Board gets illuminating idea for Arena fields

By Patricia Edwards

The playing fields southeast of the Arena may get lights. The Intramural-Recreational Sports Advisory Board has recommended that a plan to install the lights be further researched before a formal funding request is submitted to Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne. Lighted playing fields would improve the overall quality of intramural sports at SIU-C, said Buddy Goldhammer, coordinator of intramural sports.

Playing time is now limited to daylight hours, restricting weekday competition from 4 to 6 p.m. Most intramural activity must take place during the weekends.

Forfeits usually occur during the weekend because peripheral interests and activities compete for the players' time, Goldhammer said. If lights are installed at the fields, games would be played on weeknights, weekdays included, on Sunday evenings.

William McMinn, director of aquatics, began the quest for lighted playing fields about two to three years ago. He said the plan would increase participation, increase the quantity of the programs and improve the community relations.

Swinburne has said he is "enthusiastic" about the idea and that he thinks the University needs lights for the fields.

He has not committed himself to support the proposal however, because he has not studied the details he said.

Goldhammer's lighted field would be about $45,000. Goldhammer said the board hopes to obtain lighting for three or four fields.

The lights would be implemented by stages, perhaps one each year, he said.

The board will probably submit a formal proposal to Swinburne by July, said William Bleyer, director of intramural recreation.

The board is hoping that the first stage of the plan—the lighted fields for lightweight—will be implemented during the next fiscal year.

"The program would be funded through Intramural Center repair, replacement, and modernization fund.

Even though the debate team didn't win the national tournament at Wichita State University last weekend, it scored enough points throughout the year to earn the national championship crown.

Determining the national champion is a cumulative process which starts in late September and ends with the national tournament in early April, said team coach Jeff Bile. The team with the most points at the end of the national tournament is the champion.

Washington: Khadafy 'mad dog of Middle East'

By Tom Mangan

Southern Illinois region could face a serious shortage of blood coming in the next few weeks. The blood drive at SIU-C does reach its goal of 5,000 pints by Friday, blood drive promotions director Gary Huirish said Wednesday.

The American Red Cross, expecting the University community to donate a five-day blood supply for a region suffering even a few days around St. Louis, put all its eggs in one basket and didn't schedule additional major blood drives to supply the area. Huirish said.

The Red Cross has not yet declined an emergency appeal — which would happen if operations were being delayed because of a shortage — but that could happen as early as next week if the blood drive fails to reach its goal, he said.

The Red Cross says it needs 1,500 pints a day to supply the region's blood needs. Since the drive began Sunday, about 2,300 pints have been collected, roughly half of the amount of blood needed since the drive began.

"This is an emotional appeal," Huirish said. "We're going beyond the corny little血sode.

Gus says send the debate team to talk it up for the blood drive.

Reagan: Khadafy 'mad dog of Middle East'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan denied Wednesday that U.S. naval maneuvers in the Gulf of Sidra were an attempt to provoke Libya into war, but he said there was considerable evidence that Muammar Khadafy — the "mad dog of the Middle East" — was behind recent terrorist attacks.

Reagan said the showdown with Libya had come about following Libyan missile attacks on American ships and nuclear reactor in Europe.

The president said that the planes ventured across the "line of death" to avoid giving credibility to Khadafy's claim that the Gulf of Sidra was Libyan territory.

Reagan's news conference came on the same day U.S. officials said the orders for two aircraft carrier battle groups in the Mediterranean were changed to keep them in the area, with a port visit for one of the carriers canceled.

Asked about the possibility of retaliation for two recent terrorist attacks — a bomb blast that ripped a hole in a TWA airliner flying from Rome to Athens, killing four Americans, and the explosion in a West Berlin disco that killed 15 people — Reagan said there was "considerable evidence" that Khadafy was behind the terrorism but added, "We're continuing our investigation work."

"We're not ready yet to speak on that. It depends on what we learn."

The gathering evidence as fast as we can," Reagan described Khadafy as the "mad dog of the Middle East" and said Libya has "singled us out more and more" for terrorist attacks.

He said the naval maneuvers that resulted in the showdown were not an "unusual thing," noting that similar operations were conducted similar operations seven times since he took office after several years of absence from the area.

"Since Libyans rockets were fired at American jets flying over the gulf, Reagan felt compelled to respond.

The president said there was no harder decision to make than placing our young men and women in danger" by retaliating.

House rejects handgun, silencer restrictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a victory for the powerful gun lobby, the House rejected an amendment Wednesday, that would have banned the interstate sale of handguns and sales of silencers. Voting 248-136, lawmakers rejected plugs from supporters of strict gun control laws, who argued that the issue is a matter of "life and death." The House was expected to take up other amendments later, as well as the final bill, which would ease the nation's gun laws for the first time since 1968.

West Germany expels two Libyan diplomats

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — West Germany ordered the expulsion of two Libyan diplomats Wednesday day after government sources said the United States had stepped up pressure on Bonn to apply sanctions against Libya to protest its support of terrorism. The expulsions were ordered by Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher on the basis of accumulating evidence that the two men had "taken steps incompatible with normal diplomatic practice," chief government spokesman Friedhelm Ost told a news conference.

U.N. allows inspection of secret Waldheim file

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United Nations allowed Austrian and Israeli investigators Wednesday to examine a secret file on former U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who has been accused of committing Nazi war crimes. Israeli U.N. Ambassador Benjamin Netanyahu told reporters after scrutinizing the file for 90 minutes that an investigation is needed into Waldheim's alleged collaboration with the Nazis as a German army officer in World War II.

Ship movements indicate return to Libya

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Orders to two U.S. aircraft carrier battle groups in the Mediterranean have been changed amid strong indications Wednesday the United States plans to launch another round of military action against Libya. U.S. officials said the carrier America, now steaming west of Sardinia in the western Mediterranean, canceled a visit to Cannes on the French Riviera that was scheduled for Thursday and the carrier Coral Sea was ordered to stay in port in Malaga, Spain, indefinitely and not head home as planned, the officials said.

Sanctions against South Africa demanded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress members demanded Wednesday that South Africa suffer economic sanctions until it abandons apartheid, but the departments of state, treasury and commerce urged the lawmakers to stick with the administration's policy of "constructive engagement." Rep. Parents of gays can learn to accept it, speaker says

By Patricia Edwards

Most parents are shocked to discover their child is gay, but they can learn to deal with it, says Barbara Berridge, a member of the organization "Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays."

Berridge spoke to about 15 people Tuesday at Mainstreet East. Her presentation was one of the activities for Gay Awareness Week.

Berridge, of O'Fallon, became active in PFLAG after discovering her daughter was a lesbian. She spoke of parents' reactions, fears and ways of accepting the fact that their child is gay.

Parents often suspect their children are homosexual, but tend to rationalize it as a passing phase their "youth, impressionable" children will outgrow, as Berridge said she and her husband did when their daughter Beth first told them.

In their case Beth had been stationed in California in the Air Force when she first mentioned that she thought she might be bisexual. Later when she was stationed in Germany as a linguist of Russian with a top security clearance, she wrote to her parents that she was tired of living a lie and feared being caught and given a dishonorable discharge.

Beth left the Air Force with an honorable discharge two

International radio link-up to join University, Soviets

By Toby Eckert

About 15 students will participate in a live radio exchange next month with students at Moscow State University in the Soviet Union, says Keith Sanders, dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts.

Although no definite date for the exchange has not been set, Sanders sent a telegram message to the Soviets Wednesday suggesting that the exchange take place May 15 or 16.

The exchange will be transmitted from SIU-C's public broadcasting studios through a radio hookup with Gostradio, the Soviet state radio network.

Sanders said the broadcast would be made available to any American outlet that wants it.

"It is likely that the program will have a large international audience in the United States and the Soviet Union and possibly some other countries," he said.

University officials received a proposal for the hookup from the Soviets about a week ago, Sanders said.

Walter C. Rodgers, ABC News' Moscow bureau chief and a graduate of SIU-C, passed the University's name along to the Soviets after he was contacted by Soviet of-
Musical scene making a comeback

This letter is a bit overdue, but it took a grand experience to prompt me to actually get this letter written and submitted. I want to thank Student Programming Council (SPC) and Concerts committee for finally bringing something different and new to the musically lifeless town.

Having attended the University from 1978-1982, I had the pleasure of experiencing several of our local bands (Dr. Bombay, James and the Flames, Blue on a Dime, Big Twist, and Visor) as well as many very talented musicians and bands (Bruce Springsteen, Talking Heads, Bob Dylan, Jean Luc Ponty, Peter Gabriel, Muddy Waters, and Van Morrison, just to name a few). Upon returning to SIU last August, I was looking forward to the "great music scene" that SIU normally has to offer in keeping to this musically lifeless town.

But thanks to SPC, things are looking up again! The March 21 Club Carribe with Mr. Myers was certainly refreshing! Saturday night's concert with Stanley Clarke aided by Angus Thomas and the SIU Jazz Ensemble was especially enjoyable! Taking into account that both of these events were well attended by enthusiastic and appreciative crowds, I think I can safely say that SIU students are still musically starved people out there like me!

Keep the good acts coming SIU! - mark -

Great events since the 1908 World Series

In 1908 the Chicago Cubs won the World Series. Since then:

1. Radio was invented.
2. Four states were admitted to the Union.
3. Television was invented.
4. The United States participated in two world wars.
5. Minor league baseball teams were started (Korea and Vietnam).
6. Man landed on the moon.
7. Thirteen presidents were elected and one was appointed.
8. Wrigley Field was built and became the oldest baseball park in the National League.
9. Five flag poles, erected at Wrigley Field for the purpose of holding a World Series flag, have all been replaced by ever being placed on a pennant.
10. Lights were installed at 35 minor league baseball stadiums.
11. Ten teams were added to the major league.

Why cut a winning program?

What's ten national championships? Let's take any extra funds from cutting women's gymnastics and give it to the poll teams so they can perfect their "game'!"

How about the most popular sport here at the University? Tennis.

Date set for new jail construction
By Tom Atkins
The Daily Egyptian

Ground could be broken for the new Jackson County jail by the middle of April. The Jackson County Building Commission Wednesday discussed proposals for the new jail with the senior partners in the Perrow, Corp., the firm hired to design and develop the further refine existing plans.

Commission Chairman Raul Guzman said the refining process could go on until the new jail plans go to the Illinois Department of Corrections for approval. High security changes required by IDOC, then construction bids, could, until the bidding process, could put the date for ground breaking at about Feb. 15, 1987, he said.

The county had previously promised officials that ground breaking would take place by May 14. Commissioners have pushed that date back, however.

The attorney general's office filed a lawsuit in February against Jackson County and state deficiencies in the existing jail.

The planned jail will be capable of housing a total of 114 inmates, 24 in a dormitory-style arrangement, 46 in single cells.

A total of $16,038.22 was approved as payment for services offered by the Perrow Corp.

The commission also approved a tentative budget of $300,000 for improvements in the Jackson County nursing home. This approval will allow architects to design schematics for the improvements.

Acceptance of their child's homosexuality at home is difficult, he said.

"Some parents have 'approved' acceptance. They want to be modern and are gung-ho about it, but are still uncomfortable underneath.

Others have the 'OK, so you're gay but let's keep it our own little secret' level of acceptance, Berridge said. Or, parents treat their child's partner as a 'friend' or roommate and refer to them as such to their friends and relatives.

Total acceptance comes when parents and friends let their minds grow out of traditional ways of thinking and become unconcerned about what others will think.

"La Mancha" is a fine rendition of a centuries-old classic play

By Maureen Cavanagh
Staff Writer

The "Man of La Mancha" has materialized from nearly 500 years past, parading in Cervantes classic, into an animated and driven musical. The world-famous drama, based on the masterpiece "Don Quixote" by Miguel de Cervantes y Saavedra, was performed Tuesday in the Gracyk Auditorium.

Set in late 16th century Spain, the characters of the "Man of La Mancha" are imprisoned in a dungeon. When inmate Miguel de Cervantes, played by James Banner, is thrown down a large stairway and onto the stage, set up as a dungeon, the action begins. He is approached by the other prisoners, who discover a manuscript of the "Man of La Mancha." As they are about to destroy the work, Cervantes relates the story of Don Quixote, the "Man of La Mancha."

CERVANTES TRANSPORTS himself into the immortal and outrageously idealistic, passionate knight errant on a mustache, goatee and eyebrows, then dresses himself as a priest and carries a sword.

Banner sang "Man of La Mancha" with a confidence that could conquer the world. The song convincingly shows his character's obstinately proud and uncompromising altruism. Quixote's intentions make John Wayne look like a Democrat.

QUIXOTE SERAÑADES a broken woman, whom he calls "Dulcinea." She is a servant woman who is enslaved in the dungeon. She was desolate at birth and knelt down and knelt down and knelt down her entire life but was incitingly pretty. The man who wants to beat her and demand sexual favors, Aldonza rejects him, but... one does not question sincerity.

""The Quest."" ""To dream the impossible dream, to fight the unbeatable foe, to bear unbearable sorrow to run where the brave dare not go..."" - an understatement, is inspiring. He sings it again at the end, when Dulcinea comes to his deathbed and he regains memory of his days of knighthood.

DEFENDING his master, Quixote, Sancho, played by Joseph Dispensa, sings, ""I really like you."" Dispatch a Dom DeLuise look-alike dressed like Henry VIII, is an added attraction on stage. His loyalty became almost the envy of the audience. As a humorous and bumbling pauper, he demanded comedy. With lines like ""I like him, I really like him. Tear out my fingernails, one by one. SIU-C insurance changes hands

By David Sheets

Insurance coverage for University employees will be administered by a new policy holder beginning July 1.

But the change will not reduce the coverage currently being offered to the employees, said William Capie, executive director of the Personnel & Service Office.

Capie explained the change during the Administrative and Professional Staff Council meeting Wednesday in Anthony Hall.

Employees are now under the coverage of Blue Cross-Blue Shield, as are all state employees, Capie said, but that coverage will be discontinued on June 30, the final day of the 1986 fiscal year.

"All employees will be issued new insurance identification cards in lieu of the old cards," Capie said. Although no new insurance company has been announced, Capie said the state, Capie said. The Equitable insurance will probably be the new claim processor.

"Just the new identification card and what the employees will notice from the change. The benefits will not change," Capie said.

Capie explained that the state accepts insurance company bids "from time to time" for insurance coverage for its employees.

But Blue Cross-Blue Shield was excluded early on in the bidding process for something ar and I'm not sure why.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield "was the insurance company for the state. It processed and paid the insurance claims," Capie said. But the new policy holder for the state will only process the claims, not pay the claims, Capie added. Payment for the claims will be administered by the state. Capie said, essentially meaning that the state is self-insured.

The money to pay the claims will come from the premiums that the state used to pay Blue Cross-Blue Shield. "Those premiums will go into a pool of money that will be used to pay the claims," Capie stressed.

Capie stressed that the new policy holders will not affect the University's coverage for students.

The University signed a contract with Blue Cross-Blue Shield last August for coverage of student insurance claims. Prior to August the University was self-insured in handling student claims.

Capie added that the policy holder change will also not affect insurance benefits for dependents and spouses of University employees.

Government cancels tests again; protesters camp out

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPT) – The government canceled an underground nuclear blast for the second straight day Wednesday at the Nevada Test Site, where irritating protesters feared as possible terrorists prepared to camp for days.

Rep. Harry Reid, D-Nev., said he was informed unofficially by the Department of Energy that the test was scrubbed again for a variety of reasons, including unfavorable winds, technical problems and the protesters.

"We know the bomb did not go off," Reid said. "The least credible of those reasons is arms posturing with the Soviets."

Anti-nuclear protesters sneaked onto the 1,350-square-mile desert research compound for the third straight day, attempting to force the government to halt its detonation of a reported 1.3 kiloton wunderhead at Rainier Field.

The blast was postponed Tuesday until more favorable weather because of high winds in the Nevada desert, according to Energy Department sources.

"We weren't looking for a fight... just to belong," Mark Dillon, Raph Macchio and Robin Lowe, who have been protesting nuclear tests for years.

"They aren't going to stop us," said Lowe and his wife, Mel Gibson, who were at the test site to observe the blast. "We're here to protest the dangers of nuclear testing."

Big Sister is a special friend who shares her time with child

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

Allison Pinn wanted a little sister. Lorraine Lawless wanted a big sister. The Jackson County Community Mental Health Prevention Agency found out about this and helped Pinn and Lawless become sisters.

Pinn, a sophomore at SIU-C, heard about the Big Brother-Big Sister program on television and noticed fliers on bulletin boards.

"I was walking through the Student Center one day and a sign said 'Volunteer: Be a Big Brother or a Big Sister.' She said,...

Pinn picked up a brochure and called the agency to find out how to join. A chance to help somebody and to relieve her childhood days inspired Pinn to join the program, she said. Lawless, an 11-year-old girl, became Pinn's little sister in September 1984.

At first, Lawless didn't understand why Pinn wanted to be her big sister.

"She'd say something like, 'Do you have to be with me, or do you want to be with me?" Pinn said. "She didn't understand you did something because you wanted to.'

Since their first weeks together, the two have become best friends.

"I don't think she has a lot of other friends," Pinn said. "I think she just needed someone to talk to.

Afternoon picnics, long walks, visits to the ice cream parlor and other pleasures of childhood are enjoyed each week by Lawless and Pinn.

"We get together on Saturdays and spend four hours or more together," Pinn said. "You don't have to do a lot to make her happy. I made her a Valentine's Day card and inside it said, 'I Love You. When she saw that, she bloomed.'

Schoolwork is important to Lawless, who asks Pinn to help her with homework. "If she says she needs help, she asks," Pinn said. "She has good common sense and she really has her head on straight.

Lawless, now a sophomore in school, has recently become concerned with interracial relationships. Pinn said: "She said to me, 'Ally, some people know I have a white sister, and that bothers them, but it doesn't bother me. You're not white anyway, and I'm not black either.' Pinn said, recalling a conversation with Lawless.

"Working with a black person helped Pinn get an inside look on how black people look at white people," she said.

Through their months together, Lawless and Pinn have become more trustworthy and concerned with each other.

She asked just as many questions as I do," Pinn said. "We don't want to leave our private lives at home when we're together.

Time is a factor in the program, but what Pinn gets back in return is well worth her time, she said.

"When Lorraine leaves, she always gives me a hug and says, 'Rye, Ally.'" Pinn said.

"One time she said to me, 'Ally, you're the best big sister I ever had.'"
Human Resources Conference will focus on economic values

"Economic Values, Societal Change and Human Resources is the topic for this year's Human Resources Conference, which is set for Monday through Wednesday.

The event, sponsored by the College of Human Resources, will focus on the theme of the link between economic development and human services.

The three divisions of the college will be represented on each day of the seminar. The first day of the conference will focus on social work, rehabilitation services for the region will be highlighted on Tuesday, and the last day will concentrate on activities related to administration of justice.

In addition, the 4th Annual Film Festival on Aging will be held in conjunction with the conference for the first time. A series of films addressing concerns of the elderly will be shown throughout the day on Monday and Tuesday.

Keynote speakers on opening day are John Jacobs, president and chief executive officer of the National Urban League, and Nancy Humphreys, director of the Michigan State University School of Social Work.

Jacobs and Humphreys will speak about the link between economic development and human services at the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Forum.

The two will also speak at the National Association of Social Workers luncheon. NASW awards will be presented to the Social Worker of the Year, Citizens of the Year, Legislator of the Year and Student of the Year.

Highlighting Rehabilitation Day, the second day of the conference, is the Guy A. Bongiaglia Lecture at 7 p.m. Jay Rochlin, executive secretary for the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, will present the keynote lecture, "The Social and Economic Benefits of Rehabilitation of Citizens with Disabilities.

Topics for the day range from "Women as Administrators: Problems They Encounter" to "Alcoholism and Substance Abuse.

A reception is planned for 9 p.m. Tuesday to celebrate SIU-C's Rehabilitation Center's 30th anniversary.

The final day of the conference will celebrate the silver anniversary of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections.

Keynote speaker Richard Richman, presiding judge of the Jackson County Circuit Court, will address criminal justice matters in Southern Illinois.

Wednesday's sessions will cover needs and responsibilities of juveniles, adult community supervision and concepts in industries and education along with criminal justice education, law enforcement, private security and criminology.

Mr. Alexander, Professor Emeritus and first director of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections, is the featured speaker at Wednesday's banquet.

All sessions, excluding luncheons and banquets, are free and open to the public. Pre-registration is recommended for the sessions to ensure adequate space and conference materials.

Contact the College of Human Resources Thursday for registration information.
Police charge 3 women in $966 shoplifting spree

Carbondale police recovered over $900 in shoplifted merchandise when they arrested three Harrisburg women Tuesday after an off-duty Carbondale police officer spotted them shoplifting in Wal-Mart on Rt. 13 East, reports say.

The suspects were caught in the suspect's car with over $400 worth of Wal-Mart merchandise, police say. The police also discovered items from K-mart, Penny's and Mees. The total value of the recovered goods was $966, not counting more than 20 items with price tags removed, said a police spokesman.

Arrested were Andrea Coven, 23, Jodie Boone, 18, and Timi Flinnings, 18. Officer Kent Williams was off duty when he noticed the three women shoplifting and called for backup to make the arrest, according to reports.

Graduate's 'Heritage' to be shown

"Heritage," an original monodrama by Kenton Kirking graduate student in theater, will be presented at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Laboratory Theater in the Communications Building. Admission is free.

The play, which features Brent Lappin, graduate student in theater, focuses on the life of a man trying to break the circle of his own inheritance by attempting to rear his children in a different way than he was raised.

The play is directed by Lee Shackelford.

The Laboratory Theater is located next to the McLeod Theater in the Communications Building.

Woman helps kids see blindness
By Darci Allen
Staff
White cane is a Braille book and talking clocks were not always part of Lisa Heins’ life, but now that she is doing her part to help children better understand her handicap.
Heins, who lost her sight because of a misdiagnosed eye infection and improper medication, tells children that her “eyes got sick and then never got better.”

Although the preschoolers at the Child Development Laboratory in Quigley Hall didn’t totally understand the concept of blindness, Heins did her best to make them see that having a handicap doesn’t mean the end of the world.

Heins, a junior in food and nutrition, gave a “lesson” Monday as part of a class requirement, but said she “would do it anyway” if someone asked her.

The session lasted for only 15 minutes, but the children were enthusiastic and asked many questions, which Heins answered with a smile.

She showed them her white cane and called it “a long finger.” She demonstrated how she uses it to point out obstacles in her way.

Heins said, “That’s so you don’t get run over by a car, isn’t it?”

Heins showed a book written in Braille and the children could feel the braille writing on its bumpy surface.

Calipre Stage play to focus on women, peace
The Calipre Stage will present “A Possible Breach of the Peace” at 2 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

Admission to the play is $3.50.

The play, set in the years 1919 to 1963, focuses on the Greentham Women’s Peace Camp, a camp established in protest against the United States and Soviet Union for when camp members believed to be preparations for a nuclear war in Europe.

The script was adapted by Judith L. Cassidy from articles in the London Times and from the writings, journals and diaries of the women involved in the camp.

The Calipre Stage is located on the second floor of the Communications Building.

Women golfers tee off on Aces; elements add adversity to meet

By Anita J. Stoner

The Saluki women golfers worked harder to beat the oncoming darkness and course conditions yesterday than they worked to beat the University of Evansville squad in what was SIU-C's first home meet in two years.

At Jackson County Country Club, the weather conditions and the greens had something in common — both were blowaways. The Salukis’ 231 total strokes overwhelmed the Aces’ 397, and as the afternoon sunshine faded, the breeze gusted fiercely and dropped temperatures.

Saluki coach Sonya Stalberger said, "I’m really pleased with the final score considering the conditions — the course played extremely difficult twice due to the wind. In fact, it’s the toughest wind we played all spring.'" But early in the week along with tough pin and tee placements also lengthened the par-72 course but the disadvantages did not stop the Salukis.

Saluki senior Jill Bertram fired a pair of 40’s for an 80 score and medalist honors.

"Jill played a really solid round and had a few birdie opportunities," Stalberger said.

Kelly Mason, an Eldorado native and transfer from John A. Logan College, set yet another career low with an 81.

Minnesota cage players request trial be moved

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The attorney for one of three former University of Minnesota basketball players accused of sexual assault has commissioned a survey to support his move to get their trial moved out of Madison.

Stanley Woodard, a public defender representing Kevin Smith, 21, said Wednesday he would present the results of the survey during a hearing Friday, when he will try to get the trial moved to Milwaukee.

Smith, Mitchell Lee, 21, and George Williams Jr., 19, are accused of repeatedly raping a woman Jan. 24 in a Madison hotel room after a Minnesota-Wisconsin basketball game. They face a total of 12 charges which could result in prison sentences of 40 to 120 years.

"I believe the news coverage has been sensationalistic and has inflamed the facts and circumstances alleged in this case," Woodard said.

"The poll addresses their (Dane County residents') knowledge of the case," he said. "The poll also will touch upon the attitudes people may have toward my clients because of their race.

The three defendants are black and remain free on bail. The case is scheduled to stand trial May 6.

Twin sisters from Barbados form track duo that’s tough to match

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

Sibling rivalries in athletic and academic competition can often be intense. The pressure to live up to parents’ expectations, to assert one’s individuality, to achieve something independently of one’s brother or sister is sometimes enough to poison a sibling relationship.

In the case of twins, the level of this rivalry may be expected to be exceptionally high, especially when the twins attract the same recognition and compete on the same track team.

But such is not the case with Denise and Carlton Blackman. The Blackmans, twin sisters from St. George, Barbados, are sprinters on the Salisbury women’s track team. However, they say that no rivalry exists between them on the track.

“We fight. But our fighting does not belong on the track,” Carlton said. “Why should we hold each other back from being whatever we can be?”

Rather, both sisters say they try to encourage each other as much as possible.

In her last year of eligibility at SIU-C, Denise has consistently turned in record-shattering performances for the Salukis. In the recently completed indoor season, she set team records in the 60-yard (7.00), 200-meter (29.61), 400-yard (55.80) and 800-yard (2:57.00) dashes. And just four weeks into the outdoor season, she has shattered team records in the 200-meter (22.68), 100-meter (11.96) and 400-meter (53.06) dashes.

Saluki coach Don DeNooon has called Denise one of the premier collegiate sprinters in the country and echoed those sentiments Wednesday.

“Denise Blackman has unlimited potential,” he said. “Her achievements are simply based on the work she does in training. If she really wanted to go out and train to be the best in the world, I think she could.”

But Denise is more modest about her accomplishments.

“He’s the coach,” she said of DeNooon’s assessment of her performance. “Maybe he can see something I’m not seeing.”

“If I’m having a good season,” she added, “But success is very relative. My success today be another person’s failures.”

Carol also plays quality of her performance the Salukis.

“You’ve got to look at success as compared to the whole circuit, not just at SIU-C. Two years ago, while she was competing for the Drake Bulldogs, she may have called herself successful, she added. She placed third in the NCAA Indoor National Championships, the freshman and sophomore years at Drake.

Carlton competed for Barbados at the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles. It was not an experience she relished, she says. “I don’t think I would ever like to go back to another one. It’s too emotionally draining.”

She competed in the 400-meter dash, but failed to qualify for the finals. “I was not 100-percent prepared,” she said.

Carlton was recruited by the Salukis in the fall of 1984, and although she is a senior, she has one more year of eligibility left at SIU-C. In the indoor season, she set records in the 500 (1:13.82) and 800-yard dashes (1:14.26). She has not set any records thus far in the outdoor season.

DeNooon blamed Carlton’s somewhat weaker performance on her newness to the track team and a chronic knee problem. “There are parts of it’s Union’s training program that she cannot do because of the tenderness of her knee,” he said. “I would hope that she’s able to get those problems cleared up and go through a problem free next year.”

Both of them have tremendous potential,” DeNooon added. “I would hope that they would stick with it after their college years are through.”

But the Blackmans have no desire to continue competing after they graduate.

“After this, it’s competition in the workforce, not on track and field,” said Carlton.

“I run for fun,” Denise added. “It’s a hobby. Competition is fun, but I have no aspiration to become a great Olympian.”
Women's cage coach honored by Converse

Topping off a record-setting year for the SIUC women's basketball program, coach Cindy Scott has been named Converse District IV Coach of the Year.

Scott's Salukis captured their first Gateway Conference Championship with an undefeated record in double-round robin action. She guided her squad to a first-ever NCAA tournament appearance, setting a school record for wins and making a first-ever appearance in the national rankings at 18th in the AP coaches poll and 22nd in the USA-Today poll.

Scott, in her ninth year, has compiled a career record of 247-92 (65 percent). 1985-86 marked the fourth straight year her team finished with 20 or more wins. Since the beginning of the 10-team Gateway, Illinois' Salukis never placed lower than third and recorded an 83.3 winning percent (36-11).

Scott also coached the South Squad to a gold medal at National Sports Festival VI during the summer of 1985.

The WBCA membership selected Scott over Nancy Darsch of Ohio State and Karen Langeland of Michigan State. District IV includes schools in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The WBCA announced the decision at the NCAA Final Four in Lexington, Ky.

The decision came as a delightful surprise to Scott, who expected Darsch of higher-ranked Ohio State to take the honor.

"I think the coach at Ohio State had a great year, but it was her first year," Scott said. "She inherited that team, so maybe that's why she didn't get it."

Scott would not accept all the credit.

Baseball Dogs up against SIU-E

By Ron Warnick

Southern Illinois University will perform the rare feat of both winning and losing the same baseball game.

The SIU-C Salukis will face a strong SIU-Edwardsville team for the third time this season at Abe Martin Field.

Jones said that he had not yet chosen a starter for Thursday's game and may use several pitchers, including Dale Kisten, Rob Oesberner, Shane Goodh, Larry Beattie and Jay Hammond.

The 15-5 Salukis are an exceptionally strong Division II team but are not as big at the plate as their 36-15 counterparts, which boast a national ranking of 4-28 earned run average.

Herrin said that Wednesday's 28-3 game was an indicative 4-28 earned run average.

Peter Duklus was almost as good as his teammate last weekend, with an 8-2 record, 3.5 saves and the second-lowest ERA in the nation (2.11). He has been impressive this year, too, with a 4-2 record with two saves and a 9.20 ERA.

Junior John Groennert also has been super with a 3.0 record and 2.27 ERA.

The Salukis' hitting is potent with five batters hitting over .300. Outfielder Rich Fletcher (.312), two homers, 12 RBIs; Tony Duenos (.347), 10 RBIs; and third baseman Steve Blummer (.328, 10 RBIs) round out the center of the batting order.

Even with the Cougars' roster in mind, Coach Richard Perry-Jones' biggest concern after the recent 28-3 loss split.

Evansville was not the upcoming game against SIU-E, but with condition of pitcher Gary Bockhorn, who left the game early against the Salukis

"When he was warming up in the bullpen, the catcher said he didn't have any pop on his fastball and didn't seem comfortable throwing his curve," Jones recalled.

"I knew something was wrong when he told me someone ready to relieve him before he started the first inning," Jones recalled.

The soreness doesn't seem to be the symptom of a serious injury. Jones said, but it will affect the Salukis' lineup against SIU-E.

"It's a setback for Gary because he's had a good year," Jones said. "If he just didn't have enough real between starts. Even major leaguers go through days like that.

Wednesday to await the decision of the two batters. Herrin was also attempting to recruit Ervin Small of Chicago-Simcoe, who was also being recruited by Illinois.

Herrin said that Groennert, however, lost a little interest when junior forward Ken Norman opted to play his final year instead of going for the pros in this year's summer draft.

What interest the Illinois third baseman has been picked up and multiplied by a host of schools interested in obtaining the still-growing Small's services.

Small, a 6-6, 185-pounder, averaged 18.0 mpg and 6.9 rpg from center position for the Salukis' 19-10 record and an 8-7 victory.

"I wish he could have been a matchup to the Illinois State freshman," Jones said. "We've added him at a shooter for the Salukis rather than nearby Aurora with a great interest in studying psychology at SIU.

Scott described Kibelkis as "quick, aggressive, a great ball-handler who passes well, rebounds well — an all-around player." Kibelkis played every floor position in four years at Bremen as a 1-20 record. In three years as a starter, Bremen captured three straight SICA Central Conference titles. Kibelkis topped all scorers and rebounders for Bremen in the past two years, and also led in blocks and steals.

Kibelkis' coach, Robin Leiken calls her, "the best all-around player in my eight years of coaching at Bremen."

For her career, Kibelkis scored 1,603 points and grabbed 1,233 rebounds. The Illinois Basketball Coaches Association, the Chicago Tribune and the Champion Newspaper named Kibelkis first-team, all-state. Kibelkis was the fourth-leading scorer in Chicago this season. "She's a very serious young lady about her schoolwork and the game, a really hard worker," Scott said. "She's so commonsensical, she knows what she wants out of life and will go about it the right way."
