status as one of the states that has given higher education the lowest increases in support over the past 10 years resulted in limited growth, according to a study released Monday. The study, released by the Public Action Council, says that in the 10 states that provided higher education with the greatest increase in state support, the number of businesses grew 33 percent faster than in Illinois. The study also said the number of businesses nationally grew 27 percent faster than in Illinois. "That's the same message we've been trying to put across," Chancellor Lawrence Pettit said. "In the old days, when a business was looking at where it wanted to relocate, it was interested in low wages and low taxes. Now they put that criteria at the bottom of their list." Pettit was at a meeting of university system heads in Springfield Monday discussing the direction state universities need to take in support of a tax increase.

Keith Sanders, dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, said, "I'm not surprised with any finding that we are losing jobs because we are not funding higher education at a competitive level."

Sanders, who attended the meeting with Pettit, is working in Springfield to coordinate state universities' efforts to get a tax increase to supplement funding for higher education.

Tax hike unlikely, lawmakers say

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Two downstate lawmakers say it is unlikely that a tax increase will be passed during this legislative session.

State senators Ralph Dunn and Glenn Poshard described several routes that a tax increase might take — and some of the obstacles they might hit — at a press conference Monday in the Student Center.

There is talk of combining increases in income and gasoline taxes, Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said.

But since the gas tax has little relation to human services and most of the money it generates is earmarked for the Department of Transportation, legislators will have a hard time voting for such an increase, he said.

Poshard said, "Legislators will back off. If it (the income tax increase) is tied to a package deal, it will be defeated."

The Department of Transportation already has a hefty surplus in the budget, he said.

"They say it's (the surplus) been spent on future projects, but it's still in the budget," Poshard, D-Carterville, explained.

Gov. James R. Thompson said March 22 that he plans to unveil an income tax increase proposal in May and that the plan might be linked to a boost in the gasoline tax. A gasoline tax increase may fail if it stands alone, Thompson said.

Even if the income tax increase stands alone, it would pass in the Senate but would probably be defeated in the House of Representatives, Dunn said.

"A lot of senators wouldn't want to get hung out to dry by voting for a tax increase if they didn't think it would pass in the House," Dunn said. "I'm not sure that a modest 5-percent increase would do it anyway."

The education budget proposed this year is 4 percent less than the 1987 education budget. Thompson, on numerous occasions, has said education will not get more money unless there is a tax increase.

State legislators may choose to invoke the increase to restore funds lost by Thompson's 4 percent across-the-board budget cut in July of 1987.

Both Poshard and Dunn said that they support a .5 percent

Charges possible over 'cheap shot'

By John Mohler

A University student is considering filing charges against an unidentified man who broke his jaw April 5 and against a Carbondale police officer who allowed the attacker to leave the scene.

Todd Newton, senior in marketing, said a private attorney urged him to discuss with the state's attorney office the attack to determine Newton's legal options. The attack occurred on South Illinois Avenue.

Police said the identity of the officer is not known because no report of the incident was made.

Witnesses Bill Sarocka, senior in marketing, and Mike Heron, senior in administration of justice, said the man approached Newton from behind and struck him in the face as Newton was separating two people who were fighting.

Newton fell against a wall, then to the pavement as four Carbondale police officers arrived at the scene.

Captors vow to kill Marine if plane raided

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The pro-Iranian captors of Lt. Col. William Higgins said Monday they will kill the U.S. marine if security forces storm the hijacked Kuwait Airways jetliner at Larnaca airport in Cyprus.

The warning by the Organization of the Oppressed on Earth was the second by pro-Iranian fundamentalists in less than 24 hours linking the fate of Western hostages in Lebanon to the hijacking.

The Islamic Jihad, which holds U.S. and French hostages, had warned late Sunday it would kill its captives if troops raided the plane.

The statement by the Organization of the Oppressed on Earth said the group is backing the hijackers' demand for the release of 17 Shiite prisoners held in Kuwait for the bombing of the U.S. and French embassies in December 1983.

"We express our respect for those strugglers (the hijackers)," the organization said in the Arabic-language statement sent to a Western news agency in Beirut.

"We will hang the American agent, Colonel William Higgins, on gallows in case any attempt to storm the plane occurred," the group said.

Higgins, 43, head of a 75-member U.N. truce observation team, was kidnapped Feb. 17 while driving south of the port city of Tyre in southern Lebanon. The Organization of the Oppressed on Earth claimed responsibility for the kidnapping and accused Higgins, a resident of Woodridge, Va., of being a CIA agent who collected information on Moslem fundamentalists in southern Lebanon.

The threat Monday came hours after hijackers on the Kuwaiti plane killed a second

Report: AIDS cases up, two-thirds reside in U.S.

GENEVA (UPI) — The World Health Organization reported Monday a 4.7 percent increase in Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome cases in March and the United States still accounts for two-thirds of the global total. The organization said the known world total as of March 31 was 85,273 against the previous Feb. 29 total of 81,433 — a rise during March of 3,840 cases. The 55,167 cases in the United States represented 64.7 percent of all reported cases.

Israel expels Arabs accused of leading riots

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel Monday expelled eight Arabs accused of leading the Palestinian uprising in the West Bank and Gaza Strip and issued orders for the deportation of 12 others, including six residents of a village where a teenage Israeli girl was killed last week. The expulsions ended an unofficial freeze on deportations — a practice condemned by most of the world, including the United States — and threatened to set off a new round of bloody rioting.

Aquino urged to take trip despite coup threats

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Defense Secretary Fidel Ramos advised President Corason Aquino Monday against canceling a trip abroad because of fears a fugitive colonel will mount another attempt to topple the government. "She should go," Ramos told the Senate Defense Committee investigating the April 2 escape from military detention of former army Col. Gregorio Honasan, who led a bloody coup attempt that almost toppled Aquino's government last year.

Duarte revokes amnesty granted to 3 rebels

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte revoked an order to grant amnesty to three people implicated in the 1985 sidewalk cafe slayings of 13 people including six Americans, judicial officials said Monday. Rene Valdivieso, secretary of the military appeals court, said the case is still under investigation and the three rebels would stand trial. A sentence of five to 20 years in jail is possible, he said.

Senate debates $1.1 trillion plan on spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of the Senate Budget Committee asked lawmakers Monday to go along with their $1.1 trillion spending blueprint, designed to help shrink the federal deficit and rearrange domestic budget priorities. The fiscal 1989 proposal, a bipartisan package put together by Committee Chairman Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., and the panel's senior Republican, Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico, includes provisions that mirror those suggested by President Reagan and the House in their separate budget plans.

U.S. will sign Afghan accords, Reagan says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Monday that Secretary of State George Shultz will sign on as a guarantor to the agreements governing the Soviet military withdrawal from Afghanistan and calling for a non-aligned Afghan nation. The decision to serve as co-guarantor of the agreement marked a major diplomatic movement in the 6-year-old war between the Soviet supported government and Islamic fundamentalist rebels backed by the United States.

Trial starts for man charged in family's death

MARSHFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Jury selection began Monday in the murder trial of a dairy farmer accused in the deaths of seven family members during a shooting murder spree that officials said he tried to pin on a dead nephew. James Eugene Schnick, 36, is accused in the shooting deaths of his wife, Julie, 30; her brother, Steven Buckner, 35, his wife, Jan, 36; and the Buckners' four sons — Kirk, 14, Dennis, 8, Tim, 6, and Michael, 2. If convicted, Schnick could be sentenced to death in the state's gas chamber.

Report: Education reform ignores teachers

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Education reform in America has produced an abundance of legislation but few substantive changes because teachers have largely been excluded from the process, a Rand report released Monday said. Most of the reform activity in the 1980s has been more concerned with regulating standards without focusing on the nature of teaching and the roles of teachers, the report said. The study found the education reform movement produced an "awesome" amount of state legislation.

Senate to study undergrad education guidelines, policy

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

Procedures for reviewing undergraduate education and guidelines for general education courses will be part of a large agenda at the faculty senate meeting at 1 p.m. today in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

The senate's undergraduate education policy committee has recommended the approval of two documents that would provide a basis for adding new general education courses and reviewing the entire undergraduate education program.

The review is being conducted in response to a September 1987 mandate from the Illinois Board of Higher Education that state universities conduct regular reviews of undergraduate education with an emphasis on general education.

The undergraduate education review procedures would take four years to be implemented. During that time the office of the vice president for academic affairs and the undergraduate education policy committee would set up a review process of the general education program.

The review also would have all deans review the undergraduate major programs in their respective colleges.

Committee chairman Thomas Jefferson said that existing review policies from academic departments would be used to help get the University-wide review underway.

Changes in the University Honors Program also will be brought to the senate by the committee.

The committee has recommended raising the minimum ACT score requirement for entering freshmen honors students by one point. Only students who rank at or above the 95th percentile of ACT scores would be admitted to the program. Current requirements admit students who score in the 89th percentile.

The proposal also would rearrange the honors program description in the catalog so the material is clearer to the reader.

The wording for honors degrees also will be discussed. The committee has recommended returning to the Latin designation of Cum Laude for graduating with honors, Magna Cum Laude for high honors and Summa Cum Laude for highest honors.

Also on the agenda are items from the status and welfare committee, which will present a one-page report that clearly outlines what the University mission statement should say, Doris Dale, committee chairwoman, said.

Senate reviews have found the five-page mission statement draft "poorly written, poorly proofed and poorly done," as well as being "generally ambiguous and having no emphasis on the University's future objectives."

The status and welfare committee also has reviewed considerations for changes in the fall semester schedule to accommodate a mid-semester break.

Dale said the fall break is discussed every year. However, committee reviews have found that a break would not be feasible, so "no change in the schedule will be recommended," she said.

A resolution to change research faculty titles also will be presented by the status and welfare committee.

The Graduate Council has recommended the titles research assistant professor, research associate professor and research professor. The professor titles would replace a scientist title.

Also up for senate action is a resolution changing payment of faculty retirement benefits in relation to summer employment.

The resolution would allow faculty to make up for the three months of non-employment by paying 8 percent of up to three months salary into the State University Retirement System during each of the last four years before retirement.

The resolution states that a majority of faculty members are employed for only nine months every year. Retirement income is calculated on the basis of 48 months of work completed in the four calendar years before retirement.

Candidates: Student vote with Trustees important

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

Candidates in Wednesday's election agree that the student representatives on the Board of Trustees should have a binding vote.

Darrell Johnson, student trustee candidate, said it "wouldn't be inappropriate for students to have a vote" and that he would be willing to work for it.

Other colleges, especially several community colleges, have student representatives who vote on the board, Johnson said.

There are two student trustees on the board, one from SIU-C and one from SIU-E.

Student trustees have two votes, a binding vote in committee meetings and an advisory vote in full board meetings.

Student trustees also can make proposals to the board and second motions.

Students should have a vote on every board on campus, Stephanie Bedinger, Stand Party vice presidential candidate, said.

"Our vote is as important as the administration's and it's our money and education that decisions are being made about," she said.

Chuck Hagerman, Phoenix Party presidential candidate, agreed.

"It would really help make it a more effective voice for students," he said. Bill Hall, Alliance Party presidential candidate, said the student trustee should have a full vote on the Board of Trustees, as students do at some other universities.

Phil Lyons, SIU-C's outgoing student trustee, said the Legislature gave students representation and an advisory vote on university and college boards in 1973. The Legislature could allow the student trustee a full vote, Lyons said.

Indiana students have a binding vote on the board, Lyons said. But the vote might not make much difference because board decisions usually are unanimous, he said.

Lyons said a binding vote "would make the student more respected as a board member."

The student trustee should bring students' ideas and feelings to the Board of Trustees and should get those through student governmental bodies, Lyons said.

"I have changed the wording on a few items in front of the board," he said.

"Whether or not they (other board members) listen to the student trustee depends on who the student trustee is," Lyons said. The student trustee has to be willing to speak out, he added.

Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said most votes aren't close enough for the student trustees' votes to make any difference.

Stand up and vote for Alliance ticket

UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT ORGANIZATION elections will be held Wednesday on the second floor of the Student Center. We strongly encourage all students to vote.

We endorse Alliance presidential candidate Bill Hall and his running mate Larvester Gaither. Hall's experience in student government, his research skills and his general disposition seem more suited to effective leadership than any of the other candidates.

The chief dilemma in making an endorsement was too many good choices. All three parties have strong points and are very energetic about implementation of their ideas. The situation can be likened to what New York Gov. Mario Cuomo called an "embarrassment of riches" when referring to the crop of Democratic candidates for the presidency.

BUT THE ENDORSEMENT of Hall and Gaither doesn't imply that the other parties are without positive attributes. Presidential hopeful Cindy Schnaitmann and her vice-presidential running mate Stephanie Bedinger of the Stand party seek a much more representative form of government than SIU-C has been used to, saying student concerns would set their agenda.

The Stand Party targets arbitrary searches on demand at Mae Smith, Neely and Schneider Halls, sexual harassment and book theft from Morris Library as problems that must be solved.

Schnaitmann said she doesn't feel the need to assume a leadership role on the mass transit system issue, which the Alliance Party supports, because the students will decide that issue on a referendum.

THE PHOENIX PARTY'S presidential candidate, current USO vice-president Chuck Hagerman, says mass transit would go a long way in solving parking woes. He supports a "park-and-ride" approach, where shuttle buses would transport students from a huge parking area, such as the Arena's lots, to their classes. Hagerman also feels the Student Programming Council should be more representative of the overall student population.

But the Alliance Party has set the best agenda. Maximum financial aid for eligible students is an Alliance priority. Hall says he would create a financial aid commission and provide advocates to help students through the financial aid process.

HALL AND GAITHER also plan to provide a glossary of instructors that would include the grade distributions in their classes. The guide also would include the number of students enrolled. Hall says this would help students determine what instructor would grade the fairest and help them most as students.

Hall and Gaither say a mass-transit system not only would solve parking problems but also provide more student jobs. This fits in with their plan of increasing the number of student jobs on campus. Though it's only an idea in its planning stages, their talk of creating college work study positions at local not-for-profit-businesses also is very encouraging.

A WARD-ALDERMAN system for Carbondale is favored by Alliance, and this would virtually ensure student representation on the City Council. Increasing voter registration is a priority with Alliance, and an active student voice in city affairs would be an incentive for some who otherwise wouldn't vote.

Students who were around at last year's elections, when a meager 308 ballots were cast, should make sure that scanty total is trounced. Considering the wide variety in this year's crop of candidates, there is no excuse for such poor participation.

The high voting mark in this decade is 1981's 3,800. It would be encouraging to see that level reached or surpassed in this year's elections.

Letters

Support transit system tomorrow

Improving the quality of life in the Carbondale area is coming closer. By bringing a mass transit system to Carbondale the quality of life would be improved. Getting from point A to point B would become easier. The idea is to run eight buses on six fixed routes from 7 a.m. to midnight, Monday through Friday, with a reduced schedule on weekends. Anyone would use the buses.

Before this idea blossoms into reality there still are oceans of information that need to be found out. In pursuit of that information a mass transit telephone survey is being conducted. The survey is to find out the need for and support of a transit system in Carbondale.

The survey also is asking a very crucial question about the primary source of funding for this system — increasing student fees by $15 per semester. The fee will allow SIU-C students unlimited ridership. That means you can ride the bus as often as you want for no additional cost. Anyone else would either buy a semester pass for $20 or pay a fare of 50 cents. The question of student fees will be asked again tomorrow at the student government elections. The results eventually will be presented to the SIU Board of Trustees.

There would be a great number of advantages to a transit system. Buses would be cheaper than gas and car maintenance, cheaper than taxis, cheaper than parking tickets — and what about the parking problem? If you don't have a car, think of how you shiver in the cold, how wet you get when it rains, or how you sweat in the heat.

A transit system would employ students and increase job opportunities. It would allow a wider range of housing choices. Those without cars would not be forced to live close to or on campus, which usually is more expensive. The proposed routes extend east to the University Mall, southeast to Warren Road and Pleasant Hill Road, and northeast to the Eurna Hayes Center and Attacks Park. They extend south to the mobile homes on South 51, Evergreen Terrace, Southern Hills and all other campus housing areas. They extend west to Parrish Park, (the city's only public swimming pool), the Carbondale Clinic and Murdale Mall. And the routes extend north to Sycamore, Bridge and Willow streets and to Carbondale Mobile Homes. Every bus would come to the Student Center as the primary transfer point with secondary transfer points throughout the city.

I encourage everyone to support the proposed transit system. I believe you will agree that improving the quality of life in the Carbondale area is closer. Thank you. — Dave Madlener, Carbondale

Dropping football would hurt University

The Daily Egyptian editorial of March 24, "Relegate football to lower division" was a classic example of faulty logic proceeding from biased assumptions to reach a predetermined assertion. Somewhere, someone has the deluded notion that dropping football or reducing the program would strengthen the rest of the athletic program. That simply does not hold up to either analysis or experience.

The writer disclosed part of the bias by the sentence stating that reducing football would allow "minor sports to return to the top of the heap." An interesting analysis: I have done in past years is to look at the net cost (expense minus revenue) per athlete. On that basis there were several sports more costly than football. This is the appropriate analysis if the purpose of athletics is solely for the educational benefit of the participant, as was implied in the editorial.

If the larger picture, including the image of the University and its interaction with the region, is considered, then football is of even greater value. More people have attended a football game here than any other single event. How much student support would the athletic fee have if football were reduced or eliminated?

NCAA Division I-AA contains more schools comparable to SIU-C than Division III or even II. Did your editorial writer even look at what schools are in Division III? Did you consider the effect on the ambience and image of this University vis a vis the other Illinois universities if your advice were followed? As Ann Landers would say, "It's time to wake up and smell the coffee!"

Rather than knocking football, how about publicizing the outstanding intramural opportunities SIU-C has? It would be nice to see a positive editorial once in a while. — Lawrence A. Jublin, assistant to vice president for student affairs Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Committee, whose members are the student-editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a Journalism School faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247 Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten, double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 300 words. Letter of less than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Democratic race heats up in NY

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The Democratic presidential candidates geared up their New York campaigns a little more than a week before the Empire State's April 19 primary as Gov. Mario Cuomo again insisted he was not in the race.

Even Vice President George Bush, who is virtually assured the GOP nomination, was in New York Monday to start a three-day swing and establish themes he hopes will carry him to the White House in November.

Bush and Democrat Jesse Jackson spoke at sites in New York City's northern suburbs — Bush toured an IBM plant in Westchester County saying that Republican policies had revitalized the economy, and Jackson scheduled a rally at a nearby General Motors Plant.

Jackson also planned to attend a massive nighttime labor rally in Manhattan to consolidate his already widespread support among the state's blue-collar workers.

Jackson drew a harsh reaction Monday from Arab American leaders for his comments Sunday in which he said he would not repeat his 1979 meeting with Arafat until the Palestine Liberation Organization leader recognized Israel's right to exist and the United States should not equate Arafat and the PLO with the Palestinian people.

"It's the first major flip-flop by Jackson on a major issue," said Faris Rouhafa, spokesman for the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee.

But Hyman Bookinder of the American Jewish Committee said, "He's been appeasing the Arab-American groups. If they're unhappy, we know he's on the right track."

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, whom polls show having heavy Jewish support, told the Conference of Presidents of Major Jewish Organizations in New York City that the U.S. role in the Middle East should be to encourage direct negotiations between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

the attraction of business and industry," Sanders said.

Pettit said the implication that increased funding for higher education will help attract business to the state "is not new nationally."

"Illinois simply has not had the political strength to support higher education at the proper level."

He said he is hoping that will change.

Without a tax increase,

Illinois' state universities will face not having an increase in state support for higher education. Pettit has said this would be a "retrenchment" budget because inflation will make the University's spending power weaker.

The University is not specifying the level of tax increase needed. Several local state legislators have said they support a 0.5-percent income tax increase.

state tax increase, but Poshard said not all the money raised would be for education.

"Given all the needs in the state, like higher education and social work, we can't designate all the money to education, but it will be a negotiating point to divide up the money," Poshard said.

"There are needs out there and we're not paying for them," he said. "We go behind the backs of people and borrow. I'm not for borrowing money."

Poshard said Senate President Philip Rock, D-Chicago, has promised him that the Senate would have the opportunity to vote on a tax increase. The Legislature needs more money and closer oversight of that money, he said.

Kuwaiti security guard on the plane. The man, who was not immediately identified, apparently was shot in the head.

Kuwaiti Foreign Minister Sheikh Sabah Al-Ahmad Al-Sabah responded to the slaying by saying that even though others may be killed, Kuwait "will not bow" to the hijackers' demand to release 17 convicted Shiite Moslem terrorists imprisoned in Kuwait for the 1983 bombings of the U.S. and French embassies. The killing came as PLO leader Yasser Arafat, in Kuwait for an Islamic mini-summit, hinted Iran may have more influence over the hijackers than was previously suspected and said "it seems they are receiving outside orders, outside even from Lebanon."

Arafat, whose Palestine Liberation Organization has been negotiating with the terrorists, said he talked to people in Beirut and Tehran about the hijacking and asked PLO officials in Lebanon to contact groups there that "belong to the Iranian side."

The statement by the Islamic Jihad Sunday was accompanied by photographs of U.S. hostage Terry Anderson, 40, Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, and French journalist Jean-Paul Kauffmann, 48.

Jihad has also claimed responsibility for holding U.S. citizen Thomas Sutherland and French diplomats Marcel Carton and Marcel Fontaine.

Higgins' captors are believed to be part of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah, or Party of God, which seeks to wrest control of southern Lebanon from moderate Shiite Moslem militiamen.

Sheikh Ibrahim Al Amin, a spokesman for the Hezbollah, said the group has no links with the terrorists who hijacked the Kuwait Airways airliner last Tuesday en route from Bangkok, Thailand, to Kuwait.

"We have no connection with the Kuwaiti jet issue," Al Amin told reporters. "It is up to the hijackers to decide the release of the 17 prisoners in Kuwait."

"I went running over to (the officer) and told him some guy just took a cheap shot at my friend," Sarocka said. "(The officer) reassured me and said 'OK, I know him.'"

Sarocka said the officer repeated he knew the man as the man walked away from the scene, but when Sarocka later asked if an arrest would be made, the officer replied, "I've only seen him around."

"(The officer) should have just stopped him," Heron said. "It wouldn't hurt to ask him a few questions."

Newton said he would press charges against the attacker if he were to be identified.

"The problem is that the combatants are not wearing signs that say 'I'm the good guy' and 'I'm the bad guy,'" Carbondale police Lt. Jerry Reno said.

"Fights on the Strip are very common," Reno said. "And the officer's first responsibility in that situation is to restore the peace."

Police spokesman Neal Jacobson said, "There are times when it's not as clear as John Doe punched Joe Citizen."

Reno said fighting incidents are handled according to the officer's discretion, after he assesses the situation for causes and injuries.

Reno said that complaints should be brought to the attention of the internal affairs officer, who gives such matters a "very thorough look-over."

"They shouldn't allow that to happen," Sarocka said. "It was just ridiculous."

Newton was admitted to Memorial Hospital of Carbondale at 7 a.m. Wednesday with his jaw broken in two places.

He declined to have the officer call an ambulance, but said the pain later increased.

After surgery later that morning, wire braces were fitted on Newton's jaw. The braces will be taken off in about six weeks, Newton said.

Newton was released Friday afternoon.

Sarocka said the incident occurred when he and Newton left the American Tap bar to separate his friend and another man who were fighting.

"This guy was on top of (our friend) and was pounding him mercilessly," Sarocka said. Newton attempted to pull the two apart, Sarocka said.

"I jumped between them, and then I got hit," Newton said. "I didn't even know what happened."

Inadequate care affects children's future in school

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

Children should not be submitted to overcrowded and understaffed child care facilities, a childcare advocate said Monday.

Lana Hostetler, an advocate for child care legislation, said inadequate early child care affects a child's desire to learn in later stages of schooling.

Hostetler spoke at the Student Center as part of Head Start Day. The event brought the early childhood development community together to discuss their program needs.

"Statistics show that good early child care gives children the experience, desire and opportunity to flourish in school," Hostetler said. "Students that have had bad early child care can become disillusioned and frustrated by their experiences at school."

"The early stages are important and children need to understand how valuable school is to them."

In Illinois, 36 percent of all people who enter the ninth grade drop out of school before graduating, she said.

—Lana Hostetler

Hostetler also said child care has taken a greater importance on state and federal government agendas.

There have been several child care bills introduced to Congress, she said. But the most "well rounded" of the bills is the Act for Better Child Care, Hostetler said.

"It addresses the issues of availability, affordability and quality," Hostetler said. "It doesn't just deal with demand. It recognizes both demand and supply that so many other bills fail to look at."

In Illinois, child care is available to only one in seven children, she said.

"An awful lot of children have no place to go," she said.

Hostetler added that there is a 40 percent turnover each year in child care staff. One reason is because the staff is underpaid, she said.

"Child care is a physically demanding and emotionally draining job," Hostetler said. "Many people think the job is too much for just being paid at minimum wage or a little above."

Many parents cannot afford to pay more for child care, she said. But child care is receiving more attention, she said.

"The ABC Bill is gaining momentum in the House and the Senate and every presidential candidate is mentioning children and child care," she said.

"We are the only nation that doesn't have a federal comprehensive child care program besides South Africa," Hostetler said. "We need to keep increasing the public awareness of the child care needs."

The ABC Bill has the co-sponsorship of Sen. Paul Simon, she said.

"The bill has momentum. But we need to add to it by making lots of phone calls and writing lots of letters to Sen. Alan Dixon."

Unite 'two states,' state senator says

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

There are two states in Illinois — Chicago and the rest of the state — that argue over the budget, neglecting social responsibility, state Sen. Richard Newhouse said Monday.

"We're in a downward spiral engaged in clawing each other instead of working with each other," Newhouse, D-Chicago, said in a news conference at the Student Center. "It's a further doomsday. We need a rethinking of what to do socially."

"The situation can amount to war and is a real internal enemy threatening our domestic tranquility," he said.

Instead of arguing within the state, legislators should tell the federal government to work with them on social welfare decisions, Newhouse said.

He said 13 downstate communities want to build a prison, "but what do prisons do? Prisons don't bake bread—they suck out of the community."

As if to illustrate the division between the two sections of the state, state Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said at a news conference following Newhouse that: "We do fight over prisons. The only way we get jobs is taking care of the Chicago people you send down here."

Newhouse said the state's current social role is to put people in jail instead of eliminating crime by working with the youth, families and the elderly.

State Sen. Richard Newhouse

The federal government should spend more on social programs, he said.

Social work programs have remained static for the past 30 years, Newhouse said. The government has ignored the fact that children are having children and that there are single generation households, not three generation households like there were when the programs were created, Newhouse said.

"The problem with federal intervention is that it comes a little to little and a little too late and is misdirected," he said.

Betty Williams, vice president of United Charities of Chicago, said the non-profit volunteer organization may close if there isn't more funding for social programs. United Charities of Chicago runs primarily on donations, but receives some state funding, Williams, who also spoke at the press conference, said.

Students to resume selling their T-shirts

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

Two students who were prohibited to sell Springfest T-shirts on campus say they will soon return to business as usual.

Steve Cox and Tom Gorton have found a new sponsor after they lost their permit to sell the T-shirts they had designed. The Student Programming Committee claims a monopoly on the sale of Springfest T-shirts.

The students' earlier sponsor, Delta Tau fraternity, bowed to SPC's pressure to stop selling T-shirts without SPC's approval.

Cox and Gorton would not identify the new sponsor because they said SPC is threatening any group that will sponsor them.

SPC officials could not be reached for comment Monday night.

Joy Andrews of the Office of Student Development said three groups have been approved to sell on campus next week. The three groups are SPC, Delta Tau and the Advertisement Design and Illustration Club.

Another group also has offered to sponsor the T-shirt sale. Tim Capps, president of the Federalist Society, a group of law students interested in public policies concerning the Constitution, said the Federalist Society is interested in sponsoring the students because the society thinks that the students' constitutional rights are being violated.

Sean Craig, SPC special events committee chairman, has said that SPC only wants to promote a specific theme for Springfest. The special events committee is responsible for any negative publicity about Springfest, Craig said.

Capps disagreed.

"It is a problem of regulating their freedom of speech," Capps said. "Unless SPC comes up with legitimate reasons they may be violating their rights."

After looking at the T-shirts, Capps said the shirts do not seem to be offensive or obscene.

Program helps nab fugitive

Member of gang arrested in home after TV tip-off

NEW YORK (UPI) — A reputed member of a violent Jamaican drug gang being held Monday as a suspect in five drug-related murders eluded capture for months until a TV show broadcast a reenactment of his alleged crimes.

Karl "Fabulous" Dunstrom, 28, and three alleged accomplices who are still at large, fled to Washington, then Florida, after the Jan. 22 mass killings in Maryland, living off the proceeds of drug trafficking, said Sgt. Frank Shields of the Brooklyn North Homicide squad.

But Dunstrom's life on the lam came to an abrupt end Saturday when heavily armed police, acting on a tip from an informant who had seen a March 13 broadcast of Fox Television's "America Most Wanted Program" that focused on the killings, arrested him in a Brooklyn apartment.

He had been in the apartment in the heavily West Indian Crown Heights section for only a "day or so" when the tipster called, Shields said. It turned out he was also wanted for the Nov. 26 slaying in Brooklyn of Sean Patrick Ford, 17, killed only blocks from where Dunstrom was captured.

Prince George's County police Sgt. Mark Wright said two of the three other suspects — Steve McMillan and Kirk Bruce — in the Landover, Md., killings were also from Brooklyn. Police have yet to identify the fourth accomplice.

Dunstrom is the sixth fugitive that the Fox network takes credit for helping track down since their show began Feb. 7, said Mike Linder, the program's executive producer at WTTG-TV Channel 5 in Washington.

"Two tips led directly to (Dunstrom's) arrest," Linder said. "One called our hotline about a murder of a 17-year-old on Thanksgiving Day in New York City. He was actually Dunstrom's cousin. He was shot once in the head."

New York City police could not confirm that the two were cousins.

Bono anxious to be Palm Springs mayor

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Sonny Bono, former husband and singing partner of Oscar-nominated Cher, Monday was winding down his well-financed, controversial campaign to become California's next celebrity mayor.

The diminutive, nasal, actor-singer has placed consistently ahead in unscientific call-in opinion polls.

"You think you're ahead, but you'll never know until you cross the wire," Bono told 200 cheering supporters at a weekend rally.

Bono hopes to be elected Tuesday as mayor of this pricey desert resort of 38,500, following in the tradition of movie star Clint Eastwood, who won a landslide victory as mayor of the ocean-side resort town of Carmel two years ago.

Eastwood is not seeking reelection because he wants to spend more time with his children. His successor will be chosen Tuesday.

Bono, meanwhile, held a poolside picnic-rally at a local hotel over the weekend and was scheduled to appear on a half-hour paid call-in program on a local television station

Monday evening.

He has said he will spend about $50,000 for the four-year job that pays $15,000 a year, raising much of his campaign money through the sale of popular "Sonny Bono for Mayor of Palm Springs" T-shirts.

The 53-year-old entertainer and restaurateur has campaigned as an outsider who is fed up with what he calls an "old boy network" running the city of Palm Springs to benefit themselves and their well-connected, wealthy friends at the expense of the townspeople and merchants.

"It's time for a change," has been Bono's rallying cry.

Bono, who was turned down by the city when he tried to enlarge the sign for his pasta restaurant, Bono, and had a dispute with the city over a retaining wall for his home, charges that the city's zoning codes and ordinances are too restrictive and harm merchants and homeowners.

He also complains that the downtown's main thoroughfare, Palm Canyon Drive, has been neglected by the city.

Pap test can detect cervical cancer

Sexually active females should have annual tests

By Cathy Devera
Wellness Center

After the age of 18, or whenever a woman becomes sexually active, it is recommended that she have a Pap test once a year to prevent cancer of the cervix.

Cervical cancer is the second most common cancer in women.

Multiple sex partners increase the risk of cervical cancer. Most experts feel that cervical cancer is caused by the wart virus, which is transmitted sexually. Women contract these genital warts from their male sexual partners.

Over 20,000 new cases of cancer of the cervix are detected each year in the United States. If found before it spreads beyond the cervix, this type of cancer has a very high cure rate.

Because cervical cancer has no symptoms in the early stages, the Pap test is an important part of a gynecological check-up.

The Pap test is a painless procedure. The physician or nurse inserts a speculum into the vagina and gently inserts a cotton-tipped applicator (a small wooden spatula) to collect a layer of cells from the cervix.

The cells are placed on a glass slide and sent to a laboratory for microscopic examination in order to detect any abnormal cells before they become cancerous.

An abnormal Pap result does not necessarily mean a cancerous or precancerous condition. A pap smear is not a definite diagnosis of cervical cancer but rather an indication that cells are changing and may require further attention.

Some cervical cells may change due to an infection, in which case the physician will treat the infection and repeat the Pap in two to four weeks.

Lately, there has been some controversy about this procedure.

Dr. Frisch, chief of staff at the Health Service, agrees that the Pap Smear is not perfect, but he feels it is a good tool for detecting cervical cancer in its earliest stages.

He calculates that at anytime at least 4 percent of SIU-C women have precancerous cells that need treatment. Dr. Frisch also stated that experts recommend yearly Pap tests because if detected early, cervical cancer can be treated and women are still able to have children.

If left untreated or detected late, the cancer could spread to the uterus and women could lose their ability to have children.

How can people protect themselves from genital warts and subsequent cervical cancer? The best prevention is to abstain from sex.

If people choose to be sexually active, they can't protect themselves from the virus by examining their partners because usually no visible lesions exist.

People can reduce their risk by monogamy or requesting their partners use a condom.

Recent studies have shown that cigarette smokers suffer more cervical cancer. Also, the American Cancer Society suggests eating foods rich in folic acid and vitamin A and C could help prevent cancer of the cervix.

The best time for a Pap test is when women are not on their period. They should not douche or use tampons 24 hours before the exam and they need to avoid hygiene products as they can alter test results.

Women can schedule an appointment for a Pap test by calling the Health Service, 453-3311 or 536-2391. For details about sexually transmitted diseases, call the Wellness Center at 536-4441.

Akron company plays role in AIDS battle

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — A latex prophylactic for women to help in the fight against the AIDS virus should be on the market by the end of the year, the inventor said Monday.

The Akron Rubber Development Co. has been testing a prototype of the prophylactic invented by Dr. A.V.K. Reddy, a surgeon in Hanna, Wyo. Reddy declined to describe the prophylactic because he is still trying to obtain an international patent for it.

The Food and Drug Administration approved the contraceptive last August and Reddy said he expected the prophylactic to be on the market by the end of this year. C. Robert Samples, chief executive officer of Akron Rubber Development and Reddy's consultant, will help set up a plant to manufacture the prophylactic. No site has been determined.

"I gave him the diagram and design molds," Reddy said. "He coordinated everything, using the equipment in his lab. He made beautiful pieces that I could use on humans."

Samples said the fastest-growing segment of the laboratory's business is related to latex products aimed at preventing acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Samples is a consultant for several companies, including Health Technologies International Inc., a latex products broker in Seattle.

Poll: Indict lax moms-to-be

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nearly half of young women say that mothers whose babies suffer birth defects should be criminally prosecuted if the defects are attributed to their failure to heed medical advice during pregnancy, it was reported Monday.

Glamour magazine said its survey of readers, mostly between 18 and 35 years old, showed 46 percent favored prosecution, 42 percent did not and 12 percent were undecided.

The survey, published in the magazine's May issue, also said half of the respondents believe the courts should be able to force pregnant women to undergo medical treatment to benefit the fetus, 41 percent disagreed and 10 percent had no opinion.

Glamour said a similar breakdown of young women felt that women whose behavior endangers their unborn babies should be subject to forced hospital detention. An even 50 percent of the 857 readers responding to the survey agreed, 39 percent did not and 11 had no opinion.

One respondent who favored criminal prosecution for ignoring medical orders during pregnancy, wrote, "Nine months is not long to ask someone to take care of herself for the sake of the unborn child. If they don't, I think criminal prosecution is justified."

Fifty-four percent of the women said doctors should be able to require patients to undergo certain prenatal tests.

Memorial Hospital will sponsor seven-week nursing internship

A seven-week summer nursing internship is being offered by Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

The Graduate Nurse Internship Program is for graduates of an accredited school of nursing. The program combines classroom instruction with supervised clinical experience in medical and surgical areas and obstetrics.

The graduates must be eligible to practice nursing in Illinois. For details call 549-0721, ext. 5141.

U of I recruiting official: We'll follow rules, be OK

CHAMPAIGN (UPI) — When Randy Rodgers accepted the job of athletics recruiting coordinator for University of Illinois, he inherited a severely troubled athletic program precipitously close to incurring the National Collegiate Athletic Association's so-called "death penalty."

The checkered past of the school's football program came to a boil in mid-January, when a series of recruiting violations came to light and head football coach Mike White was forced to step down.

Some of the handful of misdeeds were trivial but two, dealing with a former assistant coach picking up a potential recruit's hotel tab and White himself visiting a high school athlete before he could legally be approached, were more substantial.

Revelation of the infractions came while the football team was on probation for similar misdeeds.

In February, after the Illini hired ex-Kansas City Chiefs head coach John Mackovic to succeed White, the NCAA placed Illinois on probation until July 1989. The football program also must conduct annual audits and submit them to the NCAA's Committee on Infractions.

The next major infraction, means the "death penalty" — which would ban an Illinois team found guilty of the infraction from competing for as many as two years.

"I think everybody knows what the stakes are. And no one wants to contribute to that, especially me," said Rodgers, who took over the post April 6 in place of Larry Petroff and reports to Vance Redfern, the senior associate athletic director.

"Illinois really can't afford to have any mistakes in this area," Rodgers said. "Because of the cloud, I think everyone's going to try to be very careful."

"I don't anticipate any problems. ... I think if we know the rules and abide by the rules we'll be all right."

—Randy Rodgers

Rodgers, a 40-year-old Illinois graduate, returned to Champaign by way of Evansville, Ind., where he was coordinator for promotional programs for Bristol-Myers. Before that, he was head football coach at Evansville, posting an 18-31-3 mark in his five-year tenure.

Rodgers played football for the Illini from 1965-68 and was an All-Big Ten academic team selection in 1968. In 1969, he received the George Huff Award, which goes to athletes earning letters and maintaining a B average or better for two consecutive years.

His role as recruiting coordinator for Illinois' 21 athletic teams will be to help coaches and their staffs understand the NCAA's complex network of bylaws dealing with high school athletes.

"It's certainly a big responsibility," Rodgers said. "But it's shared by all of those that recruit here. My responsibility is to make sure our coaches know the rules and how to stay within the rules."

"I don't anticipate any problems. I think (Illinois Athletics Director) Neale (Stoner) has told everyone to be aware of possible problems. But everyone wants to be thorough. I think if we know the rules and abide by the rules we'll be all right," Rodgers said.

Blues take 3-1 lead into Game 5 against Chicago

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Blues remained cautiously optimistic after a practice session in preparation for Game 5 of their playoff series against the Chicago Blackhawks.

In four previous playoff matches with their arch-rival Blackhawks, the Blues always went home a loser. But with a 3-1 advantage, St. Louis can wrap up its Norris Division semifinal against Chicago with a victory in the 7:35 p.m. game tonight at The Arena. Only four other teams in NHL history have overcome a 3-1 playoff deficit.

"We've got the opportunity to win the fourth game and it takes four to win," Blues captain Brian Sutter said. "It would be good for us to beat a rugged team like Chicago.

"We've got to remember we have not won anything yet. We've got to win one more. It would be nice to do it (tonight)."

—Brian Sutter

They have a good hockey club. "We've got to remember we have not won anything yet. We've got to win one more. It would be nice to do it (tonight)."

The Blues won Game 4 Sunday night in Chicago 6-5 to take the commanding lead. St. Louis overcame 3-1, 4-3 and 5-4 deficits to win the game.

However, the Blues, who were knocked out in the first round last year by Toronto, realize Chicago will not roll over because of the 3-1 deficit.

"We can't look beyond the next game," said Tony McKegney, who had three assists in the victory Sunday night. "We can't get overconfident."

The Blackhawks, on the other hand, must not try and do too much in Game 5.

To win, the Blues want to bring the game back to their liking — tight checking with good play from the special teams.

"We don't want to get into another wide-open shootout," St. Louis coach Jacques Martin said.

President congratulates Jayhawks, Lady Techsters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Yellow Brick Road for NCAA basketball champion Kansas led to the White House, where President Reagan saluted the Jayhawks and women's champion Louisiana Tech on Monday.

Offering congratulations at a Rose Garden ceremony, Reagan told the teams: "Remember the lessons you've learned this season, the lessons about hard work, never quitting. ... What you've learned in basketball will be a strength to you all your lives, because it's true, if you keep your head up, work hard, in America, anything can happen."

Kansas survived the loss of several key players to injuries, poor academic performance and disciplinary action and a midseason slump to sweep through the NCAA Tournament and take the national championship in an 83-79 upset of Big Eight rival Oklahoma.

Kansas, as Reagan pointed out, wasn't "exactly favored" to win the championship, and the team's unexpected success prompted comparisons with a famed Kansas with big dreams — Dorothy.

For their part, the Lady Techsters trailed Auburn's Lady Tigers 31-19 at halftime in their championship game but bounced back to win 56-54 at Tacoma, Wash.

The crown was the Lady Techsters' fourth in 11 years

Western gets new football assistant

MACOMB (UPI) — Western Illinois football coach Bruce Craddock has added former MacMurray College head football coach Robin Cooper to the Leatherneck's corps of assistant coaches, WIU athletics officials said Monday.

Cooper, who served as a volunteer aid with the WIU football team last season, will be assigned to the quarterbacks as their segment coach during the 1988 schedule, Craddock said.

Cooper, who guided MacMurray to a 20-6 record in three years, succeeds Gary Crowton, who resigned recently to assume the offensive coordinator position at the University of New Hampshire.

Women's golf team swings to fourth place in Missouri

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The women's golf team, hindered by bad weather and a messy golf course, came in fourth at the Mizzou Invitational Tournament in Columbia, Mo.

SIU-C held third place after the first round on Saturday, one stroke ahead of Gateway Conference champions Wichita State.

"We looked pretty good in the first round," Coach Diane Daugherty said. "But then on the second round on Sunday, we played on the worst weather I've ever seen on a golf course."

"It was freezing cold and raining all 18 holes," Daugherty said. "I don't want to make excuses, but Purdue, Missouri and Wichita all played ahead of us, and the course was in a little better shape for them. By the time we got to the last few greens, it was a mess."

Purdue won the 36 hole tournament with a 622 total. Missouri had 625, Wichita State 664 and SIU-C 671.

"I said before the tournament that Purdue and Missouri would be tough," Daugherty said. "Sure enough, after the first round they were both a good 15-20 strokes ahead of everyone else. But I was disappointed that we finished

Men golfers come in 7th at Bradley Invitational

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The men's golf team, with a three-round total of 961, finished a disappointing seventh at the Bradley Invitational Tournament this weekend in Pekin.

Illinois State won the 54-hole tournament with a 914 total. Iowa State was second with 920, Iowa third at 921 and Bradley fourth at 928.

"We played very poorly," Coach Lew Hartzog said. "We had excellent weather for the first round on Saturday. It was warm and there was no wind, but we just didn't keep the ball in play."

Jeff Mullican and Mike Cowen came close, Hartzog said. "Mullican played extremely well on the second round."

Mullican finished eighth individually with a 230 total, including a 72 par on the second round. Cowen shot a 240 total.

Hartzog also was impressed with the play of Tom Neumann. Neumann played individually and his score didn't count in the team total, but shot a 234, including a team-low 73 on the first round.

Bobby Pavelonis shot a 246, Mark Bellas a 247 and Britt Pavelonis a 254.

"Both Pavelonises and Bellas had trouble keeping the ball in play," Hartzog said. "Bellas has to keep the ball down the middle and inbounds. If he does, the rest of his game is fine. He had a horrible 86 on the first round."

"Overall, I was disappointed in our play because we're as good as Bradley," Hartzog said. "We can't compete with Iowa and Iowa State, but we should have beaten Bradley."

behind our conference rival (Wichita State)."

Tina Kozlowski was the low scorer for the Salukis, finishing fifth individually in the tournament with a 156. She had a 75 in the first round.

The team's next tournament is the Ilini Classic, Saturday and Sunday in Champaign.

amateur softball association ball, four of them with the Pittsburgh Patriots. In the Keystone State games, she played for three gold medal teams.

Davidovich also played four years with the Patriots and was on two of the gold medal teams.

When it comes to choosing the proper pitch to throw, Robinson looks to Davidovich's expertise.

"I'm comfortable playing with her. I never call her off," Robinson said, adding that spoken communication between the two isn't always necessary. "I can tell by just the look."

Davidovich said, "We've been together for so long that I know when she pitches well we can beat anybody. Florida State is an example of that."

Robinson is 4-3 this spring, which includes a victory over nationally-ranked Florida State.

"I'm settled down, more relaxed," Robinson said. "My (throwing) motion is back to normal."

Davidovich says Robinson is a "real deceiving pitcher. She throws all with her wrist, very smooth. They say if she got her legs in it, she'd be devastating."

Davidovich, who has tendonitis in her arm, is trying to make a comeback. "I'm going to go in with a positive attitude. So much of the game is mental. We have to believe we can win," she said.

Davidovich has made good strides as a catcher. "I'm pleased with Michele's progress," Brechtelsbauer said. "She's taking charge behind the plate."

The Salukis' Bethel Park connection realize they still have much to accomplish. "We have to have confidence in ourselves," Davidovich said. "Being freshmen, we're here to prove ourselves."

Ron Smith named to assist Herrin

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

Smith has been a part-time assistant for the Salukis since Coach Rich Herrin took over three years ago. Before that, Smith was an assistant under Herrin for four years at Benton.

"I've had him in mind for a long time," Herrin said. "He's done an outstanding job helping to build our program over the last three years. He has a good relationship with our players. He's the man for the job."

The biggest change in Smith's responsibilities will be recruiting off campus. He will recruit mostly in the Midwest, where he has developed contacts while coaching in Illinois for the past 13 years.

"I'm excited," Smith said. "I'm really looking forward to it. I enjoy traveling. That's one of the enjoyable things about college basketball."

Before coaching at Benton, Smith was athletics director and head basketball coach at Coulterville High School from 1976 to 1981.

In addition to coaching at Benton, Smith also worked as a school guidance counselor. While at SIU-C, he served as the team's academic adviser. Smith said the experience will help him when he goes on the road to recruit.

"That experience will play an important part when I visit a recruit at his home with his parents," he said. "I can tell them first-hand about signing up for classes and about academics."

Herrin said Smith's personality will aid the Salukis' recruiting efforts.

"He's a personable young man," Herrin said. "He's done a very outstanding job in one-on-one situations."

Last summer, Smith coached in the Prairie State Games and led the southern region team to a 4-1 record and a bronze medal.

Smith graduated from Illinois State in 1976 and received a master's degree in guidance and educational psychology from SIU-C in 1983.

Herrin expects to fill the part-time assistant's job by June 1.

Salukis at Evansville

The first-place baseball team (yes, that's right) will wander to Indiana and play Evansville in a doubleheader 7:13 p.m. today.

The Salukis are in a six-way tie for first place after all of the Valley teams opened up the conference season by splitting their weekend series.

While it seems like the baseball season just began, the Salukis already are halfway through their regular season schedule. SIU-C will take a 18-12 overall record and a 2-2 Valley mark into Evansville.

A week ago in Carbondale, the Salukis split a doubleheader with the Purple Aces. Evansville, 21-8, has won four straight games since leaving Abe Martin Field.

Men's tennis game today

The men's tennis team will play the University of Evansville at 2 p.m. today at the University Tennis Courts.

The Salukis, winners of seven consecutive dual matches, are 14-12 for the season. SIU-C is led by Jose Demeterco and Mickey Maule. Demeterco has won 11 of 14 matches at No. 2 singles and has teamed with Jairo Aldana for a 12-1 record at No. 2 doubles. Maule is 23-3 playing mostly in the No. 3 singles spot.

Evansville, 10-8, has won nine of its last 10 dual matches. The Purple Aces are led by Academic All-American David Petrie.

Panel reiterates: Athletics attracts students, not bucks

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

Former interim head football coach Larry McDaniel said Monday that SIU-C football will "never in its life pay for itself."

At a panel discussion, McDaniel, three coaches and Harvey Welch, vice president for Student Affairs, said again what most already know: athletics is not a money-making business.

Head football coach Rick Rhoades, who was not on the panel, agrees with this assessment. "I think there are very few Division I-AA programs that make money," he said. "If the only reason to have athletics is to make money, we've lost sight of its purpose."

McDaniel said that if the University decides athletics is a part of the overall institution, it needs to be totally committed to it.

The discussion, sponsored by the honorary group Phi Delta Kappa, was intended to discuss intercollegiate athletics and its role in higher education.

Ten percent of student fees is allotted for athletics. That 10 percent accounts for 80 percent of the athletics department budget.

Swimming coach Doug Ingram voiced his concerns about the athletics department being so dependent on student fees.

"We should be able to generate a much higher percent of our income. I think we should be more self-sufficient," he said.

All members of the panel agreed that the main role of Division I athletics is to bring greater national exposure to the University. SIU-C has twenty sports in Division I, with football being Division I-AA.

Second-year golf coach Diane Daugherty said the only reason she had ever heard of SIU-C was because of its athletics program.

Welch said, "If one would go back and check our admissions the year after we won the championship in football, they tell me the enrollment increased."

McDaniel said the athletics department is an extension of public relations. "A Division I sport will get more exposure," he said. "I think all schools should have Division I sports."

The department has formed a Strategic Planning Committee to discuss which sports should be supported. Committee members Ingram and Cindy Scott, women's basketball coach, said the money-generating sports should be given top priority.

McDaniel said, "The University really pushes the idea that we offer everything. I'd rather have fewer highly competitive teams than mediocre teams."

High school days make pitcher, catcher feel at home

Michele Davidovich

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Pitcher and catcher. They are involved in every play of the game.

The physical and mental demands are greater than those asked of anyone else on the field.

For that reason a special relationship sometimes develops between the two. This tandem is often called the "battery." The driving energy that can power a team comes from here.

The Saluki softball team has in pitcher Lisa Robinson and catcher Michele Davidovich such a combination.

They have known each other since eighth grade and played high school ball together at Bethel Park, Pa., which is a town of 34,000 in the south suburbs of Pittsburgh.

Their long friendship was a strong factor in Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer's decision to bring them both to SIU-C.

"We had a need to fill both positions," Brechtelsbauer said. "Plus they have worked together for years. I felt they could both help the program."

They already have made an impact. Robinson has worked her way into the starting rotation, and Davidovich has started three of the last four games.

Robinson, a 5-foot-8 right-hander, had an outstanding prep career. Her 637 strikeouts rank 7th in the National Federation of High School's record book. In four seasons she was 58-18 with 27 shutouts and nine no-hitters (five no-hitters as a senior).

She played five summers of
