College living to cost more, survey predicts

NEW YORK (AP) — College expenses will take a record jump this school year after a decade of relatively modest inflation, according to a survey by the College Board. More than a dozen East Coast colleges have hiked tuition and fees by an average of more than $11,000.

The survey of 1,464 four-year universities and colleges has been conducted each year since 1972 by the College Scholarship Service, the financial aid division of the College Board, a non-profit organization representing many U.S. colleges and universities.

Total expenses, including tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies, and transportation and personal expenses, will average $13,885 at private four-year colleges, and $5,930 at public four-year schools.

The survey predicts that total college costs will rise 14 percent, or $464 on average, according to the survey. Tuition and fees alone will jump an average 13 percent, or $484, at private schools and $113, or 16 percent, at public colleges.

The increases, the highest recorded since the survey began, follow a decade where total college costs rose consistently with the overall national inflation rate, said Joe Paul Case of the College Scholarship Service.

This year's higher costs, coupled with President Reagan's cuts in federal student loan programs, "inhibit students and their parents from covering more of the bill than in the past," said the report.

But Case said the board was hopeful college prices would moderate next year.

Boston College, a small highly competitive Vermont liberal arts college, reported the highest total costs for students in 1981-82 at $12,000.

Twelve private schools, said student expenses will top $11,000 this year.

Iranian ministry bombed; five killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A powerful explosion ripped through the prime ministry in Tehran Sunday, Iranian president and prime minister were killed and 15 wounded, with some of the bodies burnt beyond recognition, in the explosion and fire that followed.

In a broadcast interview, Iran's parliament speaker condemned the explosion as a "barbaric attack by American helicopters," and said the two injured leaders were together in the room. The state-run radio said they were later that we learned that the explosion had occurred in a room in which the prime minister was present.

President Mohammad Ali Rajai, the prime minister, and Premier Dr. Bahonar were gathered with several others.

The explosion at 3 p.m. - 7:30 a.m. EDT - touched off a fire, but the official news agency said the blaze was in the "press room" within 24 hours after the explosion.

No group claimed responsibility for the blast. It highlighted the urban guerrilla campaign that secular leftist factions of the Islamic fundamentalist regime have waged for the past two months.

Iran has been rocked by political turmoil in recent weeks, with the ouster of moderate President Abassamami Bani-Sadr.

On June 28, an explosion at the ruling Islamic Revolutionary Party headquarters in Tehran killed more than 70 political leaders, including Ayatollah Moham­med Beheshti, considered the most powerful figure in Iran after revolutionary patriarch Ayatollah Rudaholah Khomeini.

Rajai, who had been prime minister of the revolutionary regime, was elected without serious opposition to succeed Bani-Sadr in July. But the new premier was appointed to fill the vacant post of prime minister.

Properties sought for overpass

Property appraisals begin to soon

By Bob Boudreaut Staff Writer

Property appraisals for land in the right of way of the proposed U.S. 51 overpass of the Carbonado Railroad Relocation Project should begin by Oct. 1, city officials said at a press conference Friday.

There will be two appraisals, Eldon Gossard, project director, said. He said meetings have been held with property owners to inform them of the progress of the overpass project.

Most businesses will only have to give up a small parcel of land, Gossard said. Others will have to close down or relocate, he said.

Acquisition of right of way property should begin in early February. The city is obligated to provide "certain relocation services," he said.

Businesses with a major portion of land on the right of way will include Carbonado Concrete Products Inc., R.B. Stephens Construction Co., Stolar Lumber Co. and Moose Home Association.

Gossard said $2.3 million in Federal Highway Administration funds has been allocated for the purchase of 21 parcels of land from 14 businesses, the final design of the U.S. 51-St. Louis Spur Overpass, and a "piggyback" loading facility for Illinois Central Railroad.

He gave much of the credit for receiving the $2.3 million to Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill.

Funds still need to be allocated in the 1982 budget for construction of the U.S. 51 overpass itself.

But Gossard said the funds for the right of way purchase will give the relocation project a "very logical case to receive construction funding."

Whether the rest of the project is funded, including entrenching the IGC tracks south of U.S. 51 and construction of several bridges over the depressed tracks, is "speculative," Gossard said.
Reagan tight-money policy defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Governor Paul Volcker vowed Sunday to stick with his tight-money policy and expressed confidence that President Reagan supports that course, though it is being blamed for high interest rates. Volcker described the restrictions on the money supply as vital to the battle against inflation. He echoed comments made last week by Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers.

"I think the Federal Reserve is on target, and surely fighting inflation through monetary restraint is essential to the success of our economic program," Weidenbaum said Sunday on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

"Monetary restraint on the part of the Federal Reserve is now being lifted as needed to bring down inflation," Weidenbaum said, charging that the Carter administration left a "legacy of inflation and high interest rates."

"I have the sense of a capture of the Fed's money policy to bring the following the big party the right back, literally, in the second half of 1980 there was the biggest blast of monetary ease since the Carter administration," he said.

Volcker said he sees no incompatibility between the Fed's monetary policies and the economic policies of the Reagan administration as long as the administration's pledge to 13 indicted in alien smuggling ring

CHICAGO (AP) — Thirteen people, including six Greeks, have been indicted in connection with a smuggling operation that brought about 4,000 illegal aliens to the Chicago area in the last five years, officials said.

Brian S. Ferryman, supervisory criminal investigator in the immigration service, said the ring grossed more than $2 million during the five years it operated. Agents were charged with 99 each and children 300 each for the trip to Chicago, he said.

6 arrested for synagogue attack

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Investigators investigating a bloody grenade attack on a downtown synagogue made six more arrests Sunday, police reported.

Several hours before the arrests, the investigators announced the discovery of evidence they said linked the Palestine Liberation Organization to two men arrested immediately after Saturday's attack. But the FLO condemned the assault, while the Israeli government and Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky accused each other of following policies that foster terrorism.

Angolan provincial capital captured

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Angola's Sunday contended South that South Africa captured a southern Angolan provincial capital and eight small towns in renewed air and ground attacks. South Africa branded the reports as "non sense."

The official Angolan news agency Angop reported that the South African troops had occupied the southern provincial capital of Cunene on Saturday. The report said federal forces shot down five South African warplanes during the fighting.

cut spending enough to make up for revenue lost by its tax cut. "We have communication with the administration on the administration that the programs would be funded locally by their sixth year. This would be the last year for federal funding. SIU-C asked VISTA for $78,000 for the coming year, compared to $115,000 in 1977. Local matching funds were to provide an additional $50,000. If SIU-C's program survives, next year it will have to be supported entirely by University and local monies. The program allows participating students to learn by living and working in the community. Students receive both college credit and a monthly stipend. Most workers are from the College of Human Resources and study design, administration of justice, rehabilitation, community and social services or human development.

Interest rates have been hovering at 38 percent for short-term borrowing and at 17 percent for home mortgages. Volcker cited inflation as the No. 1 economic problem the country faces, and he blamed it for high interest rates. He said people have come to expect continued inflation, and therefore lenders keep their interest rates up. He said 10 percent for home mortgages.

Ryan says he will run for lieutenant governor

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - Republican Illinois House Speaker George H Ryan Jr. likely to say he has Gov. James R. Thompson's blessing, will announce Monday his bid for lieutenant governor. Ryan's office said Sunday the 47-year-old lawmaker will announce his candidacy for the GOP nomination at a morning news conference in hometown Springfield. The primary race for the number two spot on the GOP ticket next year already has stirred heat between Ryan and another politician who hasn't yet declared his bid: state Sen. Donald Totten. The Hoffman Estates Republican was President Reagan's Illinois campaign chief last year and in 1976. The contest to join Thompson on the 1982 GOP ticket could pit the White House against the Statehouse. Thompson and Totten, two traditional foes, already are vying for the same ticket.

Ryan asked for and got a pledge from the White House to stay out of the Illinois lieutenant governor's race.

Totten on Saturday accused the governor of being "high-handed" after U.S. Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis canceled an appearance next month at a Totten fundraiser. Totten said last week that he'd announce his candidacy next month.

Besides Ryan and Totten, three other men are running for the Republican nomination to join Thompson's re-election campaign.

They are state Sen. Prescott Bloom of Peoria, University of Illinois professor and former lawmaker James Nolan, who was a Thompson administration Cabinet officer and former Gov. Richard Ogilvie's '67 running mate, and state Rep. Herbert Huskey of Oak Lawn. Political observers say they expect Nolan and Huskey, if not Bloom, to drop out of the race now that Ryan says he's running and has the backing of the governor.
I don't know what Bill Turley's major is, but his editorial column, "Letters - N-bomb column wrong," demonstrates that it can't be political science or journalism. His article entitled "Do we need the neutron bomb or is it just a military weapon?" is such superficial treatment of a serious subject that it does not deserve to be located on the Opinion & Commentary page of a college newspaper. Amazingly, it was written by an anonymous author.

By reading no further than the title, one could determine that this would be an uninformed, naive and shallow evaluation of a weapon that could prove decisive in determining the outcome of the Cold War. Whether one is a Democrat or a Republican, it is designed to ensure that this super weapon is not used for the correct purposes of peace or war.

As for NATO superiority, is the author aware of the fact that his comments would be ridiculous and naive with regard to the present example of the Warsaw Pact. The Warsaw Pact has an estimated four times the numbers of the NATO alliances in Europe as does NATO. The U.S. and the USSR have both agreed in principle to a peace summit designed to assure that this superiority is not used for the correct purposes of peace or war. But for the lack of a more valid alternative, experienced NATO spokesmen have advocated the use of the neutron bomb in Europe. This will have a decisive impact on the forces opposing NATO. It will provide a political weapon that the other side can't use with any degree of success.

Opinions such as Bill Turley's are exactly why the Russian warmongers and propagandists are encouraging the Soviet leaders to pursue a policy of nuclear war at any cost. The Soviets have successfully trained in the use of biological weapons, and have clearly marked, patrolling antiballistic missile while wearing chemical protective clothing. This is the easy way to get the U.S. and its allies to use other weapons.

The use of chemical agents, the fact that they can be used with great accuracy, makes the U.S. and its allies more vulnerable. It is a weapon that can be easily used against the population centers and the forces of the NATO alliances. It is also one that can be used against the forces of the Warsaw Pact.

This is the parliamentary situation: Unless both houses of Congress adopt resolutions of disapproval by October 30, the sale will go through. For my own part, I see no convincing reasons that could justify a legislative veto, and I see a dozen solid reasons to support the president's decision.

TWO PRINCIPAL OBJECTIVES of the sale have already been achieved. One is that the U.S. has sold 300 million dollars worth of advanced weapon systems to our friends. The other is that the U.S. has sold 100 million dollars worth of advanced weapon systems to our friends.

Neither objection is decisive. The AWACS technology has been widely reported in professional journals; whether the planes are used by the Saudis or by our NATO allies, there always is a risk of the Soviets using the planes. As for the second general objection, the short answer is that the Israelis have abundantly demonstrated their ability to take care of themselves. By such deeds of derring-do as the Entebbe rescue and the Israeli nuclear reactor raid, the Israelis have shown their ability to execute bold decisions. In the crunch, if war should erupt between Israel and Saudi Arabia, the AWACS would be sitting ducks for Israeli fighters and as the incident of the USS Liberty made clear in 1967, the presence of American airmen aboard the AWACS would be a deterrent to the Israelis' trigger fingers.

YOU WILL RECALL the USS Liberty. This was an American intelligence vessel, clearly marked, patrolling in international waters. The Israelis attacked the ship, killing 34 and injuring 17; we billed $3 million, the Israelis $34 million. TheISTORY of the AWACS sale is a life of quids and guos, and the Congress had better not forget it. Over the past several years, Saudi Arabia has been a good friend—ever an indispensable friend—to the United States. In the light of that friendship, a measure of quid pro quo is surely in order now.

That is what Mr. Reagan must understand in the matter of the sale of AWACS. There are only five AWACS (Airborne Warning and Control System) airplanes. These would be sold to Saudi Arabia for roughly $500 million. For five years after delivery, the planes would be manned by combined American and Saudi crews. After that, the Saudis would be on their own.

This is the parliamentary situation: Unless both houses of Congress adopt resolutions of disapproval by October 30, the sale will go through. For my own part, I see no convincing reasons that could justify a legislative veto, and I see a dozen solid reasons to support the president's decision.

Crowd kept near fever pitch

Daniels band was fun, polished

By Joe Walter

The Charlie Daniels Band concert at the Du Quoin State Fair Grandstand Friday night was not only proof of the band's well-polished musicianship but great fun for the audience as well.

Crowd members, many wearing cowboy hats, had their enthusiasm held at a near fever pitch as the band played a variety of tunes ranging from country rock to gospel to showmanship—his musicians even some footstomping fiddle tunes.

Daniels was not the only one to display his guitar-playing showmanship—his musicians were also given an opportunity to show off their talents. The quality of the band's sound was excellent, fully demonstrating the keyboard playing of Joe DiGregorio, the guitars of Daniels and Tom Crain, the bass of Charlie Hayward and the drums of Jim Marshall and Fred Edwards.

The music was not the only facet of the show. Dancers accompanied the jazzy tune "Jitterbug" to add to the visual entertainment.

The audience's enthusiasm zepted from red- to white-hot when Daniels brought out his fiddle and played "The Devil Went Down to Georgia." The crowd received Daniels' patriotic "In America" even more warmly, and collectively cheered him on when he told the Russians to "go to hell."

Though Daniels has said he doesn't want the musical style of his band to be typified, one generalization is evident—people have a good time listening to it.

train terrorists in Libya

The Times said Wilson hired and brought to Libya several American explosives experts, including ex-Army ordinance officers, to instruct Libyans in their use.

Ex-agent sold explosives

NEW YORK (AP) — A former agent for the Central Intelligence Agency arranged a deal in which 20 tons of plastic explosives were sent secretly and illegally from the United States to Libya four years ago, The New York Times reported in its Sunday edition.

The newspaper said federal investigators and participants in the financial transactions on three continents said the explosives were for use in the manufacture of bombs for terrorists.

It identified the ex-agent as Edwin P. Wilson and said he closed a deal with Libyan leader Col. Muammar Khadafy to use his expertise in intelligence, arms and explosives.

Taxidermist snaps up 'gators

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Louisiana's alligator season starts Monday, and that means business will be snapping for Mike Statnsbury, who turns gators into something more lasting than shoes or pocketbooks.

Alligators, which don't always look too lively in real life, do when Statnsbury, a licensed taxidermist, gets done with them.

"We sculpture a body to match the original body," Statnsbury said. "We try to give the sculpture an active pose—like it's jumping and biting. Not just lying in the mud, like they usually are."

"I've just had three people come in," said Statnsbury, in "One was from Portugal, and he wants me to take him on a hunt."

The hunter will have to wait before he can take a trophy home from the local swamps. Stuffing and skinning the big reptile isn't easy.

Charlie Daniels likes to play; says fame hasn’t changed him

By Joe Walter Entertainment Editor

Backstage of the Du Quoin State Fair Grandstand Friday night was the usual question: "Charlie Daniels' comments ranged from his love of music to his "grayness" of hair because he has toured in Eastern Europe.

When asked about whether he was dry or had a gray streaked beard, he replied that he had a 44-year-old Danes punctuated his answers to reporters' questions with philosophy of "playing music as a band produce music as a trade," he said.

His current popularity doesn't really make him feel like a star, he said, since he does what he likes to do: play music. He said he toured and played music as a collective effort. "We have no axes to grind, we just like to play music," he said.

He downplayed his fiddle-playing ability, saying that there are others who probably play the fiddle better. However, he added, "If there was anyone who played fiddle better than me, I took a few licks off 'em."

He was also asked why Ted Nugent, whose musical style is in entirely different veins from Daniels', performed at the Volunteer Jam last January. The Jam is sponsored every year by the Charlie Daniels Band in Nashville. Daniels replied that he likes variety in music, and said that if Vinchak Perlman could come, he would enjoy having him play.

He went on to say that people with closed minds who stick with just one type of music have "tunnel vision.

"They're missing a lot in their lives," he said. "I like variety.

His love of musical variety extends to classical music, and he said he likes to listen to beautiful music because it helps him concentrate.

"Fand at his performances appreciate the variety in the music his band plays, he said, even in Europe.

He has toured the European continent twice and remembers his impression of Eastern Europe as rather "bleak and gray."

"No matter what people tell you, people in the eastern bloc countries are survived for western culture."

One could take any of the bars and bands playing in Du Quoin and find the largest hall in Moscow, he continued.

Other aspects of western culture are also evidently lacking in Eastern Europe, he said. "Imagine waiting at a 7-11," he said, "for 14 hours for something that they don't have."

Daniels was asked if he thought that the impact of "in America" was partially responsible for the election of Ronald Reagan.

"If 'in America' had any impact, then Jimmy Carter would be president, not Ronald Reagan," he said. However, he conceded that he thought "Ronnie Reagan was doing a good job."

The Arena promotes the new ticket system.

The Arena Promotions staff has announced the new ticket line distribution system that will be implemented, based on a survey of students that was taken last spring.

The system that will be used for upcoming concerts will be the line reservation system that was chosen to avoid causing ticket patrons to camp for 2 weeks outside the ticket office, according to Arena Director Gary Drake.

The "Line Reservation Card" system will work as outlined in these three steps:

1. Look for an ad in the Daily Egyptian or the Southern Illinoisan announcing the date that will be used for the line distribution system.
2. Look at the Daily Egyptian or the Southern Illinoisan announcing the date that will be used for the line distribution system.
3. Look at the Daily Egyptian or the Southern Illinoisan announcing the date that will be used for the line distribution system.

At the Arena, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. on the first day of ticket sales at the Arena south lobby box office to claim your place in line. Lines on the first day of sales will be organized by Arena personnel. Anyone without a line reservation card or anyone arriving after 8 a.m. will be instructed to place themselves at the end of the line.

Jackson to help boycott protesting black man's death

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Civil rights leader Jesse Jackson, president of the Chicago-based Operation PUSH, was concerned about the tagging of a black man in police custody last month.

The Coalition for Justice for Ernest Lacy sponsored a one-day boycott of Downtown merchants Aug. 8 which slowed shopping in some stores. But Jackson said protest action should not be confined only to deaths such as that of Lacy. 22. Lacy died after he was taken into custody July 9 in connection with a rape; it was later determined he did not commit. He was discovered not breathing in a police paddy wagon shortly after his arrest.

Jackson met Saturday with Lacy's father, Leonard, and black community leaders at a Black Family Picnic held in Washington Park. He talked with them about formation of a Milwaukee chapter of the People United to Serve Humanity. He said every major riot during the past decade has encouraged the resistance movement in this area, Jackson said.

But must become more massive and more economically oriented... Demonstrate on your neighbor when he kills your neighbor. Don't just march on City Hall. March on your local banks.

Barry Manilow to perform Oct. 14

Arena Promotions anticipates seating a full-house crowd for the 8 p.m. performance of Barry Manilow on Wednesday, Oct. 14 as the popular contemporary music star prepares to take a winter stage in the round, at the University Arena.

Throughout the past decade, Manilow has encouraged thousands of fans to stand, clap hands and sing along to his tunes that have consistently topped the charts.

Some of Manilow's greatest hits include the crowd-pleasing "Can't Smile Without You," the emotionally vibrant "This One's for You," the fast-paced disco medley "Copacabana" and a long list of other popular tunes.

Tickets for the Barry Manilow concert are $12.50 and will go on sale Tuesday, September 15 at 8 a.m., at the Arena South Lobby Box Office. All seats will be reserved.

Tickets will be available at all Arena outlets and phone reservations will be accepted beginning Sept. 18.

We urge you to shop and compare. We pay more.

Luxurious treehouse draws attention

DES PLAINES (AP) — Three years ago, 12-year-old Bill Schneider decided the best place to get away from it all and listen to rock music at sky-high deaf level was in his own back yard. So he built a treehouse.

Today, his treehouse has three rooms and a sun deck, and can comfortably accommodate about 15 visitors.

But it also is drawing attention from the local building commissioner, who has refused to approve it for occupancy.

Enroiced in a 40-foot-tall maple tree in Schneider's back yard in this northwest Chicago suburb, the treehouse is like a bungalow in the sky. The ceilings are a little low and the rooms a bit narrow, but the amenities include an air-conditioner, running water, electric lighting, carpeting, a bathroom, a bed, kitchen cabinets, a medicine cabinet, a smoke detector, a perimeter floor in one room and an intercom leading to his parents' house.

The latest addition to Schneider's dream house is a sun deck with railings, a fiberglass roof and a floor covered with plastic grass.

He formerly said he would withdraw from the race if state Rep. Robert Winchester, R-59th District, decided to enter. However, Ledford said Friday that he has decided to run regardless of who his opponents might be.

"Bob Winchester would be the best candidate," Ledford said. But, he added, "At this stage, I'm committed completely regardless of who enters the race."

Winchester said Friday there is a "99 percent chance" he would not run for the congressional seat, although "I have met with just about every county chairman, by telephone or because of other business... who have indicated to me that I ought to consider running for it."

Winchester said that he sees his immediate political future in leadership positions in the state Legislature and that he would need campaign funds in almost matching amounts to those of Simon's to run for Simon's seat. Although Prineas, 54, is tagged with a 1976 loss to Simon, he will be more experienced, Winchester said.

And he believes Ledford may be failing to estimate the financial cost of the campaign. Ledford said that he has collected less than $5,000 in campaign funds thus far. Ledford, of Eldorado, is a former mechanic and manager of Skagg Jeep Sales there.

"I may not have the professional political experience of a Pete Prineas but... I know (Southern Illinoisans') needs and wishes because I live a life identical to their own," he said.

New phone system to cut costs

By Mike Anthony Staff Writer

General prices for University long-distance business calls will go up 16.5 percent next year, however, General Telephone Co. officials said that the University billing office will keep prices down through a lease-purchase arrangement. Implementation of a new computerized direct distance dialing system will keep prices down for long-distance business telephone accounts the same as last year, Wirth said, because "we can effectively save money" with the system. The software allows the University to take effect Aug. 24 but has been delayed because the Rolm Corp., which is contracted to supply equipment for the system, has failed to deliver needed computer software.

The software is the intelligence center of the computer system. It would automatically place long-distance calls by directing a call to the least expensive of 32 lines. The University pays 4.5 percent as of July 1, Wirth said. He said he hopes the system will be operational within the next week to 10 days.

"We will not establish another cut-off date until we are able to test the system and convince ourselves that it is on-line working," Wirth said. Once the system has been tested, it probably will be turned on within 24 hours, he said.

The computer system, which the University is buying from the state, will cost $1,000,000. The University will pay the state $2,700 per month over a fiveyear period through a lease-purchase program. Wirth said the system will provide "an effective cost-saving for the University," but he said an estimate of the savings cannot be made at this time.

The system's main purpose, Wirth said, is to keep calls out GTE's Direct Distance Dial telephone lines, which are generally a great deal more expensive than other lines in the University buys in bulk from GTE.

"DDD rates just went up 16.5 percent as of July 1," Wirth said. The system will also save money by reducing the number of student and civil service operator positions from 25 to 45. Presently, operators direct calls by hand, while the new system will direct calls automatically.

All civil service operators who want to stay with the University will be placed in other on-campus jobs, Wirth said.

University long-distance business calls currently are made by dialing a number, giving the operator the number requested, and identifying oneself and the number called from.

Once the new system goes into effect, the caller will dial a five-digit authorization code, an area code, and a seven-digit phone number.

Wirth said the five-digit authorization code tells the computer who the caller is and determines whether the person is eligible to make long-distance calls. The computer then records the account number to which the call will be charged and decides when one can call because there will be five classifications of authorization codes.

Once the computer determines if the call is properly authorized, it scans the telephone lines to find one which will be least expensive to the University, Wirth said.

The fiscal officer of a department will determine eligibility for all classes of authorization codes except for Class 1 and Class 2 codes.

Class 1 service, which includes all University long-distance lines, GTE DDD lines and remote lines, requires vicepresidential approval. Class 2 service, which includes all University lines and remote lines, requires the approval of a dean or director of a department, Wirth said.

Wirth said a major benefit of the new system is that "it doesn't sleep and will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week." The computer handles everything, he said—even the music that will be piped in while the caller is waiting for an open line.

Disease centers to test children for blood disorder

DALLAS (AP) — The city health department and the national center for disease control in Atlanta will begin blood tests next month on 2,500 children whose schools are close to lead-smelters.

The pupils have lower achievement test scores than children attending schools elsewhere in the city and have lower performance on intelligence tests, health officials said in a story published Sunday by the Dallas Morning News.

Dr. Phillip Landrigan of the national institute of occupational safety and health in Cincinnati told the newspaper that students continually exposed to high lead contamination may have a 2-point to 10-point drop in their intelligence quotient. He said the lead levels of 360 parts per million found in western Dallas is "way too much. In my opinion, that's dangerous."

These days a trip to the college bookstore can reduce your available funds to the bone. Luckily, that's about all you need to make the one phone call that can replenish your depleted funds in a couple of hours. Here's what to do:

1. Call home. Report the situation, and tell the folks they can get emergency cash to you fast by phone.

2. Ask them to call Western Union's toll-free number, 1-800-425-6000 (in Missouri, 800-342-6700), anytime, day or night. They charge the money and service fee to their MasterCard or Visa card. A Western Union Charge Card Money Order, up to $1,000, will be flashed to the Western Union office or agent nearest your emergency.

3. Pick up your money—usually within two hours—at the local Western Union office or agent. There are 8,500 nationally, except in Alaska. Conveniently, about 900 locations are open 24 hours. It's that easy.

Be sure to remind your parents about our toll-free number. It's all they need to back you up at the bookstore.

SAT coaching is a growing market

By Lee Magen
AP Education Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Stanley Kaplan paced, hands on hips, exhorting in Knute Rockne fashion. "Words! Words! Words! Very important," he exclaimed to a class of 20 high school students.

Kaplan runs a special school, one of a growing number of its kind, which caters to a particular desire: improving scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

In this coming school year, some 1.5 million students will take the multiple-choice examination of math and verbal skills as part of their efforts to get into college. It's further estimated that 50,000 to 100,000 of them will pay from $100 to $500 for SAT coaching, ranging from a few hours to several months.

The special schools have no lock on the SAT coaching market, however. In the last three years, hundreds of public and private schools have begun offering some form of coaching. "I think eventually it will become standard practice," said Scott Thomson, executive director of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. "I think coaching is so important that the word 'standard' means a soft, thin impression." The spread of SAT coaching was helped by a 1978 Federal Commission report which said that such coaching made a difference in verbal and math scores an average of 25 points each. The FTC found some 16,500 satellite schools in the last spring.

An unrelated 1980 Ralph Nader report on the Educational Testing Service, which runs the SATs, found that coaching could help but went beyond the FTC study by studying the implications of coaching. It suggested that the wealthy have an advantage in taking the SATs to start with, and that advantage is increased, since the wealthy can afford coaching.

When asked whether any of his students might speak to a reporter, Kaplan said that most of them, and their parents, went beyond the FTC study by interviewing for fear that colleges would disapprove of their taking SAT coaching.

But one youngster, who attended a school in Massachusetts, said he enrolled in the Kaplan school this summer as a part of a coaching program because he scored only 530 on his verbal and 480 on his math SATs.

"That's no good if you want to get into a league school like I do," he said, asking that his name be used.

What kind of coaching helps, who should take it and whether the SAT even lends itself to such instruction at all are arguments still to be resolved.

There is wide agreement that a student whose basic skills are so far below the scores in the 90s on the SATs needs more help than most cramming schools can offer. SAT scores range from 200 to 800, the highest possible. It's also agreed that coaching can definitely help either the overly cautious student or the reckless guesser with multiple-choice questions.

And most agree, too, that a few hours of cramming won't do much good. The longer, the more intense the coaching, the more effective it is likely to be.

The trend is to offer coaching themselves, while careful to make no promises, say they can help students score phenomenal gains on their SATs.

"The FTC says the average improvement from coaching is 20 points. We usually do a lot better than that," boasts Emmanuel Federbush, who runs the Hatboro Achievement Preparation Institute Inc. in New York. Kaplan says his students average 100-point improvements on their combined math and verbal scores. His claim is challenged, however, by Robert Cameron, an executive director of the College Board, who notes that Kaplan's figure is based only on an informal survey of students.

The ETS has produced SAT coaching programs for high schools, but some educators have complained that they are too intense for their students, while careful to make no promises, say they can help students score phenomenal gains on their SATs.

"He encourages parents to enroll in this and look into coaching generally," Cameron said. "They offer a lot of coaching and do some good. The longer, the better, though. The longer, the more intense the coaching, the more effective it is likely to be."

Judge to rule on widow's death wish

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Judge D. B. Daughtery spent the weekend mulling one of the toughest questions of his career, and the life of an aging widow who wants to die hangs in the balance.

On Monday, Daughtery is scheduled to rule on whether to honor the last wish of 76-year-old Donna Yoder, who suffers from cirrhosis of the liver. The judge, who said he was certain the dying woman was mentally competent, told hospital officials to continue her treatment until he hands down his ruling.

"The judge is torn by the question he must answer. He said the woman was, in effect, asking him to approve her suicide. "What really bothers me, I guess, is this is so difficult for a person my age to relate to a person who's pushing 80, who's in a lot of pain, who's lived a long life, who's tired," said the 44-year-old judge. "But I can see the possibility of a person really feeling that death is a beginning, not an end.""

Mrs. Fisher said Friday afternoon, "My mother begged and pleaded with Judge Daughtery. She's swollen with fluid and very uncomfortable; the doctors say she has no chance of getting better, and I just can't see why the judge wouldn't have done what my mother wanted."

Mrs. Fisher, who has kept a daily vigil at the hospital, said her mother had lapsed into semi-consciousness after the judge's visit. "I feel she just gave up when he refused to grant her request," she said. "She was very disappointed." Dr. Donald Klessiter, Mrs. Yoder's physician, has said he has mixed emotions. "She's had a long life and does not want to suffer the indignities of a chronic illness," he said. "Still, I believe in life ... and to be disconnected probably would cost her her life."

When visited by a reporter Friday afternoon, Mrs. Yoder was hooked up to an oxygen tank and was being fed intravenously. She did not respond to questions. "No, my mother has quit talking," said Mrs. Fisher. "She just wants to die in peace."

Alpha Tau Omega wins two awards

The SIU-C Theta Zeta chapter of Alpha Tau Omega won two awards at the Alpha Tau Omega National Congress in Philadelphia, Pa., in mid-August.

The chapter was presented a Community Awareness Award, given for involvement in social service programs, at the four­day congress. It also won a True Merit Award, the fourth it has earned, for involvement in community service programs, and for being involved in social service programs. The chapter sponsored 15 programs during the 1980-81 year to earn the community awareness award, according to chapter president John Gonsenbach. Programs included the Red Cross blood drive, Skate-a-thon, Great American Smoke Out, Special Olympics and Cordoba Clean-Up Day.

The community award consisted of a plaque and a $500 check for the ATO 50 to donate to the charity of their choosing. The chapter plans to give the check to the Jackson County unit of the American Cancer Society, Gonsenbach said.

The Zeta Zeta chapter of Alpha Tau Omega was founded at SIU-C in 1973 by Patrick I. Brown, who is now the national ATO president. The SIU-C chapter currently has 45 members.

Succeed in business.

"It's a lot easier with a Texas Instruments calculator designed to solve business problems." Touch a few special keys on these Texas Instruments calculators, the TI Business Analyst-II and The MBA, and lengthy time-value-of-money problems suddenly aren't lengthy anymore. You can automatically calculate profit margins, forecast sales and earnings and perform statistics.

And problems with repetitive calculations are a piece of cake for the MBA, because it's programmable.

These calculators mean business, and what they give you is time—time to grasp underlying business concepts, while they handle the number crunching. To make it even easier, each calculator comes with a book written especially for it, which shows you how to make use of the calculator's full potential.

Faculty, staff, Civil Service honored at retirement banquet

Twenty-three faculty-staff and 26 Civil Service retirees were honored at a 7 p.m. banquet Thursday at University House. Speaking at the event was President Albert Somit.

Some among the faculty retirees are Robert Restick, music professor, who joined the faculty in 1956; Gordon Keith Butts, professor of curriculum, instruction and administration, who came to SIUC in 1950; and Jacob O. Bach, professor of educational leadership, who has been with the University since 1958.

Other faculty retirees recognized, with the position held at retirement, included Will Gay Botte, professor of music; Opal June Burger, assistant professor of vocational education; Peter Bykowski, instructor of dental laboratory technology; Mary C. Callaghan, associate professor and coordinator of the School of Technical Careers’ dental hygiene program; and Charles T. Crowe, English instructor in the School of Technical Careers.

All were honored were Edward Leon Dunning, professor and chairman of SIUC’s department of biology; Engebild, English professor; and chairman of the Division of Continuing Education; John H. Erickson, professor of vocal music; and George A. Flummer, acting director of computer affairs.

Also included among the honorees were Charles A. Helwig Jr., instructor in continuing education; Anne Hill, assistant director of office systems in the computing center; J. Keith Leasure, professor of plant and soil science; Clinton R. Pain, associate professor of cinema and photography; Ardele L. Pratt, dean of the School of Technical Careers; Roy Earl Taylor, director of disbursements; George A. Teberman, director of purchasing; Andrew T. Vaughan, associate professor of health education; Frank Eugene Vaughan, associate professor of secretarial and office specialties; and Richard E. Watson, professor of physics and astronomy.

Civil Service workers whose retirement dates fell between August 1980 and Aug. 31 of this year were also recognized at the dinner.

Included among the honorees were: E. Leon Dunning, professor and chairman of SIUC’s department of biology; Harold F. Bykowski, instructor of dental laboratory technology; Mary C. Callaghan, associate professor and coordinator of the School of Technical Careers’ dental hygiene program; and Charles T. Crowe, English instructor in the School of Technical Careers.

All were honored were Edward Leon Dunning, professor and chairman of SIUC’s department of biology; Engebild, English professor; and chairman of the Division of Continuing Education; John H. Erickson, professor of vocal music; and George A. Flummer, acting director of computer affairs.
Fellow explorers mourn death of Lowell Thomas

NEW YORK (AP) - Lowell Thomas was remembered Sunday by fellow members of The Explorers Club as one of the last adventurers, a man whose journeys and reports made the world a smaller place and pushed exploration into a new age.

"He was Mr. Explorer for so many years," Col. Stewart McCarthy, an underwater archaeologist from Fairfax, Va., said of his club's honorary president. "It won't seem the same without him. He was just a marvelous man."

The broadcaster was 89 when he died of a heart attack Saturday in his sleep at his home in Pawling, N.Y. A funeral is planned here for Wednesday.

"He made the world seem smaller," said Leigh Wade, 84, of Washington, who in 1924 became one of the first men to fly around the world. "He loved to get out there and see things for himself." Wade dined with Thomas in 1975.

Like Wade, Thomas belonged to a generation of explorers who set the standard for unscathed peaks and uncharted jungles. And he lived long enough to see the day when exploration focused on the microscopic frontiers of the laboratory and the endless ones of the mind.

"There's not too many of that kind left," said Hal Demuth, a club vice president and Arctic surveyor and explorer. "Men like...Richard Byrd, Roald Amundsen."

"In those days of exploration they were primarily adventurers, not scientists. They just went out for the sheer joy of it. The big problems were to overcome the travel problems and the environment itself. "It was great in those days, when he was and found Lawrence of Arabia somewhere on a sand dune in the desert. And when he went to Tibet and interviewed the Dalai Lama. You'd hear his reports come back, in that big, booming voice of his," recalled Demuth.

"He had a 30-year-old voice in a 90-year-old body," said Demuth. "He did not get old and drift." His handshake was firm, his walk was steady," McCarthy added.

Thomas based his broadcast career on interviews with some of the world's most famous and powerful people in some of the world's most desolate, remote places.

In 1930 he began what was to become the longest-running network newscast, on CBS radio, and nine years later he broadcast the first television series program for NBC.

He married Frances Ryan in 1917, and they had one child, Lowell Thomas Jr. His first wife died in 1975 and he married Marianna Munn in 1977.

The plan allows the department to receive the dividends from the policy each year. In addition, the department can borrow the cash surrender value of the policy if necessary.

The department also appeals to the student to participate in the program as a means of increasing the quality of the accounting department. This in turn, according to Basii, can strengthen the accounting profession as a whole.

Basi said he got the idea for the program after hearing about a similar plan at the University of Florida's accounting school. Since he established the program at SIU-C, Basi said he has received requests from administrators at the University of Texas, Indiana State, and the University of Missouri at Columbia, asking for information.

45 people compete in cowchip contest

By Jennifer Polk
Staff Writer

There's the old saying about things being rough when the chips are down, but what about when the chips are flying? At the annual Du Quoin State Fair Cow Chip Throwing Contest, women and men turned up at the show Arena to see how far they could sling, or throw a 6-inch piece of dried cow manure.

Each contestant chose three chips for the qualifying round and two chips for the final round. Women were required to make a toss of 36 feet or more to qualify and men were required to reach 100 feet or more. The 400 chips were donated by a local dairy farm.

Paul Stokey, a Carbondale native who won last year's finals by his best friend, John Hertz, also of Carbondale. Stokey said the key to a good throw lies in the choice of the proper chip.

"You have to look for stud-divers," he said. "It has to have a small, and it has to be steady in the middle. If it's a little too leggy, you just break off the edges. The choice is really important."

Hertz, a two-time champion, agrees.

"They can't be too wet," he said, "or they'll fall apart. In the finals, I usually try to choose one for distance, one for style."

Many of the contestants had no particular throwing style.

The judges spent a lot of time dodging errant chips, and their fragments. Cow chip throwing is hard to practice. Hertz explained, "I'm generally lucky. He said he tries to throw a three-quarter side-arm toss, but Stokes' approach is much simpler. "I just throw it as hard as I can," he said.

There was a special division for contestants long-recognized as top-quality slingers—local politicians. Three politicians entered and Rep. Jim Rea, D-10th District, beat defending champion Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-5th District and Rep. Wayne Albl, R-15th District. Hertz' throw of 177 feet, 8 inches, bettered his last year's winning mark, but it wasn't enough to win the championship another time. Will James of Aurora tossed a chip 168 feet, 6 inches to win his first Cowchip Throwing Contest, a trophy and $50. Carol Weldon of Buchanan, Mich., won the women's division with a throw of 121 feet, 11 inches.

Most of the contestants agreed the contest was more fun than anything else. There were some people, however, who did not share the total enthusiasm of the cow chip chuckers.

"My feet are killing me," said a television newswoman on her way past the Arena. "I'd love to take my shoes off... if I didn't know what they were throwing."

Inmates see Ripper as 'hero'

LONDON (AP) - Fellow prisoners of Yorkshire Ripper murderer Peter Sutcliffe, who killed and mutilated 13 women, regard him as a "hero," Sutcliffe's brother, Carl, was quoted as saying Sunday. ""Any stories about being kept away from other prisoners for his own safety are nonsense. They think of him as a bum," some of the staff do, too," the London Sunday Express quoted Carl Sutcliffe. Carl Sutcliffe, 35, an ex-truck driver, was sentenced to a 35-year life term on May 25.
Britons battle the road on trans-American trip

By Tim Capps
Staff Writer

An article in the London Sunday Times on America's bicentennial bike route convinced two British cyclists to ride from Seattle to Washington, D.C.

"It was sort of a standing joke that we would do this one day and the article provided the final stimulus," Howard Garland, a business student from Portsmouth, England, said.

Garland and Alan Corbett, a recent graduate of Newcastle University, have pedaled their custom-made tandem built for two by some 3000 miles since they began in July, and they have 2000 miles to go. From Washington they intend to cycle to New York.

The pair was in Carbondale on Friday morning on their way to the capital.

Both cyclists turned 21 on the trip, exchanging birthday presents of inner tubes in "the wilderness of Idaho."

Garland said they had three months vacation and decided to make the 6000 mile trip before touring France. They are veterans of previous tours in England, France and the Netherlands.

The pair spends about 12 hours a day on the road, but only six and one-half hours actually cycling.

"We do an awful lot of messing around," Corbett said.

They spend nights in a tent pitched in a park or on a hill by the side of the road. They undertook the trip with little planning, but Corbett said American hospitality has made it easier than they expected.

"People tend to take us in," he said. "I suppose we do look a bit unique."

The trip has been laced with both humor and danger.

"A gentleman in Chester thought he recognized me as a great cycling star," Corbett said.

"He was very excited and invited us to dinner. He was greatly disappointed when I told him who I really was."

Trucks proved to be dangerous adversaries throughout the trip, especially near the beginning.

"Logging lorries gave us some problem in Oregon," Garland said. "They weren't too interested in letting us live."

They chose a tandem bicycle because it promotes a sense of teamwork. Garland said he has seen many cyclists supposedly touring together, but actually ending up miles apart.

"The cyclists either get separated or are constantly struggling to keep up." He said neither of them enjoy cycling alone.

Garland said they must return to Europe and reality on Oct. 5. He is returning to Bath University and Corbett is taking a job at a London bank.

Field hockey ‘mom’ exhausted after 2-year absence from turf

By Jim Cagle Staff Writer

Sunday’s field hockey scrimmage at Wham Field marked the return to action of a number of former Saluki players—among them Ann Verderber. Verderber plays on the newly re-organized Carbondale Club, which competes in the St. Louis Field Hockey Association.

Verderber last played for the Salukis in 1978. At that time her last name was Stirling. She played right halfback and captained the team that qualified for the national tournament.

Prior to Sunday’s scrimmage, Verderber hadn’t played field hockey in two years. She had only one reason for avoiding the sport—a 14-month-old, blond-haired, blue-eyed, baby boy, her son Michael.

It was difficult to return to the turf after two long years of carrying, nursing, and raising an infant.

“Well it’s a heck of a lot easier than playing while you’re pregnant,” said the 24-year-old mother from Lincoln. “To tell you the truth, I’m really beat. I haven’t been out of the house in two years.

“The best is what really got me down,” she said. “I’ve been doing all my training, my running, in the morning when it’s cool.

“According to Verderber, her husband Bob, a water systems worker in Lincoln, inspired her return to the sport.

“He kind of serves as my coach and No. 1 fan,” Verderber said as she tried in vain to keep her son from choking on a large cup of water. “He knows I love sports, so he helps me train and encourages me. Most importantly, he watches Michael while I play.”

Verderber said that she is able to concentrate entirely on her game, as long as she knows that Michael is in good hands.

“When I know Bob’s keeping an eye on him, I don’t worry,” she said. “I played softball this summer, and Bob was the team’s coach. I spent more time looking around for Michael than I did playing the game.”

Verderber had to travel 200 miles to participate in the tournament and said it was “like deja vu” playing with her former collegiate teammates.

“The only thing that is really different now is that I might have to change a diaper at halftime,” she said. “I had to change one between games today.”

Cubs nip Dodgers 2-1; Cards, White Sox lose

Bird gave up six hits in seven innings while striking out four. The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals didn’t fare as well as the Sox lost to the New York Yankees 5-1 while the Cards lost 9-4 to the San Diego Padres.

Larry Milbourne had two singles and scored twice and Graig Nettles hit an RBI triple to boost Rudy May and Yankees to a 1-0 victory over the Sox.

May, 5-4, pitched a five-hitter with two walks and three strikeouts.

Dennis Lamp, 3-2, took the loss for Chicago.

Juan Bonilla and Luis Salazar scored three runs each and Ruppert Jones had three hits as the Padres snapped a seven-game losing streak with the win over the Cards.

John Henry, 1900 grounded in the right field, is priced at 6,000,000, but John Henry moved into second place in the money earnings list with $2,464,510 — just short of Spectacular Bid's $2,730,518. Kentucky Derby, was in line, followed by The Bart. These two led the field to the far turn and then the 3-year-old filly, Madam Gay, made a strong move to third.

John Henry, who started from the extreme outside in the field of 12, began moving in the stretch bend.

The Bart, owned by Frank N. Groves and ridden by Eddie Delahoussaye, spurted at the top of the stretch and moved to a tremendous lead.

John Henry, owned by Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Robin of New York, suddenly loomed on the outside. Yard, yard, foot, foot, 1,411, by foot, the American Turf champion slowly closed the distance between him and The Bart.

Only in the last stretch, with Shoemaker riding furiously, did the 3-year-old get the nod for victory in a photo finish.

Madam Gay finished third and Key To Content was fourth. Of the first four finishers, only Madam Gay and Key To Content already had their legs in 10.9. The Bart earned $230,000 for finishing second while Madam Gay earned $15,000, and Key To Content took second place.

Earlier in the day, the Canadian star Ben Fab and England's Bel Fabric were late starters. Ben Fab had an ailng left ankle and Del Studio had an abscess on the left front foot.

John Henry, running as an entry with Super Moment, paid $4.25, $3.00 and $2.60. The Bart was $3.60 and $6.60.

Medalist, a 2-year-old horse, trained by the 3-year-old, was in line, followed by The Bart. These two led the field to the far turn and then the 3-year-old filly, Madam Gay, made a strong move to third.
