'Mad Painters' Strike:

SIU Decked in Easter Finery

Last week Southern had one of the most brightly colored campuses in the mid-west. Not only had the trees burst forth with their leaves and the spring flowers bloomed, but such campus landmarks as the cannon in front of Old Main and the enclaved concrete bench there sported new Easter outfits.

Blue, pink, red, white and black seem to be the favorite colors of the "mad painters". The cannon was given a coat of many colors, the first victim of the painters.

Since the painters were not apprehended on the cannon job, they

Stolen Key May Be Clue In VTI Case

The key to the Southern Acres Student Center has been reported stolen, according to Robert Ehrhardt, assistant dean of men. He said the key was apparently used to open the center's door when it was robbed on April 8.

"This explains why there was no evidence of forced entry," said Ehrhardt.

A safe was found open and about $10 was taken from the center's office. Ehrhardt said that the robbery occurred between 12:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. on the day after the "Miss Southern Acres Dance".

A screwdriver was found near the safe which is similar to the one in the Student Union's office. Investigations have been taken from the safe, but the screwdriver has a case in its handle, so none were taken from it.

Apparently the money was snatched from the bottom of the safe with a fork. The screwdriver was used to remove a metal strip at the lower front part of the safe.

The SIU Office of Student Affairs, the Southern Acres Physical Plant, and the Williamson County Sheriff are investigating the robbery.

Hospitality Weekend Activities Open Today

The selection of "Mr and Miss Hospitality Weekend" will highlight the Hospitality Weekend activities today and tomorrow.

Over 250 students from schools in the 33 southernmost counties of Illinois are expected to attend. A full weekend of tours, talks, and social events are on tap for the high schoolers, with a dance Saturday night the highlight.

'Sing' Highlights Activities

Greek Week Opens May 18

The 11th Annual Greek Sing will highlight this year's Greek Week, which runs May 18-25.

The 718 sorority and fraternity members on campus look forward to the "Sing" more than any other event, according to Jack Barber, co-chairman.

Greek Week brings the members of the nine fraternities and six sororities together for the traditional Sing, track meet, picnic, workshop, and dance.

The purposes of Greek Week, said co-chairman Mary Ann Edwards, "are to evaluate the Greeks in respect to campus and community activities; better cooperation among the Greeks; improve public relations; and best of all, just to have fun."

Greek Sing, which will be in Shroyok Auditorium May 19, is

Homecoming Chairmanship To Giles In Election Marked By Disinterest

Chris Conner

Chris Conner Signed For Festival Concert, Dance

Chris Conner, singing star of recording and television, will be backed by George Hudson's group at the Spring Festival Concert and Dance May 4.

Miss Conner, former vocalist with Stan Kenton and Jerry Wald, is now recording for Atlantic Records. Her current hit is "I Miss You So."

Hudson's orchestra is well known in the St. Louis area, and has played in many of the night clubs there. He has backed many star vocalists, including Billy Eckstine, Sarah Vaughn, and Nat "King" Cole, during their St. Louis appearances.

Miss Conner has released records under Capitol, Decca, and Bethlehem labels.

The concert will be held at 7:30 Saturday night in Shroyok Auditorium. Tickets for the event will cost $1.25 for advance reserve seats. General admission sold in advance will cost $1.00 or $1.25 if bought at the door.

The "Golden Era Ball" will be held at 9:30 Saturday night in the National Guard Armory. Ticket prices for the dance will be $2.00 per couple in advance, or $2.50 at the door.

In place of the traditional "breakfast," this year's festival

In an election marked by disinterest, SIU students chose the 1957 homecoming chairman and student council representatives Tuesday.

Less than 24 per cent of the student body voted in the election.

The election rules prohibited the use of party names in connection with advertising for the candidates, but it was common knowledge that parties or coalitions were supported.

Five candidates supported by Inter-Greek were elected and six sponsored by the Joint Activities Committee of Woody Hall, Men's Residence Halls, and Organized Off-Campus Housing won seats. Two candidates not sponsored by any coalition won.

Tom Giles, backed by JAC, won the contest for Homecoming chairman with a 78 vote margin. Babe Phelps, (Inter-Greek) polled 350 votes, and Dick Hunsaker, running without organized support, Inter-Greek sponsored candidates won three of the four positions for Senior Student Council representatives: Mary Ann Edwards, Carol Van Dover, and Dale Cozard. Gary Heape, running independently, won the other seat.

In an even split, Danny Bode and Myrna Kuhn, backed by Inter-Greek, were elected and six sponsored by the Joint Activities Committee of Woody Hall, Men's Residence Halls, and Organized Off-Campus Housing won seats. Two candidates not sponsored by any coalition won.

Only 1,370 students voted in the election. There are some 5,800 eligible voters.

Broken down by classes, the figures looked like this: freshman, 361 votes cast out of an eligible 1,514; sophomores, 332 out of a possible 1,040; juniors, 280 out of 837; and seniors, 143 out of 900. VTI cast 245 votes out of an eligible 509.

The closest race was for girls' senior representative Mary Ann Edwards, who polled 175 votes, 3 votes ahead of runner-up Yvonne Anton, who polled 172 votes.

The team of Peter Morris and Ted Foster defeated Motorola State, Hardin-Summons College, Phillips U., Washington State, Southeastern Oklahoma State, and Central Michigan. They were awarded an "excellent" certificate for debate and also the same for sweepstakes awards.

Only losses went to Pepperdine College in California, and Carter-Nelson College of Tennessee.

The team of Regina Miller and Marsha Wiehn defeated Dakota State, Hunon College of South Dakota, Louisiana State College, and Omaha University. They were defeated by Seattle Pacific College, Kansas State Teachers College, San Diego State College, and Washington State.

Saturday night will be the climax of the Festival, with the concert, the dance, and the pizza supper.

Electors held in the Student Union last Friday saw the following winners: Don Roper, graduate assistant, Sociology and Anthropology; Michael Boatman, lecturer in English; Dr. David Parker, psychology; Jack Buckle, Head Resident Counselor; Dr. Erwin Stasck, coordinator of student financial assistance;

Dr. Russell Trimble, chemistry; Willmore Hastings, small business administration; Emerson Ethel, business administration; and Robert Turnell, business administration.

The chorus line will hold its first rehearsal April 29.

The Editors' Opinions

Tough Job Ahead

Spring election results show 5 Greek candidates, 5 Joint Activities Committee candidates and 2 completely independent candidates winning offices.

The major significance of the election lies in the distribution of the seats on the Student Council. The Greeks have 5, JAC 5. Just as party names do not appear on the ballot, so is there an absence of visible party affiliations during Council meetings. But party affiliations do exist, and therefore it is healthy to see such a pitting off in the new Council.

The new Council can hardly take over with a feeling of complete student-body backing. Some 4,430 students failed to vote. Where their vote would have gone, or where their future support will go, is debatable.

Of course, it is questionable if the 76 per cent of the student body that did not vote will give any support to anything the Council does.

It is a sad thing that many of the non-voters will cry, yell, tell tales, harass, and in general, declaim the new Council, and its decisions from time to time. In view of their number, it is a shame that they should, at least in number, profit most from decisions made by those represented by so few.

The new Council however, regardless of support or non-support, has as its main objective making decisions which are in the voice of the majority of the student body.

Each Council member, by accepting office, in effect pledges himself to represent the student body to the best of his ability. No one member can expect to do this without spending much time and effort in attending meetings, working on committees, and diligently listening to all suggestions, complaints or advice.

The new Council will be the most important undergraduate body on campus. It will also have the toughest job of any undergraduate body on campus.

THE EGYPTIAN wishes the new Council the best of luck.

The Ol' Swimmin' Hole

Southern's collegians now have one more addition to make on their lists of possible weekend activities.

A swimming beach at the SIU Little Grassy Lake camp will be open on Saturday. There will be bus service to and from the beach. Buses will leave from the Student Union.

It is a fine thing for the University to offer such a recreation facility. This, and other weekend activities already initiated by the University, indicate its encouragement for students to stay on campus over the weekends. Many students indicate they would be glad to stay, if only there were enough activities.

Therefore, if actual on-campus collegiate life is to include a majority of the students, there must be a variety of events and activities available to them.

As time passes and Southern grows, more and more facilities will probably become available. There are, however, many programs and activities which can and should stem from the collegian.

There are, perhaps, other possible activities or programs which the University would be glad to initiate, if only they were aware of them. The administration cannot always know the students' wants and desires unless the students let their wants and desires be known.

Meanwhile, let's all pack those buses to Little Grassy. Possibly Sunday buses will follow.

CUTTING UP

It was good to see the painters un-paint the mad painters' ill-limed artistry this past week. One little scene probably looked better painted. Or perhaps a stone mason should have accompanied the painters and patched up the little bench. At any rate, it is hoped the painters can return to better pursuits. This includes the mad painters.

It was somewhat amusing on election day to see serious-minded voters step out of voting booths and then deposit their ballots in a trash can. Votes, however, are what count in an election. What they are deposited in has nothing to do with the outcome.

I said votes are what count. This means that more than 4,000 of Southern's collegians don't count very much. That 76 per cent of a student body should have no interest in their remaining time on campus is amazing. Also, I wonder how many of the 76 per cent will miss homecoming next fall.

This is one weekend you couldn't accomplish a thing by going home. If the normal equalization takes place, half the 250 high school seniors visiting campus will be worth looking over. Possibly some words may have similar ideas concerning the other half. Regardless of how you look at it, Hospitality Weekend should prove to be interesting.

The weekend will find some of us taking advantage of the new Little Grassy beach. Others will reclaim some old haunts of last year, mostly in the Crab Orchard area.

Then there's an always fabulously-attended Coke dance Saturday afternoon.

Not to mention other sundry weekend items either on or off the agenda. So put the carpet bag back in the closet and give yourself a chance for a real collegiate weekend.

2,250 This Term Program Changes A Headache

By George Bliss and Tony Fife

Did you change your program this spring? If you did, you're one of the characters who are the cause of the administration buying aspirin by the carload.

More than 2,250 — better than 41 per cent of the student body — made program changes this term. And if you don't think that poses a headache to advisers, checkers in sectioning, the Registrar's office, and the Statistical Service, check these figures.

Each program change requires slightly more than 30 minutes to process. Multiply this by the 2,264 changes made, and you have a lot of man-hours going down the drain.

Each time you get the idea you want to change a class, you spend about 15 minutes in your adviser's office, and about 5 minutes with the checker in Sectioning. Then you trot over to the Registrar's office, and six minutes are required for them to process your change.

The registrar forwards your change to Statistical Service, who must spend another 2 minutes on it.

(These figures don't take into consideration the worst, at least in your part. This, of course is the money angle. The University, like all institutions is bound by a huge web of red tape required by the law, checks in Sectioning, two weeks, all the little wheels start to turn, and more expense to SIU is incurred.)

This isn't the end of the road for your change. Both professors must be told about it, as well as the Office of Student Affairs and the dean of your college. This all adds up to more money and time lost.

All told, just the processes here take up more than 1,100 man-hours. (Or women-hours, as the case may be.)

This is about 28 weeks' work for one guy, and we'll bet you wouldn't work that hard yourself.

"Sure, some of the changes are necessary," said Alden Hall, in charge of the registration, "but the largest part of them aren't."

"If the students would spend more time thinking out their programs, they would save all of this lot of money," he added as he reached for another aspirin.

There are 13 divisions of this university, and most have a phenomenal rate of change during program changing time.

"Want to know how your college stacks up in the sweatshops? Here's the standings as of last week:

Education, 633 out of 813 changed programs; 267 of 1,805 in Business. Industry changed 489 out of a possible 1,040 in Liberal Arts and Sciences changed Communications, with 136 possible, had 86 changes; Fine Arts went 27 out of 111. Agriculture students batted a strong 119 of 198, unclassified undergraduates (216 of 'em in all) had 131 changes, and Home Ec had 10 changes out of a possible 45.

Industrial education with 332 students had 110 changes, Nursing (25 students) pulled 6, and graduate students had 178 changes out of a 482 possibility.

The Small Business Institute had one program change. But don't lock down on them; they only have a few students, and would stand up quite respectably on percentage of change.

Then, too, a minor headache was brought on by the eight people who changed colleges completely, and the 88 who just gave it up and left school.

Why don't you give everyone a break . . . the university, and yourself. They've really shut down on the free changes. It'll probably cost you two bucks. So give a little thought to your original schedule, huh?

A Sanctuary? Nameless Building Stands Empty

By Ray Sarril

Nestled between Algeid and Shrock in one of the quiet corners of the SIU campus is a little wooden building. This little building with no specific name has had a long history.

Many students have searched in vain for the history of this small building partially hidden in an alcove of trees and shrubs.

Throughout its history it has had many uses ranging from a pump house to a home for bunnies. But now the building is empty.

The little house which takes its place as the smallest permanent building on the SIU campus, seems to have stepped from a fairy tale with its couple, shingled roof, and rounded windows.

It was built 57 years ago to serve as a shelter for a new engine and pump that was installed when a 300-foot artesian well was drilled. At that time the city water supply was just being bunk and there was a great need for adequate water, since the burning of Old Main was still vivid.

A few years later Louis Peterson requested a place to house his furnace which was essential equipment for the newly organized manual training class. President Parkinson suggested that the forge be housed in the pump house in case of fire.

For a number of years the little house served as a blacksmith shop and pump house until the need for both a private water supply and blacksmith shop disappeared.

President Lay was the next person to put the little house into use. He had the building repaired and shelves for his books were installed, and then it became his private study.

Supposedly Dr. Lay carried the only key to the building. The key was identified by a tag which is said to have read, "President Lay's Summer White House."

After President Lay finished using the building it was empty until 1949. In that year Dr. Charles Foster, associate professor of zoology, acquired the house as a home for his bunnies which he was using for some research work.

At one time there were almost 200 of the small creatures housed in the quaint little house. The last of the occupants died in 1952.

The next occupants of the building were some students doing research work on their graduate thesis' in endocrinology. After their leaving no one has occupied the building.

In 1954 Dr. Paul Hunsinger, of the speech department, suggested that the building be made into a sanctuary for students who want to get away from the hustle and bustle of college life.

"Everyone thinks something should be done during Religious Emphasis Week," but after that nothing happens," Dr. Hunsinger said.

Dr. Hunsinger has tried in vain since 1954 to get a group of students interested in making the building into a sanctuary. It is a weeks ago Dr. Hunsinger approached the Student Council. President Sonnie Unger appointed a committee to investigate the usage of the building. Appointed to the committee were Jane Carver, Max Malone, Bobbie Harris, and president Unger.

"We don't have anything delicate here, but we hope to have something soon," said President Unger.

According to Dr. Hand no department is using the building at the present time.

"We have not allocated the building to anyone, but we also have a request from the museum," said Dr. Hand.

Dr. Hand told the Egyptians that the administration does not have any specific use for the building at present and is willing to cooperate with the students by making the building available for an informal sanctuary or chapel.

Gus Bode Says

Gus Bode says thanks for the vote in Tuesday's election; although he didn't win, he knows he still has friends.

Gus says what with the tight close about getting shorter, eye-balling should be better this summer than ever before.

Gus Bode says he wonders what right 76 per cent of the students have for being in college; they didn't even bother to vote, says Gus.

Gus says he'll see everyone at the new Little Grassy beach Saturday and that he is taking his sun lotion along so he can have a hot time without getting burned.

CHAIRMAN GETS THE CAN
Some students seem to have a knack for finding something funny, even in something as serious as an election. None had to go out of their way, however. All they had to do was cast a vote for Honoring Chairman at the polls in front of the Student Union Tuesday.

The Fashion Parade

White's The Thing
By Joyce Brinkley
City Editor

The gal who leads the sports fashions parade this spring will be wearing white, according to the May issue of Mademoiselle.

The color will be predominant in her every sports outfit — whether she is swimming, fishing, or playing tennis, golf, or croquet, or simply watching from the sidelines.

For a seascape with boats, a featured outfit is a pair of trimmed blacks of white knit cavalry trousers below a striped cotton jersey T-shirt long enough to sit on and tall enough to draw up over your head. In the wake of these designer fashions and still very much in the swim after over a quarter of a century is the knit swimsuit and wool maille without red and white straps suggest a mildly color switched about.

In action on the tennis courts is a white tennis dress of Ann Shalshank, saw-toothed with pleats for quick and easy motion at the net. For comparatively quiet croquet, there is a pique separates with carnations big as sunflowers on the skirt half.

Every spectator in the grandstands is wearing white. There's a gentle waist sepiator dress, tucked to the waist and bloused over its belt, with pockets poked out at the sides. Another favorite is a Johnny-collared, waist-length white Orion sweater. Almost a definition of the spectator look is a low-buttoned navy cotton cardigan above a sprate of peats, and shined with brass.

In contrast with the abundance of white is a splash of gay colors in the form of fine prints. Some of these dresses have a gentle, ladylike aspect of silk — even to the print — but they're really cotton. One dress has clumps of lilies on cotton; another has a handful of pink clover arranged on cotton voile, which, in turn, is arranged in pleats.

AFTERMATH
These physical plant painters were delegated the task of removing the paint from the ancient bench in front of the old library Monday. The "mad painters" thoughtfully used permanent paint for their Easter decorations, after the cannon in front of old Main and the time capsule in front of Shryock Auditorium were dabbled last week.

Saukis Top Eastern 6-2 And 5-3; Host Strong Western Squad Today

Gillmore Tosses Neat One-Hitter

Southern will meet 1/2 strong Leatherneck nine from Western Illinois this afternoon in the first baseball action on SIU soil this season.
Fresh from a double victory at Eastern Illinois, 6-2 and 5-3, the Salkis will take a 2-2 IAC and overall record into today's double header.
Western is ranked as a conference title contender this season, and after winning eight of their first nine contests, they are gunning for an all-important IAC win or two against the home nine. Today's games will be played at the Chautauque Field with game time set for 1:30 p. m.

MOUND HOPES RISE

Southern's pitching staff received a shot in the arm last Monday when Freshman John Gillmore curved the Eastern Panthers on a one-hit victory.

PROBABLE PITCHERS

Saukis (2-1) will coach Glenn "Abe" Martin's probable starting assignments today with Gordon Lambert or Don Gibbs in relief of Chabers.

Coach Martin's pitching staff pulled a direct about face last week as they kept the Eastern plate powder under wraps throughout both contests. SIU trailed in both games, and was forced to rally late in the second contest to take the win.

In the opener, Mansav Ronnie Avers of Hout, Ill., went the complete nine-inning route for the second straight time. Avers was a loser at Northern Ill. two weeks ago, mainly because of wildness. The bespectacled right-hander pitched an almost perfect control game against the Eastern Panthers, how- ever, as he walked only one man while striking out six.

A newcomer this year, Lefty John Gillmore, found himself right at home on the mound in the second game, as he tied his curvball slants for a neat no-hitter.
The only hit by Gillmore's pitching came in the Eastern fourth when Panther batter Monke slaps a grounder toward right field.

John fanned five in the seventh inning contest, and only two to the Panther runs were earned. In the other six innings, outside of the Eastern fourth, not a Panther pitched base hit.

Southern scored two runs in the fourth and two more in the ninth to preserve Avers' win in the first game.
The Salkis scored their first major hit in the third inning, when Dick Dillinger walked, took second on a Jones sacrifice, and scored on North Vogel's single.

They picked up two more in the sixth on a double by Don Taylor, an error by the Eastern batter, and a single by J. W. Sanders.
Southern displayed some fancy base-running last Monday, as they pulled three base hits in the first game. Jones, Sanders, and Taylor were the culprits. Eastern's defense was somewhat spotty, and Southern capitalized on the five Panther mistakes.

Martinmen picked up ten hits in the second game, even though it went only seven innings.
Leading 3-1 going into the Southern sixth, "Buck" Jones, a left-handed batter, doubled sharply inside the left-field chaff, Vogel singled, scoring Jones. A single by Don Taylor and a sacrifice fly by "Rocky" Bridges brought home two more. John Orlando, who was out behind the plate in the second game, doubled to keep things alive, but Gillmore ended the inning on a deep fly to center.

SPORTS VIEWS FROM A DIFFERENT ANGLE

KNOCK ON WOOD

Despite the fact that we're beginning to feel like a baseball jinx, we're going to make another astounding prediction.
We predict that the Salkis will play a double header with Western Illinois today, with the opener being thrown somewhere in the vicinity of 1:30 p. m.

Normally that wouldn't be much of a prediction, but considering the past weather conditions, we feel more precarious than we had predicted two consecutive no-hit-ers.

Southern's baseball teams have always drawn fair attendance in past years, at least once the season was underway. The 1957 season is well underway also, but our team has yet to play a home game.
I have a top view, of that we are sure. Whether they can do all the way to the top of the IAC remains to be seen. We think they can, even with the present 2-2 record. The breaks, of course, in such a short schedule, mean so much.

Today's game is slated to start, we repeat, at 1:30, and we expect to see a large turnout for the Salkis opener. Our advice to baseball fans is... cut all afternoon classes, and shake your fist at the sky every time a cloud moves.

A recap of the inning, in which Gillmore allowed the only base-runners of the day, is as follows:
We walked the lead-off man, when the second man tried to bunt. Gillmore threw a wild pitch. The batter then laid down his sacrifice, and Roger Buyan threw the ball wild to first base, scoring a run.

Monke took second when Monke's runner going home... failed.
I cut down a runner going to third, leaving a runner on first with Bridges at first.
The runner then proceeded to steal second, take third on a wild throw, and then seal home.

Sigma Tau Wins On 1 Hit, 6-3

Sigma Tau Gamma made only one hit but defeated Delta Chi Tuesday by the score of 6-3. This game highlighted early week play in the intramural program.
Miller pitched for Delta Chi but his main trouble was getting the ball over the fence. Fourteen Sig Tau's walked. Whitehead was the winning pitcher and he only allowed four hits.

The Sig Tau's started things off with two runs in the first on two walks and an error. They scored three more in the second when Miller walked Hankins, Cronk, Rapp and Whitlock in order and then, after striking out Seaud, he walked Riggles, Massa and Lelli.
The Delta Chi's got their first run in the third when Curry singled and scored on an error and Fielder's choice. Riggles made the only hit, a double, for the Sig Tau's in the second.

In other games, the Clowns used our Backs Four, 22-18 and the Clowns made less error than the Thompson Point No. 3, first base to win 16-15.

MORAL: You'll pass the pleasure test with Chesterfield King. Yes, if you want your pleasure gums cum laude, smoke Chesterfield King! BIG length, BIG flavor, the smoothest tasting smoke today because it's packed more smoothly by ACCU-RAY.
