizza's business. We are trying to protect our own," Irani said.

The Carbondale Police Department did not have any complaint on file about stealing at Guzzall's, Art Wright of the police department, said.

Irani said his store was closed for three hours on Friday at the recommendation of the Carbondale City Hall personnel.

Irani said he has no complaint with the NORML organization.

"It (NORML) is a great organization. They didn't steal anything," Irani said.

"It doesn't even matter who called the cops about us at 611 Pizza," Bonde said. "They (the University Police) were already present at Faner when we were telling people about the move to 611 from the Free Forum area."

After the group was removed from 611 Pizza, they took their educational Harvest Fest to Evergreen Park.

Little damage caused in Mae Smith trash fire

By Richard Goldstein
Staff Writer

Mae Smith Tower residents enjoyed the mild night air involuntarily Monday evening when the contents of a trash bin caught fire and sent smoke pouring through the shoot and into the laundry rooms on several floors.

At about 9:00 p.m. residents noticed heat on the walls and smoke coming from the trash chutes in several of the laundry rooms of Mae Smith.

Assistant Fire Chief John Manis said the fire was caused by an object dropped down the chute that caught the bin on fire and set off the sprinklers.

He said the fire was contained on the bottom floor and little damage was done.

Several residents said they were greeted with smoke and heat after opening the chute.

"The room was just all smoke, there was smoke on the floor," Tim Parker, a 14th floor resident who pulled the handle on the trash chute, said.

Tom Egan, who lives on the 4th floor of the resident hall, said a bin caught on fire in a similar incident last year, but the smoke did not come up the chute.

At 9:20 p.m. the bin with burned contents was rolled out of the building and residents returned to their rooms.

val will set up around Oct. 18, Prowell said.

The carnival will begin Friday, Oct. 20 and will run every day through Sunday, Oct. 29, Prowell said.

"At this time, two food trailers will be provided by Tinsley's Amusements," Prowell said. "Of course, Bonanza and Dairy Queen will provide two additional outlets for food. Consideration will be given to allowing two non-profit organizations selling food on location."

Jeff Doherty, deputy city manager, said there will be no public consumption of alcohol at the carnival and the city will use "whatever means necessary to enforce it."

The carnival was created to provide the city with a family-oriented event, away from South Illinois Avenue, where the Halloween street party traditionally occurs, Prowell said.

The council passed an ordinance last month, repealing the Halloween Fair Days Regulations. The new ordinance mandates that there will be no street closings, no public consumption of alcohol, no food or beer booths, no amplified music and no street parking during the Halloween weekend.

Prowell said the carnival will include amusement rides and a midway with games and concessions.

"We are committed to making this a special time of year for the whole family," Prowell said.

paing in the Student Center," Amie Riech, executive chair of SPC, said.

During last Wednesday's election, Varotsis said some of the volunteers working at the election tables were unsure of the rules involving campaigning in the Student Center during voting.

She said the volunteers "didn't know what to do when they saw the candidates campaigning inside the Student Center."

Varotsis said she made sure the volunteers knew what the rules were for campaigning in the Student Center during Friday's election. "There was no confusion," she said.

Varotsis said there were three people at the voting booth at all times during the election Friday and proctors at the tables had a list of rules.

April Ronchetti, homecoming chair for the Inter Greek Council, said the council nullified its election last Wednesday because the competition was too close.

Ronchetti said the ballot box was off by three votes.

"There weren't enough votes separating the candidates," Ronchetti said.

The Inter Greek Council rescheduled its preliminary election for 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Wednesday.

The off-campus candidates elected during Friday's preliminary elections for king and queen were Brad Clark and Candice Stark.

1,000 demonstrators gathered outside the police barricades but were not permitted inside.

Witnesses said several demonstrators outside the church were beaten by plainclothes police and forcibly dispersed early Monday.

Authorities also sealed off several public areas of East Berlin, including the vicinity of the Gethsemane Church and Alexander Plaza, where thousands of demonstrators gathered during Gorbachev's visit.

Opposition leaders said it was time for the hard-line communist government to respond to the will of East German citizens.

Last week, East Germany allowed tens of thousands of East German refugees camping out in West German embassies in Poland and Czechoslovakia to emigrate to West Germany.

Date rape devastates victim by violating sense of trust

Education should include understanding violent attitudes, values against women

To Your Health

By Nancy Williams
Women's Services

Acquaintance or date rape, which has been identified as the most commonly occurring form of sexual assault, is defined as forced, manipulated, or coerced sexual intercourse by a friend, date, classmate, employer, or other acquaintance.

Because acquaintance rape is often not reported and often more difficult to clarify than rape by a stranger, it is difficult to determine. Research and reported contracts of rape crisis and counseling services have consistently indicated that upward from 75% of all rape victims are acquainted with their assailants.

Although this form of sexual assault is the most unreported, it is potentially the most psychologically damaging to the victim as her sense of trust and faith has been violated.

As most date rapes happen to women between the ages of 18 and 24, a proportionately large number take place on college campuses. For this same reason, campuses are also a target area for heightening awareness about the problem and providing prevention.

Education for acquaintance rape must go beyond basic safety techniques.

Because acquaintance rape involves assault by someone the victim knows, education must go beyond the basic safety techniques associated with stranger rape.

Our focus at SIU-C is to help individuals understand the behaviors, attitudes and values which help create a callousness to sexual violence against women.

Some of the attitudes include:
■ If a woman wears a certain type of clothing, she is asking for it.

■ In order to be a real man, you must be sexually powerful.

■ When a woman says no, she really means yes.

■ A woman is nothing unless she has a boyfriend/date.

■ Men are weak if they show emotions.

Understanding the effects of these potentially harmful messages is the key to changing behavior and to preventing situations where forced sex seems acceptable.

A way to change these attitudes is through education.

Good sources of support, education, and treatment in the SIU-C community include: The Program for Rape Education and Prevention (located at Women's Services) 453-3655; the Rape Action Committee (a 24 hour intervention program housed in the Carbondale Women's Center), 529-2324; the SIU-C Wellness Center, 536-4441; and the SIU-C Counseling Center, 453-5371. These resources can be contacted for further information.

Stock market game allows students to gain experience

By Sean Hannigan
Staff Writer

Last year two SIU-C students became millionaires.

They earned their money playing a stock market game sponsored by AT&T in which students invest "play" money in the market, according to Nanda Rangan, assistant professor of finance.

Students from SIU-C will compete nationally with over 15,000 students in the AT&T Collegiate Investment Challenge, again this year, Kenneth Hannah, president of the Financial Management Association, said.

"They give you $500,000 to invest in 5,000 different stocks. You can invest 1 million if you buy on margin," Hannah said.

Students call in their trades to AT&T brokers in New York. The brokers have up to the second information on all the stocks and then invest in the company the student requested, Hannah said.

The students never see the profits, but there are cash prizes for the winners.

"The top 10 students based on the value of their portfolio will get $1,000 to $25,000," Hannah said. He added the awards will be given while the winners are on an AT&T sponsored vacation in the Bahamas.

Rangan said he sees the game as a unique learning tool. "I would be willing to use it in a class. Maybe your grade could be attached to how you do.

"The cost is a bit prohibitive, but maybe it could become part of the curriculum," Rangan said.

The students must pay a registration fee of $49.95 and the deadline is Oct. 27. The game runs from Nov. 1 through Feb. 23, according to the rule book provided to contestants.

Hannah agreed in the importance of the experience. "Would you rather lose fake money now or lose the real stuff later? Most people will invest in the market somewhere down the line. This is good practice," he said.

The FMA is hoping to register 50 students for the competition, Hannah said.

"USA Today will have a weekly ranking of the schools in the paper. The University needs 50 students in order to be included."

During the first week of registration seven students signed up, but Hannah said he expects more as the deadline nears.

There were 22 millionaires at the end of the first competition. Two of those hailed from SIU-C, according to Hannah.

Gamma Beta Phi rewards year's outstanding teacher

By Chris Waika
Staff Writer

Dr. Thomas Pace, professor of speech communication and graduate adviser in the department, received the first annual Gamma Beta Phi Outstanding Teacher of the Year Award Oct. 7 in Ballroom D at the Student Center.

Pace, starting his 25th year of teaching here at SIU-C, received two plaques, a Gamma Beta Phi jacket, and a lapel pin with the organization on it.

The awards were presented by Michael Contile, president of Gamma Beta Phi.

"He (Pace) deserves an enormous amount of credit," Marvin Kleinau, acting dean of the College of Communication and Fine Arts, said.

Kleinau nominated Pace for the award.

According to Michael Contile, president of Gamma Beta Phi, the organization circulated petitions among the deans of the respective colleges for their nominees.

When all the petitions were in, the Gamma Beta Phi Executive Council narrowed the list down to five people.

After the list was narrowed, the professor's students and colleagues were interviewed with the winner selected from these interviews, Contile said.

Pace attributed much of his success to his fellow colleagues, especially faculty members Earl Bradley and Ralph Micken.

According to Kleinau, Bradley was a close friend and Pace's instructor at the University of Denver.

Kleinau said he was particularly pleased with Pace's winning of the award because Pace signified what teaching was all about.

"He has the classical, philosophical approach to teaching," Kleinau said.

Workshop offers future journalists an edge on the professional world

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

Prospective journalists will get a chance to perfect their job hunting skills at Career Night, the president of the University's chapter of the Society for Professional Journalists said.

"I think this will help anyone interested in a career in journalism get started on preparing for the professional world," Beth Clavin, president of SPJ and senior in journalism, said.

Career Night is sponsored by SPJ and will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center's Missouri River Room. It is free and open to the public.

Clavin said career night participants will be updated on the latest job opportunities for newspaper reporters, copywriters and magazine writers.

Several members of the journalism faculty will give talks on what tests students can anticipate during interviews, such as personality, skill and drug testing, Clavin said. Also, students will be apprised of where to look for job advertisements and where to place them.

Clavin said she hoped not only juniors and seniors will attend the workshop, since resume and cover letter preparations will be discussed.

"When I went to do my resume, I was totally lost. I had no idea where to begin or who to talk to," Clavin, who is graduating in December, said. "(Journalism) Professor (Robert) Spellman showed me what to do, but I wish I'd started a few years ago."

Carl Rexroad, editor of the Southern Illinoisian Newspaper, will conduct a mock job interview with a journalism student to illustrate the actual interviewing process.

"We'll do a role play. I'm going to ask her all sorts of hard questions from the point of view of a prospective employer," Rexroad said.

Rexroad said he viewed Career Night as a "very valuable opportunity for students to break the ice into the real world of journalism."

"We're trained as reporters to ask some very tough questions, but it's very tough to be on the receiving end of the questions. It will be good practice for students to get a feel for a job interview situation."

Rexroad said.

Rexroad said interview training is of particular importance to writers and editors since "journalism is a very transitory field."

USG to consider stadium renovation

The Undergraduate Student Government will consider a resolution to renovate McAndrew Stadium at Wednesday's meeting, Tim Hildebrand, USG president, said.

He said the resolution will include such things as a new press box, renovation of the visitor's locker room and the possibility of new lights.

"The existing lights need all new wiring," Hildebrand said.

Hildebrand stressed that the money for the renovation projects will not come out of student activity fees.

New literary magazines look to promote creative writing

By Carrie Pomeroy
Entertainment Editor

The founders of two new literary magazines said they hope to encourage creativity in the University community by providing an alternative to the English department's magazine "Grassroots."

Chris Koszalka, a junior in English, is starting "Headhunter," which he said is a "strictly non-profit" endeavor. English graduate assistants Thomas Hager and Mark Hilderbrand are establishing a monthly literary newsletter called "Amici Poetae."

Koszalka, who is editing "Headhunter" under the assumed name Lothar the Fiction Editor, said the magazine's name as well as his pseudonym originate from a comic book character. Lothar is a "rampaging cannibal" who saves a censored writer from police brutality.

Working with a "very bizarre" artist who goes by the name Igor Galore, Koszalka hopes to publish artwork, poetry, short fiction and plays. He said he wants "Headhunter" to be a forum for alternative literature.

"Good literature takes weird forms sometimes," he said.

Koszalka said he and his staff will not publish their own work in the magazine.

"Grassroots" tends to print a lot of the staff's work. It's good work, but I think the point of a literary magazine is to print other people's work," he said.

Koszalka said he hopes to put out an issue of 75-100 pages by the end of the semester, depending on the number of submissions he receives. He said he will probably charge about $2 for the magazine to help cover the costs of printing 100 copies.

Koszalka said he will accept submissions until Thanksgiving break. If he receives enough quality work, he said he will put together the magazine in time for distribution in the last two weeks of the semester.

Submissions can be sent to Lothar the Fiction Editor, Rampaging Cannibal Press, P.O. Box 2,011, Carbondale, 62902.

Hilderbrand and Hager said they hope to publish "Amici Poetae" the last week of every month starting this month. Submissions will be accepted until the end of October.

Hilderbrand said he and Hager chose the monthly format to make the newsletter "a continual thing that will keep people stimulated."

The newsletter will accept poetry, short stories and essays, as well as less conventional work such as snippets, quotes, lyrics, thoughts and opinions.

Hilderbrand said the newsletter will change with each issue, with various issues devoted to poetry, graffiti, or quotations. He said they were considering printing one issue sideways.

Hager said it was important to change formats to keep readers interested and on their toes.

"When you have the same form, you have the same expectations to work with and people are really passive then," he said.

Hilderbrand said the newsletter changing format doesn't bother him.

"I embrace chaos," he said.

Hilderbrand and Hager are soliciting submissions from their writer friends in Zaire, Zimbabwe, Germany and the United States in an effort to present a variety of viewpoints.

Hilderbrand said their wide-open format will allow them to publish "bad stuff as well as good stuff."

"I don't think you can make that distinction of bad and good. In art, bad is good and good is bad," Hager said.

Hilderbrand said he wants the newsletter "to appeal to people who may have never thought about reading poetry or essays," as well as to the academic community.

Submissions can be sent to Hager at R.R. #2 Green Acres Apartment #2, Murphysboro, 62966 or to Hilderbrand at 400 N. Oakland Apartment 36, Carbondale, 62901.

A Review

Merteuil, Kevin Paul as the Vicomte de Valmont and Heather Burdick as Madame de Tourvel. Suzette Baeckelandt plays Cecile, Dan Purcell plays Chevalier Danceny and Joanne Givens plays Madame de Volange.

The set, which Merrill-Fink said tries to suggest the play's historical period while drawing attention to the actors and actresses, was designed by graduate student Steve Yardley.

Costume designer Kathy Neff and lighting designer David McLain attempt to show character development through use of symbolically "warm" and "cool" colors, Merrill-Fink said.

Merrill-Fink said the play shows the decadence of the French upper class that led to their downfall in the French Revolution.

"They were a brilliant class of people but extremely frustrated. They had all this prestige and wealth, and nothing to do with it," she said.

Merrill-Fink said people who have already seen the acclaimed film of the play, starring Glenn Close and John Malkovich, can still gain much from seeing the story performed live.

"The events, the manipulation, the seduction, the lies in theater are much more immediate, because the audience is right there watching the actors. The audience will probably feel uncomfortable," she said.

Play elaborates on plot involving jealousies, seduction and betrayal

By Carrie Pomeroy
Entertainment Editor

McLeod Theatre will become a hotbed of intrigue, seduction and scandal as "Les Liaisons Dangereuses" takes the stage Oct. 12-14 and 20-22.

Director Lori Merrill-Fink said the play, adapted by Christopher Hampton from an 18th century novel by Choderlos de Laclos, explores how "jealousies and passions that have no outlets eventually begin to feed on each other."

The play focuses on an elaborate plot concocted by two French aristocrats, the Vicomte de Valmont and the Marquise de Merteuil, to gain revenge on the Marquise's former lover. The plot involves a myriad of seductions and betrayals.

Lead characters include Heather Currie as the Marquise de

Ensemble starts band series

Wednesday night marks the opening of the School of Music's series of band concerts this year.

The University Wind Ensemble will perform a concert of contemporary music at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium. Admission is $1 for students and $2 for adults.

Mike Hanes, director of bands at the University, said the five songs performed vary in style from upbeat pieces to dramatic numbers, including a Broadway show tune and a tribute to the spirit of America.

Hanes said the concert will include "Jubilee Overture," "Flag of Stars" and "Overture to Candide."

Among the highlights of the concert will be "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night" which was inspired by a Dylan Thomas poem. Hanes said there will be some "unexpected surprises" that take place during the song.

Another highlight will be "The Sinfonians," which will be guest conducted by Jervis Underwood, a music professor at SIU-C who specializes in the flute.

Hanes said although the music is relatively new it represents a wide range of types and styles. Everyone who attends will find something he or she will enjoy, he said.

This is the first of four concerts the wind ensemble will perform this semester. Tickets will be available at the door. Proceeds from the concert will go toward music scholarships for students.

Faculty to play piano recital

A free faculty duo piano recital by music professors Wilfred Delphin and Edwin Romain will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in Shryock Auditorium.

The performance will consist of a variety of classical music, including Adolphus Halstork's "Sonata for Two Pianos," which was commissioned by Delphin and Romain in 1987.

"It's very exciting to commission new works because it's new to everyone," Delphin said.

Ruggers hope for Illini rematch

The SIU-C rugby club wants a rematch with the University of Illinois this weekend as it travels to Champaign for the Collegiate Rugby Tournament.

The club is coming off of a fifth place finish in Champaign at the Union Tournament last weekend.

SIU-C defeated the Eastern Illinois University rugby club 13-6 but then lost to the Peoria city-side club 13-7. Senior Bob Schramm led the way with two 'trys' (eight points).

The SIU-B C-side team took the B-side bracket second place after it defeated Illinois State University 10-0 before falling to the Springfield city-side club 13-6 in the championship game.

The Illini defeated SIU-C 19-13 Sept. 30, setting up a possible rematch in this weekend's tournament.

Before getting a shot at the Illini, SIU-C will have to go through a five-team round robin tournament which includes Eastern Illinois, Illinois State and Western Illinois University.

Callahan, who is credited by Smith for the outstanding offensive performances over the last two weeks, said that as long as Gabbert is healthy he will be the starting quarterback.

Callahan said that should Gabbert get hurt, Gibson would be able to come in and keep the offense moving. The Salukis are fortunate to have two quarterbacks who compliment each other, Callahan said.

Gibson, an option quarterback, can pass and Gabbert, mostly a passing quarterback, can run when necessary, Callahan said.

"Scott (Gabbert) is a very intelligent kid," Callahan said. "His intelligence has allowed him to overcome a lot of deficiencies."

Callahan said Gabbert has been successful because he has been able to hit the third and fourth receivers.

Aganist NIU Gabbert connected with 11 different receivers.

"In this offense someone is always open," Gabbert said.

Senior split end Rob Derricotte was open only four times against NIU but three of his receptions were for touchdowns, another Saluki record.

Tracie Dittmore, director of information for the Gateway Conference, said Gabbert's performance was "pretty unbelievable" against NIU. "I'm anxious to see him play."

Dittmore picks the player of the week in the conference from the nominations made by league coaches and sports information directors. Dittmore said she will be in Carbondale Oct. 21 to see the game between Southwest Missouri

State and the Salukis.

Gabbert's statistics are not recognized by the Gateway Conference, Dittmore said. Only games between Gateway teams are monitored for individual and team records.

If Gabbert's stats did apply in the league he still would not have the record for most yards in a game. That record is held by former Eastern Illinois quarterback Sean Payton who threw for 400 yards during a game in 1985.

Gabbert would have the records for attempts and completions. Payton holds the Gateway record for attempts with 52 and former Western Illinois quarterback Paul Singer, now with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, holds the conference record for completions in a game with 32.

City), Ken Behring (Seattle), Jack Kent Cooke (Washington), Al Davis (Los Angeles Raiders) and Mike Lynn (Minnesota).

Published surveys of the owners indicate Finks still has as many as 17 votes in his corner. Some of the owners who abstained before said they had nothing against Finks, but merely wanted more time to think about the selection.

Finks, 62, has been with the Saints since 1986. He has also been an executive with the Minnesota Vikings and Chicago Bears of the NFL, and major league baseball's Chicago Cubs.

Tagliabue, 48, has acted as an NFL attorney and has plenty of experience with the league's various trips into state and federal court. Of the three other nominees, he is expected to be the strongest challenge to Finks.

Davis, 55, was a Green Bay Packers defensive end under Vince Lombardi in the 1960s and was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1981. He has been a successful businessman since retiring from football in 1970, owning radio stations and a beer distributorship.

Yates receives award

Despite being named the Gateway Conference Offensive Player of the Week for the second straight time, sophomore quarterback Scott Gabbert was behind senior receiver Wesley Yates for the Salukis offensive player of the week award.

"We have a team policy of not giving a player the award twice in a row," Smith said.

Yates is the Salukis leading receiver with 305 yards on 22 receptions and one touchdown on the year. Against NIU Yates caught five passes for 80 yards.

The defensive award was given to Marin Hochertz who is fourth on the team with 39 tackles for the season.

Punter David Peters was the special team award winner for punting the opponent deep in their territory during the game, Smith said.

Kilgallon day-to-day

The Salukis leading tackler

Kevin Kilgallon and freshman Yonel Jourdain suffered ankle sprains during the NIU game and are listed as day-to-day, Smith said.

Kilgallon leads the Salukis with 61 total tackles and left the game after recording one tackle against NIU.

Former starting quarterback Fred Gibson underwent arthroscopic knee surgery last week and is also listed as day-to-day. Smith said no structural repair was made to the knee.

and that they want to do what I tell them to do," Hagemeyer said.

Surprises are one of the things that comes with the coaching position, Hagemeyer said. "I think being a head coach is always a surprise. Nobody could have told me the things I would have had to know to be a head coach, so everyday there is a new surprise for me. As far as the team, I think the team is surprised by me. But they trust what I have to say."

Hagemeyer said that the Salukis rise to the challenges of everyday practice. "I love making them work hard and everyday I watching them learn something new about themselves."

For a new coach, SIU-C can present some challenges. Hagemeyer, who has coached here eight months, said she feels she's good for the position.

"I have been very, very happy here. I haven't looked back on any decisions I've made in the past five or six years—like I'd rather be some place else—because I wouldn't. I like it here a lot. I appreciate the opportunity they gave me with taking a chance and hiring an assistant coach. I hope someday that I can repay them by having a good team," Hagemeyer said.

The Cubs threatened in the eighth. Reuschel walked Walton on four pitches, and the Chicago speedster advanced to third on Sandberg's sacrifice and Marvell Wynne's groundout.

After an intentional walk to Mark Grace (hitting .688 in the series), Dawson came to the plate. He fanned with runners on first and third in the first inning and flied weakly to right with runners on the corners in the sixth. The slump continued: Reuschel got Dawson on a comebacker on a 1-2 pitch.

With the Giants starter coasting with one out in the third, Mitchell lost Walton's fly in the sun, and the ball glanced off his glove for a two-base error. Sandberg then lashed a liner to right-center for a 1-0 Chicago lead, but was nailed attempting a triple.

Dawson was nicked in the left hand by a pitch with one out in the fourth, then took third on Luis Salazar's single. Reuschel escaped, though, getting speedy Shawn Dunston to roll into a 4-6-3 double play.

Bielecki, meanwhile, was in command until Clark singled to center with two out in the fourth. He then got Mitchell swinging on strikes to end the inning.

His teammates tried to give the Giants a run in the fifth, but Bielecki would not allow it. Matt Williams began with a single and continued to second when Dunston bounced a throw past first base.

New NHL equipment rules infuriate players, coaches

By Al Strachan
Toronto Globe and Mail

The National Hockey League's move to control players' equipment has infuriated players, agents, equipment manufacturers, coaches and general managers.

The decision is expected to increase equipment costs by at least 14 percent for parents with children in amateur leagues.

Wayne Gretzky said, "It's a really stupid idea. It's ridiculous because it's making the parents of kids who want to play the game pay that much extra for equipment."

The NHL's marketing and public-relations committee gave life to this latest fund-raiser. Here's how it works:

Manufacturers who want their products used in NHL games this year must pay $10,000 a label. For a company such as Karhu Canada Inc., that means a cost of $70,000 — $10,000 for Titan sticks, $10,000 for Jofa gloves, $10,000 for Koho sticks and so on.

Players are allowed to use other equipment but must obliterate the company name. As a result, players are using sticks with brand names blacked out, wearing sweaters with the manufacturer's name obscured by blue felt-tip marker, and games are being held up while players cross out corporate identification on skates.

Next year, official logos of either the NHL or the team must be affixed to each piece of approved equipment. This is expected to create a strong desire among kids to use equipment bearing the NHL-only label.

If that label is affixed to a product, an 8.5 per cent surcharge — to be paid directly to the NHL — is to be applied to the product by the manufacturer. That surcharge will be taxed by the federal government (13.5 percent) followed by a dealer markup in the 40-percent range and then a provincial sales tax.

By that time, the 8.5 percent surcharge will have grown to an amount of more than 14 percent.

"Even if it was just the $10,000, I think it's reprehensible that the NHL would tax its participatory base," said Jim Rennie, author of Jim Rennie's Sportsletter, a weekly newsletter that examines the business side of the sporting goods industry.

"But it's more than that. A kid picking up the game might have said, 'Wayne Gretzky plays with a Titan 2020 stick, so I want to use it.' Now that stick is going to cost at least 8.5 percent more, and it's the same stick Gretzky has been using for a donkey's age."

Interviews with scores of players have failed to find any who support the concept. On some teams, players are ripping the logo off their league-approved practice jerseys in protest.

Not everyone agrees on what should be done to fight the edict.

"Gretzky and (Mario) Lemieux could have killed it if they really wanted to," one player said. "If they had come out on the ice with Titan equipment during that pre-season game in Cleveland (before Titan paid its fees), what would the league have done?"

The NHL has told its on-ice officials exactly what to do. The punishment for displaying an unapproved brand name is a two-minute delay-of-game penalty. A second infraction brings a game misconduct.

"Would they have thrown Gretzky and Lemieux out of the game?" the player asked. "If they did, the matter would have come to a head. If they didn't, they set a precedent."

"It slipped through the cracks," said a player active in the NHLPA. "Everybody was caught up in the Eagonson thing (the demands by a splinter group to replace Alan Eagleson as executive director) this summer, and this got through without much attention."

"We feel that it's against the collective-bargaining agreement," operations director Sam Simpson said.

Blackhawks, Rangers get violent

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Blackhawks and New York Rangers exchanged more than punches, butts and slashes in their first meeting of the season.

After Sunday night's game — with the Rangers winning 5-3 — both teams exchanged accusations, setting the stage for a rematch Oct. 17 at New York.

What started as a tight-checking struggle turned into a street brawl late in the second period, and it stayed that way for much of the rest of the game. Referee Terry Gregson ejected seven players and assessed 46 penalties for a total of 205 minutes.

The worst of the brawling featured tough guys Chris Nilan of New York and Al Secord of Chicago. Secord drew a five-minute major penalty, which led to three Ranger power-play goals, for butting Nilan during the fight. Nilan later was tossed for taking his stick to the face mask of Blackhawks goalie Alain Chevrier, who sprawled back into the net.

Chicago Coach Mike Keenan called for disciplinary action against Nilan, who blamed Keenan and the Blackhawks for the night's fights.

"As far as I'm concerned, it was all initiated on their part," Nilan said. "They were out there mugging our guys all night. Basically, you've got to stand up for your team."

Nilan denied he intentionally tried to chop Chevrier with his stick.

"I had my focus on the puck, and Chevrier came out with his stick up," he said. "I just brought my stick up, and it made contact with his mask."

"He had wacked me a couple of times earlier. But at that point in the game, I don't want to hurt anybody. He wasn't like that in New Jersey. It must be Keenan and the tough guys over here. If I would have swung my stick at him, he would have stayed down."

Chevrier, who stayed in the game, admitted coming off the net to try and draw a penalty.

As for his encounter with Secord, Nilan said, "He head-butted me, but it didn't hurt. It might have hurt if he didn't have a whistle — if he didn't have air in his head."

Secord denied making an intentional butt on Nilan, saying it resulted from the commotion during the fight.

Chicago defenseman Dave Manson, however, who knocked over one of the linesmen going after Nilan after Chevrier went down, pointed the finger at the Rangers and Nilan.

"It was a cheap thing to do," Manson said. "You expect that from a guy like that, but you can't let that idiot get away something like that."

Women's golf coach hopes player can capture spot on travel squad

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

SIU-C women's golf coach Diane Daugherty hopes senior Lisa Merrit can rebound and earn a spot on the travel squad for the Lady Kat this weekend in Lexington, Ky.

Merrit was not on the traveling team last weekend as the Salukis placed 11th out of 16 teams in the Lady Buckeye tournament in Columbus, Ohio.

The senior had a rough outing in the Lady Northern tournament Sept. 24 and failed to qualify for the Lady Buckeye. The top three golfers in a tournament automatically are put on the roster for the next tournament while the remaining two spots are decided by qualifying rounds at Jackson Country Club.

Coach Diane Daugherty said she hoped to see Merrit return to the traveling team.

"We really missed Lisa Merrit," Daugherty said. "She's been a real stable player for us. She's played the No. 1 spot for the last year and a half. She slumped in Minnesota and then missed the qualifying team."

"You have to set a criteria for qualifying and give everybody a chance," Daugherty said. "It was a hard decision to make as a coach. We have a qualifying round for the Lady Kat and she'll get another chance."

The Salukis finished the Lady Buckeye with 994 strokes, led by senior Lisa Johnson who tied for 18th in the individual standings. Johnson shot 240, followed by senior Julie Shumaker, 245, and sophomores Anne Childress, 251, Gina Giaccone, 261 and Deborah Minter, 262.

Furman University won the tournament with 930, Indiana was second, 936, followed by Ohio State, 947.

Although the team did not place as high in the tournament as in previous weeks, Daugherty was not discouraged with the performances, considering the field of competition.

"It was disappointing because we didn't make it into the top five. It was really some stiff competition," Daugherty said. "We had the same score we've been shooting all along."

"We had some good, consistent play out of Lisa Johnson," Daugherty said. "She's been playing the No. 1 for the past two weeks. She been playing well all season."

Daugherty said playing 36 holes on Friday was a challenge in itself. "We're not in bad shape physically, it just took an adjustment on our part," Daugherty said. "You have to experience playing 36 holes to get used to it physically and mentally. 10 hours is a long time to try and concentrate."

Cubs defeated, but not without fight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants prolonged the Chicago Cubs' long history of heartache Monday, using Will Clark's tie-breaking two-run single in the eighth inning to set up the first Bay Area World Series with a 3-2 triumph in Game 5 of the National League playoffs.

Clark, a unanimous choice for Most Valuable Player of the playoff series, lined a two-out bases-loaded single through the middle of Chicago relief ace Mitch Williams for his record 13th hit of the series. It gave him a .650 average in the playoffs to go along with eight RBI.

In capturing its first pennant in 27 years, San Francisco advances to face the American League champion Athletics in the 86th World Series beginning Saturday night at the Oakland Coliseum, about 20 miles across San Francisco Bay from Candlestick Park.

Teams from the same metropolitan area have not met to decide the baseball championship since 1956, when the New York Yankees beat the Brooklyn Dodgers in a Subway Series.

The Giants snapped a 1-1 tie aided by a decision by Chicago Manager Don Zimmer that will be second-guessed for years.

Cubs starter Mike Bielecki, who allowed only three hits, got the first two outs of the eighth but walked Candy Maldonado, Brett Butler and Robby Thompson.

Zimmer visited the mound after the walk to Butler, but elected to stay with his right-hander. Bielecki then walked Thompson on four pitches, bringing Clark to the plate and Williams out of the bullpen.

Clark, who tripled and scored on Kevin Mitchell's sacrifice fly in the seventh to tie it, fouled off a pair of 1-2 pitches before lashing a liner to center and sending the Candlestick Park crowd of 62,084 into a frenzy.

However, the Cubs did not go quietly. Steve Bedrosian, seeking his third save in as many days, got the first two outs in the ninth. However, pinch-hitter Curtis Wilkerson, Mitch Webster and Jerome Walton all singled to bring Chicago to within 3-2. However, Ryne Sandberg grounded the first pitch to second. Thompson threw to first, triggering a mob scene on the mound and fireworks in center field.

San Francisco starter Rick Reuschel, shelled in a Game 2 loss, was masterful Monday, allowing an unearned run and seven hits in eight innings. The 40-year-old worked out of several jams, including a pair of one-out, first-and-third situations.

The last time the Giants won a World Series was 1954. The team played at the Polo Grounds in New York, and Willie Mays was making basket catches and robbing Vic Wertz and the Cleveland Indians.

The Cubs' seemingly interminable search for a spot in the Series goes on. A symbol of sports frustration, the franchise has not won a pennant since 1945 and has not prevailed in a postseason series in eight tries since 1908.

Typifying the futility of the Cubs was Andre Dawson. The right fielder had just two hits in 19 at-bats for a .105 average and stranded 11 runners in scoring position.

Bielecki was rolling with a two-hitter and a 1-0 lead, but Clark smacked the first pitch of the San Francisco seventh into the right-field corner.

Dawson lunged for the ball, but it tantalizingly slipped from his grasp. The outfielder then overthrew his cutoff man, and Clark slid in with a triple — his record 12th series hit. Mitchell, who fanned in his previous two at-bats, lofted a sacrifice fly to deep center, and the score was tied.

Gateway Conference play to start for volleyball team

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

With the start of conference play this weekend, the Saluki volleyball team is busy preparing for Gateway action and Saluki volleyball coach Patti Hagemeyer is ready to "play for the marbles."

Looking back on the team's 9-6 mark this season, Hagemeyer said there is nothing she would have changed if she had the chance to. "Being a month into the season I wouldn't change anything. Right now, evaluating what has happened in the last month, I am real happy with what they have been doing. The team's gotten better, they have won more than they lost and they are playing better than they were last spring. And that's about all I can ask for right now."

Going into Gateway play is supposed to be more of a challenge for the team and coaching staff, according to Hagemeyer. She said different teams find different ways to adjust to the changes.

"In my eyes conference games are little different (from non-conference). This is where it counts. Not that the rest of the matches didn't count. Now, it is getting down to playing for the marbles and the marbles are a conference bid. So now there is a little different pressure on me trying to establish lineups and coach the way I like to coach."

Hagemeyer said that conference play is going to be the hardest part of the season. "I want my team to rise to the occasion or answer to the pressure that's going to be asked of them in the next month because it's now for the marbles. And this is when I want my team to play the best," Hagemeyer said.

Pressure is a large factor on a team's performance in games Hagemeyer said. "I guess we will have to wait and see what kind of pressure it is and how we handle it because they have never had to deal with that before. And I expect because we are young that we will struggle with it every once in a while."

The Salukis first Gateway game is against Western this Friday at Davies Gymnasium. Hagemeyer said the home crowd is an advantage and can be an intimidating factor to the visiting team.

"I think home games are always exciting because the crowd really gets into what they see. If it was a boring team then those people wouldn't be as excited and I don't think my team is boring. I think the most exciting place to play is home, Hagemeyer said.

Hagemeyer said that there is not a whole lot coaches can do during the game because the players have control of the destiny of the match. "We have to do everything we can do during practice. Otherwise we sit and watch like everyone else during the course of the match," Hagemeyer said.

Before a match Hagemeyer said that the thing she contemplates the most is if her lineup choices are going to work. "Before a match I try to figure out who I think, at that point, is ready to play. I try to make my best guess and most of the time I worry that I'm not guessing right."

In summing up non-conference play and how her team has performed, Hagemeyer said that they are very receptive to the changes she has made. "They try as hard as they can to do what I ask them to do. I will never ever fault them for that because I know that they are trying and working hard

Gabbert earns honor for 2nd straight week

By Daniel Wallenberg

For the second consecutive week sophomore quarterback Scott Gabbert was named the Gateway Conference Offensive Player of the Week.

Gabbert set school records for attempts (60), completions (41) and total yards passing (381) in a single game against Division I-A Northern Illinois University. Two of the records Gabbert broke were his own established against Arkansas State University Sept. 30. In that game Gabbert threw for 343 yards with 28 of 55 passing.

Athletics Director Jim Hart held the other record Gabbert broke. In 1964 Hart threw for 347 yards against Northern Michigan but Gabbert eclipsed that mark by 34 yards against the Huskies.

On breaking Hart's record Gabbert joked: "They're saying he may take away my scholarship."

Gabbert said before the season began he never expected to win the Gateway award once in the season, much less twice.

"My confidence is good right now," Gabbert said. "I think we can score every time we have the ball."

Gabbert said earlier in the year he was excited about the new passing offense brought to the University by first-year head coach Bob Smith. And because former starter Fred Gibson is listed as day-to-day following arthroscopic knee surgery last week, Gabbert will have an opportunity to continue his assault on the record books.

NFL looks for commissioner

DALLAS (UPI) — NFL owners meet Tuesday in another effort to elect a successor to Commissioner Pete Rozelle, whose 29-year tenure has lasted several months longer than he planned.

The second version of the NFL's search committee will offer four names to the ownership, with New Orleans Saints President Jim Finks still the favorite despite his earlier rejection by a dissident group of owners. Finks' name will be presented along with those of Paul Tagliabue, Willie Davis and J. Patrick Barrett. It will take 19 affirmative votes from the 28 owners to elect a commissioner.

Rozelle announced last March he would retire as soon as the league agreed on a replacement. A search committee interviewed prospects early in the summer and finally recommended Finks.

But at a July 6 meeting in Chicago, Finks received only 16 votes. Eleven owners abstained, saying they wanted to have more input in the selection process.

That brought about a second search committee made up of Wellington Mara (New York Giants), Lamar Hunt (Kansas

Tough teams help Salukis improve

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Looking at the schedule before the start of this year's football season, head coach Bob Smith said he was worried about playing "on the same field as Arkansas State and Northern Illinois."

The Salukis lost their last two games to teams who were supposedly to handle the Salukis easily. ASU beat the Salukis 28-23 two weeks ago and NIU won 29-24 over the weekend. Both games were decided in the last minute of the game.

"This team could have easily thrown in the towel against Northern," Smith said. "We are beginning to understand the system."

Even though the Salukis have a record of 1-5, Smith said the experience has made the team better, especially the two recent losses.

"You don't get enough experience playing in a ho-hum game where you get blown out or blow out the other team," Smith said.

"The two losses have brought the team closer together," Smith said. "The value of experience is multiplied when you go through games like that. Unfortunately we were unable to be mature enough to hold on."
